BOUND VOLUMES Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News

We have recently had bound some volumes of the WEEKLY extending from 1902 to date. They are handsomely executed and, indexed by Mr. C. A. Howes, are invaluable to the serious collector. We offer these volumes at the following prices:—

1902.....	$2.00	1907.....	$2.00
1903.....	2.50	1908.....	2.00
1904.....	2.50	1909.....	2.00
1905.....	2.50	1910.....	2.00
1906.....	2.50

Add 35c for expressage on each volume to any part of the country.

KNICK-KNACKS.

"What is the mark of the successful collector?" asks an inspiring reader. The dollar mark might be mentioned.

"I could furnish you with a story of an imagined stamp find, if desired. Let me know," says one of the literary set. Rush. The story would be a hit, both startling and original.

Old Doc Dodder says that the greatest case of Christian charity that he ever saw was an ex-publisher of a philatelic paper who had kind words for the stamp collecting public.

An ungentele reader inquires: "How is your subscription list getting along? Take my name off of it as I want to be the man who took 'me' out of MEKEEL'S."

"Three years ago, I got a sheet of stamps on approval and thought that I returned it and told the dealer so when he asked for its return. I have just found it and when I send it to him will not his heart beat gladly?" confesses a slow but sure subscriber. Yes, or stop beating altogether.

That stamp described in an auction catalogue, "Face wrinkled", must be a very old one.

"One should list one's stamp collection, be it ever so modest in size, as an asset,—yet how many do it?" asks a great little asker. Try this on your banker.

"While a good glass will reveal the beauties of engraving yet it will uncover defects as well and so, is it a benefit or a detriment?" inquires a scribe speculatively. He probably has been gulled by some dealer whose hat is his office.

"I have difficulty in pronouncing correctly some of the names of the stamp issuing countries," confides a troubled collector. He may consider himself one of the elect, now.

Overheard at the stamp club: "He is the sort of man who has a fifteen dollar album for a five dollar collection."

"Design runs off at side" is almost as good a descriptive term as "perforated in the effigy."

And then there is "bountiful cancellation."

NEW YORK EXHIBITION NEWS.

The following have been added to the honor committee: The Philatelic Society of New Zealand, Wellington; International Sammler Verein, Hamburg; F. A. Lucas, Director American Museum Natural History, New York; William Homan, New York; Harry Wennberg, Stockholm, Sweden; A. G. Dahlberg, Buenos Ayres; Cortlandt F. Bishop, New York; Leon de Raaij, Amsterdam, and Chas. H. Stone, Cambridge, Mass.

Medal donations have been coming in nicely. The following are the latest. Gold medals: J. Philipp Benckard, New York; H. F. Colman, Washington; E. R. Ackerman, Plainfield, N. J., and United Stamp Co., Chicago.

Silver gilt medals: D. Field, London, (two medals); Julian Park, Buffalo; United Stamp Co., Chicago.

Silver medals: Economist Stamp Co., New York; Walter S. Scott, New York; Charles Gregory, New York;

Adolph Weinberger, Brunn, Austria (two medals); United Stamp Co., Chicago.

Applications for exhibition space are coming in from all parts of the world, one collection alone reserving five hundred square feet. Work on the official exhibition catalog has begun, and advertising rates for stamp dealers who are members of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions were fixed as follows: Whole page, $35.00; 1/2 page, $20.00; 1/4 page, $12.50. These rates are exceedingly low considering the large circulation which the catalog will have, and also its permanent advertising value. Send application for advertising space and copy to Eugene Klein, Chairman, Publicity Committee, Empire Building, Philadelphia.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322, Tremont Bldg., 7.30 P. M.

Boston, Mass., May 20, 1913.

The 292nd (regular) meeting of the Society was held at the Club Room this evening with Pres. Nevin in the chair and 36 members and friends present.

The following was presented:—

Library Report, April-May, 1913.

There has been received since the last report, by purchase: China, Seine Post and Seine Freimarken by P. Kleberg, Chemnitz, 1911; Malta by Alexander J. Schi (W. E. P. Handbook, No. 9). Bound: Journal of the Philatelic Literature Society, Vols. I and II, 1908-9, Vols. III and IV, 1910-11. By donation: The Beginners' Guide by B. W. H. Poole, Handbook No. 2 from Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co.; Europa Katalog from Hugo Michel, Apolda. Also the current numbers of the following magazines generously contributed by the publishers:—Gibbons' Monthly, Mekeel's Weekly, Stamp Journal, Postage Stamp, Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, Scott Stamp & Coin Co. Circular, Philatelic Gazette, Roesler's Stamp News, Collectors' Journal, New England Stamp Monthly, British Guiana Philatelic Journal and New Yorker Briefmarken Zeitung.

The Secretary announced the gift of some philatelic literature from Mr. Phelps and some counterfeits from Mr. Drew.

The following applications were presented:—Messrs. B. A. Oppenheimer, Charles Dane, A. C. Needham, Frank C. Cosby and H. E. Blanchard.

The following member was elected: No. 577, Oscar Hill.

The exhibition of the evening was the magnificent collection of United States stamps belonging to Mr. Theodore W. Barry. The adhesive postage only were shown, but even these proved a great treat for those present in their completeness and condition. The committee provided further entertainment in the shape of "Philatelists in Disguise," a series of cards showing the faces of some sixty well-known philatelists attached to various figures cut from advertisements, presenting some curious combinations. The winners of the contest were A. W. Batchelder, who recognized 50 of the number, C. A. Howes 41, W. L. Aldrich 39 and L. L. Green 26. Prizes given were No. 1 of Linn's Library and stamp tongs.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Bavaria.

THE SEVENTH ISSUE.

Towards the close of the year 1875 a change was made in the watermark of the paper, the crossed lines being superseded by a uniform pattern of undulating lines (placed horizontally) set 8 1/2 mm. apart. The paper was horizontally laid but as the watermark made such a heavy impression the laid lines of the paper are frequently impossible to detect. The same paper was used for the envelopes and wrappers which to that time had been printed on plan paper. The same plates were used as for printing issue five and the colors and perforation also correspond to that series. The 1, 3, 7, 10, and 18 kreuzer values were printed on this paper and were placed on sale some time in November, 1875. They had but a short life, for on January 1st, 1876, they were withdrawn and replaced by a new series with values in Imperial currency.

Among the remainders sold in 1876 the following quantities of the stamps of the issue under notice were included:

1kr green,	942,000
3kr rose,	1,470,000
7kr blue,	321,000
10kr yellow,	120,000
18kr red,	99,000

Reference List.

1875. Wmk. undulating horizontal lines. Perf. 11 1/2.
33. 1kr green, Scott's No. 33.
34. 3kr rose, Scott's No. 34.
35. 7kr blue, Scott's No. 35.
36. 10kr yellow, Scott's No. 36.
37. 18kr red, Scott's No. 37.

THE EIGHTH ISSUE.

Until the close of the year 1875 all the stamps issued in Bavaria, with the single exception of the 1 mark value issued in 1874, had the values expressed in South German currency but, with the idea of creating greater uniformity, the Imperial currency of marks and pfennige was introduced on January 1st, 1876. This, of course, necessitated the issue of new stamps and particulars of the new series were announced in a Post-office Notice dated December 9th, 1875. We take the following summary of its contents from the Philatelic Record:—

"The stamps will be issued:—
Value of 3 pfennige in light green.
" 5 " " dark green.
" 10 " " carmine red.
" 20 " " blue.
" 25 " " red-brown.
" 50 " " vermilion red.
" 1 mark in violet.
" 2 marks in orange yellow.

The new stamps, like that of 1 mark, will be embossed with the Royal Arms in oval shields, with the supporters and crown, and the name BAYERN above the crown in white on a colored ground. The value of the stamps will be expressed in figures in relief in the four angles, and the denomination PFENNIG or MARK in relief under the Arm.

The postage stamps with value in pfennig are of the same size as those of the former issue in kreuzer, and will be delivered to the Post-offices in sheets of 60. Those of 2 marks are of the same size as those of 1 mark, and will be delivered in sheets of 50.

The original dies for the new series were engraved on steel by Herr P. Reiss at the Mint of Munich and the design of the lower values, as will be understood from the above description, is very similar to that of the 1 mark of 1874 but on a smaller scale. The die for the 2 marks was a subsidiary one made by taking an impression from the 1 mark and altering the corner numerals. The plates were of similar size to those of the preceding issue and they were constructed in a similar manner.

The paper was watermarked with the undulating lines placed 8 1/2 mm. apart as in the case of the stamps of 1875 and, while it was apparently intended to be laid, the "laid" lines are very faint or fail to show at all. This, as already explained, was due to the greater pressure exerted on the pulp by the watermarked lines sewn on the dandy-roll. There was such a large supply of the 1 mark stamps on hand that it was not until 1879 it was necessary to print this value on the paper watermarked with wavy lines.

In consequence of the similarity of color of the 3pf and 5pf it was decided to change the latter and on December 4th, 1878, a Post-office Notice was published announcing the issue of the 5 pfennig stamp in violet and at the same time it was stated that the color of the 50 pfennig would be changed from vermilion to dark brown. The new stamps were ready on January 1st following and they were sold as the stocks of the old colors were used up.

The same perforating machines—one for the pfennig and one for the mark values—were used as before, both gauging 11 1/2.

The 1 mark stamp of this series is an extremely rare variety unused, though in used condition it is comparatively common.

CONTINENTAL CO. PROBLEMS.

By WM. L. STEVENSON.

In 1873 the Continental Bank Note Co. began printing postage stamps under contract with the government. The company took over the dies and apparently the plates and other material from their predecessors, the National Bank Note Co. Twenty-two years later, in 1895, the discovery was made that certain markings were to be found on some values printed by the Continental Co. which did not appear on the work of the previous company.

only way to distinguish with certainty is to view the stamp in different lights and from different directions.

I have examined some thousands of these stamps. The differences are not the result of imagination. They are facts that anyone can find for themselves.

In many copies of the Continental printing it is difficult, from the nature of the ink or paper, to say more than that a line exists. In the 2c vermilion

It is now but eighteen years more but I wish to propose a problem connected with the 2c value. You see four numbered cuts. They are fairly correct.

No. 4 shows how the secret mark is always illustrated as far as I have seen. No. 2 shows how the mark appears on a very great majority of the 2c brown, Continental, which I have examined.

No. 3 and No. 4 show how it is to be found on occasional copies. I have these two in a vertical pair as well as in a few singles. These generally show an apparent joining of the two curved lines in a point. This may be only apparent but it looks actual to me.

The examination of even the best copies requires a good glass and patience and persistence. Sometimes the

I have found but a very few copies where anything could be made out definitely. I shall not tell you what I found just yet. In the American printings I have found no copies where anything was certain.

There are a number of questions which arise. Where were the earlier illustrations derived? Are they simply a very general and indefinite way of indicating some kind of a line or are they taken from a late proof?

What do these differences mean? They cannot all come from one condition of an original die.

There's your problem. I offer no prizes for solutions.

I realize fully that this is contrary to precedent and that these are very slight differences, minor, to say the least. These facts may be very generally known to the "experts." Then again they may be new to everyone. If such minor things are seen by anyone to whom they do not at once suggest the question, "Why", it is not my fault.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

NEW YORK STAMP EXHIBITION.

NEW YORK, May 26, 1913. (Special Correspondence.)—The many details of preparation for the great Exhibition to be opened in the Engineers' Building in New York the last week of October, are being attended to by the various sub-committees who have these matters more particularly in charge.

Many inquiries have been received from foreign collectors in regard to the rules and regulations of the United States customs governing exhibits. No packages addressed to the exhibition will be opened at the New York custom house. All such packages will be opened at the headquarters of the Exhibition Committee, and in presence of at least one member of the Committee. In this way the greatest care will be taken to protect exhibits. The Committee will shortly send out a printed label to be attached to the packages containing exhibits. While these labels will not be necessary, they can conveniently be used by exhibitors and will save all chances of error or mistake in making shipments by post or express. It is expected that most foreign packages will come by registered post.

Nothing has so far been said in regard to the great banquet of philatelists which will be held at one of the famous restaurants of New York in connection with the exhibition. This banquet will exceed in importance any similar gathering of stamp collectors in this country—certainly within the memory of those at present interested in stamps. No pains will be spared to make this a memorable occasion for those who are so fortunate as to be able to be present. More details in regard to the banquet will be sent out not later than September. The price of the banquet will be reasonable; within the reach of all, and at the same time it will be a most brilliant affair.

Many distinguished philatelists from abroad will attend. A number of these have already been heard from, but have requested that their names be not made public at present.

All who attend the exhibition and banquet will have an opportunity to meet those gentlemen whose names are household words in the philatelic world.

There has been some talk that the Committee might be obliged to secure other quarters for the exhibition owing to the prospects for so large a number of exhibits, but after thoroughly reconsidering the subject it was decided to stick by the first choice. As previously announced, the exhibition will, therefore, be held in the Building of the Engineers' Society, located at 29 West 39th street. This is one of the most beautiful structures in New York City. It was built by Andrew Carnegie for the allied engineers' societies of New York, and is the home of the Engineers' Club, a body which is more particularly interested in the advancement of engineering as a science. To that end, a portion of the building was especially constructed for exhibition purposes. The space of any single floor will not be large enough in area, and it will likely be found necessary to utilize two floors. This slight inconvenience will be more than offset by the beauty, dignity and refinement of the exhibition rooms as compared with the cheap appearance of a large exhibition building like the Grand Central Palace.

The light will be of the best and the building is strictly fireproof. It has every convenience and facility for the holding of a stamp exhibition, and its location is most excellent: in easy access from all parts of New York City.

Mr. John N. Luff and the Committee are now at work on a second edition of the prospectus and scheme of competition. This will show a number of changes from the first edition that was issued the latter part of the winter. No stamp exhibition has, we believe, ever provided better facilities for the average collector, and particularly for young collectors. It is expected that this class will be unusually well filled.

A new class has been added to the list of competitions which will appear in the revised prospectus. This new class provides for original research work. Much satisfaction is felt by a number of philatelists in the adding of this class. It will simplify the entries in the class for specialized single issues and make the competition more interesting to both.

The medals for the exhibition have not yet been struck, but the design has been made and approved of, and the medals themselves, we are told, will soon be ready. Cuts or blocks illustrating this design have been prepared and will give an excellent idea of the character and importance of the medals to be awarded under the direction of the Jury of Awards. In addition to medals several cups have been donated and will be awarded.

Speaking of the Jury of Awards, collectors will be greatly interested in knowing that some of the most prominent foreign philatelists, who are authorities on stamps, will consent to act as judges. It is a long trip for any man to take for this purpose and the Exhibition Committee, and all concerned, feel greatly gratified by the outlook in this respect. It is certain that some of the most distinguished philatelists of Europe and of Canada will be seen in New York in October. Prominent collectors living from Boston to the Pacific Coast have written that they will spend the Stamp Exhibition week in New York. No American collector can afford to be absent. Many clubs or parties will be made up to visit New York at that time. The interest in the event is growing very rapidly. The evidence of this is particularly gratifying to those who are working hard for the Exhibition.

No arrangement has been made for a philatelic club in connection with the exhibition, but it is expected that the Collectors Club and other clubs of New York where philatelists gather will keep open house for visiting collectors. It is also expected that a number of our best known American philatelists will spend the week of the exhibition in New York at one of the hotels in the vicinity of the Engineers' Building. It is quite probable that, following a recent suggestion, they may club together to secure hotel parlors as a club room in common. If this is done, it will no doubt become a mecca for most visiting philatelists.

We hear already that in some classes there will be very interesting competition, and unless some change takes place there will be shown some of the best collections in the world of the stamps of the Danish West Indies. We hear of one and possibly two of these collections that are coming from Europe, and of at least two that will be shown by American collectors. The same is true of other classes. There will be interesting competition, and a fine display worth going far to see.

DOTS AND DASHES.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

Collectors who delight in hunting for minor varieties may be interested in two which I have recently found in the current issue. One is seen in the two cent stamps, with numerals; the second in the 4 cent stamp.

The variety in the 2 cent stamp consists of a dot of color, like a position dot, resting upon the inner side of the bottom frame line, and is directly midway under the left numeral. That it is a true minor variety cannot be denied because it is found on each stamp in at least a block of 16. In a single copy I should have passed it up as an ink blotch.

The variety in the 4 cent stamp is a triangle extending upward for about one mm. above the top of the figure 4, joining it, and without any line of white showing between. This is a variety, as I have found four copies of it.

F. R. Cornwall of St. Louis has called my attention to a variety in the 5 cent stamp of the issue 1895. In this variety the horizontal lines terminating in the line following the curved line of the medallion, cross the white space and join to the medallion line at the right. This variety has probably been mentioned before, but I have never seen a description in print.

I recently picked up a copy of the 1 cent 1902 which may be unique. It comes from a sheet which had passed through the press without fresh ink having been applied after the printing of the previous sheet. The extreme care taken by the examiners employed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing not to let imperfect stamps pass out and finally be placed on sale would be assurance that not many sheets (if more than one) ever were sold to the public.

Recently I have seen two or three notes in the WEEKLY calling attention to a "die variety" of the 1 cent current issue, in which the horizontal lines are broken at the left. I am glad to note that collectors are studying their stamps with such minuteness and zeal. This is not, however, a die variety, but a slight break in the transfer roll. This is proved by the fact that the break occurs in vertical adjoining stamps in a single sheet. If it were a die variety it would, without much doubt, show in all sheets.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Harmer, Rooke & Co. announces that L. S. Charlack of Streatham Hill, London, has disappeared and that a warrant is out for his arrest on a charge of obtaining credit by fraud. Part of his stock is in the hands of Harmer, Rooke & Co. for realization.

—C. H. Holden, Detroit, Mich., has submitted for our inspection correspondence that has passed between him and the postmaster of Toronto, relative to the heavy obliteration applied to registered matter sent out from that office. The Toronto Official referred to, in his reply indicates that the office is cancelling stamps in accordance with the P. O. regulations so as to prevent cleaning with acids or other materials. The using of postage stamps a second time has become very common. The postmaster further states that while registered matter gets a heavy cancellation ordinary letters are run through an electric date stamping machine so that the stamps appearing thereon have a clean and clear impression. Instructions have been issued to the clerks to exercise every care so as not to disfigure the stamps used on registered mail.

—"The Lyceum Stamp and Coin Club" of Lynn, Mass., was organized May 26 and the following were selected as officers. C. T. Comstock, president; M. O. Hallock, vice-president; J. J. Winchester, treasurer; and C. L. Willey, 42 Center Street, Lynn, secretary. With a charter membership of about 25, and a large field from which to draw recruits, it looks as if the coming year would see great activity in this club. A "Question Box", an "Exhibit Night", and an "Auction" are among the talked of features. Regular monthly meetings will begin with the second Monday in September, 1913.—DUGALD MCKILLOP.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from John U. Hoffman, Toledo Stamp Co., Geo. W. Schaefer, T. C. Keyes, J. H. Andrew, G. Baker Newton, Jr., Hugo Kuenstler (3), C. F. Richards, C. B. Walsh, and A. R. Butler, M. D.

—E. B. Charman states that the 8c value of the current Canal Zone set has been discontinued. The office at Pedro Miguel is sold out of this value.

—A N. Y. City correspondent urges upon the attention of our readers the New York Public Library on 42nd St. He styles it the finest in the U. S. and makes special mention of the periodical room in which may be found all current philatelic publications, including of course the WEEKLY.

—On the 1c green and black Canal Zone surcharged on Panama is a variety that to the best of our knowledge has not been chronicled. The horizontal stroke of the "L" in Canal shows a well defined curvature as though an entirely different font of type from that ordinarily employed had been pressed into service.

—H. C. Robsahm informs us that he has a post card from Sweden with a special aeroplane postmark upon it. We are giving considerable space to U. S. postmarkings of this kind and question whether we shall be able to devote much space to other countries.

—Unused cut-to-shape envelope stamps are being used frequently in the mails these days by pasting them on mail matter in place of ordinary stamps. J. J. Prendergast sends us a specimen of the 1c green envelope used on a regulation envelope of the same value.

—The 25th anniversary of Twin City Philatelic Society of Pittsburgh, Pa., will be celebrated on the evening of June 17, 1913, by a supper, to be held after the regular monthly meeting. Eugene Doeblin has charge of the arrangements. Messrs. Miller and Kleinknecht are assisting chairman Doeblin. New officers, for 1913-14, President, W. A. Hemphill; V. P., C. J. Jaegle, Jr.; Sec., J. C. Miller; Treas., J. Kleinknecht; Asst. Sec., Mr. Greenfield.

—We are advised that the 10c Panama-Pacific is to be changed in color. It will be on the order of the present color but a change distinct enough to make it a straight catalog number.

—In regard to the Tulsa, Okla., special stamp we are advised that "the Washington correspondent," who circulated the stamp story broadcast over the country did not know the difference between a cancelling stamp and a postage stamp. The Tulsa postoffice has been supplied with a special cancelling die advertising the Dry Farming Congress to be held there.

COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA.

By R. J. Hogg.

For just three months stamps of the new type of some denomination or other have been on sale in these states.

The design is poor;—the execution of same is worse, and the mode of issue is a world wide record of bungling and incompetence.

It seems that on one state or another the following values have been sold: 1/2d, 1d, 2d, 2 1/2d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 9d, 1sh, 2sh.

The arrangement seems to be that when the old issue of a state runs out these stamps are brought along as if the Federal authorities seemed loth to produce their own handiwork.

Enough has been said about the design and as to the execution the 5d and 2sh are very similar in colour and report states that the postmaster is contemplating a change of colour, but secrecy is the rule in this sadly mismanaged department.

Report has it that New South Wales has a very big stock of 9d and that there, the new 9d will not be sold for a long time; similar conditions obtain in Tasmania with their 5d.

The paper used is very thin and a large proportion of the stamps the writer has seen are in a torn condition; evidently they require gentle handling even before use.

The 9d we have only heard of as being used in Victoria, where they were evidently very short of supplies a short time back and used the old V and crown paper to print a temporary supply on.

In S. Australia, so far the 5d is the only one issued and in Tasmania no issue has been made.

We have evidently heard the last of the provisional surcharges, which according to commonwealth law are illegal, but "The King can do no wrong", and therefore his ministers in far off climes can perpetrate all sorts of freaks. Victoria, Tasmania and West Australia 1d on 2d are the full list although £25,000 worth of S. Australia were sent to Melbourne to be similarly dealt with but the papers got wind of the fact and a grandmother administration put detectives on to discover who gave the information which was very common property on the street. We presume as a good supply evidently exists of 2d S. Australia, that the Commonwealth 2d will be a long time to appear in this state.

EDITORIAL.

Help Wanted—The following newspaper despatch from Washington is typical of the manner in which an important bit of philatelic news was handled by the press: "U. S. Seeks Man for Job of Philatelist, Washington. Are you a philatelist which in every day language is a stamp collector? If you are and can pass the civil service examination, Uncle Sam will give you a job and $1,200 a year to fill a vacancy in the National Museum. The duties of this position will consist of overhauling and arranging, according to countries and issues, the collection of stamps now in storage in the museum."

Whys and Wherefores—As fully explanatory of the foregoing notice, we submit circular No. 561, "United States Civil-Service Examination. Philatelist. June 23, 1913," issued May 17, 1913, the text of which is as follows: "The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination for philatelist, both for men and women. From the register of eligibles resulting from this examination certification will be made to fill a vacancy in this position in the National Museum, Washington, D. C., at a salary of $1,200 a year, and vacancies as they may occur in positions requiring similar qualifications, unless it is found to be in the interest of the service to fill any vacancy by reinstatement, transfer or promotion. The duties of this position will consist of overhauling and arranging according to countries and issues, the collection of stamps now in storage in the Museum, and in mounting this collection for exhibition. The person appointed as a result of this examination will be employed approximately a year, and possibly for a longer period. Competitors will not be required to appear at any place for examination but will be rated upon statements of their qualifications contained in the application and examination form and corroborative evidence as to their qualifications, integrity and reliability. Practical experience as a postage-stamp dealer is a prerequisite for consideration for this position. In answer to question 20 of application and examination Form 1800 applicants should be careful to name only persons who are able and willing to vouch for the applicant's honesty and reliability. Age, 21 years or over on the date of the examination. Under an act of Congress applicants for this examination must have been actually domiciled in the State or Territory in which they reside for at least one year previous to the date of the examination. The examination is open to all persons who are citizens of or owe allegiance to the United States and who meet the requirements. Persons who meet the requirements and desire this examination should at once apply for Form 1800 to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C." and here follows a list of thirteen other offices in the states and territories where Form 1800 may be had. "No application will be accepted unless properly executed and filed with the Commission at Washington, in complete form, prior to the hour of closing business on June 23, 1913. In applying for this examination the exact title as given at the head of this announcement should be used."

Count Them—That there will be no lack of competition for the position of curator of the National Museum collection, we assert unqualifiedly. We know that there will be many candidates because there have been not a few who have asked for our endorsement of their applications. We believe that the authorities will be somewhat impressed by the volume of the philatelic response. It is superfluous to say how attractive the position would appear in the minds of many philatelists who would find the work congenial, they are sure, the remuneration acceptable and their pride gratified by receiving the preferment. It is to be remembered that the examination is not to be a competitive one based on the applicant's knowledge of philately but is on the broader qualifications of integrity and reliability and philatelic experience.

Home Made Ink—There are sturdy red cancellations on the early United States stamps and cancellations whose redness is but a faint flush; and worst of all, some may be found of muddled red, not to mention a vague, spotted red that is a veritable hobo of the red family. Specialists have sometimes wondered how it happened that some of these reds could have been perpetrated and how so weak and attenuated a cancelling ink could have been used sixty years ago when adulterations were not so common as later. We think that we have solved the problem as we have found an old advertisement dated in 1850 offering for sale directions to postmasters "for procuring and making red ink." The postmaster is tempted in the following words: "As to ink a small box cannot last long in a P. O. at best and instead of it I send directions for procuring and making it gratis. When a P. M. is dependent for a supply of ink the expense of ink alone will soon amount to more than my price for a whole set of Stamps, with directions enabling him to keep a supply on hand so long as he has occasion to use it." The stamps mentioned are postmarking and cancellation stamps engraved on box wood.

An Old Manual—We have had the privilege of examining "The Complete Post Office Manual, No. 2, April 1st, 1851." It was published by Charles M. Willard, Ludlow, Hampden County, Mass. The manual is of eight pages, six by nine inches and the text is devoted almost wholly to an analysis of the important postal act of March 3rd, 1851 and to remarks inspired by certain of the provisions of the act that affected the income of postmasters.

An Editor's Idea—A Sunday editor of a big newspaper who, needless to say, is wise in the making of a readable newspaper gave willingly a column to stamps as an experiment at the suggestion of a thorough philatelist. For several Sundays the department appeared and although the articles in it were unassailable from the viewpoint of data about engraving, paper, watermarks and kindred subjects, the editor was not satisfied that the space was filled to the best advantage. He said: "We want paragraphs telling of the passing show of stamps with information that is unusual and striking, if possible, about certain stamps; and some of the notes may be elementary even, if they are brightly written. If you want to make stamp collectors through newspaper publicity, technical articles, valuable as they are, will not achieve the end when published in the newspaper columns." This opinion of a trained newspaper man may be kept in mind to advantage by those who conduct philatelic corners or departments in the newspapers. The outsider who is to be attracted to philately must be given only mild doses of philately and the beginner also must not be subjected to any cramming.

NEW POSTAL REGULATIONS.

By joint orders of the Secretary of War and the Postmaster General stamped paper, one-cent post cards and all United States stamped envelopes in the future will be good in the Philippine Islands. The Philippines now maintain a separate postal system, the Postmaster General of the United States having no jurisdiction. They have their own stamped envelopes and other requisites.

REGISTRY STAMP DISCONTINUED.

Postmaster General Burleson on May 28 ordered the discontinuance of the printing of the special ten-cent registry stamp, which has been in use for about two years. When the present supply is exhausted no further supply will be issued, and the ordinary postage stamps will take the place of the special registry stamp. Mr. Burleson says the special stamp is unnecessary.

AEROPLANE CANCELLATIONS.

By ARTHUR T. BROWNE, B. P. S. No. 543.
 Sacramento, Cal.

From California, where the bird-men gambol in the air all the year round, comes another aero cancellation. Sacramento now has two aero cancellations to its credit. The first was used in March, 1912. The second was used at a meet held April 19 and 20, 1913.
 The meet was held at Agricultural Park (State Fair Grounds) and the aviator was Roy Francis. From a special postoffice on the grounds Francis carried mail to the Oak Park sub-station of the post office, a distance of about two miles. I am indebted to Mr.
 H. A. Truby of New Kensington, Pa., and Mr. C. E. Bresee of Sacramento for aero cards and to Mr. Bresee for my information concerning the use of the aero cancellation. Both the aerial cancellation and postmark were in reddish purple ink and evidently a rubber stamp was used for cancelling purposes. The postmark was a large double circle. At the top were the words "Aviation Station". In the center was the date "Apr. 19. 13. 3 P. M." At the bottom were the words "Sacramento, Cal." The cancellation consisted of four lines, one and one-eighth inches in length and one-sixteenth of an inch in thickness. The second and third lines were broken and set in them were the words "Aviation Field." The cancellation and postmark were the same as was used at the first meet, the only difference being the color of the ink, the first aero cancellation being in black.

SPECIALIZED UNITED STATES.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

CHAPTER XLI.1 Cent, Issue of 1881-82.

A desire to economize in the manufacture of postage stamps in 1881 by the American Bank Note Company added to the woes of the younger philatelists, and some of the older ones, too. The soft paper which came into general use in 1879 did not "take" the ink in printing as well as the harder paper, and it caused the employees no little trouble in properly wiping the plates to make acceptable stamps. So it was decided to remedy the fault in the engraving, by cutting the lines deeper, so that less trouble might be had, and to the end that much good stamp paper, which previously was wasted through the printing of stamps which would not pass examination might be saved.

It does not seem logical that the sometimes printed statement that wearing of the plates was the cause of re-engraving the designs for this issue.
 In fact, it would have been easier to have made new plates, from the original dies and transfer rolls which had not been worn, than to recut the designs.

During July, 1881, the design for the 1 cent stamp was recut to secure the desired result. The stamps showing the previous design, fixed up, appeared during the latter part of August, in the same year.

The writer is of the opinion that the original die was not touched by the engraver's tools. From the study of these stamps it is my belief that a new die was made by making a new transfer roll or design from the first used die, transferring it to a new die block and then recutting the lines and making some small changes. The vertical lines outside the medallion were deepened to such an extent that they printed almost solid, while the background around the portrait was materially darkened.

The test which determines the recut stamp for the novice collector is found in the floreate design in the upper left corner. Here is a scroll which curves upward and then over, forming a ball at the end of the design in white. Within this ball has been cut a crescent shaped mark, with ends curving upward. In the little ball directly over this a line also is cut in, but in the usual printing this was almost or quite obliterated, and in some of the stamps the ball itself shows but faintly.

KNICK-KNACKS.

The eagle on the registry stamp has flown.

Yes, the public wanted the distinctive registry stamp until it got it.

Soon, the new generation of philatelic writers will be saying: "There is a crying demand for a special registry stamp. When will the laggard authorities awaken to the fact?"

Now, if the aforesaid gov'ment wants really to succor us, let it sell a linen-lined registered stamped envelope

The ball described above, in which the crescent has been cut, is directly under the letter "U" of "U. S."

Mr. Luff, who must be acknowledged as the highest authority upon the matter of shades, classifies them as follows:
 Dull ultramarine, ultramarine, bright ultramarine, gray blue, slate blue, dull blue, chalky blue. There is also a shade of greenish blue which is rather scarce.

The plates were numbered 359, 360, 361,
 362, 363, 364, 387, 388, 389, 390, 401, 402, 406, 407, 422, 423, 424, 425, 475.

Steam presses had come into use sometime earlier, and they were slowly perfected and used upon the 1 and 10 cent stamps of this issue. These presses required the employment of five plates.
 To prevent unequal wearing of the plates
 it was necessary to use the same plates together for all steam press printings.
 These were designated by letters, which were added to the plate numbers, as follows:

C	497,	498,	499,	500,	501
D	502,	503,	504,	505,	506
L	527,	528,	529,	530,	531

There are few varieties found, even by the greatest stretch of the imagination. I have seen several copies of the stamp split, but am inclined to believe they are not of true double paper.

The Douglass patent is found in the stamp. This consists of two layers of paper—a true double paper. The upper paper, upon which the design is printed is very thin in texture. This was punched with eight small holes forming a circle—the circles being spaced so that one should fall upon each stamp design in the sheet. This thin facing paper was backed with a thicker paper and the design was then printed upon the sheet. The idea was that should an attempt be made to soak the stamps for use again the thin face would come away from the back, leaving it as if smitten with small-pox, while a circle showing parts of the design where it printed through the holes would be left upon the backing paper.

These stamps were actually sold, having been offered to the public in Washington, D. C., at least. They were soon withdrawn, and some of the 10,000 which were printed got into the stock books of dealers.

I have never seen this stamp in sample and trial colors, nor have I ever seen proofs of it.

that will stand the wear and tear of rough contact.

That reminds us that General Coolidge was in Chicago recently attending a convention and by the time he gets to the A. P. S. convention in August, he will be keyed up to the presidential note.

UNITED STATES.—The following new precancels are listed by Frank B. Eldredge:

Minneapolis, Minn.—two lines (MINNEAPOLIS-MINN.) horizontal inscription in large sans-serif capitals 4 mm. high, between two lines 15 mm. apart, and 1½ mm. thick. 1c 1913, Parcel Post.

Philadelphia, Pa.—two lines (Philadelphia—Pa.) horizontal inscription capitals with serifs, type smaller than in any preceding issue, two lines, both at top and bottom, lines 1½ mm. apart and ½ mm. thick, space containing the inscription 14 mm. 1c, 1912.

Thomas Keyes sends us a paid permit Woodville, N. H., No. 1, of interest only as showing that even the smaller country offices are using this labor saving device.

C. S. Gelser has shown us a sheet of the current 1c stamps, which has a curious defect in printing. A colored line, ⅛ inch long begins at a point opposite and in front of the eye, and runs Northeast, ending at the edge of the hair. The stamp is the first in the fourth horizontal row, and the plate number is A5867. Two sheets were found with the same mark.

Postmaster General Burleson has issued an order discontinuing the use of the special ten cent registry stamp and providing that no additional registry stamps shall be printed after the present supply shall have been exhausted. Hereafter ordinary postage stamps may be used for the prepayment of registry fees.

AUSTRALIA.—Whitfield King & Co. report the issue of another high value in the Kangaroo set.

Adhesive.

£1 blue and brown.

AUSTRIA.—Whitfield King show the following values as having been issued on unsurfaced paper, in addition to those previously chronicled: 2h, 20h, 30h and 35h.

BRAZIL.—L'Echo states that the Head of Liberty has been removed from the 1000r stamp of the current series, and the portrait of the Baron of Rio Branco substituted therefor.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—Hermann Focke has shown us the dollar values of the new King George set, the $1 being used, and probably the first specimen received in this country in that condition.

Adhesives.

$1 black and carmine.
$2 gray green and purple.
$5 violet and black on red.

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us the temporary printing of the ½d and 1d, Canoe type, on thin multiple paper as noted in No. 1170. The difference between the two papers is very noticeable. Mr. Galbraith also shows us the ½d, 1d, 3d and 11d King George stamps, Grenada type, as noted some time since.

CANAL ZONE.—Mr. Schachne has shown us the new post card, chronicled in No. 1163. Curiously enough, the original card, without surcharge is not yet obtainable at any of the Panama post offices.

CEYLON.—Maury's Collectionneur reports two new cards in the new type.

Post Cards.

2c olive yellow on white.
2x2c olive yellow on white.

CHILE.—Owing to an overstock of the 1c orange and 2c brown revenue stamps, the Minister of the Interior has authorized their use as postage stamps. Frank C. Davis has shown us a cover franked with one of the 2c stamps.

CHINA.—Whitfield King & Co. report having seen the 5c blue postage due stamp, surcharged "Republic." As this value has already been issued in the brown color with the same overprint, the blue ones are likely to be scarce.

The New England Stamp Co. has shown us a new stamp from this country, possibly a revenue, but very handsomely engraved and printed. The size, shape and arrangement are the same as the two commemorative sets recently issued, and evidently like them printed at the Pekin Bureau. The oval is larger and shows as a centre piece a section of the Great Chinese Wall, with one of the forts as a prominent feature. All inscriptions are in Chinese, with the exception of the value which appears in Chinese at the sides and in English at the bottom. The ornaments consist entirely of heads of wheat and are very gracefully arranged. In fact the whole design is very pretty and effective. The specimen shown us, value 2c, has three Chinese characters roughly printed across the English inscription, but as they are indistinct, it is very difficult to arrive at the meaning. An expert says the inscription reads "Chinese Republic, Seal Cotton-Tax Stamp."

DUTCH INDIES.—Whitfield King & Co. report having received the 1g and 2½g, printed on blue paper, but we are not informed whether the colors of the ink have also been changed.

GREECE.—The special commemorative stamps in honor of the success of the Allies in the Balkan War, announced some time since, have at last been issued, according to Lemaire's Journal. There are two designs and five values thus far, the stamps being of large size. One design, that used for the 1l, 5l, 10l and 5d stamps show the luminous cross which appeared to Constantine the Great in 312, with the Greek translation of the words, "In hoc signo vinces," above the Acropolis. "Ellas" appears at the top and the value at the bottom. Below the central picture is the inscription "EKSTPATEIA 1912." The other design shows an eagle strangling a serpent with rays of sunshine breaking through the clouds. The inscriptions are the same as in the other design, though the "1912" is before not after the accompanying word. This design is used for the 3l value. All are poorly printed, and have done little to give honor to modern Greek art.

DISCURSIVE NOTES.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

I know a young man who went without an overcoat one bitter winter that he might possess an editio princeps Dryden. He was your genuine book-lover. His counterpart has been found among collectors of stamps. A shilling New Brunswick has enriched an enthusiast's collection, the result of dispensing with a third meal a day for the allotted period of one hundred days. He declared that only twice was he remorseful,—once when he wished it had been an invert fifteen cents 1869, and again when a Pan-American error was lost to him for poverty's sake.

"I gather up unto myself the old things," wrote that charming correspondent, Charles Lamb. It was also Lamb who, buying books for his friend, the poet Wordsworth, wrote: "Next to the pleasure of buying a bargain for one's self, is the pleasure of persuading a friend to buy it." The gentle essayist lived a philosophy sweet and noble, and this expression of it found echo in my heart last Christmas, when a friend in New York sent me as a holiday gift a packet of very scarce stamps lacking in my collection. With them were two stamps excessively rare in the condition these proved to be. The price of the two was very low, considering condition and rarity. I hesitated—and was saved. Later, I learned my friend could have sold the two stamps at an advance which made it trebly worth while. He has picked up for me many choice things, at a very low price, too. I think he must be a reincarnation of my beloved C. L.

In the course of a paper recently printed in the WEEKLY, I took occasion to mention the loss of a first edition of "Album Weeds," which went down with the mails in the wreck of the steamer Titanic a year ago. A copy of this edition has reached me from a correspondent in London, who says: "I have been advertising for 'Album Weeds' for some time, and only this week have been able to get a copy. The book is decidedly scarce." My copy bears the marks of a studious hand, and forgeries have been hinged in many places in the pages devoted to the country in question. The stamps, I regret, with only three exceptions, have been removed. There is an enriching note, too, under Sierra Leone, wherein a forgery unchronicled in this edition is elucidated in a most satisfying manner. A fly-leaf bears the name J. deC. Laffan, and the date, March, 1884. As the book was issued 1883, its former owner was amply rewarded for the twenty-nine years of usage. It is hoped he has not made himself poor that my yearning shelves might be enriched.

There is the nucleus of an organization in the Stamp Collectors' Fellowship, which in time will do much to increase interest among the younger collectors. The father of the organization, years ago, was encouraged greatly in his boyish collecting by a man twenty years his senior. The kindness remained with him through the years, a dear memory. Recently he learned the son of an old friend had begun collecting stamps. The Fellowship was formed with one Fellow and one member. The boy has interested a school friend. It is believed that with a corps of perhaps twenty Fellows, who shall be more or less advanced collectors, a crusade could be started which would include at least two hundred members-in-ordinary. Much of the work could be done by correspondence, the object being to aid and encourage the young collector with advice and direction. There are no dues of any sort,—fellowship the sole requisite to membership. I shall be glad to correspond with any one interested in the principles of the Fellowship.

The Stamp Collector's Guide

Price 25c Postpaid

AUTHOR'S FOREWORD.

I do not propose to delve into such matters as the origin of stamps and postal systems, the history of stamp collecting, or other such generalia. I will start by presuming my readers are stamp-collectors, have an album of sorts, a certain number of stamps, and sufficient enthusiasm to wish to become acquainted with what I may perhaps term the "technicalities" of our hobby.

Take a stamp and examine it for a moment and see if you can, metaphorically, split it up into its component parts. Of what does it consist? A little thought will show that it consists of a design printed in color on paper. Then it will usually be found there is some sort of separation, for the easy severance of one stamp from another, gum, by means of which it may easily be affixed to a postal package, and in quite a large number of cases there is also a watermark.

The first three—design, color and paper—are the essentials, and these parts are of primary importance; watermarks, when present, are also important as they form an actual part of the stamp; but separation and gum are not of primary importance for they are not parts of the stamp as originally printed. They are additions made for the sake of convenience—very useful additions it must be admitted, for had the perforation machine never been invented and had there been no means of attaching mucilage to the backs of stamps it is quite conceivable that their use would have been restricted to such an extent that they would probably long ago have been superseded by some more convenient invention.

Our dissected stamp, therefore, splits up into the following parts:—

- | | |
|------------|----------------|
| (a) Design | (d) Watermark |
| (b) Color | (e) Separation |
| (c) Paper | (f) Gum |

These are not only the parts of a stamp but they are also the general divisions into which all varieties naturally fall. I have arranged them in what I consider their "philatelically logical" sequence.

A glance at the titles of the chapters will give one a good idea of the scope of "The Stamp Collectors' Guide." No one can really afford to collect stamps without it. The chapters are described as follows:—

SOME SPECIAL MENTION.

While most of the chapters allow the titles to express their nature there are certain chapters that need more than a casual reference:—

Chapter IV describes the various kinds of paper:—wove, laid, batonne, quadrille, porous, hard, Dickinson, silk, pelure, granite, manilla, surface-colored, blued, safety, chalky and native with valuable hints and suggestions.

Chapter XII on "Embossed Stamps" is a fair illustration of Mr. Poole's thorough study of his subject and the chapter outlines how a collection along this line can be formed.

Chapter XVI.—Here the U. S. Army franks get their quietus. Also the bogus "Principality of Trinidad," "Clipperton Ids.," "Counani," etc.

Chapter XVIII.—What is an essay? And what is a proof? Moreover, is it a die-proof or a plate proof? It may be a color-trial—this chapter will help settle the vexed question.

Chapter XX.—Can you distinguish between the product of a re-engraved die or a re-engraved plate? What is a re-cut, re-touch, early impression, worn plate, Jubilee line, plate number, or marginal inscription? Do you know what it means to have a pane of mint, off-centred stamps? Can you locate grille, o. g. or tete beche as philatelic terms?

Chapter XXI.—Where are we at:—
A payer A receiver At betale
Deficiente Losen Multa
Multada Segnatasse Sobreporte
Takka Tasa Taxa Devida
A percevoir Tebetalen Deficit

Chapter XXVII.—The vexed question of "Postal Fiscals" considered under three headings, are treated very fully.

Chapter XXX.—Newspaper Tax, Private, War, Return Letter, Municipal Service, Consular Post, Postmaster, Carriers, Local, Department, War Tax, and Telegraph stamps are treated.

Chapter XXXII.—This chapter alone will prove of great value, a dictionary as it were of stamp terms very handy for the student in philately.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE. Bavaria.

THE NINTH ISSUE.

Some time during the latter part of the year 1881, the contract for supplying the paper for postage stamps, which had up to then been held by the Pasing Mill, was awarded to the Munich-Dachau Paper Manufacturing Company—a concern equipped with more modern machinery and able to turn out a better grade of paper. At the time of this change it was also decided to alter the style of watermark. A new dandy-roll was ordered from England and this made a watermark of zig-zag lines running in a vertical direction down the stamps, the lines being spaced about $7\frac{1}{2}$ mm. apart. This paper was white wove and the improved appearance of the stamps showed it was of better quality than that previously used. No alteration was made in the colors of the various denominations and the perforation remained the same as before. The first stamps on the new paper were ready for issue about November, 1881, and they were placed on sale as the stocks of the old varieties became exhausted. It is probable that all except the 2 marks were in use before the end of the year. The 2 marks did not appear until 1891.

THE TENTH ISSUE.

Although the Imperial currency was issued in 1876 the pfennige values continued to be printed in the small sheets of 60 and these did not altogether fit in with a decimal currency. It was decided, therefore, to alter the size of the sheets and in January 1888 some of the values made their appearance in sheets of 100 and before long all the pfennige stamps had appeared thus. The stamps were divided into two panes of fifty (five rows of ten) placed one above the other. An interval about the height of a stamp was left between the panes and across this space two thick horizontal lines were printed. The plates being of a new size the paper had to be cut accordingly and, to avoid unnecessary waste, it was found best to cut the paper so that on the printed stamps the watermarked wavy lines run in a horizontal instead of perpendicular direction. Naturally this change in the size of the sheets made the perforating machine, which had been constructed to perforate a pane of thirty stamps at a time, of no use and a new one had to be ordered. This one was also on the narrow principle and perforated an entire pane of fifty stamps at one operation but the punches were smaller and placed closer together so that the gauge is $14\frac{1}{2}$ in place of the $11\frac{1}{2}$ found in connection with previous issues. No alteration in the size of the sheets of the mark values was made so that the watermark on these is vertical.

An official notice issued by the Post Office authorities under date December 23rd, 1889, foreshadowed several changes of color. It was stated that the 3pf would be issued in brown, the 5pf in green, the 25pf in orange and the 50pf in red-brown. The result of these changes was to make a more marked distinction between the colors chosen for the various denominations and it also gave the 5pf its proper Postal Union tint. These new varieties were placed on sale as the stocks of the old ones were used up. Their actual date of issue is indefinite but all four were probably on sale by March, 1890.

Early in 1900, the set was enriched by the addition of four new values—2pf, 30pf, 40pf, and 80pf. They were probably placed on sale on January 1st. In design, watermark, perforation, and size of sheets they correspond exactly to the values previously described.

About this period it was noticed that paper of a whiter appearance was being used but these are listed as separate varieties in Gibbons' catalogue, the distinction is one of comparatively little importance. Most of the values of this series provide a pleasing array of shades.

THE ELEVENTH ISSUE.

The necessity for stamps of a higher facial value than 2 marks resulted in the issue of 3 and 5 mark stamps on April 1st, 1900. These are exactly similar in design to the 1 and 2 mark values and it is evident that the dies were secondary ones, struck from the matrix of the 1 mark, with the appropriate numerals inserted in the angles. These stamps were also printed in sheets of fifty and the same perforating machine gauging $11\frac{1}{2}$ was used. The watermark, also, is perpendicular as in the case of the earlier mark stamps.

Reference List.

1900. Wmk. vertical zig-zag lines close together. Perf. $11\frac{1}{2}$.

- 70. 3 marks, olive-brown, Scott's No. 70.
- 71. 5 marks pale green, Scott's No. 71.

THE TWELFTH ISSUE.

Early in March, 1903, the 5 pfennige stamp appeared with the watermark vertical instead of horizontal. This is the only one of the small size stamps with the perforation gauging $14\frac{1}{2}$ to appear with the watermark in this position.

Reference List.

1903. Wmk. vertical zig-zag lines close together. Perf. $14\frac{1}{2}$.

- 72. 5pf green, Scott's No. 72.

THE THIRTEENTH ISSUE.

In December, 1910, the four mark values appeared with the watermarked zig-zag lines horizontal instead of vertical. For what reason the change was made—meaning, of course, that the paper was cut in a different way—is not known but there seems to have been only one printing for in the following year the portrait stamps made their appearance. According to the Illustrirte Briefmarken Journal the quantities printed were as follows:—1 mark, 400,000; 2 marks, 300,000; 3 marks, 200,000; and 5 marks, 100,000.

Reference List.

1910. Wmk. horizontal zig-zag lines, close together. Perf. $11\frac{1}{2}$.

- 73. 1 mark, mauve, Scott's No. 73.
- 74. 2 marks, orange, Scott's No. 74.
- 75. 3 marks, olive-brown, Scott's No. 75.
- 76. 5 marks, pale green, Scott's No. 76.

PLEASED TO HEAR IT.

TO THE EDITOR:—

As an officer of the A. P. S. I wish to thank you particularly for the first editorial in your issue of May 24th. You hit the nail on the head on this subject of attending the A. P. S. Convention, and would all the dealers who are really most vitally interested that the interest in Philately flourish, encourage their clients to join this American society, it would not only keep a great many interested very much longer than the majority are, but increase their trade and insure a splendid attendance at such an American Exhibition as is planned in October.

A point, also not to be forgotten by editors and publishers is that the more organized collectors there are the larger should be their subscription list which naturally leads to an increased demand for advertising space.

Trusting you will find space for further such subjects, and again thanking you for this recruiting work,

Yours truly,

C. F. HEYERMAN.

MESA, ARIZ., May 21, '13.

TO THE EDITOR:

As an aftermath of the floods which devastated the Ohio valley the last of March, I have received a circular letter from George Ward Linn, of Columbus, Ohio, which reads in part as follows:

"I take this means of informing you that I was among those who were caught in the flood which swept the western portion of our city on Tuesday, March 25, 1913. . . .

"I spent all of Tuesday, Tuesday night, and up to Wednesday noon on the water in a large flat boat with some friends, helping people from house-tops, attic windows, and elsewhere, to places of safety, and worked the remainder of the week in helping get food and other necessities to those who had been marooned in their homes. . . .

"My home and office from which I conduct all my stamp business is damaged little. The furniture and contents on the lower floor were under eight feet of water. My philatelic library of about 350 bound volumes is nearly completely ruined."

This seems to me opportunity most fitting for the philately fraternity to show its appreciation of a brave man's sacrifices. Mr. Linn's library has been ruined. Many of his treasured volumes can never be replaced. Others can be supplied perhaps by the fraternity, and in this way each individual philatelist can have direct hand in replacing the books gone forever.

I would suggest that any one who has a file or odd numbers of prominent philatelic papers, past and present,—handbooks,—any work on philately,—send it to George Ward Linn, Clinton Building, Columbus, Ohio, with a word of cheer.

This letter is written without the knowledge of Mr. Linn. I do not ask his approval. That is a matter we, his friends, demand as right to arrogate to ourselves. It is far easier to be kind than it is to be brave. The harder part having fallen to Mr. Linn, let the easier be our legacy.

Serious Exchange Wanted on Approval Sheets

With Medium and Advanced Collectors and Dealers.

In the future we intend to greatly enlarge the scope of our stock and we therefore offer IN EXCHANGE for stamps, suitable for our use, of all countries but specially U. S. A. Departmental and General Issues, Hawaii and English Colonies:

All the Stamps of Spain, Spanish West Indies, Cuba, Porto Rico, Philippines, Rio De Oro, Fernando Poo, Elobey, Guinea Used, unused and also in pairs, strips, blocks and on original covers which hitherto we have made our speciality and of which we certainly hold the largest and most important stock in the world.

Within the last few years we have made purchases exclusively in these stamps for sums exceeding $100,000 of which the most important were:

The entire magnificent stock of the firm Antonio Vives of Madrid for which we paid $20,000, the celebrated specialized collections of Count de San Simon and Miguel Galvez also of Madrid, the whole stock of M. T— of Barcelona, the greater part of the Spanish stocks of the late dealers Isaac Blanco and Jules Bernichon of Paris.

Exchange is Made on the Following Conditions:

(I) We do not demand any discounts, as we do not indulge in speculation and only wish to form a stock of foreign stamps in the way of exchange. Stamps must therefore be quoted by their prices at catalogue prices (Scott, Gibbons, Kohl, Senf, Yvert, etc.)

(II) We take stamps catalogued at least 5 cents up to $100 each and as we have practically no stock of foreign countries we can use almost anything in perfect condition. Selections under $10 Catalogue Value are not accepted. We accept up to 20 specimens of the medium priced stamps but we will be glad to furnish, if wanted, only one specimen of any desired kind.

(III) In exchange we offer any stamp of the above countries according to list of wants and we are disposed to give rarities for cheap and medium stamps.

(IV) With Dealers we are open to exchange per 10 to 50 pieces or sets on cash basis.

(V) We answer always within 8 days by sending a selection of at least equal value. All the stamps remain the property of the sender until contra value has been wholly selected.

(VI) All remittances must be registered or insured.

HOW TO BECOME A STAMP DEALER.

By WASHINGTON GRANT.

CHAPTER VII.—The Matter of Buying.

The stamp business has changed greatly in the last ten years, and there are now practically no great strictly wholesale dealers, carrying a large general wholesale line and issuing an extended price list in which stamps of almost every country are quoted by the 10, 100 or 1000. The great number of new stamps has made it almost impossible for any one dealer to carry a general wholesale stock, and so many of the older issues have been absorbed by collectors that they are practically unobtainable in wholesale quantities. Every dealer knows of stamps cataloguing at only a few cents which he finds it impossible to keep in stock, nor does he know where to buy them at wholesale.

Fifteen years ago it was possible to buy almost any United States stamp cataloguing up to $2.00 by the ten or by the hundred. Such stamps as the 5, 10, 12, 15, 24 and 30c of 1861; most values of the 1869; the 7, 12, and 24c of 1872; 30c of 1888, and 15 and 50c Columbian, etc., could be had by the hundred from a number of different sources. Stamps like the 12c, 1856; 90c, 1861; 15 and 30c, 1869; 90c, 1888; etc., could be had by the ten, while the lower values of the older issues were very frequently quoted by the thousand. These supplies of early United States stamps have absolutely disappeared. The writer does not know of a single wholesale list from any part of the world which offers the above stamps in the quantities mentioned. The 3c, 1861 does still appear by the hundred and thousand, and the 3c, 1851, 1856 and 1869 are occasionally offered by the hundred, but even these latter stamps are more frequently quoted by the ten. Varieties like the higher values named above simply cannot be found any longer in the wholesale lists. Once in a while a single variety may be quoted by some misguided foreign dealer, but when they are ordered they either arrive in abominable condition or are reported out of stock.

The same conditions exist in the older stamps of many other countries.

What has become of all the early low priced Canadians which have been getting so hard to obtain the last few years? The result of these conditions is, that the stocks of regular wholesale dealers to-day are composed in very large proportion of recent issues. Dealing in the older stamps in quantity has resolved itself into picking up jobs-lots when they may be had.

As the character of the wholesale business has changed in the last few years so has the character of the retail business. Dealers themselves have come to specialize and the number of dealers who attempt to carry a complete stock is much smaller than formerly. A great many dealers to-day confine themselves simply to buying collections, breaking them up and selling at retail. It is assumed, however, that our young dealer wishes to do a more general business and that he intends to handle a considerable variety of low priced stamps. Various wholesalers advertise in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and from these you will be able to obtain many varieties. If you are starting in the stamp business, you will have to learn largely by experience what class of stamps to buy. It is much easier to point out a few stumbling blocks to be avoided, than it is to lay out any particular rules to guide the new dealer in laying in his stock.

One of the greatest stumbling blocks to a new dealer is what merchants call "over-buying" and what some old New Englanders used to term "buying yourself poor." A lot of stamps comes along at a tempting price and there may be, say, five hundred copies in the bunch. You know that you have immediate sale for, perhaps, only fifty of them, but the profit looks so large that you buy ten times as many as you need. If you keep on with this practice you will find that you have piled up in your stock large quantities of stamps for which you have no immediate market and which you can get rid of but slowly. Your money being invested in this dead stock, you have no cash to pay for something else you need and the perversity of events is such that the best bargains are usually offered

Precancelled Packet

In sorting my recent purchase of precancelled stamps, a lot of straight edge and slightly damaged copies were found. These include all values and no attention has been paid to them for minor varieties. These are all on the 1898 and 1902 issue of U. S., so none could possibly have been used in the last five years. No badly damaged copies counted. This packet is returnable, if found unsatisfactory.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

SPECIALIZED UNITED STATES.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

CHAPTER XLII.

3 Cents, 1881-82.

A stamp which puzzles the younger collectors up to the time when they are well along in their studies of the stamps of the United States is the 3 cent, re-engraved, issue of 1881-82. Then when they learn to distinguish it from the ones of the '70s they wonder that they were ever so "stupid" as not to have been able to separate them at a glance. But such is collecting. I have had collectors of several years' experience say that they never could understand the secret marks in the 3c, 1873, which, when pointed out to them, with a diagram—see the sickly smile—it's as easy as can be, they say.

The 3 cent stamp of 1881-82 was delivered to the government by the American Bank Note Company in July, 1881. At first glance it resembles its predecessor very much, for the reason that it is printed in the same design, with the lines deepened. It is stated that the use of soft paper made it necessary to so deepen the lines of engraving so that the plates could be properly wiped to produce good printing. Vertical lines were added to the medallion, and those of the shading were much deepened, so that the design, when printed, shows almost solid color.

The test for the beginner to familiarize himself with is the distinguishing mark which was added, so that the stamp might never be confounded by the authorities with the 3 cent stamp which it superseded. This mark is a straight dash under the ribbon, at the right, directly beneath the letters "TS" in Cents.

Mr. Luff gives the shades as yellow green, gray green and blue green—certainly not an imposing array of shades with which to wrestle, when compared with most of the other issues and denominations.

A large number of plates were made, from which to print these stamps. The plate numbers employed were: 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 395, 396, 397, 398, 408, 409, 410, 411, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421.

These were printed on soft, porous paper, in various thicknesses, and several textures. In fact there is such an array of paper differences that a close student of stamps would be doing philately a splendid service if he was to make an intelligent study and classification of the varieties of thickness and

A NEW PERFORATION GAUGE.

By WM. L. STEVENSON.

Some time ago, certain French collectors and students of stamps called attention to the fact that there were differences in the perforations of the stamps they were examining and that occasionally these differences occurred in stamps that were otherwise precisely alike. This was an innovation and, of course, was frowned upon by early authorities. The discoverers persisted in their studies, however, and even invented means for measuring the differences found. They were French and naturally adopted the French metric system. They counted the number of holes in a space of two centimeters. If they had been English they would probably have counted the holes in one inch.

of stamps and perforation gauges. Further: while a one-half gauge to the present standard is minute enough for most purposes, two good observers may differ in the measurement of a particular specimen. A more accurate reading is needed even for general use and for my particular use we need one to measure even slighter differences. The same applies to the study of English stamps as well as to our own.

I herewith submit my idea of a real gauge. This is a simple attempt to magnify the readings for greater accuracy by the old standard and to get an inch gauge with direct comparison with the old gauge measures.

Prescription. Slip your stamp along lieve a simpler and more accurate scale can be devised. A simple trial will convince anyone.

It may be well to explain that this gauge does not measure directly the number of holes in a given distance. It measures them indirectly by measuring the space occupied by ten holes. The eleven lines simply aid in counting the eleven holes. The outer lines, centered in the first and eleventh holes, give an exact measure of the distance between their centers.

If you have an exact 12 gauge perforation (old style) the 12 holes cover exactly 20 mm. and the ten holes 10/12 of 20 mm. which is the distance across the scale where I have marked it 12.

These Frenchmen wrote articles and books and otherwise advertised the idea until collectors generally came to admit that there was perhaps something of interest in these differences; and so they adopted the scale or gauge. We have used that same gauge until now. It works. Many are given away or sold as being perfectly accurate. Perhaps they are.

It is probably better that for general use this gauge be retained as all are familiar with it and most articles and books are based on it. As long as we have a fixed standard, it matters little for general purposes whether we measure the holes in two centimeters or in eleven something else.

However, in studying U. S. stamps, I have found reasons for using the inch scale in a number of places as it was the scale on which these stamps were produced. This applies especially to measurement of sizes of stamps, and of grilles, and to measuring shrinkage effects as applied to or affecting sizes of the scale till the eleven converging lines fall within successive holes. Forget all except the two outer lines. Adjust your stamp so that the lines for these holes exactly "center" in the holes. If you want the number of holes to the inch, read the top scale. If you want the present gauge, read the other scale. If you simply want a comparison of the two scales, lay a pencil across the scale and you have the two corresponding readings. In any case, you cannot avoid getting accurate readings to within one-fourth of a gauge.

The illustration may not give you such accurate readings. The drawing from which it came was photographed and may not be reproduced in exact size. I do not know whether these can be produced commercially to sell at a price which would make them available for all. It would be necessary to use a material with no shrinkage. Shrinkage across the scale would throw the whole thing wrong. I hope someone will make the attempt, as I do not believe a simpler and more accurate scale can be devised. A simple trial will convince anyone.

The full gauges are here constructed with some accuracy. The fractional gauges are guessed at. These should be constructed as well as the full ones. This would be simple to the instruments of precision of the scale makers.

If anyone should care to construct one of these for personal use I would say that I have here used a base-line in the center which is five inches long and a perpendicular line at either end, one 1 inch long and the other 1/2 inch long. This gives the convergence here seen.

weave which he may be able to discover.

There is but a single variety of the stamp which may be so termed. This is the Douglass patent, or "cog wheel" cut. This variety was fully described in the former chapter, a study of the 1 cent, same issue. There were 10,000 of these stamps printed, and they were placed on sale in Washington, D. C. Only a few were used, and the rest were later returned to the postoffice department, except some which were purchased by collectors and dealers.

The student of stamps who delights in searching for very minor varieties will find this a fruitful field for his magnifying glass. There are numerous engravers' lines at sides and bottom, in various distances from the design. Other minute differences can be found with a strong glass and perhaps an equally strong imagination.

Proofs, the samples and trial colors add to the attractiveness of the page devoted to this issue.

EDITORIAL.

An Order—Here is a new regulation that has been announced by Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War, and Postmaster General Burleson: "On and after July 1, 1913, the embossed stamped envelopes and single one-cent postal cards of the United States shall be valid for postage in the Philippine Islands when directed to addresses in the United States, and the embossed stamped envelopes and the single one-cent postal cards of the Philippine Islands shall be valid for postage in the United States when directed to addresses in the Philippine Islands."

Panama-Pacific Labels—Mr. J. Rausch, San Francisco, writes: "When the labels described editorially in the issue of May 17th were first issued, they were on sale at all book stores and many of them were sold and used as stickers on envelopes. They often were sent through the mails on the front of envelopes although the authorities may have intercepted some of the letters and returned them with the information that the labels were permitted to be used only on the back of letters. There was another label issued at about the same time but it as well as the one described by you has not been on sale for a long time, although I do not think that the issue of these two labels was suppressed by the postal authorities."

An Appeal—It has been called to our attention that the postoffice department in prohibiting the issue and use of advertising labels having relation even in a remote degree to postage stamps is acting well within its rights. It is farthest from the thoughts of the department to work hardship or disappointment even on philatelists but in the enforcement of the laws, class interests properly are not recognized. The interpretation of a law may vary to some extent according to the ideas of the one whose duty it is to make it effective but that the acts of the authorities are based on public policy and not persecution is apparent to those who come in contact with the officers. We trust that in time some of the onerous exactions, from a philatelic viewpoint, that are imposed by Washington will be removed but to intemperately berate the officers and assail their motives when they tread on philately's toes is folly. In fact, it is worse than folly, as criticisms of the kind will stir the resentment of the federal folks and forfeit their esteem for philatelists. On the contrary philatelists should co-operate with the authorities rather than condemn them and when they do so, any feeling that philatelists are meddling or intractable will die away as having no foundation in fact. Philatelists should feel close to the department and help it rather than hamper its work. It is fitting, too, that philatelists have a fair sense of the perspective and realize that they are but a part even if an important one of the great American public.

First American Album—A delver into the historical side of philately asks when the first stamp album was published in this country. Some years ago when a part of one of the D. Appleton and Company's album, published in 1863, fell into our hands, we used it as a text for a retrospection of philately in this country and said that this stamp album was the first one made in this country, no doubt. As the opinion was not controverted, we assume that the Appleton album was the one that blazed the way in America. A copy of the album is in the congressional library at Washington; and the work fits the following description: Album for postage and other stamps, American and foreign. New York, 1863, D. Appleton & Co., 208 pp., illustrated, with maps.

It Is Like This—Another question has come to us in the following words: "In the prefatory note of Fred J. Melville's 'The Postage Stamps of the United States of America' among the publications mentioned from which information had been collected by Mr. Melville is 'Mr. Eli Bowen's United States Postal Guide, 1851.' I should like some information about this volume, if you know anything about it." For a work that we have never seen we know much about Mr. Bowen's old postal guide. The appearance of the book and the character of its contents have been described to us and if necessary, we could give something of a biographical sketch of Mr. Eli Bowen who was a distinguished son of Pennsylvania and who at one time was in the postoffice at Washington. Mr. Bowen was known both as Eli and Eli, although Eli is the inscription on Mr. Bowen's grave-stone at Pottsville, Pennsylvania. Mr. Bowen was a fluent and versatile writer whose pen was most at home in describing the natural beauties and the internal improvements of his own state. For instance, his Pictorial Sketch Book of Pennsylvania was a repository of information about the Keystone State. We understand that Mr. Melville found his "Guide" in a book-store in England quite by accident but we have tried to obtain the book for years without success. We have advertised in some of the local newspapers in Pennsylvania and have tried the old book shops with barren results. For the time being we shall have to content ourselves with Charles M. Willard's Complete Post Office Manual, April 1st, 1851.

Hist—An esteemed reader writes: "On May 29th, 1913, I received a letter from the Third Assistant Postmaster General in which he states: 'You are informed that the department has not issued the five-cent stamp with the new perforations in endwise coils.' Perhaps, Knick-Knacks can tell me where the dealer got his supply of these stamps which they advertise for sale.' We had a dim recollection of having seen an official notice of the issue of the stamp in question, which faded away entirely in the light of the foregoing statement. Great little mystery, eh?

Stamps in Booklets—Our welcome monthly visitor, Everybody's Philatelist, says that the collecting of stamp booklets has had a great impetus through the issue by the government of the stamps in coils in part perforated condition and that the very reason for neglecting them before then, straight edges at sides and bottom has become an argument in favor of collecting them since the advent of the coil varieties. Mr. Mudge's investigations as to the plating arrangement of the booklet stamps with the resulting diagrams as published in the WEEKLY some years ago were instrumental in starting a few collectors as booklet specialists and they now have reason to feel that they were wise in their day.

Charges—All the sensational talk of book-keeping jugglery during Hitchcock's administration so that, it is alleged, a record for economy could be established, gives more force than ever to Channing's statement: "Such importance do we attach to the freest communication with all parts of the country—so much do we desire that the poor as well as the rich may enjoy the means of intercourse—that we would sooner have the Post Office a tax on the revenue than one of its sources."

NEW NICARAGUA STAMPS.

By A. W. DUNNING.

From Nicaragua has come a new provisional. This is made by surcharging the 1 peso orange stamps of 1912 (Scott's No. 307) as follows:

VALE
 medio centavo
 1913

The surcharge is in black and the following errors exist in the sheet: the first stamp—upper left hand corner—has the VA of VALE missing. The fourth stamp in the second row has VALE spelled VALB. My correspondent informs me that a gold basis now obtains, that this is called "cordoba" and that there will be no more special stamps for the Atlantic coast. He also informs me that further provisionals are being prepared as follows:

3 centavos on 6 centavos, Scott's No. 300
 5 " " 50 " " " 452
 6 " " 1 peso, " " 453
 2 " " 2 " " " 308
 10 " " 2 " " " 454

Later—Mr. Dunning submits for our inspection a set of ten provisionals, nine one-cent and one two-cent as described above. Four of the one-cent provisionals are made by surcharging Scott's Nos. 297, 298, 306, 309 all of the same type, while the locomotive set also of 1911 contributes five stamps, viz.—3c, 4c, 6c, 20c and 25c. The solitary two-cent provisional is made by surcharging Scott's No. 308. Mr. Dunning has seen the 2c on 2p, in which the error "Valb" is found. It occurs on the fourth stamp of the second row.

WHERE IS MR. CHARLICK?

W. F. Gregory of N. Y. City writes us in relation to the rather mysterious disappearance of L. S. Charllick of London, who arrived in New York Monday, June 2, and called upon him the following day, since which time he has not been seen. Mr. Charllick informed Mr. Gregory that he had lost his identity in Paris and when he came to himself was steamer bound for New York. So near as he could tell he had been in this condition a month and Mr. Gregory writes that he appeared to be in a bad nervous state. If he turns up in any city it would be well to communicate either with Mr. Gregory or this office.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Rochester Philatelic Association was held Wednesday evening, May 28th, at the Club Rooms. Entertainment was furnished in the form of an exhibit of the collection of Paul C. Wild. A beautiful used copy of the 13c Hawaiian missionary was shown by A. J. Ludolph and an extensive and rare accumulation of old U. S. in blocks, pairs, strips—some with plate numbers and imprints—and entire covers, etc., was shown by Dr. G. P. French. The next meeting, June 25th, will be the last regular gathering of the season.

—The Suburban Stamp & Curio Club will hold a special meeting at 8 P. M. June 19th in room 321 Tremont Building, Boston. An auction sale for the benefit of the general fund will be a special feature. All Boston and suburban collectors are heartily invited.

—In the May number of the Swedish Philatelic Journal, the philatelic society of Halsingfors, Finland, issues a warning against Arthur Aarnio of Tammerfors who has offered for sale forged stamps among others: Finland 3rub 50kop and 7rubel of 1891-92; 5 and 10 mark of 1889, and 10 mark of 1901.

—"I have been very well pleased with the returns of this year. At first they were rather slow in coming in, but of late they have been exceptionally good, and I have tried about all the best weekly and monthlies going."—ALAN N. STEIN.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from A. H. Loomis and E. M. White.

—The collection of the late Frank Bescher is being sold today by Wolsieffer.

—"New Bavarian postage stamps will soon be issued. Designs for them have already been submitted and are under consideration by the Regent's Minister of Commerce. Concerning the new stamps it may be said that they will be produced by an entirely new process, which will guarantee extraordinary technical perfection in the portrait as well as great beauty of color."—Clipping from JOHN W. HOFFMAN.

GERMAN AUCTION PRICES.

PUZZLE OF THE POSTAGE STAMP.

There has been the puzzle of the postage stamp. The letter came on Monday morning. It was written on Saturday, and bore a United States postage stamp—passed by the official censors. There were arguments and explanations behind the Window as to how Mr. Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, could delude the post office with his stamp. The young lady at the desk round the corner was consulted, without result. She merely said, "Ask G. P. O."

This, of course, bucked us up. We had to know whether it was an aeroplane or thought transference that had brought the welcome letter with an American stamp. Quite simple was the explanation, after all the guesses and bets had been settled. It was just an American who had remembered the three-mile limit. After leaving Southampton, Mr. Stefansson slammed an American stamp on his note, and sent it by the pilot. The sea air made the postmark, "Sea Service," illegible.—London Daily Chronicle.

PHILATELY AND THE FAIR SEX.

The fact that philately as a profession has openings for the gentler sex, is exemplified by the advertisement of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. this week. This firm wants a young woman with a knowledge of stamp collecting to make up fine books in its approval department and we suspect that the manager would take more than one if he could get them. Mr. Putney writes:

"We now have seven men in the concern but we are largely dependent upon the girls for assistance. The trouble with them is, that as soon as we have them trained, many of them get married. We are losing three this month by marriage and four went last year."

"New Issues at 10% Over Face"

THE POPULAR NEW ISSUE.

Popular. Because the outlay necessary for a representative Collection can be limited to such a very small sum, ranging from the low average expenditure of a few shillings per month.

Interesting. Changes of colour, perforation, and watermark, as well as the actual New Issues of the Colonies, Provisionals, and the like, provide frequent variety.

Economical. A supply at 10% over actual face value, which is not a very extravagant premium to ensure an efficient supply.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldredge lists the following new precancels:

Philadelphia, Pa.—Two lines (Philadelphia—Pa) horizontal inscription between lines, two above and below, 1 mm. apart ½ mm. thick, inside lines 15 mm. apart, inscription in same type as type described in No. 1166. $1. 1908-09, double strike; 50c, 1908-09, no lower lines.

Philadelphia, Pa.—(No. 1166.) 50c, 1908-09.

Chicago, Ill.—(No. 1153.) 3c, 1913, Parcel Post, Inv. Reported by Ferdinand Gottlieb.

Chicago, Ill.—(No. 1153.) 1c, 1913, Parcel Post, first L missing; 25c, 1913, Parcel Post, double strike. Reported by Empire Stamp Co.

Minneapolis, Minn.—(No. 1171.) 10c, 1913, Parcel Post.

AUSTRALIA.—W. H. Peckitt sends us the 9d, 2sh, 5sh and 10sh values, all recently chronicled.

AUSTRIA.—We have been shown the 2sh on unsurfaced paper and in ultramarine ink, by W. H. Peckitt.

BARBADOS.—Even's Weekly is informed that the 6d value of the King George set has appeared in a much deeper shade than the original printing.

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS.—We are indebted to W. H. Peckitt and Whitfield King & Co. for copies of the ½d, 1d, and 3d King George stamps recently chronicled.

CHINA.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 2c with the Waterlow "Republic" overprint.

DUTCH INDIES.—From the Stamp Collectors Fortnightly we learn that the colors have not been changed for the 1g and 2½g on colored paper, announced in No. 1171.

Adhesives.

1g violet on blue.
2½g slate gray on blue.

EAST AFRICA AND UGANDA PROTECTORATE.—We have received the 5r King George stamp from W. H. Peckitt, the design being the same as the previous issue though the colors are changed.

Adhesive.

5r lilac and blue.

GREECE.—Maury's Collectionneur says that the Postage Due stamps of 1902 having become exhausted through the surcharging done for war purposes, a new series is to be created of the same type, but lithographed, and probably in new colors.

HONG KONG.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 30c and 50c values of the new King George stamps, both being in the old design, with the Swastika in the lower corners. The 30c has the value in colorless letters, the reverse being true of the 50c.

Adhesives.

30c orange and violet.
50c black on green.

INDIA.—Whitfield King & Co. report the 2a King George stamp surcharged "Service".

Official Adhesive.

2a violet.

MONTENEGRO.—We have received from W. H. Peckitt the new set of stamps as chronicled in No. 1167.

NICARAGUA.—Referring to the item in No. 1169, Dr. Roy F. Desart states that the "Dpto. Zelaya" from the overprint on the 25c revenue there chronicled.

RUSSIA.—Offices in the Levant.—W. H. Peckitt sends us three of the higher values of the Romanoff set surcharged for use in the Offices in the Levant. These are the 10pi on 1r, 20pi on 2r and 30 pi on 3r.

ST. VINCENT.—W. H. Peckitt sends us the 4d King George stamp chronicled some time since.

SOMALILAND PROTECTORATE.—We are indebted to W. H. Peckitt for a copy of the 1r value in the King George set. The design is substantially the same as the King Edward high values though there are minor differences, being more like the East Africa and Uganda stamps.

Adhesive.

1r green.

SOUTHERN NIGERIA.—Whitfield King & Co. sends us the ½d King George stamp.

Adhesive.

½ dark green.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—W. H. Peckitt and Whitfield King have shown us the 4c lilac stamp, with portrait of King George chronicled some time since, and Whitfield King & Co have shown us the 1c of the same issue.

Adhesive.

1c green.

TURKEY.—Mr. Schachne has shown us the latest postal cards of this country. The stamp is the same as the adhesives noted in No. 1163 and the cards make a very good appearance.

Post Cards.

10pa green on buff.
20pa red on buff.

URUGUAY.—A. W. Dunning has shown us the 2c and 4c stamps of the lithographed set, with the overprint, "Centenario de las Instrucciones del Año XIII," as recently noted.

PASSING OF THE NESBITT FIRM.

TO LET—A faded yellow building with oblongs of dust outlining its bricks, wooden letters that show but too plainly their threescore years, and the memories of a famous past, are all that remain of the house of George F. Nesbitt & Co. With its passing there was taken from the business life of New York the city's oldest printing establishment. The house of Nesbitt was founded in 1795, and through the long career that was brought to a close in the fall of 1912 are woven many threads of the country's commercial history.

It was in this old building that the first stamped envelopes were printed. It was here that one of the earliest city telephones was installed, and its presses were among the first in the world to be driven by electric motors. Now the firm has retired from business and its machinery and good-will have been sold. In the building at Pearl and Pine Streets, where the faded signs still hang from the walls, in 1862 a contract was entered into with the Government for the printing of all its stamped envelopes; and that work was done by this house until Uncle Sam established his own mammoth printing plant in the Bureau of engraving at Washington. Among the treasured relics possessed by those who are closing up the affairs is the contract which went into effect on April 1, 1862.

Another relic is a steel die from which the first Envelope was printed; and the sign, now weather-beaten and gray, that announced this as the manufactory of Government envelopes is still in its old place.—Edison Monthly.

KALAMAZOO TO ORGANIZE.

Efforts will be made in the near future to organize a Kalamazoo (Mich.) branch of the American Philatelic society. Dr. Arthur Bruce, dentist, will in the next few days feel out the sentiment of Kalamazoo stamp collectors regarding the establishment of an A. P. S. local. It takes five members of the national association to form a branch society.

Besides Dr. Bruce, Judge George P. Hopkins and Frank Barnes are members of the national association. It is understood that if a local is formed, Bates Clark and Clinton L. Chalfant, two former members of the A. P. S. will probably apply for reinstatement.

Three other active collectors whom Dr. Bruce believes will favor a branch are Charles Garrett, Win Jerow and Dr. D. J. Berstein. If sentiment develops in favor of a branch society, a meeting will be called in the near future for that purpose.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

Unused Blocks of U.S.

Recently I advertised a number of blocks of U. S. stamps. The demand was so spontaneous that a number of denominations were all sold out. Seeing the desire of collectors to secure blocks while they can be had at reasonable price, I have determined to throw a number of other blocks on the market, instead of holding them for the advance as I had contemplated. Therefore I offer:

"A sense of humor seems to be a rare possession among stamp writers and editors—which is perhaps one of the reasons for the great success of A. C. Roessler's Stamp News, about the only stamp journal in captivity that tickles the risibles of its readers to any appreciable extent. Mr. Roessler has a dry, pungent wit that is at times highly diverting. Even his ads are so full of happy touches that we always scan them carefully feeling sure of being well rewarded for the trouble. This modest little house-organ really has more dash and snap to the square inch than any other stamp journal in America."—Editor Quackenbush in Redfield's Stamp Weekly.

THE MATTER OF COLOR.

By C. P. M. RUMFORD.

The article on "Catalogues and Colors" in a recent issue of your paper opens up a subject, on which for some years I have been tempted to "let out."

Just how any word or sentence in the English language, or any other language, for that matter, can describe a color, is beyond the understanding of any thinking individual. The sense of color (and color is a sense, distinct from the broader sense of sight), like taste and sound, is elusive and fleeting; not one of these three senses admits of description in words. We may tell in a general way what each sensation means to us, but we require a diagram or an actual rendition of the sound, odor, or a presentation of elementary colors in combination in order to come to some definite understanding as to what is meant when we attempt to describe such sensations. Furthermore, if the person to whom this description be given, is in possession of defective ears, nose or eyes, it is an utter impossibility for him to receive the sensation which is intended for him to receive.

So much for obvious generalities; now to the point which is of particular interest to the stamp collector. I trust that I have made it clear that colors must be established by comparison, and not by verbal description. The terminology employed by the compiler of a catalogue, who holds in his hand certain stamps of a certain shade of a certain color, may be one thing; but collectors who read this verbal description, and have no means of comparing their own particular specimens with those of the compiler, cannot by any reason, psychological, physical, anatomical, geographical or otherwise, get a distinct and lucid idea of what is meant. Blue means nothing to our host of collectors, even in a country where our stamps are printed in colors which are comparatively uniform; but blue when modified by a number of adjectives, varied and indefinite in themselves, means less because it simply adds to the confusion.

Some years ago there was published by Prang, a color chart which to my mind at least approaches the solution of the problem, in that it is a diagram in permanent colors, clearly numbered and arranged for every gradation of the colors of the spectrum.

A chart of this nature expanded to take in all combinations of colors and shades would be a convenience to collectors. One collector would be able to order by chart number any stamp printed.

This work would be monumental; who will start it?

TEXT OF NICARAGUA DECREE.

Translated by C. A. HOWES.

We have received from the Toledo Stamp Co. a copy of the official decree responsible for the "cordobas." It will be of interest for future reference:—

"The President of the Republic considering that there is but one monetary system for the Republic and that on the whole there is no reason for distinction between the stamps used, in the interior of the country and on the Atlantic Coast, while awaiting the new issue of postal values in the money at present in circulation, has found it necessary to transform into this currency the postal stamps of the issue in use up to this time, in the exercise of his powers:

Announces:

(1) The postal labels which are at present used in the country for franking correspondence and which bear the statue of the Republic, a locomotive, or the arms of Central America, once brought into conformity with the new monetary plan, will be used without distinction all over the country.

The surcharge will have printed in black the word "Vale" and beneath, in numerals, the value that said stamps are to bear in accordance with this law, and also "1913." The post cards also will be surcharged, those bearing the statue as well as the locomotive, thus: those of 4c, single, with "Vale 1 centavo de cordoba," and in the same way each part of the double cards of 4c. The single 10c cards and each half of the double ones of the same value with "Vale 0.02 de cordoba."

The 10c stamped envelopes will be surcharged "Vale 0 02 de cordoba" and the 35c with "Vale 0.05 de cordoba." The official stamps will be surcharged in the quantities and with the values indicated by the General Postal Administration, which is charged meanwhile with complying with the requirements of the U. P. U.

(3) Persons who possess postal values of the preceding issue, which does not remain valid after this date, can exchange them for new ones in the respective revenue offices within four months from date, which is when this announcement becomes effective."

MANAGUA, April 24, 1913.

THE LIFE OF AN ADVERTISEMENT.

F. Colson of Norwalk, Ohio, who advertised in the WEEKLY four years ago propounds the following in a letter just at hand:—"When does the value of an adv. cease to exist? In 1908-9 I advertised in the WEEKLY the breaking up of my collection and I have not advertised since then. Every once in a while I receive a request for my list of this, that, or the other country. Now where do they get my name?"

A glance at the titles of the chapters will give one a good idea of the scope of "The Stamp Collector's Guide." No one can really afford to collect stamps without it. The chapters are described as follows:

I.—Design	XXI.—Postage Due Stamps
II.—Color	XXII.—Official Stamps
III.—Paper	XXIII.—Registered Letter Stamps
IV.—Paper Varieties	XXIV.—Express and Special Delivery
V.—Watermark	XXV.—Acknowledgment of Receipt
VI.—Separation	XXVI.—Parcel Post Stamps
VII.—Perforation	XXVII.—Postal Fiscals
VIII.—Gum	XXVIII.—Postal Savings Bank Stamps
IX.—Line Engraving	XXIX.—Newspaper Stamps
X.—Surface Printing	XXX.—Other Special Purposes
XI.—Lithography	XXXI.—Collection Arrangement
XII.—Embossed	XXXII.—Guide to Classification
XIII.—Reprints
XIV.—Remainders
XV.—Fakes and Counterfeits
XVI.—Bogus Stamps
XVII.—Errors
XVIII.—Proofs and Essays
XIX.—Provisional Issues
XX.—Miscellaneous Explanations

SOME SPECIAL MENTION

While most of the chapters allow the titles to express their nature there are certain chapters that need more than a casual reference:—

Chapter IV describes the various kinds of paper:—wove, laid, batonne, quadrille, porous, hard, Dickinson, silk, plure, granite, manilla, surface-colored, belud, safety, chalky and native with valuable hints and suggestions.

Chapter XII on "Embossed Stamps" is a fair illustration of Mr. Poole's thorough study of his subject and the chapter outlines how a collection along this line can be formed.

Chapter XVI.—Here the U. S. Army franks get their quietus. Also the bogus "Principality of Trinidad," "Clipperton Ids.," "Counani," etc.

Chapter XVIII.—What is an essay? And what is a proof? Moreover, is it a die-proof or a plate proof? It may be a color-trial—this chapter will help settle the vexed question.

Chapter XX.—Can you distinguish between the product of a re-engraved die or a re-engraved plate? What is a re-cut, re-touch, early impression, worn plate, Jubilee line, plate number, or marginal inscription? Do you know what it means to have a pane of mint, off-centred stamps? Can you locate grille, o.g. or tele beche as philatelic terms?

Chapter XXI.—Where are we at:—
A payer A receiver At betale
Deficiente Losen Multa
Muktada Segnatasse Sobreporte
Auktada Tasa Taxa Devida
A percevoir Tebetalen Deficit

Chapter XXVII.—The vexed question of "Postal Fiscals" considered under three headings, are treated very fully.

Chapter XXX.—Newspaper Tax, Private, War, Return Letter, Municipal Service, Consular Post, Postmaster, Carriers, Local, Department, War Tax, and Telegraph stamps are treated.

Chapter XXXII.—This chapter alone will prove of great value, a dictionary as it were of stamp terms very handy for the student in philately.

Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.
Bavaria.

THE FOURTEENTH ISSUE.

On March 12th, 1911, Prince Leopold Regent of the kingdom of Bavaria, celebrated his ninetieth birthday, and the event was marked by the issue of a new series of stamps bearing his portrait. The change was something in the nature of a revolution considering the Arms type had been in use for a period of no less than forty-four years. The Prince was born at Würzburg on March 12th, 1821, and his life and career were bound up with the historic episodes of modern Europe. Professionally Prince Leopold was a soldier but when his nephew, King Otto, succeeded to the throne in 1886 he was appointed Regent owing to the mental deficiency of the ruler. Prince Leopold was regarded with the greatest affection by the people and his birthday was observed throughout Bavaria with the heartiest enthusiasm. The special stamps issued to mark the event show two designs. That for the pfennig denominations shows a profile bareheaded portrait, looking to left, on a solid rectangular background. In the upper left corner of this rectangular figures of value are shown and in the top right angle are the letters "Pf". Above, on a narrow tablet of color, is the date "12 MARZ 1911", and at the base is the name "BAYERN" in colored capitals. The stamps vary in size, the lower values being smaller than those of a higher facial value. The mark stamps are of extra large size and show a portrait of the aged Regent looking to right. In this instance he is shown wearing a hat. On each side of the portrait are ornate columns, resting on corner rectangles of solid color, that on the left bearing the numeral of value, and the one on the right a letter "M". In the centre, at the top, is the date "1911". The portraits are strongly drawn and are the work of the celebrated German artist, Prof. Fritz von Kaulbachs. The stamps are printed by a process of photo-lithography. They were on sale some few weeks before the actual birthday celebration and after the 31st March all previous issues were demonetised.

The stamps were printed on the paper watermarked with close zig-zag lines which has been in use since 1881. On the values from 3pf to 25pf inclusive, the lines are horizontal while on all others they are vertical. In what size sheets these stamps were printed we do not know (possibly 100 for the pfennig and 50 for the mark values) but it seems probable that a new perforating machine was brought into use. As we have already shown the 14½ and 11½ machines used from 1888 and 1881 respectively were of the harrow kind and could, therefore, only be used for stamps and sheets of the size for which they were constructed. The values from 3 to 25pf are of the same size as the lower values of the preceding issue and it is evident the 14½ harrow machine was used for these; the 30pf to 80pf stamps are of the same size as the mark stamps of the Arms design and doubtless the old 11½ harrow machine was utilised for these; but the mark stamps were too large for either of the existing perforating machines and a new one, possibly a single line machine was used. We are not quite positive on the point as we have only single stamps to refer to but a single-line machine was certainly used for the next issue in which the stamps are of the same large size.

A 60pf value in the same design as the others was added to the series in October, 1911, Bavaria, in accordance with its usual policy following Germany's lead in the issue of new values. The 5pf and 10pf values are known in tête-bêche pairs these being from sheets printed for binding in book form. The same values may also be found with advertisements attached, these also being from sheets intended for binding into stamp booklets. Most of the values exist in several pronounced shades.

Prince Leopold died in the closing weeks of 1912 and was succeeded as Regent by his son, Prince Ludwig. So far this change has had no effect on Bavaria's postal issues though it is rumoured that a new series is in preparation.

THE FIFTEENTH ISSUE.

In June, 1911, two stamps were issued for use in the kingdom of Bavaria commemorative of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Regency of Prince Leopold. The portrait is somewhat similar to that of the pfennig values of the birthday set this being enclosed by a large wreath held on each side by cupids. The dates "1886-1911" are shown on the wreath and in the lower angles are the figures "5" or "10" to denote the value. The name "BAYERN" is shown on a straight tablet between the figures. Each value is printed in three colors and they are somewhat extraordinary productions. The background is black, the ribbons binding the wreath are yellow, and the rest of the design is green for the 5pf and red for the 10pf. They have a crude cheap-looking appearance that is all the more marked on comparison with the delicate workmanship characterising the contemporary birthday series.

The stamps are said to have been in use only a limited time. They were printed on unwatermarked paper and perf. 11½. These two labels conclude Bavaria's philatelic history to date.

KNICK-KNACKS.

June is here and if the season continues so briskly we shall not have time to attend the graduation exercises.

That reminds us that time and tide permitting, our managing editor will present his thesis, The Advantages of Advertising in the WEEKLY, before any struggling college of approved standing that wishes to lend eclat to its exercises.

And then one year a high school cadet read a theme, "Private Posts" at our suggestion and Prexy said that the discourse "marked a distinct departure in academic action."

Still, there are worse fates that might befall one and speaking covocationally, we leave it to the intelligent audience whether its members would not prefer to hear of an interesting postal phase of American history than remarks to the effect that beyond the Alps lies Italy.

To the scores of inquiries as to the absence of De Booz and his cronies, we can say only that they have disappeared leaving no trace as to their whereabouts. Chas. E. Jenny, Fresno, California, says: "Count Lapp De Booz died in Montezuma, Mexico, two days ago. Attending surgeon pronounced the disease an entirely new one of aggravated character and intends to name it after the Count, Lapsus Vera."

Be that as it may, Joseph Beifeld says under date of June 6th, that he wishes merely to report that "the second run of requests was considerably over one thousand and that the letters are coming at the rate of from twelve to fifteen a day." Yes, and returns from the back woods sections are not all in yet.

Anyway, Frank E. Goodwin is speeding south as fast as a river steamer will take him but let not the critics think that his departure just as the second volume of his U. S. series appears is anything more than coincidental.

Because we have just seen the 3c. Panama, surcharged Canal Zone on grey paper and the new Nicaraguans surcharged centavos de cordofa; change in currency—gold basis—we are told.

While Geo. T. Edson of Stampster fame says that his letters and papers have been in such a muddle since the revolutionists got into them and scattered them all over the place. That is the way it is with us.

U. S. STAMPED ENVELOPES, 1853-1913.

By LOUIS G. BARRETT.

The subject of U. S. Stamped Envelopes is a familiar one to a large body of collectors; but there are many, perhaps beginners, who have been attracted by the various issues but have felt that it was a serious undertaking to form a collection of them.

The large total which has been issued by our government, when varieties of die, paper and watermark are taken into consideration by the collector of entireties, has probably kept many from starting a collection of these interesting issues.

It is hoped these condensed descriptions will assist in clearing up some of the dark places, and create a better general knowledge and appreciation of these issues which are the delight, and also the despair of the specialist.

A few of the terms commonly used in connection with entire stamped envelopes, are here given for the benefit of those unfamiliar with them:—

The word Size as applied to envelopes denotes the shape by which it is officially known and sold at the post-offices; on the schedule of the P. O. Department, these sizes are numbered from 1 to 14 inclusive. No. 1 is the smallest envelope issued, measuring only 2 1/2 by 5 1/4 inches, while No. 9 is the largest, measuring 4 3/4 by 10 3/4 inches. No. 5 (3 1/2 x 5-16 inches) is the commonest size used, followed closely by No. 13 (3 3/4 x 6 3/4 in.) and No. 3 (3 3/4 by 5 1/2 inches). Nos. 10 and 11 are of a nearly square shape, the former measuring 3 9-16 x 4 1/2 inches and the latter 4 1/4 by 5 1/4 inches. Nos. 7, 8 and 9 are the large, long sizes known as "Official" sizes. No. 6 is identical in dimensions with No. 5 but only comes ungummed on second quality white paper and Manila paper, both in 1 cent value. No. 12 refers to the wrappers.

In regard to Paper, the white and amber are first quality, costing a few cents more per 1000 than the blue and buff papers which are designated as second quality. All "sizes" do not come on both qualities of paper, so that it is useless to hunt for Sizes 1, 10 and 11, on anything but white paper for instance, or for Sizes 4, 8 and 9, on second quality papers.

The 1 cent value appears in Sizes 2 (W and A), Size 3 (W and A), Size 5 (W and A), Size 6 (W and MAN), size 8 (W and A), Size 11 (W only), Size 12 (wrapper), Size 13 (W, A, BL and BU).

The 2 cent comes in all sizes of the schedule except No. 6, but only appears on all four colors on Sizes 2, 3, 5, 7, 13 and 14.

The 4 cent value is found only on the three large sizes, Nos. 7, 8 and 9, and only on first quality papers, namely white and amber in each of these sizes. In former issues there was a 4 cent wrapper, but none is issued in the present series.

The 5 cent value appears only on two sizes, Nos. 3 and 5, on white and amber papers only.

There are three different kinds of stamped envelopes issued by the government, known as "Special Request," "Office Request" and "Plain." "Special Request" envelopes are issued to individuals or firms ordering 500 or more at a time, and bear the "return-card" in the upper left corner, containing a request to return to sender after a given number of days, printed by the department. "Office Request" envelopes are issued in the same manner, but bear a line or lines left blank, above the name of the postoffice selling them. These may be purchased in any number from a single copy upwards, at any post-office. "Plain" envelopes as their name indicates bear no printing whatever. The return-request is usually printed at the same time that the die is impressed but it will be noticed that in recent issues, the request has often been printed after the envelope was folded and gummed, shown by the type striking through to the back of the envelope. This was occasioned by the fact that the new contractors were swamped with orders for special request lots and could not print them fast enough in the regular way, but had to draw on their reserve stock of made up "plain" envelopes.

Precancelled Packet

In sorting my recent purchase of precancelled stamps, a lot of straight edge and slightly damaged copies were found. These include all values and no attention has been paid to them for minor varieties. These are all on the 1898 and 1909 issue of U. S., so none could possibly have been used in the last five years. No badly damaged copies counted. This packet is returnable, if found unsatisfactory.

Bombs and Bayonets

During the recent bombardment in this capital a shell burst in my home just after I had left. Soldiers entered and with bayonets pried open my locks and looted my belongings. But my valuable store of stamps were not taken. So I have decided to realize on them immediately, completely and for whatever they will bring.
These stamps are the gatherings of years of exchanging with various parts of the world, by purchases and by several lucky finds. No great rarities, to be sure, but a fine run of very desirable stamps. The common ones I will throw away, unless someone can use about 100,000 of them prepaid with a peso stamp or so and registered, for a $5 bill.
The others I will divide up into piles of from 500 to 2,000, and send a bunch registered for a dollar bill. This will be given ten or twenty for one, fairly divided, regardless of first comers. I am heavy on South and Central America, West Indies, Australia, Azores, East Indies, Japan, Balkans, Mexican revenues, Africans—in fact, I have something from everywhere. Name your preference. I want them all to go and to go before July 31. After that I'll have to burn the remainder and return remittances.

Entires, Pairs and Specialties

A $2 bill gets a fine bundle of original covers from many foreign countries. A $5 bill gets one of the loveliest packages of pairs, strips and blocks you ever saw. Whoever names it first can have my collection of entires with odd combinations, or registry labels, U. S. special perforations, precancels, permits or postal cards, especially added to his pile, value according to the amount of money he sends me.
Do not ask for selections. I am selling wholesale and can't afford to dicker on a deal like this. I expect over 100 answers right away, and some men will want a pretty large bunch, too. I collected as a hobby and I spent money liberally. And now everything goes into the jack-pot, with the peso values thrown in for good measure. My name as former editor of "The Stampster" now being successfully continued from Boston, guarantees my word.
I have never before advertised to sell a stamp and I shall not advertise again. If you want to get in on this chance of 20 years, just peel off a few greenbacks without saying a word and register them via New York. I've got the goods and if I don't give you from ten to twenty-five times your money's worth I'll go out in the hills here and join the revolutionists.

THE AERO MAIL CLUB.

The purpose of the Club is to further the interests of the Aero Mail cancellation enthusiasts, make researches of all the previous aerial mail services, promote its work by look-outs for the future trials, that sooner or later will be the only way for transmitting mail and keep its members in touch with one another and thus strengthen their interest by completing their collections. The Secretary should be notified of the coming meets, so that he in turn could serve the members, by supplying them with specimens direct from the field of action.

The following nominations for officers are made and if no objections are received within a month's time from date, they will be declared elected. Other nominations for various offices will be made when necessary: President, Russell L. Stultz; Vice-President, Arthur T. Browne; Secretary and Treasury, H. A. Truby.

Various names for this new comer have been suggested but the proposed one was chosen by the majority and duly accepted. The dues shall be fifty cents per year. All those who are interested and desirous of being identified with the Aero Mail Club, shall signify their intention by notifying the acting secretary.

THE APOTHEOSIS OF JIMMY O'.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

It was the early morning of an Arizona spring day, which is different from a day in spring elsewhere in the world. The air pulsed with heat. There was not a breath to raise even a grain of sand. Frevor Moore and I sat in the shadow of my tent-house at Willow, watching the trail which led across the divide to Lazy Bar ranch.

"In an hour or so you'll see a whirlwind up there, from which eventually will emerge Jimmy O', hitting the high spots in his burning haste to get to Phoenix," said Moore. "He will not be back until two months' pay—$90—has been duly added to the assets of the local bars, and the joys of poker have eaten up what he calls his hard-saved earnings. It's his last chance, for election is coming, and the county may go dry."

We watched the trail. It was as Moore predicted.

Jimmy O'—short for O'Callaghan—was Irish in name and in wit. The rest was pure American.

The horse was very tired, after the long ride, but Jimmy O', the lust of strife in his bearing, was chipper as usual with that somewhat cynical cowpuncher.

"I'll just hang my gun and scabbard here till I get back," began Jimmy, "and the cayuse I'll anchor till he rests a bit."

"Better leave him here till you come back," I suggested. "The train goes in a couple hours."

"Yes, Jimmy O', and it will get you there at least an hour before you can ride it," said Moore.

Jimmy looked dubiously at us.

"You'll get action that much sooner," cynically added Moore.

A slow grin spread over Jimmy's face.

"I need it, for I'm sure full o' the milk o' human kindness this lovely hot day," declared Jimmy, as he perilously slanted a chair against the side of the tent-house, sagged into it, and began his monologue as he rolled the inevitable cigarette.

"I knew a boy once who had a fine collection of tobacco tags—complete, too. He used to keep 'em on an album, made of boards, detachable—sort of a walking lumber-yard. When he stopped collecting he built a house o' the boards, I'm told, and gave the tags to a can factory."

Jimmy rolled another cigarette and then added, as afterthought: "Wrote a mon-e-graph on the collection, too. It won the prize, offered by the Tin Tag Association of the United States of America, Limited."

Jimmy grinned appreciatively at his humor. Moore and I were silent. Jimmy smoked in the calm of unruffled serenity.

The train bore Jimmy away duly. For three days Moore and I milled around town, now and then dragging out my old albums and swapping stories about "finds" we had experienced or read of. The morning of the fourth day we sat in front of the tent-house.

"It's a curious thing the way stamp collectors scent one another," declared Moore. "Reminds me of Willy Vauxhall, back East. Willy was a nice cheerful boy who, besides being an ardent collector of stamps, chiefly Confederate, had the reputation of making love to about a dozen girls at a time. 'Willy', his former school-teacher confided to me, 'Willy can scent a skirt farther than any boy I ever taught, and I've twenty years' experience.'"

"Which one will he marry?" I asked, interestedly.

"The school-teacher gave me a pitying look."

"He hasn't met her yet," she said. "When he does you'll get the announcement cards post-haste."

"And I did. Willy collected her inside six months."

"You see, old man," Willy explained after the honeymoon. "Betty had a fine collection of Confederate States. That's what brought us together. Of course—and then Willy drooled off into those rhapsodies we all know about."

Moore laughed joyously at the recollection.

"And now," he added, impressively, "there's a promising lot of young stamp collectors in the Vauxhall family."

The train arrived and departed. We watched it expectantly.

"Most time for Jimmy O' to get back, don't you think?" I ventured.

"Today," Moore answered.

The afternoon was excessively warm. We lay down for the usual siesta. A slow step awakened us both, and as we sat up, who should loom before us but Jimmy O'—sad of face and sore of feet.

Moore looked him over coldly.

"Nice walk you had?"

Jimmy nodded. Then he hit the olla frequently for ten minutes before his mood melted.

"When I left here four days ago," began Jimmy, impressively, "I had it all framed up for the usual time—a farewell, maybe. But I met an old cowpuncher from across the Gila—Johnny Williams, of Swastika K. Johnny and I were in Ad's place. Johnny had spent most all his money and he was sure some joyful at meeting up with an old friend who needed aid in relaxing a straining purse. While we were telling each other all our joys, in come a youngish chap—lunger, I thought—with a big book under his arm, all wrapped up. He talked with the bar-tender for awhile. Nothing doing in the literary line."

"Come on over an' have one with us," says Johnny, thinking the chap was thirsty. He came over to the table, set the book down with his hat on top, and said:

"Thank you. I won't drink. But—say—I'm sure lonesome and homesick and I want to know if either of you gentlemen has ever been in Michigan?"

Johnny grabbed his hand. "The Lord love ye, lad! I was raised there—born an' raised there—Ann Arbor."

"The lad was from a burg he called Lodi, near that town. And then they talked an' talked—names an' things that didn't mean anything to me."

"An' here we are," says Johnny, "fifteen hundred miles from it all!"

"With that the boy just lay his head down on the table. We felt it shake. Johnny looked at me, his face full o' grief an' pain. I passed him my belt—$87 left o' the $90 I set out with."

"From the old folks at home," says Johnny joyous-like, as he hung it around the lad's neck. Then we all drank ginger ale on the house. Me, too," and Jimmy O' sighed.

"Come to find out, the lad was dyin' of homesickness, not lungs. And say! He couldn't get to the train soon enough! Didn't even stop to rope his trunk!"

"It's a loan, Johnny—a loan, and it's saved my life!" He kept sayin' it over an' over—"saved my life—saved my life."

"Just before he got on the train he poked the book in Johnny's hands. 'Keep it—from me—it's all I got!' He couldn't say any more. Neither could we. Then he went into the car, and Johnny and I went back to the place whence all but him had fled."

"Here! You keep it—it's yours," says Johnny, and he made me take the Jimmy O' passed the book to Moore, went over to an empty hammock, stretched out, and promptly fell asleep. Moore unloosed the cord, disclosing a cloth-bound International. There was little in it besides old Germans. Then, like "stout Cortez" of the poem, but Balboa in fact, we

"Look'd at each other with a wild surmise—Silent, upon a peak in Darien."

The German States were not complete, but there was richness. Baden No. 1 was unused—a fine stamp, well-centered, and with large margins. The rest were used. Bavaria was complete, while Oldenburg claimed Nos. 4, 5, and 11, with others less rare. Thurn-Taxis, North German Postal District, and the Empire made fine showings—in fact, it was a notable lot of nice things.

Jimmy O' awoke just before sundown. "Next week," he began the monologue impressively, "is the election. Jimmy O' goes dry. He puts his money in other things. Stamps, fer instance."

Then he turned to me, with his usual slow grin.

EDITORIAL.

Still in Its Stride—The season is still on and even the conservative soul is rejoicing in the knowledge that the year will be one of wonders in a philatelic sense. We hear stories of sustained interest on the part of collectors who ordinarily relax their collecting efforts at this time of year; and from the dealers come tidings of business activity that open the eyes of those who have anticipated the annual lull. We repeat that while each year philately receives a stimulus that carries it a bit further into the dull season, the coming convention of the American Philatelic Society at Put-in-Bay and the great international stamp exhibition at New York must be credited this year with the acceleration of the philatelic pulse beyond the count that it has normally at this time.

Parcel Post Phases—The present postal administration is carrying forth the work of perfecting the parcel post system that the former one so ably created. The post still is receiving the close attention of the public and as its functions become the more familiar, the post is more firmly accepted by popular opinion as an economic factor. Business men in meeting and convention discuss the post and detail its advantages as well as any objections that may be encountered by them in the workings of the system. The charges against its practicability are greatly overshadowed by its admitted benefits but it has been noticed that on different occasions merchants and others have spoken of the inconvenience of having the special stamps. Large users of parcel post stamps receive many remittances for goods in ordinary stamps; and vice versa. Whether the department will be influenced by these complaints may be doubtful but collectors at least will make a mental note of the situation.

Postal Documents—We have been aware that there are a few collectors who for some years have interested themselves in publications that in no way are philatelic but which are devoted to the consideration of postal questions and problems. While these books, pamphlets and leaflets are technical and not philatelic, as has been said, yet there is much of value in them as commentary reading for the philatelist. The fact that there is a rather large number of these publications is somewhat surprising to anyone who has not come in contact with works of this character. The satisfaction of adding to a collection of the kind is peculiarly pleasant as it is only through unusual or accidental channels that the publications are to be had. One must rummage through many out-of-the-way places and follow clues that often are very vague in the hunt for treasure trove of the kind.

Hit or Miss—It is a subject of some concern that there is no fountain head where information about these postal documents may be secured. The hope that a collection of the publications under notice has been preserved somewhere, thereby making the task of an investigator an easy one is so extravagant that it must be dismissed as too tantalizing for discussion. It seems as if it is left to collectors to gather these scattered messengers of information as best they can; but they may know that by following all leads closely and persistently, the quest will sometimes end successfully. Of course, there are only a few collectors, speaking comparatively, who are appealed to irresistibly by these books and pamphlets; and it is well perhaps that the philatelist with the required cast of mind is the exception, as any pronounced demand for publications of the kind would soon clean out the supply.

Poor Pickings—At Washington, there is little to find that will help the investigator into the realms of postal pamphleteering. We have been told that the earliest postal document in the possession of the department is dated about 1810, as we remember; and up to the time of John Wanamaker's administration or 1890, little effort was made by the postoffice department to collect the postal records of the past. In his report for the year ending June 30th, 1889, Mr. Wanamaker said that the department wished to establish in Washington, "a Government Museum that shall, as far as possible, represent the progress of the postal system of the United States from its beginning, and at the same time shall contain everything that may be offered or can be collected in connection with the work of the service that is either of special interest or general historic value." Under the date of March 27th, 1890, Mr. Wanamaker sent a circular to postmasters and others, inviting contributions to the postal museum at Washington and among the objects specified in the circular as being desired particularly, were: "Copies of old editions of the postal laws and regulations, or other postal documents, books or essays on the postal service; old accounts in book form or in sheets; old letters, circulars, blanks, maps, commissions, old newspapers and advertisements relating to postal business, or other papers of a postal character, either in print or in writing." Needless to say, specimens of the local stamps and of envelopes with "paid" stamp of postmaster, "used to prepay postage before the national issue of postage stamps began in 1847" were objects of especial solicitude. Just how effective the circular proved, we cannot say but it is reasonable to believe that it met with some response. The Congressional Library has some of the books and pamphlets of the description given but the representation is not a commensurate one. The department of documents can give little assistance, even though its intentions are very good.

Wanted—Books, pamphlets, leaflets and announcements pertaining to the postal service in all its ramifications are what are wanted by our collector and the publications may be dated before or after the introduction of postage stamps. There are a few books on the postoffice department and associated interests but the pamphlets by no means were few and far between. Many of the pamphlets were political in their nature and soon sank beneath the surface. There was a time when the postoffice department was a succulent bone of contention among the politicians; and many a blast and counter-blast were sounded in print and as a rule these pamphlets did not rise to the dignity of an entry into the Library at Congress. Other pamphlets were earnest advocates of reforms or of proposed plans for improved service or other constructive work. Let an example be cited of the "uplifting" pamphlet in "Postal Reform: Its Urgent Necessity and Practicability," by Pliny Miles, 1855. From "To The Reader," we quote: " * * * The work is eminently practical, shows the imperfections and abuses of our mail system with an unsparring hand, and points out the remedies to be employed * * * The citizens of our large cities suffer the greatest inconvenience from our irregular and imperfect postal arrangements; and the evils pointed out and the suggestions made, apply with peculiar force to New York City." This pamphlet of over one hundred pages was sold for twenty-five cents a copy but at reduced figures in quantities; and it is replete with information the perusal of which would help create the proper "atmosphere" for the remarks of a stamp historian in dealing with the issues of this time.

OUR REVIEW.

Number Two of Linn's Philatelic Handbooks, "The 1847 Issue of United States Stamps," by Frank E. Goodwin has reached us and is regarded admirably. While the first handbook with its details of the manufacture of our stamps enjoyed a field almost unworked, the present volume cannot claim that distinction. With characteristic directness, Mr. Goodwin tells his story and while he handles the accepted doctrine rather roughly at times, he has the courage of his convictions. One cannot write anything really new about the 1847 issue but Mr. Goodwin brings together the accepted information and throws in some ideas that are somewhat revolutionary, but nevertheless tenable in Mr. Goodwin's opinion. No traditions are sacred to Mr. Goodwin and we wish him success in his undertaking to give the old and the new in a plain and positive way. We must not forget to say that the "shift" and the differences between the originals and the 1875 imitations are illustrated. The little book is well-dressed typographically and is a good thing to buy.

Our knowledge of Italian is negligible but we can say that "Note sui Francobolli del Governo Provvisorio de Parma," by that great and good Italian philatelist, Emilio Diena, is an authoritative treatise on the Parma provisionals. Three full page illustrations of the stamps are a graphic testimonial of the thoroughness with which Dr. Diena has studied the stamps. The book of

AEROPLANE CANCELLATIONS.

By ARTHUR T. BROWNE, B. P. S., 543.

Santa Rosa, Cal.

California still continues to bring forth aeroplane cancellations. Evidently the bird-men are quite busy in that state. Through the kindness of Edmund A. Ricksecker of San Francisco, I have secured a copy of another aeroplane cancellation and considerable information regarding the aero mail service. The meet was held at the old race track in Santa Rosa, the county seat of Sonoma County, 51 miles north of San Francisco. The meet was to have been held Saturday, May 17, but it poured rain and accordingly the meet was held on the next day, Sunday, May 18. Thad Kerns, an eighteen year old aviator, was the aerial mail carrier.
Kerns carried mail from the grounds to a spot near the main postoffice, a distance of about three miles. A waiting automobile picked up the sack. Mr.
Ricksecker writes me that the aero mail service was poorly patronized, comparatively little mail being received for transmission. Kerns made but one trip. A second sack of mail was stamped but not carried by the aviator.
The aeroplane cancellation consisted of a double circular postmark in purple ink. At the top were the words "Aero-plane Mail Service." In the center was the following arrangement:

Santa Rosa, Cal.

1913

At the bottom were the words "Aviation Field Sub-Station."

Corpus Christi, Texas.

Leslie A. Boone, of Corpus Christi, Tex., writes of mail carrying by a hydro-aeroplane at Corpus Christi, on March 29. Aviator De Remer, of the Mills Aviation School of Chicago, accompanied by Official Carrier W. G.
Blake, started out Saturday morning, March 29. Everything went nicely for several miles until one of the propeller blades snapped and the flight had to be abandoned. Official permission had been given for mail carrying between Corpus Christi and Aransas, Texas, a distance of twenty-two miles. Besides carrying a considerable quantity of mail, the sack contained part of an immense cabbage which had to be cut to conform to the Parcel Post regulations. This was being sent to the Commercial Club of Port Aransas by W. G. Blake, secretary of the Commercial Club of Corpus Christi. No special aeroplane cancellation was provided for the flight. Mr.
Boone sends a cover for inspection on which is written in pen "By Hydro Route."

Eureka, Cal.

At New Era Park (Humboldt Bay), Eureka, Cal., April 21 and 22, 1912, mail was carried by aviator Weldon B.
Cooke for a distance of two miles.
Cooke started from the park and winged his way across the bay to the Eureka side. The mail sack was dropped from a height of 600 feet. The sack was picked up by a carrier from the Eureka postoffice. Through the kindness of B.
W. Coggeshall, president of the Cogge-shall Lunch company, lessees of the New Era Park, I obtained the above information.

Providence, Ky.

Russell L. Stultz of New Market, Va., informs me that mail was carried at this place, July 22-27, 1912, by aviator Horace Kearny who was later killed.
Mail was carried by aeroplane from the Fair Grounds to the main postoffice.
Official authorization of the service was given and the route was designated as
No. 629,001.

Boonville, Ind.

At the Boonville, Ind., Fair Grounds from August 26 to 31, 1912, an aviation meet was held at which aviator Horace Kearny carried mail from a special
The exact date I am unable to obtain.
Kearny carried mail from a special postoffice on the grounds to the postoffice, a distance of a quarter of a mile.

The sack of mail was dropped and picked up by a deputy postmaster and taken to the main postoffice for distribution.

Help Wanted.

Can any reader of the WEEKLY help me out with letters or postal cards from Eureka, Cal., Boonville, Ind., or Providence, Ky., bearing the special aero cancellations? Postmasters at these places have refused to answer several letters I have written them, hence I lack both cancellations and information regarding the use of same.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers.
Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from A. A. Leve, Geo. W. Schaefer
(2), Henry McConnell, L. H. Wardwell, W. E. Marsh.

—A Detroit subscriber calls our attention to the fact that we have permitted an advertiser to give the catalog price of Japan 5y and 10y at $3.50, when $2.00 is the correct catalog quotation. The writer claims that great care should be exercised to use corrected prices when such have been announced, and moreover that the catalog should be named where Scott's prices are not used.
We feel this criticism is a just one.

—The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. promises the new catalog for delivery in October. This is just the opportune time for this publication to appear and dealers and collectors generally will look forward to the firm's making good with its promise.

—We have received from Dr. R. F.
DeSart for examination two specimens of the 2c Canal Zone, one showing a variety in the letter "I" not unlike that recorded some two weeks ago, while on the second specimen the letter "C" bears a strong resemblance to a "G".

UNITED STATES CHECK LIST

This is a publication (made to fit the pocket) of every possible combination of U. S. stamps that have been issued from Jan. 1, 1901 to date. It lists under the main stamp all varieties of Spacing -- Coils -- Imperfs -- Blued Papers and is absolutely indispensable to a live collector of U. S. When one stops to consider that a 4c blued paper issued in 1909 sells for $150.00, that a 3c Coil issued in 1909 sells for $25.00 and that many stamps costing Cents are selling for Dollars isn't it about time to get a really authentic, absolutely correct list? There is no money in producing these lists—the only benefit we get is by orders from it and the planting of the Gibbons' name in so many philatelic dens. The big men here in New York all rush for our lists, whenever published, because they are produced by Experts who know what they are doing. Isn't it wiser therefore to Spend a few Cents and find out just what has slipped past you? Don't let anyone pin a philatelic rose on you, be wide awake—be up-to-date—buy the best and stick to it.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

Chicago, Ill., (1157.) 3c 1910, upper a hair line.

George H. Sleeper sends a 2c envelope stamp of the current so badly printed as to present an oval of nearly solid color, both front and back.

M. L. Fuller submits a current 2c envelope, which shows a break in the left "2" separating the ball entirely from the rest of the figure. Mr. Fuller says this ran constant through a bunch of 25 envelopes.

John J. Spencer sends us a copy of the current 5c parcel post stamp, which shows a plainly marked colorless line under the "T" of "Post" and over the top of the right column. This is not at all common, as Mr. Spencer found only three among 500 used stamps. Some unused copies with this dash came from Detroit. Probably this occurred on all the stamps of a certain sheet, as Mr. Spencer has found stamps from sides and corners with the same dash.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelist says that only the 20sh value of the Kangaroo series remains to be issued.

BRAZIL.—Hermann Focke has shown us a used specimen of the new 1000r stamp, as announced in No. 1171. The design is entirely changed, and the head of Liberty has been replaced by a portrait of the late Baron of Rio Branco, the stamp being issued on March 20, the anniversary of his birth. Baron Rio Branco was greatly beloved in Brazil. After having served his country in many important positions, he became Minister of Foreign Affairs, an office which he held under two successive Presidents, and at the time of his death. He was the son of the late Viscount Rio Branco, who as Minister of the Empire, was instrumental in having adopted, under date of September 28, 1871 the law providing for the emancipation of the slaves. The design of the new stamp much resembles the current Chilean stamps, and apparently was printed by the American Bank Note Co. The portrait of Rio Branco is printed in a large oval, with "Brazil" above and "Correos" below, both in curved lines, with a star at either side and conventional ornaments above and below. The name appears just under the portrait, the value being a straight line at the bottom, thus: "1$000". We have also been shown unused copies of this stamp by Whitfield King & Co. and the New England Stamp Co.

L'Echo states that a new set of official stamps will shortly be issued in various colors, with portrait of Marshal Hermes de Fonseca, President of the Republic. The values will be from 10 reis to 1,000$000 reis, of "Conto de reis," as the higher figure is called. This would indicate that the 10r value is to be restored to the list from which it was displaced by the decree of 1909. For a long time the official stamps, with portrait of Affonso Penna, were not sold to the public in unused condition, though were to be had cancelled to order. It is now stated that they can be obtained without obliteration, in accordance with a new order of the Administration. The Penna stamps are still current, and it is not known whether the new stamps will also be sold unused, or whether the recent move was prompted solely by a desire to use up a large stock of the old stamps.

Adhesive.

1$000 green.

BRITISH GUIANA.—Two new values are listed by Maurys Collectionneur in the new King George series.

Adhesives.

2c carmine.

12c orange and lilac.

COLOMBIA.—Split provisionals seem to be quite common down in Colombia, Frank C. Davis having shown us covers franked with two 2c and a diagonal half of both the Arango and National prints, and another with a diagonal half of a 10c stamp.

GERMANY.—Offices in the Levant.—The Deutsche Briefmarken Zeitung chronicles the issue of the 15pi on 3m violet and black, on paper watermarked lozenges.

HONDURAS.—Hermann Focke sends us another provisional from Honduras, the 10c blue of 1911, steamer type, having been surcharged "5 cts." in black.

Provisional Adhesive.

"5 cts." on 10c blue.

MEXICO.—We are indebted to H. R. Howard for specimens of the local postage stamps issued by the state of Sonora, Mexico, presumably owing to a shortage of regular postage stamps. There are three values, as shown us by Mr. Howard, all being the same with the exception of the value. The stamps are type set and measure 31 by 25 mm. They have a plain rule border, the inscriptions reading, "Correos—Estado Libre y Soberano de—Sonora.—Decreto de 13 de—Marzo de 1913." The figure of value is printed in a plain black circle, just below the word "Sonora," while the value in words appears at the sides, reading up on the left and reading down on the right. "Correos" and the value in figures and words are printed in red all the rest of the stamp being in black. The stamps are rouletted in colorless lines, and are printed five stamps at a time, ten stamps on a sheet, the sheet being reversed for the second printing, bringing the stamps foot to foot, but with a wide space between the rouletting. The paper is plain white wove. Mr. Howard shows us a complete sheet of the two cent value, which shows the middle stamp with quite a different figure "2." The other values do not have this error. The sheet also shows a wrong font "C" in the word "Centavos" at the right. There are no watermarks in any of the stamps submitted, but all are embossed with the word "Constitutional" printed from the back and reading downward across each stamp. When the stamps are separated, the whole of the word does not appear on the stamps, being lost on the margin of the sheet.

NICARAGUA.—We are indebted to several parties, and especially to Hermann Focke, George H. Sleeper and A. W. Dunning for specimens of the new surcharges on the current stamps of Nicaragua. Mr. Focke informs us that this surcharge is due to the fact that on May 1, 1913, Nicaragua adopted the gold standard, so to speak, for its postal affairs similar to the system adopted by Colombia, Costa Rica, and Panama, the new monetary unit being called "Cordoba" for the "Peso" and "Centavo de Codoba" for the old-fashioned "Centavo." Of course the country was not able to have the new postage stamps in this currency ready in time, so they had to fall back once more into the sin of surcharging. As there are not less than three sets of stamps in the old currency which will be pressed into service, there will be no lack of varieties. These three sets are the Liberty set in various colors for Nicaragua proper; the same all in blue for official use, and the locomotive set for the Atlantic Coast. The surcharge consists of four lines of type reading, "VALE—un cent.—de cordoba—1913." Thus far we have seen the following values:

Provisional Adhesives.

"medio centavo" on 1p orange.
On regular postage stamps.
"un centavo" on 4c brown violet.
"dos centavos" on 2p dark blue green.
"tres centavos" on 6c olive bistre.
On Locomotive stamps.
"cinco centavos" on 35c brown and black.
"cinco centavos" on 50c olive green.

Mr. Focke calls attention to a mistake made in listing the provisional

C. H. HOLDEN AN ADVERTISER.

We introduce this week for the patronage of our readers a Detroit dealer, by name C. H. Holden, who will take space in each issue of the WEEKLY. Mr. Holden is an old-time Canadian dealer and his name will no doubt be familiar to some of our older subscribers. We quote the following from a recent letter, which is of more than passing interest:—

"Have been interested in stamps for years and might say that I was the first to inaugurate monthly auction sales in 1892 which I conducted several years. I enclose catalogue dated 1892. Might say, incidentally, that the New Brunswick 'Connell' stamp shown therein sold at that time for $100. Sold during those sales hundreds of the pence issues of Canada and came into possession of several thousand of the early issues of Canada found in the old Gore bank at Toronto, among them being a strip of 5 New Brunswick 1sh, perhaps the only strip of the kind in existence."

C. O. D. ON PARCEL POST.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Parcel post packages may be sent collect after July 1 according to an order issued by Postmaster-General A. S. Burleson yesterday. After that date any parcel post package may be sent C. O. D. up to the amount of $100. A fee of 10 cents will be charged the sender for the C. O. D. privilege on each package. It will be 10 cents in parcel post stamps affixed by the sender. This fee will also insure the package to the amount of $50 liability.

THE POSTAGE STAMP IN HISTORY.

Clipping by P. B. ADRIAN.

A postage stamp which played a part in history is told about by M. Bunau-Varilla in his new book on the Panama Canal. The incident occurred when the discussion over the relative merits of the Panama and the Nicaragua routes was at its height. Bunau-Varilla had been working vigorously for the Panama route, making use of the two arguments of less cost and immunity from active volcanoes. One day he recalled that Nicaragua had issued a handsome stamp, showing a volcano in full activity. He at once sent to the dealers in foreign stamps in Washington, and obtained ninety of these stamps, which he forwarded to the ninety Senators, along with bits of paper bearing the words: "Postage stamps of the republic of Nicaragua: an official witness of the volcanic activity of Nicaragua." The catastrophe at St. Pierre took place about this time, to deepen the impression of volcanic danger, and the Panama route was adopted by the narrow margin of four votes.—N. Y. Evening Post.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE. Bavaria.

THE POSTAGE DUE STAMPS.

The first postage due stamps for Bavaria were set up from ordinary printer's type; the next issue was printed from plates made by the stereo-type process from "dies" set from type; and since 1876 stamps of the Arms type, printed in grey or greenish-grey, have been overprinted for this purpose. All are distinguished by the peculiar inscription "Vom Empfänger Zahlbar", meaning "To be paid by the recipient", which is quite different from that found on the postage due stamps of any other country. The first "set" consisted of but one value—3 kreuzer—and the issue of this was announced by means of an Official Notice dated September 22nd, 1862. This decree is of considerable interest, as it explains in detail the method of using the stamps, so we append a translation supplied to Gibbons Stamp Weekly by Dr. Erich Stenger:

Re the introduction of Postage Due stamps for Unfranked Local Correspondence.

IN THE NAME OF HIS MAJESTY THE KING OF BAVARIA!

On the 1st October of the current year the present system of marking by hand the amount of duty to be paid by the addressee on unfranked local correspondence will cease, and instead special Tax tokens (Postage Due stamps) will come into use, which must be affixed to the letter and which alone give a right to demand a tax on delivery.

1. All letters to be considered as local correspondence which either:—

(a) are to be delivered in the town of the distributing office itself, or in the Rural post district belonging thereto, or

(b) are dispatched from a place in the Rural post district to the post town itself, or to another place in the said Rural post district.

2. The stamps to be used for such unfranked correspondence, instead of marking the amount in writing, bear the value 3kr (the single duty for delivery in the Local or Rural post district), printed in black, on white paper, with a red silk thread running through it sideways.

For correspondence which exceeds the weight payable by a single Tax Stamp, as many Postage Due stamps must be used to make up the amount which pays for that weight according to the tariff.

3. In the case of letters posted in the post town the Postage Due stamps shall be affixed by the distributing officer, in the case of letters handed to the postman in the Rural post district for delivery, by the postman; in all cases on the side bearing the address, after the manner of postage stamps. Omission to use the stamps not only gives every recipient of local correspondence the right to refuse the demand for payment, but will also be followed by commensurate penal proceedings against the distributing officer or postman concerned.

4. The Postage Due stamps will be issued to the post offices from the Royal District Treasury in sheets of ninety stamps, and the same regulations hold good for their issue and use as in the case of postage stamps.

5. For other unpaid correspondence which, not being part of the local deliveries, has to be dispatched from the distributing office to another post office, the method of marking the amount of tax by hand remains unaltered.

MUNICH, September 22nd, 1862.

GENERAL DIREKTION

DER K. VERKEHRS ANSTALTEN.

It will thus be seen from the foregoing notice that the stamps were purely for local use and this system has remained practically unaltered to the present day. The stamps were printed in black on white paper, and were issued imperforate. The design is simple in the extreme. In the centre is a large numeral "3" and in the rectangular frame around this we find "Bayer. Posttaxe" (Bavarian Post Tax), at the top; "Vom Empfänger Zahlbar", at the bottom; and "3 kreuzer" reading upwards at the left, and downwards at the right. All the inscriptions are in Gothic lettering. As we have already stated the design was set up from ordinary printer's type, the sheet consisting of ninety stamps arranged in two panes of forty-five each (five horizontal rows of nine), placed one above the other. A space equal to about half the height of a stamp divides the panes and between the vertical rows lengths of printers' rule are inserted. The paper was the silk-thread variety used for the contemporary postage stamps but in these labels it is horizontal instead of vertical as in the postal issues. This is due to the different arrangement of the stamps the vertical rows of the Postage Dues occupying about the same area as the horizontal rows of the ordinary stamps.

Naturally, as the plate for this 3kr stamp was set from type minor varieties abound. The only one of particular importance occurs on the fourth stamp of the second row of the upper pane. On this the final "r" of "Empfänger" is omitted. This, as the catalogue quotations indicate, is an exceedingly scarce variety. Those of our readers who wish to study this issue more deeply cannot do better than refer to the excellent article in Gibbons Stamp Weekly (Vol. XI, pages 492 and 588) by Dr. Erich Stenger.

THE COLLECTING OF BLOCKS.

By HERMAN W. BOERS.

Few who are collecting realize the scarcity of blocks of early U. S. issues. Many no doubt are thinking they are easy to get anytime. Let me give you my experience.

Last fall I wanted the issue of 1869, 1c, 2c, 3c denominations. I wrote to a number of dealers, but without success; then I started out stronger even after good collectors—but nothing doing. One collector sent me a block of four 1869—3c proof and told me to have it perforated. I couldn't see it that way, and returned it with thanks.

I was at it over four months and no success. I finally landed a block of 2c from a prominent Eastern dealer and paid him $2.00 for it and glad to get it. With one lonely specimen on a big page I started out for the 1c and 3c.

I sent an advertisement to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY which appeared on February 22. Here I lived in hopes thinking that a paper like this with over 7,000 readers circulating amongst the very best collectors might supply me with what I wanted. I got just five replies.

The first one came from Ohio a strip of four used, badly centered and I could not use it. Second one from Missouri a collector had a block of four used for which he wanted 75 cents, but I had this. Third one came from California. This party sent a strip of four 3c fine copies for which I paid $2.00—lucky to get it. Fourth one came from a small place in New York state. A dealer sent me a block of 1c for which I paid $2.00. Fifth party wanted to exchange with me but I was too far advanced for him.

There is my experience six months getting two stamps that most anyone would think would be easy to get. It goes to show that blocks are in demand, and the fellow who got in the game early is money ahead.

Unused Blocks of U.S.

Recently I advertised a number of blocks of U. S. stamps. The demand was so spontaneous that a number of denominations were all sold out. Seeing the desire of collectors to secure blocks while they can be had at reasonable price, I have determined to throw a number of blocks on the market, instead of holding them for the advance as I had contemplated. Therefore I offer:

1890 50c orange, block 4..... $3.25
1902 8c black violet, block 4..... .50
10c red brown, block 4..... .60
13c purple black, block 4..... .75
50c orange, block 4..... 2.50
1908 1c green, perf. block 4..... .15
13c blue green, block 4..... .75
13c darker shade, block 4..... 1.00

IMPERFORATE.
1908 2c carmine, block 4..... .15
Same, line between..... .30
3c deep purple, block 4..... .25
Same, line between..... .35
Same, imprint and plate No. (6)..... .50
4c yellow brown, block 4..... .35

THE CONDOMINIUM STAMPS OF THE NEW HEBRIDES.

By D. B. ARMSTRONG.

On April 1st, 1908, the Resident Commissioners of Great Britain and France, appointed under the Convention of October 20th, 1906, entered upon their duties and the work of organizing the public services of the Condominium was commenced forthwith. A Condominium Post Office was duly inaugurated on Oct. 1st, the Postmaster being Mons. G. Roy, who was detached for service from the Noumea post office. Subsequently the Postal, Telegraph, and Telephone services were amalgamated and the office of Postmaster combined with that of Treasurer.

In the interim between the ratification of the Treaty on December 2nd, 1907, and the establishment of the Condominium Post Office, the postal service of the group is said to have been maintained by travelling postmasters on board the steamers of the Burns, Philip Line and the s.s. "Pacificque" of the Messageries Maritimes, voyaging between Port Vila and Sydney and Noumea respectively.

Special postage stamps were provided for the use of the newly established Condominium Post Office, in accordance with the terms of the Convention, as set forth in the subjoined official notification.

New Hebrides. No. 2 of 1908

NOTICE

concerning the issue and prohibition of stamps for franking correspondence in the New Hebrides.

The High Commissioner of France for the New Hebrides.

The High Commissioner of His Britannic Majesty for the New Hebrides.

In view of the Convention of October 20th, 1906, and particularly the conditions of Arts. 4 and 5.

In view of the verbal notice under date of October 20th, 1908, announcing the receipt and custody by the Chief of the New Hebrides Post Office, of the surcharged stamps placed at the disposal of the Condominium by the British Government.

Considering that it is desirable, to ensure the maintenance of the postal service, to put these stamps in circulation without awaiting the receipt of the others which are to be supplied under the same conditions by the French Government.

Considering that it is desirable on this occasion to determine the nature of the stamps to be employed in franking correspondence posted in the New Hebrides group, and to take the necessary steps to protect the postal monopoly of the Condominium.

Decree as follows:

The use of the stamps of New Caledonia and New South Wales is suspended.

Art. I. On and after the first day of December, 1908, the postage stamps of New Caledonia and New South Wales respectively shall cease to be affixed to letters, etc., transmitted to places in and beyond the New Hebrides through the Condominium Post Office, and postage on such letters, etc., shall be prepaid only by affixing the issues of Fiji and New Caledonia surcharged with the inscription "Nouvelles Hebrides" or "New Hebrides Condominium" or by such other stamps as the Resident Commissioner may from time to time by notification direct.

Art. II. On and after the first day of December, 1908, all letters, etc., transmitted through the Condominium Post Office to places in and beyond the group bearing issues other than those directed by the Resident Commissioners shall be considered as unpaid and postage of double the deficiency shall be payable, and such surcharge shall be marked on the article at the office of origin.

Art. III. All monies received from the sale of Condominium postage stamps shall be credited to the funds of the joint administration.

Art. IV. The stamps of the Colony of Fiji imprinted with the words "New Hebrides Condominium" will be put in circulation on and from the date of this notice and may be employed concurrently with those of New Caledonia and New South Wales, the sale and use of which is authorized until December 1st, 1908, in accordance with article I. of the present notice.

Art. V. The Chief of the New Hebrides Post Office is charged with the execution of the present decree, which shall be displayed in the offices of the two Resident Commissioners and communicated to all whom it may concern.

Port Vila, October 29th, 1908.

For the High Commissioner of H. B. M. for the New Hebrides.

(Signed) M. KING.

For the High Commissioner of the French Republic for the New Hebrides.

(Signed) CH. NOUFLARD.

Imp. L. BERGASSE, Noumea.

In accordance with this proclamation a supply of the then current Fijian postage stamps overprinted "New Hebrides Condominium," which had been furnished by the High Commissioner of the Western Pacific, and had arrived at Port Vila, per H. M. S. "Prometheus," on October 12th, was placed on sale and used concurrently with the ordinary stamps of New Caledonia pending the receipt of a French series similarly overprinted.

The overprint was applied in two

It was apparently intended that these two series of stamps should be used respectively for franking correspondence conveyed by the French or British steamship lines as the case might be, but this procedure does not seem to have been very strictly adhered to, and both series appear to have been used indiscriminately, letters being known franked with both French and British stamps.

The same may be said of the postmarks of which the Condominium Post Office was provided with two, the one for cancelling the French series being inscribed "Port Vila-Nilles. Hebrides," and the other lettered in English, for use in oblitterating the British stamps, "Vila-New Hebrides" but these are likewise employed without regard to the nationality of the stamps to be cancelled, whichever is nearest at hand, and British stamps are found with the British postmark and vice-versa.

At the end of each month the total amount received from the sale of Condominium postage stamps of both series is made up by the Condominium postmaster, half being credited to the British and half to the French administration.

For correspondence conveyed by the British service the regular Australian internal postal rate (now reduced to 1d) is in force whilst letters for New Caledonia, France and the French Colonies are subject to a uniform rate of ten centimes. On the other hand letters from Great Britain and France consigned to the New Hebrides are charged at the rate of 2½d and 25 centimes respectively, transit occupying from two to three months.

When the postage stamps were first issued the New Hebrides were not included in the Universal Postal Union, but they have throughout been recognised by the officials of the Berne Bureau and accepted in prepayment of

A VALUABLE PRICED CATALOGUE

The priced catalogue of our 55th auction held May 22nd, 23rd and 24th is a very valuable addition to philatelic literature. 2101 lots were sold including 242 lots unpriced in Scott's catalogue. There were 61 lots which brought over catalogue prices. The total catalogue value of the lots sold was $20,496.47 and the amount brought was $9,089.20, or 44.24% of the total. Eliminating defective stamps and a few "heavy" countries, we would have an average of over 50% realized on the stamps sold.

This auction sale represents more nearly the market value of stamps than any sale held for some time, as over 200 bidders by mail were in competition with from 25 to 40 people in attendance, representing probably an additional 25 bidders unable to be present in person, a total of 250 bidders. Priced catalogues may be had at $1.50, or the Edition de Luxe, printed on heavy paper at $2.00 each. This catalogue should be in the hands of every student of philatelic values.

international postal charges, the British and French diplomatic representatives in Berne having given an undertaking to the Postal Union authorities that the provisional issues would, as soon as possible, be replaced by a definite issue for the Condominium.

THE CONJOINT SERIES OF 1910.

The attention of the French authorities having been drawn to the fact that the omission of the word "Condominium" from the overprint on the New Caledonian stamps tended to convey an erroneous impression that the Islands were a dependency of that Colony, this omission was rectified in 1910 by the addition of that word to all the overprinted New Caledonian stamps on hand in Paris. The total number to receive this additional overprint was as follows:—

5c,	42,000.
10c,	84,000.
25c,	96,000.
50c,	42,000.
1fr,	10,250.

These were issued from the Agence Comptable des Timbres-poste Coloniaux, on March 16th, 1910, but supplies did not reach Port Vila until late in July, and then comprised only the 5c, 10c and 1 franc denominations, of which the following numbers were received:—

5c,	12,000.
10c,	24,000.
1fr,	2,000.

They were placed on sale at the Condominium Post Office about September, 1910.

Summary.

1910. Three values of contemporary New Caledonian postage stamps (series 1905), overprinted "Nouvelles Hebrides" in Roman capitals in black or red, additionally overprinted "Condominium" in the same type. Typographed, printed, and overprinted at the Administration des Postes, Paris, in complete sheets of 150 from electrotype plates at two operations. Medium wave unwatermarked paper, white and tinted. Perf. 14x13½.

5 centimes, yellow-green (black overprint).
10 centimes, rose-red (black overprint).
1 franc, blue on green (red overprint).

As might be expected the relative position of the word "Condominium" in regard to the remainder of the overprint shows considerable variation, both in the space between it and the word

"Hebrides" of the original overprint and also in its centre in respect of that word, but such varieties are not of sufficient importance to warrant their being formally listed here.

The 25c and 50c values sold in Paris with the additional Condominium overprint cannot be considered as genuine New Hebrides postage stamps, since they were never sold at the Condominium Post Office, and they must therefore be relegated to the category of "Stamps prepared for use, but not issued."

Meanwhile owing to a shortage of stamps in Fiji a requisition for a further supply overprinted for use in the New Hebrides was referred to the printers in London, to be filled from a fresh printing of current Fijian postage stamps then being made in colours conforming to the Crown Agents' colour scheme.

The overprint of the words "New Hebrides Condominium" was applied by the printers in two lines as before, but in slightly smaller and heavier type, and without the colour bar over the name tablet, apparently from an electrotype plate designed to overprint an entire sheet at a single operation.

A consignment of these stamps comprising 25,000 of each denomination was dispatched from London via Fiji on September 28th, 1910, and the stamps were issued at Port Vila on December 15th of that year.

Summary.

1910. December 15th. Seven values of contemporary Fijian postage stamps in new colours, overprinted "New Hebrides Condominium" in two lines of small thick sans-serif capitals in black or red from an electrotype plate at one operation. Typographed, printed and overprinted by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. in London in sheets of 120, two panes of sixty, ten rows of six, on medium white wove paper watermarked Multiple Crown CA, perf. 14. Name and value in second colour. Values above 2½d on chalk-surfaced paper.

¼d green.
1d carmine.
2d grey.
2½d blue.
5d violet and olive.
6d purple.
1s black on green (red overprint).

In November, 1910, Mons. G. Roy was succeeded as Condominium Postmaster and Treasurer by M. Deschamps.

EDITORIAL.

True—Often there are news items in the papers telling of the delivery of letters years after they had been mailed. Usually, it is to some mischance of the postoffice department that the delay is to be attributed but recently, there was an account of a letter that had lain undelivered for over fifty years, in the Pottsville, Pa., Republican; and on this occasion, the omission is not to be charged to the postoffice. In view of the historical side of the story and the fact that the circumstances as related are known to us to be authentic, we shall try to make space elsewhere in our columns for it.

Who Has a Copy?—A short time ago, the Regan Printing House, of Chicago, published an entertaining reminiscent sketch in handsome dress, the Story of Chicago, In Connection with the Printing Business. In the appendix which contains a compilation of publications that have been issued from Chicago, we find: "Western Postal Record, 1868-1881: a monthly devoted to postal interests. J. S. Elwell was editor and the Western Record Printing Co., were publishers, 1872-1874. P. C. Russell was editor and publisher, 1875-1881." We had not heard heretofore of this journal, which of course was not of a philatelic character, although its columns certainly would be interesting to philatelists to-day. Probably, the publication addressed itself to those in the postal service and was the prototype of papers of the present, such as the Postmasters' Advocate. The chance that any of our readers can furnish further particulars of the Western Postal Record is a remote one but we are hopeful that we shall uncover a copy of this paper some time in the future.

A Postal Tale—Though philatelic fiction by no means is without friends, yet it long has been a target for the shafts of an irreconcilable section of philately. In looking over a copy of

EUGENE KLEIN, Inc., Empire Bldg., 13th & Walnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

Every Saturday, Boston, for December 18th, 1869, attention was arrested by the story, Lost in the Post Office, by Hesba Stretton, reprinted from Routledge's Annual. At first, it was thought that the tale could qualify as philatelic fiction but really the story is postal fiction. There is a good description of postoffice usage of the times incidentally to the story; and the writer seems to believe that a "public office was a private snap," according to the following revelation: "In the course of a few years my father appointed me his head clerk, upon the promotion of the previous clerk to an office of his own; and our united salaries then amounted to four hundred pounds a year, besides the numerous perquisites which at that time of day fell to the share of the postmaster, such as private letter-bags, and the postage upon local letters. We had two under-clerks, and the duties were light; very different from what they have since become, as I am told. The penny postage had only just come in; postage stamps were still an institution of the future, and money-orders had been a recognized branch of the establishment no more than two years. Only four years before the stamp duties on newspapers had been 3/4 pence apiece, and the wildest Whig had not yet dreamed of a penny newspaper. There were hours in our post-office when our two subordinates were more than sufficient for all the work of the place, and my father's post was little else than a sinecure." All this was in England before the days of stamps.

The Browne Report—In the report of J. Ross Browne on the mineral resources of the states and territories west of the Rocky Mountains, submitted under date of March 5th, 1865, and ordered printed by congress on the same day, there is data of value to the collector of western franks particularly. Mr. Browne was engaged in collecting material for his report for several years or more and among the topics, it was considered advisable to give special attention to, were: "Communication with the mines and principal towns, postal and telegraphic lines; stage routes; cost of travel; probable benefits likely to result from construction of Pacific railroad and its proposed branches." The report is a voluminous one of nearly seven hundred pages.

Brazil in 1876—At the Philadelphia centennial exhibition in 1876, the Empire of Brazil, as it was then, made an extensive exhibit and Emperor Dom Pedro was an honored guest at the opening celebration. In a pamphlet issued from Rio Janeiro in 1876, intended for consultation in connection with the Brazilian displays, there is a description of the postal workings of that country that affords a comprehensive idea of the subject. The general administrative offices were centered in Rio de Janeiro, with ramifications throughout the country, by means of special administrations in the capitals of the provinces, and of agencies in the cities, in many of the towns and in some important districts. The "marine and fluvial mail service" was performed by companies which received concessions from the government and by six English; four French and one Italian company that carried the transatlantic mails from Rio de Janeiro to European and other points. In the five years from 1869 to 1874, the postal receipts increased twenty per cent.

An Explanation—A reader asks for information about an envelope bearing "a U. S. sanitary commission embellishment and the following text: North-western Fair of the Sanitary Commission and Soldiers' Home, to open May 30th, 1865, Chicago, Illinois;" and a two cent black Jackson, postmarked in 1865 after the close of the war. The second sanitary fair held in Chicago was planned some time before the close of the war and when Lee surrendered, the work of preparation was not abandoned. Instead, greater efforts were made to insure the success of the undertaking and counteract the diminution of a time of interest on the part of the public following the proclamation of peace. The fair in question was a financial and social success and its features long were a theme for conservation and recollection on the part of the older inhabitants. This Chicago fair was the last one that was held.

Cancellations—Dr. Chase's plan for systematizing the study of United States cancellations is attracting attention and his proposal is generally commended as affording a working basis in the consideration of a somewhat complicated subject. Not a few inquiries have been received asking us to account for the significance of unusual cancellations on the earlier varieties of United States and it is to be said that in each case, the marking fell under one of the classifications of the twenty-two that were in Dr. Chase's compilation. There is a cancellation form that is of private origin and is of no interest to the philatelist that has been seen on a stamp in addition to the regulation postal marking. In the sixties, some of the large firms began to use circular "receipt" stamps, showing the time of the arrival of the mail and though the impression usually was applied to the clean part of the envelope, it has been known to overlap the stamp in a few instances.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

"In your issue of June 7 under heading 'Commonwealth of Australia', R. J. Hogg gives some items concerning the new issue, stating among other things: 'The 9d we have only heard of as being used in Victoria and in Tasmania no issue has been made.' Permit me to say that the 1d was used in Tasmania freely during January and February as I have had many bearing dates of each month, and that the 3d, 4d, and 9d were sold in Hobart certainly by the first week in April if not before, all three being sent me in a letter mailed April 11th with the comment that they had been recently bought at the Hobart office."—AMY L. SWIFT.

—It is suggested that a block of four of the corner stamps of panes of U. S. making a block perforated all around and imperforate between, would make a nice centerpiece for a page of plate number strips. We are indebted to Edw. W. Bridge for the suggestion.

—At the last writing, no further values in the Cayman Ids. King George type had been placed on sale. The George stamps now stand as follows:—1/4d, 1/2d, 1d, 2d, 4d, 6d, 2s, and 3s. All the old Edward, P. & R. stamps are still in stock, except the 1/4d value."—HARRY E. HUBER.

trouble engraving an absolutely accurate plate. When it comes to printing I would say that of 50 gauges made from same plate on paper or cardboard there would be no two exactly alike or true. An absolutely accurate perforation scale would have to be on a non-warping or non-shrinking material. Only thing I know of is ivory. A nice thing of this nature is easily worth $1.50 of any serious collector's money. I enclose a sketch on a one inch basis that I just made to see if the thing would work. Though this is far from accurate it demonstrates the fact that it can be done."—GEO. A. HUNT.

FIFTY-TWO YEARS AGO.

A soldier's letter mailed 52 years ago, May 30, 1861, on the very date selected after the war as Soldier's Memorial Day, arrived in Pottsville, today, Saturday, June 14, 1913, which by a second coincidence is Flag Day, and another notable feature of the letter is that the envelope also contained a piece of the shirt worn by Col. E. E. Ellsworth when he was shot down while lowering a Confederate flag at the Marshall House, Alexandria, Virginia, across the river from Fort Washington, where Henry C. Russell, the soldier who wrote the letter, and a comrade of the First Defenders was stationed with his command at the time of the shooting and when he wrote the letter to his father, the late "Andrew Russell, Esq., Pottsville, Penna.," per the directions on the envelope.

This soldier's letter mailed more than half a century ago was in the U. S. mail that arrived Saturday morning and was delivered to Mrs. Priscilla K. Russell, widow of the dead soldier, the late Henry C. Russell, a prominent resident of Pottsville in his day, at their home "The Pines", Howard Ave., and Ninth St., and Mrs. Russell after submitting the letter to a sister of her husband, Mrs. Anna R. Little, kindly gave her consent to the publication of the letter. Mrs. Little also having no objection, and to these good ladies the readers of the Republican are indebted for the pleasure of perusing this interesting missive.

To fully understand the situation the explanatory letter contained in the accompanying soldier's letter should first be read; it follows:

"Pottstown, Penna., June 14, 1913.
"My dear Mrs. Russell—Enclosed please find a letter, written by your husband, to his father during the civil war. I found it among my brother, M. E. Richard's papers. He also was a veteran of the Civil War. The letter still was sealed. I suppose it was given him to mail and was forgotten.

"It affords me much pleasure to send this letter to you; it contains a small piece of Col. Ellsworth's shirt secured after he was killed at Alexandria, Va., defending the Flag. Just think! Written 50 years ago.

"I know you will value it, as I would do under the same circumstances. I procured your address from Mrs. Hunt, who is a friend and a life long resident of Pottsville. I thought she would know the old families.

Yours, Miss Annie E. Richards.
"To Mrs. H. C. Russell."

Following is the letter written to his father, by Henry C. Russell, First Defender:

"Fort Washington, Maryland,
May 30, 1861.

"My dear Pa.—I received your letter of the 25th inst., a few days ago and was very glad to know some one 'still lives' in Pottsville. Letters are beginning to be 'few and far between'. Two large mails came down today, but no letter for me. Matt Richards came down on the boat, bringing those books that Mr. Little sent to me, and a large quantity of provisions for the 'boys', which had collected at Washington during the past two weeks. He will return with the first up-boat, and I will send this by him.

"Tomorrow is general inspection day and the men are all cleaning up guns, belts, quarters, &c. Although we have not the best clothing and accoutrements in the world, our men make a first rate display. As evidence of their neatness and soldierly appearance, the Orderly to the Officer of the Day has been, in every instance since our arrival, here, selected from our Company. We have not yet been divided, nor commissioned.

"During the past week we have been attending drill schools under Lieutenant Reynolds, U. S. A. At times when we drill he has said, 'Sergeant, let me see you do that again,' and he likes our style of 'stacking arms'.

"Sam, (the writer's brother), will be the Orderly Sergeant of our Co. after the division is completed.

"Enclosed is a piece of Col. Ellsworth's shirt, stained with his own heart's blood. Sergeant W. McQuade, who was on the boat when his body was carried on board, got a large piece of it and gave me this. His clothing and that secession flag were torn into shreds, by his men, as souvenirs. Keep it safely for me. We are all well.

"Next week we got to work at erecting a battery behind the Fort. Work, work, work, is the order of the day.

"Give my love to all the family, and to all friends. Sam sends his love to you all. Capt. Smith has not yet received your communication.

"Good-bye. God bless you all.

"Yr. aff. son, HENRY C. RUSSELL."

"Excuse haste."

This typical soldier's letter seems like a voice from the dead and is worthy of a place in the archives of this county. Inquiry elicited the fact that Abe Seiders, a veteran letter carrier, had the honor of delivering this historic letter. —Pottsville, (Pa.) Republican.

KEEP A-BOOSTIN'.

Boost and the world boosts with you,
Knock and you're on the shelf;
For the world gets sick of one who kicks
And wishes he'd kick himself.

We plead guilty to many failures in recognizing the boosting of our friends but the fact is that we have been so busy that this department has been neglected. We want to say right here that the best evidence of boosting is discernible in the healthy condition of our advertising columns - and this the last of June! Do not forget that we are out after 8000 paid subscribers and we want your name on the roll as helping out. Be a booster! More anon.

GIBBONS

We beg to announce July 1, 1913, a new Edition (Brown Covers) of our well known check list of the stamps of issued Jan. 1, 1901 to July 1, 1913.

Great Britain and Her Colonies

This edition includes also a check list for the same period of the stamps of Portugal and Her Colonies

The edition has been necessary because the new Gibbons' Catalogue for British Colonials (to appear July 1, Price 90 cents, post free) has jumped the prices of modern Colonials way up in the skies. The price of the new check list is

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

The price of the Gibbons' Circular is

TWELVE CENTS

This Circular is guaranteed to be free from dry rot, to be at least six pages 6 x 9 inches, and full of news. Ask the fellow who gets it.

CABLES "PECKITT LONDON"

RECENT PURCHASE.

A magnificent General Collection of British, British Colonial and Foreign stamps, containing many specialised countries and groups.

GREAT BRITAIN (used). The finest collection of these stamps extant. As is well known, used English are exceptionally difficult to get in really fine condition, especially of late years, as the market has been practically exhausted, anything at all fine meeting immediate sale. This collection has been formed over many years and contains a range of specially picked specimens that could not be duplicated irrespective of price.

GREAT BRITAIN (unused). A smaller but fine specialised lot. 5sh anchor on blue and on white paper in superb condition. Corner blocks with plate numbers attached, including 1d black. The 1d plate numbers in blocks of four, including No. 225 etc., etc.

VICTORIA. A nice lot of the early issues in very fine used condition, among which are several blocks and strips of the early stamps. 8d orange of 1860, a magnificent specimen of the very deepest shade. 5sh blue on yellow, three mint copies. 5sh blue and red in various shades, etc., thirty mint copies.

The above, or selections therefrom, will be sent on approval.

Dealer in Rare Stamps AND "New Issues at 10% Over Face" THE POPULAR NEW ISSUE.

POPULAR. Because the outlay necessary for a representative Collection can be limited to such a very small sum, ranging from the low average expenditure of a few shillings per month.

INTERESTING. Changes of colour, perforation, and watermark, as well as the actual New Issues of the Colonies, Provisionals, and the like, provide frequent variety.

ECONOMICAL. A supply at 10% over actual face value, which is not a very extravagant premium to ensure an efficient supply.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldredge lists the following new precancels:

Minneapolis, Minn.—(No. 1160.) 5c, 15c, 1913, Parcel Post. The person who sent these in forgot to sign his name, so proper credit cannot be given, he also sent in a list of other Minneapolis Precancels, but as only stamps where copies are submitted are chronicled, no mention is made of them.

Dallas, Tex.—(DALLAS-TEXAS.) Two lines between bars from 1½ to 2 mm. thick, and 15 mm. apart. Very large capital letters with serif's. 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c, and 25c 1913, Parcel Post. Specimens submitted by Howard Crannell.

Covington, Ky.—Two lines (COVINGTON-KENTUCKY.) in very fine sans serif capitals between lines 8 mm. apart, and ¼ mm. thick.

Appleton Thayer shows us a copy of the Reading Express stamp, value 5c, the printing being in black on a background of yellow made up from the familiar "Reading" diamond repeated. There are evidently 5c, 10c and 15c values.

Lambert H. McQuestion submits specimens of the 2c Columbian stamp showing a distinct cap over the right "2" like the 2c of 1890.

GERMAN EMPIRE.—A new card for the Breslan Celebration has been shown us by Mr. Schachne. The advertisement is in light brown and at the left bottom of the card.

Post Card.

WITH THE TRADE.

The United Stamp Company has issued a price-list of one hundred pages that compels attention. Forty of the well-printed pages are assigned to the issues of the United States whose complexities are solved by the liberal use of illustrations. The cuts of the postmasters' stamps, for example, are clean and clear; and the type and die differences in the general issues are plainly shown. Several innovations for the convenience of the collector are embodied in the book, which though priced at twenty-five cents at retail will be sent to such of our readers who request it, upon receipt of a two cent stamp for postage.

IMPROVED GREAT GOLCONDA

Inimitable Packet of 1,000 CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICAN Postage Stamps, the "Ne Plus Ultra" of packets, absolutely beyond competition.

Contains 750 varieties of stamps all different, the greater portion of which are legitimately postally cancelled, and balance are in Mint condition; and are from Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica in Central America and from Chile, Peru, Venezuela, Ecuador, Bolivia, Uruguay, Paraguay, and Portuguese India in South America.

The catalogue values ranging from $5.00 down to the lower values, per stamp, according to Scott's 1913 catalog.

The varieties cover a large selection of Salvador, Nicaragua, Paraguay

And other surcharged stamps, as well as Commemorative and Jubilee issues, not omitting the later issues of the named countries to some extent.

Notably, Honduras provisionals 1913, surcharged on 1911 issue,

2 centavos, black on 1c violet
5 cts. black, on 1c violet
6 cts. black, on 1c violet

these stamps are not yet catalogued; also, among other stamps catalogued at $1, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 and $5.00 each, Nicaragua Nos. 402, 403, 404, 558, 559, 560, 838, 839, 840, 841, some of which are included in every packet. Nearly all are in Mint condition.

Price Now is $15 per Packet postpaid, registered, cash with order and subject to advance. This packet is guaranteed to catalogue over $100 according to Scott's 1913.

Condition is very good, stamps having been carefully gone over, and all damage and imperfections detected, have been eliminated.

TESTIMONIALS

What some buyers think of Great Golconda:—

NEW YORK CITY, June 27, 1913.

My dear Mr. Cormack:

I have been unusually busy or should have written sooner regarding the "Great Golconda." It is certainly a wonderful packet, the best I ever saw for the money. Any collector can afford to buy it, take out what stamps he wants for his own collection and sell the balance. He can get more money for the remainder than he paid for the entire packet.

The stamps were clean postally used specimens, no Seebecks, and a large proportion of 20th Century. My packet contained 1003 stamps, 703 varieties and catalogued $79.80. It did not contain stamps from the less desirable countries. None from Argentina, Brazil or Colombia. On the contrary the desirable countries were largely represented. Of Nicaragua 103 varieties, quite a respectable collection. From Paraguay, 93, Ecuador, 85, cataloging high—Salvador, 61, Uruguay, Chile and Peru 53 each. These countries were the most largely represented.

I have a collection of about 5,000 varieties, and I have specialized in S. and C. A. for several years, but I obtained from this packet 142 stamps that I did not have, cataloging $24.62, and I have nearly 850 stamps left to sell or exchange. I consider that I did very well indeed. I have bought a great many stamps, in packets and otherwise, but consider the "Great Golconda" the best I ever bought.

I hope you will sell a great many of the "Great Golconda" packets. They are certainly deserving of a big sale. With best wishes, I remain,

Yours very truly,
W. F. DAVIS.

T. S. BACON, 18 Eagle St., Schenectady, N. Y.—"Your packet arrived yesterday, and as far as I have been able to find out in the short time I have had, it is an immense value for the money."

Geo. B. KINKRAD, Salina, Kansas, says: "It is the greatest bargain I have had in a very long time."

Mrs. LOUISE KELLOGG, West Hartford, Ct.—"Packet received. It is more than described. It is a Great Golconda in the fullest sense, please send me 2 more packets."

HARRY MURPHY, Penn. R. R. Frt. Station, Camden, N. J.—"Your packet was duly received and it was quite a surprise as to contents. I am very well pleased with same. I secured about 172 varieties for my own collection, and have a good lot left for my approval trade."

PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY,

PERCIVAL PARRISH, PRESIDENT

1204 CHESTNUT STREET

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The 5c Garfield.

The EIGHTH issue, 1879 to 1883 presented the same series of designs as formerly, but were on paper watermarked with No. 2 and the addition of a five-pointed star scattered at intervals over the sheet. This is known as watermark No. 5. It was during this issue that the 5c Taylor in blue was superceded by the 5c Garfield in brown. It also presented 15 and 30c values, which were not included in the seventh issue, printed from the Plimpton dies of 1874.

In 1882 the paper was again changed for that bearing the former monogram No. 2 and the additional numerals 82 in place of the star, forming the watermark known as No. 6.

WMK. No. 6.

WMK. No. 5 similar having star in place of "82."

Letter Rate Reduced.

The NINTH issue, from October, 1883, to October 1886, still printed by Plimpton & Morgan, started in to make things interesting for collectors by presenting a series of dies and re-touches in the first year of its existence that has only been surpassed in the now obsolete issue of 1893. To begin with, a new die for the two cent value was engraved, for the single letter rate had just been reduced from three cents to two cents, and the old Plimpton two cent die, first printed in brown and then in red, had seen long usage and was much worn.

The new die showed a much taller oval than had been previously used, bore a profile bust of Washington facing to the left, and had the numerals of value at the sides in small slim ovals. It was printed in red on paper watermarked with No. 6 and sometimes with No. 5 in error, some of these latter being of considerable scarcity, notably Size 1 on white, Size 2 on amber, Size 3 on fawn, Size 4½ on white, Size 7 on fawn, and the wrapper.

TASMANIAN UNLISTED AND NON-EXISTENT VARIETIES.

By REV. H. T. HULL.

The Commonwealth stamp having arrived, and the distinctive series of the six Australian States being now practically obsolete, renders it possible to make a complete list of all known varieties of these latter stamps.

Notwithstanding the admirable character of Messrs. Stanley Gibbons' Catalogue, probably the standard work for most Australian philatelists, it has the defect of certain errors, omissions, and peculiar inconsistencies. These might be remedied, as far as Australia is concerned, and also the listing and pricing of non-existent varieties, if the publishers would deign to take notice of suggestions that our oldest and worthiest philatelists might perhaps be persuaded to make at this juncture.

Without claiming to belong to that class, I venture to set the ball rolling with the following criticism of the section of the catalogue relating to Tasmania:—

No. 16, 1d brick red, imperf., and No. 41, the same pin-perf., are listed correctly, but the one rouletted about 8, is omitted, and should appear as No. 32a, 1d brick red, roulet.

The 1d, 3d, and 9d of the issue of 1871-9 are listed imperforate; why not also the ½d and 1d of the issue 1880-9? These should appear as No. 158a, ½d orange, imperf., and 158b, 1d dull rosine, imperf.

The 9d of 1896 is well known in a distinct indigo colour, and should be listed at 109a, 9d indigo.

MATCH AND MEDICINE
16 good lots in Wolsieffer's 130th sale July 19th next.

The two very distinct shades (lake and rose-red) of the Pictorial 6d, Nos. 228 and 244, have as much right of recognition as the shades of the 2d and 4d, and should appear under both perforations as 228a and 244a, 6d rose-red.

The 1d Pictorial, wmk. Crown A sideways, perf. 11, is listed as No. 266, but the same, perf. 12½, is omitted, and should appear as 266a, and the 2d, Nos. 223 and 239, with wmk. sideways, should be listed for the sake of consistency.

The 1d exists imperforate, and should be placed as 266b.

No. 271 is also found with horizontal wmk., and should appear as 272a, 4d pale buff, wmk. sideways. (Or all these varieties of position of watermark should disappear altogether.) On the other hand, No. 260a, ½d, perf. 11x12, and No. 264, 6d, perf. 11x12, should be omitted as non-existent varieties.

Since the publication of the last catalogue, the following varieties have been issued, and complete the distinctively Tasmanian stamps:—

274, 4d ochre, perf. 12½x11.

275, 6d rose-red, perf. 12½x11.

1912.

276, 1d on 2d bright violet, perf. 12½, 11, 12½x11.

Printed on thin paper.

1912-13.

277, 1d rose-red, perf. 12½, 11.

278, 3d dull brown, perf. 12½ (1912).

There may be many other points which will suggest themselves to authorities on the stamps of Tasmania; the above arise out of my limited experience.—Australian Philatelist.

EDITORIAL.

Was it Really Issued?—A reader has brought the subject of the 1908 part perforated 12, in coil, three cent purple, to our attention with a wish to know whether vertically and horizontally perforated pairs, respectively, that he has in his possession are necessarily not genuine. The Philatelic Journal of America quotes Mr. Luff as saying that he did not possess nor had he ever seen the three cent, 1908, part perforated either way with the regular governmental 12 perforation. It is granted that the stamp in question may be had, perforated 12½ horizontally, as a sort of private perforation or as Mr. Luff calls it "counterfeit perforations." In check lists of the part perforates, the three cent, 1908, perforated 12 vertically and horizontally, respectively, usually is listed with a note to the effect that the existence of the stamp is questioned and that copies have never been seen by the compilers. Altogether, it seems that the evidence is greatly against the authenticity of the three cent, 1908, with the governmental perforation 12, lengthwise or sideways but we wish to interpose a word to ask that judgment on the stamp be suspended temporarily. We cannot speak with authority at this moment on the character of these part perforates but we have been promised some information about them from Chicago and Washington. We may say in passing that when the 1908 part perforates in coils, four, five and ten cents were on sale in Chicago, a clerk who obligingly would sell strips to collectors of his acquaintance mentioned that some of the three cent denomination had been received on order but were not available for sale to collectors. This is hearsay evidence of no value in itself, we know, but it may fit in with data that we are hopeful of obtaining. We want to know whether the part perforates in question were governmentally issued.

Hospital Stamps—From Mr. J. Rausch, San Francisco, we have received a sheet of ten stamps of "The Wm. McKinley Memorial Hospital League," the labels showing a picture of the proposed hospital in red flanked with a picture of William McKinley in black. The stamps are sold in books of one hundred, we believe, and are bought by persons interested in the promotion of the charity, for use on the reverse side of their letters.

Testimony—In the issue of the WEEKLY of June 14th, Mr. Edwin B. Hill told of his fruitless quest for the 10c brown, postage due, Monaco, 1909 issue, a stamp that is priced only nominally in the catalogues. Concerning this stamp, one of our authorities writes: "Only one printing of thirty thousand of the 10c, postage due, was issued or made in error in the colour of the current French stamp of the same value, in 1908. When these stamps were used up, the 10c, postage due, was issued again in its proper colour but in bright rose. The first printing of this stamp in 1905 was in rose red, a very different colour and this is quite as good a stamp as the 10c brown, as but one printing of 30,000 were made."

* * *

Not In Nottingham—Mr. Cedric Bonnell of Nottingham, England, is kind enough to correct a mistake that was made in our issue of May 31st, in the following courteous words: "In your issue of May 31st, there occurs a rather curiously evolved mistake in the leaderette on the big 'British £1 Stamps' police case, the prosecutor not being 'of Nottingham,' as there stated. Bow street, where the charge was heard, is, of course, one of London's most famous police courts; and the other place names indicated are all of them Metropolitan and non-Nottinghamese. The fact that the case was given such prominence and display in the Nottingham Evening News may probably have led you to make the little error. London not being specifically mentioned in the report." In the interests of accuracy, we rectify the error, for the making of which we must blame ourselves and not the compositor this time.

* * *

Gone But Not Forgotten—We are much surprised at the volume of inquiry and the insistence of the protests concerning the absence of Count De-Booz and his cronies from our columns. One reader says that he will discontinue his subscription if the distinguished gentlemen do not make their reappearance soon but as another more or less esteemed reader says that he will discontinue his if they do, the balance is maintained. A watchful reader writes: "A correspondent says that Count De-Booz died in Mexico of a disease to be known henceforth as 'lapsus verae.' This is cruel and unusual punishment; and you know better. Run down your 'verum.' All right, lapsus veri. Let all inquiring readers understand that exercising their prerogatives of genius, the motley crew aforesaid, refusing to accept the trammels of conventionality, have silently stolen away; and we do not know where they are."

The Coming Convention—Members of the American Philatelic Society have received the blank ballots and proxy forms for use at the annual meeting of our national philatelic body. According to the call of President Cornwall, the meeting "will be convened at Put-in-Bay, Ohio, on Tuesday, August 19th, 1918, at ten o'clock A. M., and upon succeeding days until all business shall have been disposed of. The convention headquarters and place of meeting will be at Hotel Commodore, Put-in-Bay, Ohio." The only nominations for office that have been made are those of Chicago Branch One and it is not likely that there will be any opposition to this ticket headed by General C. A. Coolidge. The committees on credentials and arrangements have been appointed and assurances are not lacking that there will be a large attendance at the convention; and it is promised that the social diversions of the convention will be of distinctive and enjoyable character.

The Weather Did It—A reader the wheels of whose mental machinery developed hot boxes writes from the retreat where he is cooling off, as follows: "I have read your valuable paper since, etc. Several times during, etc. This is it:—A man takes a letter weighing exactly one ounce to the P. O.; the clerk weighs the letter and it gets by. A stamp is then affixed and heavily canceled, making the letter overweight. Is the receiver liable for postage due when the letter is delivered? And if so, can he recover from the sender? You see, the sender might have used a stamped envelope and so saved the extra expense to the receiver. The excess postage amounts to charging postage on the stamp that pays postage. Is that right? What if two cents weighed an ounce each! It would take a four cent stamp for every letter mailed. Even if I as receiver am legally liable, am I morally responsible? I don't think so myself. Tu Tin Lung, Ward XIII, Second Floor. (Top floor vacant)." (1) Yes and no. (2) No and yes. (3) Apply at night before retiring.

THE KALAMAZOO STAMP CLUB.

A stamp club has been formed in Kalamazoo, Mich., with Judge George P. Hopkins temporary president and Dr. A. W. Bruce, temporary secretary. The society will meet every first and third Tuesday in each month.

The Kalamazoo society will become affiliated with the American Philatelic society in the fall. Members of the society who are not now members of the A. P. S. are requested to turn in their applications to Secretary Bruce at once for national membership.

Plans are now being made by the Kazoo society to secure all of the stamps which come in the old packages at the paper mills. These will be used by the members and the duplicates will be exchanged.

Charter members of the Kalamazoo society are Judge George P. Hopkins, Dr. Arthur Bruce, Dr. Edward Bernstein, Charles H. Garrett, Frank Barnes, Dr. Tompkins, Gordan Herring, George Longwell, Bates Clark, Clinton L. Chalfant. Several new members will be enrolled at the next meeting which will be held in the offices of Dr. Bruce.

A. P. S. PROXIES.

The editor of the WEEKLY, Mr. Severn, will attend the convention of the A. P. S. at Put-in-Bay and will be pleased to be the bearer of any proxies submitted. Any instructions upon proposed legislation may be entered upon the reverse side of the proxy.

The managing editor will not attend. It is his intention to be in Cleveland the week of Sept. 1 and he is unable to be away from the office long enough to cover both of the events that are in hand.

Any collector can brighten up his collection with this lot. Finest value for 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 CENT NET APPROVALS ever offered. Stamps cat. up to 50c each. If you are contemplating entering the stamp business—here is the "best buy" possible.

BUT ONE OF MANY

H. F. Otley, a dealer in stamps and Vice Pres. of the local society at Rochester, N. Y. writes:—"Having carefully examined the First Quality Dealer's Mixture, No. 2 of 7,500 stamps, I want to give you my honest opinion of it. To fail to write you in appreciation of the quality and value of this lot would indeed be negligence. I found more value than I expected. This lot enabled me to not only replace many smudgy cancellations and otherwise damaged stamps, but to add something like 200 to my collection putting me over the 10,000 all different mark. I am convinced that this lot has no equal for less than double your price as it contains salable stamps only while 'dealer's stocks' offered by others contain much trash and many questionable stamps."

NO MORE PARCEL POST STAMPS.

Present Set to be Discontinued but Balance on Hand to be Used.

Following closely upon the announcement that a new set of parcel post stamps was to be issued comes the statement that the use of all parcel post stamps is to be discontinued.

Postmaster General Burleson June 26 signed an order making the distinctive parcel post stamps valid for postage on all classes of mail on and after July 1, 1913.

By the same order the ordinary postage stamps, including commemorative issues, are made valid for postage, and for insurance and collect-on-delivery fees on fourth-class mail.

The regular issues of due stamps and distinctive parcel post due stamps will be valid for the payment of short-paid postage on all classes of mail matter. When the stock of parcel post stamps and parcel post due stamps on hand is exhausted, no additional supply will be printed.

The distinctive parcel post stamp has proved exceedingly annoying to the public, resulting in much confusion, as this particular issue of stamps could only be used on the one class of mail matter. This special stamp was intended only for the purpose of determining accurately the extent of the revenue derived from this particular class of mail. As sufficient information has been obtained on that point, Postmaster General Burleson believes that the public should be relieved of any further confusion that might be caused by the restricted use of these special stamps.

PRESENTATION TO MR. DOEBLIN.

By J. C. MILLER.

On Tuesday June 17th, the Twin City Philatelic Society of Pittsburgh celebrated their 25th anniversary by holding a banquet. This affair was attended by about 25 members and a few guests. The banquet was one of the best if not the best ever held by the T. C. P. S. The Secretary presented each person present with the Souvenir Stamp of the Society the 5c of 1888. The affair of the evening was the presentation of a silver loving cup to the toastmaster and only charter member, Eugene Doebelin. The presentation address was made by Adam Daum who certainly did justice to the occasion. Mr. Doebelin was taken by surprise and for several minutes was unable to speak but after several minutes he gained control of his feelings enough to arise and make the statement, "I can't say anything; I thank you" and sat down again. After the applause had died down he called the waiters and had the cup filled with wine and passed the cup from one person to another around the board in the good old German style. This cup was presented by the members in honor of Mr. Doebelin's 70th birthday which he celebrated last September as well as the birthday of the T. C. P. S.

MR. CORMACK'S "GOLCONDA."

Four weeks ago Mr. Cormack, the well-known Port Ewen dealer, advertised a packet of great merit and the responses to this advertisement were very gratifying. In a letter just at hand he expresses his appreciation of the WEEKLY as an advertising medium. In fact, he shows this appreciation in a very tangible manner by enclosing copy for the new advertisement on page 3 this week, and this advertisement we submit for the consideration of our readers.

There is probably no dealer in the country who can furnish the great variety of Central and South American stamps that Mr. Cormack is able to, and the wonderful variety advertised in the amplified "Golconda" will surely attract attention. Ordinarily we have a hesitancy in endorsing packets, but this particular one we can give an unqualified word of approval.

COLOR STANDARDS AND NOMENCLATURE.

By A. N. CAUDELL.

Attention of philatelists should be called to a most important work recently published on colors. This is the "Color Standards and Nomenclature" by Robert Ridgway, of the U. S. National Museum. This book is fully reviewed in "Science" for June 27, 1913. It contains many plates in which 1,115 different colors and shades are shown, every one of which is named. Schemes for intermediate shade designation are given, making the total of named shades and colors possible of determination and designation the goodly number of 4,460. The author of this monumental work is an ornithologist of note and the work is intended primarily for use in Zoology but it may well be applied in Philately or any other field in which color and color nomenclature is a feature.

SO. AUSTRALIAN 1895, 1d GREEN.

A correspondent asks us how to tell the difference between the South Australian 1d green stamp of 1895 and the one catalogued in Gibbons under date 1897 as "re-drawn, lettering slightly thicker." In Scott's catalogue we find the following note regarding the latter variety: "We regard the so-called re-engraved 1d stamps with thicker lettering (said to have been issued in 1897) as being merely impressions from a new or cleaned plate." The latter statement of the case is substantially accurate, for there is no real difference between the two stamps. There was certainly no re-engraving or re-drawing of the die. A new plate, numbered "2" in the margins, was brought into use in 1897 and the Gibbons' re-drawn stamps are simply early impressions from this new plate. Later impressions cannot be distinguished from those of plate 1 (used for the 1895 and earlier printings). The variety is, therefore, of no philatelic importance whatsoever.—Philatelic Opinion.

EXHIBITION

Clients have instructed us to pick up our corporate skirts and hustle about a bit. We hustle herewith. We want U. S. stamps as follows:

BLOCKS

everything from 4 to 40 of every U. S. stamp from 1847 to the end of 1879.

Plate No. Strips

Practically anything up to the end of 1873. Bottoms preferred. Kindly submit.

Used On Covers

Anything 1847 to 1870.

Used Off the Covers

1847 pairs or larger. 1851 all even fine singles, especially the 1c blue with design uncut on any side. 1855 the one Cent fine copies, especially with red cancellation.

CARRIERS

These, on covers, we are heavy buyers of. Especially wanted are Honour's of Charlestown. No limit to the demand only we must have "New York Standard" viz.: Very fine condition. New Yorks, on or off covers are much sought after just now.

Dues, Departments, Newspapers

We have no use at all for these and no offers are solicited at this time.

Three Cent 1851

Used or unused. Pairs, strips and blocks badly wanted, Blocks of 1861 1c Blue also, and also any really fine unused blocks of any issue.

REMEMBER

That the publishers of this paper claim a circulation of 7000 and we believe it. Now if all you 7000 readers were to send us Twelve Cents, not a very ruinous sum, you would receive each month for a year Gibbons' Circular, the paper that tells you what to buy and when to buy it. What New York's big philatelists are doing. What Gibbons is doing. Isn't that worth Twelve Cents? If it isn't then we suppose you don't care—and don't care never made a philatelic bargain and don't care never got in at the bottom and out at the top. Get wise and join the happy throng of readers. Sit right down and send us

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays. Room 322, Tremont Bldg., 7.30 P. M.

BOSTON, MASS., June 21, 1913.

The 294th (regular) meeting was held at the club room this evening, with Pres. Nevin in the Chair and 27 members and friends present.

The following was presented:—
Library Report for June, 1913.

There has been received since the last report by purchase:—"Stamps for Beginners" by Armstrong and Dalwitz; by donation:—"Morgenthau's 58, 59, 60, 61, 62 and 63 Sales and Linn's Philatelic Handbooks, Nos. 1 and 2, by Goodwin, from New England Stamp Co.; 97 odd numbers magazines, 19 unpriced auction catalogs and 22 price lists from A. W. Dunning; Bartel's Catalog U. S. Envelopes, 1897, copy of Philatelic World, Apr. 15, 1903, 1 unpriced auction catalog, folder "Table of U. S. Postal Statistics, 1774-1883," other miscellaneous papers and a collection of counterfeits which have been turned over to the proper committees, from H. F. King; and the current numbers of the following magazines generously contributed by the publishers:—Gibbons Monthly, Mekeel's Weekly, Stamp Journal, Postage Stamp, Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, Scott Stamp and Coin Co.'s Circular, Philatelic Gazette, Roessler's Stamp News, Collectors' Journal, New England Stamp Monthly, British Guiana Philatelic Journal and New Yorker Briefmarken Journal.

The following applications were presented:—Messrs. Richard C. Story, Linville H. Wardwell, Alan N. Stein.

The following members were elected:—No. 578, B. A. Oppenheimer; No. 579, Charles Dane; No. 580, A. C. Needham; No. 581, Frank Clark Crosby; No. 582, H. E. Blanchard.

Mr. Carpenter exhibited a sample in silver-gilt of the medal to be awarded at the International Philatelic Exhibition in New York, and it was much admired.

A number of counterfeits for the collection were presented by A. W. Dunning.

Mr. Carpenter proposed the following amendment to the Constitution: That in Art. VII, Sec. 2, the word "five" be changed to "four."

The Supt. of Bourse suggested that members who had had sheets in the Bourse for over six months should ask to have them retired.

The entertainment was the exhibition of the 20th Century British Colonial collection belonging to Mr. Alex P. Brown. This collection has the 5 shilling stamps as its limit, but particular attention has been given to condition and it is safe to say that a finer lot of stamps as a whole has never been shown at one of our meetings, every copy being practically perfect and the collection being nearly complete. It was, indeed, a treat for all who examined it.

The meeting adjourned at 9.15 p. m. C. A. HOWES, Sec.

NEW SHADE IN 10c PANAMA-PACIFIC.

We announced June 7 that a new 10c was to be issued. The following clipping will be of interest:—

Collectors have continually thought that with the four stamps issued early this year the set would be complete, but recently a new surprise has been sprung on us. Frequent regrets have been expressed over the fact that the design of the 10c stamp, which is so beautifully engraved, made such a poor showing on account of the unfortunate yellow in which it was printed.

For this reason Postmaster General Burleson recently affixed his official approval to a change in the color of this stamp, and it is now being printed in orange, the exact ink used on current "gold back" U. S. currency. This being an intentional official change removes it from the classification as a possible shade and compels us to recognize it as a distinct addition of another stamp to the series, calling for a space in every printed album.

There are still something like half a million of the yellow stamps in the Bureau vaults which will be issued before the orange stamps are placed on sale. Of course the same plates will be continued; the sheet seen by the writer was printed from No. 6143.—Philatelic Gazette.

OUR REVIEW.

Cape of Good Hope.—By F. J. Melville. Like all the other books of the Melville series, this booklet on the stamps of the Cape of Good Hope is beautifully printed and illustrated. We shall not undertake to review the text, as the readers of our paper interested in this country will want copies of the book and can see for themselves its merits. Orders for the book may be filed with the WEEKLY and the same will be filled immediately upon receipt of a supply.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—P. M. Wolsieffer heedless of the summer season has billed an auction sale for July 19th, when he will dispose of the usual number of lots. The sale will include the fourth and last instalment of the W. R. Patterson stamps, and among them are many much above the average.

—Efforts are being made to have the Post Office Department recognize Baltimore's "Star Spangled Banner Centennial" by a set of postage stamps commemorating the event. A special committee has been appointed to present the petition to Postmaster General Burleson. Arrangements have already been perfected for a special cancellation to advertise the centennial, which will be held the week commencing Sept. 8, 1914.

—Be a booster. Theo. A. Kendall renewing his own subscription sends us in two trial subscriptions for six months each. This certainly is good boosting.

—John Paalow advises us that he has the 1c parcel post due with inverted watermark, from plate 6225.

—The International Stamp Co., DeGraff, Ohio, would like to know the present address of W. W. Wallace, formerly of San Francisco.

—Clippings have been received from J. C. Mullikin (2) and A. G. Lewis.

THE CONDOMINIUM STAMPS OF THE NEW HEBRIDES.

By D. B. ARMSTRONG.

THE PERMANENT ISSUE.

As far back as October, 1909, a request had been forwarded by the Resident Commissioners to their respective Governments for a supply of permanent postage stamps with values in both English and French currency, a design for which was prepared by Mons. J. Giraud, of Port Vila.

The first intimation of the advent of this series was contained in the following paragraph, reproduced from the Colonial Office Journal of January, 1911.

"New Hebrides (Condominium), 1/2d, 1d, 1s, 2s and 5s stamps and 5c, 10c, 1, 2 and 5 francs have been dispatched, the former to the New Hebrides and the latter to Paris, whence they will be consigned as required to the islands, and where they will be on sale to the public at the Agence Comptable des Timbres-poste Coloniaux, 36, rue Vanau. The colours of both sets correspond as far as possible with the copper-plate colour scheme, but where they diverge in value different colours are given to the French stamps. These values will shortly be followed by 2d, 2 1/2d, 5d, 6d and 20, 25, 50 and 75 centimes. The colour decided upon for the 75 centimes is orange on white paper; 1 franc, red on blue paper; 2 francs, purple on white; and 5 francs, red on green paper."

The announcement gave rise to quite a sensation in philatelic circles and there was an immediate rush to obtain supplies of the French series, which was placed on sale in its entirety in Paris, on March 11th, 1911. The English series was, of course, unobtainable at that time, having been sent direct to the Islands.

The stamps of the French issue provide one of the most remarkable issues of postage stamps extant, for although issued by the French Colonial authorities in Paris, they are printed in London to the order of the Crown Agents for the Colonies upon paper having the well-known British Colonial watermark of Crown CA. They are thus veritable stamps of the "entente cordiale."

The following description of the very unconventional design of these permanent stamps is taken from the Australian Stamp Journal. "The design is as we described it last month, except that portion relating to the centre. This consists of a trophy made up of an idol and a number of island spears and other warlike implements. Below the trophy is a native shield on which is shown the denomination of the stamp. At both sides of the central design, leaning against coconut trees are tom-toms or native drums. Suspended over the top in the centre is an anchor, which gives the appearance to the idol as if he were hung on a 'spit.' The original design has been altered somewhat, but the main features of it have been adopted. The royal arms surmounted by a Crown separates the letters 'E. R.' on the left, and a 'facis' separates the letters 'R. F.' on the right. The design if weird is characteristic and reflects much credit on the designer."

The stamps of both series were printed in London by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., printers to the Crown Agents for the Colonies, from line-engraved plates upon thick white wove paper, watermarked multiple Crown CA and were perforated 14. The sheets contain 30 stamps each, ranged in ten rows of three, with a double row of narrow colour round the margins.

A supply of the British series to a total face-value of £12,000 reached Port Vila in April, 1910, but owing to a delay in checking the consignment the stamps were not issued until July 25th, the series with values in French currency having meanwhile been received and placed on sale on the 12th of the same month. This latter series included two denominations not mentioned in the original announcement, viz.:—30 and 40 centimes.

Summary.

KNICK-KNACKS.

Hot? Take a trip to Put-in-Bay and cool off at the convention of the A. P. S.

Well, if you really cannot go, we shall be pleased to represent you at the convention, if you insist upon it. Already, we have received one proxy and the outlook is favorable that we shall have another.

Certainly we shall carry out your instructions. As a little carrier out of instructions, we are in A class, if the proxy is made out in the name of C. E. Severn.

W. Hamilton Barnum is to have charge of the red lemo and that fact is proof that the pouring will be done in a refined and recherche manner. Alvin Good is at home on the water and he will have charge of the aquatic revels. There will be water, water everywhere and copious liberations are recommended for the tired philatelist.

One of nature's noble gents has offered to pay Parnassus Penflip's fare to Put-in-Bay if only he will go. Thanks; but knowing Parnassus' patrician pride we do not think that he will accept money from a total stranger.

"Joke Ed. MEKEEL'S: Can you interpret all of these? Twopaler gets me. What part of Poland is 'Helipoland'? Wonder is 'Tomali' a hot one. 'Zeychees' is a la Paree. Above were (Permission of Funk & Wagnalls) clapt from a recent auction catalogue but please do not publish my name or I shall be cut off the list." Here is a selection from the printed list sent in by our correspondent: Helyaland, Smazuland, Buggedorf, Cinacoa, Twopaler, Smunam, Zeychees, Tomali, St. Pune, Great Comon, Helipoland, Montiuju, Mozumhym, Lorenzo, Maiger I., 87 stamps.

An advanced collector has twenty-one albums for his stamps. He needs an auto truck when he drops in on a neighbor in the evening to show his collection.

A friend abuses our confidence in him by sending the following: "A publisher of a stamp paper says that collectors are pirates because they will give him no quarter." We read this one years ago.

Good; we learn that a high-school graduate selected The Invention of the Postage Stamp, as the subject of his graduation day essay.

THE U. S. BLUE OFFICIAL SEAL PERFORATED AND ROULETTED.

In MEKEEL'S WEEKLY of recent date we note in F. G. Goodwin's notes that he has found a blue "Officially Sealed" U. S. part rouletted and part perforated and states that he has not been able to locate any more. Ross O'Shaughnessy the San Francisco dealer has an entire sheet of these blue seal stamps, rouletted vertically and perforated horizontally except the middle horizontal row which is rouletted, the sheet is watermarked "Rolliston Mills" and was found in a small post office in California. This should prove of interest to U. S. specialists.—Collector's Monthly.

U. S. 5c AND 10c 1847
There are 9 lots of them in Wolsieffer's Sale No. 130 of July 19th.

Unused Blocks of U.S.

Recently I advertised a number of blocks of U. S. stamps. The demand was so spontaneous that a number of denominations were all sold out. Seeing the desire of collectors to secure blocks while they can be had at reasonable price, I have determined to throw a number of other blocks on the market, instead of holding them for the advance as I had contemplated. Therefore I offer:

1895 50c orange, block 4..... $3.25
1902 8c black violet, block 4..... .50
10c red brown, block 4..... .60
13c purple black, block 4..... .75

HIS COINS.

By FRED MICHAEL.

He had just returned from China. He was not a stamp or a coin collector but like many other men, the strange coins passing through his hands attracted him. As his fancy directed he laid some aside and brought a handful home.

There is, of course, nothing of value among them for the Numismatist for the wily Chinese know their coins as they know their stamps, counterfeit them and print books in their own language about them. To us stamp collectors they are worth a few minutes' attention, for from them we can learn something of the Chinese currency and read something of the stirring events that have happened in the Flowery Kingdom during the past few years.

Let us turn to the oldest first. It is a Mexican dollar of 1871. Perhaps our idea that there is circulating in China a large quantity of very old coins is wrong. Here is another with two little Chinese characters on it. It is a mark of a bank showing that it has been tested and found to be of good silver, of correct weight and by these "Chop Marks" pronounced legal tender. Here is another. It has been through many banks. Each has put its stamp upon it till now its face is indecipherable.

Trade dollars are very plentiful over there. We find two amongst the handful together with a Japanese Yen liberally sprinkled with chop marks showing that they, too, have been tested and are as represented.

Next we have a Philippine peso. In 1903 Uncle Sam made it for the Philippines and said it was worth 50 cents. Silver went up till the bullion in it was worth $54. The Chinese in the Philippines immediately began shipping pesos home to China and getting the 54 cents for them. In order to keep the Philippine coins in the islands our government immediately passed a law prohibiting their exportation. We not only find the peso but also the smaller silver and copper Philippine coins.

Hongkong is well represented both in silver and copper; there is a French piece made for Indo-China; several from India and Ceylon; three small ones from Deutsches Kiautschou and some Russians. It is not surprising to find an English penny among the lot. They are everywhere but how came this one from Jamaica and this from Sweden?

Of the Chinese cash there are but three. On one are the flags of the Chinese Republic. One Mace 44 Candreens, we read on a coin from Kirin Province with a fierce dragon in its center. One Mace 44 Candreens, we read on a modern coin from Foo-Kien with the Republic's flags in its center; and 20 Cash we read on another.

For us living many thousands of miles away, amidst vastly different surroundings, it is difficult to measure the forward march of the Chinese. This handful of coins brings us to a clearer realization that they are progressing and this copper coin on which we read in English "The Republic of China, 10 Cash" bears the promise of a modern national coinage system for the awakening people.

THE GREAT EXHIBITION.

Editor Scott in Metropolitan.

It is now eighteen weeks to the opening of the great Stamp Exhibition in the Engineers Building, 33 West 39th Street, near Fifth Avenue. The importance of this exhibition to the advancement of our science cannot be over estimated. Collectors, important personages from three continents, have signified their intention to be present, and large hotel space has been secured for their accommodation. The local attendance will amount to several thousands per day. It is very important to know how many out of town U. S. collectors expect to be present and we shall be pleased to publish from time to time the names of our friends from other states who expect to attend, stating the number comprised in their party. There will be a number of banquets, perhaps one every night, and it is very important for the management to know how many will have to be provided for. The Grand Banquet will be attended by from three hundred to five hundred, and will probably be held at the Hotel Astor or St. Regis. The Philatelic Society will probably entertain one night, the Deutscher Briefmarken-Sammler-Verein, New York, have also signified their intention to give a kommers, therefore it is very important for out of town collectors to let us know if they are coming. The second edition of the program is now ready for distribution, the first one consisting of ten thousand having been exhausted. The new pamphlet gives a list of all members up to date of compilation, together with the names of donors with amounts so far received by the treasurer. The Official Catalogue

"HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT."

Story of the Piece of Cheese That Was Sent by Parcel Post.

This the parcel postman, remarks the
New York Sun.

This is the piece in care of the parcel postman.

This is the insect sent by the scientific gent who ate the piece of cheese in care of the parcel postman.

This is the pet canary mailed by Little Mary who ate the insect sent by the scientific gent who ate the piece of cheese in care of the parcel postman.

This is the little white rat, pink eyed, quick and fat, who ate the pet canary mailed by Little Mary which ate the insect sent by the scientific gent which ate the piece of cheese in care of the parcel postman.

This is the big dog Pat which ate the little white rat, pink eyed, quick and fat, which ate the pet canary mailed by Little Mary which ate the insect sent by the scientific gent which ate the piece of cheese in care of the parcel postman.

This is the tiger, wild with rage, who broke his way out of the circus cage and ate the big dog Pat, which ate the little white rat, pink-eyed, quick and fat,
which ate the pet canary mailed by Little Mary, which ate the insect sent by the scientific gent which ate the piece of cheese in care of the parcel postman.

And feeling still unsatisfied, he said to the postman: "Step inside!" And the postman sighed, but at last he summoned a manlier pride and affixing a stamp, as required by the laws, he mailed himself in the tiger's jaws.
"For it is my duty," the postman said,
"to go with my parcels, alive or dead."

THE CATALOGUE QUESTION.

By KNOCKER.

The Scott Company recently gave it out that a new catalogue might be expected in the early fall. Good. It is getting to the point where a catalogue a month old is not much more reliable than a newspaper directory of that age.

Wouldn't this year of grace, philatelic and otherwise, be a good time to make a real revision of the good old book, and give us a catalogue for once that was a real reflection of market values. The Company state in the preface that they can supply most of the stamps in the book "at the prices given," the absurdity of which statement is demonstrated when they will sell you many things they have in stock at 50% less than the list.

I have nothing to say of the stamps listed at one dollar and up, for the very good reason that I own very few of them and know but little of their value; and the specialist who does know, may not depend on the catalogue but fixes his own value when he goes into the market to buy or sell. I believe 90% of the collectors who buy the catalogue and take it to bed with them as their philatelic Bible are chaps who own from 3,000 to 15,000 general varieties; and we are the ones who are keeping up the dealers and the philatelic papers. Take the WEEKLY of June 14,—there are 71 advertisements, barring the want ads. page and of this number only twelve offer stamps listing at over one dollar each. Are we the backbone of the game?

The catalogue prices on the stamps of this class—under one dollar—are a joke. The issue of the WEEKLY in question contains ads. of ten dealers who offer this class of stock at discounts ranging from 60 to 80 per cent. off catalogue. A New York dealer has an immense stock of the Latin-Americans, not only recent issues, but back for forty to fifty years which he is gladly selling at 75%. A dealer in the West offers anything in his stock at 60% off and judging by my own experience, he seems to have pretty much of everything in stock. I might go on indefinitely. I bought one of the Powell packets this winter, 2,000 varieties which catalogued nearly $75, for ten dollars; I bought an Ohlman twentieth century 500 variety for $1.98 which listed up to about $30, and each of these packets contained stamps listing 60c and 75c.

Now isn't something wrong? I have a general collection of just over 5,000 varieties. It catalogues probably $600. I know if I offered it to a dealer, he would give me $50 and then would sell it himself for not over $75. Or at auction it might bring me possibly $80. It is about as cheerful as owning a trunkful of Confederate money about a week before the fall of Richmond.

I think the reform should begin at the bottom. I see no logical reason for making 1c the minimum price for a stamp. The current 1c U. S. is listed at a penny, and likewise the 1c of 1890. Now to a collector who began later than 1895, a cent is not exorbitant for the penny stamp of 1890, but why the absurdity of placing a penny value on the current stamp? The adoption of the half-cent minimum would help some. But barring the question of the minimum, go to the stamps listed at two cents each. There are thousands listed thus, which anyone can buy at wholesale for from 10c to 50c a hundred. The same of the stamps listed up to a nickel each. Above that, the variation from real market value is not so pronounced and about 60% average reduction would bring them down to normal.

There are issues after issues of the South American. Central American, and Colonial groups, where the prices will be identical for used and unused specimens. Now will some one kindly tell me how in any human possibility, every stamp in a series of twelve to fifteen varieties would exist in numbers so nearly equal in used and mint condition that the same price would prevail? (Canceled to order or "by request."—Ed.)

The absurdity of the color designations has been pounded at enough by others. I can only echo their sentiments.

The locals have been taken out and put in a separate little volume. As few people collect these, well and good. But what is a local? The stamps issued by Aguinaldo are included in the little book while the Carlist stamps of Spain are retained in the main volume. And why exclude any listing, other than the illustrations, of the Spanish Impuesto de Guerra stamps, and then carry full descriptions, and price quotations for the newspaper tax stamps of Austria-Hungary and the various charity stamps of Europe? Why exclude Canton and carry Shanghai?

Then why not a few more explanatory notes? Of course no one asks for a library of handbooks in the catalogue, and it is growing awkwardly big as it is. Why not explain the difference in all the re-engravings that have been made?

There are a number of varieties in various countries, I think particularly of Argentine just now, that are decidedly confusing to the beginner, and some of the pictures in the catalogue are so poorly printed that they conceal more than they reveal.

Then explain the watermarks. The book publishes two pages of watermarks, in the back, all neatly numbered. How many of these numbers did you ever notice referred to in the body of the book? What are we non-experts going to do with the large and small crowns of England and the various freak circles and ovals and KR's of Austria-Hungary, by mere guesswork?

We are told that John N. Luff is the editor of the catalogue. Well, brother Luff, we have been taught to revere you as a sort of fetish of our hobby. Can't you give us a better and more nearly correct book, for once? And just one more suggestion. The Scott Company controls both our standard catalogue and our standard album. Why not let the editors of the two eat at the same table a little while and see if they cannot agree on an arrangement that will make the two books at least approximate uniformity.

STAMPS ISSUED IN COILS.

Of late there has appeared in the market a 3 cent 1908, double line watermark, perforated 12, as having been issued in coils, but it is evident that no such stamp has ever been issued. We are indebted to H. F. Colman for official information and quote as follows from a letter sent him by A. M. Dockery, Third Assistant Postmaster General. This letter should be effective in settling the matter in dispute:—

"Referring again to your letter of June 21st there is given below a statement concerning the issues of coiled stamps requested by you:

Issue.	Description.	Number.
1902	1c endwise and perforated	32,500
1902	2c sidewise and perforated	2,000
1902	2c (Shield background) endwise perforated	32,000
1902	2c (Shield background) sidewise, perforated	2,000
1902	5c (blue) endwise and perforated	30,000

None of the 3c stamps of the 1908 series with double line watermark were issued in perforated coils."

"2. Sections 8, 9, 38, 43, 62 and 66, Parcel Post Regulations, and Section 45 of those regulations as amended by Order No. 6857, March 28, 1913, are modified accordingly.

"3. The issuance of parcel post stamps and parcel post due stamps to postmasters shall be discontinued after the stocks now on hand in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing are exhausted, and no additional supply of these stamps shall be printed.

A. S. BURLISON, Postmaster General."

Reflections—Now that the parcel post stamps so soon are to be done for, they well may wonder what they were begun for. It was understood that the distinctive stamps were issued as a convenience in keeping the accounts of the department. It was supposed that the volume of the parcel post business could be the more readily measured through the use of the separate stamps, but it may have been the intention to employ the parcel post issues only during the experimental stage of the post. As the system has proved so successful that its permanence is assured, it may be that the department finds that there is no reason to continue the issue of the parcel post stamps. That there has been some confusion in the mind of the public regarding the purposes of the two sets of stamps must be admitted and business men have claimed that it sometimes was a hardship to dispose of quantities of parcel post stamps when made in the form of remittances by customers.

Everybody Satisfied—The newspapers have given much attention to the order retiring the parcel post stamps and the administration's departure is generally commended on the proposition that "stamps is stamps." The parcel post stamps will be in high collecting favor because of the heavy advertising that they have received during their comparatively short postal career. While many of the parcel post stamps have been used yet we know that a large proportion of them has been destroyed and are lost to collectors. There are few large receivers of parcel post mail, comparatively speaking, and so widely spread have the stamps been that they are thinly distributed, after all. The parcel post stamps will be the lions of the hour for some time to come.

A Step Farther—Our inquiry into the case of the three cent, 1909, in coils, sideways or lengthwise, thus far has not been favorable to the standing of the stamps as genuine issues. We have been unable to secure a definite statement from the Chicago postoffice that some of the coils in question were received on special order and so, only the vague recollection that they were said to have been has no appreciable weight. A dealer who specialized in the part perforates, in selling his entire stock of the stamps said that he was skeptical of the authenticity of the three cent, 1909, part perforate, that it included; and the buyer disposed of the stamps to a mail order house so that they would be eliminated from collecting consideration. Moreover, these stamps may have been those said to have been privately perforated and which did not truly gauge 12. Inquiries that have been made at several sources of authority may be productive by the time of our next number.

It Is Our Own—Some months ago, we described an old circular prepared about the year 1850, in admiring terms as not alone was the leaflet of engrossing interest as a dissertation on cancellations or "post office stamps" but as well, the circular was sent out from Ludlow, Mass., as a veritable precanceled specimen. The circular of Improved Post Office Stamps, with its illustrations of impressions that was the subject of extended remarks in the issue of the WEEKLY dated March 1st, 1913, was loaned to us by a reader in New Hampshire. Now, through the kindness of Mr. Fred Goshert, Warsaw, Indiana, we have come into possession of a copy of this same circular, which appeals so strongly to those who give attention to the cancellations of United States issues. We may add that the "post office stamps" referred to were not the adhesive stamps of our first love, but postmark and cancellation forms which were advertised for sale by an enterprising citizen of Ludlow, Mass., Mr. Charles M. Willard.

Out For Business—The postoffice department is advocating the use of permits and precanceled stamps instead of ordinary stamps in mailings of two thousand or more pieces. In a recent order to postmasters they are instructed to call to the attention of patrons who frequently mail large quantities of matter to the advisability of using the permit or precanceled system for mailings of not fewer than two thousand pieces. It is said: "If the patron does not desire to avail himself of the permit privilege, the postmaster should suggest to him the desirability of using precanceled stamps. Either of these methods of prepaying postage results in saving time and expense both to the postal service and the mailer, and postmasters should bring them to the attention of such patrons of their post offices as could use them advantageously."

Now In Effect—We give the section of the Parcel Post Regulations covering insurance of parcels and effective July 1st: "A mailable parcel on which the postage is fully prepaid may be insured against loss in an amount equivalent to its actual value but not to exceed $25, on payment of a fee of five cents, and in an amount equivalent to its actual value in excess of $25, but not to exceed $50, on payment of a fee of ten cents in stamps, such stamps to be affixed. The amount of the insurance fee shall be placed on the receipt given the sender and on the coupon retained at the mailing office."

Soon Here—The convention of the American Philatelic Society at Put-in-Bay, Ohio, is just about a month away; and the members of the A. P. S. in Cleveland are planning to make the convention one well rounded out philatelically and socially. Ample opportunity will be given at Put-in-Bay for a trading session and we believe that the "bourse", which, it is expected, will be held each year as a feature of the convention, following Springfield's example in 1912, will be a popular institution. Many a member will welcome the chance to "buy, sell and exchange" under congenial conditions. Each year, the "bourse" will become more popular with the members, we do not hesitate to predict.

W. H. PECKITT'S

10% NEW ISSUE SERVICE

The great demand that has arisen of late years for the prompt and efficient supply of NEW ISSUES OF COLONIAL STAMPS, and the success of the above service, has caused me to greatly extend the arrangements originally made for the regular supply of this class of stamp.

Taking Colonial Stamps, I have a very early supply of all New Issues as they appear, both of the regular sets and of most Provisionals. These are supplied just as they come to hand, at a uniform percentage over face value of 10 per cent. (1 1/2d in the 1sh).

It will be seen that this method effects a large saving to the regular subscriber, and at the same time gives the Collector a unique opportunity of participating in a fortunate imputation of a Provisional or issue of a temporary character, which, if imported in the ordinary course, is put aside for him as certainly as are the usual Current Sets.

The rate of 10 per cent includes everything as it is received, such as any Provisionals, etc., etc. and so on.

Limitations, such as that stamps are to be up to a certain denomination only; or extensions, such as all are to be supplied in blocks of four etc., can easily be put into effect, in, to take typical instances, the following manner:—

- All Colonial Stamps to be supplied in single copies up to and including 1/5 value.
- All Colonial Stamps to be supplied in single copies up to and including 20sh value.
- All Colonial Stamps to be supplied in single copies up to and including 5sh value.
- All Colonial Stamps to be supplied in single copies up to and including 2sh 6d value.
- All Colonial Stamps to be supplied in single copies up to and including 1sh value.

And so on, while any variations desired or suggested will be carefully considered; pairs or blocks can be supplied in the same manner, if required.

Subscribers have the additional advantage of receiving gratis and post free my regular Monthly List containing Notes on New Issues, Price Lists of King's Heads, and Serial Colonial Catalogue.

AUSTRIA.—Offices in Turkey.—E. W. Hendrick shows us a piece of a cover franked with two 5c stamps of Austrian Crete and a 1pi stamp of Austrian Turkey, and postmarked "Jerusalem."

FRENCH GUINEA.—Another set in the French West Africa series has now appeared, "Guinee" being the Colony the latest to be thus honored. The new stamps are of large size, like the Mauritanie stamps chronicled some time since, though these are upright oblong instead of horizontal. All values are bicolored, and bear the names of De la Neziere, the artist, and J. Puyplat, the engraver. The design of the frame shows two native carved idols, at either side, with the value in a large circle at the top, "Guinee" in a straight tablet over the central picture, and "Afrique Occidentale—Francaise" in a larger tablet below the picture. The central picture shows a high mountain and palm trees in the background, with native bearers fording a river in the foreground with their packs on their heads. Though the engraving is very fine and small, the appearance is much more picturesque than that on the Mauritanie stamps. The same designs are used for all values. The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the full set.

PORTO RICO.—The Hendrick & Adams Stamp Co. has shown us the 2c U. S., surcharged "Porto Rico," the final "O" being broken at the top so as to form a perfect "U" though shorter than the other letters.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The last meeting of the season of the Rochester Philatelic Ass'n was held Wednesday evening, June 25. Despite the sultry weather quite a number showed up and an enjoyable evening was had. L. Lawrence Albright showed his collection of U. S. Revenues and much interest was kindled in miscellaneous items displayed by various members. The next meeting will be held the fourth Wednesday in September.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Hugo Kuenstler (5), Harry E. Klotzbach (4), Mrs. J. A. Bowen, M. S. Karlitsky, Geo. H. Sleeper, J. H. Chapman.

—A valued subscriber sends us the subscription of William Gallagher, 1805 Lincoln Av., N. E., Washington, D. C. He writes us that he is a boy of fifteen, crippled, and is able to get about only on crutches. He is a beginner in collecting and our subscriber writes:—"I would like to recommend him to charitable collectors who have any duplicates that they desire to dispose of." We trust this invitation will not go unheeded.

PHILIPPINE WATERMARKS.

By H. F. COLMAN.

All values of the current set of Philippine stamps have been issued on single line watermark paper with the exception of the 4 centavo. The 2 peso in change of color has been issued on both kinds of paper, but as far as I know no one has yet seen the 2 peso in the new color on double line watermark nor the 4 and 10 peso single line watermark. It is impossible for the Bureau to give the number issued, as their records show that the stamps were printed on both kinds of paper and marked "mixed". The double line watermark paper has now been used up and any further printings of Philippine stamps will be on single line watermark only. So many people write me in reference to this matter that this information should be published. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing replied as follows to questions submitted:—

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 18th instant, in which you request to be furnished with the following information:

(1.) If the 4 centavo and the 4 and 10 peso Philippine stamps have been issued on single line watermark.

Ans. The 4 centavo has not been issued on paper with the single or new watermark, while the 4 and 10 peso have been so issued.

(2.) The 2 peso dark violet has appeared on single line watermark and it was reported that these stamps were also printed on double line watermark paper, but no one has been able to procure any to my knowledge.

Ans. The 2 peso dark violet has appeared on single line watermark paper. These stamps have also been printed on the double line, or large size watermark paper.

(3.) I would also like to know if a new printing was ordered for the Islands, whether the peso values will be printed on single or double line watermark paper.

Ans. If a new printing was ordered for these stamps they would be issued on the single, or small size watermark paper."

A. P. S. PROXIES.

The editor of the WEEKLY, Mr. Severn, will attend the convention of the A. P. S. at Put-in-Bay and will be pleased to be the bearer of any proxies submitted. Any instructions upon proposed legislation may be entered upon the reverse side of the proxy.

The managing editor will not attend. It is his intention to be in Cleveland the week of Sept. 1 and he is unable to be away from the office long enough to cover both of the events that are in hand.

Unused Blocks of U.S.

Recently I advertised a number of blocks of U. S. stamps. The demand was so spontaneous that a number of denominations were all sold out. Seeing the desire of collectors to secure blocks while they can be had at reasonable price, I have determined to throw a number of other blocks on the market, instead of holding them for the advance as I had contemplated. Therefore I offer:

1895	50c orange, block 4.....	$3.25
1902	8c black violet, block 4.....	.50
	10c red brown, block 4.....	.60
	13c purple black, block 4.....	.75
	50c orange, block 4.....	2.50
1908	1c green, perf. block 4.....	.15
	13c blue green, block 4.....	.75
	13c darker shade, block 4.....	1.00

IMPERFORATE.

1908	2c carmine, block 4.....	.15
	Same, line between.....	.20
	3c deep purple, block 4.....	.25
	Same, line between.....	.35
	Same, imprint and plate No. (6).....	.60
	4c yellow brown, block 4.....	.35

THE ILLS OF JIMMY O'.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

The streets of Willow ran yellow with mingled 'dobe and water. A late rain had fallen upon the unsuspecting earth, and for fully three days the sun had not shone,—an unusual thing for Arizona.

"Right here is where I begin to get some peevish," declared my friend, Jimmy O', as he looked out upon the lowering day. "Three days I can stand it, then I seek solitude, or I fight my best friends."

Now Jimmy O', be it known, had forsaken the way of the transgressor on pleasure bent, via the cow-boy route, and was hoarding his coin-of-the-realm to augment his "collection," donated—with the aid of $87.50 of Jimmy O's cash—by his bosom friend, Johnny Williams, of the Gila country; all of which has been duly set forth "in a previous issue," as the magazines say. Jimmy O' was just returning from a fortnight's visit to Johnny, and had reached my shack when the skies opened. For three days Jimmy had soaked up rain and stampic information alternately. My "slicker" was at his service, but not for Jimmy—he preferred dampness and the "squash" of wet riding-boots. But Jimmy could cook, and he was "good company." I could endure a fortnight of him—almost—during a rain in Arizona.

My reveries were interrupted. The monologue had begun.

"Finest climate in the world," began Jimmy. "Great country, too, until they put water on it. Now we're ruined."

Jimmy looked as gloomy as the skies. He made it personal. For me, I failed to see wherein the ruin lay. Six or seven crops of alfalfa a year under irrigation looked good to me. Jimmy rambled on. I knew something worth while was sure to follow, especially when he began deftly with one hand to roll a cigarette.

"The greatest game of baseball I ever saw was on Grand Island, Niagara River, on the 3d or 5th of July, '89. There was a collection of stamps on third base, and every man who reached it had his pick free. I don't just remember who got first choice, but I managed to get a couple."

This was the point where I sat up suddenly. Jimmy was just 26: that settled him. Then I remembered. There were some old amateur papers in the tent-house, vintage of the '80's and '90's, and Jimmy had been absorbing them with a purpose. He rambled on: "Fine bunch o' sports. Friends o' mine, too. There was Sammy Stinson, who knocked always three-baggers; an' there was 'Willow,' who never agreed with 'Anti,' and them two delayed the game in-or-di-nate-ly. An' there was another friend o' mine there, too, who was some unfortunate. He never got to third base."

Be it known, en parenthese, that on that day of July, '89, both the managing editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and the humble writer of these sketches played in a game of base ball at the place designated. It was a battle royal between the East and the West, members of the National Amateur Press Association. But there wasn't a stamp collection on third base,—only a keg of water. I shall never forget that, for I nearly died of thirst. I was the old friend Jimmy felt sorry for!

"It was a great convention," continued Jimmy. "I think I got these two stamps yet." He fumbled amongst some letters inside his shirt, drew forth a tattered envelope, and extracted a fragment of an approval sheet, which he passed over to me.

If I sat up when Jimmy began his monologue, I sat up some more here and now, for what my eyes rested on were two copies of the six cents Proprietary, orange, in immaculate condition, as like as two perfect stamps could be.

"And I says to myself, last week," continued Jimmy, ungrammatically, "if the gods are good, and I survive, I'll give one o' these souvenirs to a friend o' mine who sure got less than he deserved at that game in '89."

Whereupon Jimmy held out his hand for the sheet, gazed at it intently, detached the copy which he deemed the preferable, and passed it back to me. The other he poked into his breast-works once more, and resumed his attention to another cigarette.

"One lovely day in April," he began after I had expressed my gratitude and thanks, "One lovely day in April, as I said before—and it didn't rain, either—Mr. James O', for short, went to see his friend Johnny W. for long—say a couple weeks."

I feared the absorption of recent magazine literature was corrupting Jimmy's "style," but he abruptly swung into his pace. I grew more interested.

"Gila is all right for about nine days. Then you wonder if you can stand it four more. The wonder gets on your nerves. Mine, that is, Johnny and I wore it out on the round-up, and then I began to wish I had an old catalogue along. I took to prowling around town. About four days after—it was the last day—I was there—I hit on a drug store, run by an old codger who'd brought his junk out from the East on a prairie schooner, and most of it was there yet,—vintage o' '66. My eye! It was funny! An' then I spotted a bottle with a stamp—one o' those Father-of-His-Country affairs. 'Never say die,' says I. 'While there's life there's hope. Jimmy O', you're on the verge of a great find. Go slow—but not too slow. Also, you may have to borrow money!'"

"Say, the symptoms I developed would stump a horse-doctor, let alone a human one. Why, I had everything from cholera infantum to the heaves! Honest! And that old Ananias aided and abetted me, b'jinks! It cost me $11.60—he knocked off a dollar and two bits when I had that acute attack of 'balm-for-women' disease—according to the symptom book—and the stamps. I annexed the only two bottles he had."

Here Jimmy waved his cigarette hand at the phantom six-cents Proprietary. "It was real unlady-like of him, but I sure appreciated it—him making me think I had it bad," declared Jimmy, with his humorous grin. "And say! I found when I rode on to Johnny's, to say good bye, that nine o' them bottles had busted on me, an' my saddle-bags was sure some afloat. But I saved the stamps."

Then Jimmy proceeded to dig out more letters from which another sheet was finally extracted. And I gloated! A four cents vermilion D. S. Barnes,—a one cent black Brandreth, perforated,—a two cents black, P. H. Drake & Co.,—and a six cents orange, James Swaim,—were among the treasures. I figured Jimmy had acquired about $700.00, catalogue value, for his $11.60.

"An' now," said Jimmy, "as the sun begins to show symptoms, I reckon I'll saddle up and hustle along to Lazy Bar. You see, I fed those two bottles o' that woman's friend to a Pima buck who sure had a thirst. He thought it was a new brand o' firewater. I bet he got revenge on his squaw, somethin' fierce. Johnny told me they was a deputy sheriff lookin' for a young man on a roan horse. I fear that's my name. I tell you, son, you let women alone!"

With which advice, Jimmy rapidly effaced himself from the borderland of Willow.

OUR REVIEW.

We have received from Stanley Gibbons, Inc., 198 Broadway, N. Y., "A Check List of all British and British Colonial Stamps Issued during the Twentieth Century, January 1901 to July 1913." The list is accompanied with quotations showing the market values of all specimens. It is the 8th edition of this most popular book and the price is 25c. The book is uniform with previous issues and every collector of these stamps will feel the necessity of purchasing this List. There is a great deal of explanatory matter scattered through the book that makes it of marked value, while the specialist will delight in the attention given varieties of perforation, watermarking and surcharging.

a long curve beginning at queue and joining the curved lower line of bust over N of CENTS.

This die was printed on the same paper as the others, in a purplish brown, but some sizes are known in red and also in a rich lake, Size 2 on blue, Size 4½ on white and the wrapper coming in the former, while Size 2 on white, Size 4½ on white and amber, and Size 5 on white come in the latter shade. They are all quite scarce and add zest to the hunt in this series.

Dollar Sign Watermark.

The TENTH issue October, 1886 to 1887, is chiefly notable by introducing a new watermark, a large monogram U S, with the S crossing both stems of the U, like a dollar sign. It is known as No. 7. Also two new papers are used for the first time, namely, oriental buff and amber-manila. The same dies are used as in the eighth and ninth issues, namely: 1c blue; 2c brown, (Kellogg Dies A, B, and new Die A2,) 4c green; (Dies A and B) 5c brown (Garfield); 10c brown; 30c black and 90c carmine.

The Die A2 in the two cent value is recognized by a very large head, nearly filling the oval. It comes on two sizes, 3 and 4½, both on white paper, and 4½ on amber, and is quite scarce, as are also the Die B's with this watermark No. 7.

Two watermarks, commonly known as "penalty" watermarks from appearing on the official envelopes, are sometimes found used in error in this issue. One of these is composed of upright letters P O D linked together, the O being much larger than the other two letters. This is known as No. 9; while No. 10 is formed of the same letters larger and leaning to the right, but not linked together, the O overlaying the other two letters.

In the 1c value, Sizes 3, 6 and the wrapper, all on manila, come with watermark No. 9 as well as in the regular No. 7.

In the 2c, Size 2, amber-manila and the wrapper come with No. 9, while Size 7 manila comes with No. 10, besides the regular No. 7.

The only other value to show an error in watermark is the 30c where in Sizes 7 and 8 there are copies known with watermark No. 10 on manila and amber manila papers respectively. These however, are extremely scarce.

The 5c, 10c, 30c and 90c also all come with the watermark No. 6 on various sizes and papers, but are scarce in this form.

Letter Sheet.

WMK. 8A
FOR LETTER SHEET.

In August, 1886, was introduced a letter sheet of the denomination of 2 cents, printed in green and bearing portrait of Gen. Grant. The first printings were on unwatermarked paper, but by Aug. 1887 paper was in use with an angular form of watermark 8 which for convenience may be called watermark 8A. See illustration.

Numerals at Bottom.

With the ELEVENTH issue, from 1887 to 1889, we are reaching the first of the issues most familiar to younger collectors especially, while still providing so many changes in dies, watermarks, knives, etc., as to prove interesting fields for the more advanced collectors. Indeed if one were to confine his collecting to the issues from 1887 to 1903 only, he would have a respectable and interesting lot of more than 600 varieties. And nearly all of them are within the means of the average collector as well, many of them being picked up at but a slight advance over face.

New dies were engraved for the values 1, 2, 4 and 5c, while the old Plimpton dies were used again for the 30 and 90c values. A conspicuous feature of the design for the lower denominations was the change in position of the numeral of value from the sides of the oval to the bottom directly under the bust. The familiar serrated borderlines also were introduced in this issue, forming the outer frame lines for the inscriptions, and in addition to these features it should be noted that it is the first instance in which the inscription UNITED STATES POSTAGE appears in full.

Franklin's head appears on the 1c, Washington's on the 2c, Jackson's on the 4c and Grant's on the 5c, all facing to the left, and this disposition remained unchanged with the exception of the Columbian series, until 1889 when Lincoln's head was substituted for Jackson's on the 4c value.

The paper bore the previous watermark, No. 7, and the stamps were printed in the following colors: 1c blue; 2c formerly brown, in green; 4c formerly green, in carmine; 5c formerly brown, again in blue; 30c formerly black in brown; and the 90c formerly in carmine but now changed to purple. It will be noted that these color changes but reflected the changes made in the same values of the adhesive stamps of the same years. Some sizes of the 2c are found in error on paper with watermark No. 6.

There are four dies of the 2c value; the first, known as Die A, or the "Rejected die," is distinguished by the fact that the G of POSTAGE has no cross-bar, and that the front of bust points to the 3d tooth in the serrated inner frame line, whereas in the commoner Die B it points to the 2d tooth. So far as known Die A has only been found on Sizes 3, 4½ and 5 and is comparatively common on the white and amber papers of the first and last of these sizes. On the other colors it is extremely hard to find and commands fancy prices. Die C is known as the "Large Head," and has the bust decidedly larger than the others, while the top of head is more full and rounded. Like Die A it is a pretty hard stamp to find and is well worth looking for on Sizes 5 and 9.

A fourth die, quite distinct, and which should be known as Die D, has the front part of bust extremely blunt and thicker than Die B. It is known on Size 13 only on all four colors and from the dates on postmarked copies was evidently an early form of this 2c design, the cancellations showing dates in Nov. and Dec. 1887. The watermark is also of the earlier monogram type, No. 7. This also, as Die C, is an extremely good thing to look out for, hard to describe but once seen cannot be mistaken. There are also numerous retouches of Die B in this series none of which are generally known.

A variety of the 1c die, known as the "Tiffany die," is found with the cross-bar of the G of POSTAGE missing as in the Die A of the 2c value.

High Values Discarded.

The TWELFTH issue from 1890 to 1894 was still printed from the dies of the preceding issue, but is distinguished from that series by a new watermark known as No. 8. This is still a monogram of the letters U S, but here the S only links with the second stem of the U whereas it will be remembered that in No. 7, it crossed both stems, like a dollar sign.

Die A of the 2c is not found with watermark No. 8, but Die C re-appears on Size 5 and as formerly, is extremely rare.

The two high values, with this issue, were discarded for good and all, but the old familiar 10c brown of the Plimpton issue was resurrected. It, however, is seldom found and may be regarded as an extreme rarity. Watermarks 6, 7, 9 and 10 may be also found used in error on some sizes of the 1, 2 and 4c values.

Columbian Series.

It was during this contract with the Plimpton and Morgan Co. that in 1893 another commemorative series, known as the THIRTEENTH issue, was made for the Columbian Exposition, held at Chicago in that year. New designs were engraved for the four values 1, 2, 5 and 10c and they were all printed on a creamy white paper with a special watermark, known as No. 11. This is a large affair and shows the profile busts of Liberty and Columbus, with the dates 1492 and 1892 respectively above and below the heads; the whole surrounded by the inscription "Liberty U S Columbus" and a buckled belt below.

Blue was retained for the color of the 1c, but the 2c was printed in a reddish lilac, the 5c in yellow brown and the 1c in a slate-brown. There are many shades of all these colors and the 5c is found printed in the color of the 10c as well.

These special dies showed a large circular design with the two hemispheres in outline, one bearing the embossed head of Columbus, and the other the head of Liberty. A spread eagle filled the space below the hemispheres and the dates 1492-1892 separated by a shield appeared above. The outer frame bore the inscription (for the first and only time) "United States of America" above, and the value in words below. No numerals of value were on this issue.

There are several die varieties to be noted in this issue as follows: Some show a meridian back of Columbus' head and others have it entirely lacking. As an accompanying feature the periods after the inscriptions may be missing or not, and the star-like ornaments at the sides may be either large or small, so that the combinations afforded by these differences are of considerable number. The wings of the eagle show great variations in their engraving, some varieties showing at the right a long end feather while others show two feathers of nearly equal length, giving the wing a blunted appearance. I have found also that whereas in the normal types there are five meridians beneath the bust of Liberty, there are others where six are plainly cut, and again there are others with only two, near the back of the neck.

To my mind a still better variety and much harder to find is one where the right hand hemisphere is not tangent to the inner circular frame line, but is cut completely clear of it. Usually the point of tangency is under CA of AMERICA. This variety is found on the 2c value, but a similar one having the same peculiarity as regards the left hand hemisphere is found on the 1c value. Another plainly seen variety is discovered on the 2c where the second parallel north of the equator on the left hemisphere, ends in a broad spur outside the hemisphere and opposite the lower point of the shield.

DISCURSIVE NOTES.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

Why does not some enterprising philatelist deal exclusively in damaged stamps? Every dealer has his box of crippled rarities which are generally retailed in packets or singly at a price greater or less than they are really worth, just to be clear of them. There is always a market for scarce and rare stamps, more or less damaged, and it is not the maligned "boy collector" who buys them, as a rule. If there were a philatelic clearing-house, where dealers could send such damaged rarities, or where they could be listed, the boon to dealer and collector would be great and good. I recall a Nova Scotia, No. 6, badly stained, offered at $10.00 about three years ago by a prominent dealer. That was cheap to the man who wanted this particular stamp badly enough to pay the price. He probably could not afford five times the sum for a stamp in three times better condition. I must confess to a weakness for crippled rarities.

Is there any one interested in old philatelic albums? This "side-line" seems somewhat neglected. I recall my first real album, an abridged Oppen, back in '74. It has long passed beyond recall. I have never seen a Lallier, and only one or two of the earlier German. The possession of a cast-off Oppen, a disused Lallier, and some one or two of the earlier German, with a prehistoric American, would give pleasure to at least one jaded old-fashion collector. Has any one any of these discards?

A philatelic writer of more volume than interest has discovered that philately is lacking in writers of a humorous bent. The best reply to his statement is contained on p. 205, Philadelphia Stamp News, editorial notes, re B. W. H. Poole's criticism of philatelic journalism in America. The humor, while sublimely unconscious, is all the richer for it. The Dogberry's are not all dead!

Here is the private history of an invention that failed. It has its pathetic side, too, although that is for one alone to know. An old retired printer conceived the plan to roulette stamps, running them through a mailer which, at the same time, would affix them to an envelope. There were insuperable obstacles, however, which could not be overcome, and the plan, proving not feasible, the score of one's and two's which were experimentally rouletted, were all given to a friend. These have been presented a few correspondents. None were offered for sale, and no more are obtainable, as the apparatus has been destroyed.

Speaking of private perforations, any one can turn out new varieties. The equipment essential is a sharp knife, a punch, some imperforate stamps, and a little skill,—at least, that occurs to me as the material used by correspondents who have been sending me letters embellished on the envelope with new and startling variations in perforations. Of course, I am not a specialist in private perforations: I use the scissors for my imperforates!

A letter from a philatelic friend informs me that one reason why our so-called philatelic papers are of the "watch-us-grow" order is because the papers on the continent and in England get our financial support so freely. As I "take in" six foreign publications, the argument does not seem altogether fallacious.

It has remained for a Chicago contemporary to discover that abroad, especially in Germany, the postally-used stamp is in the ascendancy. For nearly forty years postally-used stamps have been my hobby. Present-day inspection of collections will largely show this old-time favoritism has passed into the "mint" fever, which will run its course, Germany is to be felicitated on clinging to her old ideals.

Why not a Philatelic Writers' Club? There is material enough and to spare. The aim would be purely social, the object a better and fuller knowledge of our subjects, through mutual helpfulness and kinship one with another. And who is better fitted for president than that incomparable student and writer C. A.

EDITORIAL.

Hear—We have been advised that the McKinley Club of Canton, Ohio, has voiced a protest which the club hopes will grow in volume against the retirement of the portrait of McKinley on the postal card and the substitution of the picture of Jefferson. The resolution has been sent to the president, senators and representatives from Ohio and the postmaster-general. The McKinley Club named after Canton's famous son is alert to condemn any action that thoughtlessly taken, would eclipse the name of William McKinley and it proposes to arouse sentiment throughout the country, if necessary, to prevent the postal change.

Ward XIII, Second Floor—We thought that having spoken rather sharply to the gentleman who occupies this spacious apartment, several weeks ago, he would not care to establish communication with us again; but who is he to say that he can fathom the workings of the human mind. Anyway, he is out again. "Many thanks for your replies in No. 1175. They seem to clear up such a number of doubtful questions. The doctor here told me I wasn't mentally responsible but said the legal and moral aspects of the case were not in his line. That's the way with specialists. Your kindness prompts me to encroach on your val. time again to ask if you know of any serious collectors of inclusions. Last week, I received a letter from a young man in New York and on soaking off the stamp found under it a small fragment of what appeared to be Sumatra wrapper. Can any of your readers report on finding any other grades of tobacco, or is this something really new in philately? Philately, I assume, includes everything that comes under stamps. Would my specimen be of interest to someone who specializes in wrappers? I think I can secure a duplicate. Yours, Tu Tin Lungs. P. S. It seems to me that I once saw in a grocery store a check list of tobaccos

If so, the name will sing itself into the hearts of philatelists the world over (provided that philatelic is pronounced correctly).

Fiftieth Anniversary—The following letter has been received from Mr. E. O. Gerberding, Hueneme, California: "I read with much interest your article, 'First American Album,' in the issue of June 14th; and the account appealed strongly to me as I still have one of the albums in a good state of preservation. By this mail, I am forwarding the album to you for examination; please return it to me as I have had it in my possession now for nearly fifty years. I want to call your attention to the preface and also to the names then given to some of the stamp-issuing countries—it is all very quaint to collectors of the present day. While I am not positive still I am inclined to believe that other albums had been issued prior to this one of Appleton. I think that Kline issued one but I do not recall the date. As a general thing in those days, we would take a blank book, rule it off into squares and paste the stamps down solidly; sometimes we trimmed off the perforations and cut off the corners of the envelope stamps making them octagonal to gain a 'pretty effect.' The album that Mr. Gerberding has reason to treasure was presented to him, we infer, nearly fifty years ago; and it is a handsome volume of 208 pages bound in stamped brown leather, with gold trimmings. Several times in the past, we have described the merits of this pretentious album bearing the date 1863, which we now see in unimpaired condition for the first time and which we, in common with others who have made inquiries into the question, believe was the first real stamp album published in this country. There are many striking points of difference between this Appleton album and the stamp album of to-day; and as we have remarked heretofore, in the names of many of the countries in the old album, there is material for comparison. For instance, Swan River for Western Australia indeed takes one back into the past. In the index, we find the names of many unfamiliar German states; and Lichtenstein is included under the explanation, 'See Austria,' with the statement: 'Austrian stamps are valid in Lichtenstein.' The flags in color and maps were features of the album, which contained no stamp cuts but the descriptions of the designs were models of clear and concise text. The present year, 1913, is the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of the first stamp album in America, we believe.

Do You Remember Kline?—In the foregoing paragraph, Mr. Gerberding says that Kline issued an album before 1863, he thinks. About that time, A. C. Kline, "Dealer in American and foreign postage and despatch stamps, coins and medals and continental paper money," was in Philadelphia at 824 Walnut Street, where he did what perhaps was the largest stamp business of the day. While Mr. Kline was an enterprising dealer who issued many price-lists and circulars, yet we feel that we are safe in saying that he had not published a stamp album so early as 1863. Even Mr. Kline's Guide Manual did not antedate 1863, we believe, although a short time after it had become well-known abroad as well as in America; it was esteemed in England particularly because of its extensive list of American local stamps and local stamps were in the heyday of their popularity then.

Smoke But Little Fire—We have been in the receipt of much theoretical information and a few facts regarding the three cent, 1908, in coil or perforated 12 only at sides. At the behest of a reader we are trying to marshal all the arguments, pro and contra, on the genuineness of the perforations so that the stamps may be dismissed flatly or accepted without reservations. Here, the confession must be made that our search has not been attended with glittering success; but at the same time it has not been wholly useless and it may be the means of solving the problem in short time to come. Our inquiries at Washington have yielded the same returns that others have had; the authorities will not deny that the three cent in coil may not have been issued nor on the contrary will they admit that they were. Placing our own construction on the attitude of the authorities at Washington, we think that they are more inclined to believe that the stamps were not sent out than that they were. Our Washington mentor says that in his opinion, it is just as reasonable to believe that coils of the three cent were issued as that they were not. We have gathered together an array of evidence but proof is elusive and our hope to irrevocably establish the standing of the stamps must be deferred. We have had confirmations of our recollection that a clerk at the Chicago postoffice had said that the three cent stamp in coil had been stocked on special order; and one collector goes so far as to say that the clerk even showed him the stamps under debate. However, we cannot discover a collector who will affirm that he bought the stamps at the Chicago office. This we may say though. Several of the authorities on part perforates who some time ago were skeptical of the existence of the stamps genuinely part perforated are now reporting upon the stamp favorably. The assumption is that the stamps successfully meet the expectations of the specialists whose analyses of the stamps must have been keen ones. What is good enough for them must be good enough for the ordinary collector. The three cent double line watermark, in coil, will have a place in all the lists of such stamps, no doubt, and that with fair show of reason.

CONFEDERATE 10c BLUE, LITH.

By JAMES LEWIS HOWE.

Has anybody yet succeeded in throwing any light upon the sheet of lithographed Confederate 10 cent blue, showing the imprint of J. T. Patterson & Co., Augusta, Ga.? From a careful examination of a photograph of the sheet I should say that it bears every indication of genuineness, and that it must have been printed as late as the second issue of the 10 cent blue, as it appears to have been printed from the "retouched" plate. Why and when were the stamps printed in Augusta? Why was the old lithograph resuscitated, instead of using one or more of the four engraved plates? Were all four of these plates used in Columbia, S. C., by Keating & Ball? Brown gum is supposed to be diagnostic of the Columbia imprints, but I have a block (plate 4) with as brown a gum as I have ever found on the Columbia stamps, which bears the Richmond imprint. Evidently brown gum was used in Richmond, or else Keating & Ball did not change the imprint.

A GERMAN JUBILEE FUND STAMP.

We have received from the secretary of the "International Sammler-Verein," a label that is designed to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the society and at the same time raise a jubilee fund for the propagating of philately. We illustrate the design.

The International Collectors' Union, with headquarters at Hamburg, which in the comparatively short time of its existence can count about 8000 collectors from all over the world as members, has issued this special jubilee stamp. An especially happy idea is expressed in the central illustration where a collector, in the allegorical form of the goddess Philatelia, reaches out the hand to ordinary Labor.

The price of the stamp is set at 2 pfennig and they come in a light ultramarine color in sheets of fifty. All remittances should be directed to the head business office at 40 Kaiser Wilhelm St., Hamburg 36, Germany.

Price Only 10c Post free
Neckel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, Mass.

The dies and colors were retained, with the exception of the 4c, which was printed again in carmine, and the 5c

With the SIXTEENTH issue, 1899 to 1903, new dies of a slightly smaller size than the preceding were used for all values; and the colors were changed to conform to the recommendations of the Universal Postal Congress. The issue was printed by Plimpton & Morgan, and a new watermark, No. 13, was adopted to distinguish this issue from the others. It consisted of the large block letters U S crossed by the smaller letters P O D, with '99 immediately below.

The knives for this issue were at first the same as for the preceding Hartford series, with the right flap overlaying the left flap. In 1900, however, new knives were adopted, where the side flaps do not meet at all, being separated by an inch or so, with the bottom flap gummed over them. This did not affect the official sizes, so the 4c value was unchanged. A 4c wrapper was introduced in Die C of a large size to facilitate the mailing of Sunday editions of newspapers.

14h deep carmine.

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the ½d and 1d canoe type, reprinted on thin paper, and also the 11d King George stamp, previously chronicled.

CHINA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 1c brown and 30c blue postage due adhesives with the Waterlow "Republic" surcharge.

CYPRUS.—W. H. Peckitt sends us the 12pi value in the King George set.

Adhesive.

12pi orange brown and black.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Marsh's Circular reports the issue of several new values in the King George set. The new 5d, 9d, and 2sh 6d values were placed on sale on June 30, the 5sh on July 1. The 5d value is printed in a reddish-bistre, or fawn as it is officially termed, the 9d in purple-black, or as it is officially termed "agate", the 2sh 6d is printed in sepia, and the 5sh in crimson. The 5d stamp shows the head of King George on a lined ground in the centre of the stamp, immediately below the head are sprays of oak and bay leaves, at either side of the head is a caduceus, over the head is a large Crown with the figure "5" on a lined ground at each side; the words "Postage Revenue" are to be found below the figures, and "Five Pence" in coloured capitals on a plain tablet along the foot of the stamp. The 9d stamp is of somewhat similar design, but the words "Postage Revenue" are incorporated in the side ornamentation, and the head is surrounded with a garland of bay leaves, with the national emblems of a rose, shamrock and thistle in the lower angles. The design being a distinct improvement on that of the 5d. The 2sh 6d and 5sh values are of the one design, and show the head of the King in a circle of bay leaves in the upper left corner, in the centre, at the foot, the value is given in figures and words with "Postage" below, the whole of the rest of the design being occupied with a figure of Britannia and three sea horses. The idea of the design having evidently originated from the current low value Barbados stamps. The two high values are of oblong design, measuring 39x22mm. They are printed on thick paper with watermark a large GvR and Crown, this being a "single" watermark; only one showing on a stamp. The stamps are perforated 11x12. The 5d and 9d are Somerset House prints and show the control B. 13, the bottom margins being imperf. The 2sh 6d and 5sh are printed in sheets of 40, ten rows of four, and show no marginal control.

GRENADA.—From W. H. Peckitt comes specimens of the 5sh and 10sh King George stamps.

Adhesives.

5sh green and red on yellow.
10sh green and red on green.

HONDURAS.—The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. has submitted the "2 cts" on 1c steamer type, chronicled some time since, and Whitfield King & Co. show us the "5 cts" on 10c, recently reported by Mr. Focke.

HONG KONG.—From W. H. Peckitt we have received the dollar values of the King George set. The $1 has the figures of value in the lower corners, while the others have the swastika. Consequently the value appears three times on the $1 stamp, and only once on the others.

Adhesives.

$1 blue and violet on blue.
$2 black and carmine.
$3 violet and green.

INDIA.—Chamba.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 3p, ½a and 1a, King George stamps of India, surcharged for use in Chamba.

Patiala.—W. H. Peckitt sends us the ½a and 1a King George stamps of India, surcharged for use in this state.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the ½d King George stamp.

Adhesive.

½d green.

NICARAGUA.—A. W. Dunning shows us four provisionals of the "Cordoba" series, including "tres centavos" on 6c Liberty, "cinco centavos" on 50c locomotive, "seis centavos" on 1p locomotive and "10 centavos" on 2p locomotive.

Information is desired regarding the 6c locomotive, without surcharge, as some collectors of Nicaraguan issues are disposed to doubt whether it was ever issued. Will any reader who happens to have this stamp kindly submit it for examination.

PORTUGAL.—Champion's Bulletin illustrates the special stamps issued for the Lisbon fetes, as noted in No. 1175. There are two values the design being a horizontal oblong, with an allegorical female representing the city. The figure is placed at the right with the arm reaching across the stamp and holding a palm branch. Tablets at the upper left bear the inscriptions, "Republica Portuguesa—Correio 1913" and at the bottom "Lisboa—Festas da Cidade." In the lower corners is the value, the figure at the left and "c" at the right. The stamps are perforated 12x11½.

Adhesives.

1c dark green.
2c chocolate.

RUSSIA.—Champion's Bulletin is informed that it had been decided to put the new postage stamps on sale July 1, old style. They will bear a female figure allegorical of Russia. The stamps were printed at the Imperial Printing Office.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 6d and 1sh values of the King George set, as previously chronicled.

VIRGIN ISLANDS.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the ½, 1d, 2d and 2sh 6d values of the King George set, previously chronicled.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—W. S. Aldrich reports a bunch of boys in Milwaukee, Wis., with whom he has had trouble. Their names are Stark, Kern and Oestreich. Dealers will do well to watch out.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from George W. Schaefer.

—F. Bernard, the well-known Parisian dealer, who has been advertising regularly in the WEEKLY of late, was accorded the honor of a bronze medal at the International Stamp Exhibition at Paris. Mr. Bernard writes:—"I am constantly satisfied with the results of my advertising in the WEEKLY."

—Our attention is called to the fact that our article listing the French Colonial surcharges was not sufficiently inclusive. The fact is, this article was in type some weeks before being used. Our subscribers are no doubt aware of the fact that there are 140 varieties, one lot of thirty-two stamps having been issued in July 1912 and a second lot of one hundred and eight varieties appearing in November of the same year. Fernand Bernard of Paris calls our attention to this matter.

—F. R. Gellerman wishes us to state that he is just recovering from an extended illness and will give his affairs attention as soon as he is able to do so.

—James Lewis Howe reports a three-cent green Chinese Republic, black surcharge, showing a straight hair line diagonally across the stamp cutting the left edge of design. Mr. Howe also discovers the one-cent parcel post on "laid" paper. It will be noted that we use quotation marks.

—Fred M. Smith favors the WEEKLY with a bit of boosting by sending in the name S. M. Cutler, Brooklyn, N. Y., an oldtime collector and a former member of the A. P. S.

—A. H. Gleason, Barrington, Ill., submits for our inspection a cover showing a bi-sected 4c 1901 Newfoundland, the stamp being cut perpendicularly. The cancellation is affixed in such a way as to indicate the genuineness so far as postal use is concerned.

—"I see my old friend Capt. Clyde Parker is advertising for 1869 1c, 2c, 3c, 6c in blocks of four. I hope he has luck, but believe me he will find it a no easy task to get the 1869 issue in this shape." —H. W. BOERS.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 281, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE. Bavaria.

RAILWAY OFFICIAL STAMPS.

The only official stamps issued by the Kingdom of Bavaria is an unpretentious set issued in 1908 for the use of the Railway Department (Eisenbahn). This consisted of the contemporary 3, 5, 10, 20, and 50 pfennig postage stamps overprinted with a large capital "E". The overprint is in green on the 10pf and 50pf, and in red on the other three values

RETURN LETTER STAMPS.

We cannot conclude this short history of the postage stamps issued by the Kingdom of Bavaria without making some mention of the so-called Return Letter stamps. These labels used to be catalogued, are illustrated in some of the older printed albums, and are frequently found in collections and, consequently, are often a source of mystification to the tyro. These stamps are not postage stamps in any sense of the term but are labels which only relate to the internal economy of the post-office. We grant, however, that they are at least as collectible as "officially sealed" or the numbered labels used in connection with registered letters in many countries nowadays.

When letters were unable to be delivered they were sent to the chief office of the postal district. In 1865 there were six of these offices; viz. Augsburg, Bamberg, München (Munich), Nürnberg, Speyer, and Würzburg. The letters were opened to discover the name of the sender and then returned, these return letter labels being used as seals to close the missives with. The labels were all printed in black on white paper and show the Royal Arms within an oval inscribed "COMMISSION FÜR RETOUR-BRIEFE" (Returned Letter Department) and the name of the district chief office. This oval was enclosed in an upright rectangular frame with ornamented spandrels. The labels were printed by lithography in sheets of 84 and those for each office differ slightly from the others, while for all, except Bamberg, there were two or three printings showing slight differences of design. In the case of the labels for Nürnberg two types exist on the same sheet.

In 1869 Regensburg (Ratisbon) was added to the list of head district offices and was furnished with a label reading "Retourbrief—(Kgl. Oberpostamt—Regensburg)" in three lines within a single-lined oblong. This label was set up from ordinary printer's type. These labels, with various inscriptions, gradually superseded the lithographed ones. Most, if not all, were printed in sheets of thirty and being set by hand there are as many varieties as there are stamps on the sheet. Little care was exercised in their production and not only may lettering of different sizes and fonts be found on different stamps but such glaring inaccuracies as "Retourbrief" for "Retourbrief", and "Oberpostamt" for "Oberpostamt" are by no means infrequent.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE CLUE THAT FAILED.

By ARTHUR IRWIN SMITH.

"For several weeks," declared Postmaster Johnson, "the number of letters and packages requiring postage due stamps has been so large as to become quite noticeable to all the office force. It occurs to me that someone who has access to the mails is removing the regular stamps, although I cannot imagine for what purpose."

"Very likely that is the case," replied Inspector Williams drily. The Inspector's long period of service in ferreting and running down irregularities in the mail service and his natural pessimistic disposition tended to make him see crime where there were but the very slightest evidences of wrong-doing. To him anyone suspected of disobeying the regulations was guilty until he was proven absolutely innocent.

"Where there are traces showing that the usual postage has already been attached," continued the local postmaster, "it has been our practice not to charge postage due. Often the stamps have seemingly been removed by a sweating or steaming process, and there is nothing to prove that the proper postage has ever been paid. In those cases it is, of course, necessary for us to collect the additional amount of postage."

"I would advise you to collect postage due in all cases," said the Inspector, severely. "Is there anyone in this office who might be suspected of this offence?" he queried.

"My clerks are all above reproach," declared Johnson. "Two of them, Randolph and Elmore, I have known since they were babies, and the third, my most competent man came to me two years ago from New York. He is Neil Warren, whom you see working at the letter case now."

"Would any of your clerks have any object in view in illegally removing these stamps?" asked the Inspector.

"None that I know—but wait. Neil is a stamp collector, but I am sure he would have no use for these common stamps that are being removed. He has shown me his collection several times, and I assure you he has a large one of five or six thousand handsome specimens. What could be his object in removing these ordinary 'ones' and 'twos'?"

"Ah, yes, yes," the Inspector was suavely assenting. "But I think we are on the right track now. Mr. Warren, will you come over here a moment?" he called.

Neil dropped his work at the letter case, where he was busy distributing the out-going mail for the evening trains, and joined Johnson and Williams. He was a clean-cut young fellow of about twenty-one years and his eyes were frank and without fear as he looked up at his superiors.

"Mr. Warren," began the Inspector, insinuatingly, "can you account in any way for the disappearance of the regular postage stamps from the incoming mail, which has resulted in quite a little inconvenience to the public at this point?"

"The mail often looks as if it had been steamed," replied Neil, "but aside from that I have no guess to make."

"You are a stamp collector, are you not?"

"Yes, sir."

"May I see your collection?"

"You may," answered Neil without resentment. His album was brought and the Inspector began glancing through it casually. When he reached the pages devoted to the stamps of our own country he turned the pages slowly. As might be expected, the spaces for all the stamps of the current issues were filled with handsome specimens.

The Inspector glanced at completed sets with sinister eyes. "Where did you get those stamps?" he asked Neil suddenly, his face beginning to assume a brutal expression.

"Well—I got them first one place and then another," replied Neil hesitatingly. "I can not tell where each and every stamp in this album came from; there are too many for me to keep up with them all like that. Some of these I bought from dealers, others I secured from letters and packages that came to me."

"I shall have to place you under arrest until the case is fully investigated," declared the Inspector. "It is proven that certain stamps have been removed from letters and packages coming to this office. You have had access to the mail at all times and you now have similar stamps in your possession. Mr. Johnson, you will suspend Clerk Warren at once, and place a substitute at work until some definite action is taken in this case."

Neil gave the Inspector one contemptuous glance, then detached his mail key and passed it over to Johnson. The postmaster's countenance showed his sympathy. "I am very sorry, Neil," he began, then turned quickly to the Inspector. "I will arrange the bond here at once."

"As you like," replied the Inspector, producing the necessary papers.

The matter was arranged in a few minutes, but all the time the mails were accumulating. The east-bound train had brought in a full letter-pouch and two big sacks of papers, while there was another pouch and a small sack from the local line running north and south. It was necessary to telephone for the substitute and it would take several hours for him to make arrangements to get to the office and go to work. In the meanwhile the other clerks were fairly snowed under with mail.

The small sack from the local line was stiff and wet. Randolph brought it around and showed it to the Inspector. "I don't understand why this sack always shows evidences of having been wet when we get it from the local," he complained. "It hasn't rained in two weeks, yet every day we have to dump up mail from this stiff, damp container. The mail doesn't ever seem to be damaged, but it is inconvenient for us to handle the sack in this shape."

"The mail clerks probably store it against a leaky steam-pipe," observed the Inspector. "I must investigate that matter and have an order issued against such carelessness if that be the case."

Randolph dumped the mail out upon the paper-table. Three or four loose stamps fluttered out upon the floor, and into the waste. No one noticed the occurrence but the postmaster, who stepped over and picked them up quickly.

"Here's the key to our little mystery," he exclaimed. "The steam pipes in the mail car have effectually loosened stamps from these packages," and he began picking out the short-paid bundles.

"Why has this not been noticed before?" asked the Inspector, bristling because his suspicions against Warren were beginning to be proved groundless.

"This sack usually comes in on the midnight express," explained Randolph, "and is stored away to be worked early in the morning just before the office is opened. It is usually dry by that time and I suppose the loose stamps would remain within the folds of the sack or be brushed into the waste unnoticed."

"I hardly think it necessary for you to suspend Clerk Warren," remarked the Inspector to Johnson. He bundled up his papers hurriedly, crammed them into his grip, and walked out the door without so much as saying "Good-day."

"Good riddance," laughed Johnson. "Here's your key, Warren. I don't think you'll have to go to jail for a long time yet."

Neil smiled carelessly. "The innocent need have no fear," he said, "even when one of Uncle Sam's 'eagle-eyes' seems determined to get him into trouble. I guess those railway mail clerks will be more careful, however, about putting mail for our town against that leaky steam pipe in the future."

BUSINESS AS WE FIND IT.

A glance at our advertising columns will bear out our assertion that we have experienced the biggest July business the WEEKLY has ever known. It has been excellent and we charge it up to our big circulation.

With August the careful dealer will put his house in order for the Fall campaign. Vacations will soon be over and with school days at hand the stamp collection will again take its place as an entertainer and instructor.

Of course we shall do our part and the WEEKLY as never before will rise equal to the responsibility placed upon it by its 7000 subscribers. Our first venture will be a season-opener number to be issued September 20 while on October 18 an Exhibition Special of marked beauty and power will appear.

Our contemporaries are announcing increase in Exhibition advertising rates but there will be no increase in our rates. A quarter page in the WEEKLY for $15.00 beats out any stamp advertising proposition on the face of the earth. 144 lines for $15.00.

We don't know how large the edition will be. It can only be measured by the crowds that attend the Exhibition.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—E. J. Gifford writes us commending the position taken by "Knocker" on the "Catalog Question."

—Geo. T. Edson, Mexico, craves the indulgence of patrons if replies to letters are apparently slow: "Our only mail out is a boat to New York every Thursday and this will explain any delay in answering letters. Let your readers know I am on the job and its a big one too."

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Herman W. Boers and Mrs. M. M. Crane.

—M. Bedard, 156 St. Andre St., Montreal, Can., would like to know the address of Keith MacKay also J. M. Greer. Can anyone favor him?

—We have received from O. E. Rasor a rather lengthy communication endorsing the article by "Knocker."

—John L. Hennecke, Bucyrus, O., has shown us a local charity label issued in connection with the work of the Monnette Memorial Hospital of that city.

"JUST YOU WATCH US GROW!"

The latest candidate for favor is Stigner's Stamp Era, 133 Nowlen St., Benton Harbor, Mich. We give the address in order that interested persons may do business with the publication. Rather than review it in extenso we shall quote the publisher's "Announcement" occupying the first page:—

STIGNER'S STAMP ERA

VOL. I. JULY, 1913. NO. 1.

ANNOUNCEMENT

This is the first issue of Stigner's Stamp Era—and maybe the last and only number that will ever be issued. The next issue may appear the next week, next month, or next year. The paper is issued as a hobby by a hobbyist. The publisher offers no apology in presenting this issue—it was done just to pass away the time. No subscriptions received. If you desire to see the next number as issued just shoot along a one cent sticker and we will do the rest. No advertising wanted or accepted as we want no firm to go bankrupt on our lists. We are open to receive kicks, hints and brickbats of all varieties and descriptions. Shoot yours along. Here endeth the announcement to the first issue of the sheet—and who knows but what the last? We don't!

The Publisher.

Some of the editorial notes are interesting:—

—First fit off the press and circulated. Second scheduled to arrive on time, whenever that is.

—As our space is valuable and limited, contributions must be limited to not more than four (4) words, if intended for publication.

—Our subscription list is not quite as large as Mekeel's as yet, but just you watch us grow!

—The Era claims at least one distinction. It is the only stampic paper that doesn't solicit advertisements. We believe in handing dealers the square deal, even if they do send out approval selections that are not asked for. It doesn't pay a dealer to advertise in a little one horse paper, anyway. When our subscription list is larger than at present we will publish rates for advertisements.

—The Era is not the first paper our editor has published. Several years ago he founded the Boys' Sun, floundering it two months after its initial appearance. The Sun carried just two more advertisements than this month's issue of The Era.

SUSPENSION OF "REDFIELDS".

While we have received no word from the publishers that Redfield's Weekly has suspended we are advised by L. T. Brodstone of the Philatelic West that such is the case and that the West will fill out all unexpired subscriptions.

Truly the way of the philatelic weekly is indeed a hard one and yet every now and then a new one blossoms forth intent upon filling a long felt want. After a while cash becomes a scarce article for printers' bills must be paid, paper stock settled for and other "blatantly commercial" demands met. In the course of time—suspension.

Mr. Redfield had the money to make his venture a success and there was every indication that his paper would succeed. It was slow in coming along. He could make no inroads upon the WEEKLY subscription list because our paper could offer superior service and the general run of collectors needs but one stamp paper. Getting a footing was indeed difficult.

Finally Mr. Redfield launched the Boys Magazine. There was ample room for it and it has become a powerful competitor of the American Boy. Its increase, marked the decrease of the stamp weekly, which has gradually faded from view. We regret its demise and wish Mr. Redfield all prosperity in his Boys Magazine venture.

IDENTIFICATION MARKS NOT WANTED.

By A. C. NEEDHAM.

I would like to register a protest against a method employed by some dealers in putting indelible marks of identification on the backs of rare or valuable stamps. On several occasions fine copies of stamps, notably triangular Capes and early St. Vincents, have been sent me on approval, which I have refused to buy owing to unsightly marks, figures or initials put on the backs with blue or purple indelible ink, and which have in nearly every case shown through the stamp.

I had sent me recently a very fine copy of the 10c 1847 white paper, blue gridiron cancellation with magnificent margin, one side being from the edge of the sheet, and described by the dealer as the finest used copy he had ever seen. But on the back three separate and distinct indelible blue marks of identification stood out in all their garishness and shone through poor George's face!

On top of this I was also blue because I had to return the stamp, which I otherwise would have kept, and no doubt the dealer was blue when I refused to buy it. For, like the missionary that returned home because the natives had designs on him, back go any "approvals" with indelible marks, for I do not like tattooed stamps.

Rare stamps in good condition are hard enough to get as it is, and many a collector will cherish a badly centred or heavily cancelled copy, but such "outs" are legitimate and are often forgotten in the pleasure of ownership, but to deliberately put indelible marks on a stamp is surely not improving its original condition, if indeed it is not spoiling it.

New York papers please copy.

PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY,

PERCIVAL FARRISH, PRESIDENT

1204 CHESTNUT STREET

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

PARCEL POST RATES TO BE REDUCED.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Plans for the extension, improvement and reduction in rates of the parcel post were announced today by Postmaster-General Burleson. The changes, which are to become effective on Aug. 15, include an increase from eleven pounds to twenty pounds in the maximum weight of parcels; a material reduction in the postage rates in the first and second zones, the abandonment of the parcel post map as a means of computing rates and the substitution for it of a rate chart individualized to every postoffice in the United States.

The plans contemplate the purchase of a large number of automobiles to be used exclusively for the delivery of parcel post matter.

While for the present the maximum weight limit of twenty pounds and the reduction in rates will apply only to the first and second zones, from any given post-office—a distance of about 150 miles—the changes directed today constitute the first long step toward a universal extension of the system and a general reduction in the rates of postage on parcel matter.

Mr. Burleson announced the changes as follows:

"The first zone shall include the territory within the local delivery of any office and the first zone rate of postage will apply to all parcel post mail deposited at any office for local delivery or for delivery by city carrier or on rural routes emanating from that post-office.

"The second zone shall include the remainder of what is now the first zone, together with the present second zone, and shall include all the units of area located in whole or in part within a radius of approximately 150 miles from any given post-office.

"The rate of postage on parcels weighing in excess of four ounces in the proposed first zone will be reduced to five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional two pounds or fraction thereof, and the rate for the second zone will be reduced to five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound or fraction thereof."

THE SONORA PROVISIONALS.

We quite recently noted by courtesy of Howard R. Howard, the appearance of some provisional stamps in the province of Sonora, Mexico. Further information is now at hand with specimens of the provisionals, and we quote quite freely from a letter received from Mr. Howard.

"Thus far the provisionals have been issued in five values, 1, 2, 3, 5 and 10 centavos. The 2, 5 and 10c values were the first issued. There are ten stamps to the sheet.

"The 1, 2, 3 and 10c have appeared in but one type, straight edge at top and rouletted in colorless lines on three sides. There is a variety of the 2c with a thin figure '2' occurring twice in each sheet. There are four settings of the 5c. The first has a heavy-faced figure 5; the second is in light Gothic; the third rouletted in black on all four sides, and the fourth which has just made its appearance on mail from Hermosillo has a light green circular overprint showing a liberty cap from which radiate shafts of light. There is a pair of balances in the shaded background. These four varieties of the 5c appeared in the order above indicated."

Mr. Howard submits a cover showing a Nogales postmark indicating postage paid without stamp being affixed. All in all, the province of Sonora is furnishing a very interesting chapter in philatelic history.

KNICK-KNACKS.

Who is the chap who got the proud position of philatelist with our grand and awful government? Just think of being paid twelve hundred dollars a year to dally with stamps. Surely some of them do ride in chaises.

Saith Editor Dekay sententiously, desisting for the nonce from the pleasant task of counting the contents of the bag of golden shekels representing the profits from his publication: "If a stamp journal cannot live in this country without being endowed, there must be little public demand for its existence; and the efforts of collectors toward the demise of a particular journal ought not to be retarded by an endowment fund." Nevertheless, we wish that somebody would endow us. (Now is the chance for some Hotspur to write in to say, Yes, with sense.)

Mr. A. W. Batchelder has arrived home from Hawaii and reports that his business trip was full of pleasure, or his pleasure trip full of business, we forget which. He sold several Missionaries and a lot of Numerals in the land of their birth.

Proxies are winging their way to our cote; and at the American Philatelic Society convention, we shall battle to our last breath to carry out the one instruction that we have received with about two dozen proxies.

"Velvety green" is a poor one to introduce into the stamp chronicle in hot weather.

"Now I can understand why all stamps are sold by the piece in a certain auction sale. Next time I may get another lot with pieces to match those lacking in this," writes an acerb reader.

Some of the United States have gone up in the advance sheets of the coming catalogue. (Business of hand-clapping by those who have said stamps and of hissing by those who do not have them.)

The true horrors of the war in the Balkans will soon be revealed to the philatelist.

A stamp Solon says: "The collector who puts in the most time on his stamps will have the best collection." Still a little money, too, might fit in.

WARNING!

Will you kindly warn your readers against forgeries of the 2c Pan American with center inverted? Within an hour of each other we have had two used copies offered us which had been sold to unsuspecting smaller dealers. These have been produced by erasing the vignette and printing in a new one inverted which was apparently made from a photographic reproduction. The cancellation had been retraced to match. One of these copies had been stuck in a small collection in order to make the fraud more deceptive. —J. M. BARTELS Co.

EDITORIAL.

It Seems So Simple—Let us say that the collector in a large city receives a request from a country cousin to obtain for him the fifty cent, seventy-five cent and one dollar parcel post stamps in blocks of four, well centered and without straight edges. As the smaller postoffices did not stock the higher values of the parcel post stamps, it follows that collectors in towns other than those of the first class turn to the big city postoffices for the higher denominations. The collector in "rural parts" is not inclined to send direct to the metropolitan postmaster for the current high values that he is in need of, as it is a prime requirement that the copies be selected and consequently, he dare not trust the choice to the philatelically untrained eye. So, the big city collector is appointed the intermediary; and glad to be of service to his brother in the country, he proceeds to the postoffice. He realizes that his mission is a delicate one and he will not delegate it to the office-boy or other supernumerary.

Not Smooth Sailing—When the accommodating city collector reaches the great edifice, to which his visits are rather infrequent after all, and sees what a hive of activity it is he has some misgivings about the easy accomplishment of his task. He takes his place in line and finally gains the window of one of the selling clerks, to whom he says briskly: "I want four each of the fifty cent; seventy-five cent; and one dollar parcel post stamps;" and then he explains that he must have the stamps in blocks of four, well centered and with no straight edges. The interruption already has caused a congestion in the line and several of the impatient customers of Uncle Sam's begin to fume at the delay. The clerk is not the soul of enthusiasm and does not invite extended conference, although he does show several one dollar, each with straight edge; a part sheet of the seventy-five cent, all the stamps of which are off center, and a batch of the fifty cent in ordinary shape. With the comments of the members of the growing line in his ears, he cannot make up his mind whether the condition is satisfactory because he is acting for another person; and finally, he blurts out something about returning later when the clerk is not so busy. The same procedure with minor variations may be repeated at a dozen other windows.

In Reality—What a relief it would be if one could go to the postoffice and buy stamps for collecting purposes in the assurance that they would be well-centered and otherwise acceptable. As it is, the collector would stand a sorry show of satisfaction if he would take the chance of buying the first stamp that was produced by the clerk of the dollar parcel post, for instance. It has not escaped the notice of collectors that the parcel post stamps run the gamut of centering from good to very bad. On the same sheet of the stamps, some of the stamps may be squarely centered while others will have the perforations impinge on the design. As for straight edges, there are thirteen in the sheet of forty-five stamps, nine by five. The collector in the large city who wishes to get a set of parcel post stamps will call for many stamps while few will be chosen if his quest is to be successful. His experience is likely to make him a convert to the plan of buying the current high values in fine condition from the dealer at a fair advance over face. The fault of uneven perforation does not lie altogether in the workmanship it is known, as erratic shrinkage of the dampened paper as it is prepared for printing is to be charged with the fault as well. There is one redeeming feature about the difficulty attending the chase for fit specimens and that is when they finally are obtained, they are appreciated the more.

The Registry Stamp—The ten cent registry stamp was discontinued by an order dated May 28th, 1913, when it was announced that no further supply of the stamp would be printed although the stock on hand would be distributed from the postoffices. In the order it was said: "Registry stamps shall be valid for prepayment of registry fees;" and thus the inference is that in no way would they be receivable for ordinary postage. Upon inquiry it was learned that the postage on a registered letter may be paid by one or more of the distinctive registry stamps. Thus one registry stamp would pay the registration fee and a second registry stamp would pay ten cents in regular postage. The reason why the postage on a five ounce regular letter, for instance, could not be paid by a ten cent registry stamp is to avoid confusion; it might be thought that it was the intention of the sender of the letter in question to register it. Item: The registry stamp is one of the scarcest of recent issues, well centered in a large block. On the same sheet there may be some stamps well centered and others poorly centered.

Observed by a Traveler—An old advertiser in the WEEKLY, Mr. F. G. Sweet, now of Battle Creek, Michigan, has returned from a trip that included Great Britain and many of the countries on the continent. We learn that Europe is no longer the storehouse of early United States of the higher values that it was in the past; and that it is becoming more difficult each year to replenish depleted stocks in this country by levies on Europe. The drains on stocks abroad have been so persistent that quantities of the stamps are hard to find; and moreover, several of the American dealers have standing offers to buy all the stamps of certain kinds at very fair prices that may be offered by their correspondents. The all-important factor of condition must be considered. In a lot of one hundred of the five cent, 1861, for illustration, taken as they come, how many copies will be perfect; five, on an average, perhaps. Some of the lower values, U. S. are good stock abroad and there are calls for stamps such as the used one, two and three cent, 1869; the three cent, 1887, etc., in quantity. Surely, United States stamps have come into their own; and their prices should never know retreat.

Almost Extinct—The high values of early United States stamps in irreproachable condition, unused, are so rare that catalogue price does not govern them. Fifteen years ago, one could obtain a good representation of them by an industrious search; but times have changed and the task of finding perfectly centered, unfaded and full gum, 1861, twenty-four cent, thirty cent and ninety cent, for example, and the same stamps grinded is one that will strain the enterprise of the best of them.

Ward XIII, Ground Floor—Is there some sequestered spot where the R. F. D. does not penetrate? Perhaps he would not find us there. He is still after us; and as we run, we read: "Will you please announce to your readers that I have been prosecuting my studies in the relation of tobacco to stamp collecting and that anyone who sends me fifty cents and a sample of cigar or pipe tobacco in the manufacturer's original package will, by special arrangement, receive a year's subscription to the WEEKLY and a copy of my book if it is ever published. You will be glad to know that I have more comfortable quarters. The doctor says that it is only in the upper stories that I am weak so he had me moved to the ground floor. Yours, Tu Tin Lungs. P. S. I would suggest as a tentative arrangement that you get the fifty cents and I the cigars, but I may want to change ends with you after a trial. Can you tell me what to do with twelve thousand missionary stamps that I bought while I was sane?"

MY MR. EUGEN SZEKULA

Will Arrive in New York
About the 22nd of October, 1913
as my representative. He will stay at the

ASTOR HOTEL
and remain there during the International Philatelic Exhibition
from October 27th to November 1st, 1913.

Philatelists and particularly dealers, will be gladly received during this time in the Hotel for doing business with my house. We urge you to write at once concerning this trip with offers and propositions in advance—Bela Szkula, Lucerne.
After exhibition close Mr. Eugen Szkula will visit the following cities:—

Boston	Cleveland	St. Louis
Syracuse	Toledo	Cincinnati
Toronto	Detroit	Washington
Buffalo	Chicago	Philadelphia

This trip will probably last to December 1st.
Mr. Eugen Szkula will gladly visit other places for doing business and those, wanting to meet him elsewhere than mentioned are requested to send mail to Bela Szkula, Lucerne, that arrangements can be made without trouble and loss of time.

Purchase!! Exchange!! Sale!!

is the purpose of this American trip, and Mr.
Eugen Szkula will take with him a splendid stock of stamps of all kinds, principally in fine
sets, dealers stocks, government remainders,
stamps in bulk, fine sets in different issues like:
Liberia, North Borneo, San Marino, Montenegro issue 1907, 1911 and 1913, postage stamps and postage due stamps in all issues, Baden, Chile etc., etc. Mr. Eugen Szkula will have also very valuable lots and nice rarities, which will cause great interest everywhere. Offers for purchase of all kinds, even to the highest prices will be considered with greatest pleasure.

It Is Very Important
to write instantly to my address—Bela Szkula, Lucerne, what kind of propositions and offers you can make, that I have plenty of time to consider them and give suitable instructions to my representative, so that he can properly divide his journey and his time. I am always a buyer of fine things, as collections, stamps in quantities in fine sets, stocks and so on up to the highest amounts and so I am awaiting offers and propositions. Please let me know if possible at once, directly to my address at Lucerne all details and propositions.

U. S. STAMPED ENVELOPES, 1853-1913.

By LOUIS G. BARRETT.

Designs Changed.

Of the SEVENTEENTH issue, of 1903-1907, it is not necessary to go into detail as the ground has been covered already with the descriptions of the many varieties resulting from retouch-ing the dies by the contractors, the Hartford Mfg. Co. The watermark for this issue, known as No. 14, consisted of the large letters U S with PO between the stems of the U; a small D between the U and S near the base of the S and the date 1903 below the S.

WMK. No. 14A.

The first printings of this issue in the 1c value were in olive green, and in ver-million for the 2c; and both of these shade varieties are becoming scarce.

It should be noted that Lincoln and Grant changed places on the 4 and 5c values, and that each value had a different shaped die, the 1c being round;
the 2c an upright oblong with rounded corners; the 4c a square (?) with rounded corners; and the 5c a horizontal oval.

WMK. No. 15A.

Some of the wrappers and manila envelopes have appeared with the 1894 watermark No. 12, the contractors having purchased some old stock from former contractors. The designs for this issue were based on the old Nesbitt die of 1864 with the addition of a Reay head of 1870, and Franklin and Washington are the only ones honored, the 1c and 4c dies showing Franklin's head, while Washington's is allotted to the 2c and 5c. At first the 2c values were printed in a red-brown, which has now been changed to carmine-rose, and strangely enough brown has been abandoned in favor of black for the 4c denomination.

A renewal of the contract with the Mercantile Corporation was made dating from July 1, 1911, and at the present time supplies are being furnished under this new contract. Paper with three different watermarks is in use promiscuously, being known as Nos. 16, 17 and 18.

WMK. No. 17.

Watermark 18 has more recently appeared, being the product of still another group of paper mills, and is simi-

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, Boston, Mass.

Some of the same dies of the earlier part of the eighteenth issue are still in use, and new ones have been added to both the 1 and 2c values, so that there are at present in use, Dies A, B, C and D (just discovered) of the 1c; and Dies A, A2, C, D and E of the 2c value. There were already two dies each for the 4c and 5c values, and these have not been changed.

An innovation of this issue was a series of "open-end" envelopes, intended to retain the contents of "unsealed matter" better than the style with top flap open. They have not been very popular and probably no more will be issued. New knives have been adopted for Sizes 3, 5, 8 and 13, the ones most in demand, showing a diagonal low-cut top flap, and for which is claimed an economy in cutting.
Size 11 has also been treated to a slight change in size, so that all told, with the numerous dies in combination with the three different watermarked papers, and two knives, a respectable collection may be made of this series alone.

We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldredge lists the following precancels:

Dallas, Texas. (Same as No. 1174, except that the lines are wavy). 4c, 5c, 10c, 1913 Parcel Post. Submitted by Howard Crannell.

Scranton, Pa.—(No. 1169). 2c 1913, Parcel Post.

ARGENTINE.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the three higher values in the Laborer set, all being printed in two colors. The centre shows the design of the smaller stamps, with the name of the country removed, and set in an ornamental frame with the name of the country running across the top and the value at the bottom. The stamps are of large size, and are printed on the paper watermarked honeycomb.

Adhesives.

- 5p slate and gray green.
- 10p violet and blue.
- 20p blue and claret.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—W. H. Peckitt sends various values of the new King George set as previously chronicled.

CANAL ZONE.—Gerald D. Bliss sends us the current 1c stamp, with the "Canal Zone" overprint in the new type, but very heavily printed.

CHINA.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 3c, 4c, and 20c of the current set with the Waterlow overprint.

We find the following in the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly:

E. Widler has written to the China Press about some of the recent stamps: I am enclosing the 10c surcharged, Chinese (Republic) in dark brown instead of the original light-red colour. Several sheets of these have been printed and issued at the same time from various sources. They have the same types as those of the Statistical Department. Of these, I obtained several copies from time to time, at the Shanghai Post-Office, and a small number of these were issued: they will undoubtedly become rare, and are worth looking for.

Of the inverted surcharges, there are many of the 1/2 cent, emanated from Wuchang; of the 3 cents from Hangchow, Hankow, Ningpo, Shaoshingfu, and prove that many sheets of these have been issued. Of the 1 cent inverted there are very few. The surcharges of the above are all of the Statistical type. Of the 1 cent, there are some of the Commercial Press type as well.

There are three distinct types of the surcharges. The Commercial Press, the Statistical Department, and the London Waterlow type, the last one of which is now in course; not counting those issued at Hankow, Foochow, Ho-chowfu and such places where stamps were surcharged from wooden blocks. Two denominations of the entire series of China stamps were surcharged by the Commercial Press, viz.:—the 1 cent yellow and the 2 cents green, and not as stated in Stanley Gibbons' catalogue with additional three numbers—229a, 229b, 229c; these three numbers are unknown, and do not exist. The above two types are easily distinguished from those printed by the Statistical department. The fourth character is of a larger size and the type usually of a clear and thinner impression in light red.

There are various thickness of impression surcharged by the Statistical Department. On the right side of some sheets, the surcharge is all very clear and well impressed, whereas those on the left or at the bottom of a thicker, unclear and flat impression or vice versa. If these stamps are examined individually, they give every reason to believe that they were printed from different types, which is really due to the difference of pressure exerted upon the types from the press.

GIBRALTAR.—A correspondent at Gibraltar writes to Gibbons' Journal as follows:—"When the new King George stamps were issued here on July 17 last year, no specimens of the King Edward 6d in the universal colour had been so far sold at the Post Office, though it appears that a certain number had been sold at the Colonial Treasurer's office on various occasions considerably previous to that date, various local collectors having unused specimens in their possession. I have lately been shown a pair in the used condition, which have evidently franked correspondence as far back as Dec. 4, 1911, as you will see by the photo that I enclose herewith."

GOLD COAST.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 5sh King Edward stamp which has just been issued in the Colony.

Adhesive.

- 5sh green and red on yellow.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The new stamps as announced last week have attracted considerable attention, especially the shilling values, the design for which forms a striking contrast to anything hitherto provided for the mother country. That the design remotely suggests the latest Barbados set is true, yet it is worked out in a better way, and once the shock of the change from the dignified older issues is absorbed, the change will undoubtedly be popular. We chronicled these stamps last week without seeing them, but now that we have been shown the stamps by the New England Stamp Co. and others, we find them to be very attractive. The large watermark, appearing once on every stamp of the higher values, makes three distinct types of the new cypher watermark, and opens up opportunity for a bewildering number of minor varieties. The New England Stamp Co. calls attention to a minor variety in the 2sh 6d stamp, the outer frame line just above the back of the King's head being broken and noticeably out of line. The specimen we have seen was the corner stamp at the lower right, but we are unable to say whether it occurs again in the pane or sheet or not. The new designs, like all the stamps of Great Britain since 1840, have preserved the idea that there is no need to print the name of the country upon the postal issues of the United Kingdom. With any other country this would be considered presuming, to say the least, but of course "the King can do no wrong."

Offices in the Levant.—The new 2 1/2d, with portrait of King George has been surcharged "1 Piastre" for use in the Levant.

We are indebted to W. H. Peckitt for specimens of the 5d, 9d, 2sh 6d, and 5sh King George stamps as noted above and in last week's issue.

HAYTI.—A. W. Dunning sends us several new stamps from this country, various values of the 1906 issue being reprinted in new colors. Mr. Dunning has not been informed whether the whole set has been reprinted.

Adhesives.

- 3c orange.
- 4c olive.

- 8c olive gray.
- 10c red brown.

HONDURAS.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us another provisional, surcharged upon the 1c steamer type.

Provisional Adhesive.

- "8 cts" on 1c violet.

INDIA.—Gwalior.—The Stamp Lover chronicles three more values of the current Indian stamps overprinted "Gwalior" in both English and native characters. These new values are 4a, 5r and 25r.

MAURITIUS.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us a new value in the King George set.

A STUDY IN POSTAL CANCELLATIONS.

We offer here a very instructive and far from difficult rebus to which we invite the attention of our readers. We shall give suitable prizes for best answers the number depending upon the solutions received. All answers must be received by August 15. Number your replies 1 to 28 reading horizontally from left to right. Where were the cancellations, pictured above, used? Inadvertently these cancellations were described as British cancellations last week and we now correct the error.

NETHERLANDS.—Some months ago we announced that certain of the current stamps were to be surcharged "Armenwet" for the prepayment of postage on mail relating to the administration of the Poor Laws. Gibbons Journal reports that the 1c, 1 1/2c, 2c, 2 1/2c, 3c, 5c and 10c have been seen with the above overprint in black.

NEW ZEALAND.—Charles E. Fisher sends us a cover from New Zealand with an embossed oval stamp, with King George's head, surmounted by a spray and crown similar to recent envelope stamps for the old country. "N Z" appear at either side just below the sprays, with "Postage One Penny" below.

RHODESIA.—The West End Philatelist says that an entirely new set of postage stamps is in preparation, consisting of 16 values up to and including the £1. The design will show King George in a yachting cap.

RUSSIA.—Offices in China.—E. Widler reports to the China Press having found two Russian China stamps with the surcharge in black instead of the usual blue. Of the 3k five sheets were only found and of the 4k one only, each containing 100 stamps. The above is of a recent discovery and unknown to any collectors or dealers; these were obtained from the Postmaster of the Russian Post-Office at Shanghai, who first noticed the difference. Owing to the small number found, these are likely to become very rare.

JOHNSON ALIAS AMERICAN STAMP CO.

We are glad to say that the P. O. Department has done good work in running down James F. Johnson of Baltimore, Md., who did a cheap business under the firm name of the American Stamp Co. Nearly a year ago we turned down his advertising, but other papers were more generous towards him. Johnson was arrested June 24 and tried three days later. The judge suspended sentence until the October term.

STAMPS OF GERMAN EMPIRE.

burg and Lubeck, with two thousand foot, and eight hundred horse, and a crowd of volunteer citizens, made a regular attack on the town of Bergedorf; which, yielding after a brief resistance, was pillaged and burnt. The brigands, however, retreated to the castle, which was strong enough to withstand for some days the arquebuses and cannons of that time. On the fifth day the besiegers collected and fired a quantity of combustibles the stifling smoke of which, compelling the defenders to retire from the walls and windows, enabled them to make an escalade, and the garrison surrendered on condition of being allowed to depart with whole skins. In 1430 it was agreed that the Duke of Saxony should abandon forever, to the towns of Lubeck and Hamburg, the castle of Bergedorf, with its appanages; and for more than four hundred years has it remained under the joint protection of those cities, each claiming the alternate nomination of a bailiff, or governor of senatorial rank—at first appointed for four, afterwards for six years—and supplying an equal number of soldiers to garrison the castle.

Hamburg purchased the exclusive ownership of Bergedorf on August 8th, 1867, the price paid being 200,000 thalers—about $150,000 in United States currency.

The midget territory of Bergedorf has an area of about 50 square miles and is situated to the south-east of Hamburg. Its boundaries are the rivers Elbe and Bille and the tributaries of the former cut it up into several detached portions. The chief town, Bergedorf, has about 10,000 inhabitants while the parish of Geestacht, adjoining, and the villages of Neuengramm, Altengramm, Kirchwarder, and Kurslach muster between them about another 10,000. The villages are known as the Vierlande (four lands) from the fact that each is on an islet. The soil is fertile and market gardening forms the chief industry. Hamburg forms the principal market for the produce.

According to some writers the postal history of Bergedorf dates from 1837 when, it is said, a Prussian post-office was established. Though the veracity of this statement has been questioned there seems no doubt that a post-office under the joint administration of Lubeck and Hamburg was established in 1847. The two larger cities joined the German-Austrian Postal Union in January, 1852, but no immediate provision was made for the issue of postage stamps as stipulated in one of the regulations of the Union. In fact it was not until January 1st, 1859, that Hamburg and Lubeck issued stamps and shortly after these labels appeared letters posted in the Bergedorf district were required to be prepaid with Hamburg stamps. Before long Bergedorf began to agitate for stamps of its own and though the Postmaster, Herr Paalzow, did his best by both writing to and interviewing the higher officials his efforts were not immediately successful. Herr Paalzow's most interesting effort took the form of a lengthy document, dated July 25th, 1859, in which he made definite proposals for certain values, to be executed in a certain way, with estimate of costs. We make a short extract from this document:—

In accordance with the tariff of local postal rates, five denominations of stamps would be necessary for Bergedorf, of the following values:—

- (a) ½ schilling
- (b) 1 schilling
- (c) 1½ schilling
- (d) 3 schilling
- (e) 4 schilling

The cost of manufacture by Ch. Fuchs, of Hamburg, including printing, paper, and gumming, for lithographed stamps, like those introduced at Lubeck, with the arms of the two towns, would amount:—

- For (a) to 3sch per thousand
- For (b) to 4sch per thousand
- For (c) to 4½sch per thousand
- For (d) to 5sch per thousand

For (e) to 7½sch per thousand
In addition the stone which would belong to us, once and for all, 20 thalers cost price.

Herr Fuchs agrees, in the final manufacture of the stamps, to submit to any supervision and to be responsible for all damage which might happen through the fault or neglect of his firm or his employees. With regard to the sale of stamps, it could eventually be decided that this could be done during office hours at all the post-offices, on payment of their face value, but that the selling of postage stamps should be absolutely forbidden, in the whole territory of the two free towns, to all private persons.

With regard to their use, I would suggest that articles sent by mail can be prepaid by means of postage stamps but that for articles addressed to places within the Royal Danish domains, now as before, only the Royal Danish stamps may be used.

Herr Paalzow also submitted an engraving of a design he considered suitable. This showed the joint Arms of Lubeck and Hamburg on a central circle with "SCHILLINGE" above, "BERGEDORF POSTMARKE" below. "LH—PA" in the lower angles, and large numerals in the upper corners. Though this design was not adopted when it was eventually decided to issue stamps there is no doubt it formed the inspiration for the chosen drawing. The essay was apparently printed in vertical strips of five in black on paper of various colors.

In the quotation from Herr Paalzow's document mention is made of a Danish Post-office. When this was established is uncertain but it was in active operation long before Bergedorf was supplied with its own stamps and also continued in business for some time afterwards. This office dealt with all correspondence addressed to Denmark, Luxemburg, Oldenburg and Schleswig-Holstein, the stamps used being those of Denmark.

Two years passed and then in June, 1861, a convention was held to discuss the matter, the outcome being that Bergedorf was allowed to issue its own stamps. Whether the designs prepared by Herr Ch. Fuchs were shown at this convention or not is a doubtful point but at any rate his designs were adopted and in October the general public were notified of the forthcoming issue of stamps by means of the following:—

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

From the 1st November of the present year (1861) all letters posted at the post offices of this town, to be sent to Geestacht, to the office of despatch of the district to Vierland, as well as to Bill, to Oschenwerder, Spadenlemd, and Moorwerder, can be prepaid, either by making payment in cash, or by means of postage stamps. The postage stamps, for the said period, will include the following values:—

- ½sch currency on blue paper, printed in black.
- 1sch currency on white paper, printed in black.
- 1½sch currency on yellow paper, printed in black.
- 3sch currency on red paper, printed in blue.
- 4sch currency on buff paper, printed in black.

Each postage stamp bears in the centre the postal arms of Lubeck and Hamburg linked together on a wavy ground. The arms are surrounded by a band above which in the upper corners are the letters L H, and in the lower ones the letters P A. In addition, there is in the upper frame of the stamps the word Bergedorf; in the lower frame, the word Postmarke; the value in figures is in the four corners, and in words at the two sides. The back is covered with the necessary gum for placing them upon the letters.

Bergedorf, the 17th October, 1861.

The Director of Posts,
(Signed) PAALZOW,
Director of Imperial Posts, formerly Postmaster of the Lubeck-Hamburg Office at Bergedorf.

The letters "L H P A" shown in the spandrels stand for "Lubeck Hamburg Post Ansaalt (Post Office)." The currency was the same as that of Hamburg and Lubeck, being in schillinge and Hamburg marks, 16sch being equivalent to a mark of the value of 25c United States currency. The stamps are the most peculiar ever issued in one respect—they gradually increase in size according to the facial values, the lowest denomination measuring 15¼x15¼ mm. and the highest one 21½x21 mm.

The stamps were produced by lithography by Herr Christian Fuchs of Hamburg. One type for each of the five values was drawn on the same lithographic stone and from these the transfers necessary to make the printing stones were taken. On this "die stone", if we may so call it, the ½sch is inscribed "SCHILLINGE" though, as we shall show later, this value was never issued with the value spelled with a final "E." On the same stone an essay for a 4sch stamp is shown. This has the usual combined Lubeck-Hamburg Arms in the centre and "L H P A" in the spandrels. The name "BERGEDORF" however, is placed just below the Arms and the border is inscribed "SCHILLING" on all four sides. Numerals "4" occupy the corners and the whole design is much more delicate than the issued one. This essay was prepared about 1866 when the authorities proposed to change the design of the 4sch as it was believed this denomination had been forged in Hamburg. The change of design, however, was abandoned owing to the war which broke out at this time between Prussia and Austria. Proofs from this "die stone" are known in at least eight different colors.

In the official document relating to the issue of the stamps, previously quoted, no mention will be found of the ½ schilling in black on pale lilac paper, and the 3 schillinge in black on rose colored paper. These two varieties are of a considerable degree of rarity, as a reference to any catalogue quotations will prove, and much controversy has raged as to their status. Writing with regard to them many years ago Mr. Duerst stated:—"The genuineness of these two stamps is open to doubt. These colors were not given in the official decree promulgating the issue of the stamps, and were only described and catalogued after the cessation of the Bergedorf post."

On the other hand M. Moens was a strenuous believer in the legitimacy of these varieties and as evidence that they were issued published a letter he had received from the Director of Posts himself, viz:—

March 29th, 1878.

My dear Friend,—

There has been published no official information on the subject of the issue, rather by way of trial, of the old ½ schilling and 3 schillinge stamps, with which we were concerned a little time ago, because it was immediately realised that the colours would have to be changed, these colours being difficult to recognize by artificial light.

The pourparlers and discussions on this point were never exchanged directly between the Bergedorf authorities and myself, and were mostly carried on verbally, which shows that there can be no documents on this subject.

With kind regards,
(Signed) PAALZOW.

From this letter one would infer that the stamps were in use for some days at any rate though no cancelled copies are known or have ever been heard of.

Evidently M. Moens misconstrued the meaning of Herr Paalzow's letter for an unbiased study of both sides of the question shows the improbability of any varieties other than those mentioned in the official notice having been used.

The final quietus as to the right of these varieties to be considered issued stamps was given by Herr Paalzow's son in an interesting article which appeared in 1898 in the Virginia Philatelist. Herr Paalzow, Jr., states most emphatically that the ½sch black on lilac and 3sch black on rose were not issued. He explains their existence as follows:—a sheet of each value was printed and submitted for approval to the administration. The colors of the 1, 1½, and 4sch were approved and those of the ½ and 3sch were rejected. The printer was then ordered to print the ½sch in black on blue paper, and the 3sch in blue on rose paper. Herr Paalzow asserts that his father's letter, written in German, did not convey the meaning construed by M. Moens that they were issued in a postal sense, but rather that they had been made as proofs or experiments.

These "stamps" are therefore only essays—though we are perfectly willing to concede they are rare essays—and really have no right in a catalogue of issued postage stamps.

On January 1st, 1901, all the documents bearing on the dual ownership of Bergedorf by Lubeck and Hamburg and lying in the archives at Lubeck were transferred to Hamburg. While sorting the various papers a block of twelve of each of these essays was found with the documents relating to the issue of postage stamps. Beyond, however, proving that they were officially prepared—a fact that has never been disputed—the discovery of these stamps threw no further light on their status.

determine between it and the stamp of 1871-79.

In setting about to make the plates for this stamp the old design used by the National Bank Note Company was followed. In fact an old transfer used by that company was used in laying out the design for the master die. This will account for the absence of the secret mark. After the design had been laid on the die block the lines were deepened, and the shading below the ribbon containing the value was almost totally obliterated by the deepening of the horizontal lines in the background.

The sure test in distinguishing between the stamp under study and the National print is that there are but four vertical lines at the left side between the medallion and the edge of the shield, instead of five lines, as shown in the former print. There are other minor differences which become apparent with study.

The stamp was first issued to the public in April, 1882.

Mr. Luff assigns to it the following shades—pale yellow brown, yellow brown, orange brown, olive brown (very scarce); brown, violet brown and black brown. The latter, if the true black brown, is a hard stamp to secure, although not near so rare as the black brown of the previous issue.

The following plate numbers were used for stamps printed by the ordinary method—the hand press: 403, 403A, 404, 404A, 480, 481.

Steam presses were used largely in printing this issue. It required five plates for this purpose, their numbers being as follows: M. 547, M. 548, M. 549, M. 550, M. 551.

Experts can sometimes distinguish between the stamps printed by the hand presses and those printed upon the steam presses, by the difference in the wiping of the plates. I do not think that all stamps printed by the two processes can be so distinguished, but it is certain that if one has a number of copies of this stamp, and is familiar with the manufacture, a specialist can pick out one or more which is certain to obtain the characteristics so marked that the difference can be told.

During the time the re-engraved stamps were current other stamps of the issue of 1879 were in use, in the following denominations: 2 cent vermilion, 5 cent blue, 15 cent orange, 30 cent black, and 90 cent carmine rose. There was no change in the designs of these stamps.

There are few varieties to be found in the 10 cent stamp above described. I have seen single copies with very large margins which the owners declare are part perforates, but I have never seen pairs interperforate between. I have a copy which looks as if it might have been a double impression, but am not certain that it is not a "slip" as the lines do not overlap by any considerable distance.

There is an interesting field for study in the paper varieties of this stamp as specimens vary widely in thickness and texture of the paper upon which they are printed.

Proofs and the sample stamps of this issue make a very attractive addition to the collection and should, by all means, be secured if possible. They will be eagerly sought for in the future by specialists.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A. W. Batchelder of the New England Stamp Co. has returned from a trip to the Hawaiian Islands.

—We have received from C. V. Webb, secretary of the Southern Philatelic Association, a sample set of forms used in connection with the work of the society. These applications, etc. are up-to-date and are a substantial indication of the enterprise back of this organization. Dues are low and within a recent seven days no less than twelve applications for membership were received. Annual meet at Wichita, Kansas, Sept. 13-14-15.

—H. H. Jacoby of St. Louis suffered the loss by fire of his fine shop and studio, a replica of the Alamo in San Antonio, Tex., on July 10. Mr. Jacoby, whose business is conducted under the firm name of the Jacoby Art Glass Co., advises us that he will rebuild at once.

—"Business has been especially good with our firm during the past few months, particularly since Mr. Lehmann has been traveling on the other side. Only last week we bought a collection for $11.000 and immediately resold it at a fair profit."—J. M. BARTELS.

—"The long continued and serious illness of my daughter has prevented my continued weekly installment of 'Specialized United States', to this time. I hope to be able to contribute regularly from this time until the completion of the work."—FRANK E. GOODWIN. We are certain that all our readers (appreciating the circumstances) will overlook the temporary discontinuance of these chapters on U. S. stamps.

EDITORIAL.

We Knew It—We have been waiting for this order from Washington; and another nail has now been driven in the parcel post stamps' coffin: "Reports are being received at the Department that in many cases the lower denominations of parcel-post stamps are being mistaken by the public and by the postal service for higher denominations and vice versa on account of the uniform red color. Postmasters are, therefore, cautioned to exercise care in despatching and delivering mail, to see that the required amount of postage is affixed." Etc. Judging from the rapidity with which the stocks of parcel post stamps are dwindling away, the aforesaid stamps will soon cease from troubling the poor public and the overworked postal clerks.

Considerable Colorableness—It occasions some surprise that more is not said about the shades to be found in the parcel post stamps. We have seen as many unused parcel post stamps as anyone in different offices and while we are not howling enthusiasts about shades yet it is not fair to ignore some of the striking differences. The one dollar and the three cent seem to run truest to color, the latter, as has been said, seeming to come only in the dark, heavy shade. No attempt will be made to name the shades as colors should be seen and not described in print.

Ignorance of the Laws—He asks and we respond. A Protean Philadelphian, now in the guise of "A. Crank," writes: "I would be much obliged if you would ask your readers through the WEEKLY the following question. Why is a daily newspaper permitted to publish cuts of United States stamps, when the authorities prohibit the same in stamp papers, etc? A certain evening paper published some time ago, three cuts of parcel post stamps and no legal action was taken against this paper. The reproductions were exact images of the original stamps. Why, then, destroy an exhibition stamp, which if held upside down while riding over the N. Y., N. H. & H. road will look like a United States postage stamp to a near-sighted person. Possibly you can think of a Greek phrase that will fit this situation." Yes, the Greek phrases rush pell-mell to escape from our mind and the result is that they so jam the exit that none can get out. Anyway, we are not sure that our printer has any nice, new Greek type on hand; and now we come to another paragraph.

EUGENE KLEIN, Inc., Empire Bldg., 13th & Walnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

As He Told It—Once we asked a secret service captain what he did when a newspaper violated the law by showing fac-similes of United States stamps. He said that if the violation was a first offense the paper was warned that a repetition of the act would call for disciplinary measures but as he admitted that he could not recall any cases recently where a conviction was made under the statute, the inference is that the warning is always heeded and that there is no second offense. In reality, it becomes very hard to administer a law of the kind without favor, as the violations all are committed unwittingly but it is to be said that wisely, the authorities are slowly taking a more serious stand in dealing with the breaches. One point must be considered; the officers are apt to make a distinction between the newspapers and the magazines to the advantage of the newspapers. The magazines depend more on the United States mails than the newspapers do for their circulation; and it is rather cool to ask the post-office to give transportation to a publication that is in the act of transgressing the law. We were assured by the inspector that whole editions of magazines had been detained at the post-office because a cut of a United States stamp had appeared in the reading or advertising columns, until the offending print was removed.

Clearing The Title—It now looks as though the three cent, 1908, coil perforation 12, sideways, was issued and we have a sort of finishing touch in the letter of Dr. Jason S. Parker of White Plains, N. Y., as follows: "I have several specimens used and one pair unused that I secured from Bell & Co., Orangeburgh, New York. One of the firm told me that the firm had considerable difficulty at first in getting the three-cent in coils." Orangeburgh, New York, surely and Chicago, probably, ordered the stamps in question and were supplied with some of them.

Earliest Stamped Letter-Sheets—From J. H. Smyth, Sydney, New South Wales, we have received a copy of the illustrated weekly, The Sydney Mail of June 18, 1913, in which there is a column with the heading, "The Oldest Postage Stamp in the World." Recently, there was an article in the Quarterly Review by that scholarly philatelist, Mr. Bertram T. K. Smith that told of the history of the New South Wales letter-sheets, blue and white, respectively, with impression of the British arms and "General Post Office, Sydney, New South Wales," embossed in colorless letters and design. Soon after the article appeared, there came into the possession of Mr. Smyth of Sydney, a lot of thirty-seven of the letter-sheets, easily the most important find ever made of the old letter-sheets, whose year of issue antedates that of the adhesive. We can appreciate the great regard in which Australian collectors hold these letter-sheets; and it is fair to say that this philatelic stationery has never received its full meed of attention and respect from collectors outside the "fifth continent."

Australia Advances—From Mr. R. J. Hogg, Adelaide, South Australia, we learn the following particulars. The stamps of Australia and New Zealand will soon be issued in rolls for several automatic affixing and vending machines, respectively, patents for which have been granted in the Commonwealth and in New Zealand. "Table Talk," an Australian publication illustrates the different machines. The South Australian departmental portion of the great collection of the late Earl of Crawford has been sold to His Honour, Judge Murray of the Supreme Court of South Australia; and as His Honour's collection was deemed a worthy rival of that of Lord Crawford, the combination of the two collections makes one that by far is the largest of these rare and interesting stamps. In all probability it is the only collection that contains a copy of each of the fifty-six different overprints. The Kangaroo stamps are now being used perforated for official purposes in the same way as the old state stamps were employed; and so it seems that there is not going to be a separate issue for departmental use.

Ward XIII, Ground Floor—Our punishment is far worse than the crime. For the third week he climbs our classic columns—and we hope the end is near: "The attendant brought in someone yesterday who claimed to be a amateur dealer in stamps, trying to get S. and C. A. complete, and seemed to be interested in the inmates as possible customers. The dealer asked the attendant if, as with most stamp collectors, there were not times when I appeared perfectly sane. 'Dear me, yes! There are lots of them worse than he is.' I have been wondering since whether there is any real encouragement in that. The attendant told me afterwards that the dealer came to talk over S. and C. A. with Count Lapp De Booze who is in the institution. They keep him in the basement corridor so that he can travel around without disturbing the rest of us. They are trying to cure his hereditary soaking tendencies by making him soak ten thousand stamps a day. His mind is quite dull, poor fellow. He promises that if they will only let him out he will manufacture a really satisfactory loose leaf album at a reasonable price. Yours, Tu Tin Lungs.

P. S. The attendant asserts that the doctor told him that the superintendent says that the visiting staff are inclined to regard the album symptom as indicative of quite an advanced type of mental aberration."

WOULD YOU DEAL IN STAMPS?

Speaking from an experience of seven years as a dealer in stamps we can recommend the business as one full of keen interest and profitable enough to make it worth while.

Just now is the time to decide that during these fall and winter months you will take up with dealing in stamps giving such time to the benzine cup and approval selections as you may be able to spare.

What to handle depends upon the amount of capital you can invest in a stock. If you will write us in relation to the matter we can aid you for we can speak from experience. We were doing a good stamp business when Mr. Mekeel actually drafted us for WEEKLY service, but the fascination in building an approval book has never forsaken us.

Would you know that fascination?

MY MR. EUGEN SZEKULA

Will Arrive in New York
About the 22nd of October, 1913
as my representative. He will stay at the ASTOR HOTEL

and remain there during the International Philatelic Exhibition
from October 27th to November 1st, 1913.

Philatelists and particularly dealers, will be gladly received during this time in the Hotel for doing business with my house. We urge you to write at once concerning this trip with offers and propositions in advance—Bela SzeKula, Lucerne.
After exhibition close Mr. Eugen SzeKula will visit the following cities:—

Boston Cleveland St. Louis
Syracuse Toledo Cincinnati
Toronto Detroit Washington
Buffalo Chicago Philadelphia

This trip will probably last to December 1st.
Mr. Eugen SzeKula will gladly visit other places for doing business and those, wanting to meet him elsewhere than mentioned are requested to send mail to Bela SzeKula, Lucerne, that arrangements can be made without trouble and
loss of time.

Purchase!! Exchange!! Sale!!

Is the purpose of this American trip, and Mr.
Eugen SzeKula will take with him a splendid stock of stamps of all kinds, principally in fine
sets, dealers stocks, government remainders,
stamps in bulk, fine sets in different issues like:
Liberia, North Borneo, San Marino, Montenegro
issue 1907, 1911 and 1913, postage stamps and postage due stamps in all issues, Baden, Chile etc., etc. Mr. Eugen SzeKula will have also very valuable lots and nice rarities, which will cause great interest everywhere. Offers for purchase of all kinds, even to the highest prices
will be considered with greatest pleasure.

It is Very Important to write instantly to my address—Bela SzeKula, Lucerne, what kind of propositions and offers you can make, that I have plenty of time to consider them and give suitable instructions to my representative, so that he can properly divide his journey and his time. I am always a buyer of fine things, as collections, stamps in quantities
in fine sets, stocks and so on up to the highest amounts and so I am awaiting offers and propositions. Please let me know if possible at once, directly to my address at Lucerne all details and propositions. [80]

THE CATALOGUE QUESTION.

By AMY L. SWIFT.

(We commend Miss Swift's observation in the last sentence of the opening paragraph as worthy of special attention.
No philatelist living could produce a Standard catalog that would escape the knocks of "knockers." Moreover we are convinced that no better man could deal with the complex problems of the making of the Standard catalog than the man now at the helm. With the publication of this article by Miss Swift we shall ask our other readers to send their suggestions direct to the publishers of the catalog. The catalog is a most valuable missioner for our hobby with all of its defects. There are spots on the sun.—EDITOR.)

The Scott catalogue is in one respect like the laws of the Medes and Persians, i. e., so absolutely certain of being exactly right that the idea of error and consequent change is, to the mind of its publishers impossible. Year after year errors, omissions and various inconsistencies have been pointed out, but year after year they go uncorrected.
We never shall have a perfect catalogue, and should not like it any better if we did, for we are too human ourselves to enjoy absolute perfection, or even to recognize it when we see it.

Nevertheless, it is undoubtedly true that "in a multitude of counselors, there is wisdom," and if the Scott Company would adopt a few of the very sensible suggestions for improvement ignoring freak ideas, we should have a better volume in consequence. One thing which is thoroughly exasperating to every collector is the inclusion of all those advertising pages at the back of every book. The last book has seventy-five totally unnecessary pages, for the cost of which, material, printing and binding, the collector must pay, although they are utterly useless to him. I have frequently asked collectors their opinion of these advertising pages, and never once have I had other than very uncomplimentary criticisms. Five who had bought every book since 1893 had never read a line of those pages; two others tore them out and four more gummed them together in a solid mass in order to more quickly locate the addenda, watermarks and index. All called them a nuisance, never had ordered from them and never would, knowing advertisements in current papers, or the counters of local dealers were apt to show better bargains, and all felt they were an imposition, saying so very emphatically.

A few years ago the catalogue cost 50c, post free, and even the boy or girl collector,—the grown-up collectors of today,—felt able to afford one, thus circulating the book widely and educating the youngsters, which two things are both very necessary if philately is to have a healthy future. This year the demand is for $1.00, a sum that very few of the young people will feel willing to pay, so the consequence will be fewer books sold, fewer beginners educated, and fewer enthusiastic collectors in the future. Already it is becoming a rare thing to see young people with the latest catalogue, "it costs too much," they will tell you, so they use out of date volumes which have been given them or bought low, or else go without, the more common way. The Scott Company tells us that an advance in price has been rendered necessary because of extra expense for paper, stock, printing, postage on larger books, and so on.
Postage is but two cents more than the eight cents of years ago, omit all those useless and burdensome advertising pages in back of the book, about one-twelfth of the entire volume roughly speaking, and surely it could then be sold for 75c, post free, without entailing any loss to the firm. Also, the omission would give space for growth of the catalogue proper, would relieve us from annoyance of buying what we do not want, and would save us time and trouble when consulting addenda and index. Think it over, good people all, and see if the suggestion is not worthy of adoption.

THE OUTLOOK.

We believe that the coming season will be the best philately has ever known and the reason for it is self evident. The October exhibition at New York will prove a powerful impetus to stamp collecting.

There is enterprise on all sides.
Mr. Lehmann represented the Bartels
Co. at the Paris exhibition, Mr.
Batchelder has just returned from the Hawaiian Ids., Klein, Bartels, Hussman Co. and other firms are advertising regularly in European papers and more and more we are realizing that the barrier of nationality no longer exists.

So far as the WEEKLY is concerned
we shall be up and doing all the time.
Gibbons, Drew and Wolff have just used quarter pages while Peckitt has one in every issue. Griebert of London takes a front page square, Palmalee and Stegmann regular space and the United Stamp Co. begins again its advertising in the WEEKLY.
We shall issue an Exhibition
Special and a good one too and there will be no increase in advertising rates. A quarter page, 144 lines for only $15.00, read by 7000 subscribers, and a copy of the paper given every attendant at the Exhibition.

To be continued.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

OUR REVIEW.

We have received from Stanley Gibbons, 198 Broadway, N. Y. City, a "Check List of all Stamps of Portugal and her Colonies Issued During the Twentieth Century". It seems difficult to believe that such a list should take sixteen double column pages, but such is the fact. Sprinkled through the list is a large amount of information of itself very valuable to a collector of these stamps. The various stamps are priced at "actual market value". This list is given free with the British Colonial List, price 25c, recently reviewed in these columns.

PLATING VICTORIA HALF LENGTHS.

The London Philatelist for April contains the first portion of a paper on "The half length series of Victoria."
This subject, read before a meeting of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, on the 2nd January, 1908, by Mr. Leslie Hausburg. The delay in the publication of this interesting paper is due, we are informed, to the author's wish to obtain further information upon some of the points touched upon. It seems to us to be a case of "festina lente," and a five years' interval savours somewhat of despair, but Mr. Hausburg has tackled a very difficult task, and if he can succeed in forming plates of the 1d, 2d, and 3d half lengths, and show such points of difference as will enable other collectors to plate them also, he will have earned the gratitude of many philatelists.

Could it be that the recent publication of Mr. Hausburg's notes is because there is now another "Richmond in the field"?

It was announced a little while back in these columns that Mr. C. L. Pack was also endeavouring to plate these stamps. Perhaps it is a race between both these distinguished philatelists as to which will succeed first. We wish them both "good luck" in the contest, and may the best man win. Friendly rivalry of this character acts as a great stimulus, and when it is considered that discoveries of this nature are all of permanent philatelic value, it will be understood that those gentlemen who give their time to the study of it should receive due appreciation of their efforts.

"Alliances" and "entente cordiales," etc., seems to be so fashionable now-a-days that we would suggest "collaboration" between Messrs. Hausburg and Pack, with the hope that their joint efforts might produce more satisfactory results in a shorter period.—Aust.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldridge lists the following new precancels:

Dayton, Ohio.—Two lines (DAYTON—OHIO) horizontal inscription in sans-serif capitals, between lines 15 mm. apart and ¾ mm. thick. 1c, 1912, inverted.

O. H. Eidsor sends specimens of the current 2c postage due stamp, showing that it has been recently printed in a new and distinct shade.

BAVARIA.—Mr. Schachne has received the following new entires.

Post Cards.

- 5pf green on buff; dated 13.
- 10pf carmine on buff; dated 13.
- 5x5 green on buff; dated 13.
- 10x10 carmine on buff; dated 12.

Letter Card.

- 10pf carmine on blue; dated 13.

BRITISH GUIANA.—Ewen's Weekly reports two more values issued in the King George set.

Adhesives.

- 2c red.
- 12c orange and lilac.

BULGARIA.—Gibbons Journal reports some interesting Bulgarian stamps and covers.

1. A pair of Bulgarian 1889, 5st, green, imperf., used.

2. One stamp, 1894, pelure paper, perf. 11½; 10st, bistre brown, instead rose; it is unused, with original gum.

3. A sheet of eight stamps, 1901 (commemorative issue), 15st, green, amongst which there is one with date reading "1870" for 1876.

4. Block of four stamps of 1909, 10 on 50st, surcharged on reverse side as well, on one of which date reads "1990."

5. Covers without stamps or with Bulgarian stamps obliterated with military cancellations, which differ from the regular Post Office cancellation in having a lion in the centre of a circle, and around it, the inscription: "Military Post and Telegraph."

6. Covers without stamps or with Bulgarian stamps obliterated with Turkish Post Office cancellation.

7. Bulgarian stamps 1911, 2st and 10st, cut vertically and used as 1st or as 5st.

HUNGARY.—A new letter card is reported by Mr. Schachne.

Letter Card.

- 6f dark olive green on gray.

HAYTI.—A. W. Dunning calls attention to the fact that although the 2c de gourde, with arms, was reprinted in yellow instead of orange in the first half of 1912, it is not mentioned in Scott's 1912 catalogue, Addenda or Supplement.

HONDURAS.—Dr. Roy F. DeSart reports having seen the 20c river steamer type, with one of the latest surcharges.

Provisional Adhesive.

- "2 cts." on 20c yellow.

NICARAGUA.—A. W. Dunning reports the latest Nicaragua provisional as the 5p locomotive, surcharged in black, "un peso—de Cordoba—1913". Dr. Roy F. DeSart reports having seen the 5c locomotive in a new color, pale blue green.

Mr. Dunning shows us the 6d locomotive stamp, thus proving that this value was issued in unsurcharged condition. Frank P. Brown also reports having this stamp.

We are also indebted to H. P. Norris for information regarding the 6c locomotive stamp, without surcharge, which was undoubtedly issued and sold.

SALVADOR.—The 1912 blue on white has been issued, according to Mr. Schachne in changed colors.

Post Card.

- 1c dark blue on buff.

KNICK-KNACKS.

Bring your traders to the A. P. S. convention and let liberality reign in your transactions among us.

"What is Ossa on Pelion that a high-brow philatelic writer speaks of?" asks a reader. That, Aldobar, is when the dollar parcel post that you want for your collection and for which you send the office-boy is badly off center and with two straight edges.

We have a circulation of 7,000. Now if every reader would send in at least one thousand new subscribers, we should have a circulation of 7,000,000; and then we should be on a par with a monthly contemporary, according to the veracious publisher thereof.

Our friend of years' standing, Mr. C. F. Richards, has saved the day and the lone instruction that we had heretofore is supplemented by a band of six, all sound and sane, that he sent with his A. P. S. proxy. Storm signals will be hoisted at Put-in-Bay.

"Society is Dead" we read in a newspaper. Still, one can never tell; the M. P. A. may get on its feet again.

"The great International Philatelic Exhibition at New York is barely three months away and already the sound of its approach thrills the frame," says a contemporary who must have been reading Sheridan's Ride.

"Cannot you skip a few issues? If you can we shall not mind the hot weather," says a sub. (We shall make the "s" of sub. like a "d" and then when he sues us for libel, we can blame the comp.)

"One of our men here has sold all his other stamps so that he may give his all to the stamps of Brazil. Is he a Brazil nut?" asks a first offender. Business of coarse cackinnation.

A stamp auctioneer describes a rarity as: "Fine but with a freckle on face." He should have tried cucumber cream.

Still, there was another cataloguer who described a smut on an unused ninety-cent, 1869, as "a tear stain on Lincoln's face."

But the one who called a hole in the ninety-cent, 1857-60, an "aperture in Washington's apparel," had us bidding wildly.

U. S. EXPERIMENTAL STAMPS OF 1901.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT, F. R. P. S.

Four years have now passed since philatelic America was stirred as seldom before by a new distinct paper variety embracing an entire issue of 11 values. Having preserved memoranda and correspondence bearing on this issue, it may be of interest to collectors, who have more lately joined our ranks, to be furnished with a condensed history of a stamp issue which in the future is destined to become increasingly rare and desirable.

The experimental issue was caused by a desire on the part of The Bureau of Engraving and Printing to improve the centering of the postage stamps, and reduce the amount of waste caused by the perforating through the uneven shrinkage of the paper. For this reason the Bureau requested the paper manufacturers to furnish 10,000 sheets of paper consisting of 65 per cent. pulp and 35 per cent. rag. The ordinary paper was made from pulp entirely. As the first printing on the experimental paper took place February 5, 1909, the paper was undoubtedly delivered some time during January. In June, 1911, I wrote to the Bureau for information as to the numbers of the plates used in printing the different values on the experimental paper, and the dates those printings took place. The director kindly furnished me with a list from which we find that the first experimental paper values to go to press on Feb. 5, 1909, were the 8c and the 2c Lincoln. The plates used for the 8c were 4919-22-23-24, for the 2c Lincoln 4976-77-78-79. Feb. 10th the 4c was printed with plates 4932-33-34-35, and on Feb. 19 another printing of the 2c Lincoln took place with the same plates that were used for the first printing of this value. On Feb. 25 the 3c went to press with plates 4918-25-26-27. The 6c and the 1c were printed on March 9, the former from plates 4936-37-38-39 and the latter from plates 4991-93-94-95. The 2c ordinary was printed March 10 from plates 4996, 5015-16-17.

In regard to the 1c and 2c values, the Bureau's record is not complete, and there is no doubt that another printing of these two values took place at an earlier date or dates. When the 1c and 2c stamps first were placed on sale at the Washington P. O., my friend,

JOHN M. LONG, Watertown, N. Y. [t¹²]

Mr. Geo. L. Toppan, at that time residing in Washington, immediately sent me a few plate number blocks of these values. The 1c with numbers 4889-90-92 and the 2c, ordinary, with number 4861. On receipt of the Bureau's list of printings, I called these plate numbers to the Director's attention and quote from his reply:

"In reply I beg to state that plates No. 4889-90-92 1c went to press December 1, 1908, and were dropped March 29, 1909. Plate No. 4861, 2c ordinary, Series of 1908, went to press on November 30, 1908, and was dropped on Dec. 1, 1908. This plate went to press again on January 4, 1909, and was dropped on April 2, 1909. Our records do not show, however, that stamps on experimental paper were printed from the above numbered plates."

The existence of these plate numbers on the experimental paper indicates that the earliest printings of the 1c and 2c values took place some time in January, 1909. Continuing with the Bureau list, we find that the 10c value was printed March 13 from plates 4940-41-43-44, and the 13c on March 20, from plates 4942-45-46-48. The 5c value went to press March 24 with plates 4928-29-30-31, and the 15c on April 6, with plates 4949-51-52-54.

As to the number printed of the 1c, 2c ordinary, and 2c Lincoln values, there seems to be a variety of figures available. In the most recent work "The Making of United States Stamps," published by George W. Linn Co., the author gives 1,480,000 one cent, 1,494,000 two cent ordinary, and 637,000 2c Lincoln. According to information furnished by the Director of the Bureau in March, 1909, there were 4,005 sheets used for the 1c, the same number for the 2c ordinary, and 1,754 sheets for the 2c Lincoln. Multiplying these figures by 400 we get 1,602,000 stamps of each of the 1c and 2c ordinary and 701,600 stamps of the 2c Lincoln. According to a statement furnished by the 3d Asst. Postmaster-General in February, 1910, the number printed of the other values are as follows:

3c	10 sheets,	4000 stamps
4c	11 sheets,	4400 stamps
5c	10 sheets,	4000 stamps
6c	13 sheets,	5200 stamps
8c	10 sheets,	4000 stamps
10c	10 sheets,	4000 stamps
13c	10 sheets,	4000 stamps
15c	10 sheets,	4000 stamps

The 1c, 2c ordinary and 2c Lincoln were placed on sale at the Washington P. O. as soon as they had been turned over by the Bureau, and the distinct grayish blue tinge of the paper made them easy of recognition. It was not until December, 1909, that the stamp collecting public became aware that any other value of Series 1908 had been printed on the experimental paper. During the first week of December, a prominent New York firm caused a violent sensation by announcing the 10c value on the experimental paper, offering the stamps at $1.00 per copy. In January, 1910, the 6c was discovered and marketed at $1 per copy by Chicago's leading stamp firm. A few days later a gentleman in Cleveland, O., offered the 15c at $1.50 per copy. The 3c, 5c and 13c values were discovered in the Fall of 1910, and the 4c and 8c came on the market later on through the manipulations of a P. O. official. The values above 2c were never intended for public use, the printing simply having been done in order to observe the effect of the various colors when printed on the bluish paper. By mistake those small lots were included in the regular supply and sent out to postmasters. Of the 4c and 8c values, I never heard of any being discovered outside of the lot which came from the P. O. official referred to above. It will probably be a long time before the waves of stamp speculation will again run as high as they did when the experimental paper issue brought discovery on top of discovery in rapid succession.—Collectors Journal.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

N. Y. City, July 22.

To THE EDITOR:—

Referring to the valuable contribution of Mr. Barrett which I have read carefully, I think it may be of interest to those of your readers who are interested in the envelope dies of the United States issues to hear that I have decided to exhibit the dies of the 1864 Three Cent rose and brown at the coming International Exhibition at New York City. After ten years of intermittent work this task has been completely finished. Probably the most valuable result of my work is the establishment of the chronological sequence of the use of the five heads, i. e., that the head at present known as Head I was not issued prior to 1867 and should be designated as Head V. On the contrary, the head known at present as IV is really the first one, and is found as early as Dec. 14, 1864. In this connection it should be remembered that the Three Cent rose was issued in September 1864. Full details concerning this most interesting issue will be given in a monograph which will be submitted by me to the Judges of the International Exhibition, and en passant, I may add that my exhibit is made to compete for the first prize under Class B—U. S. "Original Research Work."

COLLECTION OF CHARLES LATHROP PACK.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A BARGAIN.

By ARTHUR IRWIN SMITH.

To the novice, a stamp is only a stamp and one that has been used is worthless. Of what value can it be? It will never carry another letter, nor be put to any practical use whatsoever. Perhaps the collection of the present king of England, valued at many thousand pounds, is mentioned. "What," you are asked, "does he want with them?"

Don't argue or explain. You might as well try to make a mountain goat appreciate the beauties of Beethoven's sonatas or the waltzes of Strauss, as to make your meaning clear to an intelligence no broader than that. Just smile, and vaguely murmur that you can't tell.

It was in such a mood that I approached Aunt Mahala, our ignorant but big-hearted washer-woman. "Aunt Mahala," I began, after I had inquired solicitously in regard to her health, "I'm looking for old postage stamps this morning. Can you help me?"

"Goodness, child, I done used the last one I had yestiddy on a letter to my gal Mandy." Her kind black face wore a serious look at not being able to accommodate me.

"Oh, I mean cancelled stamps—real old ones, you know. Haven't you a bunch of old war-time letters stored away somewhere? Those old stamps are valuable, and I'll pay you whatever they are worth to me."

"Lawdy, chile," she exclaimed, showing a row of perfect white teeth, "I've got a letter that is so old I just don't know how old it is. I guess that stamp may be worth a hundred dollars. It suttinly is a quare looking stamp, anyhow."

"Let's see it, Aunt," I begged, beginning to get a little excited. "What denomination is it?"

"I don't remember 'zactly," she replied, "but 'pears like it was green."

"Well, let's see it anyway."

Then followed a search through boxes and drawers, closets and clothes-chests, which lasted until I thought I would have a nervous fit from impatience. Finally every piece of Aunt's wardrobe was on the floor, as well as the miscellaneous contents of the six or eight bureau drawers. Aunt scratched her head despondently. "I know it's here somewhere," she insisted.

The big tall clock struck eleven. The better part of my morning was gone without results. Luck was not with me, and my face grew long.

Aunt Mahala began giggling as the clock finished striking and waddled across to the fireplace. "Here it is, child," she cried, as she reached behind the time-piece with her fat, pudgy hand.

The letter came forth and I reached for it to glance hurriedly at the stamp. She had been right in her recollection; it was a green stamp, one of the common two-centers of the late eighties, worth about five cents a hundred when perfect and free from paper.

"Quite a find, Aunt," I observed, struggling to hide my disappointment. "I'll give you a quarter for it."

And then some people kick at paying half-catalogue!

THE EARLY UNITED STATES ENVELOPES.

By J. M. BARTELS.

In view of the broad knowledge of the dies of United States adhesives stamps, and the extent to which they have been exploited in the philatelic press and catalogues for many years, it is surprising indeed that so many extremely interesting and important dies of envelopes have remained unknown until a very recent date.

A noted British philatelist, the late Gilbert Harrison, some years ago, published the results of his study in an admirably illustrated work, but, unfortunately, this treatise was not extensively circulated in this country, and owing to a failure of the author to describe adequately and to intelligently elucidate the different dies, his otherwise well illustrated work failed to instil in American envelope specialists the incentive for greater knowledge and further research.

Not until some years had silently passed did it devolve upon a Boston collector, Mr. Victor M. Berthold, to delve anew with heart and soul into the subject of Nesbitt dies of United States envelopes, with the result of achieving as we can safely say: The subject is so exhaustively treated that it requires only ordinary intelligence and a little study for anyone to familiarize himself with this highly interesting envelope series.

The full results of Mr. Berthold's work were first published and illustrated in the American Journal of Philately, and later issued in handy book form by the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. who spared no expense to preserve to American philately this important contribution, the subject of which had practically remained dormant for forty or fifty years.

A brief review of the most striking of these interesting discoveries may prove instructing and profitable to many of our readers. In the first issue of 1853, 3 cents in narrow curved label, we have no less than ten entirely different dies, each showing a different head of the venerable father of his country. The entire features, the eyebrow and the arrangement of the hair are strikingly different, varying from what we might call a Dutch cropped cut to a long queue of carefully groomed smooth strands of hair. As a general thing, the commoner the envelope in these early issues, the more different dies were employed, while there is nearly always but one variety of the old well known rarities, such as the 3c in broad label with straight ends, all ten cent envelopes and the higher denominations.

In the six cents green and red of the 1853 issue we find four heads. The "Dutch cut" Die 1 is very rare in green, especially on white. The lucky finder of one of these would have no trouble in getting many times the catalogue value of the ordinary die.

The 1859-60 1c and 3c envelopes form a highly interesting study. There are several dies of each, all of which can be readily distinguished at sight after a little practice. Many of the 1c, both envelopes and wrappers, being priced far in excess of catalogue quotations, and are in great demand. A noted wrapper rarity, the 1c on white paper, is in Mr. Worthington's collection and the only entire copy known. Perhaps the most interesting die is the 1c, in which the bust cuts into the frame both back and front. On orange it has been listed at $15, and is the least rare. A cut square specimen on a buff envelope was found some time ago, but shape, size and other particulars have remained one of the isolated, unsolved mysteries anent the Nesbitt envelopes. The general catalogue gives no information about these rarities, yet their value is easily $50 or more.

Mr. E. H. Mason possesses copies of the 3c of this issue on both blue and white watermarked letter sheets, similar to the 1861, which were regularly issued on blue. While these are of considerable value and great interest they are believed to be proofs or sample printings.

Another issue teeming with interest is the 3c of 1861. It is strange that no difference was even made between the narrow and broad dies of this envelope. They can be told at sight without making measurements. Of the former there are seven, and of the latter ten dies, the lettering varies greatly in size, especially the C in CENTS. Die 5, one of the narrow ones, is the rarest; the U in UNITED almost touches the circle below, and the lettering is very small. A fine entire copy unused on either white or buff would be cheap at $25, while the ordinary variety lists $1.50 and $2.00 respectively.

The 2 cents black with head of Jackson issued in 1864 offers unsurpassed attractions, and many old envelope collectors, noticing striking differences, had formerly included a number of the different dies in their collections. The general catalogue distinguishes two dies with U. S. POSTAGE above, and two with U. S. POST; the latter are designated as 24 and 26 mm. in breadth. There are really eight dies of U. S. POSTAGE, of which four appear on wrappers only. The eighth is known as the "narrow 2" or Die B, and lists $75 and $100.

Of Die A there is only one envelope listed and priced at $1.00 used or unused. In the common die the letter O is the highest in POSTAGE, and in the centre of the upper label, but if you are fortunate enough to have one with the S higher than the other letters it is at least twenty times as rare and valuable as the ordinary one.

Much could be written about the attractive features of the U. S. POST 2c black. A peculiar thing is that very few dies which appear on the wrappers are found on the envelopes, except in some cases on the larger size 5 on amber paper. Any die appearing on orange paper generally comes on buff also, but not on a wrapper.

A narrow U in U. S. is an indication of a rather common variety in Die C, which measures 24 mm. in width. If it happens to be a broad die (Die D) with the same narrow U, you have a greater rarity than the above mentioned Die B, listing $75 and $100. This rarity comes on a buff envelope only, and is missing in nearly all collections. It is without question the rarest of all Nesbitt Dies; in fact, I am not exaggerating in stating that it is the very rarest of any die of any United States envelope. Mr. E. H. Mason has an entire unused copy, and Mr. J. S. Rich in New York a fine cut square, but I have never seen or heard of any others. No general catalogue gives you any information about this unsuspected treasure, but if you study up your early envelopes you will have many a chance of picking up really rare and valuable dies at ordinary prices. Here it can be truly said that knowledge is power, and the time you devote to studying envelopes is well and profitably spent.

The 1864 issue is the last of the Nesbitt series as George H. Reay became the contractor in 1870. The 3c and 6c are the only other dies which show differences. The 6c is easily dismissed. Of both the pink and the purple there are but two dies, varying in the head of Washington, the arrangement of the central part of the hair showing the distinction readily, although there are differences also in the letters. It might be well to remember that "Head 1" does not come on buff paper, but amber and white only, while all 6c buff are Head 3.

The 3c rose and brown of this issue shows many varieties. The narrow and the broad dies are easily distinguished, and are as fully entitled to recognition as the narrow and broad 2c. The broad die is much the scarcer in rose, and a decided rarity in rose on buff, but in white it is fairly common on the small note size envelope. This issue is further divided into five different heads of Washington. The fifth is rare, and most frequently found on a thin second quality of buff paper.

The Scott catalogue made a good beginning by including in the 1905-06 editions the principal distinctions of many of these interesting dies, which had commenced to be more appreciated by collectors. Instead of continuing the improvements initiated several years ago we soon found that this valuable information entirely vanished in the 1907 edition, and philatelists are once more deprived of much that is well worth knowing. Many generalists may not care to collect all dies, but nearly every collector wants to know all he can about any specimen that may happen to come his way. The Standard American Catalogue should be looked upon primarily as a disseminator of knowledge, and not as a dictator to the collector, as to what he should collect and what he should leave alone!

The Nesbitt dies of United States envelopes are fully as worthy of the attention of collectors as the different Plimpton and later issues, which for years have been listed as Die A, B, B2, B3, D, etc.

The time is rapidly approaching when the early U. S. envelopes will receive their well merited attention, and no collection either cut square or entire can possibly make any claim to completeness as long as these important dies are ignored. They are as worthy of study and a place in a collection as many types listed in adhesive stamps, such as types I to IV of the 1c, 1851-57, the 2c 1890 with caps, the 2c green and 2c black Navy Department, which are only proofs, which is shown by the fact that both exist imperf. while the normal color does not. The green is catalogued as an error, while its mate in black is omitted.

The Nesbitt envelopes offer an especially attractive field for study and research to both the young and more advanced collector. May the few facts set forth here encourage many to give the subject its due share of philatelic attention.

PRINTING PLANT FOR CHILE.

The government of Chile is getting estimates on a complete printing plant including everything that is necessary for engraving and printing postage and revenue stamps, bank notes, and bonds, to cost approximately $100,000. This certainly forecasts something philatelic on the part of Chile.

AEROPLANE CANCELLATIONS.

By ARTHUR T. BROWNE, B. P. S., 543.

There is an old, old saying, "Tell your troubles to a policeman," and believe me, it still holds good. Having been afflicted with the aero cancellation bug, I have had considerable trouble (and also much pleasure) in trying to round up the various aeroplane cancellations as they came along. After having written a score or more letters to newspapermen, stamp collectors, postoffice officials and others at Eureka, Cal., I was about to throw up my hands and quit when I finally decided to try the Chief of Police, the above mentioned quotation having come to my mind. I sat right down and pounded out a few lines on the typewriter to the Chief of Police at Eureka, and behold, back came an answer with the much desired and sought-after aeroplane cancellation.

At New Era Park (Humboldt Bay), Eureka, Cal., April 21 and 22, 1913, mail was carried by aviator Weldon B. Cooke for a distance of two miles. Cooke started from the park and winged his way across the bay to the Eureka side. The mail sack was dropped from a height of 600 feet. The sack was picked up by a carrier from the Eureka postoffice. Through the kindness of B. W. Coggeshall, president of the Coggeshall Launch Company, lessees of the New Era Park, I obtained this information.

The aeroplane cancellation consisted of the regular circular postmark and black ink was used. At the top were the words "Aeroplane Post". In the center were the words "U. S. Mail" and at the bottom were the words "Eureka, Calif." An oddity about this cancellation was the fact that no date was used in the postmark.

I still have the "Help Wanted" sign out for aero cancellations from Boonville, Ind.; and Providence, Ky. The first was used August 26-31, 1912, and the second July 22-27, 1912. Cannot some reader help me out with cards with these cancellations?

THE THREE-CENT 1908 PERF. 12.

We are indebted to J. R. Hammerle, Scranton, Pa., for the submission of an official communication from A. M. Dockery, Third Assistant Postmaster General, giving the facts in connection with the three-cent 1908 perf. 12. We quote from Mr. Dockery's letter as follows:—

"The records indicate that the three-cent 1908 was issued in sidewise coils perforated 12, on single lined watermarked paper. It was not issued with the double lined watermarked."

GETTING SQUARE WITH BARBER.

A commercial traveler relates that he was in a postoffice up York state when a man came in and bought a half dollar's worth of stamps. The clerk at the window, as he handed them out asked:

"Don't you want to send something by parcel post?"

"Not today."

"Have a money order this morning?"

"No, thanks."

"Or some postal cards? A new supply just came in."

"None today."

"Stamped envelopes? We carry all sizes."

"No, no."

"Want to rent a postoffice box or register a package?"

"Not at all." And the customer left. The traveling man inquired, "Who is that fellow?"

"Oh, he's a barber," replied the clerk "Did you hear me get square?"—Newark Star.

WHY NOT DEAL IN STAMPS?

It's a pleasurable occupation and can be easily conducted from the home if office life is objectionable. It will not only give you pleasure but profit as well. We know because we have had the experience.

For seven years the managing editor made the catalog a constant companion in his leisure hours and with a benzine cup at his elbow, approval books blossomed into a successful stamp business. We know this not only because our stock books testified to it, but because stamp collectors put it into their correspondence.

Here is the WEEKLY ready to serve you. It has 7000 subscribers and we will make it 8000 before the winter is over. Our advertising rates are low, very low, the lowest in the world for service rendered. Of course you need a little cash to furnish stock but little cash can be made to answer if you have the necessary grit and enthusiasm.

Why not write me?

THE CONVERSION OF EDDY FYNE.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

The first time I saw Eddy Fyne he was slumbering in my hammock. On the ground, at his side, sat Jimmy O', deep in a game of solitaire. They had ridden in before daylight, silently staked out their horses, and patiently awaited signs of life in my shack. There were none, for I was asleep on my cot, the far-side the tent-house, in the open. When I awoke in the gray of dawn, I ambled around the corner of the shack. From the contour of Jimmy's back, I knew there was something adrift in that brain of his besides solitaire. It couldn't bode good for Jimmy's companion.

Eddy had a sweetly childish face,— also the reddest hair and the curliest I had ever seen. Also, he was the typical cow-puncher even in sleep.

As soon as Jimmy O' heard my footstep, without turning his head or saying
"hello!" he began his usual monologue.
"As I was tellin' my recumbent an' slumberin' friend, you are the most hospitable man off the range. You 'low us to occupy your best hammock; you permit me to play solitaire on the spot where your lawn refuses to grow; you let us feed an' anchor our cayuses anywhere we opine; you sure grub us like men when we ought to eat husks with the swine."

Jimmy rolled a cigarette, deftly lighted a match with his fingernail, ostentatiously, however, touching it to Eddy's curls, and then resumed:

"And you let us read your papers an'
books an' look at your stamps. Now Eddy, here, opines he hates stamps, so I bought a book—'Care an' Feedin' O' Infants'—when I was over in Phenicia las' month. Then I played poker with Eddy, loser to read the book. Nine games I won, so far, off Eddy. He sure has got the infant dope properly broke.
Why, las' week they was a Mex. kid at El Rancho Chiquita had colic or somethin'—fit to die. Eddy saved his life, all o' them poker games he lost. I tell you, Eddy's some doctor. Took charge o' that kid's grub an' his ma's diet an' now—now you ought to see him—the kid."

Eddy, showing signs of awaking, Jimmy promptly yelled "Yi! Yah!" in his ear. Eddy immediately rolled out of the hammock, hit the ground full length, gasped for breath, and finally sat up, speechless.

"Some day he'll be hammock-broke," said Jimmy, with his slow grin. "Meantime, seein' he's shed his gun, we're safe."

Eddy rose slowly to his feet, was properly introduced, and at Jimmy's instigation, explained why he chose the hammock instead of the ground for his slumbers.

"You see, it's this way. Jimmy O', here, was brought up in a hammock, holdin' hands bein' his strongest point."

"Yep. Poker hands," interjected Jimmy O'.

"Me, I was born on the range," continued Eddy.

"Nursed by a wolf, like the Roman twins, which makes him so fierce," grinned Jimmy.

"An' this hammock game continues new to me," completed Eddy.

Then Eddy looked at his disenchanter again, crawled in carefully, and, to Jimmy's sharp—"in agin—an' out agin"— promptly rolled out the opposite side, flop.

"Me—I stick to the ground," Eddy declared, finally, as he sagged against the cool sides of the water barrel.

"So I see—so I see," said Jimmy.
Which causes me to recall the time that Michigan kid rode the range for four months an' four days, because his pa owned the ranche, an' the kid an' he was some sore at each other, all on account o' a girl. Now the kid had ideas, an' he was hammock-broke—used to sit in one o' nights, an' swing an' swing till he near swung himself to sleep—him an' the girl. The kid had ideas, too, as I said before. But ride! Say! he wouldn't learn horse in 'leven-teen years.

Swim, though, like a fish, an' always in the water when he wasn't in the saddle.
Now me—I used to swim nine strokes er more in my innocent youth—"

"—which was innocent in a pre-vi-ous existence," interpolated Eddy.

Jimmy O' rolled another cigarette, lighted the match via Eddy's hair, and swept on with his narrative.

"Rio Salada is sure tame up Blue Point way, except in flood-time. Then she's worse'n an outlaw broncho. Well, one morning the river come up flyin',— rose 'leven feet—me on one side, with a big bunch o' cattle, an' the kid on the other with a big bunch o' grub. Say!
I near choked I was so hungry—an'
'leven feet o' water only a stone's throw between. Me—I know the ole Rio Salada. The kid don't. Well, sir, as we sat there, lookin' calm an' pleasant an' feelin' properly unfit, along comes a dead sheep. Then another. Then more sheep. Then a burro, laigs up.

"When I see that burro, I knew what's next. An' then, sir, along floats a herder, hangin' to a log.

"Now the river makes a bend half a mile down an' they's a whirlpool there.
That herder—I knew him—he sure was white as any Mex. you ever see. He called out somethin' an' shook his head.
One arm was hangin' loose—broke—an'
he couldn't do much but hang on. Me—
I just run fer my cayuse, but the kid yelled at me an' took a dive into that there yellow hell. I seen my best hold was to catch 'em at the whirl, as they come out—if they did. So I raced fer it, an' got there just in time to see the kid helpin' that Mex. by his good arm an' both windin' their laigs around that log. Then, sir,—well, I took plum' sick to my stummick, fer they both disappeared. What seemed to me 'bout a week er mebbe ten days later they popped up an' floated off down stream, the kid hangin' to that Mex. some fierce. That time they was both still. Me—I swum out on Pinto an' got 'em. The Mex.
was mighty grateful—and the kid—"

Jimmy rocked back and forth in joyous laughter.

"The kid 'lowed I was the one who was doin' the great an' noble—me!
Swimmin' ole Pinto into smooth water an' towin' them two ashore!"

I knew the spot; also, I knew that half a mile below the place Jimmy O' made his entry into the water, which ran like a mill-race, was another and a far worse swirl wherein was no hope for neither man nor beast. Jimmy knew it, too,—only he didn't know that I knew,— which is the reason he told the tale.

Jimmy rolled another cigarette.

"The kid an' the Mex. an' me there—we was so busy we didn't notice the kid's pa an' a lady lookin' on, havin' just rode up. Say, just about that time I had stage-fright somethin' fierce. But it was all right Pa was busy forgivin' the kid —an' the lady—say, I got the cards las' week—named him Jimmy, too."

"Might send 'em the 'Care an' Feedin'," interpolated Eddy.

"No, sir; you need that there book,
'specially the care," carromed Jimmy.

"Nope. I yearn fer one more game," said Eddy.

"An' fer the tenth time you read up on babies," chortled Jimmy.

"No, sir," declared Eddy, finally; "not fer me. I know it all by heart, now, for'ard an' back. But I tell you what—play you for that seven-dollar collection o' stamps you bought off that kid in Phenicia."

The game progressed. It was carefully played on both sides—artfully as well I thought, on Jimmy's part. When it was ended, Jimmy's slow grin did its usual stunt.

"An' by such unholy means are collectors made," he said as he passed over the seven-dollar outfit.

"Born, Jimmy O', born," corrected Eddy. "I been wantin' that collection ever since I read that kid book fer the

EDITORIAL.

Shrinkage.—In a letter from Mr. Wm. L. Stevenson, we have received two specimens of the ten cent, 1861, United States, to illustrate the following remarks: "I have several times mentioned that there are some interesting things to be found in shrinkage specimens in U. S. stamps. I enclose for your inspection two of the ten cent, 1861, which may be of interest. The tall stamp, by comparison, is the normal one and the other specimen, the squat one, is the exception which I have found in the ratio of one to forty-three of the skinny stamps. The difference comes from excessive vertical shrinkage and is so noticeable that the stamps scarcely seem to be of the same design when the two stamps are matched together. Such a difference in any foreign stamp would excite much comment." The difference in the size of the colored impressions is striking; one stamp is 24 mms. and the other 25 mms. in height. Some months ago not a few correspondents had their fling at size variations in the printed designs of the two cent Columbian in particular as our columns at the time attested. The explanation given for the difference in size was shrinkage in the steel of the plate in cooling and shrinkage in the paper which is dampened for the printing of the stamps.

Other Instances.—In saying that a difference in size so marked as the one in question in a foreign stamp would occasion talk, Mr. Stevenson is right. Old philatelists will remember how the varying sizes of the colored impressions of the Ceylon pence issues was once the subject of speculation and controversy. Later, in the maple leaf and numeral issues of Canada, the variation in frame sizes has been pointed out. An examination of the Catalogue for Advanced Collectors will show references to the size varieties under Austria, Ceylon and other countries, we believe, and the explanation given to account for the variations was on the basis of shrinkage of the steel at some temperatures under given conditions in the making of the plate. We understand that a shrinkage in paper sometimes follows dampening and there has been a tendency latterly to attribute many of the vagaries to be found in the size of the printed impression of stamps to the "cutting up" of the paper on which the stamps are printed. Probably both of these causes enter into the effect that has been spoken of.

In Australia.—Writing from Australia, a reader says: "We now have the whole of the new Australian stamps in use in some of the states but they are being placed on sale only as the old issues run out. Some of the values of the old issues for which the demand is small and consequently the stock large, comparatively speaking, may be in use for some time in different of the states. It is said that the one penny kangaroo stamp has been found with the watermark sideways, but this variation is likely to occur in all the other values as well unless great care is taken in the printing, as the sheets on which the stamps are printed are square in shape." For some time after the watermarked stamps of the United States appeared in 1895, misplaced watermarks attracted attention as novelties but it was not long before interest in such stamps simmered down almost altogether.

New Regulations.—Philatelists should know that "On and after August 15th, 1913, the limit of weight of parcels of fourth-class mail for delivery within the first and second zones shall be increased from 11 pounds to 20 pounds. The rate of postage on parcels exceeding four ounces in weight shall be five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional two pounds or fraction thereof, when intended for local delivery, and five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound or fraction thereof when intended for delivery at other offices within the first and second zones." We have quoted from the order of the postmaster-general on the subject. According to the schedule showing the new tariff which is based on the explanation given, 24 cents is the highest rate and that is charged on 20 pounds, second zone. More and more, the parcel post is being perfected as an economic factor and it has become the express company of the people. It may be interposed here that our remarks in this column recently about the difficulty found generally in securing perfectly centered blocks of parcel post stamps struck a responsive chord and we assure those who have wept their tales of woe into our ears that our sympathy is on tap and runs as readily as their tears. Speaking of tears, who is getting the parcel post due stamps of the higher denomination?

You Should Ask Us.—In the column of sporting briefs in the Chicago Daily

News for August 1st, there appeared the following unobtrusive paragraph: "President Britton has placed the entire Card team on the market demonstrating she is not averse to starting a stamp collection." The effect of the publication of the insignificant note was magical; and after having read it certain of our readers of hitherto impeccable character began to run around in circles. One of them wasted a stamp to say that the remark was almost as bad as a Knick-Knack and of course his case is hopeless. On behalf of those who wanted to know what the paragraph meant, we consulted the more or less Delphic oracle, P. M. Wolsieffer who after undergoing a protracted period of pain, sighfully said: "Too deep for me. What is it?" Who knows?

We Want Him.—From a man who we hope will become the government's philatelist, we learn that the governmental collection is in storage and boxed up in the National Museum at Washington. We suppose that in due course of time the government will make a yearly appropriation for the purpose of keeping the collection up to date but even if we are too hopeful in this regard, it will be something to know that the stamps are under the care of capable custodian. We trust to be able to announce soon who has been chosen for the position.

The Registry Stamp.—In order to correct any misunderstanding that may have been gained from our paragraph regarding the use of the registry stamp for postage, we hasten to quote from the departmental order; and it will be seen that the registry stamp is good for postage on foreign mail, registered, only: "Registered mail reaching the office of address or an exchange office in case of mail addressed to a foreign country, with registry stamps affixed representing the full amount of postage in addition to the registry fee shall be delivered to the addressee, or dispatched to the foreign country, without additional charge. If the registry stamps so used do not represent the full amount of postage in addition to the registry fee, the deficient postage at the single rate only shall be charged."

Ward XIII, Ground Floor.—After this, nothing matters. "The attendant let me have a little chat with Count Lapp De Booz yesterday afternoon in the basement. I told him it was reported round that he was dead and he said he had heard so himself and couldn't quite get his mind clear on the point. 'The restraint, the temperature and the surroundings are somewhat in accord with my early ideas on the subject of a future abode, and having you drop in this way strengthens what was already a growing conviction, but I doubt if it makes any real difference for, if so, I can continue publication of my travels posthumously. I am glad you called, because it is much lonelier than I had been led to expect, but if

OUR REVIEW.

We have received from Wm. E. Ault, secretary of the A. P. S., the "Annual Report of the Committee on Philatelic Literature." The book is uniform with the handbooks previously issued and is sent free to members of the society. Its price to non-members is 25c. The book is a catalog of books and periodicals issued from July, 1911, to August 10, 1912. The books comprise all issued throughout the world, while the periodicals are confined to the English language. The catalog is compiled by Wm. R. Ricketts and associated with him are Chas. A. Nast and E. R. Aldrich. The book will prove a very valuable aid to the literature lover.

MY MR. EUGEN SZEKULA

Will Arrive in New York

About the 22nd of October, 1913

as my representative. He will stay at the

ASTOR HOTEL

and remain there during the

from October 27th to November 1st, 1913.

Philatelists and particularly dealers, will be gladly received during this time in the Hotel for doing business with my house. We urge you to write at once concerning this trip with offers and propositions in advance—Bela Szkula, Lucerne. After exhibition close Mr. Eugen Szkula will visit the following cities:—
Boston Cleveland St. Louis
Syrause Toledo Cincinnati
Toronto Detroit Washington
Buffalo Chicago Philadelphia
This trip will probably last to December 1st. Mr. Eugen Szkula will gladly visit other places for doing business and those, wanting to meet him elsewhere than mentioned are requested to send mail to Bela Szkula, Lucerne, that arrangements can be made without trouble and loss of time.

Purchase!! Exchange!! Sale!!

is the purpose of this American trip, and Mr. Eugen Szkula will take with him a splendid stock of stamps of all kinds, principally in fine sets, dealers stocks, government remainders, stamps in bulk, fine sets in different issues like: Liberia, North Borneo, San Marino, Montenegro issue 1907, 1911 and 1913, postage stamps and postage due stamps in all issues, Baden, Chile etc., etc. Mr. Eugen Szkula will have also very valuable lots and nice rarities, which will cause great interest everywhere. Offers for purchase of all kinds, even to the highest prices will be considered with greatest pleasure.

It Is Very Important

to write instantly to my address—Bela Szkula, Lucerne, what kind of propositions and offers you can make, that I have plenty of time to consider them and give suitable instructions to my representative, so that he can properly divide his journey and his time. I am always a buyer of fine things, as collections, stamps in quantities in fine sets, stocks and so on up to the highest amounts and so I am awaiting offers and propositions. Please let me know if possible at once, directly to my address at Lucerne all details and propositions.

STY'S SERVICE.

SOME CANADIAN PUBLICITY CANCELLATIONS.

A GOOD PROSPECT.

Already we hear the distant approach of business, indeed it is near at hand. It will be seen that Maxwell Krause again resumes his regular advertisement this week and will be with us regularly. F. H. Lord, of San Francisco, also has a regular advertisement. Stegmann, of St. Louis will be with us for at least three months.

Two new contracts have been written during the past week, one with L. W. Charlat and the other with the Western Stamp Co. Mr. Charlat is a well-known member of the New York dealing fraternity and specializes in the stamps of Central and South America. With the thought that the U. S. is to establish a protectorate over Nicaragua he feels that his introductory advertisement should be a puller. The Western Stamp Co. is a newer firm. Its manager, L. L. Krippner, is a member of the A. P. S.

J. A. Galbraith writes that he will use larger space while the Exhibition is on. Naturally so. That reminds us that our Exhibition Special will appear October 18, and there will be no increase in advertising rates. We shall issue a fine number in every way—a missioner of great merit and every attendant at the Exhibition will have one.

It's time for you to get busy!
THE MANAGING EDITOR.

KNICK-KNACKS.

The publisher of a stamp paper wants a stamp auctioneer to sell his brain-child in an early sale. Hurry, Mr. Auctioneer, ere it is too late.

A stamp thief caught in the act told the dealer apologetically that he was dazed by the heat. On a cold day, he would have turned the trick successfully, we infer.

"It pains me as a precisian to find that you refer to Australia as the 'fifth continent' and I trust that I shall not be given the pain to reprobate you publicly again," says one who we must admit reluctantly is a subscriber. No man who calls himself a precisian can talk to us that way; and we jerk the Standard Dictionary on him: "The land of the globe is sometimes divided into two continents, the eastern and the western; sometimes into four, Africa, Asia, and Europe being separately enumerated; more commonly into five, Australia being reckoned as one; still oftener into six, North and South America being counted separately; and sometimes the hypothetical continuous land at the south pole is reckoned as another."

A "special cable," inspired evidently by the recent philatelic exhibition at Paris, to the Philadelphia Press says that it has been reported that the wonderful collection of the Duke of Galliera is to be given to the Galliera Museum. M. le Renotiere, as he prefers to be called, is an elderly man now but in the decade, 1880 to 1890, he and his collection were the subject of more comment in the form of newspaper "fillers" than perhaps any collector from that day to this. Despite his eccentricities as a collector, he has a most amazing accumulation of stamps for which he has a veritable passion, as it has been described to us. It is good news to hear that the collection was to be preserved and will not come on the market. While the newspaper account is not clear whether the collection is to be given before or at his death, we believe that the stamps will not be transferred during M. le Renotiere's life-time.

"I subscribed for the WEEKLY 10 weeks last spring and it run out a couple months ago but is still coming. I should have wrote you sooner to stop it; but I thought you would stop it. I like the paper but can't afford to get it. I am an invalid and can't walk nor never will and I only have a small, about 500, stamp collection. Will you not put a letter in the paper about Christmas for me to get people to send me stamps like you did for another cripple last year? I would appreciate it. Please let me know. Will an envelope with two very lightly cancelled 1c Parcel Post stamps ever be valuable? Ira M. Kells, R. D. 6, New Bethlehem, Pennsylvania." Good people, why wait until Christmas? We have given a year's subscription.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldredge lists the following new precancels:

Chicago, Ill.—(1153) 1c 1913, inverted, double, Parcel Post.

Detroit, Mich.—(No. 1160) 2c 1912.

J. M. Stonier sends the Lincoln post card printed in green instead of carmine. The new card was placed on sale in Washington, D. C., July 26. The one sent us being the third one sold.

AUSTRALIA.—The Kangaroo set is being issued perforated "O S" for official use, several values already having been seen with this perforation, according to our English contemporaries.

BAHAMAS.—Ewen's Weekly notes that the current stamps have appeared in a new printing, the 4d coming in a paler shade of orange and the 6d in pale bistre brown. The 1sh has the lettering of value much thicker.

BELGIUM.—Lemaire's Journal says that the 2fr stamp, with large portrait of the King has not yet been issued, though announced some time since. The 40c value has been issued with the larger portrait. The same journal says that it is proposed to issue a 10fr stamp for telegraphic purposes.

BRAZIL.—The official series announced in No. 1173 has made its appearance, according to Lemaire's Journal, though in a little different form than was expected. Whether fiscal or official stamps is not clear. The inscriptions read: "Deposito" and "Brazil Correio" with the value in the centre. There are 13 values.

Official (or Fiscal) Adhesives.

100r olive gray.
200r lilac brown.
500r blue.
1m slate.
2m green.
5m orange.
10m brown.
20m brown green.
50m brown red.
100m blue green.
200m gray lilac.
500m red violet.
1000m gray.

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS.—The 11d stamp, an odd value hitherto unknown in British Colonial stamps was issued for use on parcels post mail to Australia.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—According to Lemaire's Journal, the Greek Government of Crete will commemorate the liberation of Crete from the Turkish rule by the issue of a special stamp of 25 lepta. The stamps have already been ordered in England, the printing being limited to 300,000 copies. The stamps will be placed on sale in the Cretan post-offices for one year only, the sale of large quantities being forbidden. The design will show the Venetian fort at the entrance to the harbor and will bear the dates Feb. 14, and May 14, the dates of Turkish depol and Greek accession.

FRANCE.—French Philatelists were treated to a variety of special stamps during the recent International Philatelic Exposition and Congress. The stamps particularly issued for the Exposition had a fine portrait of President Poincaré, and were printed in brown, red, orange, green, violet and blue. The same colors were printed on white envelopes and green postcards. During the visit of the President to the Exposition, a few stamps with his portrait were printed in brown violet, which were immediately sold at two to three francs each. Another type of stamp was issued for the Congress, showing the head of Liberty in an oval, surrounded by the flags of various countries, those of France and the United States being in the foreground. These stamps were also printed in the colors named above. No official stamp seems to have suggested that the Government would be wrecked by allowing the philatelists to have an interesting souvenir of an important occasion.

GOLD COAST.—Ewen's Weekly says it is reported that the Georgian issue is not likely to appear until towards the end of the year, and then only each value as the Edwardians are exhausted.

GUATEMALA.—J. T. Perdomo again raises the question of the perforated official stamps. There seems to be no doubt that all the current postage stamps were perforated "Official" for Government purposes. In doing so, however, the sheets appear to have been fed into the perforating machines so carelessly as to produce an infinite variety. Thus they may be found reading correctly from the face, both normal and inverted, and also reading from the back, normal and inverted. The Chronicle has already mentioned the 20c with perpendicular perforation. If readers interested will send us a list of what they have, or better yet, submit their specimens we will make up a list for publication.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—The Australian Philatelist says the last of the stock of New South Wales postage stamps from ½d to 2sh 6d have been sent to the General Postoffice at Sydney. They are not likely to last very long. The 5sh, 10sh and 20sh are practically sold out. There has been very little demand for the latter values. The 5sh, 10sh and 20sh punctured "O. S." are likely to be destroyed.

NICARAGUA.—The L. L. Albright Co. shows us a used block of six of the 2c green Liberty stamps, with the "Cordoba" surcharge, the value being "dos centavos."

NORWAY.—The Norwegians will next year celebrate the Centenary of the separation of the country from Denmark by the issue of a commemorative series of stamps. There will be three values, 5, 10, and 20 ore. The design will represent the taking of the Oath to the Constitution, after the well known picture by Oscar Wergeland. The stamps will be only available for one year, or until they are exhausted. A new permanent series is being prepared for Norway.

PORTUGUESE COLONIES.—Lemaire's Journal says that Portugal proposes a veritable scandal in philatelic matters by the creation of 32 series of eight stamps for the various Colonies. These new series are to be composed as follows: The Vasco de Gama stamps of Macao and Timor will be issued with the "Republica" surcharge. The Vasco de Gama series of Portuguese Africa Macao and Timor will be surcharged with the value in centavos, and presumably with the name of the Colony, for use in Angola, Cape Verde, Congo, Guinea, Inhambane, Lourenço Marques, Mozambique, Quelimane, St. Thomas & Prince Island and Tete. Thus no less than 256 stamps will be added to the list at a stroke.

URUGUAY.—Lemaire's Journal says that the 20c Artigas stamp has been issued in lithographed form, the 5m, 1c, 2c, 4c and 5c having previously been issued.

ZANZIBAR.—European contemporaries note the issue of a new series of six values for the British Offices in Zanzibar, showing a portrait of the Sultan different from that on the stamps of 1908.

U. S. ON APPROVAL

I am rearranging my stock of United States postage, revenue and envelope stamps into new approval books and solicit applications for the same to be sent out in the order of application. When arranged I will have about 200 books, of 100 stamps each, so that long waits will be avoided.

My Approval books will be worth an examination, and arranged in price according to their true value.

I find that my stock contains some stamps which are not in perfect condition. These will be marked at from 60% to 75% discount.

Applicants will please state quality of stamps they desire to see, and whether straight goods or specialized; adhesives, revenues, entire or cut square envelopes. Have also a very few choice foreign, and some used and unused blocks of four, from 1885 to the present issues.

Collectors who have asked for approval books in the past and who have necessarily been neglected, will please write again, when I promise that more prompt attention will be given to their wants.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from A. W. Whitten, L. B. Foster, Johnston Craig, Hugo Kuentler (4), Mrs. W. E. Underwood and Harry E. Klotzbach.

—There appeared in the Philadelphia Press of recent date a very readable article on the probable gift of the Ferrary collection to the Paris Museum. It was sent by special cable and the article is copyrighted so that we are unable to reprint the same in our columns. It is an article calculated to do great good for philately in the publicity that it gives the hobby.

—We have received a beautiful art calendar from the International Stamp Co. of DeGraff, Ohio. This firm seems to make a specialty of remembrances of this kind.

—E. Russell Jones sends us a clipping from the Philadelphia Ledger announcing the death of John C. Allen of Beverly, N. J. Mr. Allen was financial manager of the S. L. Allen & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., and was widely known as a philatelist. He had a very fine collection of stamps, but we are unable to give any particulars.

Trade Column.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

10 Rue du Congres,
NICE, FRANCE, July 12, 1913.

TO THE EDITOR:—

For the last six months I have been travelling in Spain, northern part of Africa and Italy and though busy hunting the elusive antique, I was always very happy to get my MEKEEL's and through it keep in touch with philatelic doings at home. We have decided to spend a year or so on the Riviera and I would greatly appreciate it if you will have my paper sent to the address above.

I am sorry I will miss the stamp Exhibition next Fall, which promises to be worth while. I would be greatly obliged to you if you will mention my new address. Wishing you and your paper a still greater success, I am,
VINCENT GURDJ, A. P. S. 120.

ARLINGTON, MASS., August 2, 1913.

TO THE EDITOR:—

We were greatly interested in Mr. Campbell's article in the last WEEKLY on the boy collectors of Kellogg, Idaho. Having contributed (without our consent) a book of United States stamps valued at $14.75 net, we feel that we have a personal as well as a monetary interest in the philatelic education of this Club. Under the circumstances, therefore, it may not be thought presuming if we suggest some additions to the working rules of the Club.

For instance, in the hunt for stamps, these "stamp fiends" (this is Mr. Campbell's name, not ours) should remember that richer hunting grounds lie outside than within the precincts of Kellogg, Idaho.

Further, in applying for stamps from outside dealers, it is well to stand in with the local bank, so that the references can be fixed when necessary.

There is more money in high-priced books of real stamps than in exchanging duplicates with boy collectors. Therefore cultivate the wider field;

there are greater educational facilities in it, not to mention the monetary gain.

Always ask for a large selection of high-priced stamps, as they are better to trade with, as it takes no more correspondence to try to get them back than it does a sheet of common Continentals.

Always claim that books of stamps have been returned in the mail; that is, if you take the trouble to answer letters asking for the return of approval books. This is not necessary but courteous. Dealers have too high a regard for the safety and reliability of Uncle Sam's mails, and it will be doing them a service to teach them that this confidence is misplaced.

Strict attention to these rules, and those already in force in the Club, will soon give the boy collectors of Kellogg, Idaho, as unenviable a reputation as that already enjoyed by the boys of the East Side of New York City.

COLUMBIAN STAMP CO.

SHIFTED TRANSFERS OF U. S. STAMPS.

By CARROLL CHASE, M. D.

In studying my United States stamps I have found shifted transfers to be among the most interesting minor varieties. They have sometimes proven quite puzzling, and these remarks on how they occur are the result of some careful study of many of them.

"Double transfers," "shifted transfers," "shifts," or "misstrikes," as they are variously known, occurring in line engraved stamps show on the finished stamp as a reduplication of some part of the design. They are due to one of several different accidents in making the plate. One of these is explained in Luff's work on United States stamps and is the only method that I have seen given in print. It is as follows: "In making the plate it sometimes happens that the transfer roll is set down upon it, slightly out of the intended position. The pressure on the roll forces into the soft plate those lines which are most in relief. When the incorrect position of the roll is noticed it is removed to the proper place, and the impression is then 'rocked' into the plate. As a result of this twice placing the design, some of the lines are duplicated." This is absolutely correct as far as it goes, but there are at least two, and possibly three, other ways in which the shift may occur.

Probably the commonest way of all is in re-entering a design. Here the transfer roll is used to deepen a faint or worn impression on the plate made previously by the same or a similar transfer roll. As may readily be understood it is a difficult matter to place the roll exactly over the previous impression. If it is not placed exactly right the result is a shifted transfer.

Another way that a shift may occur is as follows. One or more designs may be rocked upon the plate in a wrong position. The mistake is noticed and the workman turns the plate over, puts it on a hard smooth surface and hammers the wrongly placed impressions out, from the back. The most deeply rolled parts of the design may not be entirely effaced so that they still show on the plate where the designs are rocked in the correct place. This identical thing happened with Plate 5493 of the 1908 Hudson Fulton stamps. Four designs had been rocked in the upper right corner of the plate (upper left hand corner of the sheet of stamps) when it was noticed that the design was a little too low on the plate. They were hammered out from the back, but the design was not entirely removed and as a result, stamps number 1, 2 and 4 in this sheet are shifts.

Another theoretical way for a shift to occur is for either the plate or the transfer roll to slightly shift its position while the design is being rocked on the plate. In actual practice both the plate and transfer roll are held so firmly in place that I understand the chance for this accident to occur is practically nil.

MEKEEL—SEVERN-WYLIE CO., BOSTON, MASS.

The term "shifted die" is often seen in print. This really is not correct as the "die" has nothing to do with this accident.

The difference between double printings and shifts should be kept in mind. One is an error in plate making, the other in printing.

The list of shifted transfers in United States postage stamps is much larger than most collectors realize. For example, there are over fifty shifts in the 3c 1851 and the list of stamps that show shifts includes the 5c New York, 5c 1847 (so slight a shift that it can be recognized only in the proofs), 10c 1847, 1c (Type 2 and 4) 3c and 12c 1851, the 1c (Type 2 and 4), 3c (Type 1 and 2) and 10c (Type 2) 1857, the 1c 1873 and 1879, the 3c 1873, the 5c Taylor (Continental), the 1c and 2c 1893 (Columbian), and the 2c 1909 Hudson-Fulton. It is quite possible that other stamps show shifts. Several are also known among the revenues.

If anyone knows any other way by which a shift may occur the writer would be pleased to hear of it.—Philatelic Gazette.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Bergedorf.

THE 1/2 SCHILLING.

The 1/2 schilling has the value inscribed as "EIN HALBER" in the left border and, as we have already stated, measures 15 3/4 mm. square. This value was printed in black on blue paper and it is the only one in which any color variation is noticeable. The paper chosen was of a pale blue tint but during the process of printing this paper ran out of stock and the additional supply obtained was of a much deeper tint.

This value was printed in sheets of 200 divided into two panes of 100 each and arranged in rather a curious manner. From the design on the original "die stone" the workman took twelve transfers which he arranged in a block in two vertical rows of six each. This block was then transferred to the lithographic stone sixteen times and the eight additional impressions required to complete the sheet of 200 were added to the base as shown in the annexed diagram:

H. F. COLMAN,

Second National Bank Bldg., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Then came the next step. If a firm could use Reclame-Marken so to advertise its wares, why should not the management of exhibitions, which are always epidemic in Germany, use them to make known their shows? To see the opportunity was to seize it. The Nurembergers, for example, were preparing an "International Dog Show." Forthwith appeared Reclame-Marken, two inches long and an inch wide, upon which a smart bull-terrier sat with ears cocked, upon a yellow bench against a blue background. Or Munich was about to open a summer show of the products of Bavarian industry. Its designers set to work, and a stately woman in blue and white Bavarian dress stood between two artisans in their aprons, laying approving hands upon their shoulders—all in delicate colors, finally touched in with gold and prettily lettered. Or Cassel in Prussia, about to celebrate the thousandth anniversary of the foundation of the city, took a green eagle from its coat-of-arms or a purple tower from its old battlements and set them on little Reclame-Marken.

ENTER ARTISTRY.

It was next the turn of the designers, the manufacturing stationers, the color-printers and the lithographers, and they proceeded forthwith to the making of the Kunst-Reclame-Marken. They had plentiful incentive. Spreading swiftly, widely and incomprehensibly, as such fads and fashions do, the stamps became the favorite form of polite advertising in Germany. Orders poured upon designers and makers. The North German Lloyds must have not one but a whole series, picturing their best-known ships. The proprietors of winter and summer resorts ordered stamps to proclaim the charm of their prospects, or the pleasure of their sports. Magazines commanded them, reproducing their title-pages or a characteristic illustration. Private firms of any distinction or enterprise at all found Reclame-Marken necessary to their prestige. An exhibition without its series became unthinkable. They were even ordered and struck as souvenirs of a particular occasion. And for every variety of stamp there were the thousands of sheets to go to the stationers for the tens of thousands of collectors.

Designers, engravers and color-printers multiplied their zeal and ambitious clients gave them a free hand. Once commercial, the Reclame-Marken now became artistic. The designs were finer of line, more adroit of composition, more delicate and shaded of color. Ideas and fancies, humor and imagination began to play over the stamps. Bidden to proclaim a sale at Leipzig, the artist produced an ingenious and humorous stamp, two inches square, of receding "sandwich-men" as individually characterized as though he were making an etching. The association of hotel keepers met a month ago at Ulm, and another designer produced a souvenir stamp that set the correctest and austere of waiters against the distant spire of the cathedral by which the rest of the world knows Ulm. So played humor and fancy. Higher artistry, finer and deeper imagination, a still more adept skill in line and color, produced a banner-bearer on horseback for a Bavarian centenary, and dragoons, horses, uniforms, and all the glorified paraphernalia of war for the multitude of anniversaries this summer of the German victories over Napoleon a hundred years ago. In these the Reclame-Marken are less stamps than little pictures.

THE FINAL STAGE.

Out of these Kunst-Reclame-Marken sprang what for the instant is the final stage of the stamps—the stamp that exists for itself and advertises nothing. Presumably it is designed primarily to add ten and twenty and a hundred to the specimens that collectors covet. Quite as often, it gives its momentary pleasure as a little work of art, and almost always it has some suggestion or association. In Reclame-Marken it is possible to buy exceedingly good little lithographs of every uniform in the German army, of every conspicuous ship in the German navy, and before long the other armies of Europe and the United States will be added to them. Another series sets out fantastically the birds and beasts of the Nuremberg Zoological Gardens—the gayest of parrots riding the most complacent of zebras, the rhinoceros and the elephant amicably touching horn to trunk and so forth, to make a new "beastary" in the fashion of the middle ages. You may buy in Reclame-Marken the portraits of illustrious German writers, artists, composers, generals, statesmen. Even the theatre has not escaped, and no less a designer than Porchon of Munich has put the four "Ring" operas into a series of blue and black and gold stamps, wonderfully delicate of line, color and suggestion—the Rhine Maidens circling the gold; Wotan laying Brünnhilde to sleep in the fore; Siegfried and the Dragon; Brünnhilde again with her steed.

COMPARISONS AND CONTRASTS.

Perhaps, after all, the real analogy for this new collecting is rather the poster

B Stands for BEGINNER

by which we mean the collector just starting and cannot boast yet his 10,000 varieties, the fellow who likes to make haste slowly and joys in seeing his collection grow in size, variety and value, who likes to spend from 50c to $5 at a clip and pay as he goes, and who takes real pleasure in his stamps and the getting of them. than the postage stamp. For the Reclame-Marken of all degrees, from the mere advertisement to the most artistic and detached of the species, are nothing less than posters in extreme miniature. The posters ran in feet; the Reclame-Marken go in inches and half inches. The "artistic" poster relied on broad effects, the artistic Reclame-Marken seek effects that tell because they are so sharp and fine and delicate. Collecting posters was costly and cumbersome. Collecting Reclame-Marken is inexpensive and amusing. No wonder that the Germans believe that the Marken and the collecting of them will go round the civilized world.

THE FAMOUS CHAIN LETTER.

By CHAS. E. JENNEY.

Perhaps you do not know what a "chain letter" is although it is more than likely that you have received one, as there are at present numerous chain letters of the class known as "prayer letters" or "good-will letters" in circulation throughout the country. From the following you will understand what a chain letter is.

About sixteen years ago a Mr. Griffin, mayor of a small town in New South Wales, Australia, started a chain letter in the name of his daughter, Miss Griffin, with the idea of endowing with the proceeds a hospital.

The plan was to construct a 180-link chain by Miss Griffin writing to three of her friends and asking them to send her ten used postage stamps, and also for them to each write to three of their friends to do the same. The idea was to eventually sell the cancelled stamps received to a stamp dealer for sale to collectors, and to use the money thus gained for the hospital. The first three recipients numbered their letters No. 1, the second nine numbered theirs No. 2, the third twenty-seven numbered theirs No. 3, and so on. With the one hundred and eightieth multiple, the chain was to automatically cease.

But the originator evidently went into the matter wholly without considering the results of the arithmetical progression. As the scheme went into effect it gradually came to the notice of people all over the world. In 1905 an article in the London Spectator by someone who had figured up the possibilities claimed to show that there would not be enough writing paper in the world to supply the letters by the time the 180th series was reached. It figured that up to the 20th link the number of letters would amount to over five billion and that there would not be enough stamps in the world to complete the 30th link.

Of course there is to be considered the fact that many persons receiving such a letter would not follow the instructions or request and then again the same person might receive the letter twice from different correspondents. But even allowing for all mischances the project became a mighty one and far too large for the beginners to handle.

Up to six years ago, it is reported that over two million letters had been received. Until 1902 the letters were opened by Miss Griffin and her father and his employees and the contents sold to dealers and the proceeds turned over to the hospital—the St. George Cottage Hospital, near Sydney, New South Wales. At length the letters became too numerous for them to handle. The post office was over-burdened in spite of many additional clerks just to handle this mail. Sixty-five mail bags full of these letters had to be stored in a basement unopened, although the post office department was partly crippled for want of mail bags.

This lot was sold just as it came, unopened, to a stamp dealer for about $275.00 and later sold by him in quantities of 100 and 1,000 letters to collectors in Australia and the United States.

Altogether the hospital realized about $1,000.00, but when the great waste is considered, it will be seen that it was a poor economic proposition for the postage that the writers paid on their letters alone must have amounted to over $100,000.00. In 1902 the Australian authorities were doing all they could to stop the famous chain. The United States post office department was appealed to to assist in breaking the "daisy chain" as it was then referred to. There is even to-day in the current year's Postal Guide, which contains the post office rules and regulations for postmasters, the following paragraphs with reference to it:

"The department has received numerous inquiries concerning an endless chain letter circulated throughout the United States in which request is made that cancelled stamps be sent to Miss Mills, Covington, Philadelphia, Pa., for the purpose of establishing a separate ward for children at St. George, New South Wales, Australia.

"This endless chain was started about ten years ago by a Miss Griffin, Mills street, Carlton, Australia. A recipient of one of these letters evidently mistook the directions with the result that one branch of the chain is now sending stamps to Miss Mills, Covington, Philadelphia, Pa., instead of the Australian address. There being no Miss Mills at Philadelphia address mail received at Philadelphia is treated in accordance with the postal laws and regulations. Efforts are being made by the Australian authorities to encourage correspondents and the public in general to break the chain, which efforts should be co-operated with as far as practicable."

Being interested in the collecting of foreign stamps, I purchased about four years ago, from one of the dealers handling these Griffin letters, a lot of 100 of them, unopened, paying 50c for the lot. Most of these letters had been mailed by persons in the United States, although some of them were from France, Italy and other foreign countries. All of them had at least 5c postage and some 10c paid on them. One of the most striking features of the lot was the twisting of the address, in the whole 100 letters there being no two which spelled the name and the address of Miss Griffin exactly alike. In some the town had been turned into something so absurdly unlike the original as to cause wonder how it could have happened. It is little wonder that the mistake above cited by the post office department occurred. All letters addressed to Miss Griffin or anything that resembled that name anywhere in Australia, were evidently recognized as belonging to her, so widely did she become advertised. And some letters, at least that were not intended for her but the address of which could not be deciphered were also delivered to her. The twisting of the address occurred of course through the attempts of the millions of people to copy it, passing as it did through all classes and nationalities.

The contents for the most part were ten used stamps as asked for, with the letters of transmission signed by the writer and the addresses of the three parties to whom the letter had been forwarded. But in some cases unused stamps had been enclosed; in others 50 or 100 used stamps, and in rare cases coin securely wrapped. From my own standpoint it was a profitable purchase and the fact that it was only shows what an immense burden the lot must have been on the recipients that they could not find time to even open them, but should sell them to the highest bidder just to get rid of them.

So when you next receive a letter of this kind, asking you to send a prayer or good wish to each of three friends and for them to do likewise and with the vague statement that you will receive a blessing in return after many days, stop and think of the great economic waste this will entail if it goes on unstoppered, and refrain, lest the blessing turn out a curse on you or some one else.—Hobbyist.

EDITORIAL.

An Afterword—We have established conclusively, we think, the fact that the three cent, 1908, United States, was issued in coil and consequently is entitled to a place in all lists of the officially issued part perforates. We have spoken of the reticence of the authorities to give definite information about the stamp in question and perhaps there is a reason for the paucity of detail. We wonder if Mr. Travers when acting as third assistant postmaster general did not have the stamps made under his direction; and the query is one that fairly may be made after piecing together fragments of information that have been furnished. If the stamps were made through the instrumentality of Mr. Travers and were handled by him in the manner that other stamps were it becomes plain why Little is said by Washington. We have been told that some months ago, it was admitted in the "coil room" of the Bureau of Engraving that the three cent in coil had been made, although information as to what had been done with the finished product was not forthcoming. These stamps evidently had no connection with the consignment sent to Messrs. Bell and Company, Orangeburgh, New York, and the reported special order from Chicago, one or both of which must have been regular in every way.

Postage Due Order—The following departmental order has just been issued by the postmaster general: "Hereafter postage due stamps shall not be affixed to part-paid or unpaid matter of the third class until the delivery thereof can be effected. Section 622, Postal Laws and Regulations is amended accordingly." Section 622 says that postmasters at all other than free delivery post offices will affix postage due stamps to part paid or unpaid matter when, and not until, the delivery thereof has been requested. . . . Such Is Fame—In a philatelic story in a newspaper we find that "among the American collectors have been J. W. Scott, New York; Henry J. Crocker, San Francisco, and W. H. Faber, Charleston, S. C." We do not object to the names that are given but we do to the names that are omitted. Mr. Scott is a collector at heart and Mr. Faber has done research work in the history of the Charleston posts; and all is well with them. Worthington's name though is first in the hearts of his philatelic countrymen in this day and generation, we feel safe in saying.

The Convention—The failure of the Hotel Victory to remain open at Put-in-Bay has somewhat embarrassed the committees having in charge the preparations for the American Philatelic Society convention beginning August 19th. It was the expectation that the large hotel in question would be available for convention use and the fact that it is not occasions some disappointment to those who are working for the success of the convention. However, there will be a rousing time at Put-in-Bay and no fear need be felt that the other hotels there will not be able to accommodate the visitors. In addition to the Hotel Commodore, there is another hotel under the same management as the official headquarters that will entertain some of the delegates. We understand that the entertainment as planned will include a short trip on Mr. Worthington's yacht and on one evening a reception on the yacht and a view of the fire-works from it.

A Change—An order from the postmaster general directs that after August 15th, "all undeliverable third and fourth class matter which has been sent heretofore to the Division of Dead Letters shall be sent to the post offices at the headquarters of the Railway Mail Service of the division in which such matter is detained. . . ." In reference to parcel post or fourth class matter: "Parcels manifestly of value will be held in the post offices at division headquarters of the Railway Mail Service for one year, after which no claim for reclamation will be considered." Etc.

Dollar Parcel Post—Since we read in a contemporary that there is practically no "public demand for this denomination" and knowing that used copies of the dollar stamp were not as thick as the leaves in the well-known Villambrosa, we have been loafing around the parcel post division of the post office that uses the greatest number of parcel post stamps in this country with an idea of seeing something. We did. We saw so many fifty cent affixed to packages that we wondered where the money came with which to buy them. Calls for the seventy-five cent and the dollar were comparatively infrequent, it is true, but each day in this office, a few were called for on the average. Observation and conversation showed us that clothing firms for instance sent out samples and suits requiring seventy-five cent and dollar stamps, to dozens a day at times and as for the consumption of the same values by the big mail order houses, we fear to tell the truth. However, for reasons that have been pointed out before, we know that comparatively few of these stamps will be saved to collectors. After our experience we do not hesitate to say that there is a public demand for the dollar parcel post.

A Resolution—We understand that the following resolution which is of general interest to philatelists in this country will be offered at the American Philatelic Society convention at Put-in-Bay: "Whereas: A very large number of rare stamps of the United States and other countries have been accumulated by gift and otherwise in the Smithsonian Institution and National Museum at Washington, D. C., and WHEREAS: The officers and managers of these institutions have taken the steps necessary to bring to the view of the thousands of visitors there each year, all of these rare stamps, by having the same mounted, classified and properly listed, and exposed in a place within the walls of these magnificent buildings, BE IT RESOLVED: That the American Philatelic Society does hereby make the request that the officers of the Smithsonian Institution be asked to cooperate with said American Philatelic Society in obtaining from the Congress of the United States such an appropriation of funds as may be necessary to defray the annual expenses hereafter of keeping up, maintaining and adding to such collection and for the salary of an experienced and competent philatelist to look after, manage and superintend the same, AND BE IT RESOLVED, further: That Mr. Oney K. Carstarphen, a former President of the Philatelic Sons of America, and formerly a member of the society, from Denver, Colorado, now a resident of Washington, D. C., be, and is hereby appointed, as the agent of this society to submit these resolutions to the officers and managers of the Smithsonian and National Museums, and to confer with them in all matters pertaining thereto, and to represent this society before any committee of Congress, to whom such matters may be submitted, for the purpose of carrying out the views of the Society, his services to be given without compensation from the Society but from the love of philately and interest that the United States collection may some day be on terms with that in the British Museum."

DEATH OF CHAS. F. DOSCH, JR.

Chas. F. Dosch, Jr., Westerville, Ohio, American Philatelic Society member, No. 3874, died July 2nd, at Chicago, where he was born in 1882. After his high school course he attended the University of Illinois, from which he was graduated in 1905 with the degree of B. S. in M. E. He was chief draftsman of the Jeffery Manufacturing Company when taken ill and after an operation was taken to Westerville, Ohio, where it was hoped his convalescence would be hastened. However, in the latter part of May, he suffered a relapse, and was brought to Chicago, where he lingered until his death. Mr. Dosch was very popular but his many activities did not cause him to neglect his stamps. He was a member of Phi Kappa Sigma, and his death was mourned by a host of friends.

Our offer of two weeks ago to render assistance to those inclined dealers fairly submerged us—and this in August! We found ourselves compelled to hire a second stenographer, or else write up something for the WEEKLY that would meet the need, hence the series of articles of which number one appears elsewhere in this issue.

We have a favor to ask:—As the articles appear request of us further information along any line and we will gladly write you. It is our purpose to be helpful in your quest for assistance.

HINTS TO WOULD-BE DEALERS IN STAMPS

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

Prefatory.

Our offer to help anyone having stamp dealings proclivities to a better understanding of the business has certainly been taken advantage of, and as a result a series of brief talks will follow, giving careful consideration to stamp dealing in all its aspects.

Our talks will treat with the stamp business as a pleasurable and profitable occupation. We believe it to have both of these attributes, but at the same time would urge that application and hard work are essential. We speak from personal experience. Six years dealing in stamps has given us a good insight into the business.

In 1898 we were engaged in a business that paid a fair salary but gave little promise of promotion and we were desirous of making a change where energy and effort would count and where individuality would not be frowned upon. There was little ready cash in sight to launch upon a new enterprise, but happening to meet Howard K. Sander-son, then postmaster of Lynn, Mass., and for years a successful dealer in rare stamps this question was put to me, "Why not try the stamp business?" The spark was enkindled into a flame, the suggestion was acted upon, and the writer has never regretted entering the ranks as a dealer in stamps.

We purchased some Zechmeyer packets, than which nothing cheaper can be bought, eliminated evening socials and entertainments and got right down to business. Our spare time was spent over the benzine cup and approval sheets, and on the railroad train the catalog was substituted for the morning paper. It was demonstrated to us that there was truth in the aphorism that there is no royal road to learning, and of this we are equally certain that hard work is the highway to success. We advertised in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY with uniformly gratifying results and this was the only advertising medium that we ever used.

It was hard sledding the first two years—naturally so—and especially since we never put a dollar into stamps except profits. All the while, however, our stockbooks were taking on form and comeliness, to say nothing of material value. The third year we got on our feet financially; in 1902 we sold stamps to the value of $6,000, while in 1903 we even surpassed these figures and it must be realized that we were giving only our leisure time to the business.

About this time Mr. Isaac A. Mekeel came along. He had been actively engaged with the WEEKLY, but other interests were claiming his attention and he wanted a manager for this publication. Mr. Mekeel finally prevailed in his argument, with the result that he took the writer away from his former business as well as the new, for newspaper work was to us our atmosphere. We sold our stamps for close to $3,000 representing its wholesale value.

All this by way of introduction. Perhaps the methods we tried would not fit your case. Temperaments and environments differ, but anyone with ordinary intelligence can soon discover wherein their weaknesses lie and apply the remedy. It is your privilege to work out the finer points and improve upon these suggestions as improvement is possible.

Is There Room?

There is room and to spare. Look around you and try to estimate the number of collectors in the entire country based on the number in your immediate vicinity. We have tens of thousands of collectors here in the United States and other tens of thousands who would become collectors with a little missionary effort.

The American Boy, the Boys' Magazine, the Boys' World, Youth's Companion and similar publications are doing a world of good for our hobby and making many converts month by month, to say nothing of the propagating work that is being done by the stamp papers. There is plenty of room for you in the stamp trade, and with energy and push you can make your business succeed. In a later article we shall treat of the advertising proposition and suggest different lines of publicity that are profitable.

The stamp dealer by means of the judicious use of sample packets can easily make stamp collectors. It is a pursuit that appeals to the average person. If a man be artistic he can easily read this trait in the lines of the stamp. If he be a lover of history he can study with profit the successive issues of the great nations of the world. These bits of paper open up a wealth of meaning and a mine of information, so that once a collector started will mean a new customer for the dealer.

There need be no fear that other dealers will elbow you out of the way. They will be glad to make your acquaintance, for they realize that while you may get some of their business, you will make enough more in which they can share, and thus a common cause will be advanced.

The older dealer is working out his business along certain definite lines and it is always possible to find in the larger dealers' offices job lots and remnants of collections from which the rarer stamps have been extracted that these dealers are glad to sell at bargain prices to the newcomer. The fact is that the new dealer offers a good opportunity for the putting in circulation of moderate priced stock that can only be marketed among collectors whom the "new dealer" would reach.

Moreover, bear in mind that in all trades and businesses there is plenty of room at the top. As a stamp dealer there is room for you if you want to make it, but no one will make it for you.

The Office of the Dealer.

These are the days of the mail order business. In fact, many of the great business houses of the present day commenced in a modest business begun in the home. The stamp dealer especially can readily adjust his office needs to home conditions and not only is this true of the novice, but of the more advanced dealer. Thousands of dollars worth of rare stamps can be hidden between the covers of a few stock books and many of the dealers whose names are household words have confined their labors in selling stamps to their homes. Uncle Sam is very kind to us in the ministry of the postal service, and also very reliable. His benefits extend to the extremes of rural deliveries, so that we get a superb service at a minimum of cost.

The stamp dealer can do a home business without office hours and rely upon the postoffice department as his messenger. The cost of operating the business will be reduced to the expense of advertising. The two items of office rent and advertising are prime factors in the promoting of one's business from the standpoint of expense.

If one has practically unlimited capital a city office would be the proper thing. If it be an upstairs location there should be a stamp display at the street entrance, and a helper to handle "bargain hunters." A dealer's time is too valuable to spend it on casual buyers. Nothing will make a nervous wreck of a man any quicker than to entertain caller after caller for even a few moments at a time when his mind is on the approval selections that should be made up and sent out.

Of course the street shop is the ne plus ultra in exploiting a stamp business. The London dealers can give us a few points in this respect. The store of D. Field in the Royal Arcade is a fitting type of the ideal stamp store. The advantage of the street shop is apparent in the business that will result from passersby and more especially from the opportunities to buy collections and odd lots. In this case the proprietor must needs have a counter assistant.

The stamp business is, however, pre-eminently a mail order business and the great houses of New York, Boston, Chicago and San Francisco would be compelled to close their doors were they to be confined in their dealing operations to local trade. No person need hesitate to engage in the stamp business because of lack of facilities in the way of a public place such as a large city affords. These very facilities mean a corresponding increase in responsibility.

The stamp business can be made to fit the activity and the energy of its promoter. Increase the attention to detail and there will be an immediate response in results. It is gratifying to any man to see and feel the effect of increased effort as reflected in the expanding pages of his stock book, and this is possible for the small dealer who far from the whirl of the city decides to yield to the dealing instinct.

POWER'S GREAT BOOK ON U. S.

There is one book you really need and that one, E. B. Power's on United States. It is written by a student of stamps who has positive views and is not afraid to express them. The book retails for 75c but out of the largeness of our heart we offer it to you, post free, at 50c. As the owner and manager of Stanley Gibbons, N. Y. City, Mr. Power is an authority you may well heed. Remit 50c in M. O. or check or better still add it to your renewal.

THE POPULAR NEW ISSUE

POPULAR.—Because the outlay necessary for a Representative Collection can be limited to such a very small sum, ranging from the low average expenditure of a few shillings per month.

INTERESTING.—Changes of colour, perforation, and watermark, as well as the actual New Issues of the Colonies, Provisionals, and the like, provide frequent variety.

ECONOMICAL.—A supply at 10% over actual face value, which is not a very extravagant premium to ensure an efficient supply.

CHINA.—Whitfield King & Co. report having seen the 7c following stamps with Waterlow surcharge: 7c claret, 30c carmine and $2 pink and orange, with black surcharge; 16c olive and 50c light green, with red surcharge.

The following is from Fred J. Melville's Stamp Column in the Daily Telegraph: "Mr. Lewis May informs me that the overprinted stamps of the Chinese Republic will be superseded at an early date by an entirely new issue. The ordinary postage stamps of the new series will be in three designs. A Chinese junk will figure on the values, ½ cent, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 10 cents; the 15, 16, 20, 30, and 50 cents will bear a Reaper design; and the dollar values $1, 2, 5, and 10 will bear an architectural design. A new set of postage-due stamps is also in preparation, comprising denominations of ½ cent, 1, 2, 4, 5, 10, 20, and 30 cents. All the cents denominations are to be printed in sheets of 200 stamps, and the dollar values in sheets of fifty."

GREAT BRITAIN.—Offices in the Levant.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the ½d re-engraved King George stamp, with cypher watermark, surcharged "Levant" in the latest type.

GREECE.—Lemnos.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the lithographed 5 lepta stamp of Greece, overprinted "Lemnos" in black for use in that island.

HONDURAS.—The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. has shown us the 10c blue, River Steamer type, surcharged "2 cts." in black, similar to the other provisionals recently chronicled.

Provisional Adhesive.

"2 cts." on 10c blue; black surcharge.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—The Australian Stamp Journal says:—"We have been shown another and very uncommon variety of the 6d centennial type, watermarked Cr. & N. S. W., on chalky paper, pale yellow, perf. 12x11½, comb machine, but with an additional perf. gauging 11 between a horizontal pair. The stamps are unused and the two vertical perforations between the two stamps show quite distinctly. Both are slightly off centre, showing clearly that, after the stamps were perforated on the comb machine, it was considered desirable to re-perforate one row."

NICARAGUA.—A. W. Dunning has now shown us the new surcharges mentioned in No. 1178, and we find that all have the new "Cordoba" surcharge, showing that it is the intention of the Government to use up all of the Liberty and Locomotive stamps by surcharging the new gold values.

QUEENSLAND.—The Australian Stamp Journal says:—"We have seen the ½d green, four figures, perf. 12, also the 4d grey, with peculiar perforations, gauging 13x11-11½. The former is apparently very uncommon, for it was superseded 14 years ago, and this is the first time we have heard of it."

RHODESIA.—In re the new King George set for Rhodesia, announced in No. 1178, the following from the facile pen of Fred J. Melville, will be of interest: A King's Head design is being prepared for a forthcoming issue of Rhodesian stamps. The British South Africa Company is not under any obligation to follow the stereotyped key-plate pattern for surface-printed stamps used in British possessions and Protectorates, and the company will probably continue to use stamps printed from recess-plates. The new issue is to portray the King as a yachtsman. The present Indian stamps show the King wearing his Imperial crown, but all the other stamp portraits of King George are without headgear, so the yachting cap will be a novel feature in the new Rhodesian stamps. The current stamps of Rhodesia are also of an unusual character, as they bear two portraits, representing King George and Queen Mary.

VICTORIA.—A correspondent of Ewen's Weekly writes: "It is a little curious to point out that as there were fifteen values in the old Victorian set, so there are in the new Commonwealth one. One value, however, the 1½d has been dropped, and one value, the 10sh has been added. The full Victorian set cost, at face value, £3 10sh 10½d, which was considerably more than the set of any other state. This was owing to the Victoria £2 stamp, but now the stamp is included in the 'Australia' set. This is higher again, the face value of the full set being no less than £4 0sh 9d."

VENEZUELA.—Mr. Schachne has shown us a new card, dated, in lower frame, March 1912.

Post Card.

A WORLD WIDE HOBBY.

The latest departure for the trade centers of Europe is A. W. Batchelder of the New England Stamp Co., and knowing his ability as a salesman we are sure that his stock books will be a great deal lighter on his return. We commend the energy of American dealers in pushing their wares across the pond. The WEEKLY has always gladly accepted the advertising of English, French and German dealers and has done it in the belief that the interests of philately would be the better served by so doing. The frequent visits of American dealers abroad, and the advertising of American dealers in European papers is an evidence of the progressive and aggressive spirit of the day and we rejoice in their spunk.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—General C. A. Coolidge of Detroit has submitted for our inspection a specimen of a new 2c Detroit precancel. It consists of the inscription "Detroit—Mich" in two lines in capital letters with heavy rules above and below.

—Eben S. Martin of the International Stamp Co. was a visitor to Boston last week and called at the WEEKLY office.

—E. S. Boden-Smart wishes us to state that he will be absent from Alberta until September and wishes dealer friends to note this fact. He adds, "I might add that I have spent some $800 among your various advertisers since I subscribed to your excellent WEEKLY some months ago."

—Clipping is acknowledged with thanks from A. Thayer.

—The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. advises us that their stock of Sonora provisionals has been entirely closed out, but a further supply is expected.

THE INTERNATIONAL PHILATELIC CO.

We have our troubles but there are a few we escape. Some months ago a Sheffield, Eng., concern with the above mentioned high sounding title sent us an advertisement, good for a quarter page. We refused to bite and made inquiries in London, satisfying ourselves that we should do well to decline the advertisement. We note that some of our contemporaries were not quite so fortunate.

U. S. ON APPROVAL

I am rearranging my stock of United States postage, revenue and envelope stamps into new approval books and solicit applications for the same to be sent out in the order of application. When arranged I will have about 200 books, of 100 stamps each, so that long waits will be avoided.

My Approval books will be worth an examination, and arranged in price according to their true value.

I find that my stock contains some stamps which are not in perfect condition. These will be marked at from 60% to 75% discount.

Applicants will please state quality of stamps they desire to see, and whether straight goods or specialized; adhesives, revenues, entireties or cut square envelopes. Have also a very few choice foreign, and some used and unused blocks of four, from 1885 to the present issues.

Collectors who have asked for approval books in the past and who have necessarily been neglected, will please write again, when I promise that more prompt attention will be given to their wants.

TO THE SUBSCRIBER

Our interests are mutual! We are engaged in a common pleasurable pursuit, but at the same time we are deeply concerned in the material value of our philatelic possessions. The WEEKLY seeks your aid in making the hobby more pleasurable and more profitable, and this will be possible as its subscription list grows in power. All you need do is to show a sample copy to your fellow collector.

TO THE ADVERTISER

Our interests, too, are mutual! Your patronage of the WEEKLY means a more efficient paper and with efficiency comes power. Do you ever think of the value of philatelic journalism as a missioner of our hobby? It would be a sad day for philately if the two remaining philatelic weeklies were compelled to follow in the footsteps of "Redfield's." Our mailing list has reached that point where you cannot afford to neglect the publicity we can give your business.

SWISS HIGH VALUES.

Der Philatelist quotes the following from a Swiss daily paper relative to the proposed new designs for high value stamps:

At last it appears as though the powers that be would yield at least somewhat to the generally expressed popular desire as regards the new high value stamps of Switzerland and would give us typical Swiss views in place of those everlasting allegories, more or less happy and intelligible. For the present four such views are offered which in our opinion have been very happily chosen. In double the usual size, upright or oblong, they show the Tell chapel with the Bristenstock, Reuss, the Water Tower and the railway station on the lake at Luzern with the Pilatus mountain, over the roaring Visp the Matterhorn looming up amidst dark forests, and across the Aare the Federal Building at Bern. The stamps, to be sure, remind one very much of the pictorial sets from Bosnia and elsewhere—but if we did not put our brilliant ideas into practice (we had them all right) we must suffer the reproach of being imitators. The stamps, whose figures of value are a little too prominent, are inscribed "Helvetia" or "Schweiz" or even "Schweiz, Suisse." Rather than stir up language conflicts again we should prefer the good old "Helvetia." Engraved in good steel engraving these stamps would doubtless be an ornament to philately.

Our readers are aware that in Switzerland all three languages, German, French and Italian, have equal rights and all official documents are published in all three of them, some of the older stamp issues, as you know, bear the inscriptions in these three languages. On account of the difficulty of placing three different inscriptions on a stamp the non-committal Latin Helvetia was adopted years ago. In fact, there ought to be four sets of inscriptions to do them all justice, for a few thousand people in Graubünden (Grisons) and the Engadin still use the curious lingual relic Rhaeto-Romanian. The writer of this lately accidentally made the acquaintance of a lady descended from this stock and she certainly took no back seat for either German, French or Italian Swiss—in fact, according to her claim, her people were the only real genuine Swiss and all the others merely intruders. It is fortunate, however, that this language has not been selected for stamp inscriptions.—P. J. of A.

CHANGE OF WHOLE NUMBER.

Subscribers who have sent renewals during the past two weeks must be patient in the matter of change of whole number. The vacation season has somewhat crippled this department of our service, but matters will be straightened out very soon.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Bergedorf.

THE 4 SCHILLING.

The value on the 4sch was expressed by the word "VIER," the design measuring $21\frac{1}{2}$ by 21 mm. These stamps were printed in black on brown paper in sheets of eighty arranged in ten rows of eight. The transfer block used in making the lithographic stone consisted of eight impressions in two horizontal rows for each. These were arranged in the sheet as follows:

1	2	3	4	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	5	6	7	8
1	2	3	4	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	5	6	7	8
1	2	3	4	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	5	6	7	8
1	2	3	4	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	5	6	7	8
1	2	3	4	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	5	6	7	8

There was a space of 5 mm. between the fifth and sixth rows dividing the stamps into two panes of forty each. As this division comes in the center of the two middle blocks of transfers it is possible that in these two rows the group was broken and the two rows placed horizontally so that the types would be

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8

This, however, could only be proved by finding a mark of identification on one or more of the impressions in the group of transfers.

The secret marks for this value consist of a projection of the vertical line on the left of the P of POSTMARKE through the lower frame, and an irregularity in the wavy lines of the background above and to the left of the tower. One of these lines does not continue downwards like the others, but turns back close to the tower thus showing a break.

Altogether 80,000 of the 4sch stamps were printed, 30,000 being sold while the issue was current and the balance of 50,000 going to M. Moens with the rest of the remainders.

Although there were considerably more of the $1\frac{1}{2}$ sch in the remainders than 3sch or 4sch yet the two latter values are priced a little less in the catalogues.

Owing to the number of remainders genuine originals are still obtainable in unused condition at quite low prices. Used, however, the stamps are all very scarce.

OFFICIAL IMITATIONS.

In detailing the various values we have given the total quantities printed and an important point to bear in mind is that all these were printed at the same time, that is, there was only one printing of each value. This was due to the fact that only one lithographic stone was purchased and as soon as the supply of one value was printed the stone was cleaned and the impressions for another denomination were transferred. It will thus be understood that reprints do not exist, the so-called "reprints" being nothing better than imitations printed from new stones though the original "dies" were certainly used. Of the many imitations made only two were made by the Bergedorf authorities themselves. In May 1867 M. Moens sent an order for twelve sheets of each of the $\frac{1}{2}$ sch and 3sch values in the colors of the rare essays. As the group of transfers used in laying down the original stone was non-existent fresh ones had to be made. The $\frac{1}{2}$ sch was transferred in blocks of eight and the 3sch in blocks of sixteen. The sheets were of the same size as the originals so that the total supply of these imitations was 2,400 of the $\frac{1}{2}$ sch and 1,920 of the 3sch. The impression of the $\frac{1}{2}$ sch is less sharp than that of the originals and the cross stroke of the H of SCHILLING is either very indistinct or missing altogether. The imitations of the 3sch may be at once distinguished by the presence of two small dots on the center of the S of POSTMARKE, dots which do not show in the genuine labels.

PRIVATE IMITATIONS.

When M. Moens purchased the remainders the "die stone" also became his property and he caused new stones to be made from these from which he made printings on four different occasions. Although these are usually designated as reprints they are nothing better than unofficial imitations for, as we have already shown, the original stones were not available. It appears that Moens had disposed of the entire stock of remainders by 1872 and as the demand was still good he decided to make imitations. Further supplies were made in 1874, 1887, and 1888. We think it hardly necessary to follow Dr. Brunel's extensive survey of the manner in which the stones were made up for the various printings; specialists who are interested should refer to the article in the "Postage Stamp" mentioned in our introductory notes. It will suffice for our purpose to point out the little peculiarities by which these imitations can be told from the genuine stamps. To start with the $1\frac{1}{2}$ schilling was never imitated for, as the original design on the "die stone" bore the spelling "SCHILLING" all the imitations show the same "error." Speaking generally the impressions of all values are less sharp than those of the originals and the shades of the papers are not the same.

The first imitations of the $\frac{1}{2}$ sch, made in 1872, measure 15 by $15\frac{1}{4}$ mm. The H of SCHILLING is always minus the cross bar and one (sometimes both) of the A's in the inscription are also without the cross stroke. In the second supply, made in 1887, the labels measure $15\frac{1}{2}$ mm. square. None of the letters A have bars and the bar on the H is either missing or very indistinct.

In the first edition of the 1sch (1872) the numerals in the corners are quite different from those on the originals and generally have serifs at foot. They measure 16 mm. square like the originals. In the second imitation (1887) the numerals are all much too thick being 1 mm. wide instead of the $\frac{1}{2}$ mm. of the originals. The size of the label is $16\frac{1}{2}$ by $16\frac{1}{4}$ mm. and none of the letters A are provided with a cross bar. In the third supply (1888) the corner numerals are thin but this imitation can be at once identified by the background which has almost entirely worn away.

The first imitation of the 3sch (1872) measures $19\frac{1}{4}$ by $19\frac{1}{2}$ mm. and can be at once distinguished by the absence of shading on the head of the eagle. The second issue (1887) can be identified by the same characteristic and the size of the labels is also different the measurements being $19\frac{1}{4}$ by 20 mm. The upper part of the shield is solid and the lines of the background are hardly visible. The third issue (1888) may also be distinguished from the originals by the worn background and the absence of shading on the eagle's head.

The first imitation of the 4sch, made in 1872, can be told by the presence of a short line slanting upwards in the circle opposite the I of VIER. The wavy lines of the background, too, are regular by the top of the tower and the labels measure 21 by $20\frac{1}{4}$ mm. A second supply was printed in 1874 these being distinguished by a vertical line on the head of the eagle and numerous breaks in the wavy lines of the background. In the third supply, made in 1887, the oblique line by the I of VIER again appears. The letters of BERGEDORF are very irregular and the background is very rough. These imitations measure $21\frac{1}{4}$ by $21\frac{1}{2}$ mm.

Moens also possessed the original obliterating stamp so that he was able to oblige with "used" imitations if desired. In 1893 this obliterating together with the "die stone" was sold to the Berlin Post Office Museum so that fear of any further imitations is obviated.

A number of counterfeits have also been made from time to time some of these dating from so long ago as 1864. A comparison of any doubtful specimens with the "secret marks" of the originals and the foregoing description of the imitations should enable any collector to decide for himself what they are.

KNICK-KNACKS.

Mexico specialists wait with bated breath developments in their more or less beloved (philatelically) country.

If war does come, American interests in Mexico will suffer enormously, and we know whereof we speak as we have a good number of subscribers there. If asked to do so, the WEEKLY will offer its services as pacificator.

If grim-visaged war does come, as we have already remarked, there will be some more military postmarks. Cuba, Porto Rico, Philippines and China will then be augmented by Mexico in the specialist's book.

Once the editor of a philatelic monthly wrote that by the time his words were in print, war surely would exist between two certain countries. It happened that his paper was issued several months behind the regular date and by that time the war had been fought and peace declared.

A newspaper that heads an article "Collections Are Slow" is wrong as philately is much more active than usual this month.

A newspaper syndicate sends us a form letter asking if we can use "fact, fiction and fun on the subject to which your paper is devoted." We are willing to wager that the whole syndicate can not pronounce philately without hesitating a moment.

A card from Hugh M. Clark, New York City, shows "Montego Bay" but we are willing to be satisfied with Put-in-Bay.

"Did you ever hear anything like it?" asks a wondering reader. "An auction cataloguer says: 'Original gum somewhat gobbled.' Great Gobbo. (See Merchant of Venice.)"

Saith a sub: "Touching typographical twists. Some years ago in an article I wrote for a stamp paper, I said that same character and watermark as the white paper ("continuous" Cipher) but with colouring matter introduced in the pulp stage.

This stamp, it is also curious to note, is the only English stamp printed and issued in black since the original 1d black of 1840, though of course the colour of the paper base gives it quite a different colour effect.

The 6d stamp is printed on a chalk-coated paper in doubly fugitive purple, and it is probable that this stamp will continue to be printed in the Stamping Department at Somerset House, as its special duties for postage and revenue purposes render it one of the most important duties for accurate, uniform and carefully supervised production.

With the new stamps the entire series of Georgian stamps of Great Britain is complete, and comprises in all 18 duties, one more than in the case of the Edwardian stamps, and equal in number though not identical in the values with the full series of Victorian stamps (from 1/2d to £5). Below we give a comparative list of the stamp duties in currency and their colours during the three reigns, taking chiefly the later issues of the first two reigns:

The subject of the colours of the new stamps is of peculiar interest. As most collectors are aware future events were casting their shadows before them in November, 1909, when the bi-coloured Edwardian 4d stamp was replaced by the unicoloured 4d orange, and the 7d of 1910 appeared as a stamp produced at one printing, and the 2d green and carmine was about to be replaced by the unicoloured 2d Tyrian plum. It was then seen that a revolution in our stamp duties was in progress, that the stamps up till then produced by the more costly two-colour method were in gradual process of being converted into stamps produced at a single impression. The death of King Edward put an end to the changes then in process of evolution, but the scheme has been carried out in the new stamps, and the entire series of eighteen stamps does not include any bi-coloured examples.

But this new policy while it makes for economy in manufacture, was by no means an easy one to carry out satisfactorily, and it yet remains to be seen whether the colours provided in the new Georgian set are sufficiently and severally distinctive. Where fourteen stamps of closely ranged denominations from 1/2d to 1s are of an identical and limited size the difficulty of making them contrast sufficiently to avoid confusion is great, and although designs may be varied this proved insufficient in the De La Rue issue of 1884 where ten stamps were printed in only two different colours, five in lilac and five in green, in spite of the fact that there were five designs very different in their internal configuration. The solution to the contrast difficulty was found in the use of bi-coloured stamps, the combinations permitted by combinations of two colours making the "Jubilee" series of 1887 an excellently contrasted range of stamp duties. Now that the bi-coloured printing is discarded on the score of economy the authorities have but two factors available, colour and design. The latter, in small vignettes of the limited dimensions of our postage stamps is not a very considerable factor, as there is a similarity in all of them due largely to their bearing similar portraits of King George, and although the frame designs have been varied, all the stamps in the series present a general appearance of similarity. Thus colour alone is the chief factor of contrast in this issue, and the selection of fourteen colours that contrast well in stamp printing is a task of no mean difficulty. There are questions not merely of different colours, but of special qualities in the inks, fastness to light, fastness to water, but fugitiveness to tampering, apart from other purely typographical qualities.

In the following table we have grouped the stamps of the new series into their six designs which comprise four different head dies and six different surrounds.

1/2d green, and 1 1/2d brown. Group I. Coinage head, dolphin frame. 1d scarlet, and 2 1/2d blue. Group II. Medal head, medallion frame. 2d orange, 3d violet and 4d pearl green. Group III. Coinage head, wreath frame (Mackennal). 5d fawn, 6d purple, 7d bronze-green and 8d black on lemon. Group IV. Improved medal head, pillars frame. 9d agate, 10d azure blue, 1s umber. Group V. Improved medal head, "wreath" frame. 2s 6d brown, 5s crimson, 10s blue and £1 green. Group VI. Portrait with Britannia and Sea horses (Recess-plate printed).

Group VI may be dismissed as of different size and character leaving us fourteen surface-printed stamps, equal in dimensions, varying only in design and colour, but the variation in design being of little account. The colours which might appear to allow of confusion in the rush of postal work and by artificial light are:

(I) 3d violet, 6d purple.
(II) 1 1/2d brown, 1s umber; 2d orange, 5d fawn.

(III) 2 1/2d blue, 10d azure blue.

Of these the most notable example is (I) which may possibly require a change later on in the 3d stamp, for which in our opinion a violet colour was ill-chosen. We have already emphasised the special importance of the 6d duty and although the full violet of the 3d on a heavier or rather fuller design may seem a very different colour from the dull purple of the pillar design 6d stamp, we suspect the violet of the 3d will not maintain a uniform character in successive printings, and it is possibly susceptible, as also is the 6d to variation during and after printing, from a variety of causes. Of the other stamps the 2d orange is not a satisfactory colour—yellows are rarely effective in stamp printing, and the 1s umber is not a very pleasing colour—at any rate it is a very poor substitute for the 1s green and carmine which it supersedes.

So while we may congratulate philatelists on the completion of the long-drawn-out issue of the Georgian stamps we should not care to stake a prophesy on the finality of the issue as it stands to-day. Presumably the designs are now determined, the paper is likely to be continued without further variations in watermark, and the perforation does not appear to call for any improving alterations. There remain possible variations in the direction of improving dies and plates, and possible changes in colours, to provide the means of keeping new-issue chroniclers alive to their work. If all new issues were quite satisfactory those good folks might take frequent rest; but as change provides them—and their readers—with a little excitement, they may welcome the possibilities of our new Georgian stamps not losing interest through lack of variety. On the score of expense, however, collectors will feel grateful to Messrs. Waterlow Brothers & Layton for not introducing control letters on the 2s 6d, 5s, 10s, and £1 stamps.—The Postage Stamp.

NEW YORK SPECIAL "STAMP LOVER."

The first philatelic magazine to devote a special number to the great International Philatelic Exhibition of New York, is the Stamp Lover, London, Eng. It is in every sense an edition de luxe, its 36 large and beautifully illustrated pages being enclosed within a cover of dazzling gold and bearing a fine enlargement of the Athenaeum portrait of Washington, printed in art brown.

The whole of this fine number is devoted to the interests of American stamps, American philatelic affairs, and of course the forthcoming great Exhibition. Its contributors include C. A. Howes, L. W. Crouch, Fred J. Melville, Ralph Wedmore and others.

Mr. Howes tells of the various Washington portraits used on stamps, and his interesting article is fully illustrated by reproductions of all the stamps referred to.

Mr. Crouch introduces new light upon the 1851-60 issues of United States stamps and illustrates his paper with fine halftones.

Mr. Melville conducts us round the "World's Greatest Stamp Factory," describing to us, and showing us many pictures illustrating how our stamps are made at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington. Among Mr. Melville's other contributions to this number are a philatelic "Panorama of Panama" and "The Parcel Post in Pictures," etc., etc.

CHAPTER XLV.

2 Cents, Issue of 1883.

For a number of months prior to 1883 there had been considerable agitation looking to a reduction of letter postage. During the winter of 1882-83 Congress debated the matter and later passed an act lowering the postage on letters from three cents to two cents, and this act of Congress was approved March 3, 1883. The change was ordered to take effect October 1, 1883.

New stamps were ordered from the contractors—the American Bank Note Company. Designs were made, and one which somewhat resembled the three cent stamps then in use was adopted. It was then that a color other than rose, blue or green was chosen. The stamps were ordered printed in a reddish shade of brown. The stamps were delivered in ample season for use on October 1, when the issue was offered to the public.

The new stamps were all printed upon a soft, porous, wide wove paper, which varies materially in its texture. Mr. Luff gives the following shade classifications: Orange brown, red brown, copper brown, metallic red, Indian red.

A large number of plates were made for this stamp, as follows: Nos. 430 to 455 inclusive; Nos. 458-63, 466-474, 476-479, all intermediate numbers being employed.

This stamp was also printed in large numbers upon steam presses, with five plates in series, the series being designated with a letter, as follows:

A. 483-487; B. 490-494; E. 507-511; F. 512-516; G. 517-521; H. 522-526; J. 532-536; N. 553-557; O. 558-562; P. 563-567; Q. 568-572; U. 588-592; V. 593-597.

There are few collectible varieties, aside from the shades. The stamp is found on true horizontally laid paper. There is also a double transfer, very indistinct but there just the same.

A questionable variety reposes in most collections. This is a shading of the shield at the bottom, which is very noticeable in some of the stamps, and entirely missing in others. This shading does not exist in the die, and it has been said that it comes from the wiping of the plates.

Plate proofs and the Sample stamps add much to the value and appearance of the collection.

CHAPTER XLVI.

4 Cents, Issue of 1883.

When the rate of postage was reduced in 1883, effective October 1st, there was a natural demand created for a stamp for the purpose of paying double postage. This necessitated the making of a new design, and printing stamps of four cents in denomination. The portrait from a bust of Andrew Jackson was adopted and made the basis of the design for the new stamps. They were issued simultaneously with the 2 cent stamps on October 1st, 1883.

The shades, as classified by Mr. Luff, are: deep green, blue green, dark blue green. To which the writer adds still another—olive green.

These stamps are found printed only on soft porous paper, of various textures in the weave, and a variety of thicknesses.

Only two plates were made for the hand presses—Nos. 456 and 457. There was also only one series of five plates made for the use of the steam presses—L. 542 to 546, inclusive. It is perhaps needless to say that the stamps were printed by the American Bank Note Company. So far as the writer knows there are no varieties, outside the special printing. A special printing was made of this stamp, and the one of 2 cents.

The proofs and sample stamps should, by all means, be collected.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—"You recently published a letter from Mr. Stevens which I think has solved a question that I have intended to ask for some time. I have two of the $5.00 Charter Party 2nd issue revenues which are of different measurements as well as shades. The design on one measures 59x18 mms. while the other is 61x12 mms. The other four $5.00 stamps measure 60x13 mms. I should judge the latter was the normal while the other two have done a shrinking and stretching at the same time."—E. W. BRIDGE.

EDITORIAL

At Put-In-Bay—This is convention week and at Put-In-Bay, Ohio, a great gathering of the philatelic clans is camped intent upon settling philatelic affairs of state without recourse to arms but by the exercise of wits. So far as indications point, the convention of the American Philatelic Society will be harmonious and what is more important, helpful to philately. In this issue we shall present a bare outline of what has been done on the first day or so and in succeeding issues, due attention will be given to all the transactions of the American Philatelic Society and the United States Revenue Society as well.

The Philatelic Pow-Wow—No preliminary discussion of any questions that are to come up for action at the American Philatelic Society convention has been indulged in and there does not seem to be much interest in the legislative possibilities of the convention this year as formerly. The election of the sole ticket in the field, the candidates offered by Chicago, is a foregone conclusion; and so, there will be no political excitement to stir the members as there has been in some of the years past. It is always possible, of course, that during the pow-wow, unexpected angles may be developed that would rasp the feelings of the earnest workers. Little has been heard of the candidates for the seat of the next convention and if the stamp centers are not anxious for the honor of serving the society in 1914, we always have Niagara Falls and Clayton, New York, in reserve; and be it said that the conventions that have been held at these resorts were very satisfactory ones.

Pushing Stamp Books—From an article in the Pathfinder, we learn that the postage stamp booklets that the government issues are guaranteed not to stick to the prepared paper that separates the booklet sheets. If, however, extreme heat does cause the stamps to cling to the prepared paper so firmly as to prevent their removal "any stamps from these books which have become stuck to the leaves will be redeemed if they are forwarded to the postmaster-general at Washington." While it was known that the authorities were doing much to promote the demand for the stamp books, yet, as the Pathfinder observes, it is not generally known that "stuck" stamp books are redeemable at Washington.

A Great Institution—In an article on the immensity of the world's postal service, we were impressed by the statement that the workings of the organization in their aggregate represent the most stupendous enterprise that the world has ever known. This finding is based on reliable statistics that have been compiled recently which "show that the modern means of communicating with the people of the earth, known as the postal service, is the greatest activity that exists." It is recorded that ninety-seven nations or governments have 275,000 post offices approximately, whose operations embrace an area of over thirty million square miles. The United States with a population of 93,000,000 has the largest number of offices or about 64,000. Of the legion of the world's postal officers, numbering about 1,400,000 our country gives employment to 350,000. The average day's mail mounts to a total of 110,000,000 pieces. Statistics of this kind give an added interest to stamp collecting and lend it a reflected importance; and in enumerating the standard "advantages of philately" one may include with good reason, a knowledge of the world's postal business, "the greatest activity that exists."

Tons Upon Tons—While on the subject of the postal service, it is not out of place to say that some of the large cities of this country are reporting busy times. The large mail-order houses are sending this time of the year huge editions of catalogues inviting autumn trade. We read that at Chicago, "the first instalment of 9,000 tons of third class mail which will be delivered at the post office this month in addition to the regular mail receipts was received at the federal building to-day." To transport this volume of mail, Postmaster Campbell says it will require forty-five trains of ten cars each with twenty tons to each car. Under normal conditions, seven to nine hundred tons of mail are despatched daily from the Chicago office. We are not prepared to say just how much postage the larger catalogues require but we know that very commonly, the fifty cent denomination is preanceled for use on the books.

One of the Old Guard—Twenty-five years ago, one of the prominent philatelic writers was "Wanderer" who was Mr. T. J. Mitchell of Chicago. Mr. Mitchell was a partizan of Patrick Chalmers as the inventor of the adhesive postage stamp and was a leader in the Chalmers Society of Chicago. We were pleased to receive a letter the other day from Mr. Mitchell who wrote from Philadelphia and sent us a batch of old philatelic pamphlets; and in this pleasant way, we heard from him for the first time in twenty years or more. Mr. Mitchell says: "I notice that General Coolidge is mentioned for president of the American Philatelic Society. I remember that I 'wrote him up' for the Denver Stamp, about the same time that I did Robert C. H. Brock. I met Mr. Brock here shortly before his death some years ago. * * * I am sending you a soldier's letter postmarked Pochontas, Arkansas, which is something of a novelty nowadays." The letter was from Camp Hardee and postmarked September 14th, 1861, and is the earliest southern soldier's that we have seen; it bears the usual "Paid 10." The envelope shows the Confederate flag in colors with an appropriate stanza of poetry; and the letter too is embellished with the Confederate flag. It may be added that Mr. Brock of Philadelphia was one of the most ardent workers in the old American Philatelic Society and was among the foremost philatelic scholars of America.

Bravo—We commend the keen analysis of Mr. Maxwell Krause of Lebanon, Pa., as exemplified in the following explanation and we offer him a professorship in our university of deductive philately: "I note your query regarding the somewhat hazy paragraph of the Chicago Daily News. If you will pardon a somewhat lengthy translation, I shall attempt to show you what is meant. President Britton is the head of the St. Louis National League baseball team. Said team is vulgarly referred to as the Cardinals or Cards. Said team also is the undisputed occupant of the cellar position in the National League. Said team also is referred to by fans by epithets ranging from mild expletives to corrosive and unprintable names and its value if put on the market would hardly buy a luncheon for the auctioneer. The Sporting Editor of the Chicago Daily News is acquainted with said failings of the Cards, and wishing to make an apt comparison, he draws on stamp collecting and makes a guess that someone might be willing to give the 'start' of a stamp collection in exchange for the lowly Cardinals. No doubt the editor in question had bought a five hundred variety packet in his unsuspecting youth and had that sad experience in mind. That's a pretty long explanation for a three line paragraph but it's my humble best." So that readers may appreciate the artful solution, we append the cause of the trouble: "President Britton has placed the entire Card team on the market, demonstrating she is not averse to starting a stamp collection."

RIGHTO.

"MEKEEL'S WEEKLY certainly is the best exponent of philately in America."
—Crockett's American Stamp.

OUR REVIEW.

The second part of Senf Brothers' catalogue, which is devoted exclusively to the entire envelopes and postal cards of the countries of the world, has been received. While we have been acquainted with the merits of Part II of the Senf catalogue for the years preceding, we cannot refrain from saying that by comparison the book in hand represents the most exhaustive treatment of its subject that can be conceived of. In Germany, entire envelopes and postal cards are in high collecting favor and elsewhere "entires" are not without friends. Explanation in text and picture is so copious that the work will be valued as a handbook as well as a price-current. The catalogue affords proof that interest in entires must be alert and advanced on the part of a good number of collectors, otherwise so extensive a publication could not be addressed to them. To all those who have any collecting regard for "entires" the second part of the Senf catalogue will be hailed with satisfaction; and all collectors will find that as a book of reference the catalogue is in a class by itself. The book of over 650 pages is a fine example mechanically. Gebruder Senf, Leipzig, Germany.

President's address and officers' reports read and committees appointed.

HINTS TO WOULD-BE DEALERS IN STAMPS

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

CHAPTER III—Capital.

This question of capital is considered the most vital by those who think of the problems connected with dealing in stamps. "How much capital is needed?" We may answer this question by replying, "More than is represented by dollars and cents." One correspondent writes that he has little cash, but lots of time and grit and asks what his chances are for success. They are excellent for, while cash is a valuable adjunct in any business, cash will materialize where the other qualities are found.

The thing that is most needed is a sufficient knowledge of stamps to do proper justice to your stock and your patrons. It means a steady consultation of catalog and a general booking up of stamp lore. By all means get Poole's "Hints for Stamp Collectors" and it will do you good to commit it to memory. It is a strong word in the way of necessary information. (Price 25c, Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, Mass.) In catalogs there are several. The best English catalog is Gibbons but the one catalog needed is Scott's, for discounts on approval selections are usually based on this catalog. (Price 85c, Scott Stamp and Coin Co., N. Y. City. Address of Stanley Gibbons, 198 Broadway, N. Y. City.)

There are several other authorities that may well be studied. Toppan's "U. S. Envelopes and their Varieties" is an illustrated comprehensive treatise and should be at one's elbow. (Price 10c, Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, Mass.) Melville's books on U. S. stamps are invaluable. They are fully illustrated and very instructive. (Price 45c. W. H. Peckitt, 47 Strand, London, Eng.)

It will be seen that we place emphasis upon one's getting acquainted with his stamps. This acquaintanceship means a splendid asset in capitalizing your business. As to actual cash needed it may be five, fifty or five hundred dollars, but we must leave to another chapter the matter of spending this cash for stock.

A capitalization of time is most necessary. A daily mail means daily attention to the details of business and the ball game and the theatre party must temporarily at least be given a rear seat. If you are in a business that yields you but a living salary it is possible for you to be successful in some other business—if you are willing to pay the price of success!

CHAPTER IV—What Shall I Stock?

Put your money into a general stock leaving out the undesirable countries as you know them. Consult your own likes and dislikes and confirm your judgment, if in doubt, by a note to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

These countries are popular and will no doubt continue to be:—United States and colonies, Great Britain and colonies, (especially the several provinces of the Dominion of Canada), France, German Empire, Brazil, Uruguay, Paraguay, Chile, Argentine Republic and other countries could be named.

It was the experience of the writer that he could market any stamp that came his way but at the same time the dealer cannot afford to get a large stock of undesirables. We know a successful Boston dealer who considers one copy of many desirable stamps sufficient to stock, relying upon opportunity to make good the filling of blank spaces in the counter collection. The great lesson that the young dealer needs to learn is not to over-stock. Buy a few of a kind, 50 at the hundred rate and 6 at the dozen rate and trust to luck to replace them. If not replaced, some other good things will come along to claim your cash.

A correspondent wants to know what albums to stock. Don't stock any albums. Leave this branch of the trade to the old established dealers. There is not enough money in albums, books and catalogs for the small dealer to bother with them. Later you can put them on your printed price lists and get them from Scott, Gibbons, Peckitt or Krassa as needed.

You can easily stock a good hinge and feature it. Get a good one and with it you can secure regular customers for stamps as well as hinges.

We lay emphasis upon the need of a general stock of moderately priced stamps and the purchase of supplies in such form that one can quickly turn them into approval selections. We have purchased collections that never saw a stock book but immediately wended their way to the pages of approval books. Here was economy in service and speedy return of cash on investment.

The young dealer is bound to study the problem presented in this chapter for it is vital to success. Overstocking is a common mistake in the business world and it is the rock upon which many a man has foundered.

CHAPTER V—Where Shall I Buy?

The young dealer must keep his eye open for opportunities for investment. My experience has proven that every wholesale dealer has lines that are probably cheaper than elsewhere, due perhaps to overstocking, or control of the market, or desire to get some cash. We recall how sets of Austrian Jubilee, 1h to 2kr, catalog value 34c, were being sold at varying prices and finally we struck rock bottom with Champion of Paris at $2.00 per hundred sets for five used copies. Get every wholesale list possible and study them. The columns of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS will show you how to get in touch with wholesale dealers for from them you must of necessity secure your advertised bargains.

The packets advertised by Powell, Cormack, Fulton and Ohlman will give the young dealer a good start on the approval end. These dealers are selling excellent packets at a fraction of catalog value and the stamps make up into attractive and salable approvals. Get the biggest Powell or Cormack packet and give it a trial hinging the stamps upon sheets direct from the packet.

The remainders of collections can frequently be purchased from dealers who have taken out certain rarities needed for stock. These certain stamps will be the bonus for serving as a go-between while the collection in its bereft condition will still be a good investment for the dealer seeking an approval business.

A most prolific source of business is to be found in the auction room. It is amazing to contemplate the manner in which great holdings come upon the auction market, only to be swallowed up and scarcely a ripple on the sea of philately. Scores of auctions are held every season and while collectors secure most of the "single stamps," sets, packets, collections and wholesale lots are at the call of the dealer who wants to add to his stock. Get every auction list you can and with a few bids you will find your feet. Bid low and if you don't get your lots, make your next bid commensurate with what you can sell the stamps for.

See the lots you are bidding on when possible. Lots of 30 Seychilles, 40 Mauritius, 20 Newfoundland, etc., are good lots to get and easily handled. The average collector does not bid on these as they would give him so many duplicates. Watch the columns of the WEEKLY for auction announcements and try the different dealers until you secure satisfactory results.

If you have limited capital buy the biggest packet you can locate and work up your approval sheets for the publicity propositions to be developed in a subsequent chapter.

CHAPTER VI—Accessories.

Stock Books.—An early need will be a stock book. Purchase the spring back binder with removable leaves as a time saver of great value. Krassa and other dealers will serve you in this respect.

Approval Sheets and Books.—Both are useful, the approval sheets for low priced stamps at varying discounts and the books for stamps of the better grade at net prices. Have your sheets and books neatly printed or purchase them from some dealer who specializes in them. It means much for a selection sent on approval that the one receiving it be favorably impressed with its appearance.

Hinges.—The best is none too good. Get a good peelable article and remember that a small piece of the hinge will hold the stamp. The more hinge you get on the back of a stamp, the more it depreciates in value.

Stationery.—Have it printed neatly and without too much bombast. Use your own name in preference to the "Star Stamp Co." and your prospective customer will commend your good sense.

Price Lists.—These are essential just as soon as you have sufficient offerings to make up one or more lists. In our dealing career of six years we issued 26 lists, our biggest order being one for a trifle over $100, and all medium priced stamps.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelist says that the Postmaster General of Australia has decided to abolish the Kangaroo postage stamp, and to adopt in its place, for the penny stamp as a beginning, the first prize design in the competition arranged two or three years ago. A change in the Government has made this possible, the Fisher Government, just gone out of office, being responsible for the present series, which many Australians regard as ridiculous and think has made Australia the laughing stock of civilized countries. The prize winner at the time of the competition was Harman Altmann, who received £100 for his design for the one penny stamp. This design shows a portrait of the King, with the Arms of the various states of the Australian Confederation.

Present supplies of the Kangaroo stamps will be exhausted before the stamps of the new design will be issued. The Australian Government now has facilities for the prompt execution of new designs and the printing of the stamps. Whether the new design will be used for the stamps above 1d or whether other designs will be adopted for the higher values, will be determined later. The Postmaster General says that the placing of the King's Head on the stamps will bring Australia into line with Great Britain and the Dominions.

Arthur Wm. Parker has shown us a pair of the 5d Kangaroo stamps with the "OS" perforations. The letters are made with large clean cut holes, the design measuring 15 mm. each way.

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS.—According to the Australian Philatelist, there were printed 6000 ½d stamps and 10,320 1d stamps of the Canoe type on thin paper. Previous printings on ordinary paper were 9,240 ½d and 104,940 1d stamps.

CANADA.—The Current 2c has appeared in a brighter rosy shade, a specimen having been sent in by Arthur Wm. Parker.

CAROLINE ISLANDS.—Champion's Bulletin reports that the 3p brown of 1900 has been seen with "5 Pf" in surcharge, in heavy black type.

Adhesive.
"5pf" on 3p brown.

CUBA.—Maury's Collectionneur reports that the Cuban Government has issued a decree authorizing a new series of stamps for postage and telegraph purposes.

FRENCH GUINEA.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the full set for this Colony, chronicled sometime since.

GOLD COAST.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 5sh King Edward stamp, as chronicled in No. 1178.

The Stamp Collectors Fortnightly reports the 2d King George stamp as having been received on mail from the Colony, postmarked July 9.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The following notice appeared in the Post Office Circular of July 29:

"On and after the 1st August, the remaining denominations of George V. adhesive postage stamps—6d, 7d, 8d, 10d, 1s, 10s, and £1—will be issued to postmasters by the Inland Revenue Department.

"The 8d stamp is being issued for the first time. It is printed in sheets of 240, value £8, and postmasters in requisitioning supplies, should make the necessary entry in manuscript on the requisition form pending a reprint of that form.

"The 10s stamp and the £1 stamp are printed in sheets of 40, but they will be supplied to postmasters in half, quarter, or even smaller fractions of sheets.

"The colours of the George V. adhesive postage stamps are as shown below: ½d green; 1d red; 1½d brown; 2d orange; 2½d blue; 3d violet; 4d grey; 5d fawn; 6d purple; 7d bronze-green; 8d black on yellow; 9d agate; 10d light blue; 1s umber; 2s 6d brown; 5s crimson-lake; 10s blue; £1 green.

"Postmasters sub-postmasters, and counter officers, should note that where a stock consists partly of Edward VII. and partly of George V. stamps they should supply George V. stamps when specially asked for, but otherwise, should supply Edward VII. stamps until the stock of such is exhausted."

Commenting on the above, Marsh's Circular says:

"In the above note it will be seen that the 8d is described as being issued for the first time, this is scarcely accurate as the 8d orange was first issued in 1876 and this stamp is still available for use as it has never been demonetised. We also notice that the new 5sh which was first described as 'crimson' is now termed 'crimson-lake.' The 8d on yellow paper comes somewhat as a surprise, we knew the value was to have been issued, but we are surprised to find that the coloured papers are not entirely abandoned. It will be interesting to see if the paper is a G v R paper or a remainder of the 'Crown' paper as previously used for the 3d stamps. From an artistic point of view we regret the stamp is on coloured paper, but we should think, from the postal point of view, an extension of the coloured papers would be an advantage. The 3d and 6d are somewhat alike in colour and the 9d is also liable to confusion, the 4d and 7d are also to be much alike and the 2½d and 10d are also both blue."

It will be noted that the colours officially given differ widely from the usual philatelic standards.

Offices in the Levant.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the "1 Piastre" on 2½d King George stamp, as chronicled in N. 1178.

Marsh's Circular reports that the current 4d King George stamp has been overprinted "1¼ Piastre," in the type of the overprint on the 4d orange King Edward stamp.

Adhesive.
"1¼ Piastre" on 4d slate green.

HUNGARY.—According to Mr. Schachne, a new letter card has just been issued.

Letter Card.
10f brick red on light green; lines of inscription, for Croatia.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—The Australian Philatelist reports the finding of a new die for the ½d, Scott's Type A17, though apparently the second die has thus far been found only in the blue green stamps on paper watermarked Crown A. In Die II the point of the bust is cut off and does not run into the inner oval line the letters "HA" of "Half" are broader and the figure "1" of the left fraction is ill-shaped. The Australian experts are now trying to explain this new die.

SPAIN.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 4p dark violet and 10p orange brown of the current set. Though catalogued a long time ago they have just come to hand.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 8c King George stamp as recently chronicled.

TURKS AND CAICOS ISLANDS.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 2sh and 3sh values in the new set, as chronicled some time since from "Specimen" copies.

SWITZERLAND.—Mr. Schachne has received two new commemorative cards, dated August 1st, 1913. These cards have a face value of 1 cent but are sold by the Government at 5 cents the excess being used to fight the white plague, tuberculosis.

Post Card.
5c gray green on white; 2 varieties.

U. S. ON APPROVAL

I am rearranging my stock of United States postage, revenue and envelope stamps into new approval books and solicit applications for the same to be sent out in the order of application. When arranged I will have about 200 books, of 100 stamps each, so that long waits will be avoided.

My Approval books will be worth an examination, and arranged in price according to their true value.

I find that my stock contains some stamps which are not in perfect condition. These will be marked at from 60% to 75% discount.

Applicants will please state quality of stamps they desire to see, and whether straight goods or specialized; adhesives, revenues, entire or cut square envelopes. Have also a very few choice foreign, and some used and unused blocks of four, from 1885 to the present issues.

Collectors who have asked for approval books in the past and who have necessarily been neglected, will please write again, when I promise that more prompt attention will be given to their wants.

ANOTHER AMERICAN DEALER ABROAD.

What we said last week about a prominent Boston dealer will apply with equal force to E. B. Power, of the firm of Stanley Gibbons, N. Y. City. A note from the New York office indicates that Mr. Power is in England and this is a distinct tribute not only to the business possibilities of the English market but to the energy and aggressiveness of American dealers. The WEEKLY does not hesitate to enter into competition with English newspapers for English business and a comparison of papers will show how successful we are. Our next step is to compel the dealers of England, France and Germany to favor this country with occasional trips in which business and pleasure may be combined.

NOTES ON THE EARLY FIJIAN STAMPS.

THE native King Cakobau (pronounced Thakombau) in 1858 offered the sovereignty of the Fiji Islands to Great Britain, but the gift was declined. However, the success of the cotton-growing industry in the islands caused such a great increase in the European settlers that they, being desirous for a more settled government, introduced a constitution, which provided for a partly European and partly native government under Cakobau. This arrangement lasted for two years only, and in March, 1874, the sovereignty was again offered to, and again declined by, the British Government.

In October of the same year, however, by an "Act of Cession" the islands were ceded to Britain.

The Fiji group comprises no less than 255 islands and islets, two of them, Viti Levu (4,112 square miles) and Vanua Levu (2,432 square miles) being of considerable size.

In 1870 the proprietors of the Fiji Times Express in Levuka issued a series of postal labels which have been always recognised as the first issue of stamps for Fiji.

Several of the Australian Colonies gave them a certain amount of recognition and the fact must not be overlooked that although they were not a Government issue, and, in fact, were simply the result of the enterprise of a newly launched newspaper, yet they did pay postage throughout the group of Fiji Islands and there is also evidence that they paid postage to certain places in Australia.

The stamps were first issued on quadrillé paper on November 1st, 1870, whilst those printed on the laid batonné paper probably appeared about July, 1871.

At first four values, 1d, 3d, 6d and 1s were printed, all on the same sheet, and simply made up from ordinary type and printer's "rule." The sheet consisted of 24 stamps arranged in four rows of six as follows:—

1st row (all 6d value) black on rose.
2nd " " 1sh " "
3rd " " 1d " "
4th " " 3d " "

A stamp of the value of 9d was added to the issue on batonné paper by lifting the figure 3 from stamps numbers 22, 23 and 24 of the plate, and substituting the numeral 9, the other portion of the design being unaltered. Thus all varieties on the first paper occur also on the second.

The stamps on quadrillé paper are much the rarer of the two. Proofs of the first issue exist on ordinary yellow wove paper; there are no reprints, but two sets of imitations were printed at the Fiji Times office, presumably to satisfy the demands of collectors, who were often writing in for these stamps. The imitations can easily be distinguished as they are printed on foreign note paper, vertically laid and perforated 12—13, and sometimes imperforate; the colour is a pale pink, generally faded to very pale.

The second set came from completely reconstructed type and consists of five rows of six. The figures differ and the stamps are on thick bright pink paper rouletted by the printer's rule on coloured dividing lines.

What may be called the first legitimate issue of postage stamps for Fiji was made in December, 1871. These were electrotyped and printed at the Government Printing Office, Sydney, N. S. W., on white wove paper, with the watermark "Fiji postage" in small sans-serif capitals across the middle row of each sheet. There were fifty stamps to the sheet, in five horizontal rows of ten; perforation 12½; three values, 1d, 3d and 6d. All values are known imperforate, but were not issued in that state. The central design consisted of a circle enclosing the script "C. R." (Cakobau Rex) surmounted by a crown. The estimated numbers printed were 25,000 of each of the three values.

This issue may be looked upon as an error and was in use only forty-one days, the reason being that the values were expressed in "pence" instead of "cents," and the same type appeared very shortly afterwards surcharged in the equivalent value of cents. This is known as Issue II, of January 13th, 1872; surcharged in black; estimated number printed, 55,000 of each value. This issue was in use for two years and nine months less three days.

Upon the cession of the islands to Great Britain (October 10th, 1874), a new issue was made by overprinting the stamps of King Cakobau with the letters "V. R.", at first in Gothic capitals and afterwards in Roman.

Of the 1d value 35,264 were overprinted; 29,350 of the 3d; and 29,650 of the 6d. In 1875 both the 3d (6c) and the 6d (12c) were surcharged 2d. This issue abounds in varieties, such as stops omitted, varieties of stops, stops out of alignment, inverted "A" for "V," and the 6d is known with inverted overprint in both types.

The next issue, known as the "V. R." monogram issue, was printed in Sydney, at the Government Printing Office, on two kinds of paper; wove and laid. The "V. R." monogram was engraved by Mr. Wm. Bell at a cost of 10s. From this lithographic transfers were taken and the "V. R." monogram printed on plain paper at a cost of £1 10s per 1,200 sheets. The stamps were then printed over the "V. R." lithograph, and the jet black of the V. R. is so strong that it shews through the colours of the stamps. In this issue also several varieties occur, such as specimens imperforate, an error of omission of the "2d" in the surcharge on the 3d green, the variety known as the "damaged corner" etc., etc.

The next issue (1878-90) is known as the "V. R. engraved," and the original die of 1871 was used. The die, engraved on very hard wood, had a hole drilled through it, and a piece of wood with the letter V engraved by hand upon it plugged in where the letter C had been, and the lines of the background made to join as far as possible.

In the 1d the circle formed by the junction of the plug with the old die is very visible. The extreme left curve of the letter R had to be re-engraved on the plug, and is a little thicker than in the original die. The 3d shews slightly the junction of the plug and die and re-engraving of the part of the R, and the 6d shews the circle very distinctly.

The 1871 stamps had an inner hexagonal design consisting of a thick and a thin line inside the circle, and in removing the "C", portions of these lines were cut away and the engraver omitted to re-engrave them upon his new plug.

A portion of the old die of the 3d of 1871 was also cut out to make a new stamp of 2d, and in so doing the fine curved lines above and below the word three were damaged and the word "two" being shorter than the word "three" the spacing is irregular in the lower label.

About 1891 this old wooden die which had seen so much service was resuscitated; the plug with the word "two" upon it was removed and a new plug with "four" upon it was inserted in its place, and the fine lines above and below "four" were still further damaged, almost disappearing.

These alterations to original dies for the manufacture of new plates extending over nearly twenty years are probably unique in postage-stamp history.

On March 28th, 1881, Mr. Thurston wrote from Fiji to the Government Printing Office, Sydney, ordering 50,000 of the 2d and 30,000 of the 6d stamps, which were shipped on April 11th, of that year. On May 3rd, Mr. Thurston acknowledged their receipt and pointed out that the 2d value had erroneously been printed in the colour of the 1d and asked that 50,000 be printed in proper colour. This error was first chronicled in the London Philatelist of December, 1892, and it is said that only one specimen was saved, this being sold for £50. The whole parcel of errors, with this solitary exception, was destroyed.—Stamp Collectors Fortnightly.

N. Z. PAPERS FOR THE NOVICE.

By R. F. JOYCE.

(1). London Paper.—Used by Messrs. Waterlow & Sons for producing the first printings of the Pictorials and the penny "Universal" issue. This paper has no watermark; it is of medium thickness, with slightly creamish surface. It sometimes has a yellowish transparent appearance, due to the stamp being packed between the sheets of oiled paper.

(2). Waterlow-No-Watermark.—This paper is thick, soft, almost spongy, and without watermark. It has not taken the perforation too well. The colour is slightly creamish.

(3). Waterlow-Watermarked.—This paper is the same as the last, except that it has a double lined "N. Z. and Star" watermark, which is often very difficult to see, even with benzine. (With a little practice one can always tell a Waterlow by feeling it.)

(4). Basted Mills.—This paper has a double-lined "N. Z. and Star" watermark (easily visible with benzine), and is thin and crisp. A useful test is to bend one corner of the stamp and let it fly back; if on "Basted Mills" paper it will produce a sound not unlike a metallic ring.

(5). Cowan-no-Watermark.—A thin to medium paper, without watermark. The paper has a whiter appearance than the "London" and can also be distinguished from it by perforation and colour. Care must be taken in comparing it with the "Basted"—it has neither the "ring" nor the watermark.

(6). Cowan-Watermarked.—Paper as last, but having an easily distinguishable single-lined "N. Z. and Star" watermark.

(7). Cowan-Watermark-Chalky.—This paper is as last, but has a chalky surface, and is sent out from England ready gummed. It is only used for surface printing.

(8). Lisbon Paper.—This is a paper which was only used for the 6d large die. The paper has "Lisbon Superfine" in two lines watermarked once in each sheet.

(9). Ribbed Paper.—This is called "laid" in the catalogue. The paper has no watermark, and was only used for a small printing of the 2s green, perf. 11.

STAMPS TO BUY — NEW SOUTH WALES.

Few stamps have retained a world-wide popularity so consistently and so long as the so-called Sydney views. These stamps certainly bear a "view" and they have the credit of being the first "pictorials" ever issued, but the view is not a view of Sydney, nor any place else for the matter of that. It is entirely an allegorical picture taken from the first great seal of the Colony; and although the conception was not original, so far as the stamps were concerned, the idea of reproducing the "reverse" of the great seal of New South Wales was a splendid idea. Probably it is owing to this grandeur of conception and the mysterious Latin inscriptions, which make the Sydney view stamp so attractive, but there are other reasons as well. Of the 1d values there were twenty-five on a plate, of the 2d twenty-four, and of the 3d twenty-five also. These were all engraved separately by hand, each denomination being the work of a different artist and, in addition, there were two plates of the 1d, different in a major detail, and five plates or stages of the 2d, some being prepared by different artists. Further there were several minor varieties of detail which may not perhaps be visible at a casual glance.

It will be seen, therefore, that the ramifications of the Sydney views are very extensive. They are plateable; i.e., a plate as it was originally printed could be reconstructed; and it is the endeavor to attain this object which causes such a strong demand for "views." Then again the difficulty of reconstructing the plates is increased by that of getting the stamps of any one plate all the same color.

It will be seen, therefore, that, while to an ordinary general collector three "views," namely one each 1d, 2d, and 3d, will be all that will be necessary, those collectors who make a special study of these stamps will absorb many hundreds.

We do not say it boastfully, but it is generally conceded that, philatelically, New South Wales is the premier British Colony, and that the Sydney "view" stamps stand head and shoulders above all others. They may be termed philatelic consols or gilt-edged securities.

The advances in catalogue prices have not at any time been phenomenal, but the increase has been steady and consistent. Within the past few years the demand for fine specimens has increased in proportion to the difficulty of securing them, consequently present day catalogue prices do not by any means reflect the catalogue market value of all Sydney "views."

Messrs. Gibbons state in their catalogue that "the prices of Sydney views are for fair average specimens; extra fine and early impressions can be supplied at commensurate prices." It will be seen, therefore, that this is another case of "condition affects the value materially."

That the "views" are good stamps to buy there is no gainsaying. Like British Consols, they may not yield a very large return to the investor; but money put into Sydney views is as safe as if it were put into the Bank of England. Care should, however, be taken to see that the prices paid are commensurate with the condition, for there is so much that is necessary to determine the real value of these stamps. For instance, an early impression with wide margins lightly postmarked and good color, is worth a prior consideration at all times. Pairs, strips, and blocks of such stamps have been known to fetch two, three or even four times the prices quoted in the various catalogues.

But on the other hand poor copies, such as defective stamps, those faded in color, or heavily marked, are not desirable property, for it is not a case of "half of loaf is better than no bread," for while the ordinary collector may be satisfied with medium specimens, those who specialize in views and take the bulk of those which come on the market insist upon fine condition, or not at all.

Some people get carried away with the idea that if a stamp in good condition is worth, say, £2, a copy a little inferior ought to be worth 30s, while a really poor copy should be priced at 10s, but that is a fallacy, for while a good stamp may be worth even more than £2 those stamps which are much below "par," so to speak, are very unsaleable at any price.

This remark applies to nearly all other "classic" stamps, and, while some collectors ridicule the strides which the "condition" question has made of recent years, it must be admitted that nice stamps in a collection are very much preferable to dirty ones dotted here and there over the pages.

That Sydney views will increase much in value in the next future, we cannot presume to foretell. The fact remains, however, that while the demand seems to be on the increase, the original sources of supply, such as the old chests of drawers, deed boxes, trunks, safes and escritoirs in Australia have been ransacked so that, whereas fifteen or twenty years ago local dealers had opportunities to buy over the counter little handfuls of views torn off pieces of the envelopes, it is now practically a thing of the past, and nine-tenths of those who hold Sydney views know a good deal of what we have written as to their value.

At one time a seller reckoned that if he or she got £5 or £10 for a little parcel of stamps, they were doing very well and that the party who paid the money was a "lunatic," but that is now all changed, and when a man or woman wishes to sell Sydney views they take them round to about half a dozen dealers in this city and endeavour to get offers from everyone, pitting the one against the other in the same manner as if the goods were being sold by auction.

Many of the best "views" are going out of the country, and the gradual increase in prices has tempted a few collectors to sell, and probably others will come on the market from time to time, but, from a dealer's point of view, at present day prices, taking the margin between buying and selling, they do not yield anything like the profit which some of the commoner kinds do.

Probably there are still fairly good numbers of the views in Australia. One of our biggest collectors can lay claim to probably eight or nine hundred of them, and his collection could not be termed "an accumulation," for probably four-fifths at least of the stamps all differ from each other in some particular. A few other collectors hold fairly good numbers on similar lines, but although between four and five hundred Sydney views were put on the market towards the latter part of last year they were all practically absorbed by a few collectors.

Some people who are "sellers" take the idea that better prices will be obtainable next or the year after, and they hold on. This may be practically true, and if a man kept his collection for the next thousand years it would most likely be worth more than it is at the present day.

Besides knowing what, how, and when to buy, it is just as well to have a little knowledge as to when and how to sell, but this is quite outside our subject. For the present we leave it for the personal consideration of our friends.

It may be remarked that the reason there were so many kinds of Sydney views during the short period they were in existence (less than two years) is that the designs were engraved on copper, which, being soft, wore away very quickly.

The "laureates" stamps which superseded the "views" occupy a position amongst philatelists second only to their predecessors.

They were engraved in similar manner by two of the artists who were responsible for the views. There were more denominations, namely, 1d, 2d, 3d, 6d, and 8d. All except the 6d were in plates of fifty (a plate of which consists of 25), and as before they were separately engraved by hand, so that no two are exactly alike.

At first all were printed on un-water-marked paper, but subsequently the 1d

2d, and 3d denominations were printed on paper with a numeral of value, so it will be seen, therefore, that there is quite a big field for study. While there was only one plate of the 1d and 3d, there were three plates of the 2d. Plate II, being known as the variety "with stars and corners," and plate III, with a background of crossed lines. There were also two stages of the 6d, one having a fine back-ground and the other a coarse back-ground.

Owing to mistakes on the part of the engraver there were several prominent varieties of all the denominations. These are particularly looked for by most collectors, and, when the task of reconstructing a plate is entered upon, they are all necessary. It will be seen, therefore, that there is a big field open to the collectors of the laureate stamps only, if he desires to make a special study of them, and that, to get the shades and kinds he requires, he may be obliged to handle hundreds of these stamps. A complete collection of them, including a separate plate of each stage and color on water-marked and unwater-marked paper would run into upwards of 1,000 stamps, all of which would be different in some particular.

The 1d and 2d denominations both on unwater-marked and water-marked paper are fairly common, but strange to say the 3d values are exceedingly scarce in Australia, although fairly plentiful in England. This may be accounted for by the fact that at that time 3d was the ship letter rate to Great Britain and most of the 3d stamps used went there.

The 6d and 8d laureate are fully as scarce as their catalogue price would indicate, and stamps in really good condition more so. It is astonishing how many poor copies of the 8d laureate, which are to be seen in comparison with good specimens, and we have no hesitation in predicting that in the very near future the catalogue prices of the 3d, 6d and 8d laureates will advance materially. For many years very few have come on the market, and in many collections we have examined they are notable for their absence.

The diadem stamps first issued in 1854 had an existence of six years in an imperforate state. In 1860 they first appeared perforated, apparently two machines being used. Good copies of the imperf. stamps, especially those with large margins, are difficult to procure, and, excepting the 2d, they are not at all plentiful. Perforated stamps of the same issue are exceedingly interesting. The 11½-12 perforations are not, according to our experience, as plentiful in proportion to the 12½, 13 perfs., as Gibbons' catalogue prices would indicate.

The 5s deep and bright violet, catalogue numbers 141 and 142 are worth very much more than 10s a piece. There are very few about in this country. These stamps should not be confounded with those issued in 1897, and included amongst the numbers S. G. 171 to 177; they are a different color altogether.

Before concluding this article, we think it well to mention that the fact of Messrs. Stanley Gibbons not pricing a stamp unused or used does not always indicate that it is scarce, and consequently worth a lot of money. In some cases we understand that the fact of certain stamps not being priced is merely an indication that Messrs. Gibbons had not the stamps in stock at the time of publication or that they did not feel justified in affixing a definite price to those they had.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

TWENTY-SEVENTH CONVENTION OF THE AMERICAN PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

The sessions of the annual convention were held at the town hall of Put-in-Bay, Ohio, on August 19th, 20th and 21st, respectively. There were but four sessions necessary for the transaction of the business and at that, there was ample time for the work. Each year the committees dispose of more of the business that formerly was handled in the open convention and the plan works to the advantage of the society. However, even as a ratification meeting a philatelic convention is an interesting gathering and Put-in-Bay's convention well illustrated the fact.

President F. R. Cornwall presided with dignity and quiet force and was alert to see that the sessions did not drag. After the convention was called to order at 10.15 A. M., Tuesday, President Cornwall introduced Commodore George H. Worthington of Cleveland, whose philatelic fame is world wide and he regaled the members with a talk on the history of Put-in-Bay. Mayor Alexander followed with a further description in lighter vein of the municipality over which he ruled.

Chester Myers of St. Louis read a tribute to the retiring president and in the name of the collectors of Missouri in particular, he presented a gold watch to President Cornwall who rallying from the delightful shock made a graceful acknowledgement.

The Committee on Credentials reported that the following officers had been elected for the ensuing year, almost unanimously:

President, C. A. Coolidge of Detroit. Board of Vice Presidents, Messrs. Good, Barnum and Rust of Cleveland. Secretary, Wm. C. Ault of Jeffersonville, Indiana.

Treasurer, Chas. F. Mann of Chicago. International Secretary, L. H. Kjellstedt of Scranton, Pa.

Directors, H. B. Phillips of Berkeley, California and E. M. Carpenter of Boston. While each of these gentlemen was elected as a director, the board was organized according to the recommendations of the voters. The candidates were elected by a vote of from 410 to 428 and there was the usual "scattering" votes. Only a few over four hundred members were represented by proxy but as the only proxy vote was taken on the next convention there was no occasion otherwise to use them.

The address of President Cornwall was an able review of the past year and a recommendation of plans for the attention of the society. All of the other reports of officers and committees were listened to attentively and without exception they were creditable documents. After the usual committees had been appointed the first session was closed.

At the Tuesday afternoon session and later ones, telegraphic greetings were read from the Chicago Philatelic Society, H. Wesley Legg and others. A congratulatory telegram was ordered sent to E. Doebelin of Pittsburgh. Long telegrams were received from "Parnassus Penflip" and "Count Lapp de Booz," respectively, amid much confusion.

It was recommended that the Educational Committee work be continued not directly under the auspices of the society as heretofore but by an independent bureau. The difficulty in securing members for the Educational Committee made the move an advisable one.

The proposal to establish an academy to be composed of members who distinguish themselves by great philatelic achievements or meritorious service was rejected and seemingly the project had no supporters on the floor.

Niagara Falls was chosen as the place for the next convention after some debate, on a proxy vote; its nearest competitors were Baltimore and Rochester. No invitations were received from philatelic centers and failing them, a resort was selected.

A special committee was named by the president in the persons of Messrs. Klein, Stone and Klemann to enter an exhibit of the publications of the American Philatelic Society in the International Philatelic Exhibition at New York.

Among the items submitted for consideration and possible action in the future were:

A proposal to brand counterfeits so as to remove any danger from their possible circulation.

A proposal to remove all restrictions of the power of the sales superintendent.

A proposal that the Board of Vice Presidents proceed against frauds when by common knowledge they are known to be such without waiting for the presenting of an affidavit.

When Mr. Ault as editor of the official journal, the American Philatelist, read his report, he was cheered to the echo. He told of the modest beginning and steady progress of the paper and its expectations for the future. There was no question of the advisability of continuing the American Philatelist. So that confusion might be avoided, it was ordered that no other publication should be known as the official journal.

The present appointive officers of Sales Superintendent and Examiner of Salesbooks, and Librarian and Assistant Librarian and Attorney were named again.

The speech of General Coolidge when acclaimed president was a stirring one and left no doubt of his devotion to the society.

After resolutions were passed thanking the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland for courtesies and others as well who were instrumental in the success of the convention, Wm. C. Stone made the usual motion to adjourn sine die, at noon on Thursday, August 21st, 1913.

SONORA DECLARED A FREE STATE.

Sonora, a Mexican State on the United States border-line, has declared itself a free State and to show its independence has passed a regulation that no letters will be accepted by the Sonora post office department unless franked with special postage stamps issued by the revolutionists. The stamp is a home-made affair, set by hand. A lithographed seal in green shows a liberty-cap and the scales of justice. Printed on the seal is a circle with the denomination in red ink. At the top is the word "Coreos" (postage). On the second line "Estado Libre y Soberano" (Free and Sovereign State). At the bottom, in two lines, "Decreto de 13 de Marzo de 1913" (decree of March 13, 1913.)

All of the mail to and from Sonora goes through Nogales, Arizona. The international boundary line passes through the centre of this town. Both governments maintain separate post-offices, but neither recognizes the stamps of the other with the result that letters for and from Sonora bear the stamps of Uncle Sam and the revolutionists.

Sonora is settled principally by Americans and according to President Wilson's special envoy, is the only State in actual rebellion. The other States are over-run by brigands who do not want peace.—Newark Call.

NEW HUNGARIAN STAMPS.

Translated by Rev. Louis Voss.

According to the Berlin Echo Hungary is to issue a new set of stamps shortly. The 3 heller stamp will show a picture of the Hungarian Parliament building, the 6 heller two field laborers according to a painting of the famous Hungarian painter, Edmund Tull, and the 2 kronen stamp will represent the Hungarian patron saint, St. Ladislaus, after a drawing of Franz Hubing. Of special interest will be a stamp showing from a historic painting the coronation of Francis Joseph as King of Hungary. On it will appear for the first time on a postage stamp the figure of a Pope, viz. Pius IX., who performed the ceremony. The former stamps of the Roman church state never showed pictures of popes, but only the mitre over the two crossed apostolic keys.

OUR REVIEW.

Stamps of the Levant Post Offices by D. B. Armstrong, being number three in Bright's Philatelic Library. Its ten chapters deal with stamps issued at offices controlled by Austria, Russia, France, Great Britain, Germany, Italy, Roumania, Egypt and Greece. There are two maps, half tones of the British and French post offices at Constantinople and scores of stamp cuts. The book is a marked contribution to the literature of our hobby. The price of the book is not stated but we will supply it at our usual price 20c.

A POWERFUL AUGUST.

The WEEKLY has never known a bigger August than the one just passing. Whereas in previous years advertisers have discontinued using space, this year our columns have been splendidly patronized. Leon V. Cass writes:

"Your paper has paid me better in returns this summer than it did in the spring. It has paid me nearly twice as well."

We are having numerous applications for advertising space and dealers realize that to reach the great collecting fraternity they must advertise in the WEEKLY.

W. T. Wilson, a consistent advertiser in the WEEKLY, has a large and attractive advertisement this week and his novelties will prove of great interest. Mr. Wilson wants a front page square and unless our patrons watch out the front page of the WEEKLY will be given over to across-the-ocean advertisers.

The Powell Co., of Storm Lake, Iowa, is going after the packet trade strongly and promises a campaign that will boost philately. This company leads in the packet line.

Our advertisements in the American Boy, Outlook, Boys' Magazine, St. Nicholas, Outdoor Life, American Home, C. E. World appearing now cost real money but they mean circulation. Are you taking advantage of it?

THE BUSINESS MANAGER.

HOW THEY ADVERTISE IN THE STATES.

The American firm of Stanley Gibbons Inc. (New York) thus expresses itself in a quarter-page advertisement in a contemporary:

"EXHIBITION Clients have instructed us to pick up our corporate skirts and hustle about a bit. We hustle herewith. We want....."

[Here follows a list of special wants.]
Our fashion artist has made several attempts to depict Mr. E. B. Power and his colleagues picking up their corporate skirts, but without success. Corporate garments, whatever they may be are not "divided," nor can our hustling friends expect to do much hustling in hobbles. Possibly it is only a figure of American speech and simply means that E.B.P. "grasps the skirts of happy chance" and is out to make the most of the opportunities afforded by the coming International exhibition.—Postage Stamp.

Additions to the Honor Committee:—Hon. A. S. Burleson, Postmaster General, Washington; Henry Fairfield Osborn, President American Museum of Natural History, New York; A. M. Dockery, Third Assistant Postmaster General, Washington; Benjamin R. Stickney, Washington; W. de Ravenel, Washington; Paul Ohrt, Dusseldorf.

The following donations have been received:—W. H. Peckitt, London, $100; W. H. Colson, Boston, $100; Burger & Co., New York, $40; H. F. Colman, Washington, $40; Theo. Steinway, New York, $40; Edward Goldschmidt, New York, $25; Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, (additional) $25; Economist Stamp Co., New York, $10; G. Fred Ralph, Utica, $10; I. Rudy, Pittsburgh, $10; S. Singer, New York, $10.

Medal donations:—Deutscher Briefmarken Sammler Verein, New York, silver gilt and silver medals; Garfield-Perry Stamp Club, Cleveland, silver gilt medal; New York Stamp Society, silver gilt medal.

Other donations and also applications to membership in the Association for Stamp Exhibitions are acceptable, but must be in the hands of the Executive Committee not later than September 25th, as otherwise they cannot be included in the lists of the Official Exhibition Catalogue.

Applications for exhibition space are coming in from noted collectors from all parts of the world and the capacity of the exhibition building will be taxed to the utmost.

Visitors during the exhibition week will find many interesting entertainments provided. The doors of the Exhibition will be opened on Monday, October 27th, at 2 P. M. The formal opening will take place at 8 P. M. on Tuesday evening. The New York Stamp Society will give a German Night with all the German Finesse, garnishings and trimmings; this will take place at Allaire's Scheffel Hall, 190 Third Avenue; this is one of the most typical German restaurants in New York.

The grand banquet will be held on Thursday evening. Particulars later.

The Collectors' Club will entertain guests on Saturday and serve lunch from 1 to 3. Ladies are also expected to attend all the entertainments.

Members of the Philadelphia Stamp Club will visit the exhibition in a body on Saturday.

KALAMAZOO VERY ACTIVE.

Members of the Kalamazoo Stamp club were given a treat Aug. 19, when Brigadier General H. H. Bandholtz, U. S. A., of Manila, P. I., displayed his collection of Philippine stamps.

The general has the most valuable and complete collection of the stamps of the islands in the world. He has copies of every stamp issued for the Philippines with the exception of a few isolated errors. The collection is valued at several thousand dollars.

General Bandholtz promised President George P. Hopkins and members of the club to display his collection of United States stamps before the club within the next few weeks before he returns to duty.

The general has one of the largest collections in the world. In 1899 he sold his twentieth century collection of foreign stamps so he could specialize in United States and colonies.

The offices of Dr. Arthur Bruce, secretary of the club, were crowded by enthusiastic stamp collectors and club members.—Gazette.

HOW FAST SHOULD STAMPS ADVANCE?

An old and valued correspondent used to write us occasionally his ideas as to the amount which stamps in the Catalogue should advance from year to year. He used to figure up his own collection each year when the catalogue appeared and report the results. This gentleman was very strenuous in his contention that stamp prices should not be increased in large jumps. He believed that if a $10.00 stamp was advanced to $20.00, the result would be that other copies bought in the past at lower figures would be offered during the next year or two and the $20.00 quotation would either be subject to large discounts or else it would have to be reduced again so that collectors who meanwhile had bought at the $20.00 quotation would be disgusted. An average advance of 10 per cent. a year over a period of ten years was, in his opinion, more permanently beneficial to stamp collecting and fully warranted by natural demand and supply.—Scott Circular.

EDITORIAL.

All Serene—The convention of the American Philatelic Society at Put-in-Bay, Ohio, was a rather placid and unexciting one in its working hours but any of the spectacular elements that were lacking were well supplanted by quiet, effective work. The yearly reports showed that progress was maintained at an even gait and that earnest and successful efforts were made to discharge the obligations of office. The committees appointed at the convention did not neglect their duties but on the contrary, performed them conscientiously. The entertainment was of fitting kind and the social communion of the delegates and friends was the more intimate because of the somewhat limited boundaries, characteristic of a gay summer resort of the kind. The beautiful natural surroundings of Put-in-Bay added spirit to the enjoyment of the philatelic vacation and we doubt that any of the seventy-five members will say after reaching home and reviewing the week mentally that the trip was not well worth while. The members of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland who had the arrangements and programme in charge may rest assured that the culmination of their weeks of work is remembered with kindness and appreciation.

Called To Order—At the town-hall of Put-in-Bay, the convention was called to order by President Cornwall on the morning of August 19th, 1913. George H. Worthington, the great Cleveland collector welcomed the delegates and sketched the history of the island in connection with the Perry celebration, in the planning of which, Commodore Worthington, it may be interposed here, had a conspicuous part. The rich and varied historical suggestions of the place were fully explained, to the interest and instruction of the auditors. Mayor Alexander entertained with a humorous account of the local conditions of his town, whose permanent population is about 350. Thereupon, Mr. Myers of St. Louis, handed his fellow townsman, President Cornwall, a handsome gold watch with fraternal inscriptions and with the seal of the society sunk in the case. Though touched by the surprise, President Cornwall managed to voice his heartfelt thanks for the beautiful tribute. Mr. Myers read the following presentation remarks:

"There is no greater wisdom than well to time the beginning and the onsets of things."—Bacon.

"In choosing our friend and fellow Philatelist, Frederick R. Cornwall, to preside over its destinies, The American Philatelic Society signally honored, as well, his friends, his city, and his state.

In appreciation we would constantly remind Mr. Cornwall that this honor has been mutually enjoyed. The highest office within the gift of The American Philatelic Society could not have been his had he not given freely of his time and talents to the uplifting of our Hobby.

In our constant association with him we have learned to appreciate his help and guidance in everything appertaining to Philately.

In accepting the accompanying token he will, we trust, remember for all time to come, that his efforts have been prized by us. It is our hope that often as he seeks to learn the time of day, he will be reminded that we have profited while he has so well served Philately.

Mann, H. W. Marston, W. C. Michaels, Chester Myers, E. J. Ruelbach, C. E. Severn, W. A. Sisson, A. Strauss, Andrew Whittemore, P. M. Wolsieffer."

A Disappointment—The report of the committee on credentials showed a proxy representation of 406 members, a record that was a discouraging one in the estimation of some of the delegates as indicating a low degree of interest on the part of the members generally. Though several of the delegates had their full allotment of fifty proxies, they were well distributed otherwise. Of ballots, 446 were cast and 430 counted; and of them, Wm. C. Ault received 426 while the other candidates were bunched at a slightly lower count. In the belief that the omission of members to vote and have representation at the convention is the result of procrastination, the secretary hereafter will send a return stamped envelope in the cover enclosing the blank forms. With so small a proxy vote, the convention might find itself unable to transact important business on occasion. See Article XIII.—Amendments for further information on this subject. There was no political contest this year to engage the attention of the members and though we smile and say nothing when some well-meaning gentleman avers that all politics is bad for our society and that harmony with the "r" well rolled should prevail, we cannot help winking at the chap who like we think that he knows human nature a bit.

A Good Message—The president's report was closely followed as it was full of meat and not a string of philatelic platitudes, as messages of the kind have been known to be. Among the recommendations was one that advocated a sort of philatelic alliance between Washington and the American Philatelic Society so that the society could act as a sort of philatelic conservator for the authorities when they are called upon to attempt the solution of stamp problems. It was particularly wished that the arrangement of the government stamp collections be proceeded with on systematic lines. President Cornwall's message made the introduction of the resolution that was printed here in the issue of August 16th unnecessary for the time being. The report of the board of vice-presidents afforded a good insight into the volume of work performed by that "efficiency board" and an analysis of the duties fully proves that the vice-presidents are the policemen of the society, as has been said.

Niagara Next Year—The selection of the convention seat for 1914 created a diversion and some confusion but the members enjoyed themselves during this play-time. The committee appointed to report on the place of the next convention referred the choice to a committee of three to be named by the president for an early report. This committee could not agree and each of the members made an individual recommendation. Baltimore, Rochester, Macinaw, Alexandria Bay and Niagara Falls were all nominated finally and after arguments were made in support of each of the places and as to the suitability of resort over the city and vice versa, a proxy vote returned Niagara Falls the winner by a fair margin. It is our belief that the summer resort is the place for the convention when none of the philatelic centers tender an invitation. Some of us cannot take both a vacation and a trip to the convention the same summer and we hewers of wood and drawers of water must be given due consideration as well as the upper ten. Combination is the order of the day.

Rescind Your Halo Order—The question of an academy of philatelic immortals seems to have become a football of unkind fate. Nobody had anything to say about the proposed august assemblage of the truly great of philately and the subject attracted no notice or inquiry as its shroud was prepared. Perhaps, the academy for the seats of the mighty is not a closed incident but the convention seemed to think that it was. No doubt, it was just as well as we had been informed by several of the stalwarts that they were primed to drown the suggestion in a flood of ridicule and sarcasm. We should have liked to have seen the fireworks but anyway, halos will not be in style this year.

To Exhibit—After President Cornwall had called attention to the interest of the A. P. S. in the forthcoming exhibition at New York, it was decided that the American Philatelic Society make an entry in the proper section for the display of its productions in a literary and journalistic way. However, all the details are to be arranged by a committee consisting of Messrs. Klein, Stone and Klemann who will have everything in charge.

Ozations—General Charles A. Coolidge was given a great reception when his election was announced and he responded with a ringing speech that reflected the affection that he feels for the organization. F. R. Cornwall, the retiring president, received remarkable tributes of the esteem in which he is held, on several different occasions; and we feel sure that his last day of office was full recompense for his sacrifice of time for the last two years.

PAUSE A MOMENT!

The New York Exhibition will mark an epoch in American philately and the WEEKLY proposes to emphasize it to the very best of its ability. We shall issue a beautiful and costly number and besides sending it to 7,500 subscribers of the WEEKLY we shall by consent of the Exhibition management present a copy to every attendant.

We cannot unfold our plans but we promise you an Exhibition Special that will be worthy of the subject. Our regular advertising rates will prevail notwithstanding the cost of the special number.

We are gratified at the response already at hand. M. Ohlman ordering a quarter page reservation writes: "With this advertisement in the WEEKLY and one in the Souvenir Program, I'll cover the field thoroughly without paying other papers several times regular rates." Leon V. Cass orders a half column in his regular position while W. T. Wilson writes us that October will find him exploiting his specialties in the WEEKLY.

Our rates for the Exhibition Special will be $57.60 per page of 376 lines; $30 per half page of 288 lines and $15 per quarter page of 144 lines. Just compare these rates with those of other papers and get a P. O. certificate of weight of weekly mailings.

3d JAMAICA GEORGIAN.

ASTLEY CLERK in Gleaner.

Our present threepenny stamp was put into circulation on the 6th March, 1912, just a bit over a year ago, and was printed on chalky and non-chalky yellow back paper. I was therefore much surprised to find the G.P.O. selling on the 2nd April this year (1913) a 3d Georgian printed on a white back paper. I promptly bought a pane of 60 of these stamps for my collection and then enquired of the Stamp Office if the stamp was a paper error. The officers of that department had already noted the alteration in paper, but could not say if it was intentional or not, they, however, told me that, even if the white back paper was an error it would not be a rarity as all the stamps they then had in stock were printed on the same paper. I should suppose that Messrs. De La Rue ran short of the yellow back paper and used the white back to print the now current 3d on—but I do not suppose the (forced) error will be repeated, still, if you, my reader, are a live collector get some duplicates at once, as delay is always dangerous. I may say that the face colour—the brown—of this white back 3d is so different to the issue of March 6th that the very blind will notice it.

HINTS TO WOULD-BE DEALERS IN STAMPS

By THE MANAGING EDITOR.

CHAPTER VII—Publicity.

The day has passed when a merchant can keep up with the procession and put no effort into a publicity campaign. It is as essential as the air we breathe and the stamp merchant cannot make a success of his business unless he works out some plan whereby he has agencies and influences exploiting his wares.

We do not mean by this that the young stamp dealer must launch out with a big campaign of displayed space in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. This is probably the very thing he ought not to do for two reasons, viz., lack of varied stock and surplus cash. Even as these lines are penned a young dealer writes asking if he could locate $100.00 through our influence, the same to be used in purchasing stamp stock. In return we advised the young man not to go into debt for a stock of stamps for once this millstone of debt is fastened on a person, it seems impossible to break the chain.

Put as much money into stock as you can afford and plan to pay promptly any bills incurred, certainly in 30 days (better still 10 days). Such publicity as you plan to engage in should be paid for in accordance with your advertising contracts and such bills should have the same attention as bills for rent, telephone and office lighting.

Don't allow yourself to be carried away with the idea that people are going to tumble over one another in their mad rush to do business with you! People are not so anxious to spend their money as one who puts out his shingle may imagine. A business man to win success must experiment, study, dig and sacrifice—it's hard work, and not an afternoon tea that lies before you. But there is a keen enjoyment in experiencing the thrill of success and to realize that the pound of energy produces results.

A dealer must needs use the columns of the philatelic press. He cannot afford to do otherwise and the classified columns of the various papers will give him very moderate rates. The "Trade Column" of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY (20c per line, 50 lines for $7.50 in advance to be used at will) is no doubt the cheapest stamp advertising in the world and especially fitted for the young dealer. Similar advertising can be placed in the various philatelic publications, not only of this country but of Canada, England, and the continent.

For ideal advertising the displayed columns of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY is the ne plus ultra. The rate ($3.60 per inch transient, $1.80 per inch on contract) offers the cheapest service in the world.
It has (Sept. 1, 1913) 7,000 subscribers and its books are open for inspection at all times. It is the only stamp paper published that states publicly its subscription figures and the management of the WEEKLY intends to pass the 10,000 mark in the near future. It has a clientele not equalled by any stamp paper in the world and is strongly entrenched in the affections of its readers. The stamp dealer who for any reason refuses to take advantage of the publicity ME-KEEL'S WEEKLY offers is indeed short-sighted.

The boys' papers such as the American Boy (Detroit, Mich.), Boys' Magazine (Smithport, Pa.), Boys' World (Elgin, Ill.) are all good papers in which to advertise for the boy trade. Rate cards from the several offices, showing minimum space can be easily secured.

A New York dealer advertises a fine pocket stock book, value 50c, to any one purchasing within a given time $5.00 worth of stamps from his price lists of single stamps, sets, etc. He can afford to do this and it is a good publicity proposition.

A common practice is to offer coupons with purchases redeemable on a further purchase from price lists or advertised offers. An inventive mind will evolve publicity schemes that will prove helpful in advertising one's business.

CHAPTER VIII—Displayed Advertising.

When we were actively engaged in the stamp business our patrons frequently wrote us that as soon as their papers were received they invariably turned to the corner in which our advertisement was located. We had no difficulty in giving the proper paper credit as we never advertised in any other publication than MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

There is an individuality in advertising and one cannot fail to note it in these days of ad. writers and advertising agencies. Coupled with this there should be a certain "fitness" of things that makes an advertisement successful. One who advertises stamps must go to a stamp journal, a boys' paper or a general publication like Popular Mechanics, appealing to the masses. The general run of popular magazines is a proposition too expensive to consider.

Even after the medium has been secured the best of endeavor in framing up an advertisement may bring no fruitage. What one considers a good advertisement may turn out poorly in returns, while a hastily written advertisement may be a success. We shall not forget how overwhelmed we were with orders for the 2½p New Zealand, "Lake Wakaitipu" error, when subsequent bargains were spurned—and we wondered why! While, however, very few advertisements ever paid for themselves in direct returns, the year's business showed that our advertising bill had been amply justified.

We often study advertising copy and wonder that dealers should offer such careless work. Let us illustrate what we have in mind by reproducing an advertisement:—

* 8 Grenada	.40
* 151 No. Borneo	.12
* 44 Azores	.08
* 19 France	.05
* 34 St. Lucia	.20
* 33 St. Lucia	.12
* 254 Persia	.20

STAR STAMP CO., STARVILLE, MASS.

What is the matter with this advertisement? Simply this, not enough detail! Who will take the catalog and look up six different countries to find out what these stamps are? The advertiser should go on the principle of making it just as easy as possible for the reader to connect with his wares. On the other hand, let us present an advertisement that has the earmarks of business about it:—

adds to his special offerings the proposition to exchange if unable to do any

Sell your stamps in your advertised offers close to cost, just as closely as possible and use them as a means of introduction to your patrons. Treat them honestly and fairly and you will have them for regular customers. If you get a thing that is new to the market add a living profit only, and your customer will find no fault if he suffers with you a slump in the market. He will despise you and the stamp trade if you charge him $20.00 for a stamp that costs you $2.00. Live and let live!

It is well to have several copies of an advertised stamp, but it is difficult laying down any hard and fast rule.

PECKITT'S NEW ISSUE SERVICE.

We do not hesitate from time to time to extend a bit of complimentary mention to our patrons especially when we know that the mention is deserved. As a result of the visit of the managing editor to London two years ago one of the biggest advertising contracts ever written by the WEEKLY was made with the old and reliable house of W. H. Peckitt.

The specialties of the house of Peckitt are two in number "rare stamps" and "new issues." In both lines the firm has achieved a distinct success. Its purchasers of great collections has brought the cream of rarities to the collections of its patrons while it is the recognized depot for new issues of all countries.

In the handling of new issues Mr.
Peckitt prides himself upon the service he has given his customers, and well may he do so, for many provisional issues have been distributed in his 10 per cent. over face service. Even now as we learn from the philatelic press that a new set for Tibet is about to be issued the recent crude provisional issue is advertised in the WEEKLY at a nominal figure. Only in Peckitt's new issue service have these stamps been distributed at any figure approaching face value.

The writer is a firm believer in the new issue and takes to the value of $2.50 denominations in nearly all countries.

Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—George H. Beans shows us the new 25c books of 1c and 2c United States stamps. The covers have a new design on the face the 1c showing the Post Office Building at Washington, and the 2c book the familiar horseman carrier both in a circular tablet reading "Post Office Department, U. S. A." The 1c covers are printed in green on green and the 2c in red on yellow. The legend reads, "This Book Contains—Twenty-four—One Cent Stamps—Price, Twenty-five Cents," inclosed upon a large outline "25c".

BRITISH GUIANA.—The British Guiana Philatelic Journal says the 2c, 4c, 6c, 12c, 24c and 48c values of the new set have been received in the Colony and will be issued when the old stock is exhausted.

CYPRUS.—Another value in the King George set has been issued, and has been shown us by Whitfield King & Co. Adhesive.
 2pi blue and violet.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Ewen's Weekly says that the new stamps noted last week up to the 1sh have the Cypher repeated watermark and the 10sh and 1l have the large single Cypher watermark.

The receipt of a new post card in court size is reported by Mr. Schachne.

INDIA.—Cochin.—We hear from Mr. Morse that this Indian state is pushing up with the times by issuing a pair of new cards to replace the former design of the fishtail appearance which we have known for the past fifteen years in two different colors and in two different colored papers. These new cards have the same arrangement of headlines and stamp as formerly even to the large "2" in the center. The fine appearance seems to indicate London manufacture.

The design containing the principal headlines is generally rectangular (89x20) and the rectangular stamp (22x25) has the Rajah's portrait in a circle with "Cochin" above, the value in letters below and in numerals at each side, and a native inscription on a straight panel at bottom. The double is precisely the same except that one card has "Reply" and its equivalent in native characters under the ends of the line "The address only, etc."

Gwalior.—The Stamp Lover reports another value of the King George stamps of India, overprinted with English and native characters for use in this state. The 5 rupees is the value mentioned.

Kishengarh.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the two provisionals chronicled on the authority of our foreign contemporaries some time since. We find the ½a is in blue and not in ultramarine. Messrs. King say:

The Kishengarh stamps are in sheets of 20 made up of 5 rows of 4. There are several varieties on the sheet: in the third row the letters "RTER" are of a much smaller type than the remaining letters; in the 16th stamp on the sheet we find an "O" instead of "Q" in quarter. There are also various varieties in the native type at the base of the stamp. The stamps appear to us to be printed from a half tone block on fine art paper and are really a good production for a Native Indian State. On the sheet of 2 annas there is a variety in the native inscription at the base of the stamp, the two small lines on the left which represent "TWO" is inverted, so that the longest line is at the top and the shorter one at the bottom. There are also various varieties of broken type as in the ¼ anna.

Native States.—The Philatelic Journal of India gives a list of King George Indian stamps surcharged for the States as follows:—

The following are the totals of the first overprint on King George's stamps for the use of four Convention States. These figures represent the totals of their first requisitions.

CHAMBA.—¼a grey, 26,880; ½a green, 26,880; 1a carmine, 14,080; 2a purple, 2,560; 3a brown, 2,560; 4a olive, 2,304; 6a bistre, 1,792; 8a magenta, 1,792; 12a red on brown, 1,792. Service Stamps, ¼a grey, 14,080; ½a green, 14,080; 1a carmine, 7,680; 2a magenta, 1,792.

GWALIOR.—¼a grey, 26,880; ½a green, 26,880; 1a carmine, 26,880; 2a purple, 26,880; 3a brown, 26,880.

JHIND.—¼a grey, 129,280; ½a green, 52,480; 1a carmine, 52,480; 2a purple, 14,080; 3a brown, 6,400; 6a bistre, 3,840.

PATIALA.—¼a grey, 257,280; ½a green, 52,480; 1a carmine, 78,080; 2a purple, 14,080; 3a brown, 3,840; 6a bistre, 2,560.

Nicaragua.—Hermann Focke writes thus regarding the status of the 6c Locomotive stamp of Nicaragua, intended for use in Bluefields and other offices on the Atlantic Coast:

"At last I have received reliable information from Nicaragua regarding the 6 centavos chocolate-brown, Locomotive stamp, without surcharge, about which there has been some doubt as to its standing in philately. My informant, a collector and connoisseur of stamps at Bluefields, who had been unable to obtain a single copy because it had never been for sale at any of the offices at the Atlantic Coast, i. e.: Bluefields, Monkey Point, Le Bluff, Cape Gracias, San Juan del Norte (alias Greytown), received news from Managua, that the stamp had been prepared but not issued, because there is no use of this specific denomination for postal purposes, but the stock was employed for the provisional issue in the new 'Cordoba' currency, and was surcharged with 'Vale—un cent.—de cordoba—1913' in four lines in black. However, for reasons and by means not explained some European dealer—or dealers—were supplied with a small number of the unsurcharged stamps, copies of which have probably come into the possession of a few collectors in this country. My informant believes that the stamps would eventually be admitted to pay postage at the Atlantic Coast of Nicaragua, but its status is spurious for the reasons stated. On my return home next month I shall prepare a list of stamps of the same origin, to which a place has been given in the catalogues, as I think that collectors of Nicaragua stamps should know what they are getting for their good money."

SARAWAK.—Registration envelopes in two sizes have been issued for this country, the stamp having the portrait of Charles Brooke.

DOINGS IN THE R. P. S.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

Among recent gifts to the Royal Philatelic Society is the original steel die used for making the plates for the first 2d stamp of South Australia in 1855. This was recently discovered and acquired by Mr. H. J. Duveen, who has presented it to the Royal Society, and forms an interesting addition to the collections of that institution, which contain also the plates of the 1d and 2d "Post Paid" plates of Mauritius stamps, which were given to the society by his Majesty the King. The present Earl of Crawford has also presented a valuable microscope especially adapted for philatelic purposes, in memory of the great interest taken by the late Earl in the work of the society.

The vacancy left by the death of Lord Crawford, as president of the Royal Philatelic Society, has been filled by the election to that office of Mr. M. P. Castle, M. V. O., J. P. The new president has been a member of the society since 1879, and has edited its official journal from the commencement in 1892. His published philatelic studies have been numerous and authoritative, and the collections he has formed have become celebrated for the records they have created in the stamp market. His first great collection of Australian stamps was sold for £10,000 in 1894, then a record price for any stamp collection, general or specialized, but a few years later Mr. Castle had formed a collection of European stamps which realized £27,500 in 1900. This collection passed intact to another collector, who sold it in 1906 for £30,000. Another collection of Australian stamps formed by Mr. Castle sold for £5,750, and within the past year or so he has sold a very fine collection of stamps of the British West Indies and other Colonies for a sum which has not been announced.

The new vice-president of the Royal Philatelic Society, in succession to Mr. Castle, is Mr. E. D. Bacon, who arranged the Taping Collection at the British Museum, and was the bibliographer who produced the monumental catalogue of the philatelic library of the late Earl of Crawford, which library is now in the possession of the trustees of the British Museum. Other vacancies on the council have been filled by the election of Baron Percy de Worms, Mr. Wilmot Corfield, and Mr. J. R. Laing.—Clipping.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—H. R. Howard advises us that the 1, 3 and 10c values of the Sonora provisionals have appeared with the green over-print previously chronicled. It is expected that the 2c value will shortly appear in the same type.

—J. E. Handshaw states that L. S. Charlick and Mrs. Charlick have safely arrived at their London home. Mr. Charlick is still in poor health though considerably better. He advises Mr. Handshaw that all business complaints against him have been withdrawn.

—E. S. Jaros writes us that John McNeil, Union City, Pa., has solicited approvals giving two references, the Wells Mfg. Co. and Columbia Savings and Trust Co. both of Pittsburgh, Pa. The letter to the Wells Mfg. Co. was returned "Not in directory" while the other reference knows nothing of the party referred to.

—M. Ohlman, the well-known New York City dealer, is distributing to his patrons who purchase at least five dollars worth from his advertised lists of single stamps, sets, packets, etc., a useful pocket stock book. It has six pages, linen hinged, transparent pockets, and is cloth bound. The retail price of the book is 50c and the offer holds good until the October Exhibition.

—"Am in receipt of an order for stamps from a gentleman who orders 81c worth from my ad and sends a dollar bill with instructions to return him 19c in current unused. It struck me as a good idea for an editorial on helping out the stamp dealer in his troubles. A dollar bill mails easily and the customer is benefited as his current stickums are delivered to his door."—L. L. ALBRIGHT.

—Leon V. Cass has removed from 604 Grace St. to 723 Columbia St., Scranton, Pa. At the new address he is more centrally located and offers a better service than he has been able to give in the past.

—B. L. Voorhees, Blue Island, Ill., would like to hear from anyone who can give him information regarding F. C. Bartlett of Norwich, N. Y. Letters sent to this address are unavailing. Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Geo. W. Schaefer (2), J. Rausch.

—A correspondent advises us that additional values are to be issued in connection with the current set. The list includes 7, 9, 11, 20 and 75c values. These are to be issued it is reported in connection with the parcel post service.

on hand. Moreover, if unable to fill an order, return the remittance—don't issue a credit slip! It will have a boomerang effect on you to engage in a credit slip business.

Describe every stamp to the best of your ability; quote catalog price where it is possible; remember that prices and condition are the things collectors watch for and they are more powerful than big headlines; fill all orders promptly and make your patron a satisfied customer.

CHAPTER IX—Classified Advertising. The young dealer with moderate means will study with advantage the so-called "classified" advertising. Of late years it has become a permanent feature in the best of newspapers though carried under differing names. It is known as a "Trade Column" in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and the name is very suggestive.

The dealer breaking into the ranks of the stamp trade and with small resources at his command will find this department of advertising very attractive. A few lines can be used and, at a nominal price, a large number of collectors can be reached; but, as we have already remarked, it is not to be expected that one, or a few advertisements, will flood the embryo dealer with an overwhelming business.

There is a science even in wording an advertisement of a few lines as we shall try to point out. Quite frequently an advertisement of the following order comes to our desk:—

Nice approval selections at 50 per cent. discount from Scott's catalog. Send reference. STAR STAMP CO., Starville, Mass.

The advertisement may read 40 per cent. or 60 per cent. but the effect is the same—nothing doing! Can one wonder when elsewhere in the paper even larger discounts are quoted? It is not so much a matter of discount as it is of "stamps" and "condition" and the great desideratum is to be able to put your stamps out for inspection. If we cannot tell you how to write a paying advertisement we can assert that we would watch the moves of our competitors and profit by them. To get approvals out to the boy trade how would this do:

Austria Jubilee, 1h to 2kr, 15 var., catalog 38c, free with request for 80 per cent. approvals giving satisfactory reference and 2c postage. STAR STAMP CO., Starville, Mass.

The jubilee sets will cost you $2 per hundred and you can afford to pay five or six cents for a customer. Or you can offer 55 different U. S. or a package of 1,000 peelable hinges or a celluloid perforation gauge. Follow up the advertisements in the American Boy and study the methods employed to get customers. Sell a good set of a good stamp at cost price and cultivate an acquaintance.

Possibly the best advice we can offer is:—study your own methods and the methods of other dealers and experiment with your advertising until you have won out. As your stock increases in value you will bid for the trade of the more advanced collector.

(Questions invited. They will be answered in the closing chapter.—Ed.)

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 331, Altadena, Calif.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Bremen.

The town of Bremen owes its origin to a bishopric founded in 788 by Charlemagne. Tiring of the episcopal yoke it joined the Hanseatic league in the thirteenth century, this league being a confederation of German towns founded for mutual protection and for the promotion of commercial advantages. Bremen seems to have been a somewhat troublesome member of the league for it was several times expelled and readmitted. By the sixteenth century it was in a highly prosperous condition and despite numerous vicissitudes since it has retained its prosperity. Bremen is situated at the mouth of the Weser and embraces within its boundaries two other towns—Bremerhaven and Vegesack. Its modern commercial prosperity dates from the founding of Bremerhaven in 1830, this port being only second to Hamburg. It is one of the ship-owning ports of Germany and has a mercantile fleet of over 600 vessels (with a tonnage in excess of 700,000) including the fleet of the North German Lloyd, whose headquarters are here. Its most striking edifice is the cathedral, dating from the 11th century, and the town hall is also an imposing structure. It has many important industries and at the present time its population numbers about 170,000.

The town of Bremen is the capital of the free state of that name, a state having an area of 99 square miles and a population of about 230,000. It sends one representative to the Imperial Diet and has one vote in the Imperial Council. The state forms a democratic republic governed by a senate of sixteen elected members (the executive) presided over by two burgomasters elected for four years, and an assembly of 150 citizens (the legislative). In 1810 it was annexed by France, but three years later recovered its independence and joined the Germanic Confederation, subsequently the North German Confederation, and finally was merged in the German Empire.

ITS PHILATELIC HISTORY.

The philatelic history of Bremen is short and uneventful. Its few stamps have, seemingly, never been so extensively written of as, for instance, those of Bergedorf though they are full of interest and much still remains to be discovered regarding the make-up of the sheets, the dates of issue of the many pronounced shades, etc. Though the second in importance of the three Hanseatic towns of Hamburg, Bremen, and Lubeck, Bremen was the first to employ postage stamps. Its first stamp was issued on April 10th, 1855 and was purely for local use. In 1856 a 5gr stamp was issued for use on letters to Hamburg; in 1860 a 7gr stamp appeared this being intended for prepayment of the rate to Lubeck and Mecklenburg-Schwerin; and in the following year a 5sgr value was issued for prepayment of the ship-rate on letters to England. Shortly afterwards a 10gr label made its appearance, this being to prepay the single letter rate to Holland. This value was rouletted and in the following year new supplies of the denominations already referred to were also issued in this condition instead of imperf. as previously. In 1863 a reduction in the local rate made a 2gr stamp necessary and while no new values appeared all were issued in 1867 perforated. On January 1st, 1868, Bremen joined the North German Confederation and its special stamps were retired in favor of the set for general use within the Confederation. It will be noted from foregoing notes that all the stamps of Bremen were issued for local use or for some special purpose. What we may term outside correspondence was forwarded through post-offices established in the town by Hanover, Prussia, and Thurn and Taxis, the stamps of those offices being used.

The different currencies in use in Germany at that date must have caused considerable confusion, and that of Bremen appears to have been distinct from all the others. Though the reichsthaler, or thaler, was the standard coin over part of Northern Germany, it was split up into 72 grote in Bremen, and into 24 gutegroschen of 12 pfennige each in Brunswick and Hanover. The 2 grote was considered equivalent to 3 silbergroschen of Prussia so that the stamp of lowest denomination, the 2 grote, was worth a little less than 1 silbergroschen. The reichsthaler was worth about 78c at that period so that 1 grote was equivalent to a fraction over 1c.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

The first stamp was issued on April 10th, 1855, its facial value being 3 grote and it was intended for franking letters within the town, including Bremerhaven and Vegesack. The stamps were lithographed in Bremen, the design showing the Arms (a key) on a shield surmounted by a crown, with "STADT POST AMT." (town post administration) above, and "BREMEN" below. On each side of the shield is a large numeral "3", in shaded figures within an oval, richly ornamented with scroll work, and in each of the angles is a small uncolored "3" on a solid colored ground. The key is emblematic of the independence of the once free city for as Mr. Overy Taylor wrote in the Stamp Collector's Magazine (vol. IX p. 164): "The Bremen burghers kept the key of their own door, instead of giving it into the custody of some neighbouring potentate, and knew how to maintain their independence long after other equally important towns had succumbed."

The stamps were printed in black on dull greyish-blue paper of moderate thickness, gummed with a white gum thinly applied. The paper is laid and the laid lines may be found running both horizontally or vertically, the latter being a little the rarer unused and much rarer used.

This 3 grote stamp was, as we have already stated, produced by lithography. Three drawings were made of the design each differing in small particulars from the others. These three types appear side by side repeated throughout the sheet, which consisted of twelve horizontal rows of six stamps each as follows:—

1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3
1	2	3	1	2	3

The face value of an entire sheet was, therefore, exactly three reichsthalers. There are a number of small differences distinguishing the three types but the following should suffice to identify them:

Type I.—The central loop of the ornament below "BREMEN" has a single line drawn vertically through it.

Type II.—Two vertical lines are drawn through the loop.

Type III.—Three vertical lines now appear and the loop is open instead of closed as in the other two types.

All three types are found with and without a broken line under the inscription "STADT POST AMT." These stamps, in common with all others issued subsequently in Bremen, were manufactured by the Hunkel Lithographic Company, of Bremen.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

The next stamp to appear was the 5 grote, which was created to prepay the single letter rate to Hamburg. This value was issued on April 4th, 1856, and was also lithographed. The single letter weight at that time was one loth or ounce so that the charge (over 5c) seems high for sending a letter to such a nearby city; and all the more so when it is considered that the Thurn and Taxis office only charged 3 grote for carrying a letter from Bremen to Munich—over six times the distance.

The design shows the Arms on a shield in the centre surmounted by a crown, with "France Marke" (frank stamp) on a scroll above and the value "fünf Grote" on a scroll below. On each side of the shield is a numeral "5" in an oval frame, with scroll ornaments. The whole is on a rectangular ground of zig-zag lines running horizontally, the rectangle having indented angles in which are small ornaments. There were two drawings of the design, differing in small particulars, and the transfers were applied to the lithographic stone in pairs. The size of the sheet is, however, a matter regarding which we can find no information. The two types may be most readily distinguished by the disposition of the zig-zag lines of the background. In type I the lines immediately to the left of the word "fünf" are V shaped, and there are eleven zig-zags at the bottom of the design with about half of another at each end. In type II the lines to the left of "fünf" slope downwards and there are exactly 11½ zig-zags at the foot of the design. There are thin vertical and horizontal dividing lines between all the stamps on a sheet and in each corner, outside the design, in a line with the middle of the three projections, is a small dot.

Both types exist with the second word of the upper inscription reading "Marken" but these varieties, prepared in error, were never issued. They are quite common for a large quantity was included with the remainders sold in 1868.

THE THIRD ISSUE.

It was not until July 10th, 1860, that another value was issued. This was the 7 grote issued for defraying the rate of postage to Lubeck and Mecklenburg-Schwerin. Correspondence in this direction could not have been very large for the 7gr used is a very scarce variety. The design is very similar to that of the 5gr with the value at base expressed as "Sieben Grote." There is but one type of this value and, like the 5gr, there are

THE FOURTH ISSUE.

On December 13th, 1861, a stamp of 5sgr was issued to prepay the ship rate to Great Britain. In design, color, and workmanship this is certainly the best of all the Bremen issues. In the center is the usual key (but without the crown) on an oval of solid color with a richly ornamented border. The rectangular frame, which is also very ornate, contains the name "BREMEN" at the top, and the value "5 Sgr" at the base between small circles containing the Roman numeral "V". There is only one type of this stamp. Why the value was expressed as 5 silbergroschen instead of 11 grote it is difficult to say. The silbergroschen was not a Bremen coin but the term may have been used because this was the Prussian and Hanoverian rate to England. This value is found in several distinct shades of green and, unused, is commonest on thick paper.

SPECIALIZED UNITED STATES.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

CHAPTER XLVII.

1 Cent, Issue of June 15, 1887.

There had been no change in the design of the one cent stamp used by the United States since 1870, during a period of 17 years. The lines in the old design had been recut but that is as far as the changes got. Early in 1887 plans were made for a change. New designs were prepared and one was adopted. This made its appearance on June 15, 1887. The new stamp did not look unlike the old one in general appearance; the ornamentation in the upper corners was removed, the portrait was slightly remodeled, and the lettering was made dissimilar. The wording "United States" was smaller, and the value was in a straight line, instead of curved.

No reason for the change was given by the postal department. The stamps were printed on soft, porous wove paper, of various textures.

Mr. Luff gives the shades as being dull ultramarine, ultramarine, bright ultramarine.

Only one noticeable variety is chronicled—imperfectorate all around.

The stamps were printed on machines, a series of five plates being prepared. The plate numbers are as follows: R. 573 to 577; S. 578 to 582; T. 583 to 587; F. F. 644 to 648; G. G. 649 to 653; J. J. 664 to 668; P. P. 694 to 698; U. U. 719 to 723.

Issue of 1887-88.

A new issue was created in the latter part of the years 1887-88 by changing the colors but using old plates. No changes were made in the designs.

On Sept. 12, 1887, the 2 cent stamps appeared in shades of green instead of metallic red, as formerly. The shades are pale bright green, bright green, deep green, yellow green.

The variety is imperfectorate all around. These were all printed from machines, there being 130 plates prepared and used.

Sept. 17, 1887, the 3 cent stamps were changed in color from green to vermilion, the official shades, as designated by Mr. Luff, being pale red, scarlet, (why not vermilion?). No variety noted.

In December, 1888, the 4 cent stamp was changed from green to carmine. Shades, rose carmine, carmine. Plates, L. 542 to 546.

Early in March, 1888, the 5 cent Garfield was printed in dark blue, being changed from the shades of brown. This was printed from the same plates as its predecessor. The only variety noted is on pale pink paper, a very scarce stamp.

In February, 1888, the 30 cent stamp also was changed from its sombre black to what used to be termed "puce" brown. Mr. Luff gives the shades as brown orange, orange brown, deep orange brown. It was printed from plate 405. Variety—imperfectorate all around.

In March, 1888, the 90 cent stamp also broke into the new issue class with a change in color. Instead of carmine it now became a beautiful shade of purple, shaded by Mr. Luff as purple and bright purple.

An unchronicled variety, which must also exist in the stamps printed by the National Bank Note Company, has an extra line at the bottom—probably an engravers' line which had not been removed.

The 90 cent stamp was printed from plate 23, made and used by the National Bank Note Company.

This concludes the stamps issued prior to the smaller sizes, produced in 1890, which contain many interesting features. (To be continued.)

A. N. A. CONVENTION NOTES.

By HERMAN W. BOERS.

The convention of the American Numismatic Association in Detroit was a very successful one, delegates being in attendance from all parts of the United States and Canada at the sessions held in the Detroit Museum of Art.

No collection attracted more attention than that of Howard Newcomb, of Newcomb, Endicott & Co., Detroit, who has spent years in ardent gathering of United States coins of every variety of every regular series. It is conceded to be one of the finest coin collections in the country. Dates range back through all years to 1792, when the United States mint opened. While most collectors are interested in old coins in any condition, Mr. Newcomb's fancy runs to coins in "mint condition"—meaning bright and shiny as when they were issued.

B. Max Mehl, Fort Worth, Texas, displayed a fifty-dollar piece of 1877 of which it is said that only two are known to exist. He also had with him a fine general display.

Ben Green of Chicago showed sixteen cards each displaying eight encased U. S. postage stamps showing singles and triplets in several denominations. It was an exceptionally fine exhibit and attracted a great deal of attention.

Another item of interest was the check drawn for $40,000,000 in favor of

J. Pierpont Morgan which was issued in May 1904 by the Treasury Department.

Farran Zerbe made a hit with a display of "hairpin" money from the Sudan. It is minted in different kinds of metals the smaller denominations being akin to American hairpins both in metal and shape. Mr. Zerbe showed eight cases of paper money many of them very interesting.

Great crowds visited the exhibition and were highly pleased. The presence of many ladies was noticed and they seemed to be equally interested with the men.

P. M. Wolsieffer of Chicago was an attendant at the convention.

The most valuable collection at the convention is that of Carl Wurtzbach, of Lee, Mass. He is showing some very rare colonial pieces, the most notable of which are coins and medals bearing the head of Washington. Certain of the coins are so rare that they are beyond valuation, the entire collection of Mr. Wurtzbach being appraised into the hundreds of thousands.

A New England "oak-tree shilling" among the Wurtzbach treasures was used in the old Salem witchcraft days to test women who were accused of being witches. If they could bend it with their fingers, they were adjudged innocent. It has saved at least two lives, for it has been bent twice. The date is 1692, and the shilling was issued by the state of Massachusetts.

Philately's Coming Festival—The International Philatelic Exhibition at the Engineering Societies' Building, Nos. 25 to 33 West Thirty-ninth Street, New York City, is to be held from October 27th to November 1st, 1913. Already the shadow cast before the coming event looms up unmistakably. The exhibition will attract the eyes of the philatelic world and its success will be a source of pride to all philatelists in this country. From the inception of the enterprise the management of the exhibition has employed all proper measures to encourage the belief that the occasion by no means is local in its scope and that the exhibition is to emphasize not the philatelic progress of any one section of the country but that of the whole United States. While New York City and its tributary territory do the work and supply the foundation for the exhibition, it is a national project in its entirety. We have learned that there will be no lack of fitting material for display and that there is every assurance that in both of the important factors of quality and quantity, the exhibition is secure. It is known that the exhibition workers have made the preliminary arrangements and adjustments in a masterly way. So far, very well; but now a consideration of vital moment enters into the calculations. In order that the triumph for philately may be complete, it is necessary that there be a good attendance at the exhibition particularly of non-resident philatelists. The national support of the exhibition should be typified by the visitors to New York City to attend the exhibition.

All Together—It is a satisfaction to know that the International Philatelic Exhibition will have its international aspect preserved by exhibits from collectors abroad and that philatelists from the old country have promised to attend the exhibition. It becomes all the more obligatory for the sake of America's reputation that there be a representative attendance from the United States. It should be a duty and a pleasure to recognize the achievement of New York. The promise is made that everything will be done to make the philatelist from a distance contented and comfortable. The management of the exhibition can do everything to make the occasion the greatest in the annals of American philately but provide the attendance. That will have to come through a spontaneity of thought and action on the part of the multitude of good philatelists throughout the country.

Stamps on the Side—At the recent convention of the American Philatelic Society, a boy of twelve or fourteen made his way into the hall and asked where he could see the stamps. He had come from a distance to Put-in-Bay purposely to look at "some good stamp collections." The boy was taken in tow and shown enough stamps to make him believe that the convention, after all, was one of stamp collectors. While there is a tacit understanding that the sessions of the convention are not to be disturbed by showing or trading stamps and in consequence, stamps are rather a minus quantity during the deliberations, yet there was a good number of stamps brought for display or sale. It is not advisable or at least not easy for the delegate to take his stamp collection to the convention but a few pet stamps or covers that he may have would certainly be appreciated as nowhere do stamps seem to receive more rapt attention than at a convention. For the trading of duplicates, the "exchange" should be given more prominence at conventions. A step has been taken in this direction and it should lead to a real "bourse," so dear to the thoughts of the isolated collector in particular, as a regular feature of the convention.

* * *

Speaking Socially—The reception given to the members of the American Philatelic Society on Monday evening, August 18th, by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stewart at their summer home on Put-in-Bay was most delightful. The visitors were charmed by the pleasant attentions that they received and also by the beautiful natural surroundings of the cottage, which itself embodied interesting and distinctive features. The spacious grounds down to the water's edge were thoroughly explored by the guests. No happier occasion could be imagined than that of the evening at the summer home of the Stewarts. On Tuesday, an excursion to the caves on the island was made. Wednesday noon, the group picture was taken and in the afternoon, a trip on the "Tourist" revealed the beauties of the islands adjacent to Put-in-Bay. On the same evening, the members met Commodore Worthington on his "Priscilla," where refreshments were served. There were fireworks, aerial flights and flying boat trials as general entertainment. The button distributed by the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club was a neat and tasteful one and the Detroit Philatelic Society contributed unused blocks of four precanceled Detroit, of the one cent Pacific-Panama, in commemoration of the election of General Coolidge to the presidency of the American Philatelic Society.

Revenue Society Convention—The convention of the United States Revenue Society was held on August 20th at the Hotel Commodore, Put-in-Bay, with about a dozen members present. In the absence of the regular officers Mr. J. C. Hoffstetter of Erie, Pa., was chosen to preside and Wm. C. Stone of Springfield, Mass., was elected secretary. The ticket headed by Wm. G. Saxton, Canton, Ohio, for president had no opposition. The reports of the president and the secretary, respectively, showed that they had closely attended to their duties during the past year. The principal topic for discussion was the advisability of making an alliance with the American Philatelic Society, if possible, whereby the U. S. R. S. would be incorporated into the national society as a section on revenues. After some debate, it was the consensus of opinion that any such action would be precipitate at present but that in the interim between this and the next convention, the members while working for the up-building of the revenue society should carefully consider the proposal. Niagara Falls was chosen for the place of the 1914 convention.

In Brief—Postmaster-General Burleson proposes to sell precanceled stamps to the public for use on matter other than first-class. He thinks that the loss occasioned by the re-use of the precanceled stamps would be more than offset by the saving to the department in labor and time. The U. S. postal savings bank stamp is coming in a lighter shade of blue with an ultramarine case; the difference is most noticeable in artificial light. The engravers have about finished their work on the new postal card which is to bear a portrait of Thomas Jefferson, instead of McKinley. It is estimated that four billion cards will be printed during the next four years. The contract for printing the cards is now held by the government printing office.

"FESTAS DA CIDADE."

Our chronicle has already referred to this stamp issued by the city of Lisbon in honor of Camoens in connection with a summer festival held from June 8 to 15. Two denominations were issued, the 1c being required in addition to regular postage on all letters mailed in Lisbon while the 2c value was used to frank telegrams.

The issue of these two stamps was not taken very kindly by certain members of the Chamber of Deputies who asserted that the extra charge for postage represented an unjust tax upon the people.

WE SERVE NOTICE DISHONEST DISCOUNTS.

The WEEKLY serves notice that it will not accept advertising from stamp firms which send out approval selections marked at fancy prices in order to allow seemingly big discounts. On net approval selections there can be no objection to a dealer marking his stamps as he pleases but where "discount" is used the catalog used must be stated.

We shall seek to enlist other publications and especially the boys' papers in our crusade against a practice that is fraught with much evil for philately. Will the dealers themselves join us in our effort to purge philately of an evil that needs to be suppressed?

We mean business!

PRE-CANCELS TO THE FORE.

(This is a very important ruling and will mean a very varied field for the collector of pre-cancelled stamps. It will not be within the power of the WEEKLY to chronicle the many varieties to be issued.—EDITOR.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—Postmaster-General Burleson has signed an order which provides that pre-cancelled stamps may be sold to the public on and after Sept. 16. Such stamps will be valid for postage on second, third and fourth class mail, newspapers and magazines mailed by the public, books and other printed matter and merchandise or parcel post matter.

The stamps will be recognized only at the office named on them. By the use of pre-cancelled stamps not only will the transportation and delivery of mail bearing them be expedited greatly, but it is estimated that the government will save on expense of labor cancellation $250,000 a year.

Pre-cancelled stamps, however, can not be used on letters or other sealed mail matter, which, under the law, must bear the date of mailing.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
A HINT ON CATALOG CHECKING.

By HOWARD C. BUTTERMORE.

Many kicks are being made against our Standard Catalogue which continues along in the same old way as if nothing was said, while waiting on an improvement in this book perhaps some of your readers would be interested in knowing what use other collectors make of this catalogue the way it is.

The majority of collectors make a specialty of from one to six countries—for my part General U. S. is sufficient. The United States section of our catalogue consists of about 55 pages, this leaves about 17/18th of the book that does not interest me, why be bothered with it every time I wish to use the U. S. part?

I use a paper back catalogue as follows:—the cover is carefully removed and the U. S. section and Addenda sheet separated, also cut about six or eight double pages of thin typewriter paper same size as these to be used for special check lists that I will mention later, fasten these together with three wire paper clinches, for a cover I use thin leather over thin cardboard cut a little larger than the leaves and fastened on with glue or wire paper clinches,—this makes a small neat book that can be easily carried in the pocket.

Next prices are carefully compared between the old and new catalog and a plus (+) sign added after each price that has advanced and a minus (—) sign after those that have decreased—very few minus signs are needed for U. S.

The extra pages mentioned above are ruled up and used as follows:—

List of new issues.
List of auction prices received for stamps not catalogued or priced.
List of unused stamps with plate number in my collection.
List of used and unused blocks of four in my collection.
Check List of U. S. postal cards.
Check List of U. S. letter sheets.
Check List of U. S. gov't coil pairs.
Check List of U. S. panes of six from booklets.
Check List of U. S. stamp booklet covers.
Check List of U. S. parcel post 1st and 2nd printing.

In checking up my catalogue I use the following symbols:—
* after number—check.
(*) after number—complete and fine.
— under price—check.
— before number or price—poor specimen.
— after price—decrease in price from last cat.
+ after price—increase in price from last cat.
+ before number—have more shades than catalogued.

By using these symbols I can tell at a glance if I have a certain stamp, its condition and whether or not it has increased or decreased in value since the last catalog.

Examples using the symbols:—
+280 (*) 4c rose brown .35+ .01
*a 4c lilac brown .40 .01
*b 4c orange brown .35+ .02

The above shows me that I have the 4c 1898-99 issue, complete and fine, used and unused and some extra shades, it also shows that the 4c rose brown and 4c orange brown advanced in price while the lilac brown remained as it was.

3342 * 4c black, Crook, Oliver & Co.
a Old paper b silk paper
1.00 —.40

The above shows that I have this medicine stamp on both papers but the silk paper stamp is a poor specimen.

I do not claim to have anything new or original and write this letter trusting it will be of use to some collectors, if you Mr. Collector have a better way or can improve on this one let us hear from you, one object of the above is to get this information from you.

IN SHORT.

According to the official register there were sixty-nine members and twenty-nine guests at the convention of the American Philatelic Society; and had Columbus, Pittsburgh and Buffalo, for instance, sent their quota of delegates, the attendance at Put-in-Bay would have been normal.

The fixed summer attractions of Put-in-Bay were augmented this year by those of the Perry celebration which was advertised generally throughout the Great Lakes country. Consequently, the influx of resorters and excursionists was so heavy as to swamp the hotel accommodations; and the philatelic convention was the finishing touch. It was thought that the Hotel Victory, that monster caravansary, would be open this year. Vain hope.

Commodore Worthington was president of the Perry Celebration organization and as an overseer, he divided his time between land and water. His yacht, the Priscilla, indeed is a trim one as we sailors say.

Alvin Good was a circulating medium that was ever busy. He was a repository for the woes of philatelic mankind and a refuge for the comfort of the sick at heart while he shone as a beacon light for the hardy navigators who feared the financial shoals. Mr. Good would have enjoyed himself immensely anywhere else.

W. H. Barnum was the safety valve of the convention. When the voices of the members were raised in tumult, Mr. Barnum's glance of mild reproof quenched the fire of controversy. His quiet dignity and the rare iridescence of his person made him the convention Chesterfield. There was nothing roco-co about this refined and restful figure.

H. C. Crowell proved his versatility and while he followed the business of the convention with a profundity of thought that corrugated his fair brow, yet we happen to know that he enjoyed his lighter minutes. Even the great show that after all, they have their foibles and their follies.

L. A. Hanford was the night guard who was faithful to his trust and no human eye at the convention saw him sleep. He heard the cuckoo clock regularly during the more or less quiet watches of the night. Mr. Hanford had them following him; they liked his conversational sauce and the paprika of his wit.

FROM THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

It will be noticed that the new King George stamps do not include the word "Protectorate." This has more significance than the mere omission would indicate. In fact, we should not be surprised to learn that this country had become a Crown Colony in the near future.

Other important changes are in contemplation in the Southern Pacific. There are still rumours of a change in the administration of the New Hebrides. It is a foregone conclusion that the present state of affairs will not remain for long, but whether it will become British or French is a doubtful point. We are inclined to think that it will eventually become a British possession, perhaps an Australian Federal Department like Papua.

It is also rumoured that the powers of the Western Pacific Commissioner are likely to be increased, and that possibly a Federation of the British South Sea Islands may eventuate. We only give this information because stamps may be materially affected thereby.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

A CARD INDEX SYSTEM.

By ARTHUR IRWIN SMITH.

For flexibility I believe I can commend a system I have used in keeping my Confederate States collection even more than the loose leaf album. From a local stationer I procured a thousand small cards of good quality for fifty cents. The box they came in served as a filing case and I provided an index by pasting neat little tabs on one corner of some of the blanks. I used an index card for each number in Scott's catalogue, and filed each minor variety, pair or block of four on a separate card under its proper number. At the bottom of each card containing a stamp I wrote its number and any other data of interest. Clean, white cards make an attractive mount for a stamp, and neatness and care will enable one to handle a small specialized collection very satisfactorily in this manner. Where cost is any consideration, and I must say that I believe it is to the majority of collectors, some simple system of filing is especially welcomed.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank C. Davis has shown us a letter from Colombia which was received at Buffalo, N. Y., short paid, the tax being paid with four 2c parcel post postage due stamps, pre-cancelled "Buffalo—N. Y." between heavy rules.

BOLIVIA.—Frank C. Davis shows us a curious cover from Bolivia franked with two of the 1c claret stamps of 1901, two 1c stamps of the same design but new color, four of the 2c fiscal stamps surcharged "Correos—1912" and a 10c on 1c fiscal stamp of 1912. Evidently it takes a lot of stamps "to get anywhere" down in Bolivia.

BRAZIL.—Frank C. Davis has shown us a cover from Rio Janeiro, franked with a 20r match stamp, and which came through, without any additional tax.

CANADA.—The following from Ewen's Weekly explains something that has been several times mentioned in this column:

In our No. 714 we announced the 2c as appearing with fine horizontal red hair lines both across the design and margins. We were quite unable to account for these lines and wrote to the Postmaster at Ottawa to ask him if he could help us. He very kindly tendered the following reply, which solves the problem:—

"Ottawa, 25th July, 1913.

Dear Sir,

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 11th inst., with reference to certain faint horizontal lines appearing on a few of the Canadian 2c postage stamps, two samples of which you enclose, and which are returned herewith. I beg to say that I took this matter up immediately with the manufacturers, and I am this morning in receipt of a letter from which I would quote the following:—

"These are freak impressions, and the appearance of the lines in question is due to a slight defect in the surface of the steel plate from which the stamps were printed. Cases of this kind arise very infrequently and to the best of our recollection the last time it occurred was four or five years ago, when a small block of King Edward VII 2c stamps turned up with the same characteristic."

ECUADOR.—Frank C. Davis has shown us the 2c of 1911, Scott's No. 195, cut diagonally and one-half used for 1c.

JAPAN.—Prizes amounting to 500 yen have just been awarded for the best designs for a new series of postage stamps soon to be issued.

NICARAGUA.—We have been shown a lot of covers from Nicaragua, with the new "Cordoba" surcharges, though all have been previously mentioned. We find that there are two types of surcharges, the stamps with "un cent" in surcharge having the overprint in four lines, while the other values have the value in two lines, there being five lines in all in the overprint.

PERU.—Under the heading of "Some Mysterious Peruvian Stamps" the following interesting article appears in The Bazaar (30.7.13):

In 1907 a pictorial issue of eight Peruvian stamps, of 1 centavo to 1 sol, made its appearance, and in 1908 a 2 soles value, with design showing a monument of Columbus, was added to the series. This value, though it is included in the catalogues, is unpriced, and it is said that it was never issued, though specimen copies were sent for distribution to the Postal Union. Various stories have gone the round of the philatelic press as to the history of the 2 soles stamp, some writers saying that only 100 copies were printed, while others give the quantity as 120. We believe that, as matter of fact, the number printed was 2,000, which would, we understand, leave a balance of about 1300 stamps, after the specimen copies are deducted. It has been alleged that a certain quantity was sold by auction in order to enhance the value of the remainder, but we have never seen any proof of this, nor can we credit the report that the 2 soles stamp was utilised for fiscal purposes. Perhaps this report may have arisen from the fact that they were sometimes used for accounting purposes, for we are told that when a fine was inflicted on the sender of some contraband postal matter, postage stamps to the value of the fine were affixed to the legal documents to indicate that the amount had been duly paid.

Another stamp is an Express Letter stamp, which, according to Gibbons' Catalogue (where it is unpriced), was made in 1911, by surcharging the small current 10c blue stamp, with the word "EXPRESO" horizontally in red. We have never seen a specimen, but, according to the information which we received, not in 1911 but in 1910, the surcharge was printed diagonally and in violet. It is now stated that, whatever its exact description, this stamp never existed as an authentic issue, and that when the stock of its predecessor (the 10c black, of 1908) was exhausted, the postal officials simply used the current stamp without any surcharge. It seems to us that the "surcharge" in question, when found on the current 10c stamp, is really only a postmark which has been struck, accidentally or otherwise, on the stamp.

SURNAM.—The London Philatelist reports the 5c as having appeared without the figure of value on a colorless background.

TRADES WIFE FOR STAMPS.

The name Mirza Hadi is a familiar one to European dealers and collectors. For some years now he has been in Paris doing business as a dealer. Several clippings have reached us indicating that Hadi's married life is not quite as pleasant as it should be but we will allow the clipping to tell its own story. It is as follows:—

"PARIS, Aug. 23.—Mirza Hadi, a Persian and an ardent stamp collector, living in Paris, informed the police the other day that his wife had stolen his collection, which he valued at $12,000, and had sold it for $4,000 to a dealer. His wife, he said, had disappeared, and he suspected that she had gone to Germany.

Later, however, Mme. Hadi surrendered to the Paris police. She said she had hidden the stamps in Brussels. She had returned, as she was unable to bear being parted from her two children any longer.

M. Hadi said he married his wife in Persia. They were afterward divorced by Persian procedure. He added that he would much rather have found his stamp collection again than his wife; but since she said she had concealed the stamps, he would give her the children and $4,000 if she would produce the missing collection.

This arrangement was quickly accepted by Mme. Hadi and duly registered by the magistrate."

A correspondent sending in this clipping suggests that the lady of the house must have known her husband's weakness judging by the promptness with which Hadi came to terms. He adds:—"When it comes to forking over those $4,000 I can imagine him grumbling to himself as he thinks of the rarities he could have added to his collection with that pile. It is a safe bet that M. Hadi will rent a safe deposit vault in the future."

WARNING TO CASHIERS: "NOT OVER FORTY MILLION DOLLARS" TO BE PAID ON THIS CHECK.

By courtesy of Herman W. Boers and the Detroit Free Press we are able to illustrate the largest check ever drawn and paid. It was exhibited at the annual convention of the American Numismatic Convention which has recently closed its convention at Detroit.

The Press states that forgery could hardly have been feared on a check of this kind, but the usual precautions were taken, it will be observed. Across one end is the guard stamp. You have seen them on certificate checks—"not over ten dollars" or whatever the sum may be. This is the same, only it is "not over forty million dollars" that the cashier is warned is the value of the check.

The check was drawn to give J. P. Morgan the millions with which he checked the panic which was just getting started in 1904. It is signed by Leslie M. Shaw, then secretary of the treasury. It was good on any assistant treasurer of the United States and was paid at the New York sub-treasury the day it was drawn.

CLASSIFICATION OF COMMEMORATIVES.

Opinions may differ widely as to whether commemorative issues are a benefit or a disadvantage to philately. They have no doubt in many cases interested wide circles in stamp collecting; on the other hand they have on numerous occasions proved themselves unmitigated nuisances. However, they are here with us and many of us, no doubt, collect them as far as we can get hold of them. It may therefore be of interest to our readers to learn of a classification of these stamps proposed by a reader in the Illustriertes Briefmarken Journal who frankly confesses that he has a special album in which he has placed all commemorative stamps with notes on the historical occasion which gave rise to them. He objects to the loose manner in which all these special issues are lumped together by collectors as "jubilee" or "commemorative" stamps and with characteristic German thoroughness he has elaborated the following scheme of classification:

I. Memorial Stamps. These have been issued to celebrate some event in the distant past, e. g.: the discovery of America, the South American wars of independence, the birth of St. Anthony of Padua, 100 years ago, etc.

II. Jubilee Stamps. These are only issued in honor of some person or persons now living who wish to celebrate the attainment of a certain number of years in some particular condition, for instance: anniversaries of birth, of marriage, of reign, etc., e. g.: Montenegro, wedding anniversary and silver jubilee of reign; Japan, silver wedding; Roumania, Bulgaria, Austria: jubilees of reign; Bavaria: birthday anniversary, etc.

This is the cheapest stamp advertising in the world, 20c per line. Try it.

If your collection is less than 4000 it will pay you to try my approvals at 1/2c to 1 1/2c. They contain many late issues. D. M. WARD, 222 Taney St., Gary, Ind. [84&8*]

III. Commemorative Stamps, properly speaking. These are issued to commemorate some event of general interest in the present and to transmit it to posterity. To this class belong: Exposition stamps, stamps issued on the occasion of the opening of the Zambesi bridge, Italy; campanile stamps, Turkey: issues for the Sultan's trip, etc.

IV. Epochal Stamps, a more serious form of Class III. These are commemorative stamps which fix especially momentous epochal events in the life of nations, historical moments of the present, e. g.: Turkey: Constitution; China: Republic; South Africa; Union; India; coronation of new emperor, etc.

V. Sensational Stamps. These are stamps which possess some sensational interest not intended at their issue; stamps which have unintentionally acquired some relation to a sensational event or which themselves form an unintentional philatelic sensation; e. g.: Serbia: issues connected with the murder of King Alexander; Great Britain: King Edward mourning stamp, etc.

VI. Charity Stamps. These are stamps which were issued on some special occasion for the benefit of some charitable purpose, which possess postal value and which are sold at an enhanced price above their postal value for the benefit of the intended charitable purpose; e. g.: Roumania; charity issues; Russia; same; Netherlands: Tuberculosis stamps, Australian colonies: Queen Victoria Jubilee charity stamps, etc.

This classification seems to cover the field pretty well; we could hardly suggest any commemorative or special issue which would not come under one or the other of the above heads. The classification appears to be founded on logical principles and while it may not be of particular practical value it nevertheless possesses considerable interest and may in time lead to a more consistent treatment and valuation of the various classes.—P. J. of A.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 331, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Bremen.

THE FIFTH ISSUE.

On the same day that the 5sgr stamp was issued a 10 grote stamp was placed in circulation for prepayment of the single letter rate to the Netherlands. This stamp was lithographed in black on white wove paper, the design showing the "key" on a vertically lined oval within a double framing, the inner one resembling engine turned work, and the outer one, containing the inscriptions, being composed of lines crossing each other diagonally, the frame making an irregularly shaped oval. The inscriptions consist of "BREMEN" in the upper part and "ZEHN GROTE" in the lower. In each of the four angles are the numerals "10" on small flat ovals of solid color. It is interesting to note that in all genuine specimens there is an error of engraving in the upper left corner, the lines of the ground of the outer frame extending over the exterior white lines of the frame. It is curious that this stamp is not known imperforate, though issued on the same day as the 5sgr, but was rouletted in the style known as perces en scie, which made incisions something like the teeth of a saw in shape, gauging 16. There was only one type for this value and the stamps had dividing lines between them on the sheet.

Reference List.

1861. Lithographed. Perces en scie 16.
5. 10gr black, Scott's No. 7.

THE SIXTH ISSUE.

In 1862 the 3gr, 5gr and 5sgr were issued with the perces en scie roulettes but the 7gr, for which there was only a small demand, is not known in that condition. The 3gr, like the imperf. variety is found on laid paper while the other two values are on wove paper. The same types of the 3gr and 5gr exist for the original stones were used.

Reference List.

1862. Lithographed. Wove or laid (3gr) paper. Perces en scie 16.
6. 3gr black on blue, Scott's No. 9.
7. 5gr black on rose, Scott's No. 6.
8. 5sgr green, Scott's No. 8 or No. 8a.

THE SEVENTH ISSUE.

On April 29th, 1863, a new value, 2 grote, was issued this being for the single letter rate between Bremen and Vegesack. The design shows the usual "key" in the centre within a pearled oval which in turn is surrounded by a broad engine-turned oval band. This band is inscribed "BREMEN" at top and "ZWEI GROTE" at foot. The large oval is enclosed by a rectangular frame inscribed "STADT" at left, "POST" at top, and "AMT" at right. In each of the corners the numeral "2" is shown on a small shield and the spandrels are filled with ornamentation. This value was lithographed in orange varying a good deal in shade and, like the 10 grote, was never issued in imperforate condition.

Reference List.

1863. Lithographed. Wove paper. Perces en scie 16.
9. 2gr orange, Scott's No. 5 or No. 5a.

THE EIGHTH ISSUE.

The two grote was the last stamp to be issued and no further changes were made until 1867 when all six values were placed in circulation perforated 13, the perforation evidently being the work of a single lined machine. The 3gr is on laid paper as before, all the others being on wove. The dividing lines were removed from the stone of the 7gr and though the lines remained on the other values they did not always print distinctly. Most of the values of this set are considerably rarer used than unused for not only did they have a very short life, but, as we shall show later, a number of remainders came on the market in 1868.

Reference List.

1867. Lithographed. Wove or laid (3gr) paper. Perf. 13.
10. 2gr orange, Scott's No. 11 or 11a.
11. 3gr black on blue, Scott's No. 10.
12. 5gr black on rose, Scott's No. 12.
13. 7gr black on yellow, Scott's No. 13.
14. 10gr black, Scott's No. 14.
15. 5sgr green, Scott's No. 15 or No. 15a.

At the end of 1867 the post-office of Bremen ceased to exist as a separate administration, and from January 1st 1868 formed part of the North German Confederation. The remaining stamps in stock, comprising a large quantity of the perforated stamps, some of the 5gr and 5sgr imperforate, and a few 10gr rouletted were subsequently sold. The only item I can trace bearing on the disposal of the remainders is a paragraph in the Monthly Journal for June, 1903, viz:—

About the same date (December, 1868) Mr. Van Rinsum, of Amsterdam, passing through Bremen, purchased the whole stock of stamps there, for cash down, at the high price of—5 thalers! At least that is what I have been told. We may suppose that this was not such a bad bargain for Mr. Van Rinsum.

Before concluding this short sketch of the postal issues of Bremen mention should be made of two labels which sometimes turn up in old collections and are apt to prove puzzling to the tyro. One of these is a 1 grote stamp bearing a large figure "1" in the middle surrounded by rays and bearing a small circle in its center on which is the usual Bremen "key." Surmounting this is the word "Umsatzsteuer." This is simply a fiscal stamp and, of course, has no place in a collection of postage stamps.

The other variety is circular in shape and has scalloped edges. The design consists of three concentric circles with the Arms in the centre surrounded by the inscription "STADT POST AMT—BREMEN." It is printed in black on blue or pink paper. Though at one time considered an official postage stamp its postal use has never been proved and a writer in the "Stamp Collector's Magazine" (vol. IV, p. 173) stated that "the only official documents I find them on are Bremen 'letter bills,' and even then they are not upon the covers, but upon the 'bills' themselves. What their use is I cannot say."

ADDITIONAL DENOMINATIONS.

"In reply to your letter of August 25th, you are informed that the Department has under consideration the issuing of additional denominations of postage stamps, primarily for parcel-post mailings, but the matter has not been decided and the denominations have not been selected."

A. M. DOCKERY,
Third Asst. P. M. General.

We Help Your Business!

Every month St. Nicholas devotes a page to the telling of up-to-date facts regarding stamps and stamp collecting. Here is an extract from our September issue showing how we help our advertising friends to create and encourage new customers:

STAMP COLLECTING: A Word to Parents

Too many parents regard stamp-collecting as merely a form of amusement for children. While it certainly does afford great pleasure, and while it certainly fills in rainy days and odd hours most satisfactorily, yet that is the least which it is capable of doing for the boys and girls who become interested in it. All the while that the lad and lassie are trying to correctly place their stamps in their albums, they are also learning one of the greatest of all lessons—keenness of observation, the ability to detect differences. The keen observer is a good speller. The boy with a large collection of stamps which he has carefully placed in his album has had not only great pleasure therefrom, but he has absorbed ideas of order and neatness, as well as of geography and history. The constant handling of stamps cannot fail to instill into the mind of the child ideas and information upon all branches of elementary education—information unconsciously obtained, and which cannot fail to help him in his school work. It is to be regretted that parents do not give their children more encouragement in their stamp-collecting, and more personal assistance in their work upon it.

There are between 65,000 and 70,000 copies of St. Nicholas distributed throughout the homes in this country every month, and nobody has been able as yet to compute how many thousands of young folks read this magazine. Why don't you get acquainted with these well-to-do, enthusiastic and reliable folks?

TROUBLE VERSUS CARELESSNESS.

By MAITLAND MILLIKEN.

Thoughtfulness makes a cheerful world!

No doubt a great number of philatelists, either through thoughtlessness or carelessness do not make even slight efforts to please their correspondents in the use of uncommon postage stamps.

It grieves me to receive a bulky letter with three of the 2c ordinary issue when the sender could have used as well a block or strip of six 1c Parcel Post, Panama-Pacific or imperforate stamps of other denominations and thus make it worth while in the way of accumulating desirable duplicates or forming a collection of interesting covers. Would it not be an interesting cover if you were the recipient of a registered letter with stamps of 1c denomination of the last ten or twelve United States issues?

Dealers are just as guilty yet they are not to blame because they cannot help but receive the ordinary current stamps as a form of remittance in payment for goods purchased. Philatelists should try and send special stamps like Parcel Post or Panama-Pacific issues. There are some dealers, however, who try to please their patrons by using uncommon stamps.

Ordinary current 2c envelopes are worthless while the 4c, 5c and 10c envelopes are seldom met with.

I always voluntarily use special stamps but I regret to say that these slight favors are not often reciprocated even when a special request to the correspondent is made.

2d stamps of many British Colonies are not often met with because the three most common denominations of the Universal Postal Union, i. e.; ½d, 1d and 2½d are used. A 2d stamp with farthing values on the original envelope would delight the heart of a stamp collector.

Some philatelists improperly stick their adhesive stamps too close to the edges of an envelope which ruins them by creasing or rubbing. A good plan is to put them about half or an inch from the edges of the envelope corner.

Anent the cancellations:—There are accommodating Post Office clerks who will willingly make neat light cancellations on stamps if you make a special request otherwise they will use heavy daubs which renders the stamps useless for collecting purposes.

Little things like the above makes the philatelic life worth the living.

POWER'S GREAT BOOK ON U. S.

There is one book you really need and that one, E. B. Power's on United States. It is written by a student of stamps who has positive views and is not afraid to express them. The book retails for 75c but out of the largeness of our heart we offer it to you, post free, at 50c. As the owner and manager of Stanley Gibbons, N. Y. City, Mr. Power is an authority you may well heed. Remit 50c in M. O. or check or better still add it to your renewal.

any further stamps with the single Crown and CA watermark were exhausted, the 2 1/2d was issued in one color, ultramarine, in March, 1907. It was followed by the 1d carmine in January, 1908, the 6d multiple watermark being issued at the same time. In August, 1909, the 1sh multiple finally put in an appearance, together with a re-issue of the 3d on chalky paper, all previous stamps having been printed on ordinary paper. The 6d on chalky paper was issued February, 1910, the 1sh in August of the same year, and the 2d in August, 1911. The number of stamps bearing the multiple Crown and CA watermark placed on sale to date follows:

1905-1911. Wmk. Multiple Crown and CA. Perf. 14. Postage and Revenue.
Ordinary Paper.
1/2d dull purple and deep green,	60,000
1d gray-black and carmine,	120,000
2d dull purple and brown,	6,240
2 1/2d gray-black and ultramarine,	36,600
3d deep green and orange,	6,240
6d gray-black and purple,	6,240
1sh gray-green and orange,	6,240
Chalky Paper.
2d dull purple and light brown,	8,400
3d green and orange,	6,240
6d gray-black and purple,	6,240
1sh gray-green and orange,	6,240
Ordinary Paper.
1/2d green,	60,000
1d carmine,	120,000
2 1/2d ultramarine,	60,000

Further supplies of the three values in one color have been ordered, but the other values will give way to stamps which carry out the universal color scheme. The design will in all probability be the same, there being no present intention of replacing it with the effigy of King George.

Practically all of the obsolete values of the several issues have shown handsome increase in value during the past few years, and many are destined to mount considerably higher. It must be remembered that the stamps of Leeward Islands are used concurrently with the stamps of St. Kitts-Nevis. Covers showing the stamps of the two used together are not uncommon, and make interesting additions to any collection.

It might be pointed out in this connection that the collector who refuses to recognize the philatelic value of unused stamps will find it difficult to complete the 20th Century emissions of St. Kitts-Nevis in postally used condition. They command quite a premium in advance of the unused specimens and some varieties are almost impossible to get at any price.

DISHONEST DISCOUNTS.

The publishers of the American Boy advise us that they will join hands with the WEEKLY in ridding the trade of advertising where dishonest discounts are resorted to. We serve notice on all dealers using either of these two publications that stamps must be priced in accordance with Scott's prices or name of catalog must be given in connection with the use of the word "discount". We shall bring this matter very courteously and yet very firmly to the attention of dealers who are using these two publications and are engaged in sending out approval selections.

Subscribers to the WEEKLY who have grievances of the kind indicated will please lay the facts before THE MANAGING EDITOR.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

EDITORIAL.

A New Order—Last week we made the announcement briefly that the use of precanceled stamps had been greatly extended by a ruling of the department and as the effect of the order will not be without its influence on philately, we shall review the new enactment. On August 28th, 1913, the postmaster general decreed that beginning September 16th, 1913, precanceled stamps "may be sold to the public and will be valid for postage on second, third and fourth class mail at the office at which they are precanceled, regardless of the number of pieces mailed or whether they are identical." The instructions for placing this order into effect were issued later, as promised, and now we are enabled to give the conditions covering the use of the precanceled stamps as submitted by Third Assistant Postmaster General Dockery, under date of September 2nd:

1. Postmasters obtaining authority therefor from the Third Assistant Postmaster General may sell precanceled postage stamps to the public for use in payment of postage on matter of the second, third and fourth classes, regardless of the number of pieces mailed at one time or whether they are identical. In no case may such stamps be accepted in payment of postage on first class matter.

2. The application for permission to sell precanceled stamps should be made to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Classification, and should show the average number of pieces of second class, third-class or fourth-class matter the person or concern desiring to use such stamps mails daily, weekly, monthly, etc.

3. On receipt of authority to sell precanceled stamps postmasters shall furnish them and accept mailings bearing them under the following conditions:

(a) The name of the post office and State, and two parallel heavy black lines, one above and one below such name, shall be printed across the face of each stamp.

WE WISH TO BUY RARE UNITED STATES STAMPS and are prepared to pay high prices for Postmasters Provisionals, the regular Imperforate Issues, Locals and Provisional Confederate States.

Extra high prices paid for pairs and blocks.

The most reliable guide for values of U. S. Stamps is Ferris' Auction Review, price $1.10 postpaid.
Normal Katalog, 1914, just received $1.00 post free.

EUGENE KLEIN, Inc., Empire Bldg., 13th & Walnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

(b) Stamps may be precanceled only under the supervision of the postmaster or a sworn employee of the post office.

(c) Precanceled stamps are good for the payment of postage only on transient second-class, third-class or fourth-class matter when presented at the post office where precanceled.

(d) Postmasters should require the mail on which precanceled stamps are used to be presented in such manner as to permit of easy examination. To facilitate the handling of such matter in the mails, it is expected that the mailer will comply with all reasonable requests of the postmaster for the separation thereof into States, counties, cities, etc.

4. Postmasters shall carefully observe the use of precanceled stamps and promptly report to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Classification, any case of the misuse of such stamps coming to their attention, whether occurring at their offices or elsewhere.

5. In so far as Article 34, page 12, July, 1913, Postal Guide, is inconsistent with the foregoing, it is modified accordingly.

On The Way—Says a reader: "I have become interested in Dr. Carroll Chase's 'Railroad Cancellations on the 1851 issue,' and notice that he disposes of 'Steam' and 'Way' as railroad cancellations. I know nothing about 'Way' but 'Steam' surely is a steamboat cancellation, as I have reason to know." We think that there was no disposition to treat "Steam" as a railroad cancellation, pure and simple, by Dr. Chase; he included "Steam" and "Way" in his third class of cancellations in his article for convenience sake or as a sort of miscellaneous division. For some time we have been interested in "Way" and finding recently "Way 5" in red on an envelope sent from Philadelphia to Baltimore, bearing a little Blood's Despatch, one cent and no other stamp or marking, we have made some investigation as to the postal significance of "Way." While the subject may not be of the greatest importance, it grew upon examination and we shall content ourselves by giving only the post office department's explanations.

* * *

According to Hoyle—Way mail is mail for a way post office; and a way post office on a star route is a post office between the terminals of the route. The term, way, should be used only as referring to post offices on star routes and mail sent to them while "local" is properly descriptive of mail to post offices on railroad and steamboat routes. Star route service is provided for by contracts for carrying the mail, other than by railway or steamboat, "without other reference to the mode of transportation than may be necessary to provide for the due celerity, certainty and security thereof." Before the introduction of the railway mail service all mail was sent either direct or to a distributing post office. The difference between "way" and "local" way did not seem to be observed generally by the department as we find that the route agency is described as a steamboat or railroad route on which the way service, or service for the mail supply of post offices thereon, or interchange between them, is performed by an employee of the railway mail service known as a route agent. The route or mail agent certainly stamped the "way" on mail interchanged between the way offices on the route; and the assumption is that at separating post offices some of the letters for way routes were marked in the same manner. All of the definitions given apply to the postal service of many years ago, it may not be necessary to add.

* * *

So It Seems—The old circular of about 1851 or so offering "Improved Post Office Stamps" engraved on boxwood that we have described fully in this column heretofore has attracted the attention of cancellation specialists; and recently, Dr. Carroll Chase wrote: "It is very interesting. Have you noticed that the postmark and 'Paid' on the front of the circular showing the address were seemingly printed at the same time the red impressions were printed on the other side? It strikes me that this is a very early 'paid permit' or something in that line." We attempted to show that the inscription in question on the address side was a sort of stampless precancellation but perhaps, paid permit, is a more fitting designation.

A Valuable Report—At the recent convention of the American Philatelic Society at Put-in-Bay, the report of the Philatelic Literature Committee was presented in mimeographed pamphlet form. The chairman of the committee, Mr. W. R. Ricketts, has a remarkable aptitude for the work of philatelic indexing and compilations of this kind; and the report in limited edition was offered to members at twenty-five and fifty cents, according to binding. It is likely that in the confusion some of those at the convention neglected to purchase a copy and they as well as other members should know that the pamphlet may be had from Wm. C. Ault, Jeffersonville, Indiana, secretary of the American Philatelic Society, until the supply is exhausted. The money realized from the sale of the report will be applied to the uses of the library. It was evident that the members appreciated the labors of the committee and a special vote of thanks was given to the chairman, Mr. Ricketts.

Great Library—We have received Part I of the Priced Catalogue of the Alfred Smith Philatelic Library; and this first section includes separate works from "Abel to Finland." Our curiosity as to the contents of this justly famous library is given a keener edge, if possible, by an examination of the rarity and richness of some of the numbers in the catalogue of this almost incomparable collection. We notice that the United States is fairly and favorably represented and the past is brought back vividly by the names of some of the works that have disappeared from the surface. The "price of honor" is given to F. Booty's Aids to Stamp Collectors, being a list of British and Foreign Postage Stamps in circulation since 1840, half calf, London, 1862. Price ten pounds.

THE NEW CHINA.

By courtesy of A. Goldman of Shanghai we are able to illustrate the new design to be used on the new issue of China:—

Mr. Goldman writes: that the new stamp was put in use at Shanghai July 30. The supply of the surcharged 1c had become exhausted. He advises us that the new set will come into use as the supply of the surcharged issues is exhausted.

We offer these mixtures to dealers who want a wide range of variety, but few of each kind. Nothing so good as these lots for those contemplating entering the stamp business. Enables the dealer with small capital to compete with those using hundreds of dollars. Can re-sell these stamps at 80% discount from Scott's prices and more than double ones money. Sell at 50% and make 400% clean profit.
These mixtures contain only choice postage stamps in good condition and are not the worse for wear, but are fresh and clean copies and never have been hinged. All free from paper and are postally used or in mint condition.

If you are a Dealer, an Exchanger, or Club Member—Here's Something Worth Your While! Collectors can place hundreds in their collections and sell or exchange balance and make big money.

Finest value for 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 CENT NET APPROVALS ever offered. Over 150 countries represented. Stamps cut from one to fifty cents each. Mostly from 2 to 10c. No trash—every stamp desirable and salable. Hundreds of dealers are using these mixtures and are re-ordering regularly—AND WHY NOT YOU? Start an approval business—be a stamp dealer in your home town, or, by mail and do a country-wide business. Here is Your Opportunity. It Means Act Today!

No. 1 Contains 3,750 postage stamps. Over 1,500 diff. kinds. Not over 3 of any one kind. A big investment for all. Catalogues considerably over $100.00. Postpaid at only..... $10.00
No. 2 Contains 7,500 postage stamps. About 2,500 diff. kinds worth the price asked alone. Over 500 diff. Br. Col. and 750 sorts XX Century of the Highest Quality. Not over 5 of any one kind. Catalogues considerably over $200.00. Postpaid and Registered at..... $25.00

By all means buy No. 2 if you have the money. It contains wider variety and fewer of the common stamps—therefore, the more desirable kind and consequently the "best buy."

BUT ONE OF MANY
H. F. Otley, a dealer in stamps and V-Pres. of the local philatelic society at Rochester, N. Y. writes:—"Having carefully examined the GOLDEN GENIE MIXTURE No. 2 of 7,500 stamps. I want to give you my honest opinion of it. To fail to write you in appreciation of the quality and value of this lot would indeed be negligence. I found more real value than I expected. I am convinced that this lot has no equal for less than double your price as it contains salable stamps only while dealer's stocks offered by others contain much trash and many questionable stamps."

THE STAMPS OF UGANDA.

By ALEXANDER J. SEFL.

The first stamps of Uganda were issued on March 20th, 1895, and were produced by the Rev. E. Millar, C.M.S., on his typewriter. The value was expressed in cowries; these shells were the popular "coinage" of the country, and had a recognised value. The rates of postage varied according to the distance, and ranged from 10 cowries to 60 cowries. At this time 200 cowries were equal to 1 rupee (¼).

The design can hardly be called elaborate, consisting as it did of the letters "UG", Uganda Government, and the value, the whole being surrounded by a frame of dotted lines.

These early typewritten stamps can be divided into various sets, the first in order of issue being what I may describe as the wide "UG" in the wide setting. The stamps of this setting measure some 20 to 26 mm. across. They were printed in sheets of 117, thirteen horizontal rows of nine stamps each. The sheets were made up of various values, as might be wanted. The 117 stamps were as much as could be got on to the paper, which was a white laid foolscap, with the result that, if Mr. Millar started his first row the slightest bit too low on the paper, he would find himself in difficulty when he came to the thirteenth. This he usually overcame by turning the paper round when he had finished the twelfth row, and printing the last one tête-bêche. There was then generally a blank space between these two rows, in which he would type a summary of what the sheet contained.

As the stamps were typed separately by hand a small mistake was occasionally made: one finds letters struck in the wrong place, or a wrong figure with the correct one typed over it. One or two cases are known where there is an error of lettering, such as "UA" for "UG", but these are very rare.

The denominations issued were as follows:—

5 cowries, black	30 cowries, black
10 cowries, black	40 cowries, black
15 cowries, black	50 cowries, black
20 cowries, black	60 cowries, black
25 cowries, black

The next set of stamps with which we will deal consists of a series of manuscript provisionals, all of which are of great rarity. The surcharge was in black ink, the original value being struck out. A few of the known copies of these stamps bear the initials "G.R.B.", being those of the Rev. G. R. Baskeville, a missionary. The date of issue was early in May, 1895, and subsequent to the "narrow" issue with which I will shortly deal, but I have mentioned the provisionals here as they were on the "wide" stamps of the first issue. The following varieties are known:—

10 on 50 cowries, black
15 on 10 cowries, black
15 on 20 cowries, black
15 on 40 cowries, black
15 on 50 cowries, black
25 on 50 cowries, black
50 on 60 cowries, black

We will now deal with the "narrow" stamps; these were in sheets of 143, 13 horizontal rows of 11, instead of 13 rows of 9, as was the case in the first issue. The result was that the stamps were very much narrower, being from 16 to 18 mm. wide. This issue was produced in exactly the same manner as the previous one, so that tête-bêche varieties can also be found sometimes with, and sometimes without, the inscription: when "without" the two rows may have a common dividing line, continuous, and not dotted as in other rows. The slight errors, mentioned in connection with the previous stamps, also occur in this issue, but are surprisingly few in number, considering the method of production. This series began to appear sometime in April, 1895, and printings were doubtless made up to May 6th, on which date Mr. Millar sold his typewriter and obtained a new one. This set consisted of the same values as the previous one, that is:—

5 cowries, black	30 cowries, black
10 cowries, black	40 cowries, black
15 cowries, black	50 cowries, black
20 cowries, black	60 cowries, black
25 cowries, black

As mentioned above, Mr. Millar obtained a new typewriter in May; this machine differed somewhat from the old one in matter of type. The great point of difference was the width of the type, which in the new machine was much narrower. It is, therefore, not difficult to distinguish stamps from the two printings. This latter series we can call the "narrow type, narrow stamp," as against the "broad type, narrow stamp" from the old machine. Here again we find occasional errors, but they are very scarce, and will but rarely come the collector's way. This series contained exactly the same values as the previous one, so it is needless to repeat them.

Towards the end of 1895 we have to note another change, this time of colour and not of type, the whole set appearing in violet. The 60 cowries stamp was dropped out, however, and a 100 cowries value inserted instead. With the exception of this difference, and that of colour, the set is identical with the previous one.

5 cowries, violet	30 cowries, violet.
10 cowries, violet	40 cowries, violet
15 cowries, violet	50 cowries, violet
20 cowries, violet	100 cowries, violet
25 cowries, violet

Towards the middle of 1896 the Uganda Postal Service was taken over by the British Military Representative, who effected a slight change in the design, making it read "V. 96. R" at the top and "Uganda" at the bottom, the value and the frame remaining the same. There were rather more errors in this than in previous issues, but they are by no means easy to find. The 60c value was brought back again into the set, which consisted of the following:—

5 cowries, violet	30 cowries, violet
10 cowries, violet	40 cowries, violet
15 cowries, violet	50 cowries, violet
20 cowries, violet	60 cowries, violet
25 cowries, violet	100 cowries, violet

This is the end of the typewritten stamps of Uganda, all interesting and all hard to acquire; the next issue, however, though not produced by quite such primitive means, is equally interesting to the philatelist.

This issue was also produced by the efforts of the C. M. S. missionaries. The design was arranged by the Rev. F. Rowling, who was also responsible for the setting up of the type in the missionary press at Lubwa, Usoga.

Owing to a somewhat limited fount of type, the size of the sheets was necessarily small. The "setting" consisted of sixteen stamps, two impressions of this, i.e., thirty-two stamps, forming the complete sheet. These panes were generally printed side by side, but sometimes one above the other, and always tête-bêche to each other. The value is now expressed in annas and rupees, as befitted the more ambitious effort. There were two printings of all values, with the exception of the 5 rupees; there were also two types of "1" on the 1 anna stamp.

The 8a, 1r, and 5r values were on a thinner and more yellowish paper than the rest of the set.

The type was kept standing for all values, the ornaments and the value being alone altered. Examination of a sheet will show that every stamp has well defined characteristics, easily enabling it to be "plated." The most important varieties are the small "o" in "POSTAGE" on No. 7, and the sloping "RATE" in "PROTECTORATE" on No. 12 (the pane is arranged in four rows of four).

A number of all values of this series were overprinted with a large "L" by the Collector at Kampala; these were intended for local use only, but they were subsequently used indiscriminately.

The set was composed as follows:—
1 anna, black (two types)
2 annas, black
3 annas, black
4 annas, black
8 annas, black
1 rupee, black
5 rupees, black

70% DISCOUNT I send selections of desirable stamps on approval at 70% discount from standard catalogue prices. Precancelled ½ cent each. References required.
J. Emory Renoll, Hanover, Penn.

A few of this locally printed series may be met with postmarked, but the great majority of the stamps were cancelled with a cross, either in ink or pencil, as had been the case with the stamps of the previous issues.—West End Philatelist.

IN PASSING.

As stated last week Wendover Neefus the Hudson, N. Y. dealer saw the wisdom of taking the outside cover page of our New York Special, and this before we had attempted to circularize the trade for business.

Our rate for a page is only $57.60 and we have doubled the circulation that we had nine years ago when the paper came to Boston from New York. Notwithstanding the increase in circulation our page rate is just the same.

This week we note the appearance of E. H. Gammans, Jr. He writes in a laconic vein:—"Expect to be with you regularly this season. It pays." A brief but eloquent word. The Stamp & Coin Exchange of N. Y. City also returns this week.

Next week our "Season Opener".

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldridge lists the following new precancels:

St. Joseph, Mich.—(ST. JOSEPH—MICHIGAN) in two lines, ordinary type capitals, with serifs, letters 2 mm. high, 3c 1910.

St. Louis, Mo.—(1162) R. W. Boisselier sent for my inspection, three blocks with freak precancellations, as follows:—Block 1, St. Louis, Missouri, above then the bar and blank space, another bar, and part of another St. Louis below that. Block 2, Same, but pre-cancel scarcely visible on lower pair, although bars are plain. Block 3, (12 stamps) same, Missouri only showing above and St. Louis, below, part of the block only showing bars, with no city or state. 1c 1912.

Racine, Wis.—(No. 1153) 15c Parcel Post inverted.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—(No. 1162) 1913, 3c Parcel Post.

The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the current 1c envelope, size 13, on white, with the stamp printed in light apple green. We are informed that the envelopes were issued for a definite purpose, and that the color was in no sense a freak.

AUSTRALIA.—A correspondent writes to Even's Weekly regarding the Letter Cards issued by the Government:

"The oval views are now all gone; they are now all the new oblong type which have much less variety of colour. I have been through a lot of letter-cards both oblong and oval, and I found a number of interesting varieties due to stops being left out on the address side. Some cards have the stop after 'AUSTRALIA,' also that after 'apply,' both missing, and others lack the former but not the latter, whilst a third variety has only the stop after 'apply' left out."

The same correspondent suggests that there is a possibility that the Labor party may be returned to power at the next general election, which may mean a change of stamps again. The Melbourne Age has the following showing the attitude of the Labor leaders towards the Kangaroo stamps:

"Replying to the toast of the Labour movement at the annual demonstration of the Melbourne Bread Carters' Union, held at Ballarat, Senator Barnes said that the people had been told that the Fusion was going to do big things. It had started. One of its first administrative acts was to cancel the postage stamp introduced by the Labour Government. That stamp was typical of the grand ideal of a White Australia, and they would remember that it was only since the Labour party came into the political arena that they heard anything of a White Australia. The Fusion could see nothing in that ideal, and at the back of its mind all the time was the hope that one day it would be able to do what it talked of doing years ago, namely, peopling Australia with cheap coloured labour. Now the White Australia stamp was cancelled, and in the new stamp they found a bob-tailed kangaroo staring in the face of the King."

BRITISH GUIANA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 2c scarlet and the New England Stamp Co. the 12c orange and lilac of the King George series.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—The $1 and $2 King George values have been shown us by W. H. Peckitt. They were shown us by Mr. Focke some time since.

CHINA.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 1c and 30c postage due stamps, with the Waterflow stamps. These were chronicled some time since.

Champion's Bulletin illustrates the first issues of a new series for the Republic. The 1c shows a junk under full sail as a center piece, with inscriptions and value in Chinese at the top, and English at the bottom. Below the central picture appears "Republic—of China—Postage" in three lines, with "1" "ct" in the corners. The $5 shows a temple with three towers, the inscriptions being similar to those in the 1c value though the ornaments are much more elaborate. This value has "$" in the lower left and "5" in the lower right and is printed in two colors. Champion's says there is also a new set of postage due stamps, though we are not sure as to the design.

Adhesives.

1c yellow.
$5 red and black.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Oswald Marsh sends us the ½d and 1d values, die 3 on multiple watermarked paper. Mr. Marsh says that "these varieties have hitherto been unknown and will doubtless be scarce, as this paper was discarded some time ago, and presumably it is only a remnant which has been used up."

W. H. Peckitt has shown us the new values noted in No. 1182, up to the 10sh, and the New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 10sh and £1 values. All the new values up to 1sh have the figures of value in the upper corners with the value in words across the bottom of the stamp. There are two designs one for the 6d, 7d and 8d values and another for the 10d and 1sh. The first design has the King's Head in an unframed octagon space, with a Caduceus at each side and a short wreath at the bottom. A large crown appears above the head and the words "Postage" and "Revenue" appear just below the figures of value. On the other design the King's Head is framed in an oval wreath, with "Postage" and "Revenue" at the sides. The 10sh and £1 stamps are in the design of the 2sh 6d and 5sh stamps recently chronicled.

Adhesives.

6d lilac.
7d dark olive gray.
8d black on yellow.
10d pale blue.
1sh olive bistre.
10sh slate blue.
£1 yellow green.

Fred J. Melville has the following to say regarding the Georgian series of stamps, in the London Daily Telegraph: "Although the issue is now to all intents and purposes completed, it by no means follows that there will be no further modifications. At the time of the issue of the 3d violet I pointed out the possibility of this colour being confused with that of the 6d purple, although the two stamps are of different design. The 6d stamp, being largely used on documents with a pen cancellation, has to be printed in a highly fugitive ink and on a chalk-coated paper, so that it may not be possible to clean off the pen-marks and use the stamps over again. Thus the ink used for this denomination has been of a purple colour since 1887, this being the most suitable of the doubly-fugitive inks which chemists have been able to produce. My view is therefore that violet was ill-chosen for the 3d stamp, and when the full series is at hand for comparison it may be found that one or two other colours are liable to cause confusion, and so to call for change. The difficulties of the producers of these stamps—the surface-printed series from ½d to 1s—have been considerable, and not the least of those difficulties has been to get thirteen distinct colours to print on white paper, suited to postage stamp printing. That a fourteenth found the authorities at the end of their resources in this direction is seen by the introduction of a lemon-coloured paper for the new 8d value. Hitherto, contrast has been achieved more easily, but at greater cost, by producing some of the stamps in two colours."

GREECE.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us full sets of Greek stamps to the 3d, surcharged "Provisional Government" and "Lemnos."

NICARAGUA.—Hermann Focke writes: We had been led to believe that the 35c value of Nicaragua had been withdrawn and the remainders surcharged with SEYCHELLES.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the cent values chronicled some time since.

SURINAM.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the ½c value with white background around the figure of value.

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 4d, 6d and 1sh values, previously chronicled.

ZANZIBAR.—As announced in No. 1180, a new set of stamps has been issued for this English Protectorate. As announced the cent values have a new portrait of the Sultan, in an entirely new design showing the Sultan wearing a turban instead of a fez. The rupee values are of larger size, those from 1r to 5r being upright and the higher values oblong rectangles, both showing native boats under full sail. Possibly the higher rupee values are intended for fiscal purposes only, but there is nothing on the stamps to indicate this.

to be put out by 8 o'clock at night, while the southerly gales last. From out the "Bierhausl" a nimble little gentleman is seen running towards the post-office, with a bundle of red envelopes under each arm. It is Herr Otto B*, of Munich, Canea, San Marino, and now of Vaduz, the oldest-established stamp-dealer in Liechtenstein! The traveller walks a little further and comes to a new edifice, of simple but elegant design,—the Government Building, where the chief administration, the parliament, the judiciary, and the government offices generally are housed together. Further still are some pretty villas and an equally pretty and charmingly situated church. Here Vaduz comes to an end and the traveller returns to his warm dinner at the "Engel."

In 1817 the first Austrian "letter-collection" was established at Balzen, but the Liechtenstein authorities expressly stipulated that the Prince's sovereign rights were not to be prejudiced thereby, and in 1839, when an Austrian postmaster was appointed at Balzen, these rights were again asserted and were acknowledged by the Austrian administration. In 1905 and later, the local parliament urged on the authorities the desirability of coming to a formal agreement with Austria as regards their postal arrangements, which, for nearly a century, had been from time to time brought into closer connection with the Austrian post-office. It desired that the Prince's rights should be emphasized and that the supreme control of the postal organization should be in his hands. Furthermore, it claimed that the right of the Princely administration to issue its own postage stamps, of the Austrian authorities to supply the stamps, and also the obligatory use of Liechtenstein stamps within the Principality, should all be clearly laid down. These claims were not fully granted, inasmuch as the Austrian post-office not only supplies, but also issues the stamps, while Austrian stamps are still available for concurrent use with those of Liechtenstein.

Although postage stamps have only lately been issued for Liechtenstein it has used fiscal stamps of its own since 1879, in which year some labels of plain design, inscribed "Liechtenstein sche Stempelmarke," appeared; in 1904 these were superseded by a set in "heller" currency, showing the Prince's arms in the centre of the design. It may also be added that, since 1862, there have been Liechtenstein coins, though they have probably not been in general use. It is said that the Liechtensteiners are desirous of seeing a complete pictorial series of postage stamps issued, of corresponding values to the Austrian series, and that a proposal to this effect is likely to be brought before the next local parliament.—Monthly Circular.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Brunswick.

Brunswick, or Braunschweig to give it its Teutonic name, is a sovereign duchy of the German Empire situated between Hanover, Saxony, and Westphalia. It has an area of 1424 square miles and a population a little in excess of half a million. The duchy has two votes in the Imperial Council and sends three representatives to the Imperial Diet. Originally Brunswick formed a part of the duchy of Saxony, but in 1235 the independent duchy of Brunswick was created. Subsequently, along with Hanover, Lüneburg, Celle and other territories, it was transferred and reconveyed several times as the various Brunswick dynasties were founded and died out. The duchy suffered severely during the Seven Years War. It was occupied by the French in 1806, annexed to the kingdom of Westphalia in the following year, and restored to its duke in 1813. The direct Guelf line became extinct in 1884, on the death of the childless Duke William, and since 1885 the duchy has been governed by a regent.

The town of Brunswick, capital of the duchy, is of ancient origin, its cathedral, for instance, dating from 1172. Here is found the tomb of Henry the Lion, Duke of Saxony, whose descendants created the independent duchy.

The currency was the same as that of Hanover being the reichsthaler, worth about 78c, divided into 24 gütengroschen of 12 pfennige, or the thaler, worth about 72c, divided into 30 silbergroschen of 10 pfennige.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

While its neighbours, Hanover and Prussia, issued stamps in 1850, Brunswick did not follow suit until January 1st, 1852, when a series of three values was issued. All three values are of similar design, the centerpiece showing the horse of Brunswick galloping to the left, with a ducal coronet above, the whole being on a transverse oval with ground of vertical lines. On each side are small upright uncolored ovals containing the numerals of value, and above and below are scrolls the upper one containing the name, "BRAUNSCHWEIG," and the lower one the value, "EIN (ZWEI or DRIE) SILB. GR." The whole is enclosed within a double-lined rectangular frame, one line being thick and the other thin.

The stamps were designed and engraved by Herr K. Petersen, and printed by Herr J. H. Meyer, in Brunswick. That separate dies were engraved for each of the three values is proved by slight differences in the designs, especially noticeable in the number and arrangement of the stones below the horse. They were printed on a fairly thick white wove paper and the gum used was either reddish-brown or white with a brownish tinge similar to that used for the stamps of Hanover. They were issued imperforate. According to Mr. Ehrenbach (London Philatelist vol. III, p. 162) the stamps were printed in sheets of 120 arranged in twelve horizontal rows of ten each, the stamps being about 2 mm. apart. Mr. Westoby states that the plates were composed of type-metal casts, which may account for the existence of the three "types" of the 1sgr differentiated by Mr. Ehrenbach as follows:—

Type I.—With no dots on the figures of value.

Type III.—With a dot on the figure at left.

Mr. Ehrenbach further states that there is an error of lettering in type I with the word "SILBG" reading "SIL. 3." The stamps were only in use about fourteen months and unused specimens, with original gum, are among the rarest of German stamps. Indeed, many authorities consider the 1sgr unused as the rarest European stamp.

When the stamps were first placed on sale considerable interest was evinced in their issue by the public. It is said that a huge crowd awaited the opening of the chief post-office in the town of Brunswick. At first only strips of ten stamps were sold to purchasers but this order was rescinded in 1853. Unfortunately no official documents are known to exist having any bearing on the history of these stamps as one of the Postmasters-General, who had a terrible aversion to the accumulation of papers and records, had ordered everything to be burned.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

On March 1st, 1853, the stamps appeared printed in black on colored paper, the 1sgr being on yellow, the 2sgr on blue, and the 3sgr on rose. The stamps of the first issue were not called in or demonetised and this fact probably accounts for the scarcity of unused specimens. The paper employed for the second issue was hand-made, of coarse texture, and was watermarked. The watermark consisted of a posthorn, turned to the left, within a rectangular frame though occasionally, owing to the paper being inserted wrong way into the printing press, the device may be found turned to the right. Every posthorn of the 120 contained in a sheet differs in size and shape from the others the "bits" for the dandy-roll having been made by hand. Mr. Meyer was again entrusted with the printing of the stamps, under the control of the administration, and Mr. Westoby tells us he used an ordinary printing press for the purpose. The paper varies in shade as there were several printings during the period the stamps were current.

OUR REVIEW.

We have received the Catalogue of Postal Cards, Letter Cards, Envelopes, Bands, etc., of France and colonies by Maurice Picard and Robert LeRoy, with the collaboration of A. Schoeller and A. Grosclaude, under the auspices of the Société Française de Timbrologie, Paris, France. From Alexandria to Zanzibar all the emissions of France proper and colonies in the form of postal stationery or "entires" are carefully listed, making first of all, a reference work of great value. Under France, for instance, all manner of entires are described; and a chronicle of issues, beginning with the Balloon Post stationery and running down to the last pneumatic envelopes specifies one hundred and twenty-five diversified and collectible varieties. This is exclusive of the essays of France. The catalogue of 115 pages, with paper cover, is indispensable as a record of the activity of France and colonies in the production of entires and it will be welcomed warmly by those who have no disposition to neglect the semi-specialistic field of entires; and as it is a priced catalogue, it must become the standard in its division even as the French Official Catalogue is accepted for adhesives. In fact, as a complementary work to that great compilation, it is warmly approved, even though this catalogue of entires of France and colonies is of the highest merit as an independent work. The publishers are Yvert and Tellier, Amiens, France. The book may be obtained from Robert LeRoy, 2, Villa Blanche, 30 Rue d'Armenonville, Neuilly-s/-Seine, France, for one franc and 35 centimes.

Part I of the Priced Catalogue of the Alfred Smith Philatelic Library, Section I—Separate Works (Abel-Finland), has made its appearance and for the benefit of those who may be interested in its subject, we add here the information (the work being noticed elsewhere) that Part I may be obtained from Alfred Smith & Son, 4, Southampton Row, London, W. C., England, for one shilling or twenty-five cents.

"I received a $42.00 stamp order from one of your readers," said one of our advertising friends the other day. This advertiser has been using St. Nicholas consistently for some time and was in good position to judge, so we said to him "What is the principal objection to advertising in a juvenile magazine?" "Well", said he "most of the replies in the cheaper magazines are fakes—children who want approval sheets sent to some post office box and then never return either the stamps or the price. The St. Nicholas readers, however, are quite different. While your rates are high, it is worth it because most of the orders I received are of good size, and there are few fakers. To me St. Nicholas has been a profitable investment."

It is indeed a "profitable investment" when one order pays for a year's campaign.

THE SEASON'S PROSPECTS.

By THE MANAGING EDITOR.

We will let the dealers tell the story in their own words for were we to tell it it would be but a repetition of the optimistic utterances that the past five weeks have found appearing in the WEEKLY. We simply cannot get away from the idea that the winter of 1913-14 will mean much for philately in the way of deepening the interest in stamp collecting. There are many reasons for this belief and they are voiced in the following interviews with men who are in constant touch with the philatelic pulse:—

J. W. SCOTT, New York City.

Our new catalogue shows an average of twenty-five per cent advance in U. S. stamps during the past two years but we doubt if anyone believes they are anywhere near top prices, certainly we do not, for the principal difficulty in the business is getting enough to sell.

British Colonials also show a general advance and some which could be bought at a small advance over face a few years ago are now classed amongst the unobtainables. It did not require special judgment or foresight to secure these, they fell to the lot of the sensible collector who keeps on the job, and buys everything he can afford as soon as it comes out. It doesn't do to play favorites, pick your group of countries and stick.

Now for a forecast of the new year. The Exhibition will be here next month, it has attracted world wide attention, a great many people will visit New York especially to see the great aggregation of rarities. Every collector within fifty miles of the city will be on hand and many will cross the continent for the express purpose of seeing the stamps and meeting the leaders of the cult, but this is the smaller part of the scheme. We expect every person of wealth in the great city to attend. The result will be thousands of new collections, a very great boom in the number of amateurs and a notable increase in the value of every man's collection.

MEKEEL'S opens the season with extra attractions and is as usual optimistic. Has it good grounds for believing that the coming year will excel all that have gone before? I have been in the stamp business over half a century and each year with very few exceptions has been better than the one before it. This may be in part the results of good business methods but it cannot altogether account for the vast increase in the number of collectors or the tremendous advance in the value of rare stamps.

The first Brattleboro I secured I turned over for ten dollars, the last specimen of this stamp that passed through my hands realized $700. The first 13c Hawaii I bought for $6 I sold for $10, and repurchased the stamp some years later for $200 for my own collection, and when after many years it was again sold, realized $1500. Great rarities must always be beyond the reach of the average collector but there are thousands of stamps which we have sold at 50c each during the past ten years which now sell at $5 when in the market.

F. PUTNEY, JR. (Scott Co.) N. Y. City.

Trade during the summer has been ahead of last year in spite of the dullness in general outside business. The number of new names being added to our lists every day is keeping up well for the summer months.

The new Standard Catalogue for 1914 is nearly printed and will be in the hands of collectors by October 15th at the latest. Many dealers are already familiar with the prices from the advance sheets, and I note that most of the criticisms offered so far have been that prices in some instances are too low. I think this complaint may be warranted by the time the busy season is well under way, but so far as it applies to the U. S. issues at the present time, we have been able to say in response to criticisms of prices in the great majority of instances that we can supply the stamps at the figures quoted. I do feel that we shall have to raise quotations in our Monthly Circular during the winter.

We are also going forward with various plans in the expansion of our business which we should not do if the outlook did not appear very promising. Mr. Clark is filling dates for next winter's sales in the auction department, following the successful series of sales held last year. The number of our auctions is rapidly approaching the 200 mark.

It will be a surprise to the philatelic public to know that we have in preparation an entirely new album intended for the beginner, and less advanced collector. For several years we have been trying to meet the problem of the beginner whose general collection was lost in the 1200 pages of our combined 19th century and 20th century albums. This same beginner wanted, however, an album with separately described spaces for each stamp.

To meet this need we finally have taken the bull by the horns, and planned a new album different from anything ever published. It will contain spaces for some 15,000 separately described stamps. The rare varieties, high values, etc., which are practically never seen in ordinary collections are being left out entirely. The album was planned after inspection and analysis of a large number of general collections so that collectors with as high as 10,000 varieties will find spaces in the book for practically everything they have, together with numerous blank squares for such rare varieties as may not be specifically described. This new album will be known as "The International Junior," and we expect to have it on the market November first.

One feature this year has struck me very forcibly. In making up orders this summer for the replenishment of our stock, I notice how many of the older issues of medium priced stamps have disappeared from the wholesale lists and job quotations. Varieties which could be purchased by the hundred until very recently are now being offered by the ten, and many others are not now quoted at wholesale at all. This applies to a great many countries, and indicates that there has been in the last few years a much greater growth in stamp collecting all over the world than has been generally realized.

J. M. BARTELS, New York City.

We are facing a better season than philately has seen for fifteen years if not ever before. The great International Exhibition is attracting immense attention and will win new recruits to the cause. Thousands of people who have never known the many sided and diversified charms of stamp collecting will now be brought face to face with its most attractive features and this must produce results.

Good material is getting scarcer all the time and this means a relative increase in values. Old collectors who were formerly content to fill the album space with a single copy are now collecting on broader lines. U. S. stamps are extremely popular. The collecting of shades has grown to a large extent. Blocks of four or more are in very strong demand and there are ten times as many who take blocks now as there were ten years ago. The supply is naturally very short and prices are climbing. The day is past when a block of four of any regular U. S. issue over five years old can be had at the price of four single copies.

Used stamps are also growing in favor. The study of cancellations on U. S. stamps has absorbed much fine material during the past few years. Specializing in all directions is growing. Stamps with plate numbers or imprints attached are increasing in demand. A set of parcel post plate numbers will be very hard to get and must attract attention wherever shown.

Envelope collecting, both cut square and entire, is steadily though perhaps not especially rapidly increasing. The growth is solid and healthy. The somewhat numerous dies in the present series have proven attractive to collectors of cut squares, and the three watermarks denoting different manufacturers of the paper, have kept collectors of entire quite busy. To further increase interest in cut squares the Scott Co. should lose no time in rearranging that section of the catalogue. Each die should be dealt with as a unit and the various papers on which it appears should follow each other instead of the present arrangement by papers. The change would be a great help to collectors, especially the large class who are not experts.

Of all foreign stamps used Europeans are in most demand, while the call for the high price unused is weak. For British Colonies the market has not been so strong during the past two years and collectors should not fail to take advantage of the numerous favorable offers. These stamps are good property and are as sure to hold their own with the rest of the world as the English language will continue its rapid progress as the leader of all others among the nations of the globe.

The days of original finds are almost a thing of the past. The larger cities yield very little in this respect now as the old buildings give way to modern structures and old family residences seldom retain their identity for more than a generation except in small communities and country districts. Yet I cannot help feeling that among the old homes in Virginia and other states, which remain in one family often for nearly a century there is many a garret which still contains treasures to the philatelist. The owners may scarcely ever have heard of stamp collectors and no one seems to urge them to make a search among their old family papers which they themselves often do not know have been preserved.

EDW. STERN (Economist Co.), N. Y. City.

We forecast that the coming season will be a banner one. Each previous year has shown an improvement over the one before. This year is likewise and with the International Exhibition in view this will undoubtedly revive the interest of stamp collectors from whom we have not heard of in many years.

It also affords us great pleasure in recalling the fact that we have been a constant user of your publication for the past fifteen years and consider it a great asset.

L. W. CHARLAT, N. Y. City.

Generally about this time of the year, dealers have formed their opinion as to what the prospective season holds out to them and the consensus may be taken as a fairly accurate prognostication.

Last year at this period the indications were that old United States would be the dominating feature in the trade and that new records would be established. How true this proved needs no comment at my hands.

Today, U. S. continue on the top wave of popularity but the greatly advanced prices may bring out large holdings at any moment and then it will be a question whether they can find support at the current level. However, an encouraging feature is found in the increased volume of business in general.

I am of the opinion that the activities

EDITORIAL.

America's First—We have established the stamp album published by the Appleton firm at New York in 1863, in the position of the first album for stamps, of any pretensions whatever, that bore the imprint of an American publisher. The remarks on the subject of this admirable old album that have appeared in this paper have struck a responsive chord; and the comment that has been evoked by them has been confirmatory of the choice of this Appleton album as the pioneer in this country. However, a side light is reflected in the observations of a historian who thinks that it is possible that a sort of make-shift "album" consisting of unprinted blank leaves, except for the ruled stamp squares, perhaps forty to a page, enclosed in a card-board cover, made its appearance in Philadelphia in the winter of 1862. Our friend is frank enough to say that the album pages may not even have been ruled by the printer but drawn with ink by the owner, after all, although from the strength of the impression made on his boyish mind at the time, he feels that the lines must have been made from printed rules. Our informant submits an early recollection with no guarantee of accuracy but merely in a casual way because of the connection between Philadelphia and A. C. Kline. In 1862, Mr. Kline was America's most enterprising dealer and in that year, philatelic literature, scant as it was, had not been unnoticed by him. Later, the foreign catalogues and other publications could be obtained from him. It is barely possible that Mr. Kline had issued the crude album, if such it could be called, and distributed it as a book for traders to his customers. Justin Lallier's was the first album ever published and both English and French first editions were published in Paris, France, in 1862; and a second edition came in 1863.

The First Catalogue—The Mr. Kline whom we have mentioned enjoys a point of precedence, about which there seems no doubt that may not be passed by. He has the distinction of having issued the first philatelic publication in America. In 1862, he published the stamp catalogue styled "The Stamp Collectors' Manual: being a complete guide to the Collectors of Foreign and American Postage and Despatch Stamps." It was claimed that this manual was nothing more than a piracy of the first edition, London, May, 1862, of the estimable Mount Brown's catalogue, which was destined to meet with so wide a popularity. From what we have learned of Mr. Kline, we are sure that he made the amende honorable and we should like to believe that through a misunderstanding of some sort that the brain-child of Mr. Brown was kidnapped. It is interesting to find in Dr. Gray's catalogue, fourth edition, 1866, the following graceful acknowledgment: "I have now only to add that my best thanks are due to Mr. A. C. Kline of Philadelphia, for the permission kindly granted by him to make use of the list of American locals contained in his Guide Manual, and which I have transferred with but few additions to the following pages."

An Early Example—We have come into the possession of the "Catalogue of Postage Stamps, American and Foreign, and U. S. Revenue Stamps," published by Sever and Francis, Cambridge, Mass., in 1863. This work, the product of the University Press, is excellent typographically and consists of seventy-eight pages and board covers; and while it is not the first stamp catalogue published in America, it is entitled, its date considered, to premier rank among the American first editions. Sever and Francis were prominent publishers at this time and in a list of their books, we find among others, "The Children's Garland From the Best Poets," selected and arranged by Coventry Patmore. The work is bare of cuts except on the cover and title-page where the 80c, France, empire type; the 3c, 1861, U. S.; and the first one penny of Great Britain are clearly reproduced. The following "Advertisement" appears in the book which was entered at Washington in the year 1863: "The large number of 'Addenda' since the main body of this catalogue was compiled, show that no Catalogue of Stamps can long remain complete. Therefore the publishers respectfully request any information, descriptions of new stamps, or of stamps not found in this catalogue, in order that a second edition, if called for, may be more perfect." The inclusion of the first issue of United States revenue stamps in the catalogue was a departure and we believe that the list is the first that was published for the benefit of philatelists. Certain revenue stamps, the issue of which was debated but never actually made are given as Bill of Sale of Vessel, 25 and 50 cents; Lottery Ticket, 50 cents and Writ, 50 cents.

A Passing Glance—In the Sever and Francis catalogue but six abbreviations are used and for the following terms: Colored, Imprint, Rectangular, Oblong, Octagonal and Black. A feature of the work is the copious notes of explanation given and while some of them have a quaint sound and are not wholly accurate yet on the whole are of great instructive value. For instance, we do not find "perforated" or "issue;" instead, denoted and edition are used. We quote: "In most offices the die is tried with ink of a different color from that afterwards used in printing the stamps. These impressions are marked 'Proof'—that is, in the catalogue." In the addenda, under United States, appear the following statements: "A new 2c stamp has been prepared for local letters, having the head of Jackson for the design. Stamped envelopes of the same kind are to be furnished. They will be ready early in July. New Internal Revenue Stamps will be issued in place of those now in use. They will have a border around the vignette, on which will be printed, at the top, figures representing three or four years, as '63, '64, '65, and on the sides and bottom, the names of the months and figures for the days, from 1 to 30. The method of cancellation will be to cut out with a knife, before affixing the stamp, the whole border, except the letters and figures representing the date required. This will render the second use of a stamp impossible. Stamps of a similar character have been suggested for postage." To err is human and the good that this catalogue must have done for "the cause" endured long after the inaccuracies were forgotten.

Australia Arises—An Australian correspondent says that relief is felt that at least the one penny and the two pence Kangaroo stamps are to give way to the King George head design. From an Adelaide paper the Advertiser, we learn that the design of the half-penny stamp has not yet been chosen. We like the cuts of the two new proposed stamps.

Ready For Business—The Cleveland Board of Vice-Presidents of the American Philatelic Society has been organized with Henry C. Crowell, Chairman, John F. Rust and Alvin Good, Recorder. Through a mistake in one of our A. P. S. convention reports, Mr. W. H. Barnum incorrectly was named as having been elected on the Board of Vice-Presidents instead of Mr. Henry C. Crowell. Here is a happy instance of quid pro quo.

THE NEW PANAMA COMMEMORATIVE.

By courtesy of Emil J. Rall we show the new Panama previously described in our columns. Mr. Rall writes that the new stamp will be on sale at Panamanian offices only during the month of September. We greatly appreciate the favor extended.

WHY SELL AT AUCTION?

There Are Many Reasons
the best one being,
Because you get the competition of thousands of collectors, as well as all dealers, not for your collection as a whole, but for EACH and EVERY STAMP OF VALUE in it.
We shall be glad to tell you the other reasons if you will write us.

DO YOU REALIZE? that you can sell at auction, through us, the single rarities in your collection and pay only

10 Per Cent. Commission instead of 20% as charged by the majority of auction firms? Write us today for details of our new selling plan.

CATALOGS "UP-TO-THE-MINUTE" SPECIAL

$300.00 Packet De Luxe $55.00

As good for the Dealer as the Advanced Collector or Beginner

ENTIRELY different from any packet ever sold. The stamps in this packet have never been in a dealer's hands. We get all stamps from the first source of supply and can afford to give you TWICE the VALUE for your money than any other. Contains 4000 ALL DIFFERENT FINE POSTAGE STAMPS ONLY. Every one clean and free from paper and either postally used or in mint condition. Not made up of the commonest but of many real choice stamps from an old stock—many high values from desirable countries. It must—as this collection catalogues fully $100.00 more than any other "4000 different" on the market today. Besides, it is not made up of trash or "high catalogue junk"—only those postage stamps that the most discriminating collector would allow in his albums are included. It is not necessary to enumerate the contents of the packet as FULL SATISFACTION IS GUARANTEED or MONEY BACK, but one can expect stamps from the world over including choice BRITISH, FRENCH (1912 both surch.), PORT., GERMAN and U. S. COLONIES, as well as a rare and costly lot from South America including provisionals and surcharges of Chile, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay, etc.

To the dealer or collector this packet will be found the biggest investment ever offered. Finer basis for stock is unobtainable and Mr. Collector you can add hundreds to your collection and sell balance for more than cost. Remember, money back if not satisfactory. Catalogues $300.00 and our price is only $55.00. Postpaid and Registered. Send your order today—personal checks accepted.

H. S. POWELL STAMP CO., Box 885, STORM LAKE, IOWA

NOT ONLY HONOR BUT BUSINESS.

We surmise that the average dealer is not advertising to see his name in print, nor for friendship for the editor, but for bread and butter reasons. So in our N. Y. special we offer not merely honor but business coupled with a profitable publicity that the average dealer must needs embrace.

The N. Y. Exhibition will be a great event in philatelic annals and the WEEKLY proposes to justify the proud position it has held these many years by properly exploiting the great event. We do not know how many will attend, whether 5,000, 10,000 or more but every attendant will receive the WEEKLY of October 18, and our forms will be kept standing to answer any extra demands.

We desire to issue a paper that will fitly represent the Exhibition both as to size and contents, and we consider it of interest to all concerned to keep our advertising rates the same and trust to our patrons to take sufficient extra space to pay the printer's bill. Our confidence in our advertisers was not misplaced. Before we could circularize them orders for space commenced to reach us.

Wendover Neefus of Hudson, N. Y., engaged the outside cover page before we could offer it to anybody, and we already have the following additional reservations of space:—

Andrew Sledd, Jr., Greensboro, Ala., ½ page Metropolitan Stamp Co., N. Y. City, ½ page
New England Stamp Co., Boston, Mass., ¼ page
Powell Stamp Co., Storm Lake, Iowa, ¼ page Republic Stamp Co., Louisville, Kentucky, ¼ page
M. Ohlman, N. Y. City, ¼ page
C. A. Pitkin, Montpelier, Vt., ¼ page
Fred S. Martin, Greene, N. Y., ¼ page

The English dealers, W. H. Peckitt, W. T. Wilson, Geo. C. Ginn & Co., Bright & Son, etc., are also engaging space. All in all it would seem as though the Exhibition WEEKLY would be a superb winner. Its literary features will prove a treat.

Engage your space now! Remember, $57.60 per page; $30.00 per half page and $15 per quarter page. 10c per line for our circulation is the cheapest stamp advertising in the world and to stop all talk we will submit our books to prove our claim.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

THIS OFFER IS OPEN TO YOU.
KIRKWOOD, Mo., Sept. 11, 1913.
GENTLEMEN:—
Enclosed find money order for three dollars ($3.00) for a six years renewal to the WEEKLY and a cloth bound copy of Scott's 1914 catalogue in accordance with the special offer made me. I know that I will always be a stamp collector and so will always want the WEEKLY. Although as a boy collector it was hard for me to get this money. I feel it will be a saving to me in the end.
JOHNSTON CRAIG.

DISHONEST DISCOUNTS.

The WEEKLY feels in duty bound to take up the cudgel against dishonest discounts. It will no doubt cost us many dollars but the reform is vitally necessary and we are prepared to pay the price in the knowledge that the reform is so much needed.

During past years certain dealers have made it their practise to put prices on their approval sheets and then attach the stamps without regard to standard catalog quotations. Fancy discounts are then allowed and the purchaser runs away with the idea that he is getting a bargain offer. The more serious danger lies in the fact that the collectors to whom these approval sheets are sent sell these stamps to stamp collecting friends and use the commission in stamps.

This practise should cease. While a dealer may have the right to mark his stamps at any price he pleases, we also have a right to decline his advertising and that is just what we propose to do. Moreover, as editor of the stamp department in the American Boy, a department that is doing more good in recruiting philately than any agency except the WEEKLY, we have secured the cooperation of this publication and shall also put this matter squarely up to Mr. Redfield of the Boy's Magazine.

A word of advice—Get out new "instructions" and where the words are needed insert "30% discount (Scott Catalog)" or indicate Gibbons if you prefer. There must be a definite statement of authority on which discount is based and a strict compliance with the same.

Will our subscribers aid us?
THE MANAGING EDITOR.

NEW ZEALAND STAMP NEWS.

Clipping from H. C. Fox, Jr.

Those concerned in stamp collecting will be interested in the following information contained in the annual report of the Post Office:—"Some 2400 half-penny stamps overprinted 'Victoria Land,' in black type across the upper half of the stamps, were issued to the late Captain R. F. Scott, R. N., leader of the British Antarctic Expedition, as postmaster of Victoria Land.

"Special stamps for the use of the Government Life Insurance Department were reintroduced from January 1, 1913. The denominations are: ½d, 1d, 2d, 3d, and 5d. Designs for the King George postage stamps have been prepared and sent to London for the engraving of dies. The following are the denominations proposed to be issued:—½d, 1½d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 4½d, 6d, 7½d, 9d and 1s. The design of the penny stamp will not be changed. It is expected that the new issue will be ready for sale towards the end of the year.

"It is provided that all postage, postage due, and duty stamps, and postal stationery, bearing the portrait of Queen Victoria will be demonetised as from December 31, 1913, but may be exchanged at post offices for a year longer. Christchurch Exhibition stamps, and the first issue of postage due stamps, with only the denomination printed in red, will receive similar treatment."

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

BOLIVIA.—L. L. Albright & Co. have shown us a cover franked with four copies of the new 8c in the reprinted 1901 set. These stamps were chronicled some time since.

BULGARIA.—A. W. Dunning has shown us specimens of the pictorial set of 1911, surcharged with Bulgarian characters and "1912-1913" in two lines in different colors.

Provisional Adhesives.

- 1s myrtle green; red surcharge.
- 2s carmine and black; blue surcharge.
- 3s lake and black; blue surcharge.
- 5s green and black; red surcharge.
- 10s deep red and black; black surcharge.
- 15s brown bistre and black; green surcharge.
- 25s ultramarine and black; red surcharge.

CANADA.—Frank B. Eldredge shows another of the curious postmarks from the Dominion. This is the "Broadview—Boys' Fall Fair—Sept. 18-20—Toronto Y. M. C. A."

CHINA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the two new Chinese stamps chronicled last week on the authority of Champion's Bulletin. The 1c appears to be more orange than yellow, but otherwise the previous chronicle was correct. They are striking in design, and well printed, probably in the new Government printing office, said to have been established some time since under the direction of American printers.

COLOMBIA.—L. L. Albright & Co. send a cover franked with two copies of the current 2c stamp, and half a third stamp cut diagonally and used as one cent.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us a new value in the current set with watermark rings.

Adhesive.

- ½c orange and black.

The stamp is printed on white unwatermarked paper, and perforated 11x11½. Adhesive.
1g dark brown.

GUATEMALA.—Dr. Roy F. DeSart reports the 2p stamp surcharged "1913—12½ centavos."

Provisional Adhesive.

- "12½ Centavos" on 2p vermilion and black.

HONDURAS.—Dr. Roy F. DeSart reports the following split provisionals from Honduras: Diagonal half of 10c, No. 135; diagonal half of 20c, No. 136; diagonal half of "2 centavos" on 1c.

PANAMA.—Emil J. Rall sends us the new 2½c stamp issued to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the discovery of the Pacific Ocean by Balboa, which occurred in 1513. The new stamp has been engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Co., is an upright rectangle, 20x30 mm. The central oval shows Balboa at the moment when he first discovers the unknown sea. The dates "1513" and "1913" appear in the upper corners with a star between and the figures of value in the lower corners of "Centesimos" between. "Correos de" and "Panama" are placed in vertical tablets at either side, while around the oval is arranged this legend: "Centenario del Descubrimiento del Mar del Sur." The stamp is printed in two colors on white unwatermarked paper, and perforated 12.

Adhesive.

- 2½c green and yellow green.

RHODESIA.—The New England Stamp Co. have shown us an official statement regarding the new set of stamps. They have been engraved by Waterlow & Sons, Ltd. The design shows the head and shoulders of King George in the undress uniform of an admiral. There are to be 18 values, the same as the 1910 set, running from ½d to £1, a majority of them being printed in two colors. The shape is different and the stamps are smaller than the 1910 set.

SURINAME.—A. W. Dunning has shown us the new 1g stamp for this Colony, being exactly the same as that described for Dutch Indies, except the name of the Colony.

Adhesive.

- 1g dark brown.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Geo. H. Scharr, Hugo Kuenstler (8).

—E. W. Bridge sends us two new yearly subscribers, "to help reach the 8000 mark". This is certainly tangible assistance and indicates the esteem in which the WEEKLY is held by its subscribers.

—We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of a picture of the convention group of the A. P. S. at Put-In-Bay. It is reduced to the size of a post card but the picture is a very clear one. We are indebted to Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stewart for the courtesy.

—The recent election of the Minnesota Philatelic Society resulted as follows: Pres., Burt McCann; Vice P., Geo. M. Brack; Sec'y & Treas., E. R. Aldrich; Trustees, H. M. Norton, Gerald Burgess.

—W. F. Slusser, Key West, Fla., would like information concerning W. M. McCutcheon formerly of Plainfield, N. J., but more recently of Belmar, N. J. Letters mailed to Belmar are returned.

—Andrew Sledd, Jr., Greensboro, Ala., craves the indulgence of correspondents in the matter of attention to some of the details of business that he was forced to neglect during July and August. He will now be able to resume his former activity. Mr. Sledd has engaged a half page in the New York special number.

—Fred J. Melville of London will attend the October meeting of the B. P. S. He will spend several days in Boston.

—Mr. Batchelder of the New England Stamp Co. engages a quarter page in our N. Y. special. After his trip to Honolulu, Mr. Batchelder made a journey to London in quest of good U. S. and reports them as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth.

—We are indebted to P. M. for a post card picture of the A. P. S. meet at Cleveland. If you don't know who P. M. is look through our advertising columns.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

STORM LAKE, IA., Sept. 10, 1913.

Gentlemen:

Many of your readers are prejudiced against Mission stamps as they have been "taken in" so often by the unscrupulous dealers who have been selling used stamps by weight as such and representing each package to be a gold mine, that they are shy of such advertisements and have a reason to be.

Our organization blankets the globe and our annual sales in Real Mission stamps exceeds 200,000 kilos. For the first time we are offering them for sale in America and will do so from now on. It is not necessary for the American dealer to send to Europe to get his mixtures now—we are offering the finest lot on the market at prices that are very low—being prepaid.

Our first shipment of ten tons arrived at our storerooms and we are now ready for business. We promise no "finds" in our advertisements but many are possible as the lot is sold exact as received by us.

THE SEASON'S PROSPECTS.

particularly of the higher priced stamps and rarities in fine condition.

There does not seem to be any source of supply from which the collectors that demand "fine condition" and have the willingness to pay frequently over catalog can be satisfied. This, no doubt, is one reason for the high prices realized at auction sales during the past season for choice material.

Even "seconds" as to condition and neatly repaired or slightly damaged stamps are bringing good prices as temporary space fillers and we can all remember when not so very long ago, a damaged or mended stamp was considered very amateurish.

In a highly specialized collection I had the pleasure of inspecting not long ago I noted that the condition of a number of them was not A1, but said nothing to the owner. He was looking over some of the lots of my sale and gave me bids on several he was interested in. The bids were most liberal and on two lots I called his attention to the fact that one was described with a defect and the other described as being mended. He said to me, "Well P. M. if you had been looking for that variety on the plate and that shade as long as I have you would take them in most any condition."

This incident is but one of a number indicating that collectors realize the great scarcity of certain stamps and are willing to accept such even if not in the pink of condition or pay a very liberal price if specimens are perfect.

No doubt the approaching New York Exhibition is a factor in maintaining prices and keeping up the interest all summer and I am not enough of a pessimist to suppose the activity will cease with the close of the Exhibition, but to the contrary think it will continue greater than ever.

UNITED STAMP COMPANY, Chicago, Ill.

Never before in the history of the United Stamp Company's twenty-five years of existence, have we had such a demand for stamps, albums and accessories as during the past year.

Notwithstanding the extremely warm weather in all sections of the country, our business this past summer has equalled that of any previous winter month. Our sales of Marquette blank albums during July and August exceed those of any two previous months. This shows a tendency on the part of collectors toward specialization, and that the weather is not always a factor.

With the return of many of our clients from their summer vacations, we anticipate an additional volume of business that will test our facilities for prompt service.

We do not believe that we are, in the midst of a boom in stamps, but rather that stamp collecting in general is finding its place as a scientific hobby.

EDWARD MICHAEL, Chicago, Ill.

The coming season will be the greatest philately has ever known and dealers and collectors alike can look ahead with keen pleasure.

We will begin with the wonderful International Stamp Exhibition which will be opened in that great center of Philately, New York City, October 27th, and which will not only attract collectors and students of philately, but will draw the attention of thousands of people to the fact that philately, as a business and a hobby has kept pace with modern times.

There is no doubt that this exhibition will benefit both dealers and collectors, and through the world wide advertisement obtained, many hidden philatelic treasures in the form of both collections and single specimens will be brought to light; and these will ultimately find their way to the collector's album or the dealer's stock.

The two classes of stamps which seem to be the greatest in demand at present are the early European issues especially the German and Italian states, and the British Colonial stamps issued during King Edward's reign. For any of these stamps in fine condition the present day collector is ready to pay good prices. It has become a known fact that the early issues of any country in fine condition are getting harder to obtain.

The greater number of good philatelic publications that are issued both weekly and monthly, and which in other businesses are known as trade papers, are another sign of the growth and advancement of philately; and the publishers of these papers should be given every encouragement by subscriptions and advertisements from dealers and collectors. The advertisement medium enables the dealer to offer his goods to collectors, that it would be impossible to reach any other way and gives the collector the opportunity to obtain stamps he has been seeking.

It is my intention to be present at the N. Y. Exhibition and I hope to have the pleasure of renewing the acquaintance of many I have met before and of making the acquaintance of a great many others.

FRED MICHAEL, Chicago, Ill.

In touch with your 7,000 subscribers you are better able to prophesy than we dealers and when you state that you are an optimist and that you believe the coming season will be a banner one I know that you are speaking sincerely and, with your broad knowledge of philatelic conditions, your words must have more than ordinary weight.

I, too, am an optimist, but how could I be otherwise when my sales for the month of July were the largest in my history. Sales not made up by selling a large collection or a few rare stamps but a total made from a surprisingly large number and surprisingly scattered transactions.

The field of philately is a very broad one, stamp collecting is not alone for those who dwell in big cities, and throughout this country there is an awakening enthusiasm that will one day place the United States on the same philatelic plane we find in Europe.

W. L. ALDRICH & Co., Boston, Mass.

The stamp business has kept up well all through the summer months. The demand for good stamps is ever on the increase and the newer issues are being sought for constantly.

M. OHLMAN, N. Y. City.

In my opinion the coming season should be the best in recent years, not only in view of the fact that we have had the best summer known to the trade, but because the approaching event in N. Y. in October will prove a great stimulus to awaken and make many new collectors. That there is a big influx of "new blood" is shown by the very large number of packets I have sold during the usually dull season and the hundreds of new names coming in during the off season. Yes, I anticipate a big season for philately in general.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 331, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.
Brunswick.

THE THIRD ISSUE.

Two low values were added to the series on March 1st, 1856, 3 pfennig = $\frac{1}{4}$ gr, and 4 pfennig = $\frac{1}{2}$ gr. The former had "1/4" in the ovals at the sides and "DRIE PFENNIG" in the scroll below; while the latter had "1/2" in the ovals and was inscribed "VIER SILBR. GR." These stamps were also printed on the watermarked paper the $\frac{1}{4}$ gr being on brown, and the $\frac{1}{2}$ gr on white.

Reference List.

1856. Typographed. Wmk. Posthorn. Imperf.
7. $\frac{1}{4}$ gr (3pf) black on brown, Scott's No. 8.
8. $\frac{1}{2}$ gr (4pf) black, Scott's No. 9.

THE FOURTH ISSUE.

The $\frac{1}{4}$ gr was only in use for eleven months (the total quantity printed being 271,040) when it was replaced by a new stamp of unusual design. This was a large stamp, 24 mm. square, capable of being divided into four, each of the divisions representing 3 pfennig, and the entire stamp being equivalent to 1 gutegroschen. The central portion of the stamp was divided into four squares each containing a transverse oval inscribed "1/4" surmounted by a crown with "Gutegr." below. Above the upper quarters and below the lower ones is "Postmarke," and at the side of each square is "3 Pfennig" in italic type. The whole is enclosed by a thick single-lined frame. This, it is interesting to note, is the only Brunswick stamp failing to show the galloping horse. The stamps were printed in black on brown watermarked paper but as the paper was intended for stamps of smaller size the posthorns appear very irregularly. The stamps were printed in sheets of 100 in ten rows of ten.

A large quantity of this value was printed in brown on white paper in 1866 but for some reason or other they were never issued. The variety is quite common, however, for the entire lot was sold with the remainders in 1868, when the post-office of Brunswick was absorbed by that of the North German Confederation.

Reference List.

1857. Typographed. Wmk. Posthorn. Imperf.
9. $\frac{1}{4}$ gr black on brown, Scott's No. 10.

THE FIFTH ISSUE.

The 3sgr resumed its original color of rose on white paper in September, 1862, though, as the watermarked paper was used, it cannot be confused with the rare stamp of 1852.

On January 1st, 1863, another value was added to the series by the issue of a stamp of $\frac{1}{2}$ gr, printed in black on green watermarked paper. The design is similar to that of the other values but the value in numerals on the small ovals at the sides is in uncolored figures on a ground of solid color. The value in words on the lower scroll is expressed as "FUNF PFENNIG."

Reference List.

- 1862-63. Typographed. Wmk. Posthorn. Imperf.
10. $\frac{1}{2}$ gr black on green, Scott's No. 11.
11. 3sgr rose, Scott's No. 12.

THE SIXTH ISSUE.

Up to 1864 none of the stamps had been issued other than imperforate; but in July of that year the 1sgr was changed in color, being printed in yellow on white paper, and the opportunity was taken of experimenting with a roulette. The rouletting was done in line and had a gauge of 12. Whether the cuts were made by a rouletting wheel or on the printing press with ordinary notched rule does not appear to be known. The roulette is always very indistinct owing to the thickness of the paper. It was not particularly satisfactory and in the following month other stamps appeared with the rouletted cuts arranged in a series of short curves giving a scroll effect to the edges of severed stamps. This is the style known as perces en arc and it had a gauge of $16\frac{1}{2}$ to $17\frac{1}{2}$. This rouletting, Mr. Westoby tells us, was done by the printer, Meyer, in the press by means of thin brass printer's rule. The $\frac{1}{2}$ gr black on white, $\frac{1}{2}$ gr black on green, 1sgr black on yellow, 1sgr yellow on white, 2sgr black on blue, and 3sgr rose on white were all issued with this roulette, some of them being extremely rare. The $\frac{1}{2}$ gr black on green, 1sgr black on yellow, and 3sgr rose on white are also known rouletted in line but there seems considerable doubt as to whether these varieties were issued officially. The $\frac{1}{2}$ gr is also known perf. 12 but this is known to be an unofficial production. To a note regarding this Mr. Westoby adds "nor is there any doubt that some rouletted specimens have been manufactured by the purveyors of varieties."

In the list below we only include those varieties regarding which there are no doubts as to their official origin.

DISHONEST DISCOUNTS.

We cannot too emphatically state the attitude of the WEEKLY in connection with dishonest discounts. We are determined so far as this publication is concerned to effect a needed reform in this direction and we also have the promise of co-operation by the publishers of the American Boy. Several times last season our attention was called to the fact that dealers were marking approval selections in excess of catalog quotations in order to quote fancy discounts and we believe that the time is ripe to have the practice discontinued.

We append a copy of a letter sent to a stamp firm during the past week based upon a complaint filed by a subscriber to the WEEKLY and we call upon all dealers who are using the columns of the WEEKLY to conform to the new rule now effective. We shall make it a practise during the coming season to secure approval selections for the purpose of ascertaining whether the rule is being lived up to. We urge a careful reading of the following:—
"Mr. Guy West Wilson of New Brunswick, N. J., has submitted for my inspection an approval selection received from you, the character of which is such that I must call your attention to the same.

There are two sheets total value $1 but I notice that many of the stamps are marked in excess of Scott's catalog quotations and no other catalog is given as the basis for quotations. In other words, fictitious values are being used apparently in order to give a large discount.

I consider this principle wrong and I am compelled to heed the protests

GET NEW CUSTOMERS!

DO you realize that by advertising in the St. Nicholas Stamp Directory you reach a distinct class of people who are not reached by the ordinary publication?

Carefully brought up boys and girls make reliable customers. One dealer in New York says he received a $42.00 order from one of our readers.

Don't overlook the St. Nicholas girls and boys—a few of the biggest dealers began using St. Nicholas years ago and are still at it. Establish your business in the minds of St. Nicholas young folks and you will be investing in the right way.

ST. NICHOLAS STAMP DIRECTORY
Union Square. NEW YORK CITY

filed with us by subscribers in connection with this matter.

I also note several sets of stamps—one of which consists of four Japan revenues priced at 10c and another of three Egyptian salt revenue stamps priced at 12c. These are the veriest trash and no reputable stamp dealer should handle this stuff. A set of five French stamps is priced at 10c while all the catalog of 1912 allows is 5c. It seems to me that an approval selection of this kind is a discredit to stamp collecting and it must bear a similar reflection upon the business of your firm.

We have decided that dealers using our columns should mark their discount sheets in accordance with Scott's catalog or some other standard catalog to be indicated and the publishers of the American Boy will take the same course. I trust that you will indicate your willingness to comply with this rule."

NEW YORKS GALORE.

The catalogue of the auction sale of the Nassau Stamp Company to be held October 2nd, 1913, at New York, is a remarkable monograph on the five-cent black New York, 1845. The collection of Mr. O. S. Hart is offered and it consists of four hundred copies in singles, pairs and blocks. Mr. Hart has made himself famous through his association with the stamp which he knows in all its angles, having plated it after almost an infinitude of pains and study, not to refer to any sordid considerations. The compiler of the catalogue is to be congratulated as he has made it more than a mere compilation; he has invested it with an interest, even a fascination that is felt by the reader. This catalogue is a work on the New York stamp that is full of instructive value; and one may claim a more intimate knowledge of the favorite stamp after scanning the catalogue, which it should be added, bears a fine photograph of Robert H. Morris, the postmaster of New York, who issued the stamp.

NEWARK STAMP CLUB ELECTS.

The Newark Stamp Club, at its last regular meeting on Friday, Sept. 5th, elected the following officers for the ensuing year:—President, H. E. Planck; V. Pres. and Librarian, H. A. Henckel; Treasurer, P. C. Davenport; Secretary, E. H. Greening; Sales Supt., L. H. Davenport.

Twenty-seven members attended the season's opening meeting, and all enjoyed the several contests and talks of various members. Refreshments followed. All collectors are welcome to any meetings. Same are held on 1st and 3rd Fridays, at 827 Broad St., Newark.

MONDAY IS TOO LATE.

Advertising copy must be received Saturday. If it does not appear in the issue it was intended for, its because it reached us Monday. This is a plain word and should be understood.

better grade approval sheets. The stamps for these are kept in large stock-books of the variety with pockets in the same order as they appear on the approval sheets. The small dealer who has only ten stamps of a kind could plan to make up the sheets in this way.

The company handles rare stamps largely by mounting them on single sheets small enough to go in the ordinary envelope without folding. This has the disadvantage that a selection of rare stamps sent out on loose leaves in this way is not so attractive as when sent in the single book, but on the other hand the system saves much wear and handling of the stamps, and the specimens are very quickly returned to the books in which they are kept, each leaf being simply replaced in its proper position in the binder.

The basement is an interesting part of the plant, much of the space being occupied by the firm's stock of albums and other publications. The cuts and plates for the publications are also stored here. We find, in large drawers and shelves the reserve supplies of cheap packets as well as many boxes of those commoner stamps of which there is an unusually large bulk on hand. A few million Continentals in large burlap bags is also a usual sight here. The entire building is protected by an electric burglar alarm system connected with a protective company.

This brief description does not cover the offices, bookkeeping, and correspondence departments, or the files which are interesting, particularly the large safe containing a card index of many thousands of active collectors. It does, show how the different classes of the firm's stock are arranged and kept on hand.

When a lot of stamps is purchased it goes to a clerk whose business it is to see that the stamps get into stock in their proper place. If the purchase is a collection, the album is first examined by an expert to detect any counterfeits or doubtful specimens, after which the pages are compared with the counter books and the stock safes. All varieties which are needed find their destination in the above departments, but those of which a large supply is already on hand are turned over to the approval department to be sold at a large discount.

VISITORS TO THE N. Y. EXHIBITION.

We are advised that the New York Exhibition will be favored by the presence of quite a number of well known European philatelists but it seems a bit difficult to secure definite information. We learn that M. P. Castle, President of the Royal Philatelic Society is expected, and it is announced that E. D. Bacon, L. L. R. Hausberg and Fred J. Melville will attend. The WEEKLY has received word from W. H. Peckitt that Mr. Guy Semple who has been associated with him in business for many years will represent him at this great gathering. There is every indication of a thoroughly representative attendance and WEEKLY subscribers should not lose the opportunity of enjoying the great exhibition.

JOHN McNEIL, TRAVELING SALESMAN.

Watch out on approval requests! P. M. Wolsieffer could not locate reference given at Cleveland, O., and letter to McNeil at Augusta, O., was forwarded to E. Rochester and then returned "unclaimed." Always investigate references and especially when parties refer to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY for we are very chary in the matter of giving references.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings have been received from Herman W. Boers, J. J. Prendergast, Owen Dicks, M. S. Karlitsky, Henry Voltz.

—We are in receipt of a handsome silk handkerchief of a philatelic nature. Upon the border stamps are imprinted in their natural colors. We have previously noted this novelty in our columns and are grateful to W. O. Thiede for his courtesy. Mr. Thiede also sends us some parcel post stamps with a record heavy cancellation supplied by the N. Y. Post Office.

—Another big check is called to mind by our illustration of the Morgan forty million dollar one. J. J. Prendergast sends us a clipping from the Boston Globe of several years back showing the $55,000,000 check drawn by the Chinese Government as a war indemnity for Japan.

—We are indebted to C. B. Megarity for specimens of 1c and 2c ordinary postage due stamps showing a marked difference in the claret shade. The 2c could be described as a bright claret but there is no more distinct difference than can be found in shades of the 2c postage.

—Claims against John A. Muchmore, Hugo, Okla., and J. N. Peterson, Tahlequah, Okla., are returned as being worthless. This information is at hand from the Hussman Stamp Co.

—The New Orleans Picayune of Sunday, Sept. 14, contained a most interesting article on "Stamp Collecting in New Orleans" written by Carleton Pool. The WEEKLY would be very glad to publish the article in its entirety had it the space to do so. We are indebted to S. D. Blake for the clipping.

—We have received several clippings from H. S. Dickey, Newton, Kansas, giving the particulars of the S. P. A. convention at Wichita. There is every indication that this convention was well advertised locally and the interest in stamp collecting greatly benefited thereby.

—We are indebted to Henry Voltz for a clipping from an English paper showing large illustrations of the Australian Commonwealth kangaroo stamp and also the designs that have been suggested to take the place of the same. The new 1d and 2d will be placed in circulation as soon as the supply of the kangaroo type is exhausted.

—Melville Stewart with "The Firefly" Company is on a long western trip and any mail addressed to him should be sent to Low's Exchange, 1123 Broadway, N. Y. City.

NOTES ABOUT NEW ISSUES.

Iceland—The current stamps with embossed portraits of Jon Sigurdsson and Frederick VIII. are to be discontinued, and as the stocks are exhausted they will be replaced by stamps of the previous issue with double portraits. The 3 and 5 aur of the embossed series are already obsolete.

Jamaica—We are officially informed that the new 2s King George stamp will probably not be issued for at least six months.

Tibet—We are informed that the new stamps have been issued. There are eleven denominations, from 1/2 anna to 2 1/4 rupees, with inscriptions in English and Tibetan. They bear various designs of animals and mythological symbols and

EDITORIAL.

Up-To-Date—The "efficiency bureau" of our post office department is feeling its oats. In its campaign for the conservation of energy or at least, the elimination of unnecessary movement, the following announcement has been made: "The attention of the Department has been called to the fact that the postage stamps on mail matter are frequently placed one above the other instead of side by side, thus requiring two strokes of the canceling instrument. It is suggested that postmasters and post office employees who arrange stamps for sale in small quantities tear them from the sheets in horizontal rather than vertical groups of five or ten, in order that the purchasers may the more easily and naturally affix them in the proper way." Anyway, the collector prefers horizontal to vertical pairs. Further: "It is again requested that stamps purchased be handed out face down so that the gummed side may not come in contact with the base of the stamp window. This precaution is considered important in order to prevent the spread of disease." If the germs smile at this, it will be a sickly smile.

A Check—It took no soothsayer to anticipate that the department would not view with encouragement the wave of interest in the parcel post due stamps unused or regard tolerantly the traffic in the stamps. The third assistant postmaster general notifies the service: "It has come to the notice of the Department that parcel post due stamps have been sold at certain post offices to stamp dealers and collectors and their agents. The sale of due stamps by the postal service is prohibited by law (see Sec. 134, Postal Laws and Regulations of 1902), and postmasters and their subordinates will govern themselves accordingly." The offers made more or less openly, we understand, to supply the unused parcel post due stamps at prices ranging from below double face to above it could not fail to attract the notice and it follows, the condemnation of the authorities. The sale of unused postage due stamps generally has long been a source of annoyance to the department, even when the postmasters offended innocently. We have been told that the objection made to the disposal of the due stamps other than by rating on short paid mail matter is on the score of accounting. When the stamps are sold to the public, the stamps are not used for the purpose they are issued; and they do not afford, of course, any basis for computation of the volume of mail with deficient postage.

A Petition—The Bradley and Vrooman Company, Chicago, paint makers, send us the following postal card which by-the-way is a printed order form. The writing is between the printed lines: "In God's Name, Amen. Monroe, Wis., 16/9, '13. Jesus Christ taught: 'Give to every man that asketh of thee.' Luke 6:30. His words are true in time and eternity. Mr. W. Kappner, Mülheim, Ruhr, Dümpten, Germany, desires to receive used stamps of any country except Germany, especially Parcel Post, Panama st., not badly canceled. These are used in albums, sold for the benefit of a Mission Society in need of a new house. Galatians 6:9. Matthew 25:40. Mr. K. sells 5 kinds of albums with 200 to 2,000 diff. st. for $2.20 to $20.00, includ. postage or express. Expense of sending 1 oz. letter, 2 cts., 1 lb. Parc. p., 12 cts. The Almighty Lord may bless you bodily, spiritually for your kind help. If it can't be, hand the lines to a benevolent person. R. t. y. K. Ritzmann, Pastor, retired. Good bye, dr. sir."

Minus—Mr. Kenyon Stevenson would like to know where he may obtain a catalogue or a list of all the postal cards that have been issued by the United States. Since the days of Watson, our leading exponent of the postal card, and of Lohmeyer, there have been no special catalogues of U. S. postal cards. Over twenty years ago or so, the Standard Catalogue dismissed postal cards of all countries from its pages. Bartels' Catalogue and Reference List of United States Stamped Envelopes, fourth edition, 1911, lists and prices but does not illustrate the postal cards. The collector who wishes to consult a current list of United States postal cards seems to be dependent on a foreign work, for illustrations. The most recent catalogue of the kind that has appeared is Part II, devoted to "Entires" of Senf's 1914 catalogue; in it, U. S. "postkarten" are illustrated from 1873 to 1912. Bright's "A B C" catalogue is in English and also lists and pictures our postal card issues. One or two of our advertisers carry these works in stock.

Count the Days—The big day approaches for the opening of the International Philatelic Exhibition at New York on October 27th and glad surprises are in store for those who will see this sight of a philatelic life time. The WEEKLY will do its utmost to enter into the spirit of the occasion and our special exhibition number for free distribution at the exhibition will be on the elevated plane of the exhibition itself.

Circulation Statement—A contemporary seeks to impale us on an exclamation point in discussing circulation claims. He says that he should like to see a sworn statement of our circulation. We are not averse to spending a few quarters for notary fees; and elsewhere, we submit a statement that covers the ground. In computing circulation, it is customary for even the truthful publisher—yes, Cynicus, in a relative sense there are a few of us—to put the most favorable construction on the circulation figures; and did we follow suit, we should arrive at our circulation by dividing the total number of copies printed during the past six months by the number of weeks and in that way, which is considered legitimate enough, arrive at the average circulation for the past six months. During the busy season we issue special numbers with extra circulation up to the postal limits and thus our average circulation would tally decidedly over seven thousand. In our statement we pare to the bone; and do not even include the abnormally heavy June of this year. We select the dearest stamp months of the philatelic year, July, August and September for exploitation; and we may add that we meet the spirit as well as the letter of the department's regulations regarding arrearages.

Spare the Dollar—The statement has been made that there is little public demand for the dollar stamps of recent issues of the United States, although the statistics of the postoffice department show otherwise. When the one dollar of the 1908-09 issue which has been in use say for four years may be had for twenty-five or thirty cents in fine used condition, and at half the price perforated with initials, the postal demand for the stamp is obvious. Then, too, the stamp may be had frequently in precanceled condition, a fact that proves the dollar was used in bunches. In the advance sheets the current dollar is quoted used around forty cents while the fifty cent of the same issue is priced used at more than half the figure named for the dollar stamp. Incidentally, a dealer tells us that he has two or three hundred of the dollar, 1908 in stock and that a short time ago, he was holding twice that number; and he is not a wholesaler, either. When mere dots on the map have their five shilling stamps, and in some cases, even pounds, the United States may have its modest dollar stamp.

OUR REVIEW.

The Album of Stamp Sense—Price 10c, Berkshire Publishing Co., Reading, Pa. "Containing a collection of humor, wit and sarcasm." This pocket booklet is written by L. P. Miller a rising young author whose articles in the philatelic press have been noted for their pungency. The "Album" is filled with timely comment upon matters philatelic and the author spares no one in his trenchant criticism of stamp papers and their would be editors.

ONE DEALER'S EXPERIENCE.

The managing editor has received the following letter from Wendell W. Phillips of Lewiston, Cal., and we are taking the liberty of publishing it not only because of the information it contains but because of its reference to the problems that confront the young dealer. Mr. Phillips' sample approval sheet was very neatly gotten up and his whole letter breathes the spirit of success in his endeavor to enter the dealing ranks. We have answered the letter and shall be glad to render similar assistance to anyone desiring it:—

"I have read your interesting article in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY of the 16th inst., and wish to ask you a few questions about the stamp business. I am a small dealer, started in June, 1910. Am now 17 years old and have about 100 buying customers. I started in with 44c cash and a few hundred cheap duplicates. Have about $250 worth of stamps net value in stock now.

I enclose one of my approval sheets for your inspection. I make a specialty of selling stamps to beginners and collectors with less than 5,000 varieties.

I send out 50% sheets like the enclosed and net books. Have made the series of sheets non-duplicating. Have 12 sheets at present, valued 83c to $2.00 each. What do you think of No. 11? It is a fair sample of my sheets. I enclose stamped envelope for return.

Would like to know how you dealt with approval frauds. Have managed to get in touch with a number who kept sheets and books without a "thank you." Can you give me some pointers on this subject?

Would also be pleased to know the names of Magazines you consider the best to advertise in. I use MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and the Stamp Journal frequently. The Collectors' Monthly of Oakland, Calif., regularly, and the Boys' Magazine once in a while. Can you recommend others where I can get good results? I may add that I have always received the best results from MEKEEL'S.

I purchase all wholesale goods from the _____ or _____ I find that these two, of all I know, sell cheapest and give best goods for the money. I would like to get in touch with other low selling dealers but cannot find them. Can you recommend any?

This is the first year I have sold many stamps. Have sent out over 200 lots on approval since Jan. 1st.

Will close thanking you in advance for any information you may be able to give me. Hope I have not taken too much of your time, which I know is valuable."

MR. BATCHELDER RETURNS.

A. W. Batchelder of the New England Stamp Co., has just returned from a business trip to England and the Continent. We were unable to interview him in time for the publication of his trade views in last week's Season Opener. We take the liberty of quoting the opinion of this well-known and experienced dealer-philatelist:—

"I have just returned from Europe, I was there in August the quietest month of the year, but I found everywhere, the greatest optimism as regards the coming season.

In London and in Paris I looked everywhere for good used United States stamps but found very little; one day in London, in company with a friend, I visited fully thirty dealers within half a mile or so of the Bank, some of whom I had never heard of before, and doubt if they have any American customers, but found that their books of U. S. were practically cleaned out, what little they had left were in poor condition, and I did not spend $30.00 with the thirty dealers, it was almost as bad in Paris.

I consider that last season was one of the best I have ever known, in great measure because of the fact that there were more new medium to good buyers than ever before in any one year, and I am confident that the coming season will be quite equal to the last."

COMMEMORATIVE GREECE.

We picture here the two designs of the special set issued by Greece in honor of the success of the allies in the Balkan War.

One design shows the luminous cross which appeared to Constantine the Great in 312, with the Greek translation of the words, "In hoc signo vinces," above the Acropolis. The other design shows an eagle strangling a serpent, with rays of sunshine breaking through the clouds. The inscriptions are the same. The stamps are poorly printed, and have done little to give honor to modern Greek art.

NEW AUST. COMMONWEALTH ISSUE.

Clipping from D. E. LANTZ.

The Postmaster-General, after consultation with the Cabinet, has finally adopted designs for the 1d and 2d stamps. These are to supersede the miserable "kangaroo" design which, after two years' consideration, was adopted by the Labor Administration.

Both the new designs are an undoubted improvement on the stamps at present in use. They have the King's head in the centre. In the 1d stamp the head is surmounted by the word "Australia," with "postage" underneath, and is surrounded by sprigs of wattle. Below the word "postage" is the 1d indicating the denomination of the stamp, and over the numeral at each side is the crown.

The sprays of wattle in the 2d stamp are limited to the upper portion of the circle. To the right is the kangaroo and to the left the emu. Underneath the King's head is the word "postage," with the denomination below, and on either side the numeral.

Mr. Wynne proposes to put in hand at once the work of casting the die for the stamp. The plate will be engraved on steel, and it will probably have to be imported, either from England or America. In the meantime Mr. Wynne intends to utilise a temporary process for placing the stamps in circulation as speedily as possible.

The colors of the stamps are fixed under the Berne Convention. There are three standard colors—red for the 1d stamp, blue for the 2d stamp, and green for the 1/2d stamp. These are the only denominations which are to be altered for the present.

A VISIT TO NEW YORK.

The managing editor paid a hurried visit to New York last week and made many business calls. He found the dealers in good spirits and it was freely asserted that the business of 1913-14 would be record breaking. Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldredge lists the following new precancels:

Ashland, Ohio.—(No. 1145) 3c 1910, inverted.

Attica, Ind.—(No. 1164) 1c 1912, inverted.

Easton, Pa.—Two lines (Easton, Pa.) in bold type, between lines 1½ mm. apart, lines ¾ mm. thick. 1c 1912.

Cleveland, Ohio.—(No. 1149) 5c 1910, inverted.

New York, N. Y.—(No. 1164) 6c 1910.

Minneapolis, Minn.—(No. 1160) 4c 1910, inverted.

Detroit, Mich.—(No. 1160) 1910, 5c.

South Weymouth, Mass.—(No. 1145) 1912, 1c.

ANTIGUA.—The London Philatelist reports the 5sh value, Scott's type A4, but with portrait of King George, instead of King Edward.

Adhesive.

5sh violet and green.

AUSTRALIA.—A correspondent writes to Ewen's Weekly as follows:

"The postmaster-general (Mr. Wynne) has finally adopted designs for new 1d and 2d stamps. Apart from the King's head being sideface, they turn out now very different to the winning competitive design. The shields have all gone from the top of the stamp, and are replaced by sprigs of wattle-blossom. The kangaroo and emu have also vanished from the penny value, though they appear in the two-penny. The design for the half-penny is not yet settled on. Philatelists will certainly welcome adoption of divers designs for different denominations. When one type is adopted for a whole series only differing in color and words of value (as the Kangaroo series) one becomes weary of it, and it affords the lazy collector a good excuse for taking the one value only as type representative.

"Mr. Wynne is evidently in haste and anxious to show our loyalty, but if he fulfills his threat of utilising some temporary process until plate arrives from abroad, it will mean a provisional issue for us philatelists (whether the public notices it or not) for such a colonial print, whether from litho transfers or electros, would probably be a rough and ready affair."

The following is from The Melbourne Argus:

"Final action was taken yesterday by the Postmaster-General (Mr. Wynne) in connection with the adoption of the designs for the new Commonwealth stamps, which are to take the place of the discredited kangaroo issue. Some weeks ago Mr. Wynne announced that he had decided to avail himself of the first prize design, submitted by Mr. Herman Altman, of St. Kilda, but a close examination of the drawing convinced him that it contained too many features to permit of effective reproduction. Accordingly, the designer was asked to alter his sketch so as to simplify the features.

"This has been done by eliminating the coats of arms of the six States and substituting sprigs of wattle blossom in their stead. A much improved picture of His Majesty the King has also been introduced. The penny stamp will contain no national emblems apart from the wattle blooms, but the two-penny design is to be distinguished by representations of a kangaroo and an emu on either side. A crown will also surmount the stamp of higher denomination. The Postmaster-General stated yesterday that he would expedite the issue of the new stamp as much as possible, but he had been informed that it might be necessary to send to England or America to have the permanent dies prepared. If he found it was impossible to secure the plates in the Commonwealth he would endeavour to carry on the production of the new stamps temporarily by some other expedient, pending the arrival of the engravings from overseas."

BULGARIA.—A friend tells us that the abbreviated words on the Bulgarian provisionals noted in No. 1186 are "Osoboditelna Voyna," literally "Liberating War." Our informant says that some Bulgarians of his acquaintance gave the meaning as "Liberating Army," but evidently they have been so long in this country that they have forgotten their language, but the Russian dictionary says the final word means war.

CUBA.—A Havana friend informs Scott's Circular that the Postage Due stamps of Cuba, with the exception of the 10c value, are all sold out and regular postage stamps are now used for the purpose, but with the cancellation "T."

GOLD COAST.—The London Philatelist chronicles the complete set of King George stamps for this Colony. Some of them we have already chronicled.

Adhesives.

½d green.
1d scarlet.
2d gray.
2½d ultramarine.
3d purple on yellow.
6d dull red and violet.
1sh black on green.

2sh purple and blue on blue.
2sh 6d black and red on blue.
5sh green and red on yellow.
10sh green and red on green.
20sh purple and black on red.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Marsh's Circular says that a fresh printing seems to have been made of the 2sh 6d value. The printing is very much clearer than in the stamps issued on the first day, and the paper seems to be of a thinner texture. Probably this is the reason that the printing shows up so much better. The shade is very similar to the first printing, but, if anything, it is a little colder in tone.

MEXICO.—We are indebted to C. Edward Wright for a curious cover, recently purchased by him from a local firm. The stamp is of large size, evidently lithographed and has as the principal inscription "Ejercito Constitucionalista" in a large curve at the top with the date in the upper corners thus "19" and "13." In the opening the "Eagle and serpent" are placed at the bottom with "Transitorio"—"Mexico" imposed. The value "10—Centavos" appears above the eagle's head.

Regarding the cover Mr. Wright says: "The envelope is exactly as I found it. The sole stamp that franked the letter through from Mexico is this issue by the Constitutional Army. The inscription below the '19'—'13' in the upper corners is 'Ejercito Constitucionalista,' meaning, as I am informed, 'Constitutional Army.' The 'Transitorio' may be literally translated, or it may be translated 'temporary.' I presume that the stamp is to be regarded as a local; and yet it did international duty, as there is not even a postage due stamp on the cover. It is to be regretted that the postmark is so obscure as to be indecipherable in its entirety. However, there is enough to indicate that it was mailed from some point in the State of Coahuila in July last, as 'Porfirio Diaz' in the lower segment of the circle is plain enough."

Provisional Adhesive.

10c red lilac.

NICARAGUA.—A. W. Dunning shows us further values of the new "Cordoba" surcharges as follows: "Medio Centavo" on 3c and 15c Liberty and 2c Locomotive. The latter surcharge is in black, but the others are in deep red brown.

Hermann Focke reports the 50c Liberty stamp, surcharged "Dos Centavos" in the "Cordoba" set and also the same surcharge upon the 10c brown stamped envelope.

PANAMA.—We are also indebted to Gerald D. Bliss and H. F. Christensen for specimens of the 2½c commemorative stamp chronicled in No. 1186.

PERU.—H. P. Norris writes as follows, regarding the item under Peru in No. 1184:

"I have never been able to get the 2 sol, 1907 stamps at a reasonable price, but have a copy of the Special Delivery,

PRICE 25c

Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, Mass.

Scott's No. 196, unused, which I purchased within the last year, for 20 cents, but do not remember from whom. Of course the surcharge may be a counterfeit; but I only get stamps from reliable dealers and hope that others will turn up and that the Bazaar is wrong in saying it is a postmark."

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelist reports having seen the 3d, watermarked Crown A, with the error "Penge" instead of "Pence." The cross stroke of the "G" is said to appear very distinctly.

SPAIN.—Die Post says that the 10p value of the current set has at last appeared though some values in the set were first issued four years ago. This completes the set.

Adhesive.

10p brown orange.

ST. HELENA.—Ewen's Weekly and the London Philatelist chronicle further values of the Georgian set, the 1½d and 3sh values in the "Government House"

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322, Tremont Bldg., 7.30 P. M.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 17, 1913.

The 298th (regular) meeting was held at the Club Room this evening with President Nevin in the chair and 28 members and friends present.

The following was read:—

LIBRARY REPORT FOR JULY-SEPT.

There has been received since the last report by purchase:—Check List of British and Colonial Stamps, 20th Century, published by E. B. Power; Check List of Stamps of Portugal and Colonies, 20th Century, by E. B. Power; Neuer Normal Katalog, Kohl, 1914; Stamps of the Levant Post offices by D. B. Armstrong (Bright's Phil. Lib. Vol. III.). By donation:—Annual Report of the Committee on Philatelic Literature, A. P. S., 1912, from C. A. Howes; and the current numbers of the following magazines generously contributed by the publishers:—Gibbons' Monthly, Mekeel's Weekly, Stamp Journal, Postage Stamp, Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, Scott Stamp & Coin Co. Circular, Philatelic Gazette, Collectors' Journal, New England Stamp Monthly, British Guiana Philatelic Journal, and the New Yorker Briefmarken Zeitung.

Mr. Stone reported for the New York Exhibition Committee that they had received and forwarded subscriptions totalling $180 from the members of the Society.

The resignation of No. 543 was read and accepted.

The following were elected members:—No. 583, Richard C. Story, No. 584, Alan N. Stein, No. 585, Linville H. Wardwell.

The proposed amendment to Article VII., Sec. 2, of the Constitution, changing the quorum of the Council from five to four was not adopted.

Mr. A. P. Brown made a plea for a stamp talk at every meeting, hereafter, and for omitting entertainment that did not bear directly on stamps.

President Nevin appointed Messrs. Batchelder, Howes and Wylie an Entertainment Committee for the October meeting. President Fred J. Melville of the Junior Philatelic Society, London, expects to be with us at that meeting and a special entertainment is to be prepared.

The entertainment for the evening was the exhibition of Mr. Theodore W. Barry's fine collection of United States cut square envelopes. This was very complete from the first issue, and almost entirely unused. Special attention was given to the varieties of the 2 cent 1903-4 issue, as worked out by Louis G. Barrett, and the showing in these was remarkably fine, almost all being represented and almost all in unused condition.

C. A. HOWES, Sec.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Brunswick.

THE SEVENTH ISSUE.

In October, 1865, stamps of a new design were introduced. The colors were also changed so as to make them more in conformity with those adopted by the Thurn and Taxis post-office and the German States. The dies, which were engraved on steel at Berlin, were common to adhesives and a series of envelopes. The design consists of the usual galloping horse surmounted by a ducal crown, this being in white on an oval of solid color. Around this is an oval band on which the name "BRAUN-SCHWEIG" appears at the top and "GROSCHEN" at the base on an engine-turned ground. In the center of the band at each side of the horse is a disc for the numerals of value. Four values were issued, 1/2gr, 1gr, 2gr and 3gr all being embossed in color on plain white wove machine made paper. They were rouletted perces en arc like the set they superseded. The stamps were printed in sheets of 100 arranged in ten rows of ten.

Mr. Westoby gives an excellent account of the method employed in the manufacture of these stamps and other embossed stamps of a similar nature issued about the same time for Lubeck, Prussia, and Oldenburg viz:—

The matrix dies were, with scarcely any exception, engraved by Schilling, the engraver to the Imperial Printing Works. The central design alone was first engraved on a block of steel in intaglio, from which a mechanical workman made a punch in steel; and if four values were required, he, with the aid of the punch, sank the central design on four steel dies, on which the engraver subsequently added the border and the proper inscriptions. Were envelopes alone wanted, the process was complete; but when adhesive stamps were required a further process was necessary, as plates had to be constructed. The embossed adhesive stamps were generally printed in sheets of 100 or 150, arranged in rows of ten. Fifty rectangular impressions in lead of the size of the stamp were struck from each die in a fly-press, and these were clamped together in a chase in five rows of ten. From each of these, two or three electrotypes were made, which formed the printing plate of 100 or 150 stamps. The vertical and horizontal rows were numbered consecutively in each margin in movable type figures, and the plate was ready for printing. The process appears complicated, but it was not a very expensive one where the stamps were not required in large quantities.

Proofs of the new stamps were distributed in January, 1865, and it was stated they would be ready for issue on April 1st, but, as we have already stated, they did not actually appear until October.

There are several shades of all except the lowest value, and all are known imperforate. These were never issued but are from sheets which were found among the remainders.

At the end of 1867 the postal administration of Brunswick was merged in that of the North German Confederation and ceased to exist as an independent establishment after December 31st, 1867.

The remainders of the 1865 issue were sold in 1868. They were not offered in one lot but could be purchased by the 100 sheets at about 2 thalers by anyone interested. As a matter of fact most of them were purchased by one man, a German dealer, and that there must have been a large stock of some values is obvious from the low prices at which they are priced in present day catalogues.

A LUCKY INVESTMENT.

By ARTHUR IRWIN SMITH.

John sat by the open window in a happy mood, even though there was not a breeze stirring. He found it a good time to look over a packet of stamps he had just bought and hinge those new to his collection in his album. While others hunted for a draft, he was glad there was no passing wind to scatter those interesting bits of paper from the table to the floor.

He looked at his album lovingly. It was the work of several years. All the odd dimes and nickels he had made during his spare time had been eagerly invested in stamps. His mother and father had often wondered at him, thinking that he would get more enjoyment out of his earnings if he spent them as other boys did. However, though they did not fully understand their son, they never interfered with his innocent pursuits.

He was sorting out a group of Austrian stamps when his father's subdued voice out on the veranda attracted his attention. He unconsciously acted the part of an eavesdropper.

"If I only had fifty dollars," he was saying, "I could pay the interest on our home and Mr. Brown would wait longer for the payment. I've tried to borrow, but no one seems to have that amount to lend. If I had not been so willing to help others"—this was in a bitter tone—"I could have met not only the interest but the payment also. It was a bad thing for me when I went on Howard Burrow's note."

"It is too bad that you have to suffer because of his failure to pay his own debt," cried Mrs. Dalley in a higher key than her husband was using. "You must find a way to save our home, for we have it over half paid for now."

John's work lost all interest for him. Mechanically he put away his stamps and hinges, and picked up his album. Lose their home? No, it must not be! He knew how their heart was set on this place, how they had struggled to make the payments on it. It had always been a cherished dream of his parents to have a home at least, for their old days. He must do something himself.

"You have two weeks, yet, Robert," he heard his mother say, "perhaps you may be able to get the money by that time."

John opened his album, glancing through the well-filled pages. What could he, a fifteen-year-old boy, do to make fifty dollars in two weeks? Almost with the question came the answer. He turned to his file of stamp papers, and hastily began looking over the advertisements. He found what he sought and began writing rapidly, as if hesitation would be fatal to his resolve. He had hardly sealed his letter when his father came in and asked him to go to the post-office.

John's plan for getting the fifty dollars was not an easy one for him, for it meant sacrifice, but it was a sacrifice

DID YOU START THIS WAY?

A prominent stamp dealer doing thousands of dollars worth of business a year writes as follows:

"In regard to my advertisement in St. Nicholas Magazine, I must say, that my first venture into the Stamp business was twelve years ago by placing a four line adv. in your magazine. This brought me so many high-class customers that I believed there was money in the Stamp business which gave me confidence to continue same. I find that one reply from the St. Nicholas is worth ten of any other publications."

This dealer's name and address will be furnished upon request.

Incidentally we have heard of other stamp dealers who have had the same experience.

that only a collector would understand. He was glad when his letter was safely mailed.

Anxiously he watched for an answer. It came quickly, and on the same day he mailed a large package. He did not explain what he was doing to his father, because he felt that he was not yet certain of that fifty dollars, and he did not want to raise any hopes that could not be realized. Even if he received the money, he was afraid it might not get here in time. He was suffering with his parents lest they might be forced to give up their home which they had all grown to love.

"Well, John, I guess we'll have to move pretty soon," remarked Mr. Dalley at the breakfast table just three days before the time designated for the payment of the interest.

This was the first time he had mentioned the matter to John. The boy tried to look at him wonderingly as he asked, "Why, what's the matter, father?"

Mr. Dalley, whom John knew had been keeping the matter from him in order to save him unnecessary worry, now began to make the same explanation he had overheard nearly two weeks before.

"Father, surely, you can get the money from some one," John declared.

"I have done my best, but money seems to be scarce among my friends. Pride forbids me going to some who are my enemies," his father answered.

"Don't give up hope," John could not keep from saying; "maybe something will happen that will save our home."

John hurried off soon afterwards to the postoffice. Perhaps the late mail train had brought him something. Eagerly he opened the mail-box. Sure enough there was a letter—the long-looked for one. John's hands trembled with excitement and joy when a check for fifty dollars fell from the letter to the floor.

He picked up the check and almost ran home. His father and mother watched him in alarm when he dashed into the house.

"Here, father—here's the fifty dollars you need!" he exclaimed, handing his father the check.

"How in the world did you get it?" gasped Mr. Dalley.

"I sold my collection," John answered quietly.

"For fifty dollars?" incredulously.

"Yes, sir; it was worth much more, but you needed the money—I heard you tell mother about it all—I sold it for less than its real value."

"And to think we always thought the child was fooling away his time," cried his mother with tears in her eyes.

can secure the stamp in large quantities or have advance information that the price will drop in the next catalogue. The auction buyer when he sees the same stamp offered in half a dozen different catalogues may know that there is something in the wind and should go slow. Or when a firm offers 100 copies of a South American stamp for instance, which catalogues 50 cents, the buyer should know that the price is apt to be a thousand per cent. too high. Suppose he follows out his scheme of buying and bids $5.00. He is sure to get the lot but is he sure of selling them inside of ten years and what will be the catalogue price next year?

Note the similarity of sale conditions in the different catalogues. Most of them decline a bid under 25 cents. Simply because a certain stamp catalogues 2c is no reason whatever why you should pay 25 cents for 100 copies. Many stamps so freely offered like old Cubans, Philippines and Porto Rico are unsalable and should be let severely alone. A lot of 50,000 current U. S. catalogues $500. Is a bid of one-tenth, one-twentieth or even one-fiftieth fair and what will you do with them if your bid is accepted? Likewise with the common continentals so freely offered. Many of these stamps sell at ten or fifteen cents a thousand in the country of issue.

In brief you will have to learn by experience what to buy, how much to bid, and what to accept and naturally this will cost you more or less, depending on how fast you attempt to go and how much dead stock you buy. One thing is sure, your average costs will be below what you would pay the average wholesaler.

BUYING AT WHOLESALE.

From the American Wholesaler.—This is rather a delicate matter to discuss by a retail dealer let alone a publisher. It may be said however, without fear of contradiction that the American Wholesaler is not alive to his opportunities. He does not carry the stock that the average European dealer offers and can deliver. He is too prone to base his prices on Scott's catalogue. He certainly is entitled to a profit but why cannot he secure his stock of a third country just as cheaply as a German dealer for instance and having secured it why should he not sell at as low a price? A retail dealer is about the busiest individual outside a poultry yard and is not inclined to order from a wholesale list and receive a bare ten per cent. of what the catalogue indicates can be obtained. In current issues of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY there will no doubt be some very good offers. However, unless a dealer is willing to display his stock before the sale is complete, the buying of mixed lots should proceed with caution. As matters now stand no great number of varieties can be secured through American wholesalers at prices that will permit a reasonable profit. An additional word of caution. Do not buy stamps at wholesale direct from the travelling dealer. Take time and know that you are getting a lot at a minimum price, otherwise you are quite sure of the short end and might short it frequently is.

From the Foreign Wholesaler.—Here the buyer can revel to his heart's content for the number of dealers is legion. However, you must not assume that the first catalogue to hand is the best for a careful study will show you that the prices a quotes may be fifty per cent. more than B asks and the stamps may be just as good. Germany, Bavaria and Austria appear at present to have the lowest priced dealers. English prices are generally higher, in some cases much so. Norway, Denmark and Sweden have a number of remarkably low priced dealers and good stamps too. Dealers in India are bargainers and ask very high prices in many instances. They of course expect to barter. In many of the British Colonies are dealers whose prices are too high and yet frequently one finds one whose prices are reasonable. A common practice especially of these Colonial dealers is to gradually raise the prices on successive orders until the buyer is paying fifty per cent. more than at first. As soon as this is noticed the buyer should refuse to buy, if necessary turning his attention to other countries.

A knowledge of German, French or Spanish is not absolutely necessary although good to have. Every buyer should have a Senf and a Gibbons in addition to his Scott. Some of the best advertisements are printed in German publications and if the reader will get a dictionary he will soon find himself making sense out of attractive offers. In no other business is "eternal vigilance the price of success" more true than in buying stamps.

It is hardly necessary to state that the nearer the retail dealer can get to first hands in his buying the cheaper he will acquire his stock hence as he proceeds he will discover wholesalers in Sweden for instance whose prices on Scandinavians are lower than a dealer in any other country can quote. But always bear in mind that a big difference may exist in prices. An order should be worth while if only to minimize the extra cost of money order and postage. Express Money Orders are cheapest and can be made quite safe if registered. Post Office Money Orders to many countries are not given to the applicant and often do not arrive at the foreign port until weeks after the order. Always insist on having your order filled promptly and without substitution.

ACQUIRING STOCK BY EXCHANGE.

This is hardly a game for the beginner as he can perhaps offer but little at first. As he progresses, however, he will find this an excellent means of stocking up on good stamps seldom offered at a reasonable wholesale price. At the start he should endeavor to interest a medium dealer and by offering ten to fifty or even more of a kind on which he is long secure something of which he has none. But to make such an exchange a success he must have some idea of values else he may be imposed on. There are sharpers among the retailers who will not hesitate to take advantage of you. Suppose that you have 100 copies of a good British Colonial cataloguing ten cents. You should have no difficulty in exchanging a part of them for something equally as good. Class for class should be the

STAMP AUCTION WORK

For years we have made a specialty of selling collections and lots of stamps at auction. Thus far, we have held 55 very successful sales. If your collection is for sale, be sure to write us for valuable information. Our terms are the lowest for the best service; we issue insurance, and advance money when desired. Write for particulars. PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY, rule. A clearing house could be maintained by some dealer who possesses the necessary knowledge and reputation for fair dealing. His commission could be taken from the stamps submitted and would not necessarily be large.

Exchange with foreign dealers or collectors is apt to result disastrously. While many are willing to send you their stamps they desire only the older and higher priced U. S. stamps in exchange for their common stuff. Sometimes one secures a fine correspondent and profits accordingly. If it is desired to acquire stock in this manner it should be made a matter of correspondence until you are satisfied that the party is thoroughly reliable and will send you good value. It should be remembered that the lower denominations of U. S. stamps are quite common abroad hence are seldom desired. Exchange therefore may consist of Canadian, Mexican and South Americans. Most foreign exchange will be made on the basis of Senf or Gibbons and right here is a very important matter. Do not send stamps abroad if you can sell or exchange to better advantage at home. To illustrate, compare Scott's prices on Newfoundland number 61 to 74 with Gibbons prices. Again compare Gibbons number 141 Chile, with Senf. In the latter case it is four cents against thirty. The advertisements in "mushroom" philatelic endeavors are generally old and out of date, let alone the possibility of their being fraudulent. In concluding this talk on the practice of exchange you must bear in mind that it is the most risky of all hence the necessity of due care.

BUYING COLLECTIONS.

It is safe to say that no new dealer has the knowledge and experience that will enable him to buy and dispose of a collection at a profit. Even the experienced dealer frequently loses or fails to make a reasonable profit. An average collection of two or three thousand is of little value as the dealer is very apt to have a majority of the stamps and he is spreading his capital like a soap bubble. Taking a flier occasionally will teach him the value of valuation.

SUMMARY.

It must be expected that learning what to buy and how to buy will cost something besides money. The prices which one pays for his stock eventually will depend largely on his study of foreign markets. As he progresses he constantly discovers new sources of supply. A dealer naturally guards his correspondents because in most cases they cost him more or less in actual money.

As stated in the beginning the auctions are the best sources of supply at the start and but for the fact that there is much of a sameness year after year they would serve as a major supply. Sifting out general wholesale lists whether domestic or foreign requires much time and even then they cannot be depended on for minimum prices. Exchange with serious medium dealers should prove a prolific source if one has the means of making an entering wedge. The big dealers will not bother on the cheaper stamps and should you have something good, would desire the long end. In exchange of this nature you must have the necessary knowledge or trust your correspondent. If he knows stamps he is not going to be imposed on. Exchange should be preferably in fives or tens when a stamp catalogues five cents or more. Remember that many of the exchange advertisements in even the best of foreign publications are more or less fraudulent. They either fail to reply at all or send a lot of cheap stuff.

Lastly remember that if you expect to do a big and profitable business you have got to handle a lot of stamps in the course of a year and that what you pay for them is going to have a big bearing on your profits. What this or that individual says when you object to his prices as being unreasonable should not worry you in the least. If they call you a piker, just keep on piking.

THE NEW JAPANESE POSTAGE STAMPS.

(We are indebted to Jun Kobayagawa Co., Yokohama, Japan, for advance sheets of their magazine, The Numismatic and Philatelic Journal of Japan, giving the particulars of the new issue of postage stamps. The article is from the pen of the editor, H. A. Ramsden, and we are greatly obliged to him for the favor.—Ed.)

As most of our readers are already aware, the designs for this new series were obtained by competition, as duly announced by special articles in the Journal. It was intended that these stamps should be issued on the 31st of August of the present year, which date is the anniversary of the Emperor's birthday, so that the time allowed for their manufacture was extremely limited. The period of less than six months—since this is the time which has elapsed from the date the designs were accepted up till the end of August, when they are to be placed on sale—was hardly sufficient to prepare the entire proposed new set so as to be ready by the date mentioned. It is therefore not astonishing that all the values are not to appear at once and we learn that the 3 sen and the 1½ sen stamps are the only denominations that will be issued by that date.

Their colours and other particulars are:—3 sen red, 1½ sen purple, so as to correspond with requirements of the International Postal Union, of which Japan has been a member since 1877. The paper is unwatermarked, while the perforation is 12. As regards the merits of the designs, as this depends greatly on individual tastes, we must leave our readers free to form their own opinions. These designs were chosen from among those which gained the first prize in the public competition held in March of this year. The lucky winner was Mr. Tazawa, an employé of the Engraving Bureau at Tokyo, who served his apprenticeship in the United States with the American Bank Note Company.

The two stamps which have now appeared are the two values most used for interior purposes, including postages to China: the 3 sen being the ordinary charge for letters and the 1½ sen the postal card rate.

We are led to believe that the remaining values of this issue will simultaneously appear later. When this will take place, we are unable to inform our readers, but we have been told that we may count on their appearing before the end of the year. The other denominations will probably be:—

½ sen gray	5 sen yellow
1 sen brown	10 sen ultramarine
2 sen green	20 sen orange
4 sen rose	25 sen green
1 Yen (colour uncertain)

It will be noticed by the above list that the 6 sen, the 8 sen and the 50 sen in use today will be entirely done away with, while no new values have been added. The 15 sen stamps which had long been withdrawn from sale, if not actually exhausted, will not be re-issued.

In conclusion, we may remark that the 5 and 10 Yen stamps which were introduced in 1908, bearing the effigy of the historical Empress Jingo Kogo, the fair conqueror of Corea, will still continue to be used unaltered as heretofore.

EDITORIAL

Secure in Stamps—The information that there are over two hundred entries in the forthcoming exhibition at New York confirms the impression that has prevailed for some time past that on the essential score of objects for exhibition, the managers of the enterprise are out of the woods. As a stamp display and as a revelation of the refinements of philately, the exhibition will meet all expectations and the discriminating philatelist will find his pursuit revealed, and lavishly, in all its splendid aspects. It now becomes the aim of the promoters to attract the attention of the detached collector and the members of the unheeding public who may be receptive to the philatelic idea. While this wonderful exhibition will gain the applause of those who are within "the pale of progressive philately," there are little brothers crying in the wilderness, to whom it should shine forth as a beacon light. It is almost as important to let those who are not stamp collectors know what may be seen at the Engineering Societies' Building as it is those who are philatelists. At the Chicago Exhibition in 1911, the publicity feature beyond the confines of philately was not pressed aggressively, an omission due to the rush of events, but the little that was done showed how gratifying would have been the response of the public if this consideration had been fully discharged. It is certain that the shrewd managers of the New York Exhibition have weighed well all measures of advertising to the public; and we are confident that results will acclaim their wisdom.

That Washington Job—While we have received no notice at this writing that an appointment has been made to the position of Philatelist at Washington, even though it is probable that the selection has now been made, those who entered into the civil service examination for the berth have received the following letter from Washington: "You are advised that you received a rating of —% in the examination taken by you for the position of Philatelist in the National Museum, Washington, D. C. Under the rules, a percentage of at least 70 is required for eligibility. By direction of the Committee, United States Civil Service Committee."

The Second Convention—In the light of the recent convention of the American Philatelic Society at Put-in-Bay, Ohio, a lot of newspaper clippings on the second annual convention of the society held in Chicago, August 1887, over twenty-six years ago are of some interest. The opening feature of the convention was President Tiffany's memorable address "which was a three hours' history of the stamp from its invention in England fifty years ago—the establishment of the penny post—down to the work of this association, which he claimed had been of great public benefit in detecting and convicting counterfeiters." It was about a year before this time that Mr. E. B. Sterling of Trenton, New Jersey, made his discovery of a counterfeit beer stamp that was issued to defraud the government. The offenders were convicted of the crime and Mr. Sterling's action was rewarded financially by a grateful government; and in consequence, Mr. Sterling was always regarded as the source of a good story by the newspaper reporters. Mr. Sterling was at the Chicago convention. It was at this convention that the claims of James Chalmers as the inventor of the adhesive postage stamp were given preference over those of Sir Rowland Hill. Perhaps we should add that the espousal of the Chalmers' side of the controversy was an incident in the campaign, almost furious at times, that was waged by the adherents of Hill and Chalmers, respectively. Two years later, the issue was revived at the St. Louis convention, where a resolution was carried "That a committee of five, consisting of two of Mr. Chalmers' adherents and two of Mr. Hill's, these four to select a fifth member, be appointed to investigate the Chalmers-Hill controversy and report at the next annual Convention." At the New York convention the Gordian knot was neatly severed by a vote to the effect that the society take no side but "be known as entirely neutral in this matter."

Comparisons—The second convention of the American Philatelic Society, held in Chicago in 1887 could be called the first real convention as the gathering at New York the year before was a sort of ratification meeting. While the American Philatelic Society has broadened and prospered and its written code has become to be almost a perfected document, yet it must be confessed that about the only improvement shown by recent conventions over the first one is in the way of larger attendance. We read of the Chicago convention that Henry L. Calman, New York, brought a magnificent collection for display and E. B. Sterling, Trenton, N. J., a collection of tax-paid stamps; and the "exhibition" was supplemented by an "exchange," the so-called bourse of today. At Chicago, the foundation of the social features of the stamp convention was laid as we read that on the afternoon of the day of the opening of the convention, "the convention went to the ball game." On the same evening, there was a famous banquet that was presided over inimitably by that philatelic genius, John K. Tiffany and in its appointments and it has been said, the impression made upon the banqueters, the feast was note-worthy. The well-known group photograph? Ah, yes, at the close of the convention, the members adjourned "in a body to get their photographs taken." We add softly that all too few of those who comprised this happy group still are spared to participate in the affairs of our little world.

From Mexico—We have just seen what seems to be an army provisional stamp that was mailed on a cover from the City of Porfirio Diaz, Coahuili, to the United States, the envelope having come direct with no postage due or United States stamps upon it. The stamp, ten centavos, is in violet brown, and has a back ground of the Mexican coat-of-arms; at top is the inscription "Ejercito Constitucionalista," value in center and "Transito" below. The stamp is lithographed and not perforated. The postmark on the letter is July 13th, 1913. The city of Porfirio Diaz is on the northern border of the district of Coahuili, just across from the United States.

Pushing Permits—The postoffice department is encouraging the use of "permits" for third and fourth class matter at the expense of precanceled stamps. In the last few months three different orders have been issued advising postmasters to call the attention of large users of stamps to the advantage of the "permit" system. From the latest order it is learned that "it is preferred that large quantities of matter of the third and fourth classes be mailed without stamps affixed, under the provisions of Section 483½, Postal Laws and Regulations, the postage being paid in money rather than under precanceled stamps."

VISITORS FROM ABROAD.

OUR 50 PER CENT APPROVALS ARE THE BEST IN THE MARKET

SPECIAL: Send us 50 cts. and we will send you a book of stamps that will catalogue Over Six Times the Price.

FULTON STAMP CO., 102 W. 42nd Street, NEW YORKDISHONEST DISCOUNTS.

The necessary reform that the publishers of the WEEKLY are trying to work out is meeting with the hearty approval of our subscribers and dealers generally. Some of our advertising patrons, however, do not take very kindly to the new order of things and insist that we are interfering with their methods of running their business. This is begging the question. It is not dictation but merely a protection of our subscribers' interests and these interests demand protection. We publish a copy of a letter sent this week to a firm that was protesting against the position we have taken:—

"We want to take up with you once again the matter of dishonest discounts as the WEEKLY cannot permit its advertisers to engage in this manner of business and seek business relations with its subscribers.

The sheets submitted by Mr. Wilson for our inspection contained many stamps that were priced at more than catalog quotations and the mere fact that your "circulars state that the discount is from the marked price" does not justify you in putting fancy prices upon your approval sheets in order that big discounts may be quoted.

This is a fair business proposition that we are putting up to you and you should understand that the temporary benefit you may receive in the way of business is more than off-set by the loss that comes subsequently when your customers realize that they have been bunched.

We compared these sheets with the catalog and the stamps just as stated were marked in excess of catalog quotations. The WEEKLY maintains that where the word "discount" is used, Scott's Standard Catalog must also be used in order to protect the general public.

We are perfectly aware that all stamps cannot be sold at 50% discount, but we are also aware that a sufficient number can be sold at this discount to fully protect you in your quest for business. Where stamps are marked at net prices it is not within the province of the WEEKLY to dictate as regards prices but it is essential that a reform be effected as regards the loose manner in which the word "discount" is being used.

As a representative dealer you should take the lead in effecting the necessary reform, and we feel certain that upon further consideration you will decide that our position is the proper one to take.

We admit that you have a perfect right to deal in foreign revenues but we also affirm that the practise of placing Egypt revenues on approval sheets and marking them at fancy prices (conveying the idea that they are desirable by the prominence given them) is not creditable to a firm of your standing.

The boy collector should be dealt with as the adult collector of tomorrow and if the patrons of our advertising columns do not feel that this reform is worth effecting we shall feel that we must protect our subscribers by declining their advertising. We shall be sorry to do this but there is no other course for us to pursue.

We might add that we had only to present the merits of this matter to Mr. Tucker of the American Boy and Mr. Parker of St. Nicholas to have them see the need of effecting the reform of "discount" in its application to stamp values. Both of these publications will take just the same course as the WEEKLY does in the matter under discussion.

We have written you at length as we realize the importance of the step referred to and look to you to take the lead. We shall await a further word from you trusting that the mutually pleasant relations of the past will be continued."

What we demand of our advertisers is simply this—that stamps sold at discounts shall be marked in accordance with Scott's catalog where the catalog prices the stamps. This catalog is generally accepted as the national authority and while English and French catalogs are consulted by the more advanced collectors we have determined to make Scott's catalog (or Gibbons) the standard. Any dealer now using our columns who declines to comply with this rule will please notify us at once in order that we may discontinue their advertising. Our subscribers are invited to co-operate with us. We are determined to protect the collectors of our country so far in as we are able against the marking of stamps so as to allow of fancy "discounts."

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

THE PRESENT REGISTRY FEE.

By COLLECTOR.

Recently I complained to Postmaster General Burleson against the present registry fee of ten cents. I recommended a reduction of 50 or 60 per cent. in the fee. To this, A. M. Dockery, third Assistant P. M. General, replied: "In answer to your letter of September 12, 1913, which the Postmaster General has referred to me, wherein you recommend that a reduction be made in the amount of registration fee charged, you are informed that this matter is under consideration. It cannot be said at the present time what action will be taken."

"It was reported by a committee, after an investigation of the cost of handling the several classes of mail, that the Registry Service was conducted at a loss annually of over $3,000,000, and upon recommendation of a special committee appointed to investigate the Registry Service in its entirety, the fee was increased from eight to ten cents.

"The greatest expenditure on account of the Registry Service is not the amount disbursed for indemnity in case of loss but is the cost of giving registered mail special treatment in the service by records and receipts used to safeguard the matter and make it possible to trace it in case it is lost or missing."

Obviously if its business is being conducted at a deficit of $3,000,000 a year, there is something radically wrong with the system of the registry division of the postal service. This being the case it behooves stamp collectors and stamp dealers, both of whom make frequent use of the registry system, to do something to bring about a reform in the postoffice department system, which will permit of a reduction of this fee.

Surely, if England, for instance, can make a 4-cent registry fee, while the United States loses $3,000,000 a year on a 10-cent fee, there is need of reform.

POWER'S GREAT BOOK ON U. S.

There is one book you really need and that one, E. B. Power's on United States. It is written by a student of stamps who has positive views and is not afraid to express them. The book retails for 75c but out of the largeness of our heart we offer it to you, post free, at 50c. As the owner and manager of Stanley Gibbons, N. Y. City, Mr. Power is an authority you may well heed. Remit 50c in M. O. or check or better still add it to your renewal.

UNUSED PARCEL POST DUES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13, 1913.

It has come to the notice of the Department that parcel post due stamps have been sold at certain post offices to stamp dealers and collectors or their agents. The sale of due stamps by the parcel service is prohibited by law, and postmasters and their subordinates will govern themselves accordingly.

A. M. DOCKERY, 3rd Asst. P. M. G.

In view of this ruling we ask our advertisers to refrain from advertising Parcel Post dues in unused condition.

Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—Whitfield King & Co. report the 4c, 6c and 10c olive postage due stamps of 1902, on paper watermarked crosses and circles. The 2c was previously announced.

GUATEMALA.—Hermann Focke sends us used specimens of the new provisional, 12½c on 2p, chronicled recently.

HONDURAS.—Hermann Focke sends us the first of the new series promised some time since, and we find it very cheaply lithographed on white unwatermarked paper and perforated 11½. The design is poorly drawn and executed and shows a portrait of the President of the Republic in a circle, with "Correos—de Honduras" in two curved lines above. The value in figures appears in the upper corners, and in words in two lines across the bottom. "1913—U. P. U." in small type is printed between the figures of value. Presumably this is the first of a full set.

Mr. Focke also sends us two provisionals not previously chronicled the 1c violet steamer type, surcharged "Oficial" in red having been surcharged with new values in black.

Adhesive.

5c dull blue.

Provisional Official Adhesives.

"20 cts." on 1c violet and red.

JAPAN.—The new series of stamps promised some time since has begun to appear, two values having been shown us by A. C. Roessler, Arthur Russell and Whitfield King & Co. One design is used for both values, showing an irregular shaped opening in the centre with the value in native characters, small circles at either side having the values in English thus: "3" "Sn." The central opening is surmounted by the usual Imperial chrysanthemum. A curved tablet at the top has a line of native characters, and each of the circles containing the value is surmounted by three cherry blossoms. The design is very pretty, the stamps well printed and the colors clear and distinct, and the whole appearance an improvement on the previous issue.

Adhesives.

3s carmine.

Mr. Russell shows us a used copy of the new 3s which was mailed at Shimonoseki, September 4.

MEXICO.—La Salle A. Maynard reports from California that the Sonora stamps are being received on mail from that state without other stamps or postage due stamps.

THE OUTLOOK.

We anticipate a very large and handsome number of the WEEKLY, October 18, and we heartily appreciate the splendid measure of co-operation that has been extended by both subscribers and advertisers. We shall have some special articles and from an advertising standpoint the issue will be rich indeed.

Since our last issue quarter pages have been engaged by the Ararat Stamp Co. and J. A. Galbraith both of Beaver St., N. Y. City. We add with pleasure these names to the list of New York dealers as given below.

We are beginning to hear from some of our English patrons and in addition to W. H. Peckitt we have Bridger & Kay and F. R. Ginn who have ordered quarter pages. The list follows:—

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE N. P. A.

The annual convention of the National Philatelic Society was held on September 26th, in the Tremont Building, Boston. A goodly number of enthusiastic members and friends were present.

President Clark spoke briefly on the work of the society, outlining its growth from a small local society to the present prominent position which it has now attained. His remarks were further enlarged upon by the Report of the Secretary. The report of the Sales Department was also quite interesting, showing that that department is now very well established and ably managed.

A new constitution and a code of by-laws were adopted after a lengthy discussion. A notable feature embraced in the new Constitution is the stipulation that invalids and "shut-ins" shall be exempt from all dues. The regular dues were increased to fifty cents per annum, and the initiation fee abolished.

It was voted to recommend a reduction of the present postal registration fee; and the Secretary was instructed to draft a memorial to the Postmaster General.

It was decided to hold the next annual convention at Boston, Mass., which is acknowledged to be the ideal convention city of America. The date selected is July 28, 1914, and succeeding days. The newly elected officers are: President E. L. Weiss; Vice-president, H. A. Benner; Secretary, Walter E. Goodwin; Treasurer, Charles F. Nickerson; International Secretary, Rev. L. G. Dorpat; Directors-at-large, A. W. Dunning, J. Russell Reed.

After adjournment there was an impromptu exhibition of many rare and beautiful gems from the collection of I. W. Risdon, including an unsevered pair of the first issue of Newfoundland, two pence, scarlet-vermilion, on original cover,—the only known pair in existence in this condition.

The next year promises to be a very prosperous one to this young Society, which is now increasing more rapidly than any other similar society in this country.

MR. GUY SEMPLE TO VISIT US.

We get acquainted with a firm name but quite frequently we do not get acquainted with the men who are back of the firm's activities. Guy Semple who is to visit the New York Exhibition is a prominent factor in the Peckitt establishment. He has entire charge of the Peckitt new issue service and this alone is a no small labor. Mr. Semple will be in New York several days prior to the Exhibition and will be pleased to meet friends and patrons of the house of Peckitt.

Perhaps I may yet get into the Boosters' Club?"—ROY S. BARKER.

—"Of course the demand for good U. S. is stronger than ever. I also find that there is an increasing demand for early British Colonies, not so much the de La Rue issues, as the early Perkins Bacon issues; in fact the bulk of our sales has been in these issues, with a normal demand for Europeans, and very little for South Americans. Everything points to a most active season in United States and English Colonials."—JOHN A. KLEMAN (Nassau Stamp Co.), N. Y. City.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

BERGEDORF.

The following interesting letter is self explanatory:—
My dear Mr. Poole:

Surely no reader of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY has enjoyed more than I, your excellent article on the stamps of Berge-dorf; and as I feel sure that the article will be reprinted in pamphlet form for easy reference, will you allow me to furnish a few corrections, which I trust you will accept in the spirit in which they are made, viz.: in the interest of Philately, whose ardent followers we both are. It is true, I was a mere boy at the time the stamps of Berge-dorf were issued, still as the P. O. was on the ground floor of the house my father occupied with his family, I was in and out of the office whenever out of school, helping in a boyish way and very much interested in everything that went on there, and even in those days I was a stamp collector. In fact when my father went to Hamburg to see Mr. Fuchs to confer about stamps for Berge-dorf, he took with him my collection (stamps pasted flat in a copy book no printed albums then) to discuss designs and colors. I remember distinctly telling him to beware of such stamps as the then current 1kr Austria, which under artificial light could hardly be distinguished.

I pass over your description of how Berge-dorf became finally the property of Lubeck and Hamburg jointly, for to go into a description like I find in a Chronicle of Berge-dorf, issued there in 1894 and a copy of which is before me, would be taking too much time and space, and I will come at once to the postal history as I find it recorded there and of part of which I have personal knowledge.

The Counts of Thurn and Taxis, who held the postal privilege in Germany for centuries, tried to open a P. O. there in 1788, but it was discontinued almost at once, as it had been established without the consent of the Senates of Lubeck and Hamburg. In 1838 a Prussian P. O. was established there with my father as postmaster, he being sent there by the Prussian Minister of Posts, which lasted until March 31st, 1847; Prussia having notified the authorities that it desired to terminate its contract. The completion of the railway from Hamburg to Berlin doing away with the necessity to convey as heretofore the mails by postchaise. On April 1st, 1847, the P. O. was opened under the auspices of the Government of the two cities L. and H., and remained in that way until December 31st, 1867, when in its place, it became a part of the North German Postal Confederation and finally, in 1870, part of the Imperial German Post.

I have not with me the article written by me in the Virginia Philatelist, but think I explained in it how Berge-dorf was governed by a delegation of the Senates of both Lubeck and Hamburg, called in Berge-dorf the "Visitation" to whom, in the week which they spent each summer in Berge-dorf, all matters were referred to for adjustment, constituting as it were a court of last resort, so the report you mentioned as being made in 1859 was to them and nothing further was done that year, than to order the preparation of stamps for selection and one sheet of each value was struck off. In 1860 the visitation did nothing further about the adoption of stamps for Berge-dorf, but when they were there again during the summer of 1861, it was ordered that stamps should be issued, but the colors of the half and the three schilling did not please them and they were ordered to be printed in the colors as described in the order of October, 17th, 1861.

In urging the issuing of stamps and to show how they would appear when on letters, there were cut from each of the five sheets printed, a block of six and each block pasted on a large sheet of blank paper, and I think the original block of six of the half schilling is now in the Postal Museum in Berlin. Those found in Lubeck's archives are evidently a similar set probably furnished by my father to the Lubeck delegates in 1860, and I have no doubt if Hamburg's archives were searched, a like find would be made there. The time from mid-summer 1861 to November 1st, 1861, was necessary to have the stamps printed, for I am sure that up to that time only one sheet of each denomination had been furnished to my father by Mr. Fuchs in Hamburg, who had the contract to lithograph the stamps.

You judge from the wording of the last paragraph in the report of 1859, that there must have been a Danish P. O. in Berge-dorf, but there never was. Danish stamps of the value of four skilling (Scott's 7 and 9) had been sold at the Berge-dorf P. O. for a number of years for the reason that Denmark, recognizing the usefulness of having mail matter prepaid by stamps, made a difference in the rates of prepaid by stamps and prepaid in cash or unpaid letters, for while a letter from Berge-dorf to the Duchies of Schleswig, Holstein and Lanenburg (not Luxemburg as you have it, and Oldenburg must also be a mistake as that never belonged to Denmark) then under Danish Dominion as well as Denmark proper, when prepaid by stamps cost only 1¼ schilling currency, if prepaid in money or sent unpaid cost two schillings. The stamps were furnished by the Royal Danish P. O. in Hamburg.

I see that you have the signature of my father misplaced under the decree of October 17th, 1861. Nothing should be after the (signed) Paalzow. There was no Imperial Post in existence at that time so he could not well have been a Director of Post. It belongs, however, under the letter to Mr. Moens, March 29, 1873, for then he was Director of Imp. Post and former Postmaster of the L. H. office in Berge-dorf.

Another misprint is in naming the Vierlande. You enumerate, Neuengamm, Altengamm which should both be spelled without r, viz.: Neuengamm, Altengamm.

Then you speak about the issuance of stamps in Lubeck and Hamburg, January 1st, 1859, and continue that, "shortly after these labels appeared letters posted in the Berge-dorf district were required to be prepaid with Hamburg stamps." This is incorrect, for while it is a fact that a very few Hamburg stamps have been used in Berge-dorf at that time, their use was never officially sanctioned and there was no requirement for even prepayment of any correspondence.

Having explained how all matters concerning Berge-dorf were settled by the "Visitation" throws light upon the last paragraph of my father's letter to Mr. Moens. As your translation reads: "The pourparlers and discussions were never exchanged directly between the Berge-dorf authorities and myself, and were mostly carried on verbally, which shows that there can be no documents on this subject." To make it clear there should be added after exchanged "in writing" and after myself instead of "and" should be "but," for it is a fact that all conferences on the subject of issuing stamps were only held during the time the "Visitation" was in Berge-dorf.

Your mention of the fact that the obliterating stamp was also acquired by Mr. Moens leads me to add one little piece of information, which may be of use to some one who has Berge-dorf stamps cancelled in the following manner and which perhaps have been thrown

Why Don't You Throw Your Stamps Away?

You may as well do that as send approval sheets to unreliable children.

It costs slightly more to place your advertisement in the St. Nicholas Stamp Directory, but you are sure of high grade customers and that means good business.

We cannot otherwise account for renewals of contracts year after year from reliable stamp dealers.

It is worth while to investigate St. Nicholas, and see how much we can help you in a real way.

The people who read St. Nicholas are not the kind who try to collect stamps without paying for them.

ST. NICHOLAS STAMP DIRECTORY Union Square, NEW YORK CITY

aside as counterfeit or as bearing a false cancellation. The obliterating stamp was made of brass and was a perfect square having five straight, equidistant lines on it, so that an ordinary cancellation would have been something like this straight lines, but by small squares. This explains such cancellation and should give a stamp so obliterated a good philatelic standing. Again assuring you that all the foregoing has not been written in a censorious spirit, but with the sincere desire to throw as much light as possible upon the subject treated and to bury forever the claim of the essays of the half schilling black on violet and the three schilling black on rose as legitimate postage stamps, for they were never issued as such.

Very sincerely yours,
JOHN PAALZOW.

THE POSTAL AGENCIES OF THE POWERS IN TURKEY.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

(Reprints of this article will be made uniform with the series advertised from time to time. These reprints fit into the blank album wherever needed and are supplied at 5c each. We furnish a neat binder for 80c which covers actual cost only.—Ed.)

As is well known, certain countries have—since times remote—maintained post offices of their country in distant lands, for the purpose of safeguard and supervision of their correspondence. As it is only to be expected, such foreign offices have only sprung into existence in countries where the local post can not be relied upon to perform its duties with any degree of certainty, such as in China, Crete, Morocco, Turkey, etc.

The introduction of foreign offices in Turkey was necessitated by the notorious inefficiency and unreliability of the Turkish post office. In the early days when these offices were opened, they were, without doubt, an absolute necessity; but it must not be assumed that their necessity today is so very apparent—it is now more a matter of ancient custom. For the last few years the Turkish post-office has been under the administration of Belgian officials, who certainly deserve all praise for the reformation that they have achieved. The loss of revenue to the Sublime Porte, through the foreign post offices, must be great, and one can quite understand that Turkey is anxious to see an end to their activity.

For some time past the Turkish Government has pleaded for the abolition of these offices, or if that cannot be accomplished, they urge that, at least, all the foreign countries possessing offices should amalgamate and have one joint international office. Had it not been for the war, it can safely be assumed that these offices would, in the near future have been abolished, but now it is not such a positive fact one way or the other, and the problem cannot be discussed until after the complete cessation of hostilities. A significant fact showing that the foreign offices were not all necessary was furnished by Italy, who closed her Turkish offices in Turkey last year. Of course the Turco-Italian War was, to a great extent, answerable for this proceeding, but we doubt if, under ordinary circumstances, Italy will find it necessary to re-open her office in the Ottoman Empire—or in what remnant may remain of the Ottoman territory in Europe.

We will now proceed to briefly describe the Foreign post offices in Turkey; their dates of foundation, the towns at which the Powers established offices, and where necessary a short survey of the stamps employed in such offices.

1. The Austrian Post-Office. From a trustworthy source we learn that Austria had a post office in operation in Turkey as early as 1748, with Constantinople as its centre, and subordinate offices at Salonica, Smyrna, and, we believe, one or two other towns. The Austrian offices sprang up and increased by leaps and bounds, so that about the middle of the last Century, she had offices in practically every important town in Turkey, and in addition in Asia Minor and the Balkans.

The first postage stamps used in connection with these Levant offices were the current 1867 stamps, containing the "Soldi" as denomination. This issue was superseded in 1883 by the Eagle design—also with the values in "Soldis." Later current Austrians were employed with the overprint in PARA and PI-ASTRE currency together with the values.

Below we give in tabulated form a list of the towns in which the 26 Austrian post offices are—or have been at various times—opened.

1914 Price List

My Price List of the Stamps of the United States and its Colonies is ready for distribution. It contains features not found in ordinary lists, such as a complete list of Coil Stamps, Philippine "O. B." stamps, India paper, and card board proofs, as well as a list of the number of Department stamps issued. It is the most complete list published, and no serious collector can afford to be without it. It is free; a postal card will bring it, prepaid with a precancelled stamp.

H. F. COLMAN,

Second National Bank Bldg.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Since the year 1909, the offices at several of these towns have been closed, as the Turkish and Austrian Governments in that year made an agreement, in which it was stated; that in all towns where Austria was the only Foreign Power to have an office open, such office should be closed.

Austria was the first Power to enjoy special postal privileges in Turkey (1748), and was followed by Russia (1783), France (1812), Great Britain (1832), Greece (1834), Egypt (1866), Germany (1870), and Italy (1873).

II. The Russian Office (established 1783). The first stamps used were in 1865, when the "Steamship" labels were put on sale, comprising two values—10 paras and 2 piastres. It was in 1868 that the first Russian postage stamps were used in the Levant, whilst not until 1900 was the para and piastre overprint resorted to—an overprint which has come to be associated with foreign stamps used in Turkey.

Below we list the names of the 17 towns, at one time or another, using Russian stamps upon portions of their correspondence:—

*Beirut	Ordu
*Chios	*Kerassunde
*Constantinople	*Rizeh
*Dardanelles	*Salonica
*Ineboli	Samsun
*Jaffa	*Smyrna
*Jerusalem	Sinope
*Mount Athos	*Trebizonde
*Meteline

In the year 1909, a special commemorative issue was produced, upon which the names of 12 of the above towns were overprinted, for use in the town upon which the name was overprinted. For each town the following values were overprinted: 5, 10, 20 paras, 1, 5, 7, 10, 35 and 70 piastres. The towns marked * in the above list had their "special town issue."

III. The French Office (established 1812). The first French stamps were used in 1885, the adhesives being the current "Peace and Commerce" type with the value (piastres) overprint. In 1903, the overprint LEVANT was brought into use, whilst in 1905, Beirut was the proud possessor of a 1 piastre stamp with its name also appearing on the overprint. Incidentally it is interesting to note that there is an error of this overprint reading "1 Piasste"—an error by no means easy to find. The following are the names of the 19 towns where France has had Levant Offices.

Alexandretta.	Mersina.
Beirut.	Meteline.
*Cavalla.	*Port Lagos.
*Constantinople.	Salonica.
Dardanelles.	Samsun.
*Dedeagh.	Smyrna.
Galata.	Stamboul.
Jaffa.	Trebizonde.
Kerassunde.	*Vathy.
Latakia.

Towns marked * were most steamship Agency offices than real established post offices.

It should also be noted that Galata, Stamboul, and Pera are, strictly speaking, Constantinople.

IV. The British Office (established 1832). The British Post Office never showed any pronounced inclination to open Levant offices, and this fact is easily proved, as she only opened four agencies all told—at:

Beirut.	Salonica.
Constantinople.	Smyrna.

The specially overprinted "Para and Piastre" British adhesives were first on sale in 1885. In 1905, an overprinted LEVANT set was issued. There is nothing much to comment upon, either as regards the British Agency or its stamps.

V. The Greek Office (established 1834). We have no definite information available as regards this Agency, nor do we know at which towns post offices were opened. Current unsurcharged Greek stamps were employed, which can only be detected by the postmarks and cancellations. Subsequently the Greek Agency was suppressed, and no office now exists.

VI. The Egyptian Office (established 1866). The Egyptian post offices in Turkey have an extra special interest, as this is the only case of a non-European foreign office in the Ottoman Empire. The offices were opened in 1866, and current unsurcharged Egyptian stamps were employed. The business done was not at any time very great, excepting around the year 1870, when it appears that the offices flourished—more especially those at Constantinople and Meteline.

Offices were established at the under-mentioned places:

Beirut.	Meteline.
Chios.	Salonica.
Constantinople.	Smyrna.

and, we believe, two other towns.

This Agency was closed in the late seventies or early eighties. All stamps used in Turkey bear the name of the town of origin upon the circular postmark.

VII. The German Office (established in 1870). In 1884 the current stamps of the Fatherland for use in Turkey were overprinted with the customary "parapiastre" denominations. As is the case with most of the stamps of foreign Agencies, there is nothing of much special interest among the adhesives themselves, excepting, perhaps, the 1905 set (10 paras—25 piastres) with Latin overprint, which were never issued; but which, nevertheless, fetch about £9 or £10 the set.

German offices were opened at the following towns:—

Beirut	Jaffa
Constantinople	Jerusalem
[Galata, Stamboul,	Salonica
Pera]	Smyrna

VIII. The Italian Office (established 1873). The Italian post offices were opened in Turkey some time in the early seventies, and presumably the ESTERO (foreign) adhesives were employed; the postmark being the only guide to show where they had been in circulation. After some years the Italian offices were all closed, and it was not until 1901-02 that Italy again opened offices in Albania, and in a few Turkish towns in 1908. The Albanian series were overprinted ALBANIA, with the values in the Levant currency.

Italy possessed the following offices:—

Constantinople	Scutari (Albania)
Durazzo (Albania)	Salonica
Janina (Albania)	Smyrna
Jerusalem	Valona

Upon the outbreak of the Turco-Italian war, Italy closed all her post offices in Turkey and Albania.

The war in which Turkey has been involved has turned the eyes of the philatelic world upon the issues of the Balkans, and therefore we hope that the above short notes may prove of interest.

A representative collection of the foreign stamps used in the Levant is, by no means easy to complete, nor is it a cheap undertaking if the errors and varieties are to be collected. For the medium specialist, however the task of forming a nice collection of these issues will be found both interesting and instructive—and not too expensive, provided the few rarest things are excluded.—The S. C. Fortnightly.

Those desiring to attend will please send check at earliest possible date to Mr. J. C. Morgenthau, Chairman Banquet Committee, 87 Nassau Street, New York City." In the same envelope is a card announcing a "German Night and Festkomers given by the New York Stamp Society, at Al-laire's Scheffel Hall, 194 Third Avenue, on Thursday, October 28th. Admission, including refreshments, one dollar. Application should be sent to Mr. A. Beck, 34 Gramercy Park."

Bruce V. Jenkins.—We heard just too late for announcement in the preceding number of the death of Bruce V. Jenkins, Baltimore, Maryland. As Mr. Jenkins' number in the American Philatelic Society was 43, he must have joined the A. P. S. some little time before the summer of 1888, when we, with 65 as our number, made application. Mr. Jenkins died September 19th, 1913, and for some years had not been in robust health. While known personally to comparatively few of his brother philatelists, Mr. Jenkins as a stamp handler and a liberal patron of the sales departments of societies of which he was a member became prominently identified with philately. Mr. Jenkins was a painstaking philatelist who was devotedly attached to stamps, which, we surmise, gave him many hours of congenial employment. Moreover, he had established a record for courteous and honorable treatment that will be remembered in philately. While Mr. Jenkins was around forty years of age, we believe, he had been connected with philately for so many years that it would be natural to suppose that he was older.

Thirty-One Years Ago.—Mr. G. A. Hunt, Woburn, Mass., has been delving into the past as reflected in a Durbin's priced catalogue, ninth edition, published in 1882. Naturally, he finds the comparison of prices of those days and of the present a somewhat startling compilation. Mr. Hunt says that the highest priced stamp in the catalogue was the Bolivia, 500 centavos black, eleven stars, quoted at $10, a mere bagatelle, comparatively speaking, for a stamp to-day. Perforation varieties and even watermarks were ignored in this catalogue but in this connection, it must be added that the publishers of this catalogue were the first to include watermarks in a large popular catalogue in this country; they adopted the innovation about 1890. The five and ten cent, 1847, were priced, for the two stamps, one dollar new and fifty cents used. The complete set of the 1857 issue, one to ninety cents unused was offered for two dollars and the unused ninety-cent, 1869, at the same figure, while in used condition, one dollar was the price given. The complete set of Executive was $1.25 unused and the Justice set complete was quoted at $3.50. Scores upon scores of stamps that were catalogued in the cents are now high in the dollars in value; for instance, the first two stamps of Gambia, now catalogued at nineteen dollars could be bought according to the list for sixty cents. British colonials, German states, early European stamps and a host of others were priced at a fraction of the values fixed on the stamps. Only a stamp here and there catalogued so much as a dollar and higher quotations were the exception, decidedly.

"Boom" Postal Cancellations.—Mr. Edwin R. Slater, New Haven, Conn., has our thanks for an assortment of forty special cancellations; and he accompanies his gift with some details of these advertising postal markings. He says: "The usual circle postmark appeared in 1876, with the word, 'Centennial,' in 1893, with 'World's Fair Station' and in 1907, 'Jamestown' with the wavy lines as the cancellation, applied at a special post office on the grounds. About the time of the selection of San Francisco for the fair in 1915, a specified 'boom' cancellation appeared, which was not identified with any one city as a cancellation but which was used after San Francisco marked its first letters with it early in 1911, by Sacramento, Los Angeles, San Jose, Seattle, Tacoma and other Pacific coast cities, with variations of word arrangement, even from the San Francisco office. Columbia, S. C., utilized this 'adjustable' plan; and likewise did the Perry Victory Centennial, the celebration of which culminated recently at Put-in-Bay, Ohio. The idea of advertising through the medium of the postmark or postal obliteration was accepted heartily by the Canadians who recently have been very prolific in the production of postmarks advertising exhibitions, charities, fairs, etc., as the examples enclosed, by no means a complete representation, show."

Postmark Advertising.—The correspondent whom we have quoted in the foregoing paragraph names the special postmark used at the post office in the Centennial at Philadelphia 1876 as the first of the postmarks of the kind. The next one, we happen to know appeared late in the '70's, when a large theatrical troupe made a somewhat historic run across the continent on a special train that included a mail-car on which the distinctive postmark was used. The Chicago, 1893, World's Fair Station postmark many of us remember as it was customary for some of us to send our mail through the Fair office so that correspondents might see the novel postmark. We have resurrected three different varieties of the World's Fair postmark, in the wording of one of which, Chicago is omitted, the form being simply: "World's Fair Station, Oct. 23, 12-30 A., 1893." By the time of the late '90's, the special postmarks had become rather common, as in 1899, the Pan-American "Exposition," Buffalo, 1901, had already begun to be advertised on the Buffalo postmark.

Elastic Currency.—In Harper's Magazine for September, there is an account of the currency conditions in Nicaragua since the advent of the gold standard there. Previously to its adoption, the value of the paper peso there had declined to eight cents gold; silver had almost disappeared from circulation while gold was unknown as a medium. Now, the paper peso is equal to the American dollar in value. In Colombia which is not on a gold basis, the paper peso is worth about a cent in our money; and naturally many of the commodities in Colombia are charged for at prices that sound absurdly high. For instance, when ten dollars are charged for a bottle of pop, it is time to call a halt. Collectors of new issues have reason to keep au courant of the currency fluctuations in the republics to the south; and they hail each addition to the gold standard as removing a source of complexity.

AFTER CONFEDERATE STAMPS.

(This clipping is from the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal of Sept. 18 and gives some of the experiences of Wm. F. Cornell, a well-known Detroit collector, while hunting for Confederates in the south-land.—Ed.)

William F. Cornell, a member of the American Philatelic Society and well known as collector of Confederate relics, was in the city for several days during this week and last week, much of the time being spent in search of the Atlanta provisional Confederate stamp.

This stamp, which was used only during 1861, is very valuable; and Mr. Cornell was delighted that he was able to secure one. He found one in the possession of Mrs. Adams, at 996 Piedmont avenue, and added it to his already fine collection.

The 1861 provisional stamp was superseded by the regular issue of Confederate stamps bearing Jefferson Davis' photograph.

"All of the provisional stamps are rare," said Mr. Cornell, "and are worth from $2 to $100 each, while a few are valued much higher. I have recently secured fine copies of the New Orleans, Mobile, Memphis, Petersburg, Wetumpka, Jackson, Montgomery, Haynesville and Atlanta locals."

Mr. Cornell's home is in Detroit, Mich. He is making a tour of the south on business and for the purpose of adding to his Confederate collection. From Atlanta he went to Birmingham Tuesday night.

"If the people in the south who have correspondence carried on during the war, would look through their garrets and old trunks and chests, they would bring to light many rare stamps for which there is a good market. The stamps should be left on the entire envelope, as they are more valuable that way than when removed."

Mr. Cornell, while in Richmond, Va., came across the letters exchanged in a war-time wooing; and was able to secure thirty-one envelopes and stamps.

In Roanoke he went through 200 war-time letters.

His collection of Confederate autographs, manuscripts, documents and papers is very interesting. He has a letter from Jefferson Davis, written just before the noted leader's death, giving him the address of Mr. Memminger.

He secured General Longstreet's autograph in a rather humorous manner. In response to his request for an autograph, the old general wrote: "I never give my autograph to anybody. Very truly yours, James Longstreet." Despite its crustiness, the letter delighted the collector, for its signature furnished the autograph he was seeking.

One of Mr. Cornell's latest finds is a rare document of 1863, signed by General Walker, General Early and Stonewall Jackson.

He has also the autographs of Robert E. Lee, Joseph E. Johnston, Fitzhugh Lee, Robert Toombs, Alexander H. Stephens, Raphael Semmes, and, among other things, possesses many slave leases by the railroads. He has also Confederate Officers' pay vouchers and other interesting reminders of the soldiers in gray.

In addition to Confederate autographs, Mr. Cornell's collection includes those of all the presidents of the United States and of many literary celebrities, Paul Hamilton Hayne, Henry W. Grady and Charles Egbert Craddock being among them.

Mr. Cornell is now looking for a Confederate half dollar which, he says, is very rare.

"It is not generally known," said the collector, "that the Confederate States issued a half dollar, which is exceedingly rare. I have seen only one, but I understand another is owned by an Atlantan."

THE LATEST MEXICAN PROVISIONAL.

Roy T. Cook submits a specimen copy of the latest Mexican creation. It is a 2c of the same design as the 10c described in our issue of Sept. 27. The color is blue. Mr. Cook states that the provisional came on a post card with the regular 2c Mexico. We are unable to decipher the postmark. We shall be glad to receive further information concerning this set of provisionals.

Later.—As we go to press we receive from Charles T. Skains an additional 5c value in light brown color and we quote from his interesting letter as follows:—

"I believe that I can give you a little more information in regard to the Mexican stamp that you chronicle in the issue of Sept. 27, and I am herewith enclosing the 2, 5, 10c all in the design of the 10c as described by Mr. Wright.

These stamps are not used as regular postage. I am a railway postal clerk and have seen quite a number of these stamps on mail in transit but never without full postage of the current issue of Mexico on the same cover. I am at a loss to account for the purpose of these stamps as in all cases that I have seen, regular postage to the proper amount was attached to the mail.

The postmark on the 2c is very distinct and the mail that I have usually found these stamps on came into Texas through Brownsville or Laredo.

I am of the opinion that the cover mentioned by Mr. Wright originally had regular postage on same and that same had been lost or removed from the cover as I have handled hundreds of letters with these stamps attached but never without regular postage."

THE COLLECTING OF PROOFS.

EDITOR SCOTT in Metropolitan.

Many of our readers have commented on the growing popularity of India proof stamps and as usual commence to buy as the stock is exhausted and prices advanced. The rarity of proofs to ordinary stamps is as one to a million and yet in many cases they sell cheaper than ordinary unused stamps. For instance, a set of 1861 3 U. S. sells unused $45.10, used $9.11, proofs $2.50. The proofs are the first printings from the plates and are exactly as the engravers intended them to be. The unused are beautiful but not as fine as the proofs while the used are more or less disfigured by the cancellation. As philatelic knowledge and taste increases the demand for proofs advances. Amateurs now give the closest attention to minor details, flaws in the plates, "shifts," that is, double impressions on the transfer rolls; to find all these is practically impossible from the stamps, and even if a collector had succeeded in securing the entire lot he would never know it without the aid of a sheet of proofs. Then all can be found, the peculiarities noted and no time wasted in looking for things which do not exist. The Government has kindly consented to exhibit entire sheets of some rare U. S. stamps at the great fair to be held in New York during the last week in October, these will undoubtedly receive the careful scrutiny of the host of eminent philatelists who will haunt the building from the opening day to the closing hour. Amateurs who have traveled thousands of miles to view the grand aggregation of stamps are not likely to miss anything. Another thing that has greatly lessened the stock of proofs was the habit of early collectors to use them as "space fillers," a practice greatly deplored by all thinking amateurs, as it has greatly depleted the available stock for those who study stamps. Proof collecting is sure to advance in popularity and the time may come when the post office may supply proof sets of current stamps even as the U. S. mint sells proof sets of each year's coins charging as usual a sufficient percentage over face to pay for the additional care in making and cost of selling. The pride of the numismatist is his proof coins and before many years philatelists will glory in the few proof stamps he has been able to accumulate.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

ALBANIA.—The Provisional Government of Albania has reissued the Turkish stamps of 1909-10, overprinted with a large double-headed eagle, and the word "Shqipenie" the native for "Albania." This overprint is found on the 5pa, 10pa, 20pa, 2pi and 5pi of the interior set, and on the 10pa and 1pi of the set with the Turkish character overprinted for foreign use. The Albanian surcharge is found both normal and inverted. Lemaire's Journal, from which we translate the above information, says that the number of stamps issued is very small, and therefore they are likely to become exceedingly rare.

ARGENTINE.—Jos. Trauner has shown us the current 2c Argentine, surcharged "M. G." for the use of the War Department. These surcharges were all described in No. 1175, but are just beginning to appear in this country.

BELGIUM.—Lemaire's Journal reports that the current 25c stamp has been issued in a darker shade of ink, with the name of the engraver omitted.

BOLIVIA.—Lemaire's Journal illustrates four values of the new set just issued in Bolivia, but gives no particulars as to colors. They resemble somewhat the 1906 set of Haiti, the central designs being different on all nine values from 1c to 5b, mostly local scenes.

CHINA.—Frank B. Eldredge shows another value in the new Republic set, the design being the same as the 1c chronicled in No. 1185.

Adhesive.

3c blue green.

GREECE.—According to Lemaire's Journal, the 2 lepta pink has been lithographed like the 1, 5, 10, and 25 lepta previously noted. To signalize the definite turning over of the possession of Cavale to the Greek Government by Bulgaria, the former has surcharged certain Bulgarian stamps, with two Greek words signifying Greek Administration, and new values in Greek money. All surcharges are in red, except that the 50 lepta is found in both blue and red. The number surcharged of each value was very small, running from 10 of the 1 drachme to 700 of the 25 lepta.

Provisional Adhesives.

"5 lepta" on 1s myrtle green.
"10 lepta" on 15s brown bistre and black.
"10 lepta" on 25s ultramarine and black.
"15 lepta" on 2s carmine and black.
"20 lepta" on 3s lake and black.
"25 lepta" on 5s green and black.
"50 lepta" on 10s deep red and black.
"1 drachm" on 15s brown bistre and black.
"1 drachm" on 30s blue and black.

HONDURAS.—Another value has been added to the home-made lithographed series now being issued in Honduras, a used specimen having been shown us by Dr. Roy F. DeSart. The design is entirely different from that of the 5c chronicled in No. 1188, but the inscriptions are the same, with the exception of the necessary change in value. Curiously enough, the colors of the two stamps are almost identical. The portrait is different, and the figures of value are arranged in small shields at the sides, the portrait being in a large colorless shield covering nearly the whole stamp.

Adhesive.

10c blue.

INDIA.—Kishengarh.—A correspondent writes to the Philatelic Journal of India, with regard to the new ¼a stamp, as follows:—

"It appears to have had a brief existence, barely three months, for now we see a fresh drawing of the same in blue and in a larger size, and with the same inscription in thicker and bolder characters. The new sheets contain five parallel rows of four stamps each, giving a total of 20 stamps for the sheet. The paper is thick wove with a smooth and bright chalky surface. The stamps are rouletted.

"There have apparently been two different drawings of this issue, as the subjoined particulars will show. Every sheet of the first printing, which I may call plate I., bears the initials in the same colour as the stamps of D. S. W. K. C. These evidently stand for the printer and the name of his establishment, as the last two letters are a little detached. In the sheets of this printing, every sixteenth stamp has the 'Quarter' for 'Quarter' and the eighteenth stamp has a full stop after 'State.'

"In the second printing (plate II.) although the size of the sheet is the same, the above initials do not appear. The errors characterising the sixteenth and eighteenth stamps have not undergone any change or correction, but the nineteenth stamp has developed a new variety, for the word Revenue has been lithographed REVENUE with a distinct gap or spacing before the UE. In a few sheets, I noticed only the final letter e separated, thus REVENUE."

JAPAN.—Offices in China.—Frank B. Eldredge shows us the new 1½s and 3s, surcharged with the usual characters for use in China.

MEXICO.—In No. 1187, we chronicled the first of a series of Provisional stamps used by the Constitutional Army. W. W. McCartney now shows us another value, the previous description answering for this also, except color and value. Mr. McCartney reports that there was no other stamp on the envelope when received in New Haven.

Provisional Adhesive.

2c pale purple.

NETHERLANDS.—Lemaire's Journal announces the immediate issue of a series of stamps to commemorate the Centennial Anniversary of the Independence of the Netherlands. The series will bear portraits of William I, William II, William III and Wilhelmina. There will be 12 values from 2½c to 10g.

A new value has been added to the postage due series, like the issue of 1912 all in one color.

Postage Due Adhesive.

3c ultramarine.

NICARAGUA.—Hermann Focke and others have kindly contributed to the following list of the "Cordoba" surcharges issued by Nicaragua to date:

Medio centavo on 3c Liberty.
Medio centavo on 15c Liberty.
Medio centavo on 1p Liberty.
Medio centavo on 2c Locomotive.
Un centavo on 3c Liberty.
Un centavo on 4c Liberty.
Un centavo on 50c Liberty.
Un centavo on 5p Liberty.
Un centavo on 3c Locomotive.
Un centavo on 4c Locomotive.
Un centavo on 6c Locomotive.
Un centavo on 20c Locomotive.
Un centavo on 25c Locomotive.
Dos centavos on 2c Liberty.
Dos centavos on 4c Liberty.
Dos centavos on 20c Liberty.
Dos centavos on 25c Liberty.
Dos centavos on 50c Liberty.
Dos centavos on 35c Mountains.
Dos centavos on 2p Liberty.
Dos centavos on 25c Locomotive.
Tres centavos on 6c Liberty.
Cinco centavos on 35c Locomotive.
Cinco centavos on 50c Locomotive.
Seis centavos on 1p Locomotive.
Diez centavos on 2p Locomotive.
Un peso on 5p Locomotive.

Hermann Focke also writes thus entertainingly regarding the new Cordoba surcharges:

"It is almost an imposition to use any more space in the WEEKLY on matters pertaining to the Nicaragua surcharges. Still there are said to be several specialists in this country, who are interested in them and it may be in their interest to once more refer to them in a few words. In No. 1187 you announce, on authority of Mr. Dunning, the three new varieties of the ½ctvo surcharges on 3c and 15c Liberty in red and on the 3c Engine in black, but you fail to observe that the type used in this instance is entirely different from that used for the first provisional of ½ctvo on 1 peso Liberty. The type of 'medio centavo de cordoba' is now much finer, and the '1912' closer to the rest of the surcharge.

"In the first surcharge there occurs the difference in the letter 'v' in centavo, the same as on all other values, excepting the 1ctvo as this is spelled 'cent.'—which has now been corrected, and the same applies to the error 'VALB' for 'VALE', which only occurred on the ½c on 1 peso and the dos (2) centavos on 2 pesos Liberty."

Mr. Focke also encloses two blocks of four of the 6 centavos on 1 peso Engine, "one of which serves to show the same varieties of the 'v' referred to above, and the other to show the two distinct types of 'seis', the heavier type appearing on the two last vertical rows of 10."

"Aside from these varieties the surcharges have so far been fairly uniform and free from 'errors', although there is a broken 'L' in 'VALE', also styled a 'short L' once on each sheet and every value; and in some cases, principally on the dos centavos on 2 pesos value, the entire word 'VALE' or part of it has failed to print, owing to carelessness of the printer; this so-called variety appears on the first stamp of the sheet.

"I hope that the future novelties will be as clean from voluntary errors as have been the 23 varieties so far received, or otherwise the specialists will no doubt give up in utter despair."

RHODESIA.—Whitfield King have shown us a specimen of the new ½d stamp issued by the British South Africa Company for Rhodesia. All the values, 18 in all are of the same design, which is one of the best yet issued in the Georgian sets. The portrait of the King represents him in a naval uniform, full face, and is one of the most satisfactory yet seen. The figures of value appear in the upper corners, with "British" between and "South Africa Company" just below. "Rhodesia" appears in a tablet at the bottom, the only ornamentation being at the end of the tablet. The design is very effective, the stamps being engraved and printed by Waterlow & Sons, Limited, on unwatermarked paper, and perforated 14.

Adhesives.

A STUDY IN POSTAL CANCELLATIONS.

Our last contest could not be called a success. We received but four entries and it is not a difficult thing to name the prize winner. We cannot quite understand why this competition fell so flat unless it be charged up to the heat of the summer. We shall doubtless try another rebus before we abandon contests of this kind.

The four entries were from Allen H. Blake, M. D., West Somerville, Mass.;

Frank C. Clark; J. Arthur Wainwright and Monroe Nash. Dr. Blake had all correct but two, while Messrs. Clark and Wainwright failed on four and Mr. Nash on six. We award Dr. Blake a 1914 cloth bound Scott catalog and the same will be mailed on the day of publication.

The following is the correct list of answers—the solutions being given in the order of the designs from left to right:—

1. Nova Scotia N. Brun. 2. Saxony.

3. Roman States. 4. Gibraltar. 5. Barbados. 6. Bulgaria. 7. West Australia. 8. Bavaria. 9. Cape of G. Hope. 10. United States. 11. United States 12. St. Settlements. 13. Portugal. 14. WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE. Hamburg.

Hamburg, a seaport town in Germany, is the capital of the independent state of the same name and the most important seaport on the continent of Europe. It is situated on the right bank of the river Elbe, 75 miles above its outflow into the North Sea, and it is 178 miles by rail from Berlin.

On the site now occupied by this important city there were but a few scattered fishermen's cottages before the time of Charlemagne. Then a few merchants settled in the vicinity and by 808 the place had attained sufficient importance for Charlemagne to erect a fortified castle to protect his subjects from the depredations of the Normans and Danes. This castle, or "burg," took its name from the neighbouring forest of Hamme, and the original spelling of Hammeburg was, later, corrupted to Hamburg. About the middle of the ninth century the town, under Archbishop Ansgar, became the disseminator of Christianity throughout northern Europe. After frequent pillages and burnings from Northmen, Danes, and Slavs the town began to be frequented as a trade centre and by the end of the twelfth century it was not only prosperous but, though under the domination of the Duke of Holstein, practically independent. Towards the middle of the thirteenth century Hamburg was united to Bremen (to which the archiepiscopal see was transferred in 1223) and Lubeck in the formation of the Hanseatic league. This league or Hansa (from the old Teutonic word hansen=partnership) was an association of trading towns which had considerable political power until the sixteenth century. Most of the important seaports from London to Novgorod, in Russia, belonged to the league and their ships carried one common flag—that of the Hansa. In 1619 the Bank of Hamburg was founded and this imparted an enormous impulse to its commercial importance, and about the same time a number of English merchant adventurers and numerous Jews expelled from Spain and Portugal settled in the town. In the early years of the nineteenth century it experienced hard times being occupied by the Danes in 1801 and by the French in 1806. The latter, under Devout, treated the inhabitants very harshly and also seized the treasure of the Bank amounting to about seven million marks. A return to its old prosperity began with the fall of Napoleon and even the destructive fire of 1842, which burned nearly half the town, failed to have any serious drawback on its progress. In consequence of this disastrous fire Hamburg is a very modern town in appearance and most of its important public buildings and institutions date only from 1842. Among the more noteworthy of these are the churches of St. Michael, St. Peter, and St. Nicholas, the town hall, marine office or See-warte, the museums of fine art, arts and crafts, botany, and natural history, the commercial and municipal libraries (the latter of considerable value), the hygienic institute, and a fine hospital.

Hamburg occupies a distinguished place in the history of German literature and drama, having been the home of Lessing, Heine, Hageborn, Klopstock, Voss, Reimarus, Claudius, and Schrodter.

During the last century its population has increased tenfold, from 106,983 in 1811 to over a million at the present time—it is thus the second largest city in the German Empire.

During the second half of the nineteenth century Hamburg's trade developed in an extraordinary manner, this increasing from about a hundred and fifty million dollars in 1851 to over twelve hundred million dollars in 1904. But this only represented its sea trade and in addition its rail and river borne trade with the interior of Germany increased to a proportionate extent during the same period. As further evidence of its prosperity we find that while in 1871 it owned 448 seagoing vessels with an aggregate tonnage of 214,280, in 1904 the port possessed 1009 seagoing vessels with a total tonnage of 1,256,640. It is the headquarters of the famous Hamburg-American line which owns one of the finest fleets of passenger steamships in the world.

The greater part of the harbour constitutes a free port, which was constructed in 1883-8 at an approximate cost of thirty-five million dollars. Its total area is 2570 acres, of which 1750 acres are land surface. The port is one of the chief points of embarkation for emigrants from the middle and east of Europe, the greater number of which proceed to the United States.

The industry of Hamburg is a long way inferior to its commerce, yet the town possesses large tobacco, chemical, india-rubber, and furniture factories, engineering works, shipbuilding yards, printing offices, breweries, distilleries, etc.

The State of Hamburg has an area of 160 square miles and a population just about equalling that of its capital, i. e. 900,000. Over ninety per cent. of its inhabitants are Evangelical Protestants. The State retains its ancient independence, the legislative power being vested in a Senate of eighteen members and a House of Burgesses numbering 160 members. The executive power is almost entirely in the hands of the Senate. The State has one vote in the Federal Council of the Empire and sends three members to the Imperial Diet.

LINN ON DISHONEST DISCOUNTS.

We cannot publish all the communications we receive in connection with our campaign against dishonest discounts, but the following from the Geo. W. Linn Co. we believe to be of general interest, and we quote from Mr. Linn's letter:—

"DEAR MR. WYLIE:—Your note in latest weekly regarding discounts is along the right line. I congratulate you on your intention. I really must say I didn't believe you had the nerve to make such a statement, let alone back it up. I say, put these dealers out of business. When a dealer says 50% or 60% discount, it should mean 50% or 60% off of Scott Catalog prices. And when this same dealer places any old prices on his stamps and sends them out to boys who own no catalog and don't know the difference, then that dealer is a crook.

A few years ago the A. P. S. on the Educational Committee of same through Iver R. Johnson of Chicago, started in with the intention of breaking up that business. Mr. Johnson through a boy in Chicago, secured through answering American Boy advertisements, selections from a dozen or more dealers who advertised regularly in the American Boy. Mr. Johnson told me that it was simply awful, the trash and prices placed on the stamps and sheets he read. It was his intention to publish the report or make it public at the Detroit Convention, I believe. But I suppose he found so much that would condemn several dealers who are A. P. S. members and are considered and classed as first rate dealers, that it was thought best to smother the report, and so far as I know I never saw anything further of it.

I have seen sheets from . . . Stamp Co. with the commonest of Spain and Japan priced at 10 and 15c each. This kind of business hurts everyone who is dealing in stamps and hurts stamp collecting because it discourages young collectors.

Hail the day when the catalog will drop so low on several thousand stamps that are sold universally at 50%, that all stamps will be priced net. It would be far better if we had to sell the scarcer stamps at an advance over catalog than to sell the common ones at big discounts, for then the scarcer stamps would be bought by collectors who were on to the game and would know they were getting their moneys' worth, and this crooked discount business would be eliminated.

Keep up your work in the American Boy and I'll warrant you will work wonders or drive half the advertisers out of the paper."

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

STORM LAKE, IOWA, Oct. 4, '13.

Gentlemen:—

We advertised a certain lot of mission stamps at wholesale, for dealers only, and many collectors bought these lots. They were worth a good deal more than we asked, but they were not apt to please the collector very well.

Ten ton of stamps stored in our warehouse makes it hard to get at them. They come in large burlap sacks. One sack contains stamps from one country, etc.

Mixing the many stamps together well means satisfaction for the collector as the stamps will be from many countries and there will be many choice varieties. This we find that no dealer has done heretofore and it practically is the cause for so many skeptical collectors when it comes to mission stamps. Collectors should not purchase dealer mixtures.

1914 Price List

My Price List of the Stamps of the United States and its Colonies is ready for distribution. It contains features not found in ordinary lists, such as a complete list of Coil Stamps, Philippine "O. B." stamps, India paper, and card board proofs, as well as a list of the number of Department stamps issued. It is the most complete list published, and no serious collector can afford to be without it. It is free; a postal card will bring it, prepaid with a precancelled stamp.

THE STAMPS OF HAMBURG.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

Its Philatelic History.

Of the three Free and Hanseatic towns Bremen was the first to issue postage stamps, its first labels being on sale in 1855, and it was not until January 1st, 1859, that Hamburg and Lubeck joined the ranks of stamp issuing towns and states. The stamps of Hamburg had a somewhat restricted use, being only used on local letters for the city and its suburbs, and for franking correspondence to the neighbouring states and to the Netherlands, while they were also available on "ship-letters" sent to Great Britain. This seeming reluctance to issue postage stamps, considering the commercial importance of the port, was probably due to the fact that Thurn and Taxis, Prussia, Denmark, Sweden and Norway, Hanover and Mecklenburg, all had offices in the city and it was through these that the general continental letters were forwarded. The Thurn and Taxis office seems to have had the major portion of the postal trade and practically all foreign letters went through this agency. The first set of stamps consisted of seven values—1/2, 1, 2, 3, 4, 7 and 9 schilling—and in 1864 these were augmented by the addition of 1 1/4 and 2 1/2 sch stamps, all of these being imperforate. In September, 1864, several of the values appeared perforated and by April of the following year all had been issued in this condition. In February, 1865, the color of the 7sch was changed from orange to lilac, presumably to prevent confusion with the 9sch. In 1866 a 1 1/2sch stamp was issued, and at the same time the design of the 1 1/4sch label was altered. The North German Confederation came into being on January 1st, 1868, and Hamburg, having joined this, ceased to issue its own distinctive stamps.

The currency was in marks and schillings, a Hamburg mark, equal to about 28c, being divided into 16 schilling, and this continued until the unification of German currency in 1875—i. e., seven years after Hamburg's stamps had been superseded.

For a proper appreciation of these stamps a knowledge of the postal tariffs obtaining at the time of their use is necessary, and in this connection the following extract from Mr. R. R. Thiele's excellent article, "The Why and Wherefore of Various Stamps," which appeared in the Philatelic Record for July, 1906, is particularly interesting:—

The 1/2 schilling stamp was intended to cover the rate on printed matter per lot (=ounce) to Ritzebüttel (a suburb of Hamburg), to Bremen, Lubeck, and the Grand Duchy of Oldenburg. The 1 schilling was the letter rate on local letters and to Bergedorf, also the rate on printed matter to Heligoland, to the Netherlands, and to Great Britain. The 2 schilling was for the single letter rate to the outlying towns on Hamburg territory, to the Vierlande, to Ritzebüttel and Lubeck. The 3 schilling was intended for single letters to Bremen and the larger part of Oldenburg, while the 4 schilling covered the letter rate to Heligoland and to certain towns in Oldenburg. The 7 schilling, orange, was for letters to the larger part of the Netherlands, and after July 1st, 1859, to Great Britain and Ireland. The 9 schilling at first served the letter rate to Great Britain and Ireland; after the reduction to 7sch it served in combinations for various foreign rates.

The Danish war brought the issue of a new value. The Danish post office at Hamburg had always handled the correspondence to Schleswig-Holstein. When the war broke out, this office was cut off from the mother country and the Hamburg authorities took charge of it. The Danish rate to Schleswig-Holstein was 4 skilling; for a few days after February 21st, 1864, the date of taking possession, the office continued to use the Danish stamps of that value. But new stamps of the value of 1 1/4 schilling courant, the equivalent of 4 skilling Danish, were ordered immediately and issued for the first time on February 29th. This value, then, served for the letter rate to Schleswig-Holstein and to Denmark. Denmark immediately retaliated by raising the letter rate from Denmark to Hamburg to 8 skilling; Hamburg followed suit by issuing the 2 1/2 schilling, green, on April 2nd, 1864, to serve the letter rate to Denmark, 2 1/2 schilling courant equaling 8 rigsbanksilling; the rate to Schleswig-Holstein remained at 1 1/4 schilling, but the rate to Altona was lowered to 1/2 schilling on September 7th, 1864, and the 1/2 schilling also served on printed matter to the Duchies from March 1st, 1865. On January 1st, 1865, the rate on letters within the city of Hamburg was reduced to 1/2 schilling, so that the 1/2 schilling in its perforated state is comparatively common. This is also the reason why the North German Confederation afterwards issued a special stamp of the value of 1/2 schilling for Hamburg. The 1/2 schilling rate was extended to the adjacent territory on March 1st, 1866, and to Bergedorf and the Vierlande on June 15th, 1866.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

B. W. H. POOLE.

From January 1st, 1865, all the stamps of Hamburg served a large variety of foreign rates, as on that date an arrangement went into effect whereby all letters within Hamburg, no matter for what office they were intended, were collected from all letter-boxes by the municipal post office and then turned over to the foreign offices. All such letters dropped into the boxes would be prepaid either by the respective foreign stamps or by Hamburg stamps: in the latter case the postoffices made settlement with each other on the basis of the foreign rates. The municipal post office in some cases made a little profit here, as its stamps did not always correspond to the foreign rates, and in such cases the next higher stamp had to be used. For instance, the 1 silbergroschen rate to the German-

Austrian Postal Union corresponded to 1 1/3 schilling courant; as there was no such stamp, 1 1/2 schilling's worth of stamps had to be affixed. The 2 silbergroschen rate answered to 2 2/3 schilling courant; for this a 3 schilling stamp had to be used, the municipal post office pocketing the difference. The 4 schilling stamp, of course, exactly corresponded to the 3 silbergroschen rate.

About this time some changes in rates took place. The money-order system was introduced on March 1st, 1866, and the 2 schilling stamp was thereafter also used for money orders to Schleswig-Holstein up to 62 mark courant. From May 14th, 1866, the same stamp was permitted to be used for the registration fee for Hamburg and territory, which theretofore was paid in cash; for July 1st, 1866, the letter rate to Heligoland was lowered to 2 schilling. The 3 schilling stamp was used from July 1st, 1866, for the registration fee to Heligoland and from November 1st, 1866, for the registration fee to the Netherlands. On November 1st, 1866, the letter rate to the entire Netherlands was reduced to 4 schilling.

The letter rate to Lubeck was reduced to 1 1/2 schilling on October 1st, 1865, and the printed matter rate to the Netherlands to the same on July 1st, 1865; hence a stamp of that value became desirable, and was issued on April 1st, 1866.

The First Issue.

The first postage stamps for Hamburg were placed on sale on January 1st, 1859, the set consisting of seven different values. The design, which is the same for all denominations, consisted of the Arms of Hamburg, partially covered by large open numerals denoting the value, as a centerpiece. The Arms are composed of a castle with three towers, the central one being surmounted by a dome and the others by battlements. Above the middle tower is a cross, while large stars are shown above the side turrets. On a ribbon scroll at the top is "HAMBURG," and on a similar scroll at the base is "POSTMARKE," i. e. "post stamp." On the left, reading upwards, the value is shown in words, and on the right "Schilling" appears. As the inscriptions on the left hand side varied in length, according to the value which had to be expressed, small ornaments were introduced to fill the vacant spaces before and after the shorter words.

There was a separate die for each value, and these were engraved by a gentleman rejoicing in the euphonious name of Johann Friedrich Rex Ziesenis. He may also have been responsible for the design but regarding this there appears to be no record. From each die ninety-six casts were taken in ordinary type metal, and these, arranged in twelve horizontal rows of eight, formed the printing plates. There was a space of 3 1/2 mm. between the vertical rows and of 1 1/2 mm. between the horizontal rows. A line of printer's rule was inserted between each of the vertical rows, and as these were the same height as the clichés they show at the sides of the stamps. Each horizontal row was numbered in the margin at each end, and at the top of each sheet the inscription "Hamburgische Postmarken" were shown. The plates were made and the stamps printed by Th. G. Meissner, printer to the State of Hamburg.

ECONOMIST STAMP CO. NEW YORK CITY

87 Nassau Street,

If we can make one, we can make others, but it would be impossible to produce as many stamps as are wanted from the one die design, and it would hardly be an economical process of printing. For convenience in accounting, our stamps have generally been printed from plates of 100 designs or multiples of 100. It would be entirely possible to separately engrave the 100 designs on the plate as was the die, but it would be slow and expensive and the final 100 designs would all be a bit different in details.

Our problem then is to produce economically by some method, duplicates of the die design in plates of 100 designs. As the die design is in recessed lines and we want the plate designs in recessed lines, we cannot produce these 100 duplicates directly. We take a disk of steel (not hardened) about four inches across and a little thicker than the width of the die design, say one inch, and so mount it that it revolves about an axis through its center and parallel to its edge face. We then apply the edge surface of this roller to the die so that the edge covers the design and, with pressure, rock it back and forth. The die remains unchanged. (Unless we have an accident, when it will be necessary to make a new die.) The roller gets two effects at once. Those portions of the roller opposite the recessed lines of the die are forced directly into those lines. Those portions of the roller opposite the level faces of the die are displaced and the displaced metal "flows" into the recessed lines of the die. The level parts of the die are also forced into the face of the roller. In other words, in addition to the softer metal of the roller being pressed into the die lines, we find the level surfaces of the die, within and without the rectangle, forcing back those portions of the roller opposed to them to a new cylindrical surface, all points of which are theoretically the same distance from the axis of the roller, those portions of the roller which were forced into the die being now in relief above this new cylindrical surface.

The fine lines of the die design, for which we have assumed a depth of 1/100 inch, are, in general, surrounded by relatively greater areas of level surface than are the wider lines. Before the approaching motion of the roller has reached 1/100 inch, these fine lines will be filled with metal from the roller, and this portion of the design reproduced in relief on the roller before the deeper lines are filled. At this instant the fine lines will be filled and the deeper lines will be partly filled to an approximate depth of 1/100 inch. It will be seen that it is impossible in practice to get absolutely uniform relief on the roller. It will also be noted that at this time we have a nearer approach to uniform relief than we will have if we continue the motion till all the lines are filled. This would seem the ideal time to stop. There is considerable evidence that this was not done in some of our earlier stamps and that the relief was excessive at some points. In recent practice it may be more nearly uniform but it must be remembered that some of the effects on our stamps can be produced only by having some of the printed lines show a greater thickness of ink than others. This goes further than we now care to follow the general subject of steel line-engraving.

It is very important to remember the new cylindrical surface of the roller, above which lies all the relief. Our roller design should need no touching up to prepare it for use. There should be no extruded metal adjacent to the relief that would need to be removed. If we are going to use but one relief on our roller, it would seem that all we need to do is to harden it.

Most of the early plates of the 1851-57 issue were made from rollers showing two designs. Many of the later ones for the perforates were made from rollers showing four reliefs. These multiple rollers are a problem in themselves and we will let them wait till after we have made a plate with a single relief roller. It can be done and has been done.

We now have a narrow cylinder on which the lines we want later in ink appear in relief. Before applying this to produce recessed lines in our plate, we must locate where these 100 designs belong. The general statement has been made that the surface of the plate was ruled into 100 rectangles into each of which a design was impressed. In none of the plates where a two relief roller was used is there any evidence that such rectangles were used. It is possible that one of the early plates of the 3c, was so made from a single relief roller. I have seen no evidence of it. In the plates where a two relief roller was used, the practice seems to have been to locate one position dot for each application of the roller, these naturally coming every other row, and one for each of the row. More would hardly be needed. If the same plan were followed with use of a single relief roller, we should need, and we should find, a dot for each design. If the plate were ruled into rectangles, such dots would not be needed except in the margins to locate the lines of the rectangles. Use of rectangles and also position dots with a two relief roller is unimaginable. The whole "ruled into rectangles" idea seems to come from early erroneous ideas regarding the outer lines of the early 3c, 1851, on which I may touch later.

At any rate, we somehow locate the positions of our proposed 100 designs. With our single relief roller, we begin at one of these places, possibly at the top left, and attempt to make an impression of one design. We approach the roller to the plate till we gain contact at the desired point. We then, while rocking our roller over the desired area, still further approach the roller to the plate. Our assumed design has a relief of from 1/100 to 2/100 inch. The hardened roller and its relief are unaffected. The plate gets two effects at once.

THE GREAT NEW YORK EXHIBITION.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

It can be truly said that the eyes of stamp collectors the world over are directed towards New York City and the great exhibition to be held there, and every indication points to an affair worthy of the energy and enterprise of American philatelists.

For months a committee of representative New York collectors and dealers has been busily engaged in perfecting the details and everything is in readiness for the great event. The committee in charge of the exhibition is officered as follows:

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

J. C. Morgenthau, Hon. Pres.

J. M. Bartels, Hon. Vice Pres.

J. W. Scott, Hon. Treas.

J. A. Klemann, Sec.

J. Philip Benkard, J. B. Chittenden, Percy G. Doane, Clarence H. Eagle, Fred'k W. Earl, Edward Goldschmidt, Charles Gregory, W. H. Hendrickson, Eugene Klein, Dr. George A. Laporte, Julius Levy, Harry M. Lewy, J. T. Lozier, John N. Luff, L. B. Mason, H. C. Needham, A. E. Owen, Chas. L. Pack, Charles Ploch, E. B. Power, W. W. Randall, Jos. S. Rich, Walter S. Scott, T. E. Steinway, Geo. R. Tuttle, Thos. L. Wells.

OFFICERS OF THE EXHIBITION.

Geo. H. Worthington, Hon. Pres.

E. R. Ackerman, Hon. Vice Pres.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

J. C. Morgenthau, Chairman; J. M. Bartels, Vice Chairman; J. A. Klemann,

Secretary; J. B. Chittenden, Eugene Klein, John N. Luff, L. B. Mason, A. E. Owen, J. W. Scott.

A "Committee of Honor," in which is included the two editors of the WEEKLY, supplements the official force of the Exhibition, this committee being composed of philatelists representing the entire stamp collecting world. No less than thirty foreign philatelic societies have endorsed the Exhibition, the German organization being particularly prominent. The strong collecting proclivities of the German people are reflected in the great German-American population of our own country.

In the inception of the movement, its promoters conceived of an "Association for Stamp Exhibitions" as a means of arousing an interest in the great stamp show and it worked well. A modest fee of $1.00 was charged for membership and a large number have availed themselves of the privilege of becoming officially connected with the exhibition. The membership carried with it a set of the labels, the design of which is illustrated elsewhere in this issue and a member's card of admittance to the exhibition.

EXHIBITION MEDAL.

At this writing we cannot give the list of the entries received in competition as this news has not been made public. We shall, in succeeding numbers of the WEEKLY, give the particulars of the notable collections exhibited.

The list of prizes shows a grand array of cups, gold, silver gilt and silver medals, donations having been made not only by American collectors, dealers and societies, but by English and Continental as well. The following have been invited to serve on the Board of Judges:—E. Stock, Berlin; E. D. Bacon, London; D. Field, London; Baron Eric Leijonhufvud; Nils Strandell, Stockholm; Johannes Elster, Berlin; Rudolf Friedl, Vienna; Baron de Reuterskiold, Lausanne; F. Genth, Cassel; A. Coyette, Paris; H. O. Manus, Amsterdam; M. P. Castle, London; Chas. J. Phillips, London; L. L. R. Hausburg, Weybridge; F. R. Cornwall, St. Louis; B. W. H. Poole, Altadena, Cal.; John N. Luff, New York; C. A. Howes, Boston; W. S. Scott, New York; P. F. Bruner, New York; E. M. Carpenter, Boston; W. N. Washburn, Greenfield, Mass.; A. H. Caspary, New York; Eugene Klein, Philadelphia.

No better compliment could be paid the Exhibition than the attention it is receiving abroad. Among those who have indicated their intention to attend are: M. P. Castle, president of the Royal Philatelic Society, Fred J. Melville, president of the Junior Philatelic Society, L. L. R. Hausberg, A. Bolaffi, Barcn Leijonhufvud, A. J. Sefi, Albert Coyette, D. Field, the well known London dealer, Guy Semple, representing W. H. Peckitt, and E. Szkula.

ENGINEERING SOCIETIES BUILDING.

The government will itself make a notable exhibit and stamp collectors will find this alone worth going a great distance to see. Philatelists the country over should not fail to make New York City their Mecca the week of Oct. 27.

AUCTION SALES

It is conceded that Stamp Auction Sales have come to stay, and as my experience in this particular branch of the stamp business has been extensive I feel that I need make no apologies for asking for your patronage either to buy or sell.

No one will deny that my explicit style of cataloging has revolutionized this branch of the business. If there are any doubting Thomases let them compare my earliest catalogues with those then put on the market. Even a present day comparison will show they have not yet reached my standard.

I believe in a square deal for both the buyer and seller and I feel that my efforts have been appreciated because of the fact that many of my earliest clients are still faithful and new ones continue to come in and say they are well satisfied. Terms on application which are liberal and fair for the best service.

OUR NATIONAL SOCIETY.

By Gen. CHARLES A. COOLIDGE, President.

The exhibition of Postage Stamps in New York City the last week of October, this year, will doubtless mark a new era in the philatelic history of this country. We shall find the general public hereafter taking more interest in our science and in the work of its specialists. While the number of its devotees will be largely increased, those collectors who now collect in a perfunctory manner will be spurred to new exertions and investigations, which will be prolific in revealing to the philatelic world hidden treasures, and points of interest concerning our own issues will be elucidated which are now obscure. Every public exhibition given, attracts an immense number of citizens who know scarcely anything regarding philately but beholding these beautiful specimens of the sculptors art awakens an interest and desire to emulate the accumulations of others, and many new converts will be added to our membership.

No one who has the love of philately at heart can afford to miss this opportunity to behold the vast store from all the countries of the world for the last 65 years of printing, lithography and the engravers art which will be presented to his view, or to inspect the rare and valuable stamps that will be exhibited. One day, within the portals of the Engineering Building will be more of a philatelic education and pleasure, than a hundred consumed in viewing the minor collections to which he has access in his own small community.

Many who view these exhibits will most likely remark that the sight of such superb and complete specialized collections make their own albums "look like thirty cents" but if they stifle the envious feelings in their hearts, they will realize, that while we cannot all compete with the millionaires in paying enormous prices for great rarities, it is possible to gather together very creditable collections for a very reasonable expenditure that will give us much enjoyment and pleasure in our favorite study and be of interest to others, even though the celebrated specimens are missing from our albums.

In the first quarter of a century after the introduction of postage stamps, there were few persons who preserved them unused and they generally kept only single used specimens, which they pasted flat down to the pages of their album, and when showing them to their visiting friends rather meekly apologized for their school-boyish fad. But with the organization of the American Philatelic Association the realization that our cult was sustained by men of means, position and learning in its ranks, the importance of our science took an "uplift" over the country and enforced a recognition to which it was justly entitled.

As year by year our Association has grown from its small coterie of a couple of hundred kindred spirits to over 4,000 who since 1886 have enrolled beneath its banners, the public have recognized the patience, labor, investigation and research which its votaries have devoted to the science. The advancement of artistic work in the production of postal issues is considerably due to the work and criticisms of the philatelists.

The benefits derived from joining our national association are far above the small pecuniary consideration required for its annual dues. The American Philatelic Society is principally composed of honorable upright gentlemen who have an earnest love and devotion to their cult above any pecuniary emolument to be derived from it and the fraternal feeling enjoined by the pursuit of philately is that of brotherly unity and good fellowship. Avariciousness and greed have small place in the heart of the true philatelist, while there may occasionally be a few undesirable characters admitted to our order, they ultimately overreach themselves and commit overt acts which lead to their detection and expulsion.

The A. P. Society offers facilities for the exchange or disposal of duplicate specimens which every collector inevitably obtains; it provides a bureau for the identification and detection of counterfeit stamps; it sustains a philatelic section in the Carnegie Library at Pittsburgh to which all members have access; it publishes a monthly journal of high literary character (free to its members) containing articles on current philatelic topics; an account of the new issues of all countries; the reports of the officers of the society; and other valuable information.

EDITORIAL.

A Tribute—We have issued special numbers at times in the past to celebrate events or occasions of varying degrees of importance or of significance to philately but never before has the dedication of a number of this paper to a special subject been so appropriate or so deserved as to the International Philatelic Exhibition which becomes America's greatest philatelic achievement. The work of several years culminates in one week when philately is paramount. All the plans of ingenious managers extending over many months become concentrated in result in the Exhibition of October 27th to November 1st. The task of the men who made the Exhibition comes to a successful climax in the Exhibition itself, an appreciation of which carries with it a realization of the vast accomplishment of those who created the Exhibition. We are glad to record by a special number of our paper the fulfillment of the hopes of those who worked and won a standing memorial in the International Philatelic Exhibition.

The Right Place—There have been exhibitions of stamps in this country before this one and it is fitting that New York, the seat of the first pretentious philatelic exhibition should be that of the International Philatelic Exhibition this year. It is to be said that in March, 1888, an exhibition of "a complete collection of postage stamps of all nations" was shown at the Eden Musee, New York City. This exhibition was purely a local one and was arranged under the auspices of the Brooklyn Philatelic Club, the National Philatelic Society and the Staten Island Philatelic Society. Approximately, a complete collection of the postage stamps of all countries was displayed and in every way the exhibition was a creditable one. Now, over twenty-five years afterwards, it is in accord with traditions that philatelic history repeat itself and it does and in so impressive a way that all may know that a quarter of a century has wrought wonders in philately. Seeing the International Philatelic Exhibition is believing.

* * *

America's First International—The exhibition of stamps made at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, under the direction of the American Philatelic Society was one that was not without its merits and resulting beneficial influence on philately. In the years following not a few displays were made at fairs and festivals; and at the Detroit convention of the American Philatelic Society in 1910, a highly interesting display of stamps was made by the Detroit members. It was at this convention that steps were taken to ensure an exhibition at the convention the succeeding year; and in consequence, a really great exhibition was held in 1911 at the Chicago Art Institute. If the Chicago exhibition in any way was the inspiration for this one, it justified its existence in superlative measure. It was time for America's first International Philatelic Exhibition; and it was proper that America's first city should be its setting.

* * *

Needed—It was time, we repeat, for America to have its first International Philatelic Exhibition. It was necessary for America to have it not as an indication of its philatelic progress any more than a proof that philately in this country is not at a stand-still. England and the philatelic powers of Europe have had their great stamp exhibitions for many years and it was time that the United States should serve notice on all the world that its position in the philatelic procession if not in the front rank at least is not in the rear. The Exhibition will strengthen the belief of foreign brethren in America's philatelic standing and its possibilities. While it has been slow to adopt the exhibition idea, philatelic America when it did take the forward step has done so in a way to command admiration.

* * *

The Advantages—In this day and generation, no justification is urged for exhibitions in the many different branches of study or endeavor as the exhibitions illustrate the advances and improvements made in chosen lines. Nearly all pursuits are exploited by exhibitions and in public displays of the kind advertising is gained in a public sense while of course pleasure is afforded to all those interested in the exhibitions. An advantage possessed by stamps as objects of exhibition is that they loan themselves readily to exhibition purposes and philatelists who generally may be said to be of a somewhat studious cast of mind should be particularly receptive to the exhibition idea.

Purposes—The purposes of the International Philatelic Exhibition broadly are to inspire those who are collectors and at the same time strike a responsive chord in the breasts of those who are likely to become stamp collectors. It is needless to recite the advantages that all collectors from the immature to the seasoned will derive from the Exhibition. We have said that next to owning rarities and other select stamps, collectors like to see them in the possession of others; and here the opportunity is given to behold the fullness of philately and to hold communion with the most exclusive of stamps. The spirit of pride in the pursuit that will be engendered by graphic proof of the wealth of philately will confirm the collector's fealty to stamps. The contact with fellow collectors amid the congenial surroundings will be a privilege and a pleasure. There is a sterner purpose, too, and that is to advertise philately to the everyday world as a pursuit that is worth investigating and consequently accepting as one of the approved forms of recreative research or as a pastime that requires enough mental application to be invigorating, if you will.

* * *

The Non-Collector—We are more concerned perhaps about the interest of the non-collector who attends the Exhibition than the one who is a philatelist. It is essential that a pleasant impression be made on the mind of the outsider if he is to become engaged to stamp collecting and this is to be done by showing him the modest side as well as the glittering side of philately and by assuring him that the pursuit is a happy, pleasant one that may be regarded without any particular seriousness. In fact the adaptability of philately is a great argument in its favor. One may skim over its surface and find all satisfaction or one may delve deeply into it with the same result. There is a popular grade of philately of which this paper is the exponent that appeals to the great number of average collectors. We are pleased to give you a copy of this special number and we are frank enough to say that in doing so, we entertain the lurking wish to arouse an interest in stamps. We are ready to assist all inquirers to an understanding of our pursuit whether they are readers of our paper or not.

OUR REVIEW.

W. H. Peckitt sends us a copy of the "Confederate States of America Government Postage Stamps" by Fred J. Melville. It is uniform with the rest of the series. It is written in Mr. Melville's usual style and the book is superbly illustrated. Orders for this book will be accepted by the WEEKLY, price 20c.

POWER'S GREAT BOOK ON U. S.

There is one book you really need and that one, E. B. Power's on United States. It is written by a student of stamps who has positive views and is not afraid to express them. The book retails for 75c but out of the largeness of our heart we offer it to you, post free, at 50c. As the owner and manager of Stanley Gibbons, N. Y. City, Mr. Power is an authority you may well heed. Remit 50c in M. O. or check or better still add it to your renewal.

deep aniline rose, rose, crimson. Surely this is a list of shades worthy of the best collector's efforts.

The vast numbers of stamps printed, and long list of plates made, did not, strange to say, produce much in the way of variety. There are the "Caps" caused by damage to the transfer rolls, and the imperforates. Three varieties of "Caps" are listed and recognized. These occur over the numerals, as a projection rising above the figures at left and over both. The "Right Cap" is not the same as the "Caps" on the other varieties, but is a short white line not touching the numeral. It slants slightly downward toward the right of the figure. Some "faked" Right Caps have been seen, made by blotting out the "Cap" on the left numeral. Students of stamps will not be caught with these doctored stamps. A minor variety in the "Caps" is found with a line of white dividing the projections from the numerals.

Plates TT 235, VV 247 and VV 248 show strips with "Caps" on left numerals. Plate VV 245 shows "Caps" on both numerals, while plate VV 246 contains both varieties.

The stamps exist imperforate, on regular stamp paper, gummed. Some authorities declare that these imperforates are merely finished proofs. Be that as it may they are sought for by specialists. The imperforates were printed from plates D 18 and F 34.

3 Cents.—This denomination was issued Feb. 22, 1890, simultaneously with all but three of the series. The shades, by Mr. Luff, are—bright purple, deep purple. Two plates were made—Nos. 21 and 72, printing 200 stamps to the plate. Only a single variety is chronicled—the imperforate—printed from plate 21.

4 Cents.—This stamp was issued June 2, 1890, in two shades—dark yellow brown, black brown. Two series of five plates each were made: J 51 to 55 and MM 200 to 204, inclusive. The imperforate stamps were printed from plate J 52.

5 Cents.—Issued June 2, 1890, together with the 4 cent stamps. Shades are orange brown, deep orange brown, bistre brown, dark brown. Printed from plates I 46 to 50 inclusive. The imperforates bore plate number 146.

6 Cents.—Date of issue, Feb. 22, 1890. The shades are claret, claret brown, rose brown. Printed from plate 23. The imperforates naturally bore this number.

8 Cents.—Although this stamp was not issued until three years after the others of this series, it is generally designated as an 1890 issue. It went out to the public on March 21, 1893. Two shades are given—gray lilac, gray violet. These stamps were printed in a series of five plates, 200 to the plate, numbers Z 265 to 269, inclusive. The single variety is said to be an "error" in the color of the 8 cent Columbian.

10 Cents.—Issued Feb. 22, 1890, in shades of deep blue green, dark gray green. The plates were made in a series of five, numbers E 26 to 30. No varieties.

15 Cents.—This was also issued Feb. 22, 1890. A single plate was made for this, number 22. The shades are indigo and deep indigo. The imperforates came from the same plate, of course, as the others.

30 Cents.—This underpriced stamp bears date of issue with the majority of the other denominations—Feb. 22, 1890. Two shades are found—gray black and full black. A single plate was made, number 24, from which the perforate, and the imperforate variety, were printed. This stamp, in fine condition, is not easy to get and in the mind of the writer is worth full or above catalog.

90 Cents.—Issued on Feb. 22, 1890. Mr. Luff classifies the shades as being yellow orange, orange and red orange. One plate only was made, number 25. The imperforate stamps were printed from that plate, it follows.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Almost every week brings along with it fresh information regarding the new New Zealand issue. The recent annual report by the Postmaster-General states that the designs for the King George postage stamps have been prepared and sent to London for the engraving of the dies. The following are the denominations proposed to be issued: ¼d, 1½d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 4½d, 6d, 7½d, 9d, and 1sh. The design of the penny stamp will not be changed. It will be noticed that three new denominations appear, while the 5d and 8d are omitted; this, I presume, is to conform with the recently amended parcel postage rates. It is expected that the new issue will be on sale towards the end of the year.—N. Z. Stamp Journal.

—"I am heartily in accord with your action re distorted discounts. I think it one of the greatest impositions on collectors, and I quite agree with the action of the WEEKLY and other periodicals in refusing to accept advertisements of that nature. When dealers cannot conduct their business in an honorable, straight-forward manner, I think then that the time is right to expose them and hope that your efforts will be rewarded in suppressing such cases."—HERBERT H. A. FOX.

—Fred L. Pauly sends us a clipping from the Normal Instructor, Dansville, N. Y., picturing nine of the current issue of U. S. stamps. Mr. Pauly writes: "Wonder what the department will do." That's easy! Tell them not to do it again, if called to its attention.

—"This year I shall stick to the WEEKLY alone as I find all other papers have been heavy losing propositions."—WARNER McLAUGHLIN.

FRED J. MELVILLE, PRESIDENT J. P. S.

One might well hesitate in assigning Mr. Melville any title, as his activities are so many and his talents so varied. It is true that he is president of the live Junior Philatelic Society of London, the most progressive and aggressive stamp society in the world, but he is also the editor of the weekly Postage Stamp and monthly Stamp Lover. But this is not enough so we find him grinding out regularly a handbook on some country that we add with pleasure to our philatelic library. When he is not working up some great stamp exhibition, delivering a lantern lecture, penning an article for the press, making a trip to Brighton, Paris or Berlin, we presume he sleeps. No visitor to the New York Exhibition will receive a more cordial welcome than Mr. Melville.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

GREEN FIELDS—3c, 1872-'80.

By CHARLES E. JENNEY.

Now and then in the life of the ordinary philatelist will occur a five or ten minutes of leisure and idleness. When such a period occurs the active mind instantly reverts to that stock of accumulated common stamps to be run through for shades, varieties and peculiarities. Here is relaxation and pleasure, with broad fields to roam in. Here is the beginning of specialism. It is just what is needed in the grim search for rarities, to balance up the pleasure of the hobby.

No better stamp to work on can be had than the old 3-cent green of 1872-1880. Some 30 years are past since this stamp went out of use and yet it is still common and can be bought in lots of 1000 at from 50 to 60 cents. In spite of the large quantities issued this is cheap now at 5c per 100.

We will say we have a couple of thousand spread out before us for examination. What is it we shall look for? The parties who originally separated these from the cover and neatly soaked off the back paper long ago extracted all grills. The different prints are all in such large quantities that none of them are scarce. There is little chance of finding any of the cog-wheel dies. If here and there a vertically imperforate specimen shows up, the margins are not large enough for proof. All of these things we discard. At first glance over the mass of stamps, the variety of shades strikes the eye,—the rich dark yellow green of a few,—the deep green of some of the specimens that have abnormal top or bottom margins,—the light yellow green of some on which we might hope to find a grill now and then if any were left,—and the pale gray-green shades of the soft paper issue. Here is ample material for a full row of eight shades, ranging from the lightest up to the darkest, and a keen specialist might make it two or three lines for shades alone.

The next thing for which we search with keen eyes, are the stamps showing the "arrowhead" lines in one corner. These are sometimes with a straight edge and sometimes perforated on all four sides. There are two shapes of the arrowhead, one quite narrow and with thin lines and the other broad and with thick lines. Each may be found on all four corners of the stamp.

The next striking features displayed on the face of the stamps are the numeral and letter cancellations, within barred ovals. The numerals run from 1 to 52 and it is an absorbing occupation picking out a set of clear ones. The numbers above 32 are very scarce, perhaps 1 in 10,000 is met with. These numbers referred to are black. There is another set to be obtained of colorless letters within black circles. These are scarcer and do not seem to run as high as I have seen none above the twenties. Corresponding to the above there are sets of letters running from A to Z in black letters and probably in colorless letters, though I have not seen the full set of the latter. These letters without color are kind of puzzling to make out at times and one sometimes has to study them to determine just what they are.

After the segregation of these numbers there are still many points of interest about the remaining stamps that attract attention. Here and there one may be picked out showing the portion of the Bank Note Company's imprint, sometimes the National, sometimes the American. These are quite scarce and looked upon as good finds. They may be top or bottom imprints and they serve to locate the position of several stamps on the sheet, as well as the arrow varieties.

We now come down to the striking cancellations shown, besides the numeral and letter varieties. This issue is not so fruitful of these as the old 3c red of 1861, of which five years ago it was not hard to get a full page of 64 distinctive and remarkable cancellations, but which today are not to be obtained cheaply in wholesale quantities. But a 2000 lot will display many unique specimens. The Star cancellations are perhaps the most prolific and it is possible to get a large variety of these of different sizes, solid and hollow, in circle and out, 5-pointed and more. There are several forms of crosses from the plain gothic to the ornamental Maltese. Circles and concentric rings from two up to six may be shown. We of course exclude all irregular blurs, blots and cork-stopper cancellations. In my native town all through the seventies and into the eighties the 3c green shows with cancellations consisting of large figures of the date, almost as tall as the stamp, thus 79, 80, 81, etc. It is with considerable enthusiasm that we run across now and then, but seldom, a cancellation consisting of Paid 3 within a neat circle. These are not so common on this issue as on the older ones, and are evidently cancellations left over from the ancient days before stamps. I have even found a Paid 5 and a Paid 10 on the 3c green, so evenly impressed as to look like printed surcharges. There will be found also a monogram U. S., the U run through the S after the manner of the well-known watermark on the envelopes. Straight Paid and Received marks are occasionally met with. A large R indicating registration is rather infrequent on this issue though common on later issues. Very rarely a complete dated postmark may be found on one of these stamps, in which case it must necessarily be of one of the few cities using in those days a very small postmark. A pen cancellation or two should not be neglected in assorting these out (don't be afraid—it is not fiscally used). These usually take the form of two or three vertical lines but at one post-office at least the postmaster was accustomed to use his initials.

I have only indicated here a few of the designs to be found in the cancellations. My own collection displays many of interest and which in a few years from now it will be hard to duplicate. And the collection alone is not my only reward, for it represents many pleasant moments, that every true collector will understand the value of. I have found it profitable, in running through a lot for my own benefit, to save a liberal lot of such as can be found in duplicate, for the sake of others who may be similarly inclined in interests.

Years from now the specialists will be running over dealers' stocks, at some expense to their purses, for many of these cancellations the same as we now find our "big men" searching for the red, blue and green cancellations on the first two issues. It will surely combine pleasure with profit if we now avail ourselves of those stocks of common stamps readily at hand at little or no expense, for original research and amateur specialism.

SPECIAL FOR THIS WEEK ONLY

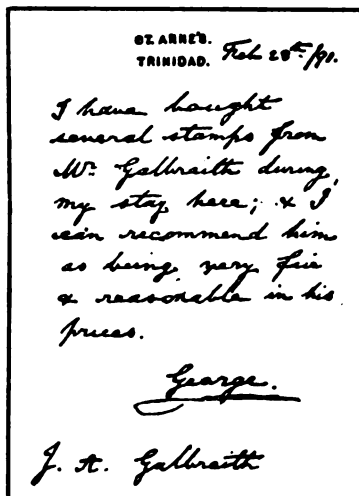

(October 27 to November 1 Inclusive)

I will sell to Exhibition visitors and to all readers of the WEEKLY, Current Issue mint original gum postage stamps of the British Colonies at 10% Over Face

I can do this because I am one of the heaviest importers of British Colonial Stamps, but my offer is for this week only.

In other lines I have something for everyone, but probably I can offer more "blocks of four used" (notably of British Colonies, but something from every country) than other dealers in the United States.

A KING GEORGE TESTIMONIAL.

For the Specialist:

Among other good things I have a complete Set of Jamaica with "Seriet error" in mint original blocks of fifteen—corners of the sheets (½, 1d, 2½d and 5d).

The collector in town I would like to have call on me. He will be treated with courtesy and have shown to him what he wants. From the out-of-town collector I solicit correspondence—he also will be treated with courtesy and promptly replied to.

THE CHARLES LATHROP PACK EXHIBIT.

The visitor at the New York exhibition will not consider the visit complete without examining the Charles Lathrop Pack exhibits in which there is much of interest. We are very glad of the opportunity of quoting Mr. Pack's own words as to what he will show:—

Argentina—The first issue and second issue—They are specialized in a way I have never seen them before, and I think this work will be new to practically all American collectors. The Rivadavia issues are very highly specialized and are in about the same conditions as when exhibited in London last year. Some of the issues (later ones) are studied out. You may possibly recall my article on the 1882 issues in the P. G. The stamps with the inverted centers and the celebrated 5c green error are all present. This collection is entered in the champion class. It has never been exhibited before.

Cape of Good Hope—I have entered Cape of Good Hope "not in competition" and am simply showing my specialized collection of wood blocks consisting of about three hundred copies, including ten errors of color. I am in hopes that this collection will be received with satisfaction as I am exhibiting it at the special request of the committee.

Canada is shown in five volumes. It received a gold medal in London in 1907 at which time it was contained in two volumes. The whole collection is really composed of two collections; one used and the other unused. While most people would first notice the three pairs of the twelve-pence, I think myself that the study of the 1868 issue and the exhibit of copies both used and unused of the six-pence are of more philatelic value. There is a part of a plate proof of the twelve-pence in the collection by which I have been able to locate on the sheet the pair of twelve-pence which Mr. Worthington has in his collection of Canada.

New Zealand—This collection in two volumes only contains the early issues. My whole collection of New Zealand takes about eight volumes, but the two shown contain the first type used and unused, including all of the retouches of the two-pence reconstructed. Attention is called to the large exhibit of the different private perforations. You will be interested in knowing that this collection has been largely used by the New Zealand Philatelic Society to illustrate their forthcoming book on the Stamps of New Zealand. I have a letter from Percy B. Phipson, Secretary of the Society, saying they expect the work to appear in November.

Danish West Indies—This collection I am exhibiting in order to make real competition for Mr. T. W. Hall, and Mr. Bartels is exhibiting his collection for the same reason. I expect Mr. Hall to be awarded the gold medal, and it will be of some pleasure to him and his English friends to have the medal cross the ocean under these circumstances. Exhibited for the first time.

Liberia—Here I show a very large amount of work I have done on the early issues of Liberia. I believe I have solved some of the interesting problems that have not been solved by anyone before. At any rate I have done enough to stir up philatelists who are interested in this country. I expect a lot more information will be forthcoming. I do not think any such collection of Liberia has ever been exhibited before. Exhibited for the first time.

Sydney Views—About eight hundred copies including fifteen plates. These plates are as follows: One-penny, plate I, complete. One-penny, plate I, duplicate, nearly complete. One-penny, plate II, composed of single copies, complete. One-penny, plate II, composed of single copies, nearly complete; different shade. One-penny, plate II, complete, mostly in vertical pairs. One-penny, plate II, complete, mostly in horizontal pairs. One-penny, plate II, on laid paper, partly complete. Two-pence, plate I, complete. Two-pence, plate II, complete. Two-pence, plate II, different shade, complete. Two-pence, plate II, hard paper with retouches, nearly complete. Two-pence, plate III, complete. Two-pence, plate IV, complete. Two-pence, plate V, complete. Three-pence, complete except three stamps, two of which are in the collection on original cover.

It has taken fifteen years to form this collection. Exhibited for the first time.

Brazil—100 Reis 1894-97, Substituted Heads, in one Oriel album—This is part of the single issue of the Brazil collection which gained the Great Gold Medal at the London exhibition last year. Only exhibited once before.

Uruguay—My collection of 1856, Uruguay, known as Diligencias. This collection has continued on its way and was never in quite such shape as it is shown now. I think you will be greatly interested in it as many of the items are unique. Mr. Charles J. Phillips referred to it as possibly the best example of specialization that he had ever seen.

Uruguay—1866 Numeral Issues of 5c, 10c, 15c and 20c, all in reconstructed plates. This is the first time that all these plates have ever been shown at one time. So far as I know, no one else has yet succeeded in completing the 20c plate. Exhibited alone for the first time.

Victoria—The Two-pence, Queen on Throne with complete reconstructed plates in the four different conditions of the plate. Also two additional plates reconstructed in pairs; also a study and explanation of the famous rare errors of transfer. Everyone of the errors of transfer are present with one exception. There are ten complete plates. Exhibited for the first time anywhere.

The Christmas edition of St. Nicholas will be somewhere around 80,000 copies. How many people read each copy is another question. We do know that it will be eagerly read by young folks—and the cream of this country's youth at that—the kind who demand quality in the reading, clothes, food and amusement—and have the means to pay for it. Many of them are already stamp collectors. Many more are ready to become collectors.

Big, broad, constructive ideas regarding stamp collecting have characterised St. Nicholas for years.

Reliable stamp dealers have an exceptional opportunity of getting acquainted with the right kind of boys and girls by having their announcements appear in the

ST. NICHOLAS STAMP DIRECTORY
Union Square, NEW YORK

19th Century No. and So. Americans and U. S. Colonies

I have recently acquired control of the remainder of the stock of the Southern Stamp Company, which formerly did business in Charleston, S. C., but went out of business about twenty years ago. The bulk of this stock consists of cheap stamps from all countries. These I shall offer in mixed packets, and at wholesale, at low prices. But there are, also, some very rare and desirable pieces in this stock; especially, as one would expect, a most interesting lot of Confederates, including both the common varieties of the regular issues, unused and used on original covers, and a number of very rare unlisted provisional envelopes, of undoubted genuineness, and the greatest interest to the advanced collector. These are offered below.

I have confined present offerings to U. S. and Colonies; and British Colonials, mainly B. N. A.; but I have on hand a good many nice stamps of South American countries, especially Argentine, Bolivia, Brazil, Uruguay, and Venezuela, and shall be glad to send them out to responsible collectors on request.

I have a considerable number of the general issues on original covers; but they are mostly in bad condition, as the stamps seem often to have been torn from the original sheets; also many unused, especially No. 207, which I can offer in any size block up to complete sheets (Richmond print). All these at 50% of catalogue.

All these stamps are in stock at the time of going to press. Of some I have several copies, of others only one. Collectors will understand that anything unsatisfactory for any reason, at any time, may be returned.

I have also fifty sets of Postal Savings stamps, 1c, 2c and 10c, all fine used copies, no straight edges or heavy cancellations, which I offer at 20 cents the set.

AN EXPLANATION

When I was in Valparaiso, I wrote the Editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY regarding two complaints that appeared against me that appeared in this paper but I have never received a reply. I also wrote to the two subscribers stating that I never received their letters. They said that it was sent by ordinary mail (not registered). That is why I always asked every correspondent to register their letters, as the mail in So. America is exposed to less, robberies etc. Now that I am in the States and know better English, I will settle this matter up with the two subscribers that claimed to have sent some stamps that I never received. I beg to inform you that when in Valparaiso I had correspondence with more than 80 persons here in the U. S. and I have never received a complaint from them.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Geo. A. Haupt(8), Geo. W. Schaefer (2), W. A. Kain, E. W. Murray, Geo. Clothier, Jr., Jno. M. Stone, Maitland Milliken, C. V. Webb.

—Will H. C. Crowl please send his address to this office? We need the town or city.

—Attention is called to advertisement elsewhere of Alfredo Villagran. Mr. Villagran asserts his innocence of charges made by two of our subscribers in connection with approval selections.

—H. R. Howard submits a cover showing the Sonora provisionals used in connection with a 2c U. S. envelope stamp. The Sonora stamps are postmarked Agua Prieto, Sonora, Sept. 26, 1913. This place was the scene of a battle during the present revolution.

—We are pleased to announce the appearance of the new weekly paper Stamp Collecting edited by D. B. Armstrong and R. E. R. Dalwigk, from 22 Chancery Lane, London. The number before us is a very promising Vol. I No. 1 and is filled with original matter, freely illustrated, and with departments that will attract favorable comment. We are pleased to note a healthy advertising patronage in this the initial number.

—The International Stamp Co. submits for our perusal a communication received from the office of the Third Asst. Postmaster General in which the claim of the Company for indemnity because of injury to sheet of stamps sent by registered mail is disallowed except to the extent of 6c, which the Department claims is the total damage. Mr. Dockery writes as follows:—

"Although the philatelic value of the sheet of stamps may have been destroyed by the damage sustained by three of the stamps, such destruction of value constituted a consequential loss and not a direct loss in the mails. The only actual loss sustained is that of three stamps which were totally damaged."

—Mr. E. C. Dodd, La Grange, Illinois, has become a full-fledged dealer after having handled stamps for many years as a side-line. He has relinquished his position that he held for over thirty years with a large Chicago wholesale firm in order to devote his entire time and attention to stamps. Mr. Dodd is now in a position to properly exploit his stock, really one of the best in the country.

—Dealers desiring a good wholesale list should write Bright & Son, London, England. Their list is just at hand pricing stamps by the dozen and the hundred, and it should be of value to the dealer.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

AUSTRALIA.—Edwin F. Sawyer has shown us the new 4d Kangaroo registration envelope, about which there was considerable discussion in the English papers.

Registration Envelope.
 4d orange on white.

BERMUDA.—Edwin F. Sawyer sends us a specimen of the King George registration envelope for this Colony.

Registration Envelope.
 2d blue.

BRITISH GUIANA.—J. A. Galbraith shows us the 2c, 6c and 12c stamps of the new series, previously chronicled.

DENMARK.—W. T. Wilson sends us the 5 and 10 ore of the new King Christian X series. As announced in No. 1144, the portrait of the King, which is in profile, facing to the right, represents him in naval uniform. The portrait is in an oval, with a wide tablet around it. "Danmark" appears in the upper part of the tablet, wreaths of oak leaves at the sides and "Ore" at the bottom. The figures of value are printed in small ovals in the lower corners. In each of the upper corners is a large "C" surmounted by a crown, with an "X" in the centre of the larger letter. The stamps are printed on unwatermarked paper and perforated.

Adhesives.

5 ore yellow green.
 10 ore red.

GAMBIA.—Edwin F. Sawyer has shown us the King George registration envelope and ordinary envelope.

Envelope.

1d carmine.

GIBRALTAR.—This Colony has a new wrapper and registration envelope, with portrait of King George, specimens having been shown us by Edwin F. Sawyer.

Registration Envelope.

2d carmine on cream.
 Wrapper.

1/4d green on buff.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Offices in the Levant.—The King George registration envelope of Great Britain has been surcharged "Regn. Fee.—1 Piastre" in two lines for use in the Levant. A specimen comes from Edwin F. Sawyer.

Registration Envelope.

1pi on 3d red brown.

Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the King George 3d stamp, overprinted "1 1/4—Piastre" for use in the Levant, like the 1 1/4 piastre on 4d slate green, as recently chronicled.

Adhesive.

1 1/4pi on 3d purple.

STAMPS ON APPROVAL

Sending stamps on approval from which to select the copies needed in your collection is my specialty. You retain such as you wish at the net price, returning the remainder with remittance for those kept, within ten days, when a new lot will be sent you. This allows you to see just what you are buying, and avoids duplicates. Every stamp I sell is:

GUARANTEED GENUINE.

I handle no counterfeit, reprint, or doubtful stamps. Furthermore, I have but which is the same for the beginner, with no knowledge of values, as for the experienced collector. There isn't two prices on any of my stamps! My prices are low, and I sell genuine

ONE LOW NET PRICE.

MONTPELIER,

VERMONT

INDIA.—Bright & Son send us a specimen of the India post card of 1871, with the stamp overprinted "Service" in medium sized type, spaced so as to extend across the stamp. The card is printed in red brown on buff, and the overprint is in black. As far as can be ascertained, this official card has never been chronicled or catalogued.

JAMAICA.—From Edwin F. Sawyer comes a new registration envelope with embossed portrait of King George.

Registration Envelope.

3d brown on cream.

NEW HEBRIDES.—It has repeatedly been stated that the high values of the New Hebrides stamps in French currency had been surcharged with a lower denomination, because there was no need of them, but this appears to be wrong, as the Postmaster at Port Vila writes Hermann Focke under date of August 25, that no provisionals had been received by him, nor did he expect that the Government would decide to have them made as there was a large stock of all low values on hand. The Postmaster also contradicts the often made statement that no 25c stamps were to be had at Port Vila, as he has a large supply of this value on hand also.

NICARAGUA.—From Dr. Roy F. DeSart comes the first of the Cordoba surcharges on fiscal stamps we have yet seen. The familiar long type of stamp so freely used for postal surcharges in 1908 and 1909 has been again pressed into service. The overprinting, which is in red, is badly done, the second line being indecipherable. The rest of the overprint reads: "Timbre—

—10 cts. de—Cordoba—1913.

"10 cts." on 2p dark blue; surcharge red.

SOUTHERN NIGERIA.—This Colony has a King George registration envelope, a specimen having been shown us by Edwin F. Sawyer.

NEW AUSTRALIAN DESIGNS.

We picture herewith the two new designs suggested for the Australian Commonwealth stamps, displacing the sad-eyed animal representing a kangaroo as found on the current issue. The Postmaster General Agar Wynne has taken the design which won the $500 prize some two years ago. While it is reported that the 1d and 2d values are shortly to be expected—in other quarters it is asserted that there will be modifications before the new stamps appear. Critics urge that there is too much detail to make these designs acceptable in the small size that would be necessary on stamps.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE GERM OF A COLOR CHART.

By LOUIS G. BARRETT.

The years since 1905 have produced for philately many new issues of stamps, the more notable of which, outside of Great Britain and her possessions, fall into two or three principal groups. One of these groups, characterized by a beauty of design and an originality of detail, includes such issues as those of Austria 1908-10-13; Bosnia 1906-10-12-13; Bulgaria 1911; Italy 1911; Liechtenstein 1912; Montenegro 1910; Roumania 1906 and Russia of 1913.

A second group, containing such issues as Belgium 1912 and Serbia of 1911 has reached almost the limit in severity and plainness of design.

The third group, and the one which most concerns the present discussion relies more upon a boldness of design, a paucity of detail and a vigorous use of plain color backgrounds to gain distinction in artistic effect. The countries issuing stamps which would be included in this latter group comprise Bavaria 1911 (Scott's types A-6 and 7); Denmark 1905-12 (Type A-10); France 1907-10 (Type A-22); Iceland 1911-12 (Types A-6 and 7); Portugal 1912 (Type A-64); and Switzerland 1908-10 (Types A-25 and 26).

From the standpoint of color and color designations this group is most interesting, as in most cases a pure pigment has been used and it is not difficult to select from among the issues named, examples of colors which remain practically constant and are therefore of value in presenting standards by which one may test his eye for color. If a selection of stamps is made from them and arranged as the nucleus of a color chart, a basis for reliable and uniform comparison is produced by which collectors may correctly classify their shade varieties.

The universal adoption of such an arrangement, which could be as much amplified by the addition of intermediate gradations in shade or tint as desired by the individual, would be extremely simple, from the fact that the pigments have an unvarying quality the world over; for instance, Prussian blue or Venetian red, or raw umber or chrome green, or vermilion are fixed standards everywhere. Of the issues of the six countries named above in the last group, Bavaria 1911 may be dismissed from consideration at once, as all of the stamps are printed on a toned or tinted paper, which has the effect of materially dulling the tone of the pigments used, besides which the shades have varied in successive printings. This latter fault, common to the issues of most all countries where large numbers of stamps are used, prevents their acceptance for the present purpose.

Of the five remaining countries then, Iceland, a small country with a relatively small population, is the one where an issue will be found to remain for the longest period without showing variations in shades.

The 1911-12 issue of this country undoubtedly owes its existence to the influence upon the designer's mind of the beautiful "cameo" series of early Gambias. And due to the pigments chosen for the thirteen values of the set they practically comprise a good color-chart by themselves, and owing to their slight cost (barring possibly the two highest values) should be in the possession of every philatelist, be he a general collector or a specialist.

A summary of the various colors used in the series, with the color names as they would be recognized in the commercial and artistic world is as follows:

- 1 eyr olive-green.
- 3 aur Prussian blue; a standard for blue.
- 5 aur Hooker's green, No. 2; a middle shade; and a good standard green.
- 6 aur charcoal gray; a good gray.
- 10 aur deep vermilion; a standard for red.
- 15 aur purple; a good example of the color.
- 20 aur Chinese blue; (a tint) a good light blue.

25 aur chrome orange; a standard orange.

50 aur burnt carmine.

1 krona cadmium; a good standard for yellow.

2 krona pink madder; a color not often met with in stamps; it might safely be called a carmine-rose.

5 krona burnt umber; a medium shade; a good standard brown.

Thus it will be seen that in this issue, good examples of the three primary colors; red, yellow and blue; the three secondary colors; orange, green and violet (purple) and two of the three tertiary colors; olive and brown are represented, besides a good gray as a neutral tint.

In a similar way, if the stamps of Denmark 1905-12 are considered, the list appears as follows:

1 ore chrome orange; same as the 25a of Iceland.

2 ore alizarine scarlet; one of the coal-tar colors.

3 ore gray; similar to a wash of diluted India ink.

4 ore sky-blue; a pure light blue.

5 ore Hooker's green No. 2; a deeper shade than on 5a, Iceland; a good dark green.

10 ore rose-carmine; somewhat duller than the 2k of Iceland.

15 ore mineral violet; a rather dull lilac; hardly enough red in its composition to be called mauve.

20 ore Antwerp blue; a deep shade; another good blue of a different cast than Prussian blue.

The French stamps of the "Sower" type of 1907-10 give comparisons thus:

5c bronze-green.

10c Venetian red; another standard red of a duller cast than vermilion.

20c purple madder; a brownish lake.

30c neutral orange; duller than chrome orange.

35c violet; dull shades caused by the addition of gray.

(To be continued.)

COMMODORE GEORGE H. WORTHINGTON.

We do well to recognize the great honor that Mr. Worthington has done American Philately. He has given of his wealth and of his time to such an extent that the whole philatelic world has been placed under obligations to him. His exhibits at New York will attract wide attention and these will be but a small part of the magnificent collection that is to be found in his nearly one hundred large albums.

We do not intend to write a biographical sketch of Mr. Worthington, but his prominence as the honorary president of the exhibition leads us to feature some of the great rarities to be seen in his collection, hence the page plate found elsewhere in this issue. It will be a delight to our readers who cannot visit New York to study these great treasures.

It would be difficult to give a correct valuation of this page of rarities. A spirited contest would certainly result were they to be disposed of in the auction room. Such will never be their fate however as Mr. Worthington has already indicated that his entire collection is to be kept intact and the Cleveland public will be the beneficiaries thereby.

For an estimate of value we should fix $40,000 as a fair figure. This is certainly conservative. A few notes upon these covers by a correspondent who has gleaned some facts of interest will no doubt be welcome:—

Grove Hill, Ala.—This Confederate local was bought from the New England Stamp Co. in 1904. I do not know anything regarding its history, but it is the only one I have ever heard of. It must be worth close to $1,000.

Livingston, Ala.—This local was also bought from the New England Stamp Co., and came out of the famous Deats collection. It is also the only one I have ever heard of.

Twentieth Century Stamps

CHAS. S. OSGOOD, SALEM, MASS

Dealers, large and small, bargains in CARTER'S MESSENGER, 285 Halsey St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Cape of Good Hope.—Block of four containing the Four Penny Error in red. This block is unique. Although the error is known in a pair (one 1d and one 4d), there is no other block. Moreover it is in matchless state, being of the very earliest impression, as will be seen from the date (March 26, 1861). This is undoubtedly the finest piece in any Cape collection.

10c Beaumont, Texas.—This Texas Local is one of the rarest of the Confederate locals. This particular copy is on a home-made envelope, made from the cheapest kind of brown wrapping paper, but at that the "artist" made a very neat job of it. This is valued at anywhere from $1,000 to $1200.

One Penny Post Office Mauritius, cover bearing two copies. This is the one penny denomination of the two well known and much written about "Rare Post Office Mauritius." They are perhaps famous more on account of the high prices they bring than on account of their rarity. The two on this cover are perhaps the first of these stamps purchased by an American collector, although Mr. Worthington has since acquired the 2d. These two stamps are in the finest condition, and would probably bring $10,000 if placed on the market today.

Hopedale.—There are several of these in existence and all were located in and around Hopedale, Mass.

10c Baltimore.—This was purchased from Warren H. Colson, who got it from the owner direct. It is the last copy of this stamp unearthed. I think there are four or five now in existence. It is a stamp very much desired by all collectors of U. S. Postmasters' stamps and sells readily at $4,000.

5c Alexandria on blue paper. This great rarity was discovered in Alexandria by the daughter of the person whose name appears on the envelope, after having occupied for years a secluded place among the family letters. This is the only known copy on blue paper, the three other known Alexandria stamps being on a buff paper. The stamp is valued at $4,000.

St. Louis.—Strip of two 20c and one 5c. This is from the celebrated Louisville find, which conclusively proved the supposition that the original plates were altered and two 20c stamps added. There is no other strip known like it. Mr. Ayer valued it at $7,500, but the recent find of 20c has no doubt dropped its value somewhat.

New Haven.—This is really an envelope stamp. You can probably get all the data regarding it that you wish from Luff's book on U. S. It usually sells for $800 to $1,000 according to condition.

Hawaii.—Cover, bearing 2c and 5c Missionary stamps. I consider the cover worth a great deal of money. It is a great rarity.

Trade Column.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE IMPRINTS AND PLATE NUMBERS OF THE 1851-1857 ISSUES OF UNITED STATES ADHESIVES.

By CARROLL CHASE, M. D.

Various lists of United States plate numbers, including the early issues, have been published, the most authoritative of which have been Luff's and Bartels', but even these show many inaccuracies and omissions in these issues. My list which follows is still far from complete, but one excuse for now publishing it is that some of the many readers of this paper may be able and kind enough to supply some of the missing information.

One thing that puzzled me greatly for a while was the fact, afterward determined, that for the first few months (probably throughout the year 1851) Toppan Carpenter Casilear & Co., the engravers of the 1851 issue put no numbers on the stamp plates, using the imprint only. This was surely so with the 3c value and probably with the 1c and 12c.

The list follows. The numbers after many of the plate numbers given, refer to notes following the list, which explain many details.

Plate Numbers.

1851 Issue, Imperforate.
1c (issued July 1, 1851), 1 (1), 2 (2), 3 (3).
3c (issued July 1, 1851), U (3), X (4), Y (4), 1 (5), 2 (6), 3 (4), 4 (7), 5 (8), 6 (9), 7 (8), 8 (8).

5c (issued Jan. 5, 1856), 1.
10c (issued May 4, 1855), 1.
12c (issued July 1, 1851), 1 (10), 2 (10).

1857 Issue, Perforated.
1c 1, 2, 3 (11), 4 (12), 5 (12), 6 (12), 7 (13), 8 (14), 9, 10, 11 (12), 12 (15).
3c Type I, U (16), 2, 3, 4, 6 and two of the following 5 (17), 7 (17), 8 (17).
3c Type II, 9 (18), 10 (19), 11 (20), 12 (20), 13 (20), 14 (20), 15, 16 (20), 17 (20), 18 (20), 19 (20), 20, 21, 22 (20), 23, 24, 25, 26 (20), 27, 28.

5c Type I 1.
5c Type II and III 2.
10c Type I 1.
10c Type II 2, 3 (21).
12c 1 (22), 2 (22), 3.
24c 1 (23).
30c 1 (23).
90c 1 (23).

Plates Used for the 1875 Reprints.
1c New plate of 100 stamps without imprint or number.
3c New plate of 100 stamps without imprint or number.

5c No. 2.
10c New plate of 100 stamps without imprint or number.
12c New plate of 100 stamps without imprint or number.

24c No. 1.
30c No. 1.
90c No. 1.

NOTES.

(1) This plate probably had no number until late in 1851 or early in 1852.

(2) I have not seen this plate number but I know a third plate of the imperforate 1c stamp exists and suppose it to be No. 3.

(3) I called this plate "U" for "unnumbered" when I first discovered it, as I then supposed it to be the only plate with no number. This plate was put aside late in 1851 and not used again until 1856 at which time it probably had a number placed on it—either 5, 7, or 8; thus it will be understood that there were but 10 plates of the 3c Type I.

(4) Regarding the plates that I have called X and Y, I only know that these two plates were used to a very limited extent during the year 1851. I have stamps in the distinctive 1851 orange brown shade (also called the copper shade) showing pieces of imprint that do not match with any of the other plates mentioned. They almost surely never had any number.

(5) This plate probably was printed from several months before it had the number cut on it.

(6) This plate surely was used for a while before the number was added.

(7) The right pane of stamps shows the normal number—viz. "4." The left pane shows the number reversed.

(8) I have never actually seen any of these three numbers but I know that plates exist that would logically bear these numbers. One of these three numbers was probably given to Plate U in 1856.

(9) Have seen Plate No. 6 from the right pane only.

(10) I have never seen either of these numbers, but feel fairly sure that two plate numbers exist imperforate.

(11) Have never seen this number, but the same plate that I have listed as No. 3 imperforate, also exists perforated.

(12) Have never seen any of these plate numbers but they probably all exist.

(13) Have seen this number from the right pane only.

(14) Have seen this number from the left pane only.

(15) Have seen this number from the right pane only.

(16) This plate was probably numbered either 6, 7, or 8.

(17) Two of these three plates (which two I can't tell) exist perforated. Plate U is probably one of them.

(18) Have seen this from the right pane only. This is almost surely the first Type II plate. The numeral is reversed.

(19) Have seen this from the right pane only.

(20) Have not seen these numbers but it is practically certain that they all exist.

(21) Luff lists this plate and it may possibly exist, but I have never seen any proof of it. Mr. Luff tells me now that he thinks it quite possible that this number was listed in error.

(22) One of these (probably Plate 2) surely exists perforated and possibly both 1 and 2 do though I have never seen either number.

(23) Both the imperforate and perforated 24c, 30c and 90c come from the same plates—No. 1 in each case.

I have not attempted to state on which plates of the 1c, '51, '57 the various types are found as I want first to obtain a little more data.

The plate number was cut in by hand. "No" usually preceded it, and "P" standing for "Plate" often followed it.

IMPRINTS.

There were three different imprints used on the 1851-57 plates; the first and second varieties being made from the same transfer roll. The first read Toppan Carpenter Casilear & Co. Bank Note Engravers, Phila., New York, Boston and Cincinnati. The words "Bank Note Engravers" are in Gothic type and the balance of the imprint in Roman type. The imprint appeared twice on each plate—at the left of the left pane, reading down; and at the right of the right pane, reading up. It is always about in the center of the plate from top to bottom, and requires a vertical strip of four stamps to show it entire. This was surely used on most of the plates made for the imperforate stamps and probably on all of them. It certainly appears on Plate I of the 5c. Luff's list is in error in stating that this plate showed the second type of imprint.

The second type of imprint is the same as the first except that an attempt was made to leave out the word "Casilear" as this member of the firm had dropped out. The method employed was to rock the transfer roll on the plate so as to show "Toppan Carpenter" and then raise it and readjust it so that "& Co. Bank Note Engravers, Phila., New York, Boston & Cincinnati" followed. It was a difficult thing to do accurately and the result is that there is usually some evidence of the missing word in the altered imprint. The word "Carpenter" sometimes reads "Carpenterar" or "Carpenterr" the additional final letters being the remains of "Casilear." One other error in this imprint is found on the right pane of Plate 15 of the 3c, 1857. The last word of the imprint reads "Cincinnati" seemingly because of insufficient rocking of the roll.

I think all of the perforated issue (except those printed from the plates made for the imperforate stamps) show this second type of imprint, with the exception of Plate 12 of the 1c, Plate 3 of the 12c and Plate 1 of the 30c and 90c. These four plates show the third type of imprint. This reads "Toppan Carpenter & Co. Philadelphia" in colorless letters on a solid back ground. This is a shorter imprint than either of the first two, being but a trifle longer than the height of two stamps.

The writer would very much appreciate the loan of any of the following 1851 or 1857 plate numbers: 1c Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 (from left pane), 8 (from right pane), 11 and 12 (from left pane). 3c Nos. 5, 6 (from left pane), 7, 8, 9 (from left pane), 10 (from left pane), 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18, 19, 22 and 26. 5c No. 1. 10c Nos. 1 and 3. 12c Nos. 1 and 2. Also any piece of imprint on the 10c, Type I or on any 12c. Any such sent to my address, 1050 Park Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., will be examined and promptly returned.

No matter what you want in U. S., ask me! I have a splendid stock and my prices are fair, in any event they are so low that I seem to sell my good stamps as fast as I get them, and bear in mind every stamp is priced NET. So far as I am aware no other dealer in the U. S. prices his stamps at the price he expects to sell them for. Do you notice you get 10% off some fictitious price, this is if you "want" it, otherwise "we have sheets at 25%, 30% or 50%." Imagine yourself buying your groceries this way!!! I have one price to all and that price NET. The fact that you have the stamp on "want list" does not effect the price!!! On this basis I solicit your patronage.		Spain Morocco 1902, 10p.....	5.25

UNITED STATES STAMPS IN THE MAKING.

By WM. L. STEVENSON.

The relief lines are forced into the unhardened metal of the plate and displaced metal. This displaced metal "flows" locally into the recesses of the relief, and is raised locally above the level of the surface of the plate. At some point in the vertical motion of the roller, before it reaches 2/100 inch, the recesses of the relief will be filled with metal raised above the plate level, and the full penetration of the relief into the plate will not have been reached. This point depends on the average height of the relief and on the relative area of the design in relief to the area of the design rectangle. It doesn't seem possible that we stop here, but it is well to note that the impression in the plate is approximately three-quarters complete and that at this time there is no extruded metal at the edges of the design except part of that displaced by the marginal lines of the design. The displaced metal will remain above the plate level till the roller's motion has reached 2/100 inch when the cylindrical surface of the roller will be rocking back and forth at the plate surface. The displaced metal will then have no place to go except outside the design where it cannot stay locally ridged on account of the surface of the roller. Steel, however, is not like copper. It is somewhat malleable but has a certain stiffness, or rigidity, or resistance to flowing, I doubt whether we could force the roller surface to the plate level and there rock it with the entire relief impressed in the plate proper without actually deforming the plate by forming a slight bowl a little greater in area than the area of the design. Somewhere between these extremes seems the place to stop. In any case, I see no reason to expect any great amount of displaced metal adjacent to the design to interfere with our process. There must be some. The amount of this metal and the attendant difficulties of plate production have been greatly exaggerated by the "experts." These things must be considered, however, and we want more details regarding them. The relief we have assumed is undoubtedly abnormal and the difficulties would be less in actual practice than here indicated. How is the motion of the roller controlled and stopped? Is accuracy of depth obtained by direct observation of the workman? Where does the displaced metal go, how much of it is there, and how is it handled? What effect has the displaced metal from one entry on the difficulty of making an adjacent entry? Etc., etc., etc.?

Assuming that we have been able to get one entry as we want it, we enter the other 99 designs and have a plate of 100 designs in recessed lines, close duplicates of our die design.

DOUBLE TRANSFERS.

It is entirely possible to make such an error in transferring to the roller from the die. It is highly improbable that such a roller would be used and discussion of the possibilities would be useless at present.

The natural place to look for such errors is in the transfers from roller to plate. If in placing the roller for an entry a mistake is made in location which is not noted till after a partial impression is made, which is then corrected by raising the roller and correcting the location, followed by a complete entry, we have a double transfer. If after the plate is filled with 100 entries it is discovered that some design is not sufficiently deep, in attempting to correct this a mistake may be made in location and a double transfer results. In either case the results would be very similar except that in the latter the doubling would more frequently be general instead of local.

The relief lines on the roller represent inked lines on the stamp. The recessed lines of the plate represent identically the same lines. A second, but incorrect, application of the relief to the plate, in whole or in part, cannot but increase the amount of recessed surface of the plate, and the amount of inked surface of the stamp, and cannot, in any way, decrease the recessed surface of the plate or the inked surface of the stamp. On the very fine example of double transfer in the 10c, 1857, from plate No. 2 (No. 2R47), we have the effects nicely shown. Lines narrower in the direction of the error than the amount of the error are doubled. Lines and areas wider in the direction of the error than the amount of the error are widened. Oblique lines show variations, in degree. Level surfaces in the plate design, as shown in the letter faces of the value label, are reduced in area by the encroachments of the adjacent recesses. Duplication of the bare letter faces themselves, against the solid background around the lettering is impossible. Other stamps, as the 1c of the same issue where the background around the lettering is made up of fine lines, show so called doubling of the lettering. The bare surfaces of the letters are not doubled. What are doubled are the outlines and shadows of the letters. The ink lines are doubled. Specimens of the 10c, 1857, are frequently shown by well known companies as double transfers where the only thing to be noted is an absence of ink. I have seen this stamp noted as existing with the faces of the lettering "slightly repeated just below the letters of value." It does not exist. I have seen such a specimen in one of our largest collections, apparently O. K'd. by an "expert" as a double transfer, which shows, naturally, no indications of doubling of the lines of the design. In the same collection is a beautiful specimen of the No. 2R47 noted above and the contrast is interesting.

SHORT TRANSFERS.

Various statements have been made regarding these errors, most of which are wrong and based on lack of study of the facts. In the 1c, 1851-57, where the "experts" lay at the door of the short transfer most of the shortages at top and bottom, there is very little evidence of anything of the kind except in the early state of plate No. 1 and a few from plate No. 2. The later shortages are intentional and not due to errors in transfer. The shortages in plate No. 1 in its first condition are the only ones later recut as to top and bottom lines. No shortages in later plates of the value were ever so recut.

By short transfer is meant an entry on the plate from the roller in which the latter was not rocked sufficiently far to cover all the intended area and which fails to impress in the plate fully all the relief of the roller. It is easily seen that in the perfect case the shortage must come along a straight line, the line of extreme contact of the plane surface of the plate with the curved surface of the roller. In actual practice this is complicated somewhat but not greatly. In specimens where a short transfer is to be noted, the extreme lines fade out at the limit as would be expected. The top line in the 1c referred to is seldom fully broken. It is generally faint, apparently from being impressed in the plate so slightly that it held but a thin film of ink to go to the paper. Study of these shortages from these early plates is complicated by the fact that one of the two reliefs on the roller was short its top right corner and these shortages are naturally confused with those from short transfer by those who have not studied all the facts, and faulty conclusions are naturally drawn from the incorrect and incomplete observations.

On the whole, I should say that a specimen of any issue which is certainly short from short transfer alone is a real rarity.

WORN PLATES.

We have numerous statements about these also. On requesting information from several collectors, I found that the idea generally held, where there was any idea at all, was that plate wear was due solely to a gradual rubbing away, in wiping surplus ink from the plate with a rag, of a thin layer of the hardened steel extending over the entire plate, thus making the lines more shallow till they could not retain the ink against the wiping of the rag, and failed wholly or partly to print. This may be possible to some extent but I am afraid it would take some time to wear away a measurable layer of the surface metal. From study of the few specimens certainly from worn plates, I believe that most of the wear that makes it necessary to make new plates comes at the edges made by the junction of the level surface of the plate with the sides of the recesses. By this edge wear and small breakages, these lines are made relatively more shallow and the edges become more rounded instead of abrupt, till the lines fail to control the ink as they should. Some stamp lines are broken or missing. Some lines are wider than normal. We frequently find lines which are irregular at their edges, instead of clearly cut as in the first condition of the plate. I am satisfied that these details can be so described, in words of one syllable if necessary, that all of us can understand just what plate wear is, if someone will truly investigate and not simply guess.

NOTE.—Plate wear MUST be gradual. If we have a specimen from any period from any plate, which shows unmistakable signs of plate wear, we must be able to construct a series showing gradual deterioration of that plate. After 1860, most specimens which I have seen ascribed to plate wear are specimens where there is an absence of ink, to put it simply, which might be due to any one of a number of causes or to several at once. (See also later.)

MULTIPLE ROLLERS.

Having noted the effect of the level surfaces of the die on the roller in forcing back extruded metal, it seems quite possible that if we tried to take a second relief on the same roller with the narrow intervals of the early 1851 stamps we might find that the level surface of the die had, in making the second relief, flattened out the adjacent parts of the first relief. In the early use of the double roller, I have been unable to find distinct evidence on this point. In the use of the later four relief roller there is sufficient evidence that the successive reliefs were not so taken directly from the die to the roller. Instead, they took off a single relief roller and with this produced a plate of four designs in a vertical strip, an auxiliary multiple die. From this they had little difficulty in obtaining a four relief roller at one operation, with designs properly arranged and spaced. I might say in this connection that I have still to see any evidence of use of a five relief roller and that the evidence of use of the four relief roller is definite and conclusive.

Recently, in talking over these rollers with a collector, he suggested that if a two relief roller had been used on the early 1c, 1851 from plates No. 1 and No. 2, there should be no short transfers. It took me some time to get his idea which I finally found to be that the roller would in that case have been rolled continuously from top to bottom of each row without having to be raised and re-placed. This hardly requires much thought. The stamp design is about one inch high. A two relief roller for such continuous rolling would have to be so small that the two reliefs covered the entire circumference, with normal intervals in two places, about two inches in circumference and only about 1/3 of that in diameter. To my mind, the size of the roller is fixed by the curve that can be used most economically without getting too large a roller to handle. On a roller with this curvature, either one, two, or more reliefs were made at the proper intervals, the one, the two, or the four reliefs not covering the entire circumference. It is a certainty that the two relief roller was raised and re-positioned for each entering. It is also certain that the four relief roller was so raised after entering the top four rows and placed separately for the next four rows, instead of entering the top eight rows at one continuous performance. It requires but little thought to note the almost impossibility, even with modern tools and methods, of making a roller with any number of reliefs which could at one placing roll in one set of designs and then repeat. I would again repeat that the statement that a five relief roller was used for any plate of the 1c, 1851-57 and that this was rolled continuously from top to bottom of the plate, is not based on either observed or deduced facts and is a very haphazard guess based on slight study and faulty observation.

THE WISCONSIN STAMP SOCIETY.

By G. A. CHANDLER.

The Wisconsin Philatelic Society, which has been in the process of organization for half a year, held its first regular meeting in the Madison Free Library Building, October 2. A constitution was adopted and the following officers elected: George A. Chandler, Madison, President; Richard Marshall, Madison, Vice-President; Geo. Crownhart, Madison, Secretary-Treasurer; Lowell Ragatz, Prairie du Sac, Sales and Exchange Mgr.

Although the society has only a dozen active members at present, there are a large number of interested collectors throughout the state who, no doubt, will soon join us.

The advantages of the society are in general the same as those of any similar organization, but the aim in particular is to interest the younger, less experienced, and less well-to-do classes of collectors. These collectors can best be reached by a more local and cheaper society than the A. P. S., with which we do not intend to run in opposition. Beside the Library and Sales and Exchange Department, a department for answering the beginners' question, has been inaugurated.

All collectors over fifteen years who are resident in the state of Wisconsin are eligible for membership and such persons are requested to communicate with the secretary.

CARRANZA (MEX.) PROVISIONALS.

By CHAS. T. SKAINS.

Referring to my letter in regard to the Mexican Constitutionalist stamps, have this date received the following, 1c light green, 2c blue, 5c brown, 10c red brown, 20c green, 50c light blue, 5 peso carmine.

I am informed that these stamps are destined to become scarce owing to the fact that but very few have been printed and the use of same is quite limited, they being used locally only.

The stamps that I have just received have a perforated bottom similar to those of Belgium the bottom being one half by one inch and bearing this inscription "CENT 20 AVOS—EJERCITO CONSTITUCIONALIST—MEXICO" in three lines.

In Mexico these stamps are known as Carranzas.

DEATH OF JOHN ALEXANDER TILLEARD.

We deeply regret to have to record the death on Monday, September 22, of Mr. J. A. Tilleard, M. V. O., the distinguished philatelist who has had charge for many years of the stamp collections of His Majesty the King.

Mr. Tilleard was known to a very large number of philatelists as the Honorary Secretary of the Royal Philatelic Society, and in his capacity as adviser to the King on matters philatelic. A man of great tact, he enjoyed the confidence of King George, and his able conduct of the affairs of the Philatelic Society contributed in no small measure to the distinction which was conferred upon that institution by the late King in promoting it to the status of a royal society.

Mr. Tilleard joined the Philatelic Society on March 18, 1887, and in the following session was appointed to serve on the Committee. Two years later he succeeded the late Mr. Douglas Garth as assistant honorary secretary, and since 1894 he has been the honorary secretary.

On a number of occasions Mr. Tilleard had the honour of exhibiting portions of the royal collections on behalf of His Majesty at the society's meetings, and in reading papers or communications concerning the stamps thus displayed. He was not a contributor to philatelic literature on any large scale; his chief published researches be-

EDITORIAL

Philately's Wealth—The great International Philatelic Exhibition at New York is an amazing revelation of the resources of philately both to the collector and the general public alike; and the impression that the Exhibition will make will be an almost indelible one. The successful opening of the grand entertainment is a cause of much gratification to all philatelists and in due course, we shall give the details of the occasion so that those who were not privileged to see for themselves may hear it all through the WEEKLY. The New York newspapers have been liberal in their treatment of the Exhibition and the full-page illustrated article in the Times was a welcome tribute to the occasion.

The Cynosure—New York is the center of the philatelic universe for the time being and even Africa is represented among the visitors. The Exhibition presents an imposing scene as the rendezvous of collectors from home and from abroad; and the events of the week as a setting for the main feature, the Exhibition, will live in philatelic history. Fortunate are the collectors who did not stand on the order of going to New York but went; they are well repaid for the time spent at philately's shrine.

Our Special—The Special Exhibition Number of the WEEKLY was received cordially and we have reason to believe that it was not without its influence in making the visitors who may have been untutored in a philatelic sense feel that their visit was worth while. In fact, as a souvenir of the Exhibition, the special number will be kept for a time at least by those who had no conception of the publishing side of our pursuit. We are grateful for the commendations that have been received and are pleased to think we have been instrumental in contributing to the significance of the event.

International Philatelic Exhibition.

Our Mr. Eugene Klein will be pleased to meet visitors by appointment and show them several specialized collections and single rarities, also a fine stock-book of reasonably priced United States stamps.

EUGENE KLEIN, Inc.

13th and Walnut Sts., Empire Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

Departmental Order—The Third Assistant Postmaster General under date of October 7th, 1913, directs postmasters to discontinue sending in the special quarterly report cards detailing the parcel post stamps sold and parcel post due stamps used. "Postmasters will include parcel post stamps and parcel post due stamps with their ordinary stamps and due stamps in their quarterly stamp and postal accounts."

It Looks Right—From Charles A. Nast, Denver, Colorado, we have received a copy of a sanitary fair stamp that has been unnoticed hitherto in print. In our little book on the sanitary fair stamps of the civil war period, published a year or so ago, there appears under Stamford, Connecticut, the explanation: "Probably wood cut, violet brown. Fifteen cents." The design of the Stamford stamp that we are well acquainted with is a representation of a soldier on guard, with the tented field in the background, and above in a curved bannerette are the words: "Soldiers Fair." At top is "Stamford" and below, "Fifteen Cents." The label that Mr. Nast has sent is blue on green paper, a color scheme striking rather than harmonious. An examination of the stamp and a comparison with the genuine Stamford shows the stamp to have been printed from the same block or stone as the Stamford that collectors know. The label before us is canceled characteristically with a home-made obliteration; and it is our belief that this stamp is eligible for inclusion in future lists of the sanitary fair stamps. Mr. Nast can supply only the following information on the subject: "I do not know anything of the history of it except that it came out of a lot of letter-sheets and envelopes from Harper & Brothers, New York."

Never Circulated—When stamps of the 1861 issue, United States, pasted on strips of paper, were authorized by the Treasury Department for use as currency in consequence of the disappearance of specie at the outbreak of the Civil War, it was not long before attempts were made to provide protective coverings for the stamps. The Gault method of encasing is well known but we have before us a rectangular sheet of thin metal, with the edges at top and bottom turned forward so as to hold in place a piece of mica, under which are three unused 3 cent stamps of the 1861 issue. These stamps are imperforate at sides but they are perforated at top and bottom as we find by prying up the over-lapping edges of the metal. Further, we find that the stamps are backed by a little card on which is the injunction: "The dearest meat you ever bought is that your neighbor gave for naught." On the back of the case, the American eagle is stamped, flanked with many curlicues. We have been given to understand that this emergency money was never actually issued by the Treasury Department, although it was prepared for use. What impresses the philatelist, however, is that the stamps, in this case, are imperforate at sides but not at top and bottom when it seems as though it should have been more convenient to have inserted the stamps in the cover, if imperforate at top and bottom. We suppose that the stamps, originally perforated, were clipped but why they should have been clipped as described, by the Treasury Department is a matter for conjecture. The stamps in question are most beautiful impressions, rivaling those of proofs of early prints.

Settled for a While—We have heard the question asked particularly since the advent of the automatic stamp vending machines if it is not illegal to charge five cents for four 1 cent or two 2 cent stamps, for instance. On one occasion recently, a philatelic writer said that if the law was really strictly enforced, stamp dealers would not be allowed to charge more than face value for any United States stamps, unused, that are valid for postage. It is noticed that the Hon. D. A. Campbell, postmaster of Chicago, when asked if it was lawful to sell United States postage stamps at a profit made this formal answer: "It is not unlawful for any person not in the service of the government to sell postage stamps for more or less than their face value; but persons in the service of the government cannot under the law sell postage stamps for any other price than their face value."

Dealers Undisturbed—We have pointed out before that the law mentioned in the preceding paragraph was not applicable to stamp dealers. This was proved in 1895 when there was some scandal in connection with the 1894 unwatermarked dollar values U. S. which were set aside and sold by a clerk in the Chicago postoffice at a premium at the instigation of a stamp dealer, it was alleged. A newspaper "played up" the exposé at the time; and the clerk was disciplined but the dealer was not even warned. In the early days in California, unused postage stamps often were in great demand; and to prevent postoffice employees from taking advantage of the situation, the anti-premium law was passed. The growth of the Pacific Coast was so rapid that postal facilities could not always be extended to keep pace with it.

THE STEINMETZ EXHIBIT.

Joseph A. Steinmetz informs us that he intends to publish a pamphlet for free distribution at the Stamp Exhibition descriptive of the exhibit that he will enter for the Visitors' Cup. We have seen advance proofs of this pamphlet and have no hesitancy in urging our readers to give the Steinmetz exhibit an examination. We find it described as follows:—

"An hundred or so graphic pages, selected at random from a wonderland collection, Messengers from the Isles of the Seven Seas, from the Orient and the Occident and from the Polar Lands of the snows.

"Not just mere dead, dry, bone stamps but charming little talismans of the Arabian Nights of Stampdom; living vibrant happy children of the Fairy Kingdom of our entrancing Hobby."

THE GERM OF A COLOR CHART.

By LOUIS G. BARRETT.

The recently issued set of the Republic of Portugal adds some further fine self colors to the chart; barring, however, the values above 15c which are on tinted papers, which affects the purity of the colors. For the low values the list is as below:

1/4c brown-olive; the color of the ripe fruit.

1/2c black.

1c chrome green No. 3; a bluish green.

1 1/2c chocolate; a light purple-brown.

2c Carmine; a fine example.

2 1/2c dull violet; same as France 35c.

5c Prussian blue.

7 1/2c amber; about midway in tone between the raw and burnt pigments.

8c Payne's gray; or slate.

10c Rubens' madder; a brownish-orange.

15c Indian lake; almost a magenta.

In the set for Switzerland 1908-10, there are several further additions to be considered, namely:

2c bitumen; pale shades; too yellow to be called bistre.

3c dull violet.

5c chrome green, No. 2; a medium green.

20c scarlet-vermilion; (vermilion plus a pale yellow tint).

25c Prussian blue.

30c raw amber; (plus a pale green tint).

40c Type I; mineral violet (plus a yellow tint). The lighter tints of this color might be called lilac.

40c Type II; mauve (plus a yellow tint).

50c Prussian green; (plus a pale green tint).

70c Mars violet; (plus a pale yellow tint); a purple-brown.

1fr deen carmine; (plus a pale green tint).

3fr bitumen; (plus a pale yellow tint).

In the above lists practically all of the commoner colors met with are included, but there remain several which to many persons are difficult to identify, and as good examples of these which can be procured at a reasonable outlay, the following may be mentioned,—

Ultramarine—A blue with a reddish tone; 4c U. S. Columbian issue; Bosnia, 12h 1912; Crete, 25l of 1905.

Emerald—A green with a bluish tone; Norway No. 36b; the 50 stamp of 1883-4 is a good example.

Mauve—Italy, 50c of 1901 and Portugal 80r of 1895-6.

Bistre—The various shades of the 2c Swiss of 1882-1905 are good examples.Lilac—France 30c of 1902 (Scott's type A-19) is a cheap stamp in this color.

With these additions to the chart it should not be a difficult matter to determine with considerable certainty the correct color of a doubtful specimen. If, however, the exact shade is unmatchable in the standards named, it must be remembered that the addition of black to a pigment produces darker gradations in a color called shades; white similarly, white added gives the lighter tones called tints. Also that in a mixed color; that is one compounded of two or more of the primaries, if one of the pigments predominates it gives its name to the resulting color; as red-orange, an orange in which red overpowers the yellow; while yellow-orange is just the opposite, the yellow dominating the shade; so that in all these compounded shades so numerous used the second word of the hyphenated name should be the color with the preceding word as its modifying adjective.

A neutral tint is made by the dilution of black with white, giving gray, and it may be either a warm or cold neutral as either red, yellow, or blue (the three "primaries") may be added to the gray; and if a neutral is added to a pure pigment the result is a dulling of that color which in most cases is so baffling to describe.

It is hoped that these notes may be the incentive to some one "color inclined" to make selections from the commoner stamps which have a fixed character and so arrange them in a carefully graded scale that by its publication anyone could readily duplicate it at small expense and thereby have easily accessible a real color chart, and that the color terms in the catalogues be revised to more nearly approximate these standards than is now the case.

A DELICATE TOUCH.

"I am a young stamp collector and spend many happy hours in arranging all kinds of stamps. I have a thousand of various denominations and places. I should be grateful to any one who would send me United States stamps, foreign or revenue. Will not readers look over their old letters in chests? Be assured, I shall make no money by this. I keep all the stamps myself.—H. M. F."

The lad's address is with us. His request is reasonable and well put. Old stamps cost nothing except the trouble of taking them from envelopes.—Chicago Tribune.

OUR REVIEW.

"Stamps of the Levant Postoffices" is the latest publication in Bright's Philatelic Library. Vol. III is from the pen of D. B. Armstrong. It covers the field of the article by R. E. R. Dalwigk appearing in the WEEKLY for October 11, but in addition is nicely illustrated and contains as well pictures of the several postoffices referred to. The book is uniform with the two preceding volumes. Subscribers so desiring can obtain copies from the office of the WEEKLY, price 20c.

Wanted to Purchase, COLLECTIONS AND SINGLE RARITIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDERIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldredge lists the following new precancels:

Boston, Mass.—(No. 1164) 1c, 1913, San Francisco, 1c inverted.

New York, N. Y.—Same as (No. 1164) except that the letters are a little heavier, and a trifle taller. 5c 1910.

New York, N. Y.—Two lines, NEW YORK—N. Y., horizontal inscription in Italian capitals with serifs, between lines 11 mm. apart and 2 mm. thick, letters 3 mm. high. 3c, 4c, 1913, Parcel Post.

Kansas City, Mo.—(No. 1169) 4c 1913, Parcel Post.

Chicago, Ill.—(No. 1153) 3c, 20c, 1913 Parcel Post.

Toledo, Ohio—Horizontal inscription (TOLEDO—OHIO) between two lines 14 mm. apart, lines 1 mm. thick, sans serif capitals, 2 mm. high. 2c 1912.

Dayton, Ohio—Horizontal inscription (DAYTON—OHIO) between two lines 14½ mm. apart, lines ¾ mm. thick, letters with serifs, 2 mm. in height. 1c 1912.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Horizontal inscription (PHILADELPHIA—PA) between two lines, 12 mm. apart, lines 1¼ mm. thick, sans serif capitals 2½ mm. high.

Boston, Mass.—(No. 1164) 1c 1913, San Francisco.

H. M. Norton writes as follows:

"I have received today a 10c Panama-Pacific in a pronounced orange, on mail originating at some California office. This shade was announced some months ago as a coming stamp, and as being so different from the first issue in color as to warrant calling it an additional stamp in the series. Since then I have seen no mention of it anywhere,—except possibly that it was evidently not to be issued. We were informed locally at our Post Office last week that the Washington office had just advised our office that no such stamps had been issued to them for distribution. Now up crops California with exactly the stamp that 'has not been issued.' You may possibly have seen copies of it, and this will then be of no interest to you. Otherwise you may care to know they are out."

ABYSSINIA.—The stamps of 1909 have been converted into postage due stamps by surcharging them with a large round cornered triangle, containing the usual native word and a large "T".

CEYLON.—Edwin F. Sawyer has shown us new envelopes and wrappers, with portrait of King George.

Envelope.

6c red on cream.

Registration Envelope.

10c pale rose on cream; two sizes.

Wrappers.

5c olive on gray.

6c red on gray.

CHINA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us further values in the new series, the $1 and $10 being in the design of the $5 previously chronicled, the 6c and 8c like the 1c and 3c, but the 15c is in a different design, showing a coolie working in a rice field, with a temple in the distance. The inscriptions are the same as the other values, but the heads of rice are worked into the supporting pillars.

Adhesives.

6c dark olive.

8c orange red.

15c brown.

$1 yellow brown and black.

$10 green and black.

We are also indebted to R. Hartmann for information regarding the new Chinese stamps. The "Junk" type shows the Yellow River bridge in the background, with a train of cars passing. Mr. Hartmann's correspondent favors the belief that Japan's work in China will work good "in the end, as the Republic is not secure."

COLOMBIA.—Antioquia.—Jacob J. Groh submits a specimen of the 3c of 1902, with a large colorless defect at the lower right of the central figure.

Medellin.—Champion's Bulletin reports having seen the 1c, Scott's No. 411, in brown instead of purple.

EAST AFRICA AND UGANDA.—A new registration envelope has been issued for this Colony, with portrait of King George, on very thin colored paper. Edwin F. Sawyer has shown us a specimen.

Registration Envelope.

6c on blue gray.

ENGLISH COLONIES.—Whitfield King & Co. send us samples of the new colored papers for Colonial stamps, and write as follows: "We have received some news which we think will create a good deal of a stir among collectors. De La Rue & Co. are using an entirely new kind of paper for stamps printed on coloured paper. This paper instead of being coloured throughout is now perfectly white on the back, only the surface being coloured. The only stamps we have as yet seen on this new paper are the Jamaica 3d and Ceylon 2 rupees, both of which are on yellow paper. In both these cases the old stamps, yellow on both sides, are completely exhausted and we have no doubt they will become scarce, especially the Ceylon, the stock of which was mostly used for Revenue purposes. We believe you would find very few copies in dealers' shops in London. Whether the red, green or blue paper is to be similarly altered we do not yet know, but we should think it probable. The new St. Lucia 4d King George, recently chronicled, is also on this new paper, but it has not been previously issued on the yellow paper."

FRANCE.—Offices in Turkey.—The 15c Dedeagh stamp, Scott's Type A4, has been issued in a new printing and a new color, a copy having been shown us by William L. Aldrich & Co.

Adhesives.

15c orange.

Offices in Egypt.—A similar change is noted in the 15c of Alexandria, and evidently this marks a definite change in French Colonial printing.

GOLD COAST.—Whitfield King & Co. report the 3d on the new yellow-faced paper.

GREECE.—According to Champion's Bulletin the 1, 2, 3, 5, 10 and 20 lepta postage due stamps have been lithographed in the 1902 design.

GUATEMALA.—Jacob J. Groh has shown us the 2c on 50c of 1912, with the "1912" in the upper right corner showing a figure "1" under the "2."

HAYTI.—Whitfield King & Co. add the following to the list of new printings from the 1906 design:

Adhesives.

50c yellow.

1pi orange.

HONDURAS.—Two more values have come to hand in the new set, the 5c and 10c values having already been chronicled. Specimens in used form of the 6c and 20c values have been shown us by William L. Aldrich & Co. The 6c is in the type of the 5c as previously described, and the 20c in the type of the 10c.

Adhesives.

6c black.

20c red brown.

NEW PAPER FOR BRITISH STAMPS.

Collectors of Georgian Colonials who have taken all values as they have appeared at new issue rates may have reason to congratulate themselves, as we learn from Messrs. Whitfield King & Co., of an important development in connection with the manufacture of stamps printed in accordance with the Colonial Colour Scheme. It appears that the latest issues of stamps on coloured papers, emanating from the De La Rue factory, are produced by an entirely new process, the paper itself being merely coloured on the face, and not dyed completely through, as was the case with that hitherto employed. At present only the yellow paper is effected, but it is anticipated that the innovation will be extended in the near future to the red, blue and green coloured papers also. New printings of the 3d Jamaica and 2 rupees Ceylon just to hand, are in both cases on this surface tinted paper, the underside of the stamp being perfectly white. It is said that the stocks of these two stamps on the old yellow dyed paper are entirely exhausted, and in consequence they are likely to attain some scarcity, particularly the 2 rupees Ceylon, which was most extensively employed for revenue purposes.—Stamp Collecting.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES.

HUNGARY.—Mr. Schachne has received the new domestic reply card. Post Card.
5x3½ light green on buff.

ICELAND.—Whitfield King & Co. inform us that no more stamps of the last issue, with portrait of King Frederick VIII. are to be issued, but the stocks are to remain on sale until sold out. Those already exhausted are the 3a, 5a and 10a. The previous issues, with two portraits, will continue in use until the new stamps, with portrait of Christian X., are issued.

INDIA.—Jaipur.—Whitfield King & Co. send us a specimen of the ¼a in the new design Scott's A4, with the following information: "The stamp is printed by Thacker & Co. of Bombay, in sheets of 144, comprised of 12 panes of 12 stamps each. Ten sheets in our consignment were found with one of the panes inverted, the remainder being in the normal condition. A few sheets of this ¼ anna were printed in green by mistake, and a few were placed on sale, but when the error was discovered the remaining stock was withdrawn and burnt."

Cochin.—The stamps of the current issue have been overprinted "On C. G. S." for official use, according to Whitfield King & Co. The values so overprinted are the 4p green, 9p carmine, 2a gray, 3a vermilion, 6a violet, 12a blue, 1½r dark green. There appears to be some doubt of the existence of the high values without the service surcharge.

Nabha.—W. T. Wilson has shown us the 3p, ½a, 1a, 2a, 3a, 4a, 6a, 8a, 12a, and 1r ordinary India postage stamps, surcharged "Nabha—State" in two lines; and the 3p, ½a, 1a, 2a and 8a, with additional surcharge of "Service" for official use.

Gwalior.—W. T. Wilson sends the 4a and 8a ordinary postage surcharged "Gwalior" in English and also with the usual single line of Hindi characters. Mr. Wilson also sends the 3p, ½a and 1a stamps surcharged with two lines of Hindi for official use.

MACAO.—The new permanent set has been issued for this Colony, and specimens have been shown us by William L. Aldrich & Co., Whitfield King & Co. and The New England Stamp Co. The design is practically the same as the current series for the home country. The changes are that the value appears in tablets, instead of being cut into the background: the word "Correio" is cut into the background at the right, in small letters reading up. The name of the Colony, with a star at each end, is printed at the bottom, in the place occupied by "Correio" on the Portugal stamps. The stamps are perforated 15x14.

Adhesives.

- 1a olive brown.
- 1a black.
- 2a blue green.
- 4a carmine.
- 5a chocolate.
- 6a pale violet.
- 10a dark blue.
- 12a yellow brown.
- 16a slate.
- 20a orange brown.
- 40a plum.
- 58a violet brown on green.
- 76a brown on pink.
- 1p orange on salmon.
- 3p green on blue.

MARTINIQUE.—Jacob J. Groh calls attention to the fact that Scott fails to mention that the 15c blue of 1892 is printed on quadrille paper.

PERSIA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the first of the new series, the design being the same as the 1911 series, but with colors changed.

Adhesive.

- 6c green and red violet.

Champion's Bulletin notes that the 2c, 3c and 6c of the 1909 series have been surcharged "Relais," and that 1c, 2c, 6c, 9c and 10c of the same series have been surcharged "Service."

PORTUGUESE INDIA.—William L. Aldrich & Co. have shown us another value in the split provisionals, the 4½t of 1911, surcharged "Republica" being perforated vertically, each half being surcharged "1½ Reis."

Provisional Adhesive.

- On surcharged issue of 1911.
- "1½ Reis" on 4½t light green.

RIO DE ORO.—According to Champion's Bulletin the 3p of 1907 has been surcharged "10 centimos" in two lines, and also "Habilitado—para—15 cents" in three lines in an oval frame.

Provisional Adhesives.

- 10c on 3p green.
- 15c on 3p green.

ROUMANIA.—A large square label without value has been shown us by William L. Aldrich & Co. It is reported that the committee charged with the creation of a medal to commemorate the annexation of the city of Silistria to Roumania, has secured a concession from the Government to allow its correspondence to pass through the mails free. Therefore the issue of this label which has no face value, and is not available for public use.

SEYCHELLES.—A new King George registration envelope for this Colony has been shown us by Edwin F. Sawyer.

Registration Envelope.

- 12c dark blue.

SIAM.—Jacob J. Groh sends us a copy of the "1 Att" on 64a, Scott's No. 34 with an inverted "V" in place of the "A."

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the ½d stamp, surcharged "Official" in small Gothic type.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us further values in the new series for this Colony. The Watermark shows the head of a springbok or antelope.

Adhesives.

- ¼d green.
- 1d scarlet.
- 2d lilac.
- 2½d dark ultramarine.
- 3d vermilion and black.
- 4d yellow green and orange.
- 6d violet and black.
- 1sh orange.
- 2sh 6d green and purple.
- 5sh blue and claret.
- 10sh olive green and blue.

—We have received H. F. Colman's 1914 List, containing considerable valuable information. We note for instance the number issued of the several department stamps, which is of itself of sufficient importance to make the book a valuable addition to one's list of philatelic accessories. It is a pamphlet of 64 pages.

—V. D. Angerman, editor of the Youth's Magazine, commends the attitude of the WEEKLY as regards dishonest discounts in the November issue of his paper and pledges hearty co-operation.

—H. E. Huber, 5913 Rippey St., Pittsburgh, Pa., is engaged in writing up the stamps of the Cayman Islands and will be pleased to hear from any specialist in the stamps of these islands.

—George R. Tuttle is to sell the M. A. Lesser collection November 7 and 8, at his office in N. Y. City. It is a large general collection.

—The well-known Madrid dealer, Miguel Galvez, is to attend the New York Exhibition. There will be a notable gathering of collectors and dealers from Europe at New York.

—Rev. G. E. Richter sends us a lengthy clipping from the Hartford (Ct.) Courant, giving the particulars of the celebration of a half century of business by Silas Chapman, Jr., of that city. The article is accompanied by a picture of Mr. Chapman and concerning his hobby it states that "he has the finest and most complete private collection in the state, comprising 35,000 varieties."

—The appearance on September 1st of the stamps of the Union of South Africa wipes out Cape Colony, Natal, Transvaal and the Orange River Colony from the list of current stamp issuing states. This year has also witnessed the displacement of six Australian States from the same list in favour of one general series of stamps for the Australian Commonwealth.—Postage Stamp.

—The doings of the International Philatelic Company of Sheffield, England, have already been exploited in our columns. Some of our contemporaries very kindly inserted the firm's advertising without making any inquiry as to its reliability. The result was the victimizing of a number of collectors. We have received from Hamilton C. Macdougall full particulars justifying the charges laid at the door of this firm.

—"Will you ask the readers of the WEEKLY to write descriptions of different methods of keeping records of stamp collections? I know many collectors keep an accurate account of their stamps, the price paid, when, and of whom bought, and the catalogue values for successive years. I think some articles along this line would be interesting to many of your readers.—CATANO FRATUS.

—We have received from W. R. Ricketts Parts 7, 8 and 9 of his Philatelic Literature Bibliography List. It comprises pages 61 to 90 and the work is still in its infancy. It is certainly a monument to the energy and ability of its author, Mr. Ricketts.

—We are advised that the "Stamp Collectors Club of New Bedford" has been formed, eight being present at the organization meeting. The officers of the club are as follows:—Henry J. Knowles, president; Wm. H. Tilton, vice-president; and T. Wilson Williamson, secretary-treasurer. There is a goodly number of stamp collectors in New Bedford and we wish the club a large measure of success.

179 Broadway, NEW YORK

THE GREAT NEW YORK EXHIBITION.

OPENED UNDER MOST AUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCE WITH A BIG ATTENDANCE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—America's first International Philatelic Exhibition was opened at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Engineering Societies' Building, 25 to 33 West Thirty-ninth street. The hundreds of frames, containing hundreds of thousands of used and unused stamps whose total estimated market value is more than $2,000,000, were all in place when the doors were opened to the public.

The attendance was greater than even the most enthusiastic of the exhibition's officers expected, and unstinted praise was bestowed on the immense variety and attractiveness of the show.
The women visitors were almost as numerous as the men.

Henry J. Duveen's fine specimens of the unused one penny and two pence
"Post Office" Mauritius, the original issues of this British colony, were among the strongest magnets to the crowd of sight-seers. The value of each of these stamps is variously estimated at from $9,000 to $12,000. There is only one other unused copy of the one penny known, and it is in the private collection of M. Philippe le Renetiere of Paris. Other Duveen rarities, which attracted much attention, were the British Guiana issues, including the two copies of the provisional issue of 1856 on blue surfaced paper, and two copies on dark blue "sugar" paper. Mr. Duveen's rare Genevas were another feature.

The magnificent collection of United States and Confederate stamps owned by George H. Worthington of Cleveland, Ohio, also elicited heartiest praise.
Among them was the Alexandria, black on blue, the value of which is between $9,000 and $10,000.

Included in the other exhibits were the stamps of Great Britain owned by Sydney Loder of London and valued at $100,000; Charles Lathrop Pack's Canada, Cape of Good Hope, New Zealand, New South Wales, Liberia, and South America stamps; State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman's $25,000 collection of United States and British Guiana specimens; Clarence E. Chapman's United States Postmaster Carrier and Local stamps, valued at $80,000, and Dudley L. Pickman's miscellaneous stamps, worth $150,000.

D. Field of London made the interesting announcement that he had brought to this country the original plate from which the first Mauritius stamps were printed, and which is estimated to be worth $50,000. It is owned by Sydney Loder, whose intention is to present it to the British Museum, on condition that a reprint of this stamp shall never be made from the plate.

Among the visitors were F. J. Melville of London, editor of various philatelic journals and President of one of the leading stamp associations of Great Britain; L. L. Hausberg, also of London, and A. G. Heaton, President of the New York Numismatic Association.
Mr. Heaton is the artist from whose paintings the fifty-cent Columbian stamp and the ten-cent Omaha stamp were engraved. He said that the exhibition was the finest of its kind that he had ever seen.

In the evening the official opening exercises were held in the auditorium of the building. Addresses were made by Julius C. Morgenthau, Chairman of the Executive Committee; George H. Worthington, President of the exhibition;
Thomas W. Churchill, President of the Board of Education; Brig. Gen. Charles
A. Coolidge, President of the American Philatelic Association; Frederick R.
Cornwell, former President of the same association, and Joseph E. Ralph, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington. The last named gave a most interesting account of the methods used in the printing of postage stamps, and paid a glowing tribute to the loyalty and honesty of the 4,000 men and women employed in the bureau.
He said that the present exhibition was the most magnificent ever held; that the work of the engraver might most favorably be compared with that of the painter, and that philatelists were wedded not to a hobby but to a high art. He gave remarkable statistics as to the number of stamps issued annually and of the materials used in their production.—Sun.

1c 1879 (AMERICAN BANK NOTE CO.) HARD PAPER.

By DANIEL J. KAIB.

I am in a position to announce a most interesting and, to some extent, important discovery concerning a United States stamp, and incidentally to correct a false impression which prevails at present. I refer to the 1c value of the 1879 issue, printed by the American Bank Note Co.

Published opinions, including the very latest, concerning this stamp are to the effect that the American Bank Note Co. used "soft, porous paper" only. Mr. Power, in his book on U. S. Stamps, p. 51, says: "The American Co. never printed stamps on anything but this soft paper," and Mr. Goodwin, in his articles on "Specialized United States" (See the WEEKLY of Feb. 1, 1913, whole number 1153) says: "The old plates, used by the Continental Co. were employed at first, and the stamps were printed upon a soft, porous paper." To prove that these authorities, as well as others who have written concerning these stamps, are mistaken, I have in my possession a used copy of the 1c, 1879, with imprint of the Amer. B. N. Co., on hard paper. It is probably the only copy known and, in that case, a variety lacking in even the largest and most specialized collections of U. S. stamps.

Mr. John N. Luff, to whom I submitted the specimen for determination, states that he does not recall ever having seen one like it. "When the American B. N. Co.," he writes, "absorbed the Continental Co. in Feb., 1879, they, of course, took over the property of the latter Co. which would include paper. I can only conclude that some of the hard paper of the C. B. N. Co. was used by the A. B. N. Co. either by accident or to use up the stock, and your stamp is from such a printing."

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE LOST VOICE.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

I had just finished tidying up in the two rooms and the patio of the tent-house when Frevor Moore swung from his horse and headed for the hammock. "Oh! come with me and I will do thee good!" chanted Moore gleefully as we clasped hands.

"Thank you, no: I've been done twice this morning, and a third time will sure make me peevish."

Then we sat in the shade while Moore listened to the process, all of which shall be another story, "spoiled in the tellin'," as Jimmy O' would say.

"There will be a gathering o' the clans this morning," said Moore, when he was done laughing. "Jimmy O' will arrive, eventually, with Eddy Fyne, and when the day gets more feverish Johnny Williams will amble in on that pinto of his. You'll love Johnny. He is a college man who has sloughed his culture and talks Western as if he were to the manner born. It's the same thing with Jimmy O'. That boy is an undergraduate of a fresh-water college. In spots, you will recognize the culture he can't suppress. Johnny is different,—and, by the way: you're Ann Arbor born, and should know him or his people."

I raked my memory, but I could not recall the name, strive as I would.

We lazed in the patio the allotted time. Jimmy and Eddy Fyne were late. When they arrived, they tied their weary horses to the ground, and Jimmy O' began at once his usual monologue, where, evidently, he had left off pouring it into Eddy's unheeding ears:

"And say! He sure can sing! Why, that there Campanari who pulls 'em on their feet at the May Festivals can't hold a candle to him. No, sir. First time I ever heard 'im I sat on a rock an' wept real tears—me, Jimmy O'. It was at a Mexican kid's funeral. No one there but the kid's father an' mother an' sister an' Eddy here an' me."

"Me, too—I turned my back," as-severated Eddy, shamefacedly.

"And who," broke in Moore, "who may it be that has made Campanari a back number?"

"Johnny—Johnny Williams. An' while we wait, might I read somethin' fresh and startlin' in the Chiny surcharge column—or is it Greece today? or Montenegro?"

Jimmy rummaged among my philatelic papers and dug up his favorite. Eddy Fyne promptly fell asleep with a prehistoric metate for a pillow. Moore looked quizzically upon the somnolent Eddy, the literary Jimmy, and then sought solace in a long draught from the gourd at the olla. Then he lighted his pipe, and blew smoke rings till the air was full of them.

It was past noon when Eddy woke up, and Moore put away his pipe as Jimmy O' finished the last "ad" on the last page. Then we had lunch, the incomparable Eddy acting as cook and waiter. The siesta followed, and in mid-afternoon, when all were refreshed, I dragged forth the phonograph.

Let it be known that the phonograph is another story, but I'll tell it here, in part. It was camp property, once, held in common, to which a bunch of divers tastes had contributed cylinders. You might hear the raucous voice of a ballad-singer, or the wondrous notes of a grand opera star; coarseness and crudeness or fineness and finish; all were here, all dependent upon the taste of the record-buyer.

I wound and rewound the machine. Then finally we began the really excellent records. "Il Trovatore" was the first, and the galaxy lengthened with the day. When the last was ended, I looked at Jimmy O'. His face was a study. It was the surprise of my life,—the face of a man who knew music and loved it and who, I felt in my heart, would have his stained soul in it and die content.

Jimmy came to me at once and thanked me in a voice and with a manner I would never have associated with the Jimmy O' of a few hours ago. It was a new Jimmy O'—for five minutes. Then he broke the spell:

"Say! That sure fetched me. Haven't heard music like that these last six years."

Then Jimmy dragged forth the last WEEKLY, and began to study the small "ads" all over again.

A rush, a clatter, and a "yip! yip!" foretold the arrival of Johnny Williams.

As host, I hastened to the tie-rail. The arrival was off his horse; and just turning toward me. The profile! I spoke the name (not Johnny Williams) of a once very dear friend who had gone out of my life utterly. It was the man himself as I knew him twenty-five years previous—and this man before me was not a day older. This fact came full force as I apologized and led the way back to the patio.

The friend, I recalled, had a voice. He sang for the delectation of his friends, then in Glee Club. Before leaving college, he married a girl student in the School of Music. I left the old home. Next I heard of them in vaudeville, she as violinist, he as baritone soloist. When they were in New Orleans, the fever struck, and they went out together.

The voice of Jimmy O' recalled me from my reverie.

"An' when yon sun sinks to his rest, Johnny, me an' you an' Eddy will show that phonograph that it aint all the music in the world."

This was the nearest to self-praise I had ever heard from Jimmy O', and I knew he never was far off the trail.

The sun touched the horizon, purpling the peaks, sank, and as the afterglow began to fade, the silence fell upon us.

Jimmy O' stood by Johnny, who leaned lightly and alertly against the post of the patio. Eddy lounged near by. Upon the soft Summer air there fell unheralded a breathy note, the "Toreador," followed by the song in purest Spanish. I have heard Campanari, but never like that! It was the sweetest, richest, deepest, fullest baritone God ever put in mortal body! And from a cowboy at $45 a month! Why, he might be earning twice that sum in a half hour! The song ended, and again silence fell.

Then Jimmy O' started a cowboy song, in which Eddy and Johnny joined. Eddy had a fair bass, and Jimmy a sweet tenor which he would shift to soprano when the mood pleased him. Then Jimmy imitated a duet, tenor and soprano, which was funny as could be and surely would have been a hit in vaudeville.

An hour or so of song, then the silence fell again. Johnny finally broke it: "We'd best be going." I begged one more song. It was his choice, but one I knew full well,—and as the notes of "Lead, Kindly Light" rose and soared and died away, I was transported. It was her song, and his—sung many a night in the Athens of the West, on the old campus. And oh, the mist in the eyes,—the catch in the throat!

"That was my mother's favorite,—and my father's," said Johnny, as he leaned from his horse to say good-bye. "You—you called me by his name. He wanted me to forget it. I use his mother's maiden name, now, until I come into my own."

Then he rode away,—"into his own!" Moore looked after the three friends as they disappeared into the dark.

"Poor chap! He'll never sing like that again,—and he knows it. And the 'glory that was Greece' is denied him, even as 'the grandeur that was Rome' can never be his except in dreams. Poor pariah! Sweetness and light are his lode-stars,—his reward ashes and myrrh. He has an incurable disease of the vocal chords, which, at times, causes him wholly to lose his voice. Then it comes back again, and his song is heavenly. Each time the loss is greater, and on the return his song grows sweeter. But tonight!"

Moore shivered slightly. The slow sound of hoof-beats came to our ears.

It was the saddest man's face I have ever seen,—the face of a man stricken,—which confronted us as, into the light of a hastily ignited candle, Jimmy O' and Eddy Fyne supported the figure of Johnny Williams. From his lips a stream of crimson flowed steadily as the face grew whiter. We laid him upon my cot and succeeded finally in staunching the ebb of the life-stream.

It was a fortnight before Johnny Williams was able to be about. Tender nursing by his friends was responsible for that. Another fortnight and he was fit as of old, but his singing voice was gone utterly. Johnny was the cheerfulest of the five, however. Jimmy O's heart seemed broken, and his vein of humor sealed.

It was Jimmy O' who, the day the four started for Moore's ranch brought forth the stamp collection referred to in a previous history, and, putting it in Johnny's hands, said whimsically:

"We'll own it together, Johnny—an' in hist'ry it'll be referred to as 'the famous collection of the two J's.'"

PRE-CANCELLED PARAGRAPHS.

By JOHN A. SOLOMON.

Precancels have surely stood the acid test to the entire satisfaction of all their partisans. Although the present year has been one of great productiveness the precancel appetite seems a long ways from being satisfied. Much less than a decade ago precancel news and advertisements were unknown but the delight of precancel collecting was not to be denied and after a few years of persistence precancels came into their own.

Today, precancel news abound in nearly all philatelic publications. That precancels have retained their popularity for so long a time, proves convincingly that they are a certainty with a splendid future before them.

The regular office stamp precancelling practice is still maintained by some of our principal cities in conjunction with the regular precancelling method. New York and Chicago have used this system for some time and Boston has added itself to this group. Aside from the regular office stamp, Boston has also contributed one from Roxbury Crossing Station recently.

Even Goldfield, Nevada has now a precancel. I wonder if they use it for sending out samples of "gold dust" to prospective mine buyers? Now that Goldfield is in the precancel fold, it wouldn't be surprising if Nome and Dawson were soon heard from.

It isn't the sample bottles of pills and medicine I miss but the monthly dated precancels that brought them from Binghamton so regularly.

The Post Office Dept. has announced that precancelled stamps can now be sold to the general public at all times instead of in large quantities as formerly required. The stamps may be used on newspapers, packages and all kinds of second, third and fourth class matter but will be recognized only at the office where issued. This departure is sure to cause a greater demand and will be gladly welcomed by all precancel adherents. Thus precancels again demonstrate their great time and labor saving qualities.

New York has used millions of precancels but not until recently was any denomination above 3c used. A short time ago some of New York's large mail order houses concluded they could not do their business with only the small value stamps and now 4, 5 and even 10c stamps are arriving from this city.

St. Joseph, Mich., which has not issued precancels in nearly a decade has recently brought out an entirely new type. Brooklyn, N. Y., which hasn't used precancels in over five years has also resumed them.

Despite the tariff agitation shoe business in Brockton must be good if the use of precancels form any criterion. For a long time Brockton's shoe advertisements were well taken care of with the 1 and 2c stamps but now the 3, 4 and 5c values are required to meet the demand of trade.

Our Parcel Post stamps have opened up a field far beyond the expectations of their most sanguine adherents. Nearly all the larger cities and even some of the small towns are precancelling the Parcel Post stamps and some cities have even prepared a special type for this use alone.

Up in Canada precancels have also taken firm root and King George's domain is now represented by nearly all its principal cities and towns aside from "Medicine Hat," "Moose Jaw" and a few others of lesser note.

Covington, Kentucky, is still leading collectors a merry pace to keep up with its activities. For the past few years Covington has been showing all sorts of types and printings and recently sprung another new font. It is interesting to observe the original types of Covington, Newport, Ky., and Cincinnati, all of exact type. These cities are located closely together and this probably accounts for the similarity of type.

Foxboro, Mass., is a little town but now boasts of two distinct precancel types in two years of precancel use.

With the great number of new issues constantly increasing, it is my belief that 10,000 varieties will soon be a possibility and that some live collector will soon be claiming this coveted figure.

When it comes down to the title for use of high denominations even Chicago must bow before Philadelphia for the City of Brotherly Love easily absorbs more 50c and $1.00 stamps than any other city.

I wonder what has become of the various sub-station office precancels which were so numerous a few years ago? New York, Boston, Detroit, Buffalo, Chattanooga and other cities all had them but today they are practically relics of the past.

PROSPECTIVE GOVERNMENT EXHIBITS.

Ever since the Exhibition project was first broached it has been the ardent wish of all who are intimately interested in its success that the Government at Washington might be prevailed upon to lend the affair its sanction and support—at least to the extent of sending thither some special exhibits, selected from the store of choice and interesting philatelic items owned by the Government. This wish, we can now definitely state, is to be realized. Mr. J. M. Bartels, acting as Ambassador Plenipotentiary to Washington on behalf of the Exhibition, has secured the co-operation of both the United States National Museum, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and both are to send to the Exhibition special displays of an interesting character.

It has been determined that it would serve no useful purpose to show on this occasion any of the Government's philatelic possessions that follow the ordinary lines of regular stamp collecting—that is, that private collectors would have equal facilities for procuring, and have in some cases procured. Even the greatest rarities the Government might show in regularly issued stamps would simply duplicate some of the choice items in the Worthington, Ackerman and other great collections of the United States stamps. The Government is, therefore, to display at the Exhibition only such things as no private collector possesses—only items that are to be found nowhere in this country save in the Government repositories.

A number of men prominently connected with the Government production of stamps will attend the Exhibition, notably Mr. J. E. Ralph, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; Mr. Rose, chief of the Engraving Division; Mr. Benjamin Stickney, mechanical expert and designer of the Bureau (inventor of the much talked-of rotary press), and others.—Philatelic Gazette.

U. S. BOOK LEAVES

The collection of stamp book leaves is now considered a necessary part of the Specialist's studies. I have been fortunate in securing a considerable quantity of earlier ones and offer:

1902—2c flag type, single panes:—
 Well centered, line variety.....$1.50
 Trifle off center, line variety .. 1.25
 These are the rare carmine lake.

1903—2c shield type, single panes:—
 With plate number, well centered 1.25
 Same, trifle off center 1.00
 With line between50
 Normal, eight shades, per pane .35

Will send a selection of the above, and others of which I have too few to advertise, to responsible, earnest collectors.

Have you filled your vacant pages with the scarce imperforate line varieties? I have mounted up books containing center blocks, arrow blocks, corners, plate numbers, etc. Can also supply a few books with government and private part perfs. Very full in the rare earlier issues. What else can I show you? Give good references or A. P. S. number.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Linotype Bulletin for October contains an article, "Stamped Envelopes and Postage Stamps," by Wm. E. Marsh. We are indebted to Chas. H. Smith for a specimen copy.

—We regret to state that the trade advs. of two regular advertisers were omitted from our issue of Oct. 18. The two advertisers who suffered were Paul W. Riedell and Fred E. Prohaska. We regret very much the unfortunate occurrence, which was due to the tremendous pressure under which the issue was brought out.

—We have received from D. C. Bartley, secretary of the Washington state Philatelic Society, the particulars of the surcharging by the Seattle postmaster of 1c and 2c ordinary postage for use as Postage Dues. Mr. Bartley submits specimens, the words "Due—Cents" being printed by means of a rubber stamp. We quote from Mr. Bartley's letter as follows:—

"All together there were about two hundred 1c and two hundred and fifty 2c stamps thus surcharged and of this number there were left twenty-three 1c and thirty-five 2c when a supply of the regular due stamps arrived from Portland, Ore. The remainders are in the hands of members of the Society."

These stamps are of interest, particularly to Seattle collectors, but this use of ordinary postage as postage due is by no means a new proceeding.

—H. A. Fowler of Chicago was a recent caller at the WEEKLY office.

—We are advised that E. H. Gamman, Jr., who has been located at Newark, N. J., will remove to N. Y. City January 1.

—The greater part of C. B. Bostwick's South Australian collection is being sold by B. L. Drew & Co. This collection is said to be one of the best of its kind that has been offered here in the U. S. for several years.

—The Geo. W. Linn Co. is sending out a blue enamelled button, a facsimile of the gold button, the emblem of the A. P. S. The price is 12c prepaid.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from A. W. Filstrup.

—We welcome back to our columns the Kankakee Stamp Co. of Kankakee, Ill. The moving spirit in the company is our old-time philatelic worker, S. E. Moisant, and associated with him are three other stamp men of that city. We bespeak for the new firm a goodly patronage.

—We are advised of the existence of a very live philatelic society in Shanghai, China. At present thirty active members are enrolled and the membership is increasing so fast that a club room is being talked about. The secretary assures us that matters philatelic are very promising in Shanghai.

—The Detroit Philatelist with its motto "Good value is good business" comes to us from the Robt. Millard Co., 325 W. Ferry Av., Detroit, Mich. It is a house organ but in it are numerous chunks of wisdom that will make it worth while for the reader to send a post card for a sample copy.

—The Maximus A. Lesser collection, including a fine line of U. S. in all its branches together with a general assortment of foreign, will be sold at auction by Geo. R. Tuttle, 116 Nassau St., N. Y. City, Saturday, Nov. 8. Mr. Lesser has contributed much to the columns of the WEEKLY and no doubt many of our readers will be glad to know more about this sale. A post card will secure a catalog.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Rochester Philatelic Association was held Wednesday evening, Oct. 22nd, at the Club Rooms. F. E. Merritt showed his collection of unused U.

UNITED STATES STAMPS IN THE MAKING.

By WM. L. STEVENSON.

PLATE ERASURE.

We are told that erasure on the plate is impossible. Consider. The lines on the plate are in recess below the general surface. We are told of erasure of guide lines, etc., but that the design lines cannot be erased. The only way in which any recessed lines could be "erased" would be by some method of filling in. This requires adjacent raised material for the filling, and the difference between guide lines and design lines is one of degree and not of kind. There is plenty of evidence in nearly all our stamp issues to indicate that some "erasure" is possible. Just how this was done remains for some one to dig out from the knowledge of some of those actually producing stamps.

INKS, ETC.

Printers' ink is not a liquid but more nearly a paste. It has many of the characteristics of a varnish except that it runs more to oils and fats and less to gums and balsams. Ordinary job-printing from type faces requires, among other things, an ink which must not stick to the metals but which must stick to the dry paper and which must dry in a reasonable time.

Printing from line-engravings, requires a somewhat similar ink as it must not stick in the recessed lines and must stick to the paper. The process apparently requires, for first class results, that the paper be thoroughly moistened throughout and that it be applied with considerable pressure.

When we took our perfect print from our perfect die some time back we obtained a perfect CAST of the lines of the die. If the ink then dried without being pressed it remained a cast, above the level of the paper. This may not be exact in practice. Pressure in drying and straightening the paper may roll out some of the heavily inked lines, making them wider than they were intended to be. We must not look for absolute uniformity of ink in practice, either as regards composition or physical condition at the time of use. If a sticky ink were used it would certainly come away from the plate poorly and would smear. If a drier were used, we might find many absences of ink due to too quick action of the drier before application of the sheet to the plate. Lack of uniformity of moistness in the paper also has its effect. (NOTE.—In a steel line-engraving, some of the picture effects possible to the process are to be obtained as much by varying the thickness of the layer of ink applied to the paper as by the relative areas covered by the ink.)

There are tricks in all trades and as a commercial proposition there are many things that affect the product of which we will probably never be told, but there is no good reason why we should not know more of our subject than we do, and not have to depend on snap-shots by persons who have really not studied the subject deeply but who have a reputation to sustain. The only reason for our haphazard expertness from which our catalogues and our check-lists are now suffering is that the ideas of the experts have not been questioned by students. It is high time they were questioned. If any accepted ideas can be endangered they need to be endangered for the good of the hobby.

Another little example. Aside from some of more recent appearance, one of the funniest things I ever read is a statement by one of our authorities regarding certain "ribbed" effects as seen in some of the departmental stamps, to the effect that, "These are not the real thing, i. e., ribbed papers, but were caused by the fibres of the cloths, which were used in wiping the plates and which drew the ink into slight ridges". Can you imagine it? Wonderful is "instinctive expertness". It would be very interesting to have a careful statement of the facts to be noted on the faces of the stamps in question which could lead to any such deduction. QUESTION.—Of what value is that philatelic expertness which can father such a statement in all seriousness?

A little further on plate wear. Anyone who has studied our stamps at all must have noted that in many specimens there is an embossing of the design lines above the face of the paper and corresponding indentations in the backs. This varies in different specimens in degree but is generally present to some extent in all specimens. This comes from the fact that considerable pressure is used in applying the paper to the plate and the paper is actually pressed into the recessed lines of the plate to such an extent and so sharply that later pressings failed to remove the effects. Here, to me, is a possible source of our greatest plate wear. This pressure of the paper against the sharp edges, together with a certain amount of sliding friction of paper on metal, seems to me to be the severest test to which the steel can be subjected during the process of printing as we know it. There must be wear from this cause and possibly this is the greatest factor in the gradual plate deterioration. Let's have some light on this point also.

A confession. I have never seen and examined a die, a roller, or a plate from which any of our stamps are descended. My conclusions are drawn entirely from actual study of the product as affected by the process of production, some mechanical knowledge, some knowledge of behavior of materials under different circumstances, etc., and while I may be in error in some things, the statements made are carefully considered and thoughtfully criticised. Here, possibly, is an excellent opportunity for those whose ideas regarding our stamps I have been criticising, to "show me up". I only hope they find time and inclination to try it. We want facts from any source. We want no further guessing. We want no further "mysterious expertness." It is unnecessary, to say the least.

S. and Colonies. It became lively and interesting when Pres. Richardson auctioned off a collection of stamps by countries. Paul C. Wild and H. J. Haddleton were appointed a permanent auction committee. Members desiring to dispose of stamps by this method should send same to one of the above. The charges are only 10% of the gross receipts.

WM. M. McCUTCHEN.

W. F. Slusser of Key West, Fla., writes as follows:—

Wm. M. McCutchen of Plainfield, N. J., and Belmar, N. J. is the American Secretary of the Modern Collectors' Philatelic Exchange Club, of London.

I have an account against him to the net amount of $44.55, and have been trying to effect a settlement since June last.

Letters have been addressed to McCutchen, as follows:

June 15, 1913. No reply.

August 5, 1913. No reply.

August 19, 1913. This letter was registered, and went to Plainfield and was forwarded to Belmar. It was returned as unclaimed on September 9.

September 2, 1913. This letter was registered and sent to Belmar, and on September 20, a return card, signed by McCutchen, was received back. On Sept. 25 a letter was received from McCutchen, briefly stating that he was too busy to attend to correspondence; that fishing was very good, and that if the undersigned did not hear from him at the end of three weeks, to write again!

Canadian and English correspondents report that they are unable to get any answer to correspondence addressed to McCutchen.

BEAUMONT, TEX., Oct. 11, '13.

Editor MEKEEL'S:

In the editorial columns of your Philadelphia contemporary, issue of Sept. 13th, Mr. Mann, in writing of the temptation to re-use the precancels authorized by a late order of the Postmaster General, states very positively that "the greatest danger lies in the re-selling of the stamps by the stamp clerks at the stamp window."

I became very much "agitated" on reading this, as I am a post-office clerk. To me it was a ridiculous statement. Why should stamp clerks be more easily tempted than the public. A stamp clerk is in a position which encourages, requires, and compels honesty. If he is caught cheating the government or the public, his job doesn't last a minute.

These precancels are not good everywhere. Can only be used at the office of issue, and only on outgoing mail. The stamp clerk would have to arrange to get these stamps back from other cities, re-gum them, and then work his nerve up so that he could offer them over the stamp counter. And remember Uncle Sam is going to be on the job watching all the time.

Mr. Mann might suggest that counterfeiting is going on in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington, it would be as reasonable.

Finally, lets all spell the word "precanceled" with just one 'l.' The Government does it, and Webster does it, so it must be right.

C. B. MEGARITY.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., 10-15-13.

Dear Mr. Wylie:

I did not know that you would want to publish the list of my exhibits, so I did not write them out as carefully as I otherwise would have done.

In the single issue class please substitute the following for the Uruguay, Diligencia description which I sent you and oblige:

Uruguay "Diligencia Issue" 1856—A specialized collection of the 1856 or Diligencia stamps of Uruguay. Attention is called to the plating of the 60 Centavos of 1856. A diagram shows the varieties that have been definitely located, including some that are in other collections. There are complete reconstructed plates of the 80 Centavos and 1 Real, together with displays and descriptions of the different plate varieties. There is a block of 4 of the 80 Centavos, and unique in this condition. There is also the celebrated block of 13 of the 80c. This is also unique. There are no known blocks or pairs of Diligencia stamps other than those in this collection. Attention is called to the exhibit of corresponding plate varieties in the 60 Centavos, 80 Centavos, and 1 Real values.

Also in giving you the list of my exhibits the other day I omitted the following in class G., specialized single issues:

Brazil—The issue of 1891 including a study of the inverted frames and inverted heads. The exhibit is mounted on some sixty oriel pages and discloses considerable information in regard to the stamps of this issue that has not hitherto been made public, or referred to by philatelic writers.

Yours very truly,
CHAS. LATHROP PACK.

PERRY, O., Oct. 18, '13.

To the Editor:

The Southern Philatelic Association has for several months past made the claim that it is the fastest growing stamp society in America. This is not an idle statement, but a fact proven by figures.

In the issue of your paper for Oct. 4, I note the report of the convention of the National Philatelic Society and a statement to the effect that it is the fastest growing society in America. That this claim cannot be supported PORTUGAL—ST. ANTHONY ISSUE.

Many countries have placed religious emblems upon their stamp issues, some because of the significance of the emblem itself and some because it formed part of the insignia of the State. It has remained for Portugal, however, to exploit the life of one of the Saints of the Roman Catholic calendar, St. Anthony of Padua, upon a series of stamps issued in 1895 to commemorate the seven hundredth anniversary of his birth.

Though now connected mainly with Italy, where he is buried, he was born of a noble Portuguese family in Lisbon and was christened Fernando da Bulhoes. This event took place on August 15, the date of the Feast of the Assumption, in 1195 A. D. When ten years old he began his religious life and five years later entered a monastery. In 1220 he joined the Franciscan order of friars and then became known as Brother Anthony. Soon after he was ordered to Africa, then went to Sicily, and finally began preaching in Italy and later in France. Many miracles are recorded as having been performed by him during his ministrations, and one of these is pictured on the stamps.

It is said that he was once in the town of Rimini, and that the people refused to listen to his preaching. He therefore went to the seashore and called upon the fishes to come and hear what he had to say. They came in shoals at his bidding and ranged themselves in front of him while he preached a sermon to them on the benefits they had received from God. When he had finished his discourse the fish lowered their heads as if to receive the benediction and he dismissed them with the sign of the cross. The heretics were naturally much disconcerted at this exhibition and many returned to the fold.

Another stamp shows the vision of the Saint. The story runs that in November, 1227, he paid his first visit to Padua, where he lodged in the house of Count Tiso di Sampiero. One night as the Count passed Anthony's room, he saw a brilliant light shining under the door.

may be seen in the following figures:

In the report of the S. P. A. published in the September West 42 persons applied for membership, while the report of the N. P. S. in the V. E. Philatelist for September showed 16 applications for membership. In the October West there are 48 applicants for membership in the S. P. A. while the report of the N. P. S. for the same month shows 17 applicants.

C. V. WEBB,
Sec.-Treas. Southern Phil. Assn.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, '13.

To the Editor:

Relative to the stamp dealer problem I would ask about the trouble of re-filling approval books or sheets from which some stamps are sold. For example a dealer sends out an assignment of say ten approval books of 100 stamps each, 1,000 in all. The customer to whom they are sent purchases a couple of hundred stamps, more or less, taking them partially from all of the ten books. Now when the books are returned to the dealer he has his ten books each with from one to a dozen empty spaces. In order to have the books neat and attractive these empty spaces must be refilled or the whole thing removed to a new approval book. Unless he has duplicates of the stamps sold to replace them with he will have to erase the price of the stamp sold and replace it with that of the new stamp now to be put in its place. This is not easy and makes a smear. And to Looking through the keyhole he beheld the Christ Child standing upon the book which the Saint had been reading, with its arms about Anthony's neck and whispering divine secrets in his ear.

St. Anthony's ministrations ceased in 1231, when he died at Padua, the city which seemed to have the strongest attractions for him. He was at once canonized and his tomb may be seen in the city of his choice. The third type of stamp shows the ascension of St. Anthony. Rising through the clouds towards a glory above him, he is accompanied in his journey heavenwards by an angel on either hand.

The fourth type of the series gives a copy of what is claimed to be an authentic portrait of the Saint, a painting which is at present in the Academy of Fine Arts at Paris. He is represented with his right hand raised in blessing, while his left hand holds a spray of lilies.

But perhaps the most curious thing about this stamp issue is the fact that there is printed upon the back of each label, in small blue letters, the following inscription:

Centenario de Santo Antonio

MCXCV * MDCCXCV

O lingua benedicta quae Dominum semper benedixisti et alios benedicere docuisti: nunc perspicue cernitur quanti meriti fueris apud Deum.

S. Boaventura.

which is translated "Centenary of St. Anthony, 1195-1895," followed by this prayer of St. Bonaventure:

"O blessed tongue, which has always blessed God and taught others to bless him; now will it be clearly seen how much merit thou hast in the presence of God."

The stamps were on sale from June 13 to June 30, 1895, and meanwhile various fêtes were given in honor of the memory of this pious son of Portugal, even though his labors were for another land where he lies buried and which has adopted him as her own.

replace from 75 to 95 stamps into new books takes a long time.

For exchange purposes I made approval cards with transverse pockets like a stock book but the pockets a little further apart. Then I had a lot of oblong pieces of paper cut, slightly wider than a stamp and an eighth of an inch longer. On these pieces of paper I hinge my stamps, leaving the eighth inch of the card project beyond the top of the stamp and on it I write the prices etc., thus not marring the card at all. The piece of paper with the stamp hinged to it can be slipped in the pockets as in an ordinary stock book and can be changed about or replaced without trouble and without marring the approval card at all. Another advantage is that by letting the paper slip into the pocket and the stamp on the outside of it the whole of the stamp may be seen instead of only the projecting top.

EDITORIAL.

Consummation—The International Philatelic Exhibition is over but the philatelic event of the decade will live in the memories of those who participated in the great celebration and in those, we are sanguine enough to say, who as outsiders visited the display. The Exhibition has accomplished its purpose right nobly, which was to illustrate the wonderful growth and refinement of philately to collectors themselves and to proclaim to the public the greatness of philately, a pursuit so potent that it can attract to its standard men who may be said almost to dedicate their wealth and time to stamp collecting. Some of the seed sown so bountifully by the Exhibition has fallen on productive soil and for long time to come, the stimulating effects of the Exhibition will be apparent.

Aftermath—In the wake of the Exhibition there will be much to hold the interest of the philatelist. The awards will be a topic for discussion and the medal-winners will be brought forth prominently on the philatelic stage. The publicity given by the New York newspapers will have an echo in the press of the entire country. The personal side of the Exhibition has been a singularly happy one and the presence of distinguished foreign visitors loaned a decided distinction to the occasion. The attendance from outside points demonstrated that the magnitude and the significance of New York's celebration was appreciated. The Exhibition was instrumental in beginning many friendships and the whole philatelic community has been benefited by the great event.

A Big Time—On October 10th, 1858, or fifty-five years ago, the first overland mail from California was delivered in St. Louis amid an outburst of popular rejoicing; and in another column, we shall try to make room for an interesting bit of correspondence on the International Philatelic Exhibition.

Our Mr. Eugene Klein will be pleased to meet visitors by appointment and show them several specialized collections and single rarities, also a fine stock-book of reasonably priced United States stamps.

EUGENE KLEIN, Inc.

subject, clipped from a St. Louis newspaper and sent us by Mr. Wm. F. LaForce.

Date Discrepancy—We have found one of the old Sardinian letter-sheets with the 50c impression in blue, design of "Cupid post-rider" which bears postmarks of the date of 1817. As these fiscals were not used until 1819, according to the catalogues that list them, the inference is that there must be something irregular about the letter-sheet in question, which is addressed to Paris and has all indications of genuineness.

Side By Side—Some time ago, Mr. E. A. Steiner, Seattle, Washington, sent us two envelopes both of which bore a two cent U. S. and a two cent, Canada, King George, in the upper right hand corner. We have been a long time in getting an explanation for the use of both stamps on the same envelope; and we have been told that mail originating either in the American or British spheres of sovereignty in the far northwest when transported on a Canadian steamer or mail deposited on a Canadian bottom and addressed to a point in the United States must be prepaid with both stamps; and when the conditions are reversed and an American boat carries the letter destined for a Canadian city, the same terms apply. It must be that these are ship letters. The letters before us were sent from the Yukon district to Seattle. Perhaps, there is another and rather more convincing explanation of the brother act of the Canadian and the U. S. stamp.

From Time Immemorial—We have seen letters prepaid to the United States from Canada bearing our stamps without postage due; and vice versa. However, these illustrations of postal reciprocity are no comparatively new development; and in this connection we copy a circular headed, "Canada Postage," that was issued by James Campbell, postmaster general, from Washington, February 19, 1856: "My attention has been called to the circumstance that letters inclosed in the United States stamped envelopes, or prepaid with United States postage stamps, are received in this country from Canada charged by our frontier exchange officers as unpaid. This practice on the part of the United States exchange officers is, strictly speaking, correct as each country recognizes its own postage stamps only in the prepayment of letters and hence it is irregular to use United States stamps in the prepayment of letters from Canada. But, inasmuch as the parties addressed feel aggrieved if postage is demanded on the delivery of such letters, and urge upon receipt that the practice of charging them as unpaid operates as a hardship upon them, the postage having been once received by this department, I am disposed to treat for the future such letters as prepaid, and deliver them as such. You will therefore discontinue the present practice of charging letters of this character as unpaid, in United States stamps, and forward them to destination without additional charge." The human streak certainly was broad in James Campbell.

Those Prices—Mr. Wm. C. Schilling, Baltimore, Maryland, writes: "In your issue of October 11th, I notice that Mr. G. A. Hunt compared present prices with those from a catalogue of 1882. I enclose a price-list which I bought in 1867 or 1868 for five cents from a dealer who was near a private school that I attended at the time. I thought that it might interest you to see some of the old prices." The price-list that Mr. Schilling sends is a four-page leaflet addressed "To the Stamp Trade," and issued by Anthony Fischer, 49 North Gay Street, Baltimore, Maryland. Stamps are offered at two, three, five and eight cents each, respectively and packets are priced from twenty-five cents to two dollars each. On the last page is the announcement of a translation into English from the fourteenth edition of the Illustrated Postage Stamp Album and Catalogue by G. Bauschke, "containing a full description of British Colonial and Foreign stamps, with compartments arranged for the reception of each." The book was to be had in three styles of binding: "Handsomely Bound," "Strongly Bound" and "Elegantly Bound." Some of the stamp prices quoted are almost unbelievable today. For instance, five cents each was asked for the following stamps, among others, all now cataloguing in the dollars: Oldenburg, 1/15 thaler; Two Sicilies, 1 gran., olive brown; Wurtemberg, 18kr., blue, Schleswig, 1864, 4sch., rose, etc.

Exhibition of Their Own—Speaking of exhibitions, we have resurrected a copy of an unused U. S. Distillery Warehouse Stamp, series of 1878, on the blank side of which is printed: "This stamp bears the portrait of General Zachary Taylor, 12th President of the United States. Issued in 1878, on watermarked paper with initials, U. S. I. R., (United States Internal Revenue) engraved by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and is one of a series of over 500 varieties purchased by Messrs. Deats and Sterling, August 1890, from the Treasury Department. Fifty thousand of these stamps will be distributed free to all who visit the display of Deats & Sterling, spaces 85 and 86, southeast corner of Exhibition Building No. 2. The Great Interstate Fair, Trenton, N. J., Sept. 28 to Oct. 2, 1891." This was a good stamp card; and the tax paid was canceled with three punch holes, a method of mutilation imposed by the government before it sold the enormous accumulation of the tax paid stamps as waste paper to Messrs. Deats and Sterling.

QUESTIONS FOR STUDENTS OF VICTORIA STAMPS.

By L. G. BARRETT.

a. What do the initials C, H, stand for in the centers of the crosses in the N. W. and N. E. corners respectively of the one penny green (later in rose) of Victoria 1881-83 issue? (Scott's type A-26.)

b. What do the letters A, C, C, E, stand for in the N. W., N. E., S. W., S. E. corners respectively of the two pence brown (later in mauve) of same issue Victoria? (Scott's type A-27.)

c. What do the letters A, C stand for, found just below the left and right ends respectively of the lower label on the four pence carmine (later in bistre) of same issue? (Scott's type A-28.)

d. The one penny green of 1884-86 has a small C just below the P of PENNY; also shows on the 3d bistre and the 6d blue in the same position in clear prints. (Scott's type A-30.) What does it signify?

CHAPTER XLIX.Issue of 1893—Columbians.

The Columbian issue, 1893, is so well known that it requires very little comment as a series of stamps. It has been well written upon during the past few years by students of Philately, and in view of this the writer will confine this chapter to a bare recital of all the facts, briefly told.

The issue was designed, primarily, to advertise the "World's Fair" or Columbian exposition, held in Chicago in 1893. A secondary purpose, it seems to the writer, was to make the stamp collectors of the country "pay the freight" as it were. It was frankly stated at the time the stamps were projected that an enormous profit would come to the government from the sale of sets of the stamps. That such was the case is easy to believe, as it required fifteen good hard dollars to buy from the postoffice the five "dollar values." To review the stamps themselves:

The stamps, sixteen denominations, were all (except the 8 cent) issued on January 1, 1893. Size of stamps, 22 by 34 mm.

1 Cent—Columbus in Sight of Land—was printed from 30 plates, 200 designs to the plate. The plate numbers are J. 46-50; K. 51-55; P. 65-69; MM. 149-153; OO. 159-163; VV. 194-198. Shades—pale blue, deep blue.

Varieties—double transfers, several. The so-called caps are neither die, transfer or plate varieties, as some have supposed, but are probably the result of ink drying in the recesses so that ink did not remain in the deep lines.

2 Cent—Landing of Columbus—printed from 135 plates, beginning with the single letter A and running to X, numbers 1 to 98, and double letters EE to UU, numbers 109 to 193, but not consecutively. Shades—red lilac, red violet, gray violet.

Varieties—double transfer, several. Imperforate. Caps—the same remarks apply as above.

3 Cent—Flagship of Columbus—printed from 4 plates, L 56, 57; R 75, 76. No varieties chronicled.

4 Cent—Fleet of Columbus—printed from a single series of five plates D. 16-20. Shades, ultramarine, deep ultramarine. Variety, error in color of the 1 cent.

STUMPED.

To the Editor:—

I was much interested in your recent article in regard to the use of the Parcel Post Due stamps. The excuse that the department gives for preventing the sale to the collecting public does not seem good. It authorizes the use of either common dues or the parcel post dues interchangeably on either kind of mail and still expects to keep an accurate account of unpaid postage on parcel post mail.

I also noticed the following in a Chicago store recently. The shipping clerk sent out a package for delivery by parcel post with eleven cents in parcel post stamps on the package. The local postman returned the package marked due four cents but with the eleven cents in stamps cancelled. Is that the customary way of handling such mail or is the package usually returned to the sender with the stamps

5 Cent—Columbus Soliciting Aid of Isabella—printed from a single series of 5 plates B. 6-10. Shades, chocolate, red brown, yellow brown. No chronicled varieties.

6 Cent—Columbus Welcomed at Barcelona—printed from a single plate, Z. 104. Shades, purple, red purple. No variety.

8 Cent—Columbus Restored to Favor—issued March 1, 1903. Printed from a single series of five plates II. 129-133. Shades, pale magenta, magenta, lilac rose. No variety.

10 Cent—Columbus Presenting Natives—Printed from a single series of five plates Y. 99-103. Shades, deep yellow brown, black brown, gray black, gray. No variety.

15 Cent—Columbus Announcing His Discovery—printed from a single plate, M. 58. Shades, Milori green, blue green, deep green.

30 Cent—Columbus at La Rabida—Printed from Plate N. 59. Shades, orange, pale brown orange, deep brown orange.

50 Cent—Recall of Columbus—printed from Plate S. 77. Mr. Luff lists this as shade of slate; the official color was carbon blue.

$1.00—Isabella Pledging Her Jewels—printed from plate W. 93. Shades, scarlet, salmon red.

$2.00—Columbus in Chains—Printed from Plate AA. 105. Shades, rose brown, deep rose brown.

$3.00—Columbus Describing Third Voyage—Printed from plate BB. 106. Shades, pale yellow green, gray green, olive green.

$4.00—Portraits of Isabella and Columbus in Circles—Printed from plate CC. 107. Shades, pale aniline rose, carmine rose, carmine lake.

$5.00—Profile of head of Columbus—Printed from plate DD. 108. Shades, gray black, full black.

NOTE—The shades mentioned are in the main as given by John N. Luff, in his magnificent work on the stamps of the United States. Mr. Luff is, in the opinion of the writer, the country's best authority on shades.

Only brief mention has been given to the double transfers found in these stamps, as they have only recently been written upon, and back numbers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS containing the various discoveries in this direction may still be had. The same is true of the so-called "Cap" varieties.

uncanceled? Would the remainder of the postage be paid with due stamps or with regular stamps? Were the stamps already on the package void for further use or would four cents additional postage have been sufficient to carry the package?

Thanking you for the pleasure afforded by the weekly visits of your paper and wishing you every future success, I am,

Yours sincerely,

Maywood, Ill. B. F. WELLS.

NOTE—Our study of the parcel post regulations has not been so thorough as to allow us to answer the foregoing questions with a feeling of authority. However, in view of the fact that up to October 7th, postmasters were instructed to include parcel post and parcel post due stamps with their ordinary stamps and due stamps in their quarterly stamp and postal accounts, the inference is that before that time, separate accounts should have been kept.—EDITOR.

Twenty-four days and thirteen hours were required to make the trip. Prior to that time I received a letter from California, which had been six months on the way, and then I had to pay 50 cents postage on it.

Can citizens of today fully realize these wonderful changes? Yours truly,

DETROIT MAILCARRIER'S UNIQUE IDEA.

Herman W. Boers has, through the courtesy of the Detroit Free Press, kindly favored us with this plate:—

Mail Carrier Charles P. Falvey, 901 Fourth avenue, Detroit, may receive $1,000 as a reward for a suggestion made to Postmaster William J. Nagel that part of the space used for the cancellation stamp on mail matter be used to advertise the several departments of the postoffice, as well as appeal to the public for co-operation in improving the service.

Mr. Nagel Saturday sent a copy of the advertising scheme to Postmaster-

General Burleson at Washington, who will turn it over to a committee appointed to consider inventions and suggestions for the betterment of the mail service. The committee has at its disposal a fund of $10,000, which it may distribute as it sees fit among postoffice employees who devise plans that will effect material economy or raise the efficiency of the department. The plan is to make awards of $1000 each.

NEW ZEALAND STAMPS USED ABROAD.

By F. B. BARTON.

Chatham Islands.—For many years past a post office has been in operation at Waitangi, in the Chatham Islands. The postmaster has a complete stock of the usual post office stationery, and his supply of stamps ranges from 1/2d to £5. The stamps are devoid of any overprint, and can be, of course, only recognised by the postmark, Chatham Islands, May 11—10, within three circles. A steamer, the "Himitangi," owned by the Chatham Fisheries Company, makes a trip each month, and as there is a fair amount of mail matter, all stamps of N. Z. from about 1900 should be in existence postmarked as above. The regulations governing parcels post, money orders, postal notes, etc., are exactly as in N. Z. Any collector interested in the history of this island will find the fullest particulars in a book by Mr. W. Bancke, entitled "Where the White Man Treads," procurable at most large stationers.

Fanning Island.—This is a remote coral atoll in the Pacific, and is an important station on the All-Red Cable route. A post office has been installed on the island since 1902, and during that period the several issues of N. Z. stamps from 1/2d to 5s have been in use. The postmark is somewhat different to that used in the Chathams. Communication with Fanning is not very regular, and stamps with this obliteration are very hard to find.

Aitutaki.—Before the appearance of the issue of N. Z. stamps overprinted Aitutaki for use in this island in 1903 the stamps of the Cook Islands were in use there, and may be recognised by means of the postmark, in violet only, bearing the name of the island. The date stamp is similar to that used in the Fanning Islands.

The islands of Rakahanga and Manihiki are governed from the Cook Islands and use the stamps of the Federation.

The Campbell Islanders use the stamps of N. Z., but these are date-stamped on their arrival in N. Z.

The Bounty Islands, Auckland, Antipodes, and Kermadec Islands are at present uninhabited and bid fair to remain so.—N. Z. Stamp Journal.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

INDEX TO VOLUME XXVI. - - 1912.

NOTE:—Regular features, to be found in almost every issue, are not indexed. These include Editorial, Beginners' Guide, Communications, Book Review, Specialized U. S., Parcel Post, American Philatelic Soc., Chronicle, With the Boy Philatelist, News Gleanings, Short Replies and Society Reports. Items of special importance, however, which occur under these headings, have been indexed by their subject matter. References in general are to subjects rather than in the exact form of the titles. The first eight pages were numbered 445-452 in error; these numbers follow the proper numbers 1-8 in parenthesis.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Hamburg.

Whether by accident or design we cannot say but on all stamps engraved by Ziesenist there are so-called "secret marks." As these are of considerable value in distinguishing originals from the many forgeries that exist, we give a list of these as follows:—

$\frac{1}{2}$ schilling.—There is a small dash in the space between the base of the right hand tower and the line above "Schilling."

1 schilling.—The serif at the foot of the "T" of "POSTMARKE" ends with a dot at the left hand side.

2 schilling.—There is a tiny dot under the first "l" of "Schilling," and, in clearly printed specimens, a small dash above the "ng" of the same word.

3 schilling.—There is a dot on the left side of the "H" of "HAMBURG" near the top of the letter, and, in most cases, another dot is shown under the "r" of "Drie."

4 schilling.—There is a dot between the letters "Sc" of "Schilling."

7 schilling.—There is a dot in the space at the right of the Arms opposite the top of the "S" of "Schilling."

9 schilling.—There is a tiny dot after the "P" of "POSTMARKE" level with the bottom of that letter.

In an article by M. Georges Brunel, translated in the Postage Stamp, Vol. VIII, numerous other little peculiarities are detailed but as most of these only show on certain stamps they evidently did not appear on the original die but were caused in making the type-metal casts.

The stamps were all printed on white wove paper, each sheet being watermarked with twelve horizontal undulating lines (each undulation being about 15 mm. deep) bounded by a single line frame. It was intended that these lines should correspond with the twelve rows of stamps, but owing to some sheets not being carefully "fed" into the printing press an outside row was occasionally printed on the plain portion of the paper, and these stamps were thus entirely without watermark. Other varieties, caused by irregular feeding of the paper, show vertical line watermark.

The stamps of this issue were not perforated, and they were gummed with a brown gum which gives some specimens the appearance of having been printed on toned paper. The remainders of these stamps were all without gum, the issued stamps, with the original brown gum, being at least twice as scarce as the remainders. With the solitary exception of the 7sch the stamps are all rarer used than unused. Fairly distinct shades of the 4, 7, and 9sch may be found but the others differ hardly at all.

Reference List.

Jan. 1st, 1859. Watermarked undulating lines. Imperf.

1. $\frac{1}{2}$ sch black, Scott's No. 1.
2. 1sch brown, Scott's No. 2.
3. 2sch red, Scott's No. 5.
4. 3sch blue, Scott's No. 9.
5. 4sch green, Scott's No. 10.
6. 7sch orange, Scott's No. 11.
7. 9sch yellow, Scott's No. 12.

The Second Issue.

In 1864, Hamburg occupied the Danish post-office in that city, owing to the war between Prussia and Austria and Denmark, as explained in our introductory notes, and a stamp of $\frac{1}{4}$ sch was wanted immediately. This was issued on February 29th but while it was being prepared the $\frac{1}{4}$ sch was bisected and the halves used in making up the $\frac{1}{4}$ sch rate. Though no decree seems to have been issued authorising this bisection the authorities appear to have permitted it and undoubtedly bona-fide "splints" used on original covers are known. A month after the issue of the $\frac{1}{4}$ sch label the retaliatory tactics pursued by Hamburg and Denmark resulted in the issue of a $2\frac{1}{2}$ sch stamp. Both of these values were produced by lithography, presumably owing to the fact that they were wanted in a hurry.

The central design on the $\frac{1}{4}$ sch is very similar to that of the series of 1859 but with a netted background. The name "HAMBURG" is arched at the top. "POSTMARKE" is on a straight label which extends right across the foot of the stamp and the value is shown in words on the side tablets. In each of the upper angles an uncolored Maltese cross is shown on a ground of solid color.

There was a space of 3 mm. between the stamps of both the vertical and horizontal rows, and lines were ruled in these in both directions corresponding with the vertical lines appearing in the preceding series. There were no figures at the ends of the horizontal rows and no marginal inscription was shown at the top of the sheet. According to the late Mr. W. A. S. Westoby "it would seem that later on in the same year another transfer was made, as the stamps are found closer together on the sheet, being $2\frac{1}{2}$ mm. apart, vertically and horizontally, with lines between and numerals opposite each vertical and horizontal row." Impressions from this second plate, we are told, may be recognised by their indistinct and blurred appearance and the fact that the color is always a deep red-lilac.

Basing his remarks on the wonderful study of these stamps made by Mr. Vicenz in 1907, M. Brunel takes us much deeper into the subject. We learn that the stamps were printed in sheets of 192 stamps arranged in two panes of ninety-six each, placed side by side. In making up the lithographic stone the lithographer took twelve transfers from his original drawing making a block of three horizontal rows of four. This block was then re-transferred to the stone sixteen times. Each of the twelve stamps in the transfer block differs in minute particulars from the others giving twelve types and these were arranged on the stone as follows:—

1	2	3	4	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	9	10	11	12
1	2	3	4	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	9	10	11	12
1	2	3	4	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	9	10	11	12

Those of our readers who wish to study the peculiarities distinguishing the types should refer to M. Brunel's article in the Postage Stamp.

Mr. Westoby's supposition that there was a second stone was amply proved by Mr. Vicenz. This was also composed of sixteen transfers of a block of twelve but, as the original transfer block had been destroyed, a new one had to be made, consequently the types differ from those of the first stone.

The design of the $2\frac{1}{2}$ schilling was similar as regards the centerpiece, but all the inscriptions were on straight tablets, and in the corners were Maltese crosses enclosed in small squares. The stamps were arranged about $2\frac{1}{2}$ mm. apart, both vertically and horizontally, and they show dividing lines as in the $\frac{1}{4}$ sch. There were numerals opposite the ends of each vertical and horizontal row.

M. Brunel tells us that there were also two stones for this value, each being composed of two panes of 96 stamps and each of these stones, like the $\frac{1}{4}$ sch being composed of transfers of twelve types, all differing in small particulars. Those of our readers interested cannot do better than study M. Brunel's article already referred to.

Both values were printed on white wove paper watermarked with undulating lines as shown in the typographic stamps. They were issued imperforate and with gum of a much paler tinge than that employed for the preceding series.

The stamps were lithographed by the firm of C. Adler, of Hamburg and the designs were apparently drawn by one of the employees of the firm. Mr. R. Thiele tells us that "the original stone is still in existence, on which the drawing of the $\frac{1}{4}$ sch may be seen in close proximity to the letterhead of a wholesale liquor dealer." (Philatelic Record, Vol. XXXI, page 118.) The $\frac{1}{4}$ sch may be found in numerous shades ranging from deep red-lilac to grey. There was also a small printing in blue. The $2\frac{1}{2}$ sch on the other hand, hardly varies in tint at all.

Reference List.

1864. Lithographed. Wmk. undulating lines. Imperf.

8. $\frac{1}{4}$ sch red-lilac, Scott's No. 3 or 3a.
9. $\frac{1}{4}$ sch grey, Scott's No. 4.
10. $\frac{1}{4}$ sch blue, Scott's No. 5.
11. $2\frac{1}{2}$ sch green, Scott's No. 7.

THE NEW YORK EXHIBITION.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27, 1913.

Today has proved a great day for American philately. The International Philatelic Exhibition opening in New York informally this morning is America's maiden effort in exhibitions of this class, but it is a great effort and from a philatelic and a general standpoint it must be reckoned a great success. In general arrangement the show has European exhibitions "skinned to a frazzle" to use an American phrase. But of this, and of the exhibits more anon. For the present I am concerned with the ceremonies, the "exercises" as they are called here, with which the exhibition was formally opened tonight; about six hours after the informal opening.

The Engineering Societies' Building on West 39th street is a magnificent edifice the stories of which I have not stopped to count. Suffice it for my purpose to say that five stories are wholly or partly devoted to the stamp exhibition, and the opening "exercises" were indulged in in the very fine "auditorium."

After an opening performance by the orchestra, Mr. J. C. Morgenthau ("Julius Caesar Morgenthau" as he will henceforth be known) the Hon. President of the Board of Directors of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions Incorporated, made a short speech of introduction and welcome. He said,

"It gives me a very great deal of pleasure and satisfaction on behalf of our Association to bid you welcome to the formal opening of the first International Philatelic Exhibition held in this country. It is just about two years ago that stamp circles in Nassau Street—and in regard to stamps Nassau Street is equivalent to Wall Street in stocks and shares—were agitated by rumors that there was going to be a great exhibition in New York. A good many of us smiled and shrugged our shoulders. But the rumors soon took shape in the formation of a small committee of the New York Stamp Society and the Collectors' Club. Later we changed our plan and inaugurated the Association for Stamp Exhibitions, and we were encouraged by the support of America's great stamp triumvirate, Worthington, Pack and Ackerman. This exhibition is the result of the work of the Association, it is a maiden effort, we have done our best, angels could do no more."

Mr. Morgenthau then resigned the charge of the meeting to Mr. George H. Worthington, Hon. President of the Exhibition, and America's greatest stamp collector. I was especially interested in Mr. Worthington's short address for it gave us an insight into the attitude of the shrewd business magnate in regard to our hobby.

Mr. Worthington who was received with loud applause said:

"It is my privilege, as well as my duty prescribed by the committee on arrangements, to extend to you a most cordial welcome upon this notable occasion of our coming together from many lands to promote the international interests of philately. This I do in behalf of our organization and in behalf of the philatelists of this great metropolis, whose boundless hospitality I am sure will be fully vindicated and gratefully appreciated by all of us during the progress of this exhibition.

"It is particularly gratifying to note the presence of such a large and representative attendance of our brethren from abroad and from many States, and I must place special emphasis upon the cordiality of our welcome to the sisterhood of philatelists in evidence here by the appearance of so many ladies. In philately, as in all other worthy objects that appeal to the intellectual interests and the sympathies of men, they are essential to progress and to the refinement of our personal relations, they grace this exhibition by the sunlight of their presence.

"I am not here to deliver a homily upon the nature and the objects of philately, except to declare that it is both a science and an art. Those who do not understand it often marvel at its hold upon the interest of those who do; but those who do understand it are alone qualified to estimate its beneficial influence upon the operations of the human mind, upon the pursuit of education and the diffusion of knowledge.

"Philately is at the threshold of the open door leading to historical research. It summons the past from the early decades of governments that have passed away and others that have survived; and it connects this past with the present, link by link. It cultivates the finer sensibilities of perception and of differentiation, and in a degree, perhaps not peculiar to any other science, its interest expands with every event of human history. The story of civilization is told in stamps.

"We have ample reason, therefore, to congratulate ourselves upon our identification with this elevating and useful science. We meet under auspicious circumstances, and, expressing the earnest thanks of philatelists throughout the world for your presence here in its promotion, I bid you each and all most cordial welcome."

The Hon. Thomas W. Churchill, President of the Board of Education, City of New York, then gave an address of welcome on behalf of the city. He said:

"The other day, after I had made an absolute promise to myself, which I never keep, that I would not go out in the evenings for a long time to come, not because the weather was inclement, but in order to gain the acquaintanceship of my family—I have a collection—I received a telephone message from Julius Caesar Morgenthau, and recognizing that in the course of twenty odd years, all of them odd, even the even years, this was my old instructor I realized I could not refuse him to go anywhere. I read this word "philately" and found that done into English it meant "stamps." I told him I knew nothing about them and he said 'whatever you do don't speak about stamps—stamps are caviare to the general and you are the general.' I replied if I were not to talk about stamps I must talk about him." Mr. Churchill proceeded to eulogize philately and described its devotees as members of a great secret society to be in which required the cultivation of some "divine touch." He considered he had been asked to attend because the board of Education over which he had the honor to preside had been dubbed "Rubber Stamps." He thought for a long while that he was "cancelled but he was still unobliterated" "and though I am not that 'Baltimore' nor that 'Mauritius' thing that is not properly spelt, (sic) I am very well content to be a fly in that rich amber that he (Mr. Morgenthau) has mellowed all these years of our separation." Discussing stamps as labels he said, his label was rubber, he did not know whether Ex-Mayor Sulzers was "special delivery" or "internal revenue." Richard the Third he considered the greatest collector of heads, and Chaucer of tales. The only instance he ever knew of a stamp collector who was unhappy was George III.

My Price List of the Stamps of the United States and its Colonies is ready for distribution. It contains features not found in ordinary lists, such as a complete list of Coil Stamps, Philippine "O. It is the most complete list published, and no serious collector can afford to be without it. It is free; a postal card will bring it, prepaid with a precancelled stamp.

The outstanding feature of the exercise was an important and interesting address from Mr. Joseph E. Ralph, the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington, of which the following is a full report. Mr. Ralph in addition to outlining the methods of production of the postage stamps of the United States gives some very remarkable statistics of the postage stamp output of his department. The Hon. Joseph E. Ralph said:—

Mr. President, Delegates to the International Philatelic Exhibition, Ladies and Gentlemen: It affords me much pleasure to meet with you tonight and to make the acquaintance of my best customers. While the Bureau, which I have the honor to direct, prints all of the securities of the United States Government, which embraces checks, drafts, bonds, paper money, revenue, customs, parcel post and postage stamps and certificates of deposit for the Post Office Department, and knowing the object which brings you here, I will only discuss that which is of greatest interest to you, the methods of printing our postage stamps.

I fear that I have not sufficient time to touch upon the technique of the manufacture of postage stamps as fully as I would like to, but if in my remarks I have omitted to touch upon those essential features which interest you most, I shall be very glad to answer any questions you might ask concerning our stamps at the close of my remarks.

It has been our constant endeavor not only to safeguard our stamps and circumvent their counterfeiting, but to make them really artistic. When you comprehend the small space allowed for artistic embellishment, you necessarily must marvel at the results we obtain. The difficulty encountered in designing a stamp I shall touch upon later on, but let me say that we should be pleased to receive suggestions from you men who devote so much time and so much expense adding to your collections, and to whose energy we no doubt are very much indebted for what we have to be proud of in our American stamps.

In our great factory each day forty-four million postage stamps are manufactured, counted and put up in packages ready for shipment to the 62,000 post offices throughout the United States. This daily output would cover approximately eight acres of land if laid out flat, or make a chain of stamps 703 miles long when laid end to end.

I do not believe one could go far wrong in asserting that the prosperity of a country and the standard of the intelligence of its citizens may be gauged by the consumption of its postage stamps. As an illustration of this statement, an idea of the business growth of the United States may be gleaned from the fact that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing delivered 10,937,926,987 perfect postage stamps during the fiscal year 1913, representing a face value of $185,504,556.20.

The engraving division is the corner stone of the Bureau and the bulwark of our securities. In this division every form of security I have mentioned above have their origin, and the most artistic and skilled engravers that the world produces are employed here.

Steel engraving is the perfection of art as applied to securities; it differs from painting and sculpturing, inasmuch as the engraver who carves his work on steel plates must deliberately study the effect of each infinitesimal line. Free hand, with a diamond-pointed tool known as a graver, aided by a powerful magnifying glass, he carves away, conscious that one false cut or slip of his tool or miscalculation of depth or width of line will destroy the artistic merit of his creation, and weeks or months of labor will have been in vain. In no other form of printing can the beautiful, soft and yet strong effects in black and white be obtained as in steel engraving. The introduction of cheap mechanical process work has superseded the beautiful creations of our master engraver commercially, and now we find the art limited to the engraving of securities as applied in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The work in this division is classified and divided so that the engravers become specially skilled in some particular branch of the art. For instance, they are classified as portrait, script, square letter and ornamental engravers. Each is confined to his own specialty, and thus becomes unusually expert, the result being that not only better work is secured, but a greater amount is turned out in a given time, and what is of greater importance, increased security is obtained. The individual excellencies and characteristics of a number of men are impressed upon every stamp issued. Therefore, it would be as difficult for one engraver to make a perfect reproduction of a Government plate as it would be for the reader to reproduce an absolute facsimile of his or her own signature, and, strange as it may seem, no one has yet accomplished this feat.

To the credit of the engravers and employees of this division, it should be stated that in the history of the Bureau none of its employees has ever engaged in counterfeiting.

When it is determined to issue a new stamp, the matter is discussed by the officials having charge of the several branches of the service involved, and the conclusions reached are embodied in a model made by a trained designer, which is submitted for the criticisms of the officers who discussed the matter in the first place. The model is then modified in accordance with their criticisms, and is finally approved by the Postmaster General.

The approved design is placed in the

OWING TO AN ERROR

In a recent advertisement as to the date on which the increase in price of my "$10.00 cat for 60c" packet would be effective, I am continuing the old offer, for a short time only, as follows: 300 MIXED Asiatic stamps, —Philippine (including unused Katipunan or Aguinaldo stamps), Hongkong, China, Dutch Indies, Malay States, etc., etc., guaranteed to catalogue over $10.00 for 60c.

Regarding the above packet, an Ohio collector says: "I have never seen a packet of such high value offered for so ridiculously low a price."

At the request of a number of purchasers of the 60c packet, I also offer: A packet of 60 to 100 ALL DIFFERENT Asiatic stamps, guaranteed to catalogue over $6.00, for $1.00.

hands of the engravers who cut it upon a small piece of annealed steel. After the approval of a proof of this engraving, it is heated red-hot in cyanide of potassium and hardened by suddenly dipping it into oil and water. This single engraved subject is duplicated 450 times upon the large plates that the stamps are printed from by means of the transfer process.

This is a method of reproducing engraving devised many years ago by Jacob Perkins, an inventive American, who may be considered the father of the present method of duplicating banknotes and stamp plates. It consists of making a reversed duplicate or mould of the original engraving by rolling a soft, annealed steel roll upon it in the transfer press. Being accurately guided and held by the mechanism of this press continued rolling under high pressure forces the soft steel of the roll into the engraved lines of the original design, and forms an exact counterpart, in relief of it. This roll, being hardened, is used to duplicate the engraving, by the same process, upon a soft steel plate, which it will do a great number of times before wearing out, reserving the original engraving, or die as it is called, for making additional rolls. The original engraving is never printed from except to make what is known as die-proofs.

The paper required for the manufacture of the postage stamps for the fiscal year just ended amounted to 480,000 pounds, and to make this paper 1500 spruce trees were ground to a pulp.
 These trees are cut on the mountains of western North Carolina, and covered an area of sixty acres. Had the trees been converted into lumber, over fifty well appointed bungalows could have been built, and the paper itself would make an edition of over 1,500,000 twenty-page seven column newspaper.

About 500 men are engaged in the pulp mills in which the pulp is made in North Carolina, and the same number is employed in the paper mills at Hamilton, Ohio, in which the finished paper is produced. Six hundred men and women find employment in the Bureau in the manufacture of the stamps, so you will see that a small sized army is daily engaged in getting them ready for the consumer.

You delight in and require your specimen to have equally perforated margins of blank paper—as you term it, to be perfectly centered—and wonder why all of our stamps are not so perfect.
 If you could follow the spruce log from the time it is cut from the mountainside to its final appearance in the finished product, you would marvel that we get the results as good as we do.

The paper being printed wet contracts on drying, and the mathematically correct layout of the engraved plate bears only an approximate relation to the dried, printed sheet. The paper we print today will vary in shrinkage from that we print tomorrow. As the physical properties of the tree govern the expansion and contraction of the paper made therefrom, no two sheets are exactly the same size. The actual difference in size of the individual stamp is too minute to be readily dis-cernible, but becomes a serious factor when the row is twenty stamps long as we now print the sheets.

But that is not all. To smooth the paper for the operation of gumming, it is subjected to 500 tons pressure in a hydraulic press, and if very dry it stretches but very little, but if the day is damp and humid, it stretches perceptibly. The contraction of the gum itself is a factor, and the atmospheric conditions still another. Our perforating machines have not human intelligence, and they blindly perforate the sheets alike until their adjustment is changed.
 Therefore, the best we can do is to average the adjustment and it is only by chance that all the perforations are exactly central. Of course, you will understand that typographic printing being done on dry paper eliminates many of these problems, and no great feat is performed in perfectly centering a dry printed stamp.

The amount of ink required for printing the stamps for the last fiscal year was 568,117 pounds.

The present method of printing stamps is accomplished upon what is known as "four plate power presses." Four plates are used in order that the operations of inking, wiping, polishing and taking the impressions may be done simultaneously. This press requires the services of a printer to polish the plates, one girl to lay the sheet in position, and another girl to take it off after printing.

After each two hundred sheets are printed, they are counted and dried.
 To secure a flat surface for subsequent operations, they are pressed in a hydraulic press.

They are next gummed by passing beneath a glass roller which is bathed in a solution of dextine, (which forms the gum,) and the sheets are then carried by grippers through a drying chamber in which the gum is dried in less than thirty seconds. Just before leaving the gumming machine, the sheets are carried through a device that breaks the gum into innumerable cracks and materially prevents subsequent cracking.

The printed and gummed sheet of 400 stamps is now fed through a rotary per-forator that perforates the stamps in one direction and cuts the sheet in half.
 Another perforator of the same construction perforates the stamps crosswise and makes another cut, thereby quartering the original sheet.

After a close and rigid inspection, these sheets are counted and made into packages for final packing for shipment to the post offices.

The gum on the back of the stamps is made by scientifically roasting the highest grade of tapioca starch such as is used for making pudding, and as 450,150 pounds were used last year, all of the inhabitants of New York city would have been given their fill of tapioca pudding for one meal with the material used.

The sheets of 100 stamps each, as sent to the post offices during the fiscal year 1913, piled upon each other, would make a shaft over 6 miles high, and placed end to end would make a strip over 16,000 miles long; and as there are ten rows of stamps in each sheet, a strip of single stamps would be more than 160,000 miles long, enough to girdle the earth six times, with something over.

Just a few words of a technical nature relative to the inks used in the printing of postage stamps. Before I became Director of the Bureau, colors for making inks for printing stamps and other securities were selected by comparison with a standard for match in hue and color strength, no attention being paid to their permanency. The natural result was colors that were notorious for fading. At that time little was known of any systematic method of testing for permanency, and when I undertook to secure standards that were permanent, I had to devise methods.

The deterioration of colors is caused by the action of both light and atmosphere. Chemical composition will give a clue as to the action of atmosphere, but the action of light is more subtle, and nothing short of an actual test is of value. Of course, it is impracticable to have a test extending over years of time, so some method had to be devised to give results in days.

It has been determined from exhaustive experiments that a color that will not change after exposure to bright sunlight in the summer for a period of three days can be relied upon to withstand days of exposure in the diffused light of an ordinary room. The amount of actinic light given off by the sun during a cloudless day in summer was measured photographically, and by the same method the amount can be gauged on a cloudy or rainy day. This enabled a standard condition to be measured and governed.

The amount of fading in such a day, even with rather fugitive colors is very slight, so the following method was devised to determine what effect long ex-posure would have. A strip of paper printed with an ink made from the color was exposed to light one, two, and three days, with a part protected by black paper. By comparison of the exposed parts with that protected by black paper, it was found that some of the colors would fade a little more each day, and others would fade for the first day, and remain stable for the other two days. The former were classed as progressive in fading, and the inference is that they would eventually fade away.
 The assumption is that the others would fade slightly and then remain permanent. Further experience has corroborated this view, and today no colors are used in the Bureau that show progressive fading.

We now make fading tests with an artificial light—the quartz mercury lamp —which is on the same principle as the familiar Cooper-Hewitt mercury tube, except it is so high in the ultra-violet, or actinic, rays, that it is enclosed in a special protective casing to prevent those near it from being sunburned, which would be the case if they were exposed to it for a few minutes.

In securing permanent colors, we had to sacrifice some of the brilliancy that is characteristic of nearly all of the aniline colors, although there is solidity and softness that is more artistic in our present series.

The only aniline colors we use are the reds, and those colors that contain red (purples and browns and oranges).
 For yellow we use chrome yellow; for blue, Prussian blue and ultramarine, and for black we use bone-black, which is practically carbon. All of these are minerals except Prussian blue, which is partly organic and partly inorganic.

The source of some of these colors may be of interest to you. The aniline reds are made from coal-tar; the Prussian blue was originally made from calcined horn, but now from a great variety of substances, and can even be made electrolytically from the nitrogen of the air; the ultra-marine was originally made from lapis-lazuli, but now synthetically by calcining its constituents; the chrome yellow is made articially and is chemically chromate of lead. The bone black is made from calcined bones, as its name would indicate.

EDITORIAL.

Repeating Its Triumphs—The International Philatelic Exhibition though closed in actuality is being reopened in imagination to those who did not attend but have the privilege of listening to the stories from the lips of those who saw it all. The collectors who were present at the philatelic event of the decade will find their audiences flatteringly attentive as they tell of the glories of that week. Our accounts of the Exhibition will be appreciated, we know, by our readers and our satisfaction in having secured the services of Mr. Fred. J. Melville of London, perhaps the most widely known working philatelist of our times, to tell the story will be shared by our readers.

Public Response—The question of the attendance of the public at the Exhibition which was one of the gravest that confronted the managers of the Exhibition before the opening was happily settled. Experienced promoters of entertainments or exhibitions of a semi-public nature know that up to the last moment it is a matter of conjecture just how the public will respond to their invitations. Such is the irony of chance that when conditions seemingly are favorable, it is sometimes the case that the public almost wholly ignores the offering; and again, when prospects are not encouraging, it develops that results are brightest. The astute managers must trust to advertising and keep their spirits sanguine. This the promoters of the International Philatelic Exhibition did and the attendance of the public at the festival of philately rounded out a golden week for philately.

Made in Germany—From Dr. C. F. Roh, Garrison, Nebraska, we have received an interesting budget. He sends blocks of six from the new German stamp books, showing the page with the four 10pf and the two 5pf. The two 5pf are the first two stamps at left in the upper row. The two blocks, one used and the other unused show shades of both stamps. The red and the green stamps, se tenant, are a striking sight for the collector. Dr. Roh has a postal from Leipzig, showing the Volkerschlachtendenkmal, which is canceled not only by a special postmark, reading: Weihe des Volkerschlacht-Denkmal, (Dedication of the War Monument) but also, a cancellation of a fac-simile of the monument, in conjunction with the postmark. In good sooth, Germany is a postal originator. Dr. Roh shows a postal card from Germany which he received May 15th, 1913, on which the 5pf postage due doubled, of course, was paid by two 1-cent parcel post dues.

Propaganda Stamps—Mr. W. E. Marsh, editor of the Western Newspaper Union, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, writes: "Here's one that will beat the Mexican army provisionals. The letter came through and was delivered in Birmingham, Alabama, with no other stamps whatever. The inscription is good Hebrew and translated, means, 'Everlasting Foundation for the Jews.' I take it that the stamps have about the same status as the charity and Red Cross labels. That it came through is due probably to a Jewish clerk having been in charge at the office of mailing. My Yiddish friend tells me that the postmark is Jaffa, or the local equivalent of it." As Mr. Marsh says there is every indication that the two labels on the envelope were accepted as discharging full postal duty; and the cover is a good example of postal complaisance. The labels have much of the appearance of real stamps, however, and it is just possible that they deceived the clerk. The stamps are oblong in shape and are simply but well engraved, the design representing a typical eastern scene of fronded palms flanking characteristic temples and other edifices. The inscription is on a label extending the length of the bottom of the stamp. These labels were issued to promote the plan of replacing the Turkish suzerainty over Palestine, in Syria, with a Jewish nation; and the movement has the support of many influential Jews. We do not need to add that the labels have no postal validity. The colors of the two labels in question are red brown and a sort of olive gray.

"24: 1c-2c"—Under date of October 25th, 1913, the following notice, "New Variety of Stamp Book," was issued by the department: "Postmasters are notified that the Department is prepared to issue a new variety of stamp book, containing 24 1-cent and 24 2-cent stamps. The selling price will be 73 cents per book." The new books are to be designated on postmasters' requisitions as "24: 1c-2c." The enterprise of the authorities in adopting a book to include an equal number of ones and twos will be appreciated. It has been said that it was a traveling man who first suggested to the department the advisability of issuing the two denominations in a single book. Speaking of suggestions to the department, the one that a linen-lined registration envelope be issued so that a substitute might be had by the public for the flimsy covering often pressed into service was made originally at a state convention of postmasters in Missouri; and the WEEKLY at the time commented favorably upon the circumstance.

Of All the Places—Mr. Wm. F. Palmer says: "Last summer when I was having my house wired for lights, the workmen found an obstruction in a side wall. On cutting through at that point, they found some old letters and envelopes. The letters were sent and dated in 1845, 1846 and 1848 and bore no stamps but the envelopes in the lot had a pleasanter aspect in a philatelic sense, as aside from the stamped impression, they had an interest by reason of their postal markings. The envelopes which were two of the different dies of the three-cent 1853 issue, United States, were sent from Lahaina, Maui, Sandwich Islands, or Hawaiian Islands as they became later. These envelopes were forwarded by Waldo and Company, Maui, and came by way of Vera Cruz, Mexico, and Pensacola, Florida. Maui is one of the islands of the Hawaiian group. The house was built in 1860 and the covers and envelopes were entombed from that time, in all probability." These envelopes should go well with Mr. Palmer's cover with a pair of one penny, New Zealand, 1909 issue, canceled at Honolulu, Hawaii. We, too, have a ship letter, originating in New Zealand, bearing a two-cent United States, canceled with a New Zealand postmark.

Fumigated—Speaking of Hawaiian covers, we have found one of the best examples of a plague letter in existence. We need not say that letters or envelopes conveying baleful suggestions of disease through the warning markings on them are not treasured as a rule by the recipients but on the contrary, destroyed at once. In fact, it is only when a philatelist who is so thoroughly inoculated with the germs of philately as to be immune from other diseases rescues letters of the kind that the philatelic curiosities are preserved. Our plague letter is addressed to the Chicago Varnish Company and is postmarked: "Honolulu, H. I., Jan. 24, 9 A. M., 1900;" and bears the five-cent blue, 1899, Hawaiian. There are four round holes through the envelope, one each at top and bottom and the two sides of the envelope, which is endorsed in ink: "The perforations of this envelope are for its fumigation, which is required by the Board of Health on account of the prevalence of the Bubonic Plague. W. S. P."

STAMPS STOLEN BY CLEVER THIEF.

Taken From Case at the International Philatelic Exhibition.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Five rare United States stamps of the issue of 1869, valued by their owner, Clarence E. Chapman, of New York, at $2,500, were stolen late today from the International Philatelic Exhibition, which closed tonight.

The stamps were on display in a case in the main exhibition room, and the thief, to remove the cards on which they were mounted, had to force an opening in the rear of the case. That he was a stamp collector, or conversant with the value of stamps, exhibition officials said, is shown by his having cast aside another card of stamps of less value.

The stamps taken included two of the 15-cent, two of the 24-cent and one of the 30-cent 1869 inverts.

Our correspondent writes as follows: "I suppose you will hear of the theft from one of the frames of five of the inverted centres of the 1869 U. S. issue belonging to Mr. Chapman, two 15c, two 24c and one 30c, and as perhaps you remember, very fine things. The fellow wiggled the brads from the upper corner of an end frame and extracted the sheet holding them. A lady gave a good description of him to the inspectors and says she can identify him. Dealers should be notified to be on the lookout should these stamps be offered them.

Coming so close upon the end of the show (it happened about 6 o'clock Saturday when but few people were present) it rather put a damper upon the close of a most successful event. There was a big jam all day and evening, and promptly at 10 p. m. the work of dismantling began. I have just reached my hotel, and thought I would let you know how things stand."

It will be a difficult matter for the thief to dispose of these stamps without being detected and we publish this information in the belief that dealers the country over will be on their guard should these rarities be offered them.

EXPERT PRAISES STAMP EXHIBITION. THE EXHIBITS SHOW THAT AMERICANS APPRECIATE THE TRUE PRINCIPLES OF PHILATELY.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

I have seen nearly all the great International Exhibitions of postage stamps held during the last twenty years, and have come from Europe expressly to see the first one ever conducted in New York. Although a maiden effort New York appropriately starts where most of the European exhibitions leave off. The $2,500,000 display at the Engineering Societies' Building comprises a wealth of philatelic rarities, the like of which has never been seen before.

With some experience of the direction of stamp exhibitions, I may express my high satisfaction with the arrangements, and with the quality of the exhibits which show that in our pleasurable cult of the postal stamp the American, although with less leisure than the majority of British collectors, has attained a high standard of appreciation of the true principles of what we call "philately," but which is more intelligibly expressed to the public as "stamp collecting."

Had the exhibition been a year or so earlier, the one thing lacking in the present show would have been available to the organizers, the most wonderful historical record of United States postage stamps, brought together with infinite pains and brilliant literary talent by the late premier Scottish Earl, Lord Crawford, whose collection of United States stamps alone filled nearly sixty volumes.

But here in New York are collections fully as rich in rare postage stamps, if less amplified and elaborated for the purposes of the scientific form of historical collecting, which in England we know as the "Crawford school."

For my part I am impressed most by the collections shown by Mr. George H. Worthington. I came 3,000 miles to see this exhibition, and the first few pages of Mr. Worthington's collection of United States stamps and the whole of his Confederate States Postmaster's stamps have fully justified my long journey and the time devoted to making it. Most of the other important exhibits I have seen before. Nothing of the famous Worthington collection has been seen in Europe, although but for that gentleman's ill-health last year we should have had some of his stamps on view, as he had promised me some portions of his collection for the great Jubilee International Stamp Exhibition, which I organized at the Royal Horticultural Hall, London, last October.

Mr. Worthington's Hawaiian stamps are of great value and interest, but these rarities—the "missionary" stamps especially, so called, because nearly all the known copies have been found on letters sent home to the United States by missionaries in the islands—are frequently seen at the great exhibitions in London. They range in value from $500 to $5,000 apiece. The five-cent Alexandria on blue paper I have never seen before. Its value, as it is literally unique, is fabulous. Some of the Confederate Postmasters' stamps are in the same category of "unique" stamps.

The exhibition is so full of good things that it is invidious, especially for me as one of the judges, at this stage of the exhibition to enter upon comparisons. But the outstanding exhibits for richness, completeness and rarity are Mr. Worthington's, as indicated; Mr. Pack's Argentine, Cape of Good Hope, Canada, etc.; Mr. Henry J. Duveen's Mauritius, Switzerland, Transvaal, Japan, Buenos Aires, Portugal, Portuguese Indies, New South Wales, etc. One item, probably as remarkable a one as will be found in the entire exhibition, is a nearly complete sheet (all but six stamps,) of the third "Sydney View" stamp of New South Wales, which is easily worth $10,000 to $15,000. Mr. Duveen's stamps at the exhibition represent a total value of nearly $150,000. Senator Ackerman's United States collection is another of considerable interest and importance.

Of most of these collections much notice has been taken since the exhibition opened. In conclusion, and before the show closes its doors, it may be well to point out some collections very wonderful in their way, but which may have been overshadowed to some extent by the exhibits of the "great Moguls."

Mr. E. M. Taylor of Altadena has a collection of nearly 60,000 varieties of Mexican stamps representing a fabulous expenditure of money and an infinite amount of laborious research. Baron Von Polansky's collection of Russian stamps is one of the prettiest in the exhibition. Everywhere in Russia there is a wondrously variegated color, and here we see the same trait in the delicately colored stamps of the Empire of the Czar.

Mr. Sydney Loder's collection of the stamps of Great Britain, from the first adhesive postage stamp ever issued (1840) up to the latest freaks of the King George issues, represent undoubtedly one of the richest collections ever brought together of the stamps of my native country. The value of this collection cannot be less than $100,000.

Every one who has the opportunity to look in and see the most perfect copies known of the penny and two-pence Post Office Mauritius should do so. These two little pieces of printed paper, worth far more than their weight in gold, have probably never before been accessible to the view of the public in the United States. I have seen nearly all of the copies known of these stamps, and there is no question that these are the most perfect pair. True, King George has a copy of the two-pence, unused, which is equally fine; but his Majesty's copy of the penny is used. The exhibition copy of the penny stamp is one of only two known copies.—N. Y. Times.

NEW STAMP BOOK ISSUED.

Postmaster General Burleson is the author of what is expected to prove one of the "six best sellers" among the books of the coming season. Announcement is made that it is off the press and soon can be had at thousands of post offices and sub-post offices throughout the country. The book, its attractive title being "24: 1c—2c" is embellished with beautiful engravings and will sell for the nominal sum of 73 cents.

The demand for such a book was recognized by those who approved of that other sterling little volume issued by the government and which contained twelve two-cent stamps, the price of which was 25 cents. The new volume is to contain twenty-four two-cent and an equal number of one-cent stamps.

"The leaves of this new educational work," said a post office official, "will go far to fill a long felt want. In fact, properly used, they will go as far as the Philippines, Hawaii or Porto Rico. It is seldom an announcement is made of a new volume that is destined to exert so widespread an influence.—Wash. Star.

Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

BULGARIA.—Lemaire's Journal says that the following quantities were overprinted in the recent commemorative issue: 1s, 5s, 10s, 1,000,000 each; 2s, 3s, 15s, 25s, 500,000 each.

CAMEROONS.—The 5m value has appeared on paper watermarked lozenges.

CHINA.—Whitfield King & Co. report having received the $2 value in the new set, the design being the same as the other dollar values.

Adhesive.
$2 blue and black.
Lemaire's Journal says the surcharge "Republic of China" in square form is found on the following postage due stamps: ½c, 4c, 5c, 10c, 20c, 30c, blue; ½c, 1c, 2c, 5c, 20c, brown.

DUTCH INDIES.—Lemaire's Journal notes the appearance of the 7½c with figures of value on colorless background thus completing the series. Two values have also appeared in the type of the 1g recently chronicled.

Adhesives.
50c green.
2½g carmine.

GUATEMALA.—Two more provisionals have been issued by this country, according to Whitfield King & Co., who have shown us the 6c on 1p. The date and the new value are overprinted in blue black ink.

Provisional Adhesives.
On 1902 Issue.
"Seis centavos 1913" on 1p brown and black.
"Un Centavo 1913" on 50c red brown and blue.

HONDURAS.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us two more values in the new homemade set. We find that the 6c is in purple black instead of black as stated in No. 1191. The 1c and 2c values are in the type of the 10c, as described in No. 1189.

Adhesives.
1c chocolate.
2c rose.

INDIA.—In re the item printed under this head in No. 1190, on the authority of Bright & Son, S. Schachne writes:

"The information imparted on page 358 in reference to the India card is erroneous. This card was offered, described and illustrated by the late Adolph Lohmeyer 12 years ago; it is listed in Senf's catalog 1911, and also in the latest Senf book, the catalog of 1914.

MEXICO.—The provisional noted in Nos. 1187 and 1189 were issued in the Mexican state of Tamaulipas, which like Sonora is located on the Mexican border.

ST. LUCIA.—Hermann Focke sends us specimens of the 4d on the new yellow paper, and also the 2d gray which is in the new Grenada type. This stamp at last replaces the 2d, 1902 issue of "The Pitons," which solitary stamp has successfully weathered the storm of new issues of the little Island. The three sets of King Edward stamps of 1902-3, 1904-6 and 1907-10 were shy a 2d value, and it looked as though the King George set would also show this deficiency, but at last the set has been completed. Strange to say, the present issue of St. Lucia consists of three distinct designs: the 4d in the Nyassaland, the 2d and 2sh 6d in the new Grenada and the remaining values in the Seychelles type, which is rather a deviation from previous custom.

Adhesive.
2d gray.
ST. THOMAS & PRINCE ISLANDS.—The 5r and 25r of the 1898-1903 issue have been locally overprinted "Republica" in condensed capitals.

SOUTHERN NIGERIA.—Whitfield King & Co. report the receipt of the £1 value in the King George set. It is on red paper colored through.

Adhesive.
£1 black and purple on red.

SURINAM.—Lemaire's Journal notes the issue of the 1c, 2c, 2½c, and 3c values, with figures of value on colorless background.

THE STORY OF THE BANQUET.

It was indeed a splendid spectacle when on the evening of October 30, the stamp collectors of two continents gathered in the Hotel Astor to attend the official banquet of the International Philatelic Exhibition. Nearly three hundred assembled at the tables, which were so arranged as to accommodate groups of eight. They were handsomely decorated with flowers and the whole scene was one of animation as the philatelists with their wives and lady friends made merry.

At the guest table Commodore Geo. H. Worthington graced the post of honor as honorary president, while at his right was seated Charles Lathrop Pack, the toastmaster of the occasion. The many visitors seated at the guest table made a notable gathering of philatelists.

At 7 o'clock the company gathered at the tables and the following menu was served:—

MENU.
Huitres de Blue Points
Potage Mongol
Olives Celeri Radis
Almandes Salées
Filets de Sole, Meunière
Pommes de Terre, Julienne
Ris De Veau Gratinés à La Reine
Sorbet Cardinal
Poulet de Grain Rôti au Cresson
Pommes de Terre Rissolées
Haricots Verts
Chouxfleu au Gratin
Salade Romaine
Fromage
Diablotins
Glace de Fantaisie
Gateaux Assortis
Haut Barsac, 1904
St. Julien, 1905
Café Noir

A little after eight o'clock president Worthington called the company to order and congratulating those present upon the success of the event, he expressed his appreciation of the presence of so many ladies. He declared that philately had belted the globe with a golden girdle of friendship and wherever the influence of philately has gone it has made friendship and fraternity. In closing he presented to the toastmaster of the evening, Charles Lathrop Pack, a gavel the history of which we shall publish in a following issue of the WEEKLY.

Mr. Pack was greeted with great applause. He declared that no greater democracy can be found than that represented by philately. We gather recruits from all nationalities and the different peoples of the globe are enthusiastic followers of our hobby. He expressed the opinion that the success of the Exhibition was due very largely to the co-operation extended by British philatelists and for this the promoters of the Exhibition were very grateful.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—C. B. Bostwick submits a block of four of the Patiala State 4 annas Service, head of King Edward, one of the stamps having a variety in which the "E" of state is so broken off as to make a very presentable "F."

—We are advised by M. Ohlman of a death in the family which will require a visit to the South-land. This will account for any apparent delay in his attention to the details of business.

—We have received from the International Stamp Co. a very handsome art calendar for 1914. This firm is taking time by the forelock. We appreciate the courtesy extended.

—We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the new 1c Canada King George post card from G. P. Hawley. The design is identical with that of the stamp of this value.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from C. M. Breder, H. S. Williams and W. L. McAttee.

—We are advised by A. N. Caudell that he has purchased at the Washington (D. C.) post office one of the new stamp booklets, containing both 1c and 2c stamps.

THE NEW YORK EXHIBITION.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

The science of color, which has advanced to a rational stage only in recent years, is too complex to be treated at length here, but there are a few phenomena that may be of interest to you. An ink is not a simple color, and it shows two distinct hues, known as overtone and undertone. These may be simply defined as the color transmitted from the surface or reflected, and that transmitted through the ink. As appreciable thickness of the ink may be a red of yellowish cast, while an excessive thin layer may exhibit a bluish cast. The former is known as overtone and the latter undertone. When a postage stamp plate is new, the overtone will predominate, while as it wears the undertone becomes apparent. This partly explains what you term as shades, although there are other factors that govern this variation. Although we take precautions to use an ink that exhibits the minimum of difference between overtone and undertone, and discard the plate when it exhibits pronounced wear, this variation is bound to exist.

The yellowing of paper, which is inevitable no matter how expensive the paper may be, changes the color by introducing just that amount of yellow just as surely as if it were added to the ink formula.

Exposure to acid fumes, no matter how dilute, sooner or later will affect the color to produce shades, and it is not our purpose to make an indestructible ink, for if we did there would be no difficulty in removing the cancellation marks and using a stamp indefinitely. We aim to give you the best that we can make that will meet with all conditions.

You are all aware, no doubt, of the destruction by the Bureau of a large number of the two-cent Panama-Pacific Commemorative stamps as the result of an error in the designation of same. There were 41,064,800 of these stamps printed, having a value of $821,296, yet not a single stamp of this series ever left the Bureau. What a prize one of those stamps would have been to the collector?

As the result of a change from the original design in the 50-cent parcel post stamps, 570,800 of that series, with a face value of $285,400, were destroyed. Nor did one of these stamps leave the Bureau precincts.

Near the close of the past fiscal year, inspectors of the Post Office Department visited the Bureau all unannounced to check up our accounts, and after a task of many days' duration, the accounts checked out to the last one-cent stamp, and we received the heartiest compliments for the excellent system we have in practice at the Bureau. Over 11 billions (sic) of stamps were accounted for, and I am pleased to state that not a single stamp was misplaced or went astray.

Securities to the value of over three billion (sic) of dollars were manufactured by the Bureau during the year 1913, and to the credit of our honest employees it is said that all of this vast sum was handled without the loss of a single penny or postage stamp to the Government, and none of its faithful toilers ever engaged in the counterfeiting of our products.

After seven years' labor, we have perfected a rotary printing press for the printing of postage stamps that will completely revolutionize stamp printing from intaglio plates. The new machine, which is expected to be placed in operation in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing within the next thirty days, is the result of the labor and efforts of Mr. Benjamin R. Stickney, Mechanical Expert and Designer of the Bureau.

This press combines twenty-three operations in one. It prints, gums and perforates the stamps; cuts them into sections of 100 stamps each, or will finish the stamps in coils of 500 and 1,000 stamps per coil.

It turns out the finished product ready for shipment to the postmasters of our country. By its use a saving of 65 per cent. or $280,000, will be effected each year in the present cost of printing the stamps.

I have not the time to describe the technique of this machine, and we invite those who are interested to visit the Bureau after November 15th, when the machine will be in operation.

1914 Price List

My Price List of the Stamps of the United States and its Colonies is ready for distribution. It contains features not found in ordinary lists, such as a complete list of Coil Stamps, Philippine "O. B." stamps, India paper, and card board proofs, as well as a list of the number of Department stamps issued. It is the most complete list published, and no serious collector can afford to be without it. It is free; a postal card will bring it, prepaid with a pre-cancelled stamp.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Bureau has on exhibition photographs showing the process of making postage stamps. This exhibit contains two photographs showing the front and rear views of this interesting rotary printing press. Our exhibit also contains a specimen of the first work printed by this machine.

Mr. Stickney, the inventor of this machine, is present here tonight, and I know he would be pleased to explain the technique of the machine to anyone present who may be interested.

After short speeches from Brigadier General Coolidge, President of the American Philatelic Society and Mr. Frederick R. Cornwall, Ex-President of the same National Society, the proceedings terminated.

The Judges had their first Meeting tonight—and will start their arduous task of adjudicating the 325 exhibits first thing in the morning. The Judges are:

United States—A. H. Caspary, F. R. Cornwall, Eugene Klein, John A. Klemann, John N. Luff, B. W. H. Poole, Walter S. Scott.

Great Britain—D. Field, L. L. R. Hausburg, Fred. J. Melville.

Mr. E. D. Bacon who was to have acted as a Judge was detained in England, and while many regrets have been expressed at his absence the news of his appointment to the custodianship of the King's collection, in succession of the late Mr. J. A. Tilleard has been received here with the greatest satisfaction.

New York, October 27, 1913.—Today at 2 o'clock the doors of America's first great international stamp exhibition were opened to the public. The main halls were fully ready to provide a philatelic feast the like of which has never been spread before in any of the world's capitals. True there have been more extensive and more comprehensive displays, but for a galaxy of philatelic pearls of great price the New York show has already proved a "top-notch-er." Here we have glimpses of the treasures of a trio of Monte Christos among philatelists, and as one wanders up and down the numerous avenues between the exhibits thousand-dollar stamps call for attention at every step.

Wealth of exhibits is the key-note of the New York show. The total value of the stamps represented in their frames is not less than two and a half million dollars and from a first survey of the stamps it is inconceivable that they could be replaced for anything like that sum. Think of it—$2,500,000 in a few thousand small rectangular slips of paper. Denuded of their mounts the whole of the stamps in this show would go into a small "grip" which could be handed around a kindergarten class without putting any excessive strain on the lifting powers of "babes and sucklings."

There are three exhibitors who stand out with the greatest prominence. Mr. George H. Worthington, the King of American stamp men shows several important sections of his collection, and his exhibits all told must be worth nearly 250,000 dollars; this selection being only a part of his million dollar collection which has been promised to the Cleveland Museum of Art after the owner's death, an event which I trust may long be deferred. Next comes Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack second in some respects to Mr. Worthington in the extent of his philatelic possessions, but first in regard to his highly specialized collections, which, in their line are not equalled in the collections of any other collector in the world. Mr. Pack is the great "Lumber King" of America and has been for some time past the President of the National Conservation Association of America.

Third, yet first and second in the trio, for it is invidious at this juncture to give precedence to any one of the "Big Three" is Mr. Henry J. Duveen of the famous firm of art connoisseurs, who owns what is undoubtedly the greatest private collection of postage stamps in the United Kingdom. New York claims a share of Mr. Duveen as a philatelist for that gentleman divides his time pretty much between his business interests in London and in New York. Mr. Duveen crossed the Atlantic on the Mauretania leaving Liverpool on October 11th and his luggage was weighted down with a score or more albums of the Oriel type, making up a total value for insurance purposes of $350,000. On the same ship were several other notable British collections, and the Mauretania's cargo of philatelic gems on that voyage represented a cash value of upwards of $600,000.

On entering the main exhibition hall on the fifth floor of the Exhibition one is confronted with Mr. Worthington's exhibit, one of the most notable exhibits in the show. The first three frames are of exceptional interest and value. Here follow in rapid succession stamps whose value is beyond expression. The first three stamps in the first frame are examples of the 5 cents stamps issued by the postmaster of Alexandria in 1846 before the issue of postage stamps by the United States Government, but subsequent to the passage of the Act of Congress authorizing the preparation and use of stamps in the United States postal service. There are two copies of this stamp of simple circular type-set device on buff paper and one, the rarest of stamps, on blue paper. The stamp on blue paper is unique, and in this respect vies with the celebrated unique stamp—the 1 cent British Guiana 1856 issue—in the possession of the world's greatest collector, M. La Renotière of Paris.

Among the stamps of Baltimore there are several superb copies of the 5 cents on various papers, and of the great rarity the 10 cents, a fine copy on white paper is shown. The Brattleboro stamp is represented by several copies and the show of these pales into insignificance before the extraordinary display of St. Louis stamps. These St. Louis, as most collectors know, are among the most prized of American stamps issued in the pre-Government postage stamp period in the United States. Mr. Worthington shows them in singles, reconstructed plates and some most interesting examples on covers. There

THOSE WHO KNOW SAY:
Mr. D. P. Haskell, of the Oberlin Stamp Co.: "I have never seen a packet of such high value offered for so ridiculously low a price." After ordering three more: "I found these 3 better than the first. The $2 of Hongkong alone, catalogs $1.00; and the Philippines alone come up to the catalog value of the entire packet."

Mr. Clinton L. Chalfant: "Found $24.00 catalogue value, and am certainly pleased." The packet still contains: 300 MIXED Asiatic stamps—Philippine (including unused Katipunan or Aguinaldo stamps), Hongkong, China, Dutch Indies, Malay States, etc., etc., guaranteed to catalogue over $10.00 are no fewer than 54 of these St. Louis stamps in this one exhibit and it is surely no exaggeration to say that no other individual collection can excel this one in its wealth of St. Louis stamps.

The Carriers include such things as a pair of the Franklin Carrier, unused, with gum; the New York Carrier on rosy buff, unused; the 2c on 3c, used on cover; the 2c red in unused pair; a block of 19 unused of the Philadelphia Carrier 1c gold on black; the Baltimore and Philadelphia Carriers are complete. The Government issues consist of several thousand blocks and sheets, and contain such rare unused blocks as the 5c, 1847, 5c, 1857, brick red; 1861-66, block of twelve, 3c pink; block of six 24c steel blue; 1867, 90c, 1869; block of ten of the 4c Columbian error. The Premier Gravure issue of 1861 is complete. The 15c 1869, unused o. g., with picture inverted, and the 30c of the same issue, unused o. g., with flags inverted. The Special Printings are complete. All the Bureau Printings are represented by entire sheets. The Department stamps are all in blocks.

Mr. George H. Worthington, having no competition in Section I, Class A, of the United States Championship collections, undoubtedly fully merited the Gold Medal of the Championship which has been awarded him.

In Section 2, Mr. Franz Reichenheim shows his well-known collection of France. Mr. A. J. Warren shows a Holland collection and Mr. Sydney Loder (who has greatly extended and improved his collection of Great Britain stamps since it was last exhibited) has won the Championship Gold Medal in Section II.

Among some recent gems added to the Loder collections are some Mint blocks of the 6d octagonal; 4 blocks of six each of the 2d deep bright violet blue. He also shows the two-pence large crown, Plate 5, in two mint specimens and one Plate 6, also in blue.

A curiosity which might be open to some question is a copy of the one penny George V. of the medallion type now current, said to be a penny of orange vermilion; the specimen showing having been used on the envelope—has certainly a questionable appearance, but I have seen stamps present a somewhat similar appearance when suspected of tampering to remove writing.

Another curiosity in the Loder collection is a copy of the two-pence blue imperforate, having a line extending from eye to ear which produces the effect of Queen Victoria wearing spectacles, called the "spectacle" variety.

Another addition since I saw it last is a block of 15 retouched die of the penny red; another important acquisition is the 9 penny straw, Plate 5, unused.

Mr. Loder's collection which now runs to 600 pages is estimated to be worth about $100,000.

The other collections in this section, already mentioned, have been described by me at some length at previous exhibits.

In Section III, we find Mr. Duveen and Mr. Worthington, two of the greatest exhibitors in the Exhibition pitted against each other.—Mr. Duveen shows British Guiana and Mauritius.

His British Guianas include a very fine pair of the 2c circular stamp on cover, and a 4c on pelure paper with very large margins, also on cover. The issues of 1852-53 and the provisional issue of 1856 are well represented, the latter including two copies of the 4c on blue surfaced paper and two copies on dark blue "sugar" paper, one being on cover. The plates of the provisional issue of 1862 are reconstructed of initialed specimens, unused and used.

Mr. Duveen's Mauritius includes the unused copies of both 1d and 2d "Post Office" shown. The issue of 1848 includes a block of four of the 1d and a single copy of the 2d, both on yellowish paper and unused, in the earliest state of the plate; also a block of four of the 2d on yellowish paper, unused, medium state of the plate. There are reconstructed plates of both values and numerous specimens showing all stages of wear of the plates. There are also reconstructed plates of the small and large "fillet" of 1859 as well as single specimens unused and used. The collection includes numerous unused copies of the lithographed stamps of 1859, a perforated 1sh green of 1862, unused, and is practically complete in all the subsequent issues, unused.

In this section also Mr. Worthington shows a collection of Transvaal, practically complete according to Gibbons' catalogue. The Championship Gold Medal in this 3rd Section was awarded to Mr. Henry J. Duveen.

In Section IV, of the Championship Gold Medal class there are only four exhibits, but each one is remarkable for extent, for general interest and for completeness.

Mr. Pack, Mr. Worthington, Mr. Duveen and Mr. Edward M. Taylor are all in the competition here.

Mr. Worthington's Hawaiian Islands includes a cover bearing one 2c and 5c "Missionary," a 5c and 13c "Missionary," unused o. g.; one 5c used on cover and two 13c used. The Numerals are represented by reconstructed sheets, original uncut sheets, and many singles showing errors, etc. The engraved issues are all represented by blocks and entire sheets. This collection was awarded the Championship Gold Medal in this section.

Hon. Edward M. Taylor received a Special Award of the Judges of a silver cup for original research for his highly specialized collection of Mexican stamps running to nearly 60,000 varieties.

Each issue opens with a display of stamps emphasizing the plate varieties and main types of overprint, and then follows a remarkably complete exposition of the district names and their numerous varieties. The early issues are particularly noteworthy, including some large blocks of unused and most of the rare names used. The collection is a thoroughly complete one and embraces all issues. It abounds in errors and uncatalogued varieties and practically all the known rarities are represented. Among the more noteworthy items are two copies of the 1 real of 1856 showing part impression of the 4rls on face, blocks of nine of the 4r and 8r and almost complete sheets of the 1/2r and 2r. The 1861 issue is also very complete and there is a wonderful display of the Eagle type including nine copies of the rare 3 centavos and numerous examples of the scarcer sub-consignment numbers. The lithographed stamps of 1866 are shown in large blocks and the rare varieties of 1867 are fully shown. The 1868 to 1873 issues are extensively specialized, a number of complete sheets and panes being shown. In the later issues all the rarities are represented, including the 5 and 10 pesos of 1884-92, the rare perforation varieties of 1895-98, etc. The official stamps are shown on an equally complete scale as also are the Porte de Mar stamps. The Guadalupe stamps are also highly specialized and in Campeche the 25c and 50c denominations are displayed.

Mr. Pack shows his Argentine Republic in this section and Mr. Duveen a very high specialized collection of Japan.

Forty Volumes Will Require 600 Cases To Make the Proper Display.

Through the will of Max E. Bernheimer, a wealthy brewer who died suddenly a few weeks ago, the Metropolitan Museum is to receive a unique addition to its treasures. It is a collection of stamps, said to be worth $250,000, in which Mr. Bernheimer was deeply interested for fifty years.

The Metropolitan has never had stamps among its exhibits, and it was with this in mind that Mr. Bernheimer who was a member of the museum, arranged for the gift. The British Museum has what is probably the most extensive philatelic collection in the world, known as the King's collection, and each year it draws many visitors.

Mr. Bernheimer hoped to make his collection mean to the Metropolitan what the King's does to the British. As it stands now the Bernheimer stamps include more than 50,000 varieties. Every one issued so far in the twentieth century has a place. About 700 stamps of the nineteenth century are missing. The testator hoped that eventually the museum would be able, by gift or purchase, to round out the collection.

George Bernheimer, son of the late brewer has written to Robert W. DeForest, President of the Metropolitan, informing him of the legacy and the conditions. They are that the exhibit be known as the Max E. Bernheimer collection, and that the contents of the forty-nine volumes be exhibited in glass cases, of which 600 will be necessary for the proper display. A fund is provided for the maintenance of the exhibit.

As the collection is of value from the standpoint of art as well as historically in marking the advance of civilization it is expected that the directors will be glad to avail themselves of the chance.—N. Y. Times.

EDITORIAL.

We Win a Medal—The WEEKLY is highly gratified to receive a prize of a bronze medal for its exhibit of a "bound volume and numbers of current volume unbound" at the recent International Philatelic Exhibition, New York. In Section II, Philatelic Journals, of Class M, Philatelic Publications, etc., the competition was keen, the best of the American weeklies and monthlies having been entered in the competition, while the splendid foreign philatelic monthlies were liberally represented. It could not have been an easy task for the judges to adjudicate the claims of a weekly publication as against those of a monthly, as theoretically, and in some cases actually, the monthly is the medium for recording the more substantial annals of philately while the weekly as a newspaper does not attempt to attain the sobriety of contents of the magazine. That the judges were so discerning as to weigh those intangible considerations that should be given recognition in contests of the kind and that they measured motives as well as means is fortunate, as otherwise what might be called the practicability of the newspaper would have been wholly eclipsed by the more elegant results of the monthly. The judges have given all evidence of their insight and impartiality in including a weekly as one of the two prize-winners, even though it was our own paper that was awarded the second prize. It is needless to say that the medal will be cherished by the WEEKLY and proudly retained as a memento of America's greatest philatelic triumph.

Theft Reported—That there should have been a theft of United States rarities at the close of the New York exhibition is a coincidence as well as a crime as we remember how in 1893, at the stamp exhibit at the Chicago World's Fair, a brick was thrown through one of the cases and some of the U. S. stamps, including a proof of the twenty-dollar State, were stolen; but the loss comparatively was small. At Buffalo, during the Pan-American fair in 1902, the government exhibit was despoiled of some of its U. S. stamps by a thief who was captured, we believe, with the booty in his possession. The great value in a small compass that is represented by some stamps makes them a shining mark for the thief; and if by any chance he has a predilection for stamps, the impulse to seize them at any hazard becomes almost an obsession.

Joke Cancellation—From Mr. E. A. Steiner, Seattle, Washington, we have received the following: "Will you please explain what the enclosed cancellation on the one-cent Pacific-Panama signifies? It looks like a hand-made ink stain in shape of a skin like a mink. I have never noticed anything like this before. Is this an official cancellation stamp or an employee's joke?" We had to look twice at Mr. Steiner to see if he was really in earnest,—the hand-made cancellation is suspiciously like a cat in characteristic attitude as viewed from the back. The impression seems to have been made in the regulation cancellation ink. Can it be that the state, Washington, that gave to philately one of its most piquant sensations, the "kicking mule" cancellation of hallowed memory is trying to titillate the senses of collectors once again? Vain delusion, for the celebrity of the "kicking mule" cancellation cannot be disturbed by the intrusion of any rank imitation and the cat cancellation that has been described may as well prowl on ere it becomes the target of assorted crockery. Of one thing, Sempronius, you may be certain and that is that the government does not loan its dignity or approval to frivolity of the kind and the rollicking de'il, the comic postal clerk responsible for the cat is flirting with retribution more or less grim and governmental.

Bad Business—The Popular Magazine says that a gentleman residing in Guatemala City received nine letters in one day from the United States and each letter bore only a two cent stamp, with the result that there was a double deficiency in postage due to be paid by him. The senders of the letters sought business from the recipient and they came from some of the largest business houses in the United States. The point is made: "We are spending three hundred and seventy-five million dollars on a canal across the Isthmus of Panama to increase our trade, and yet our merchants do not go to the trouble of getting clerks who know that the postal rate to Latin American countries is five cents." It may be added as a sort of commentary on this revelation that the department at Washington again has issued a warning against short-paid letters to Australia, "the senders of the letters being under the impression, it is presumed, that our two-cent domestic postage rate is applicable to said letters." A single rate foreign letter pre-paid at the two cent rate being three cents short-paid is subject to a postage due charge of six cents on delivery.

Hail—We have been informed that the position of Philatelist at Washington has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Jos. B. Leavy of New York, a gentleman who is a thorough philatelist and whose studies of Nicaraguan stamps marked him as a student of unusual attainments. Mr. Leavy, too, if memory does not play us false, was a famous specialist in the stamps of Mexico before specialists in these stamps flourished as at present. We believe that Mr. Leavy was impelled to seek the position through a love for stamp associations rather than the more or less munificent salary of twelve hundred dollars a year that is attached to the office. Probably, it was a case of congenial surroundings being more important than "salary expected." A custodian who attends more to the pride than the profit of the position is just the one to establish a mark of high ideals and quiet efficiency. In this connection, it is to be said that the first choice of the civil service commission was an estimable lady in the employ of Mr. H. F. Colman of Washington, but because of a technicality that arose she was found ineligible,—to the commission's regret, we trust.

From an Old File—In the number of a magazine dated May, 1841, we find: "New Directory of New York.—We are gratified to learn that Mr. Tremayn, manager of the New York Penny Post, is preparing for the press a city directory, to be called the 'New York Penny Post Directory, for 1841-2.'" Publishers: Messrs. David Felt & Co.

We Can Tell—A reader says that he has found it impossible to learn when the registration of letters was first introduced into our postal department. The third section of the act of March 3rd, 1855, provided for the registration of letters whose contents were too valuable to be entrusted to the ordinary mails; and on May 10th, 1855, the postal authorities issued a circular of "Instructions to Postmasters and Notice to the Public," embodying twelve sections, the first of which read: "Letters, alleged to be valuable, posted at one post-office in the United States and deliverable at another such office, shall from and after the first day of July, 1855, be registered at the office of mailing, on the application of the person posting the same, and the payment of a registration fee of five cents." The rates for registration have been changed at different times in the past and it is to be noticed that the present rate is just twice the rate in 1855.

NEW SWEDISH DISCOVERIES.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT, F. R. P. S.

In the October issue of Svensk Filatelistisk Tidskrift, Mr. Harry Wennberg, the well known Stockholm dealer, announces the discovery of two new Swedish varieties which it will be worth the while to look for. It is well known that the official stamp of the 1889 overprint issue, 10 on 12 öre, blue exists with perforation 14. Now the 1889 official 10 öre on 24 öre, orange, has also been found with the 14 perforation. As the discovery caused an immediate investigation by collectors of the Swedish issue it can be stated that this variety has only been found in unused condition and will undoubtedly prove one of the rarest of Sweden's stamps. One copy exists in Paris, an unsevered pair is owned by Mr. George Levin, a member of the Swedish Philatelic Society, and another single copy is owned by a prominent Swedish collector. I would advise all holders of Swedish officials, 10 on 24 (Scott's No. 224) to scan the perforations.

The other discovery is of a more sensational nature and the stamp concerned will undoubtedly prove of great rarity in unused condition. While Mr. Wennberg's son was assisting his father with the arrangement of the Swedish stock, he found a stamp which appeared to be a double impression in two different colors. He submitted the stamp to his father who now is able to announce the new variety as 1876-77, Double impression, 20 öre bright red on 20 öre dull orange.

In 1875 the 20 öre stamp was erroneously issued in a dull orange or pale yellow color. As this color caused confusion with the contemporary 24 öre value which was printed in light orange or lemon yellow, the orange 20 öre was withdrawn in October 1876. As a very large number had been printed, it now appears, that the stamp printers, instead of destroying the remainders of the withdrawn stamps thought that the pale color would permit of the sheets being printed over again in another color and consequently they were run through the press again and printed in a bright red. It is clearly established that such a second printing took place although, generally speaking, the printing was done so carefully that the second printing nearly exactly registers with the first. Copies showing a shifted "second print" are comparatively scarce. It is possible that the sheets were submitted to some bleaching process before they were printed over. Mr. Wennberg looked through 30 thousand 20 öre stamps and a friend of his looked over 25,000, and the earliest cancellation found was November, 1876. From this fact it can be taken for granted that the stamp was issued in November, 1876. This coincides with the Royal Postal Directorates' circular announcing the withdrawal of the pale yellow 20 öre stamps. This circular was sent out in October, 1876.

Copies of this extremely interesting stamp on which the first printing is only faintly visible are quite common, but copies with a plain "first print" are rather scarce. Only one unused specimen has been found. Mr. Wennberg sent some of the stamps to the well known specialist, Baron E. Leijonhufvud, and received the following reply:

"I have examined the stamps very closely and believe, as you do, that they originate from an overprinting of the faulty stamps of 1875. I suppose the object was economy in regard to paper and perforating, especially as the edition was large, in fact larger than any other printing of the 20 öre value from 1872 to 1877. As the stamps were recalled through circular of October, 1876, and you have found the earliest cancellation on the 'double prints' to be November of the same year, it seems that the withdrawn stamps were overprinted immediately. It may be possible that some correspondence in regard to this transaction may be found in the archives of the Post department or that someone connected with this printing may still be alive."

Here is a stamp which in its origin is practically unique, and it is a surprising fact, that it has not been discovered before this. I would advise American collectors of the stamps of Sweden to look over their accumulations of the 20 öre value of 1876-77.

ADRIANOPLE COMMEMORATIVES.

We are indebted to Whitfield King & Co. for a specimen of a set of new stamps issued October 23 by the Turkish Postoffice to commemorate the retaking of Adrianople.

There are three denominations 10, 20 and 40 paras, all of exactly the same design and differing only in color. The design represents the famous Sultan Selim Mosque at Adrianople and the stamps were engraved and printed by Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co., London. They are to remain in use for one month but as the issue is a limited one it is expected that the stamps will be sold long before the month has expired. The 10 para is in green; 20 para in red and 40 para in blue.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Due to the enterprise of H. F. Kohr the Kansas City Star of November 2 contained a copy of the full page Worthington plate as given in the WEEKLY of October 18. It is accompanied by a good stamp story and when the A. P. S. wants a publicity agent we should recommend Mr. Kohr for the position.

—We regret to announce the death of Napoleon Hausselman, who for a long time has been dealing in stamps and coins under the name of the I. X. L. Stamp & Coin Co. Mr. Hausselman died October 17 after a short illness of four days. The business of the company will be continued by his brother, Joseph Hausselman, and a son, under the old firm name.

—Secretary John A. Klemann advises us of two corrections in the list of awards in connection with the N. Y. Exhibition. C. H. Eagle received a gold medal for 9 and 10 together, while A. D. Ballard received a silver gilt medal in Class B, section 9.

—Wendover Neefus, Hudson, N. Y., would like the address of the collector in Coudersport, Pa., who sent him an order for stamps without name and address. Mr. Neefus has just issued a complete and nicely printed price list of stamps for the United States and colonies. The stamps are double-priced according to condition.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from C. M. Breder (2) and H. F. Kohr.

—F. J. Stanton, Norwich, N. Y., enters complaint against Robert S. Perry of 62 Whalley Ave., New Haven, Conn., who was sent approval sheets, March 25 and who gives "Norman Hatch, Room 66, Poli Bldg., New Haven, Conn." as Descriptive Circular on Application

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldridge lists the following new precancels:

Paterson, N. J.—two lines (PATERSON—N. J.) horizontal inscription in thin skeleton letters between fine lines 8 mm. apart, lines and letters 1/4 mm. in thickness.

Augusta, Maine.—two lines, (AUGUSTA—MAINE) horizontal inscription in thin capitals with serifs, 2 1/2 mm. high, between lines, 13 1/2 mm. apart, and 1 mm. thick. 1c 1912, inverted.

Cleveland, Ohio.—(No. 1155) 1c 1912-13, triple strike.

BOSNIA.—Several of our foreign contemporaries report the issue of a new series of newspaper stamps for this Province. The shape is the same as the low values of the current postage set. The centre shows a bust portrait of a Bosnian girl in costume. The figures of value are printed in the lower corners and there are no other inscriptions, the frame being filled with floral ornaments.

Newspaper Stamps.

- 2h ultramarine.
- 6h violet.
- 10h rose.
- 20h green.

CUBA.—A new series of stamps is shortly to be issued showing a map of the Island. The engraving is the work of the Security Bank Note Co., Philadelphia, and the printing is being done under the supervision of George P. Foster, an expert printer from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington.

DAHOMY.—A new set of stamps has also been issued for this Colony, the central picture showing a native climbing a coconut tree. The figures of value (without "c") are in the ovals at the sides, the stamps being upright oblong, like the French Guinea set recently chronicled. The inscriptions are the same as for Ivory Coast, with the name of the Colony changed.

Adhesives.

- 1c violet and black.
- 2c brown and rose.
- 4c black and brown.
- 5c yellow green and green.
- 10c vermilion and rose.
- 20c gray and brown.

- 25c ultramarine and blue.
- 30c brown violet and green.
- 35c brown and black.
- 40c black and orange.
- 45c gray and ultramarine.
- 50c brown red and brown.
- 75c blue and violet.
- 1f green and black.
- 2f orange and brown.
- 5f violet and blue.

GREECE.—Lemaire's Journal reports of the appearance of the lithographed postage due stamps, the 1l and 2l being in modified colors.

Postage Due Adhesives.

- 1 lepton light green.
- 2 lepta carmine.
- 3 lepta brown red.
- 5 lepta green.
- 10 lepta red.
- 20 lepta gray violet.

IVORY COAST.—A new series of stamps has been issued for this Colony. Like the stamps recently chronicled for French Guinea and Mauritania, and in this number for Dahomey, only one design is shown, a native boat on an African river. The design is horizontal oblong, with "Afrique Occidentale Française" at the top and "Cot D'Ivoire" at the bottom. The figures of value are in colorless circles in the lower corners, surmounted by heathen idols. The central picture is artistic and pleasing. The stamps are perforated 14x13 1/2.

Adhesives.

- 1c brown violet and violet.
- 2c brown and black.
- 4c violet and brown violet.
- 5c yellow green and green.
- 10c vermilion and rose.
- 20c black and gray.
- 25c ultramarine and blue.
- 30c brown and bistre.
- 35c violet and vermilion.
- 40c gray and green.
- 45c vermilion and brown.
- 50c black and violet.
- 75c brown and rose.
- 1f orange and black.
- 2f brown and blue.
- 5f blue and brown.

MEXICO.—Sonora.—Howard R. Howard sends us further specimens of the Sonora provisionals recently chronicled. The 5c has already been noted with black roulette. Mr. Howard now sends us 1c, 2c and 3c with black roulette. The setting is the same as for the earlier printings, except that the 1c has a shorter, wider figure. On the 3c the red ink has taken a dark shade—lake, in fact. Mr. Howard's letter came through from Sonora with only a 5c provisional affixed.

All these stamps are printed in sheets of 10, five stamps at a time, the sheet being reversed to print the second five. The paper is plain white wove. The earlier printings had a straight edge at the top for all stamps of all values, but the black roulette appears on all four sides. The varieties that have come to hand thus far, not counting the wrong font "C" in "Centavos" on all issues are as follows:

Embossed "Constitutional."

- 1c tall medium thin figure of value.
- 2c heavy wide figure of value.
- 2c thin square figure of value.
- 3c heavy wide figure of value.
- 5c heavy wide figure of value.

- 5c light Gothic figure of value.
- 10c medium thin figures of value.
- Black roulette.
- 5c light Gothic figure of value.

With Circular Background in green showing balances, rayed Liberty Cap and date, "1913."

Colorless roulette.

- 1c tall, medium thin figure of value.
- 3c heavy wide figure of value.
- Black roulette.
- 1c heavy wide figure of value.
- 2c light Gothic figure of value.
- 3c heavy wide figure of value.
- 5c light Gothic figure of value.

Mr. Howard says all these stamps were issued regularly without gum, but at some offices and from mail cars on trains on the S. P. de M., gummed specimens have been sold. The latest specimens sent us by Mr. Howard indicate that gummed paper is being used in the printing.

On several values, both with and without the green vignette, a space appears after the second "DE" of "Decreto de Bde" so as to resemble an apostrophe. The first two stamps on the sheets of 5c have the month "Maro" instead of "Marzo."

NEW ZEALAND.—The Australian Stamp Journal says that the Postmaster-General stated in a recent annual report that it is proposed to issue the following denominations for new stamps bearing the portrait of King George: 1/2d, 2d, 2 1/2d, 3d, 4d, 4 1/2d, 6 1/2d, 7 1/2d, 9d and 1sh. The 1d will remain the same type as at present. It will be noted that the new denominations cut out the 5d and 8d at present in use.

PARAGUAY.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us two more values of the current small design, 1p blue and 1p 25c pale blue.

SOMALILAND PROTECTORATE.—Whitfield King & Co. report the 2 1/2a, 3a, 8a and 12a values in the new King George set.

ST. THOMAS & PRINCE ISLANDS.—Whitfield King & Co. report having received the new set, locally surcharged the values of which are as follows:—

King Luiz—115 on 10, 115 on 25, 115 on 200, 130 on 75, 400 on 50 (two varieties), 400 on 80 reis; King Carlos—2 1/2, 5, 15, 20, 50, 75, 100, 400, 500, 700 reis; Postage Due—5, 10, 20, 30, 50, 60, 100, 130, 200 and 500 reis.

The Boston Philatelic Society.

C. K. B. NEVIN, Pres.; FERNALD HUTCHINS, Vice Pres.; C. A. HOWES, Sec., 65 Kilby St., Boston; PHILIP WOLFF, Foreign Sec., Box 72, Fenway Station, Boston; J. B. B. SMITH, Treas., East Weymouth, Mass.; J. H. LYONS, Supt. Auc.; J. B. B. SMITH, Supt. Sales; A. W. DUNNING, Supt. Bourse.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays. Room 322, Tremont Bldg., 7.30 P. M.

BOSTON, MASS., Oct. 21, 1913.

The 300th (regular) meeting was held at the Club Room this evening with President Nevin in the chair and 57 members and friends present.

The reading of the September minutes was dispensed with. The Library Committee announced that the Scott and Yvert and Tellier catalogs for 1914 had been put on the shelves. The President asked those who intended going to New York to the Exhibition to give their names and dates of going and returning to the secretary, so that members might be able to find company on the way.

The name of Mr. Jesse W. Sargent was proposed for membership by N. Cobe.

As according to the call for the meeting it was especially designed to welcome Mr. Fred. J. Melville, President of the Junior Philatelic Society, London, and an Honorary member of our own Society. Mr. Batchelder, chairman of the Entertainment Committee called on the President for a welcome to the guest. President Nevin extended the greetings of the Society in a happy manner and introduced Mr. Melville, who gave a very enjoyable impromptu talk and exhibited two documents of great interest, which he had brought with him for the purpose. One was a receipt for the quarter's rent of the Post Office in America given by the King's representative to the one who "farmed out" that institution in the seventeenth century. The other was a letter from Sir Rowland Hill, giving over his own signature the reason for employing the Queen's portrait on the first postage stamps. Mr. Melville also exhibited a fine set of photos of Messrs. Harrison & Sons stamp printing establishment in London.

Mr. Charles S. Hill was next introduced and spoke very entertainingly. Short remarks by the two ex-Presidents present, Messrs. Wylie and Howes, were given and then Mr. Chas. H. Fowle extended "Undooley's" own welcome to the guest of the evening in characteristic style. A greeting in poetical form by Mr. A. W. Dunning was read by the secretary.

The meeting adjourned at 9.10 p. m., but was continued socially to a late hour.

C. A. Howes, Sec.

Previous to the above meeting an informal dinner was held at the City Club with Mr. Melville as the guest of those present, who numbered twenty-nine of the Society members and friends. The affair was a very pleasant one without speeches but with an opportunity to meet the guest of honor.

BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 15, 1913.

The 302nd (regular) meeting will be held at the Club Room on Tuesday evening, November 18th, at 7.30 o'clock.

The name of Mr. Jesse W. Sargent will be voted on for membership.

It is planned to have some of the stamps that were exhibited at New York by our members shown at this meeting. Oth r entertainment will doubtless be provided as well.

Come and hear the latest news about the Exhibition from those who were there.

A TAIL UV STAMPS.

After C. J. COLTON. (A Modification.)

Lately I've been thinking of how very sad and bad
That so very many people have the stamp collecting fad;
If one had choked this vice when it first began to start
It would have saved full many a sad and breaking heart.
It has entirely ruined my happiness, and turned my hair all white,
It worries me in the daytime and bothers me at night,
I mope around regretting all the happy bygone days
Before my wife became a victim of the stamp collecting craze.

I am an honest working feller, and I try to do what's right,
I don't drink any likker, and I don't go out at night,
All the money that I earn with these old hands of mine
I give my better half, for to her I am always kind.
I've been married many a happy year and never in my life
Have I said a word that's cross to my little wife,
But Old Nick has got his work in, in some mighty sneaking ways,
For he has made my wife a victim of the stamp collecting craze.

You see we went calling on some city folks one night,
And a little feller in the house who takes a great delight
In saving up old postage stamps, he up and tells my wife
That to make a collection is the greatest thing in life;
And he gave her some to start with, and she makes me buy a book,
To paste the doggoned things in, and since then, by hook or crook,
She has been gathering in the labels, and she don't care what she pays,
For she is mighty reckless, since she got the stamp collecting craze.

First thing I began to notice was the meals getting short,
We didn't have of things to eat the half of what we ort;
Then the babie's clothes got shabby and she didn't buy some more,
But made them wear the old ones, a thing she'd never done before,
And I found that of the money given her to wisely spend
For furren stamps a goodly portion she was always sure to send;
She would scrape, and she would pinch, and every cent that she could raise
Would go, like so much dirt, to feed the stamp collecting craze.

She has scarcely ate her meals before she is fooling with her book,
And she worries all the neighbors just to come and have a look;
Her old album is beneath her pillar when she goes to bed at night
And she is counting out her treasures in the morn before it's light;
I've got to do the house work, wash the kids and fix the lamps,
'Cause my wife haint got the time, you know, to spare from her old stamps.
I tell you my heart is breaking, and sad are all my days
Since my wife's become a victim of the stamp collecting craze.

AN EDITOR'S SAVINGS.

An editor who started about twenty years ago with only fifty-five cents is now worth $100,000. His accumulation of wealth is owing to his frugality, good habits, strict attention to business, and the fact that an uncle died and left him $99,999.—Editor and Publisher.

STAMP SHOW VISITORS' CUP.

Each visitor to the recent International Philatelic Exhibition at the Engineering Societies' Building received a ticket on which he was requested to vote which exhibit he considered the most interesting. The exhibitor receiving the largest number of votes, it was announced, would be awarded a silver cup to be known as the "Visitors' Cup."

The count has been finished and the prize goes to Joseph A. Steinmetz of Philadelphia, with George H. Worthington of Cleveland second.

Good Returns from St. Nicholas

A few weeks ago St. Nicholas started an advertising campaign in Mekeel's Weekly. One stamp dealer who wrote us for rates and thereafter ran an advertisement in our November issue, writes as follows:—

"You may repeat our November advertisement in your December issue. Results from this announcement are beyond expectation so far."

Many of our advertising friends feel the same way about it. Instructions sent this week will catch our January issue. Write for rates and sample copy.

SPECIALIZED UNITED STATES.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

CHAPTER XLIX.

The Series of 1894.

The contract for making the postage stamps of the United States expired on June 30, 1894. Earlier in the year bids were advertised for. The United States Bureau of Engraving and Printing entered into competition with three other concerns and under-bid them for the work. The contract for printing the stamps was made with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, to take effect July 1, 1894. The stamps of the United States have been printed by that department of the government ever since.

All of the designs, dies, transfer rolls and plates used by the American Bank Note Company were turned over to the Bureau. It was decided that there should be no change in the design of the stamps, except that a mark should be used to designate the work of the new printers. This was done by cutting triangles into the upper corners of the design. It is probable that this was done upon a second die, made by making a transfer from the master die of the American Bank Note Co., and transferring it to a new die plate into which the triangles were engraved.

There were three forms of triangles used. These Types are well known, and have been illustrated in so many catalogs, that I deem it unnecessary to describe them. Type I was used in all denominations. Type II and Type III occur only in the 2 cent stamps.

The postal department abandoned the denominations of 30 cents and 90 cents, and created four new values—50 cents, $1, $2 and $5.

The first stamp to appear was the 6 cents, issued July 18, 1894.

The dates of issue of the different denominations follow:

1 cent—October 10, 1894.
2 cent—October 5, 1894. The exact date of issue of Types II and III is not absolutely known.
3 cent—September 24, 1894.
4 cent—September 18, 1894.
5 cent—September 28, 1894.
6 cent—July 18, 1894.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

8 cent—March 25, 1895.
10 cent—September 17, 1894.
15 cent—October 15, 1894.
50 cent—November 1, 1894.
$1—November 15, 1894.
$2—December 10, 1894.
$5—December 10, 1894.

Various shades and a considerable number of plates are found in this issue. I will give a brief description of each, with classification of shades as made by John N. Luff.

1 cent—printed from 20 plates, the lowest number being 2 and the highest number 122, (not inclusive nor consecutive). Shades—pale ultramarine, ultramarine, deep ultramarine, gray blue, pale dull blue, dull blue, deep dull blue, dark blue.

2 cents, Type I—printed from 32 plates, lowest No. 1, highest No. 144. Shades—pale pink, pink, aniline rose, rose, deep rose, carmine rose, dull lilac rose, lilac rose, salmon red, red, scarlet, brown red, rose carmine, carmine, violet carmine, carmine lake, lake, carmine.

2 cent, Type II—printed from 4 plates, lowest 126; highest 133. Shades—rose red, rose, aniline rose, rose vermilion.

2 cents, Type III—printed from 16 plates, lowest number 16; highest number 158. Shades—rose, rose vermilion.

Varieties are combination of Types II and III, adjoining, from plate No. 170. Imperforate vertically, imperforate horizontally. A variety is found without horizontal lines running through the right triangle.

3 cent—printed from 8 plates, lowest number 44, highest 107. Shades—dull purple, purple, deep purple.

Varieties—imperforate; broken "E" in last letter of value "Three."

4 cent—printed from 8 plates, lowest number 45, highest number 106. Shades—dark yellow brown, orange brown, gray brown, black brown.

Variety—imperforate.

5 cent—printed from 12 plates, lowest number 49, highest number 164. Shades—yellow brown, orange brown, dark orange brown, red brown.

Varieties—Imperforate horizontally, imperforate. An unlisted variety has Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE NEW YORK EXHIBITION.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

In Class B, we have grouped together a number of collections of the stamps of the United States and Possessions. Section I deals with the Government issues. The very fine collection formed by the Hon. E. R. Ackerman (exhibited but not for competition) was started more than forty years ago by Mr. Ackerman, the Senator being a very consistent collector of postage stamps since childhood.

This collection of stamps is chiefly remarkable for the fact of its having a very large quantity of interesting covers and also large blocks of stamps, Mr. Ackerman having collected blocks long before they were as fashionable as they are today. There are a large number of United States stamps used in China and other Foreign countries scattered throughout the collection, in fact, anything that is of an odd or curious nature appeals to Mr. Ackerman and is represented in this collection, which is one of the finest in the country.

The Gold Medal in this section was awarded to Mr. C. E. Chapman, whose display included 1847, 5c, mint block of eight in unusually fine condition. 1869, 15c and 24c with inverted medallions; 30c with inverted flags (these errors of 1869 were, unfortunately, stolen from the exhibition on the closing day, as already noted in these columns), 30c without grill, mint block of twenty-five with corner margins, imprints and plate numbers. The special printings of all issues are almost complete. 1901, 1c, 2c and 4c, inverted medallions, without "Specimen," State Department, No. 2 (two shades), $5, $10, $20 (three shades of each), unused. Of the $20 stamp there are a strip of five and a complete sheet, both having margins with imprints and plate numbers. The $2 and $5 with overprint "Specimen" are also shown.

A Silver Gilt Medal was awarded Mr. Henry E. Gibson for a most interesting collection—the noteworthy items of which were 1847, 10c, mint block of six, 1869, Inverts complete, including unused 30c; 1901, Pan-American inverts. Silver Medals were also awarded to Clarence H. Eagle and Theodore W. Barry.

Two very rich collections were shown in Section II, covering the United States Postmasters' and Carriers' stamps.

Mr. Chapman who received a Gold Medal shows a large portion of the stamps on original covers. Among the choicest things are: Baltimore, 5c black on white, on entire; two copies of 5c black on bluish, on entire, one being the earliest known date of use, Nov. 9th, 1845; envelope, 5c blue on salmon, entire. Brattleboro, 5c black on buff, on entire (No. 10 in plate) and an unused copy with margin at top (No. 2 in plate). Millbury, 5c on bluish, on large piece of cover. Providence, 5c on cover, postmarked Aug. 10, 1846. St. Louis, plate I complete, on greenish paper, also two pairs of 5c unused; plate II complete on gray-lilac paper, also strip of three 10c on cover, and a 5c and two 10c in a block; retouched 5c on greenish and on gray-lilac, both unique; 20c on greenish (only three copies known). Plate III, pelure paper, complete; New Haven, 5c red on buff, cut square, the finest copy known, and 5c blue on buff, the only copy known.

Among the Carriers' stamps are an unusually fine lot of Honour's, including dropped letter varieties; Hopedale, Mass., rectangular type black on pink and circular type black on buff (the only copy known); New York City Despatch, 2c red; Philadelphia, 1851, 1c black, also the rare handstamped types, C31, 1c blue on buff, and C31 and C32 stamped in black on margins of the 1c, 1851, Government issue.

Mr. Henry C. Gibson received the Silver Gilt Medal in this section for a collection which included St. Louis, plates I and II complete; New York specialized, including two strips of four, block of three and two signed "R. H. M." on cover, also a nearly complete reconstructed sheet composed of pairs.

Now, the most wonderful exhibit in the whole display, especially to a visitor from Europe, is to be found in Section III of this class from Mr. Worthington's noteworthy collection of rarities of the Confederate States, postmasters' stamps was amazing.

Among the Provisional issues are: 5c red, Athens; full set Baton Rouge stamps, including the errors; 10c pink, Beaumont on cover; 5c Danville, on cover; 5c Emory, on cover; Goliad, Texas, six varieties; 10c Greenwood, on cover; 5c Grove Hill, on cover; 5c Helena, Texas, on cover; 5c blue, Kingston; full set of Knoxville envelopes; 5c blue Livingston, Ala., on cover; Lynchburg stamps and envelopes complete; Macon, Ga., complete, including the 2c green on cover; three varieties Marion stamps; reconstructed sheet of Petersburg, Va.; reconstructed sheet of Pleasant Shade, Va., sheet of 10 stamps, five varieties, unused, consisting of a block of six, a vertical pair and two singles; Salem, Va., 5c black, on cover; Tellico Plains, Tenn., strip of three, two 5c and 10c; three varieties Uniontown stamps on covers; 5c red brown Victoria, Texas, unused, and 10c used on cover. The General issues are represented by many entire sheets and covers. Mr. Worthington received the Gold Medal in this class.

In Section V, Mr. J. M. Bartels (Gold Medal) showed his fine collection of "Philippines" as also did Major F. L. Palmer (Silver Gilt).

In Section VI, Mr. L. B. Mason's Canal Zone collection (Silver) was in competition with Mr. H. B. Newman's collection of Porto Rico (Silver Gilt).

Sections VII to X dealt principally with envelopes, cut squares and revenue stamps.

Section XI, included a fine collection by C. E. Chapman of rare United States Local stamps (Gold Medal). This collection represents the best copies from the late E. Harrison Sanford, F. W. Hunter and Charles P. Harbeck, to which have been added many fine copies and rarities. Nearly all the copies are on original covers and the collection is almost complete as to known varieties. Among its choice features are: Berford & Co.'s Express, complete on entire; City Despatch Post, 2c yellow; City Mail Co. (only two known); Gordon's City Express, red (the only known copy); Jenkin's Camden Despatch, an uncatalogued variety; Letter Express, bisected; Messenkepe's Union Square P. O., red; New York City Express Post, 2c orange (the only known copy); Penny Express, entire sheet of twelve (the only one known with gum); Wells Fargo & Co., carriers used between St. Joe, Mo., and Placerville, Cal., by the Overland Pony Express route, July to October, 1861; Wood's City Despatch (the only known copy).

Mr. John A. Klemann also shows a very fine collection of these stamps in 5 volumes, with a comparative study of the counterfeiting.

telegraph stamps and there were three competitors including Mr. Hiram E.
Deats, Mr. L. A. Missbach and Joseph
S. Rich. Mr. Rich got the Silver Gilt and Mr. Deats the Silver Medal in this section.

In Section XIII. some very effective and beautiful collections of United States proofs and essays were displayed, representing a very great variety. The Awards in this section were given to Mr. Ed. H. Mason, Silver Gilt Medal;
Mr. Henry H. Wilson, Silver Medal;
Mr. Clarence H. Eagle, an extra Silver Medal.

In Section XIV. the Collection of Postage Stamps printed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the awards were as follows: J. M. Bartels, Silver Gilt Medal; J. P. Benkard, Silver Medal; A. E. Owen, Bronze Medal.

PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY,
PERCIVAL PARRISH, PRESIDENT

1204 CHESTNUT STREET

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

In Class C for the British Empire there were half a dozen collections of Great Britain in Section 1, Mr. Duveen's being easily first, containing as it does most of the rare "abnormals"; and all the regular issues unused.

In Section 2 were three fine collections of Capes. Mr. Pack's "woodblocks" were entered but not for competition.
These make a wonderful show of 300
"woodblocks," ten of them the errors of colour. Mr. Worthington's Capes include also a very fine lot of "wood-blocks," not so numerous as Mr. Pack's (they number 60) but inclusive of such highly valuable items as a block of four of the one penny unused, a pair of the blue 4d and 1d, and a unique block of four of the red, three 1d, and one 4d, this block being on the original cover.

In the same section Mr. Duveen showed his Transvaals, a highly specialized collection, the blue of which it will probably never be possible to equal. The Transvaal collection got the gold medal in this section, and Mr. Worthington secured the diploma equivalent to a gold medal. Mr. H. B. Newman showed a pretty collection of Gambias which secured for him a silver-gilt medal, and Mr. E. A. Fleischer exhibited his Sudans, including some very interesting strips of the first issue (silver medal).

In the third section of Class C, Colonel F. H. Hancock's Jammu and Kashmir collection received the first (gold medal) award, and Mr. Worthington got the diploma for his Ceylons very rich in blocks of four, and in the scarce surcharges.

Other successful exhibitors in this section were Mr. J. E. Williams (Malta—silver-gilt), Mr. F. C. Earl (India—silver), Mr. E. A. Fleischer (India—extra silver), and Mr. A. Hatfield, Jr., (India Native States—extra bronze).

In the fourth section four great collections of high importance were pitted against each other. Here Mr. Duveen showed New South Wales with a wealth of the much sought after "Sydney Views" and as the pièce de resistance
the sheet (all but 6 stamps) of the 3d Sydney View, an item found under romantic circumstances just a year or so ago. Mr. Duveen also showed his Western Australia with the fine inverted Swan, apparently the one which used to be in the collection of the late Earl of Crawford. Mr. Duveen has Tasmanias with the hand-engraved first issue in lavish profusion, and all the later rarities of this colony. Here also Mr. Pack showed his fine collection of New Zealand which has been seen in Europe already. With four front rank collections such as this in one class the judges found it necessary to add diplomas equivalent to gold medals;

these were awarded as follows:

Mr. Duveen—Gold medal, New South Wales.

Mr. Pack—Diploma, New Zealand.

Mr. Duveen—Diploma, Tasmania.

Mr. Duveen—Diploma, Western Australia.

There were among the 300 exhibits a large number which would call for special description, but in the hustle and bustle of the week in New York and a few flying visits to Boston, Philadelphia and Washington, I find my steamer is due to sail within a few hours and my notes on the exhibits are as yet but lightly touched upon in this report, which I shall hope to have the opportunity of continuing at some later date.

WHY NOT TRY IT YOURSELF?

The United States Postal Department has been appealed to by Titta Ruffo, the celebrated baritone of the Philadelphia-Chicago Grand Opera Company, in his endeavors to complete a collection of stamps of this country. Ruffo, who has one of the most valuable sets of any living collector, yesterday made known his desire to James Rankin Young, superintendent of the postal savings depository in this city, and who until quite recently was superintendent of the dead letter department at Washington. The singer lacks several of the earlier stamps issued by this country, and which, at the present time, are decidedly rare.

Mr. Young will communicate with the National Postal Department in his efforts to procure for Ruffo the required stamps. It is Ruffo's hope to get them before he leaves the city at the end of next week, as he will not return here until next winter.—Clipping from Phila. paper.

EDITORIAL.

Here We Are Again—Our campaign for the cheer of philatelic "shut-ins" is now launched for the Christmas season of 1913. Evidently the success of our efforts last year has not been forgotten as several readers have asked if we intended to remember the afflicted stamp collectors at Christmas this year. In fact, Mr. Charles C. DeSelms already has sent us twenty of his packets for distribution and we could not have asked for a better beginning of the good work. Our plan of procedure is the simplest possible. First, we ask those of our readers who are in a position to do so to send us the names of "shut-ins" who find comfort in collecting stamps. We must assume that all such names are those of deserving sufferers whose means will not allow of any extensive purchases of stamps, as we cannot take steps to verify each case, although we shall use all judgment in supervising the distribution. Those readers who wish to forward odd lots of duplicates or what-you-will to the "shut-ins" are asked to give us their names only and not the stamps. Then, according to circumstances, we shall submit one or more names of "shut-ins" and the donors can send direct to the beneficiaries. This work will be under the direction of the editor, C. E. Severn, 118 N. La Salle St., Room 721, Chicago, Illinois, and to him all correspondence should be addressed. We know our readers too well to have any misgivings about the results of our "sunshine for shut-ins" measure.

Writing to Santa—The postoffice department again will play the role of special deputy to Santa Claus and deliver all letters addressed to Santa "to responsible charitable institutions or reputable individuals in the town or city of address who may desire to use them exclusively for philanthropic purposes." Again we express the pious hope that our maladroit friend, Ibrahim Ilkovitz, with the wire whiskers will not try to impose on the aforesaid individuals or institutions by his moving letters: "Dear Santa Claus:—I am a little girl, six years old but we are so poor I haven't any penny so please, Santa Claus, send me a stamp album and a lot of nice stamps like those rich girls and boys has what live on the bullyvard and I live on the alley. That is all this time and I am being a good girl. Don't forget, Santa Claus."

The Visitors' Cup—Knowing what he wanted as a memento of his stamp supremacy, Mr. Joseph Allison Steinmetz of Philadelphia, went after it. He wanted the visitors' cup which was awarded for what may be called the most popular exhibit at the International Philatelic Exhibition, New York, and he got it. Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer who was constant in his attendance at the exhibition says that the distinction was a merited one. Each visitor to the Exhibition had the privilege of casting one vote for the most impressive or interesting exhibit, from his or her viewpoint. Mr. Steinmetz prepared a printed catalogue or over fifty pages devoted to descriptions of his stamps and their suggestions or associations. It is impossible to do justice to the notes on the subject of the stamps, in a few sentences,—but if the catalogue were Volume One, Number 1 of a new stamp paper, it would be received with peans of joy. The stamps were selected for their quaint, striking or human interest; and they are introduced so cleverly that one marvels at Mr. Steinmetz' ingenuity and industry. We may add that too much stress cannot be placed on the importance of the correspondence between the stamp makers, Messrs. Toppan, Casilear & Company of Philadelphia and the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, copied from the original letters that are in Mr. Steinmetz' possession. Mr. Steinmetz had the material which, mixed with brains, built the proper foundation as a pedestal for the visitors' cup.

New Bids Ordered—The Postmaster General has sent out the following invitation, which is self-explanatory, for bids for postal-card paper: "Post Office Department, Washington, November 10, 1913. All bids received for material for postal-card paper in response to the advertisement of August 27, 1913, having been rejected, sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Purchasing Agent, Post Office Department, until 2 o'clock P. M., on November 26, 1913, for furnishing approximately 24,000,000 pounds of paper in rolls for printing postal cards for the Post Office Department during the term of four years, beginning January 1, 1914, and ending December 31, 1917. Blanks for proposals with specifications and instructions to bidders will be furnished upon application to the Purchasing Agent." We hasten to say that these postal cards are not those used by the public but solely by the postal division of the government. It will be noticed that the P. O. D. is a neat little enterprise.

Topsy-Turvy—In Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal for October 31st, we find: "'Parma' thou art Translated.—The last few lines of the following little par. from an esteemed contemporary will amuse our friend, Dr. Diena; we feel proud:—our knowledge of Italian is negligible, but we can say that 'Note sui Francobolli del Governo Provisorio de Parma,' by that great and good Italian philatelist, Emilio Diena, is an authoritative treatise on the Parma provisionals. Three full-page illustrations of the stamps are a graphic testimonial of the thoroughness with which Dr. Diena has studied the stamps. The book of fourteen broad pages is an excellent example of typographical neatness and is published from Rome. The 'Note' was translated from the English as it appeared in Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal, we understand." The explanation is that the work is not a translation but that naturally, it was written by Dr. Diena in his own language, Italian. Now, we remembered that the Monthly Journal had a Parma article by Dr. Diena in the April, 1913, number, and when we found an asterisk following "Illustrazioni," in the Diena book, leading to: "Esequite a cura della Casa Stanley Gibbons, Ltd. di Londra, per accompagnare la traduzione del presente scritto nel Monthly Journal (vol. XXI, Aprile 1913)," we jumped to the conclusion that the gifted Italian philatelist prepared his notes in English and then, after they had been translated into Italian, were published in booklet form. As it happened, we think that we paid a neat compliment to Dr. Diena's great versatility; but it may be advisable to make the correction in the interests of accuracy. Dr. Diena's book in Italian is the original; and the Monthly Journal's article in English, the translation.

TONGA WEDDING STAMP.

The first number of a new publication, The New Zealand Stamp Journal, reports the discovery of some copies of the penny pictorial stamp of Tonga, with a hitherto unknown variety of the overprint "T—L, 1 June, 1899," which was added to these stamps at the time of the wedding of King George of Tonga. The initials are those of the Royal bridegroom and his consort, "Taufa 'shau" and "Lavinia." The stamps with which collectors are familiar were overprinted in the office of the Star newspaper at Auckland, New Zealand, but it appears that before sending to Auckland efforts were made to do the work in the office of the Tongan native Government printer. The stamps now discovered are evidently the native production, and show the initials in serif letters instead of sans-serif, and the date is in a larger type, with the month in capital letters, "JUNE" instead of "June." Whether or no any of these native overprints were actually used in the post is not certain, but it is asserted that a portion of the find was originally bought at the post office at Vavau, in which case it may prove that some have been postally used.

This royal wedding stamp—the Auckland overprint—may be found in a curious and scarce error. The wedding took place on 1st June, 1899, and that is the date which appears on most of the stamps, but a printer's error antedated the marriage by ten years on one stamp on every sheet, the year being given as "1889" instead of "1899." The normal Auckland overprint is valued at 5sh unused; the error "1889" costs £6. If the newly-discovered native overprints were actually issued through the Tongan post office, specimens of them should rank as rarities, but in the absence of proof of their issue, specialists will be inclined to regard them as proofs or "printer's waste."

A CHEERFUL SHUT-IN.

RAFAEL MORA.

Looking over your interesting WEEKLY for September 27, I note, with both pleasure and gladness, that the S. P. A. members have agreed to donate duplicates to "shut-ins."

Perhaps, Mr. Severn, some of your readers with lots of duplicates and big hearts may care to send me some stamps even if only a few. I am twenty-five years of age, and have been confined to my bed for the last year (nephritis). I am flat on my back, but if it were not for "old Faithful" my album, I don't know how I would kill the dreary hours. However, I manage to keep "philatelically cheerful," but as I've no earning power, it's mighty few cents I can spare for stamps.

My collection is small, about 2500, and I do hope some of your good readers will send me some of those damaged stamps they've got stuck away or duplicates they don't care for. I will be most grateful to them and to you.

Should anyone care to investigate my case, I refer them to my doctor, Dr. Fdk. S. Schluber, 1163 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

I hope that my plea will bear fruit soon, and whether or no, accept the thanks of one more or less unfortunate, but ardent philatelist.

Yours sincerely,

RAFAEL MORA.

2538 Bedford Av., Brooklyn, N. Y.

NOTE.—The foregoing letter is self-explanatory. We have a feeling that Mr. Mora's words will make an impression on some of our readers who will find themselves thinking of Rafael Mora, the cheerful philatelist, who has stayed abed for a year; and further, we think it likely that they will send him a few stamps,—for, mirabile dictu, we have ourselves.—C. E. S.

RARE STAMPS STOLEN FROM N. Y. LAWYER.

The following appeared in the N. Y. Herald of October 27. We have not been advised of any further particulars concerning this theft.

A stamp collection valued at many thousands of dollars has been stolen mysteriously from Willard Parker Butler, a lawyer at No. 49 Wall street. The stamps were awaiting exhibition in the National Exhibition of Philately, and were taken from No. 143 East Thirty-sixth street. The loss was discovered Thursday morning.

Detectives have been placed on the case and dealers throughout the country have been warned. The collection contained 5,000 pieces, and was especially rich in rare sets of Natal, Cape of Good Hope, French, German and Papal States stamps.

BRITISH CURRENT WATERMARKS.

In the case of our colonial stamps we have got quite accustomed to the divisions under "Single" and "Multiple" watermarks, but the manufacturers of the paper for the stamps of the mother country have introduced complications which necessitate the use of a third term to distinguish the varieties of the "Royal Cypher" that have already made their appearance.

Double Royal Cypher.

The first of these was described in our number for September last, as "semi-multiple," that is to say, the horizontal rows correspond with the number of stamps on the sheet, but vertically there are more watermarks than stamps, so that each stamp shows parts of two or more watermarks." This can be seen very clearly in the illustration given above and in Type 102 in the Catalogue, and to distinguish it from the next variety it might be called the Double Royal Cypher watermark, as it should apparently show two complete watermarks in each stamp. Unfortunately this watermark was referred to in our October number as "Multiple Royal Cypher" and this has created some confusion in the minds of our readers, one of whom has asked us a question which we are endeavouring to answer here.

Multiple Royal Cypher.

In the latter part of last year the ½d and 1d stamps, in the redrawn types of the 1911 designs, appeared with a true multiple watermark, as shown in the illustration given here, and in Type 103 in the Catalogue. This does not appear to have been fully described in the Monthly Journal, but it is given in Mr. Stanley Phillips' little book, from which we gather that it was first seen in stamps supplied in rolls, in October, 1912, and afterwards found in sheets, probably in December, the date assigned to these stamps in the new edition of the Catalogue. The current 1d was chronicled on this paper last month, and makes the third stamp found upon it at present. Now we learn that the new higher-value stamps, two of which are chronicled this month, are on paper with a Royal Cypher watermark that appears have been issued since the beginning of the Revolution. Some of them were only in use for a few days, and were entirely sold out before they came to the knowledge of collectors, of whom but a few had the luck to buy them.

Of the 1c and 2c, brown, dues, without any overprint, very few have been issued. They were withdrawn and overprinted vertically by the Statistical Department with four red characters denoting the Republic of China.

The 1/2c blue with the square type of Waterlow overprint is the rarest of all the recent issues, and very few are in the market: some have already changed hands at 25h 6d apiece, and will undoubtedly advance yet further in price.

The following is the complete list of all the Postage Due stamps of the small size up to date:

(a) 1/2, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 10, 20, and 30 cents, in blue, issued up to 1911.

(b) 1 and 2 cents, brown, issued in 1911; and the rest during 1911-1913.

(c) 1/2, 4, 5, 10, 20, and 30 cents, blue, overprinted horizontally, in Chinese characters, "Linshi Ching-li" meaning "Provisional Neutrality;" these were issued only at Foochow, and not more than 482 copies in all were sold.

(d) 1/2, 4, 5, 10, 20 and 30 cents, blue, overprinted vertically in red by the Shanghai Statistical Department, with "Chung-hua Min-Kna" meaning "Chinese Republic."

(e) 1/2, 4, 10, and 30 cents, blue, overprinted in black with the native equivalent of "Chinese Republic," in a different type of characters placed in the centre in the form of a square, the so-called Waterlow overprint.

(f) 1/2, 1, 2, and 4 cents, brown, overprinted vertically in red.

Trade Column.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

The provisional was put into circulation August 29. The reason given for the issue was a shortage in the 1 1/2r stamp, but according to the Journal newspapers were still coming into Bombay franked with the regular 1 1/2r stamp, and the provisionals were not being used freely, though entire sheets were in the hands of speculators. The only varieties noted were that the fractional bar in the last two stamps in the sheet are slightly smaller, and the same bar in the 26th stamp is vertical instead of slanting.

SOUTHERN NIGERIA.—The New England Stamp Co. calls our attention to the fact that the 6d King Edward on multiple paper 1907-10 issue, comes in two distinct shades. The regular issue is in violet and dull violet, (Gibbons says "dull and bright purple"), while Scott does not catalogue this stamp at all. Scott catalogues the other and the rarer shade,—red violet and dull violet, which Gibbons does not mention. Comparison of the two shows very great difference in the shades of the frames. Whitfield King's Catalogue does not recognize that this stamp is printed at two impressions, giving the color as purple. Bright's Catalogue also fails to note the two printings, and gives the color as purple, like Whitfield King.

A correspondent informs N. Cobe that Northern and Southern Nigeria are to be united after Jan. 1, under the name of "Federated Nigeria."

St. HELENA.—Whitfield King & Co. report the issue of the 4d and 6d values, small size, with "Postage" on both sides of the frame.

SWITZERLAND.—A new issue of stamps is promised for January 1, 1914. The 10c and 15c values will bear the effigy of William Tell, after the celebrated monument at Atdorf. The values from 1fr to 10fr, will show places of note, including the Castle of Chillon, and Ruti, famous in the history of Switzerland.

TURKEY.—It is a pretty poor spirited Turkish town that cannot sport a special series of surcharged postage stamps. Gumuldjina is the latest to join the procession, with four values of the 1909-10 set surcharged arms and Greek characters, and new value in Greek money.

Provisional Adhesives.

THE KANGAROO FAREWELL.

And I must go—will Frazer make no sign
To save me from this chucking-out of Wynne;
Am I not lovely still? Look at my back,
My tail, my line of beauty,
Are they to be extinguished, and the joy of nations
Eclipsed for good? O! foster father Frazer, Who fashioned me, gave me lank grass to eat,
And just a cunning little rabbit for a mate,
That played peep-bo with me behind the tussock
Until he was cut down in youthful flower.
O! artist Frazer, who put me in the comic continent,
And turned my back upon the world,
And printed me on paper, O! so thin,
And gummed me with some mucilage,
Known only to himself, non-sticking stuff,
And nasty, too, at that, at which most people used Sulphurous language.
Pushed off the earth into the never never
With all my epithets upon my head,
"One-legged rooster," our "letter blot," and
"ragtime stamp."
None but a genius could make fowl of flesh,
My great originator did this and more,
I pray thee, Frazer, hear me in my strait, Help thou, thy Kanga-rooster, for truly I am one;
Just turn me angle ways, behold the farmyard's lord,
There is my beak, my breast, my neck, my tail,
And only one poor leg, but still a rooster.
Truly I say, "I was so quickly done for I wonder what I ever was begun for."
But you've not finished with your doomed one yet.
Wynne, tie, or wrangle, at last I'll be a sticker, I'll haunt thy Post-office, and when the clock chimes one,
I'll crow and crow, and bound along the corridors, and drag
Australia's outline with me—Farewell,
And may you rue the day you "downed and out" your 'Roo.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. HANDLING A STOCK OF STAMPS.

By THORN SMITH.

A lot of time can be saved by the beginning dealer, in evolving a plan for keeping his stock in such a way that he can find what he desires on very short notice, if he has a starting point. Eventually he will work out his own salvation if at all serious and intending to engage permanently in the sale of stamps. The following plan is in actual use and is offered as one that gives good service. No doubt but that it can and will be improved.

A good stiff coin-envelope about three by five inches can be purchased for 60 cents per 1000. These open on the end and stamps will not drop out unless the envelope is overloaded. They hold 100 copies nicely and more if necessary. At the top is written the name of the country, catalogue number and price. At the bottom note the number bought and the price, using a keyed alphabet. At first while the stock is limited these filled envelopes may be kept in boxes but as they become too numerous for easy handling a partitioned case similar to that used in Post-Offices as call boxes is advisable. Such a device can easily be made by the dealer himself and at a cost of but a dollar or two for material. One or more cubbies may be used for a country and alphabetically arranged. Odds and ends, including throw-backs can be placed in colored envelopes and put in the corresponding cubby. In this way one does not accumulate a box of mixed stuff which he dreads to sort and yet contains the particular stamp he has a demand for.

If he buys and carries in quantities of 50 or less another scheme works well. Secure an ordinary invoice filing book, one of the kind in which invoices are pasted. A dollar will buy one about 8 by 12 inches. Then get 1000 small envelopes about 2½ by 3½ inches with the opening on the side. Paste these in the invoice book with the flap to the front. Eight will go nicely on a page. The rest is easy.

MOUNTING APPROVALS.

If approval books are used a good scheme to know what goes into the vacant spaces of a returned book is to use a small sheet of paper about the size of a page in the book, one for each page. On these mark the catalogue number and price of the stamp, its position being the same as on the page of the approval book. Hold the six or ten sheets together by means of a small clip and on the first sheet mark the series number of the book. On the cover of the book mark the series number and also an individual number, thus 40-6. Books returned are easily filled direct from the home made stock book and if substitutions or price changes have been made it is readily noted. The plan of using trays may be all right but frequently stamps have a desire to curl up and the envelope tends to keep them flat. Then again the stock is more compactly kept, a point of some importance when the business is conducted at home.

BOOK-KEEPING.

A card index system is probably the best at all times. A four drawer cabinet will cost from four to six dollars depending on the finish. At first one can use boxes if he desires. Three by five cards cost fifteen cents per hundred with plain ruling. Buyers should be catalogued by states, using one drawer for approval buyers and another for packet and miscellaneous sales. At the top of the card is written the name and address of the applicant together with any other information he may give. Below should appear the date of sending, the number of the book, the return and the amount remitted, thus

10/8 Book 40-6 10/24 .94
10/25 Book 41-2 11/8 1.60

In a third drawer may be kept an inventory of stock or at least of purchases showing amount and cost. In the fourth drawer matter relating to foreign purchases, dealers' exchange and the like may be kept. When a book is returned the proper card is taken from its place and the entry made, then placed in the front of the drawer until again desired. The same plan can be followed with the other drawers and no customer or other matter will be overlooked. The names of frauds may be entered on colored cards, several names to a card and filed by States in the approval drawer.

The point the writer has tried to bring out is the folly of making a large investment in furniture and appliances by the average dealer. They add nothing to the value of the stock and the money required is better invested elsewhere.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—An attorney, Herbert Bowen, of Detroit, Mich., reports upon Frank Potter, Jr., of that city that a claim entered against this party is not collectible, and it is reported that the claim is only one of many against Potter.

—R. L. Deitrick is sending out the twentieth edition of his Standard Paper Money Catalog, listing all Confederate treasury notes issued by the Confederate Government and all state notes issued by the Confederate States during the Civil War. Price 25c.

—F. W. Reid, Sydney, N. S. W., advises us that the new King George stamps for the Australian Commonwealth have not yet been issued. Used kangaroos are in great demand, especially the 2½d and 5d. The 2d value is nearly as scarce as the 3d, 4d and 6d. The reason is given that many values of State stamps are still on sale in all the States. All the dies, plates and electros of New South Wales stamps were destroyed some two months ago, but large printings were made from the most of them shortly before their destruction.

—The New York World of Nov. 2 contained an illustrated article in connection with the "New York Stamp Week." The article is written in rather a humorous vein but serves the purpose of advertising the hobby.

—Geo. J. Carter, an old-time advertiser in the WEEKLY, is still doing business at the old stand and his occasional Messenger is an indication of the hustle that Mr. Carter is capable of producing. The Messenger is a live wire and is well worth the price—a 1c stamp.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. Doemich, Geo. W. Schaefer (6), G. A. Hunt, J. W. Beggs, C. V. Webb and C. P. M. Rumford.

—We have received No. 4 of Stamps issued by H. A. Thatcher, Sioux City, Iowa. It is a house organ of a bright and newsy nature and we recommend that our readers inspect the same.

—The manager of the Fulton Stamp Co. has been suddenly called to Europe and the correspondence of the firm will be somewhat delayed until after the New Year.

—We have received a copy of the "Steinmetz Miscellany", being a comprehensive review of the exhibit made by Joseph A. Steinmetz at the great Exhibition held at New York. This exhibit was entered in competition for the visitors' cup and secured the prize offered. The book before us is a very interesting review of this splendid exhibit and we would that we had room in the WEEKLY to make some extracts for publication. We may be able to do this in some future issues of the WEEKLY. We are grateful to the author for the autograph copy sent us.

THE ECONOMIST BULLETIN.

The newest of the house organs reaches us from the Economist Stamp Co. of N. Y. City and it is a very creditable production. The firm advertises the Economist Bulletin, a monthly publication taking the place of the annual price list the firm has been in the habit of publishing. This business stroke upon the part of the firm will no doubt be productive of a great deal of business, using it as the firm will in connection with their regular advertising.

WOODWORTH COMPANY

119 Nassau Street,

NEW YORK CITY

MR. HAUSBURG HONORED.

(We are advised by the "London Philatelist" that Mr. Tilleard will be succeeded by L. L. R. Hausburg as secretary of the Royal Philatelic Society. We congratulate Mr. Hausburg and his many friends here in America will join with us in our good wishes. It was the privilege of many of our American collectors to meet Mr. Hausburg at the New York Philatelic Exhibition.—Ed.)

The election of Mr. L. L. R. Hausburg to the vacancy in the position of Hon. Secretary to the Royal Philatelic Society, caused by the deeply regretted death of Mr. Tilleard, will without doubt be received with general approval. The successor to such a genial and highly respected man as the last holder of that office is naturally in a somewhat invidious position, but we are convinced, in Mr. Hausburg's capable hands, that the interests of the Society will in no wise suffer.

Mr. Hausburg has been a member of the Society for twenty-one years, and for a large portion of that period a member of the Council; he is a member of the Expert, Publication, and Programme Committees, and has in fact taken a very leading part in carrying out the work of the Society. The success of the last Exhibition held under the Royal Society's auspices was also largely due to his unwearied energy, and in every matter connected with Philately Mr. Hausburg has been "a right-hand man." Possessed of ample leisure, the new Hon. Secretary will be free to devote a large portion of his time to his new duties, and in this respect will hold a great advantage over some of his predecessors in office. Of Mr. Hausburg's abilities as a Philatelist it is needless to speak, as his collections have deservedly achieved a world-wide fame alike by their dimensions, their beauty of specimen, and their wealth of scientific research. The interesting and important work of rebuilding entire plates is one in which Mr. Hausburg has achieved great distinction, and it may be truthfully affirmed that in this particular line of philatelic study he is absolutely pre-eminent.

The new Hon. Secretary of the Society, who has been elected as one of the judges at the New York Philatelic Exhibition, will, we are confident, worthily uphold the prestige of the Society with our hospitable American cousins, and on his return will receive a warm welcome from his fellow-members, coupled with the most sincere hopes that he may be spared for many years to carry out the duties for which he is so well equipped.

MAY IRWIN POSTAGE STAMP FAN.

May Irwin, who is the foremost laugh-maker on the legitimate stage in America, in her most serious moods is also unconsciously funny. In a communication to her manager, Mr. George C. Tyler, the other day, she expressed a desire to be in New York during the week of October 27th.

Although this has somewhat disturbed her bookings, Mr. Tyler was perfectly willing to oblige this star, but he asked for an explanation. Miss Irwin's reply was brief.

"I am a postage stamp fan," was what she wrote.

It was then discovered that the biggest postage stamp exhibition ever held in this country was to take place in New York during the week of October 27.

STAMP VALUES.

By H. L. WILEY.

In the good old days, which by the way are usually just two generations behind times, the corpulent General Freight Agent, serene and secure from troublesome rate regulation issued his classic volume on freight rates. Instead of the complicated tome of the present it consisted of a few general instructions and a vital clause in which the reader discovered the phrase,—"All the traffic will bear." That important group of five words is the basis on which all stamps are priced today. There is no stable foundation to govern the price which a collector pays for a stamp because stamps are "luxuries" and as such, they are forever fluctuating between the poles of supply and demand. A study of a few of the factors entering into the question develops one or two axiomatic laws that apply. For instance, if all varieties of stamps were so common that all one had to do to obtain any one of them was to ask the first person one met for a handful of them, it is quite evident that no value could be attached to them. Now some of these stamps which we collect are nearly that common, but because we have no smaller medium of exchange than the cent, it is found that the cheapest stamps are quoted at that figure for single specimens.

On the other extreme we approach the reasonable limit more rapidly and it is safe to assume that the maximum amount which could be obtained for a stamp, even if it were the only one of its kind in existence, is approximately ten thousand dollars. At that figure there are probably less than ten collectors in the world who would be qualified to consider the question of buying it. So it is found that the two extremes of value are the humble red cent and the majestic ten thousand dollar gold certificate.

We have established our limiting values. The next step is to consider that multitude of circumstances which tend to determine the value of any given specimen. No attempt will be made to arrange a complete list of governing factors for such a thing is impossible. A few of the most important are herewith presented.

1. The quantity issued.
2. The Year issued.
3. The age of the stamp.
4. The number of collectors in existence at the time the stamp was issued.
5. The present condition of the stamp.
6. The country which issued it.
7. The denomination.

The quantity factor is self explanatory. Of course "the fewer, the higher" is the rule. Remainders which may have been destroyed often cut down the total number of "issued" stamps and for that reason the printers' figures alone are not a very satisfactory basis of estimate in instances where more than half a million copies were printed.

The year that the stamp was issued enters into the question for many reasons. The "advertising" factor, such as a war or other reasons for concentrating interest on the country issuing the stamp must be considered.

The age of the stamp gives us less of a basic influence than one might suppose because later issues of a country are quite often more popular than the earlier issues. Such is not the general rule, however. For purpose of study we may assume that a stamp increases co-ordinately in age and value.

The number of interested collectors represents the "demand" factor. It will be readily understood that if there are collectors enough to absorb an entire issue the stamps are sure to be worth relatively more than if there are plenty to supply collectors and millions in addition for the public. Sixty years ago there were very few interested collectors and an issue of a million stamps then attracted no more interest than, let us say, an issue of a thousand million would at the present time. Since the quantity of stamps issued per capita has increased at a much greater rate than the relative number of collectors, it is evident that there are greater demands for "yesterdays" stamps than for those of today.

The present condition of the stamp is a matter for discussion between owner and purchaser. In the matter of defects such as tears, poor centering and heavy cancellations. Any close observer of the

Re-Issues, Proofs and Essays

Three books among my list of more than 300 approval books contain Reissues, printing of 1875, now getting very scarce and hard to obtain; also the proofs on India and Card-board.

The Sample stamps and overprinted "Specimen" are also contained in these books. So, too, are the Essays.

Collectors who are making a systematic and business-like study of the U.S. postage stamps cannot overlook these, as they are a legitimate line of varieties bearing upon postal history.

These books will be sent to collectors against good references or A. P. S. number.

I have secured a few mint copies of Scott's 275a (50c red orange) fine, well centered, at $1.50 each. This is a hard stamp to get, and will advance in value.

The 13 centers, 1902 and 1908, good, well-centered mint copies. Will send either for a perfectly centered set of Panama-Pacific.

1914 Price List

My Price List of the Stamps of the United States and its Colonies is ready for distribution. It contains features not found in ordinary lists, such as a complete list of Coil Stamps, Philippine "O. B." stamps, India paper, and card board proofs, as well as a list of the number of Department stamps issued. It is the most complete list published, and no serious collector can afford to be without it. It is free; a postal card will bring it, prepaid with a precancelled stamp.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

present market, men and methods will note a charming little element of "If it's mine, it's fine,—if it's yours, who stung you," in the sales descriptions.

The country issuing the stamp may be one of "prime" popularity like the United States, a favorite among great numbers of collectors, or it may be, on the other hand, an obscure banana republic with issues changing every month.

The denomination of the stamp is a very important factor. It is a safe general statement that a stamp which sells for over fifty cents is purchased by less than a thousand collectors in the United States. This eliminates a great number of foreign stamps and quite a few of our own issues.

Applying the seven influential conditions to the general issues of the United States, the writer discovered that there was no normal formula which would even approximately serve as a basis for computing future values. He is forced to conclude that experience plus a studious review of today's opportunities plus an element of luck, the three to be taken in equal parts, is the best source of "information" on which to base one's estimate of present and future stamp values.

REWARD FOR RETURN OF INVERTS.

As will be seen elsewhere Clarence E. Chapman of N. Y. is so desirous of securing the return of the invert taken from the frame of his exhibit at the New York Stamp Show that a reward of $500 will be paid for their return and no questions asked. We give this the widest publicity possible.

"DEAR SANTA" LETTERS.

The postmaster general has sent out the following order in connection with "Santa Claus" letters:—

Postmasters are authorized to deliver all letters on which the postage has been fully prepaid arriving at their respective post offices during the month of December of each year, which are addressed plainly and unmistakably to "Santa Claus," without any other terms or expressions identifying the person for whom such letters are intended, to responsible charitable institutions or reputable individuals in the town or city of address who may desire to use them exclusively for philanthropic purposes.

Letters of the character described addressed for local delivery, on which the postage is wholly unpaid, or paid less than one full rate, also may be delivered to such institutions or individuals upon the payment of the postage with which they are chargeable. In the event that these letters are requested by more than one institution or individual the postmaster shall distribute them in such proportion as he may deem proper. When no voluntary request is presented postmasters will forward without delay all "Santa Claus" letters to the Division of Dead Letters.

NEW AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH.

The Melbourne Leader is authority for the statement that the new stamps will soon be issued. We give the following particulars as found in a recent issue:—

Definite arrangements have been made by the Postmaster-General to print the various denominations of stamps in varying designs and colors.

Mr. Wynne announced last night that the halfpenny stamp will be the same as the original Western Australian design, with the black swan in the centre, and it will be green in color. The penny stamp, which bears the King's head, is to be printed in two shades of red. The 2½d issue will be almost similar to the penny stamp, but it will be printed in blue. The six penny issue will have the kangaroo as its distinguishing feature with the tails of lyre birds at each side, and a boomerang and a platypus below. This was the second prize design in the recent competition. The new shilling stamp will have a representation of a kookaburra in the centre.

The Postmaster-General added that he expected to have 1,000,000 penny stamps ready for circulation in the course of a few days.

MR. RICH RETIRES.

It will be of interest to the trade generally to know that Joseph S. Rich, for many years associated with the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., has retired from the Company owing to failing health. We find the following statement in the Circular:—

"After a period of nineteen years, during which Mr. Joseph S. Rich has been continuously with the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., he has decided, owing to failing health, to dispose of all his holdings in the organization, and will retire from participation in the business on November 20th. Mr. Rich's decision has been made following an opportunity to dispose of his stock en bloc. "It is with the regret at his going which follows such a long period of business and personal friendship that the management and employees of the Company extend to Mr. Rich this expression of their heartiest good feeling and best wishes for the future."

OUR REVIEW.

We have received with the compliments of the New England Stamp Company, Boston, Volume two, November 20th, 1912 to October 20th, 1913, of the New England Stamp Monthly. The volume makes a paper bound book of 152 pages and the value of the little magazine becomes all the more apparent when the issues of the year are before one. There are not a few features of distinctive merit to be found in the paper month by month; and the publishers have good reason to be proud of their "house organ" which is so ably edited by Mr. C. A. Howes.

STAMPS AT A CENT THOUSAND A DAY

STAMPS AT A CENT

For several years I have made a specialty of selling stamps at

ONE CENT EACH

Beginning in a very small way with only about 400 var. and stock of each one limited to 25 or 50 copies.

I kept pegging away, satisfying my customers, adding stock until there are some 1200 or 1300 var. and nothing is used until 100 or 200 copies have been secured.

Principally my customers are beginners or such collectors who have 3000 var. or less.

In fact it will not pay a collector with 5000 or 6000 var. to send for my 1c books because the chances are that he would have them all, or nearly all, and besides this I am not in the stamp business just for the fun of it but like any other dealer to make a profit and most certainly enough must be sold from my 1c book to make it pay me.

MY YELLOW FELLOW

is a book of stamps at 1c ea. Contains a little of everything, from A to Z—even a few foreign revenues, and is made up to show you what it is possible to sell at ONE CENT EACH.

Up to Nov. 1st, 1120 collectors have had the Yellow Fellows and bought over 31,500 stamps from the same—an average of about 28 stamps per collector.

Now then, if you are a general collector with, say 3000 varieties or less, you ought to be able to do as well.

The Yellow Fellows are brand new this season. 50 of them now waiting for your order.

Here are extracts from a few letters: Spokane, Wash.—"I'm not kicking at the stamps. Send the next book Prout's."

Boulder, Colo.—"This beats anything I ever saw."

Los Angeles, Cal.—"Send me a Yellow Fellow at once. I think it's great."

Brookston, Pa.—"Fine! Best selection for price I have seen anywhere."

Ask for Yellow Fellow and promise to return it in five days.

DECEMBER 12TH & 13TH AUCTION SALE

This collection, the property of Mr. Charles H. Stroud of Philadelphia, was started some fifty years ago and contains many gems seldom offered at auction. Rich in early United States, many unused and in exceptionally fine condition. The early Europeans and general foreign stamps are also fine and there are a number of recent issues together with some splendid wholesale lots of U. S. and foreign stamps. The catalogues have been mailed. If you have not received yours, write for one to-day.

Our sale of January 9th and 10th, from the Trustees of a Philadelphia estate, is in course of preparation. Watch this space for further details.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have received with the compliments of the New England Stamp Co. Vol. 2 complete of the New England Stamp Monthly. It is a volume of 152 pages and is a notable contribution to the literature of our hobby. Its many pages are illustrated with engravings of rarities, while its various departments and special articles are well sustained.

—J. F. Beecher.—We do not know where you can procure a moderate priced book describing and illustrating U. S. stamps including revenues, match and medicine, etc.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. Rausch (2), Paul S. Hedrick, D. E. Lantz.

—The Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, Ohio, were favored with a visit from Wm. L. Stevenson, Flint, Mich., Thursday, Nov. 20. Mr. Stevenson exhibited his collection of U. S. postal issues 1851-7 and delivered an address upon the same.

—Gamman's Stamp Notes for November is No. 1 of Vol. 2. It offers a wide range of stamps and all in all is an enterprising house-organ.

—Stigner's Stamp Era has suspended publication and subscriptions will be filled out by the California Stamp News.

—Will Daniel Kaib kindly send his address to this office? Our subscribers will please bear in mind that our mailing list is not arranged alphabetically and letters cannot be forwarded without more definite address than merely the name being given.

—"The Postoffice Department has made San Francisco the distributing center for the Pacific Coast during the Christmas season, for the large number of postage stamps that will be used during the holidays. Over 5,000,000 extra stamps will be sent to the San Francisco office and from there, will be distributed upon request to any Pacific Coast post-office."—EDGAR L. BISSINGER.

—Chas. R. Morris, 4914 Ashby St., Washington, D. C., has quite an accumulation of stamp publications, mostly old numbers of MEKEEL'S which he will give to any individual or society that will pay charges on them.

THE MATTER OF REFERENCE.

Subscribers occasionally use the name of this publication in soliciting approval selections and an incident of this nature has happened during the past week. We desire to say that no collector is authorized to do this, and dealers should not accept a reference of this kind.

PRECANCELS FOR HOLIDAY MAIL.

The Third Assistant Postmaster General has issued the following order in regard to the use of precancelled stamps in connection with Christmas mail:—

With a view of facilitating the handling of mail during the Christmas holidays, postmasters are authorized to precancel and affix stamps for the payment of postage on matter of the second, third and fourth classes offered for mailing at their offices, the stamps not to be delivered to the persons presenting the parcels for mailing, but to be affixed to the parcels by the postmaster or an employee of the post office after the proper postage has been paid.

In case any persons or concerns desire to purchase precanceled stamps for use on mailings of matter of the second, third or fourth class, postmasters will require them to submit an application for the privilege of using such stamps.

THE NEW BRITISH GUIANA.

A handsome King George stamp may be found in the one represented by the accompanying design. At the same time this colony cannot dismiss the ship.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the American Collectors' Co. was held Nov. 20 in N. Y. City and the following were elected directors:

Freeman Putney, Jr., Pres.; John N. Luff, Sec.; J. W. Russell, Treas.; H. M. Clark, C. H. Lee, Sam R. Simmons, Jr., and A. C. Wall.

It will be of interest to note that Messrs. Batchelder and Carpenter of the New England Stamp Co. have retired from participation in the affairs of the American Collectors' Co. and the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. Mr. Carpenter has disposed of his financial interest in not only these two companies, but the New England Stamp Co. as well, although he will retain his position as treasurer of the last named company. Mr. Batchelder will devote his entire energies to the affairs of the New England Stamp Co.

Mr. Russell, who has taken the place of Mr. Rich as treasurer, has been with the Scott Co. for twenty-six years as office manager and is well-known to collectors who have had occasion to visit the Scott Company's store. Mr. Clark, who is added to the directorate, came to New York from Chicago about two years ago to take charge of the approval and auction departments.

BETWIXT YOU AND ME.

Scott's Catalog Free—Send in your renewal of subscription for six years, $3, and we will mail you a cloth bound catalog free of charge. 1914 edition is just out. Or if you prefer remit 85c (paper) or $1.00 (cloth) and we will send the catalog.

Power's Book on U. S.—This is a splendid book on United States stamps written by Mr. Power of the Stanley Gibbons Co. It retails for 75c but by a special arrangement you may have it for 50c.

Advertising Copy—Must be received on Saturdays. Monday is too late.

The Goodwin Book—This book will be issued just as soon as the series of articles is completed. We are doing our best to secure Mr. Goodwin's cooperation for an early closing of forms.

Our Mailing List—It takes two weeks to make changes on our mailing list. If therefore, you miss copies of the WEEKLY don't blame us.

A Philatelic Library—Every stamp collector should possess a philatelic library and the Melville books make a good beginning. We can supply them all, 20c each.

Our Premium Offers—We give premiums only for names never before on our mailing list. If you have ever been a subscriber don't try to pull a premium unless you send in a new name.

EDITORIAL.

For "Shut-ins"—The indications are that the "shut-ins" will not be forgotten during the busy preparations for a joyous Christmas season by our more fortunate readers. The custom of remembering the "shut-in" who collects stamps and whose circumstances will not allow a reasonable indulgence in philately is one that has been established by the WEEKLY. Last year, both "givers and getters" seemed so happy in performing their parts that the Christmas of all of us was the merrier because of the "shut-in" movement.

* * *

That's the Way—Our newspaperman friend, Mr. William E. Marsh, contributes "Stamped Envelopes and Postage Stamps," to the October number of the Linotype Bulletin. Mr. Marsh takes occasion, as a publicity expert should when he corrects a philatelic misstatement in the press, to adorn the skeleton of fact with a few philatelic flourishes. Notice how cleverly Mr. Marsh sets forth: "The article in the July issue of The Linotype Bulletin regarding the old firm of Nesbitt & Co., of New York was slightly erroneous in one particular. The statement was made that the Nesbitt firm printed all the stamped envelopes used in the United States, up to the time of the establishment of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington." Etc., etc.

Catalogue Talk—We have received so many comments on the new edition of the standard catalogue that it is not feasible to publish them all. In fact, there is no necessity to do so, as we are assured by the publishers that they will give due attentions to criticisms of their catalogue when they are sent direct to them. Mr. T. Hurd Kooker, Jacksonville, Florida, touches upon a point that has been discussed pertinently: "The changing of the number of a stamp is something that I should like to see taken up by some of our live societies and condemned. When a stamp has been given a number, why not allow that number to be permanent, the only exception being occasionally in handling the postage due stamps." We believe that the publishers recognize more than ever before the necessity for unchanged numbers, year after year. An improvement in this regard may be expected in future numbers of the catalogue.

* * *

No Cause for Excitement—The Philadelphia Record said recently: "The United States Postal Department has been appealed to by Titta Ruffo, the celebrated baritone of the Philadelphia-Chicago Grand Opera Company, in his endeavors to complete a collection of stamps of this country. Ruffo, who has one of the most valuable sets of any living collector, yesterday made known his desire to James Rankin Young, superintendent of the postal savings depositary in this city, and who until quite recently was superintendent of the dead letter department at Washington. The singer lacks several of the earlier stamps issued by this country and which at the present time are decidedly rare. Mr. Young will today communicate with the National Postal Department in his efforts to procure for Ruffo the required stamps. It is Ruffo's hope to get them before he leaves the city at the end of the week next, as he will not return here until next winter. Ruffo's collection is celebrated in Europe and South America, of which continents he possesses at least one of each variety of stamps issued by the various countries within the past century." We shall not assume sophisticatedly that the graceless press agent is responsible for the foregoing paragraphs but we shall grant that they are founded on fact, at least. We believe that we have heard before of Ruffo's collection of stamps; and we wish him much joy of it, even though it "lacks several of the earlier stamps issued by this country, and which, at the present time, are decidedly rare."

* * *

Guess What Happens—The newspaper story just copied fascinates us and we are loth to dismiss it from mind. We do not know what success Mr. James Rankin Young will have as a result of his communicating with the National Postal Department nor can we in our omniscience tell just how Washington will regard the activities of the friendly and solicitous, not to say, precipitous ex-superintendent of the dead letter department. We can say, however, alas, for the vanity of human wishes. Ruffo hopes "to get them (the stamps) before he leaves the city at the end of next week" but he is doomed to the familiar dire disappointment. The Department has not got the stamps to give. We trust that Ruffo in the poignancy of his grief will not forget Rankin, the brave volunteer, whose sortie was a sturdy but not successful one.

* * *

Even So—There were times in the past when we would read in the newspapers that such and such a prince or potentate was given a complete set of our stamps by our gracious government for his stamp collection. Sometimes, it was a lesser dignitary whom our Washington was anxious to please by a stamp shower and even the "son of a popular Western senator" has been known to be the beneficiary of the stern powers of the post in years that have been left behind. Usually these stories hinged upon the department stamps, which were not supposed to reach the hands of the public in unused condition and which, in consequence, were in great demand,—but enough of those days when the Brattleboro represented the apex of affluence and when there was no government stamp collection.

* * *

Plain Envelopes—Mr. G. A. Hunt has sent in an envelope whose face bears in black, a cut of the arms of the State of Massachusetts. "I understand," says Mr. Hunt, "that these envelopes were used to enclose ballots in a state election held in the early fifties. I understand that they were the first envelopes manufactured." Mr. Hunt must mean that these envelopes were the first made in his state, as we know that the Mulready envelopes issued May 6th, 1840, were to have been obtained "cut and folded from stationers and others licensed to deal in stamps, at a small advance over cost." All collectors of stamps on original covers gain some knowledge of early envelopes and we could consider the subject at some length if need be. Our earliest envelope, which bears the one penny black Great Britain bears the London postmark, January 8th, 1841, is wax sealed and by-the-way, is addressed to Col. Aspinwall, 1, Bishops Gate, Church Yard, London. Our first gummed flap envelope, embossed in colorless letters on the point of flap, "Ehrman's Adhesive Despatch Envelope" in a pearled circle is dated in 1851 and a "Cushman and Bailey's Adhesive Envelope" was used in February, 1852. In the Annual of Scientific Discovery, published in March, 1850, there are two descriptions of improved machinery for the manufacture of envelopes. One, operating in Philadelphia, was called "an ingenious machine for the manufacture of envelopes an article, which, within the past few years, since the alterations in our postal laws, has come into great demand." This machine which gummed the envelopes, was described as a marvel of ingenuity. At the time, it was said that one million of envelopes were manufactured daily in Great Britain. By the time the government stamped envelopes were issued in 1853, the use of envelopes for the purpose of correspondence was common enough.

* * *

Reefing His Sails—Elsewhere, we give the departmental order from Washington, authorizing the general use of precanceled stamps during the holidays. It will be seen that the precaution is taken that the stamps are "not to be delivered to the persons presenting the parcels for mailing, but to be affixed to the parcels by the postmaster or the employee of the post office after the proper postage has been paid."

CHAPTER L.

Issue of 1895.

Shortly after the appearance of the postage stamps of issue of 1894 counterfeits imitated the 2 cent stamps. This is given as a reason for inflicting upon philatelists a series of watermarked stamps, and promoting a ready market for benzine cups and profanity. The earliest watermarks were indistinct, and those collectors who are sticklers for legibility may discard many specimens of each denomination before feeling certain that they possess true watermarked copies.

The watermark was known as "double line," the marks forming outlines of Roman capital letters 16 mm. in height. The characters were not made to fall exactly in the center of the stamps, as there were 90 letters impressed into a pane of 100 stamps. In printing, too, no care was taken to prevent the watermarks falling in various positions within the completed stamps, so we find a bewildering series of watermarks for the study of the specialist, in that they can be located normal, reversed, bottom up and reversed, sideways with top of letter pointing to right and to left, etc.

The thirteen denominations all appeared during the year watermarked, the 1 cent being the first to go to the public. The dates of issue follow:

1 cent, April 29	8 cent, July 22
2 cent, May 2	10 cent, June 7
3 cent, Oct. 31	15 cent, Sept. 10
4 cent, June 5	50 cent, Nov. 9
5 cent, June 11	$1, Aug. 12
6 cent, Aug. 31	$2, Aug. 13

$5, Aug. 16

The 1 cent stamp was printed from plates containing 400 stamps. There were 77 plates used, the lowest number being No. 24, and the highest number No. 496. The shades, as classified by Mr. Luff, are: pale ultramarine, ultramarine, pale blue, dark blue, navy blue, deep dull blue.

2 cent, type I, was printed from 17 plates of 400 each, the lowest number being No. 78, and the highest No. 144. Shades: rose, rose carmine, carmine, pale aniline rose.

2 cent, type II, was printed from six plates, lowest number, No. 126; highest No. 170. Shades: bright aniline rose, rose, rose carmine, pale aniline rose.

2 cent, type III, was printed from 384 plates, of 400 stamps each, the lowest plate number being 141 and the highest 1080. Shades: bright aniline rose, rose, rose carmine, carmine, lilac rose, scarlet, rose vermilion, pink, crimson, carmine lake.

3 cent, printed from 8 plates of 200 stamps, lowest plate number 91, highest 450. Shades: purple, deep purple.

4 cent, printed from 16 plates of 200 stamps, lowest 92, highest 463. Shades: dark yellow brown, gray brown, black brown.

5 cent, printed from 24 plates of 200 stamps, lowest number being 128, highest 392. Shades: orange brown, dark orange brown, deep brown.

6 cent, printed from 6 plates of 200 stamps each, lowest number being 28, highest 451. Shades: claret, deep claret, claret brown.

8 cent, printed from 7 plates of 200 stamps, lowest number being 58, highest 931. Shades: brown violet, plum.

10 cent, printed from 8 plates of 400 stamps, lowest plate number being 55, highest 306. Shades: bright blue green, blue green.

15 cent, printed from two plates of 200 stamps each, 52 and 264. Shades: indigo and dark indigo.

50 cents, printed from two plates of 200 stamps, plate numbers 75 and 286. Shades: yellow orange, orange, red orange.

$1, printed from two plates of 200 stamps, 76 and 287. Shades: black, gray black, greenish black.

$2, printed from two plates of 200 stamps each, plate numbers 84 and 289. Shades: sapphire blue, deep blue.

$5, printed from two plates of 200 stamps, numbers 85 and 288. Shades: dark yellow green, dark green.

The 2 cent stamps, in type III, were printed from plates containing 360 designs and bound into booklets for pocket use. The books contained panes of 6 stamps each, interleaved with parafined paper. The plates used were numbers 988, 989 990 and 991.

Few varieties are chronicled. The entire 13 denominations come imperforate and by the writer are considered collectible, even though it has been written that they were never intended for postage. It is certain that the imperforate stamps were printed upon regular stamp paper, regularly gummed, and available for postage, even though not perforated.

The very scarce varieties are the 6 cent and 8 cent denominations printed on paper watermarked "U. S. I. R." used for printing the revenue stamps.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldredge lists the following new precancels:

St. Paul, Minn.—two lines (ST. PAUL—MINN) vertical inscription in heavy faced sans-serif type 2 mm. high (St. Paul) lighter type with serifs, same height (Minn) between lines 1 1/4 mm. thick, and 9 1/2 mm. apart. 1c, 1912, reading up. 1c, 1913, Parcel Post. Boston, Mass.—(No. 1164) 3c 1910, inverted.

Augusta, Me.—(No. 1194) 1c 1912. Philadelphia, Pa.—One line (Philadelphia, Pa.) horizontal inscription in fine type with serifs, between two lines 10 mm. apart and 1 1/4 mm. thick. 1c 1912-13, Parcel Post.

Boston, Mass.—(No. 1164) 6c 1910, inverted.

St. Louis, Mo.—(No. 1162) 6c 1910. Lt. H. B. Riebe sends us a copy of the 3c of 1895, which has a colored dash running from the centre of the last "E" of "Three" to the "C" of "Cents." We understand that the stamp has been submitted to Frank E. Goodwin, who thinks the dash due to a defect in the plate and not to a spot of ink.

Walter Maddock submits a minor variety of the 1c Panama Pacific stamp. The line running from the bottom of "T" of "Cent" towards the right is broken into two parts, each equal to about one-third the total length. Possibly this was caused by imperfect inking.

AUSTRALIA.—F. W. Reid sends specimens of the 1d, 2d, 3d, 4d, and 1sh perforated for official use. The 2d and 1sh are perforated with large "O S" as previously noted, while the other values, including other specimens of the 2d are perforated "OS—NSW" in smaller letters in two lines. Mr. Reid says that all values of the Kangaroo officials have not yet appeared.

CHINA.—The Stamp Journal says that both series of the Commemorative stamps, with portraits of Sun Yat Sen and Yuan Shi Kai, were withdrawn from circulation July 31, and the remainders destroyed.

GOLD COAST.—Stamp Collecting says that the whole of the remaining stock of King Edward stamps has been destroyed and that all denominations of the Georgian series are now on sale.

ITALY.—Champion's Bulletin notes the issue of three stamps, with "Servizio—Commissioni" at the top, a large figure of value in the centre, and "Centesimi" at the bottom. Maury's Collectionneur also notes these stamps, both papers being unable to state their use.

MEXICO.—Sonora.—Apropos our imperfect list of the Sonora provisionals in No. 1194, we find the following in the last number of Scott's Circular. As all our information about these stamps has come from Mr. Howard, the list given below must be considered authoritative. Scott promises further information next month:—

There is quite a budget of Sonora items this month, the first being a letter from Second Assistant Postmaster General, who informs us under date of October 18 as follows:

"In answer to your letter of the 10th instant, which the Postmaster General has referred to me, relative to articles mailed in Mexico bearing postage stamps issued by the State of Sonora, you are informed that the instructions of this Department require that articles received from Mexico bearing postage stamps issued by other than the federal authorities of Mexico shall be treated as unpaid, and deficient postage rated and collected accordingly."

This was in reply to a letter from us enclosing a Sonora cover which came through to New York without postage due being collected as noted last month. Mr. George W. Linn informs us that he knows of other covers which have come through to the United States in the same way.

Mr. H. R. Howard has kindly furnished us with the following list of Sonora stamps:

Postage Stamps of Sonora.
May, 1913.

- No.
1 type Ab—1c black and red.
2 type Aa—2c black and red.
2a type Ab—2c black and red. (Third stamp in each row of No. 2).
3 type Aa—3c black and red.
4 type Aa—5c black and red. (First value issued.)
4a type Aa—5c black and red. ("Centavob." fifth stamp of one row.)
4A type Aa—5c black and red. (Perforated; issued July, in Cananea, at Ronquillo and branch offices La Mesa, Chivatera, Puertocito.) 4Aa type Aa—5c black and red.

5 type Ac—5c black and red. (June, 1913.)

6 type Ab—10c black and red.

6 type Ab—10c black and red.

No. June, 1913.

7 type Bc—5c black and red.

7a type Bc—5c black and red. ("Maro" on 1st and 2nd stamp, each row.)

No. July, 1913.

8 type Ab—1c black, red and yellow-green; gray-green.

9 type Aa—3c black, red and yellow-green; gray-green.

10 type Aa—5c black, red and deep green. (Issued in Hermosillo.)

10a type Aa—5c black, red and deep green. ("Centavob.")

11 type Ab—10c black, red and yellow-green; gray-green.

(Nos. 8, 9 and 11 were issued first in yellow-green, later printing in gray-green shows change in spacing of overprint, giving better centering.)

Explanation of Types.

A—Rouletted in colorless lines on three sides, straight edge at top.

B—Rouletted in black on four sides.

a—Figures of value in Heavy Face Extended numerals.

b—Figures of value in Roman numerals.

c—Figures of value in Gothic or Sans Serif numerals.

Nos. 1-6 and 8-11 on sheets 8x3 1/2 in. showing occasionally watermark "Peerless Mills."

No. 7, watermark "Yukon Aurora," showing occasionally.

Nos. 12, 13, 14 on cream tinted, unwatermarked sheets, 8 1/4 x 3 3/4 in.

No. 15, cream-tint, unwatermarked, 8 1/2 x 3 3/4 in.

Nos. 15a, 15b on white and cream-tinted, unwatermarked, 8 1/2 x 3 3/4 in.

Nos. 15c, 15d on cream-tinted, unwatermarked, 8x4 1/4.

William W. Randall writes as follows: In your list of Sonora provisionals add—with Circular green background, colorless roulette, the 10c, medium thin figures of value. The paper of the first printings, without green surcharge is watermarked "Peerless Mills."

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Charles S. Hibbard reports the current 1c stamp with "NFW" and "Jam-R-s". The stamp next to the one with "N-F-W" right hand side has this error. I have a block and in looking them over I found the two errors.

NICARAGUA.—A. W. Dunning sends us a new provisional from this country. The 15c on 35c Mountains has been used by obliterating the "Vale 15 cts" with heavy black rules and printing in "1/2ct. Cordoba" in black, just above "Correos—1913," which is in purple.

Provisional Adhesive.

1/4c on 35c green and chestnut.

TURKEY.—Grant Squires submit samples of the Adrianople stamps reported in the news columns in No. 1194.

These stamps were placed on sale in Adrianople October 30, the supply being exhausted the same day.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Unfortunately we failed to give Hermann Focke proper credit for being the first to show us the new stamps from South Africa. The Chronicle appears to have been the victim of adverse conditions in connection with these stamps. The item in No. 1192 was first written and that in No. 1191 later. Owing to a press of matter both were crowded out, and when space was found, what should have been the second item was printed first, and credit was given to an English firm which belonged to Mr. Focke and Mr. Staeb.

URUGUAY.—Gibbons Monthly says that the 2c lithographed Artigas stamp has been issued in a new color.

Britain, Scott Stamp & Coin Co. Circular, Philatelic Gazette, Roessler's Stamp News, Collectors' Journal, New England Stamp Monthly, British Guiana Philatelic Journal, and New Yorker Briefmarken Zeitung.

The application of Mr. Ralph N. Hall was posted.

The resignation of Mr. J. B. B. Smith as Supt. of Sales was read.

The Secretary announced that the book on U. S. Revenues, published by the Society and entered in the New York Exhibition, had won a bronze medal and he exhibited the diploma. It was voted to have this framed and hung in the Club Room.

Mr. Jesse W. Sargent was admitted as member No. 586.

The president stated that he counted about 30 members of the Society at the New York Exhibition, and there were between 40 and 50 there—a better representation than from any other locality. There were 35 medals won by members of the Society on exhibitions of stamps.

Various members present were called on by the president to give their impressions of the Exhibition, which proved a very interesting feature of the meeting.

The exhibition for the evening was of the great rarities shown at New York by Mr. Dudley L. Pickman, which attracted as much attention there as any of the exhibits on view. The opportunity was much enjoyed and appreciated by the members present.

BEVERLY COLLECTORS ORGANIZE.

Beverly, Mass., has organized a stamp club. It bears the rather pretentious title of the Beverly Philatelic Society, but the members deem this very appropriate for the erstwhile summer capital. John B. Goldsmith is president, Lewis E. Hood, secretary, Hezekiah Shailer, treasurer, and Edward Leland, sales superintendent. Meetings will be held every other Thursday evening in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Griebert's Philatelic Notes and Offers

This publication contains only original articles and we frequently add valuable illustrations of plates which have not been published by any other journal. In many cases it has taken the authors months and sometimes years to reconstruct such plates before their studies can be published, and the production of a plate as a supplement causes an extra outlay of from twelve to twenty-five dollars.

We charge 25c for six numbers of the G. P. N. O. and this small fee does not cover one-fourth of the expense of the numbers sent out. Every collector can afford to spend 25c for a journal such as ours.

A COLLECTION ARRANGEMENT.

By FRANK C. CLARK, Medford, Ore.

The question of properly housing my collection bothered me for a considerable time. After going through the age when we would put a good liberal coat of mucilage on the back of the stamp and firmly sticking it to the page of the little album, I graduated to one of Scott's albums. In turn, the new issues caused me trouble as there were not enough blank pages to properly house the family.

Then began the study of the new thought. Small blank albums. It appealed to me and this is the result. First came the question of finding a low priced binder. This was found in the "Twinlock Universal Binder" at a cost of one dollar per dozen. They are of dark brown, tough paper with soft metal members that permit of the taking out of old and readily inserting new pages. My binders are in excellent condition after four years' service. These binders come in various shapes and sizes, and can be obtained from the large stationery stores.

Then I had printed a thousand sheets of bond paper, not too heavy, and a paper that would not crack nor turn yellow with age. I selected after numerous trials with the various shaped stamps, a page eight inches by eleven inches and adopted the eleven inch way for the horizontal distance. To suit this size the binder known as Number 803 is used. I had the printer print the page with a faint background consisting of lines about 3-16 inch apart, vertically and horizontally. The size of the background is about 7 3/4 inches long by 6 1/2 inches high, enclosed with a border of two heavy lines.

To readily locate the vertical center row of the page, I had the printer put in an additional vertical line in the center of the central rows of squares, while for the horizontal center line I had a slight dash placed at the border lines. The printer had holes punched in the left hand side of the page to accommodate the binder fastenings. These holes are spaced exactly as those made by the ordinary letter file.

My arrangement of stamps is to provide spaces for stamps that I think will possibly come into my possession. I eliminate all high values and even some of as low a catalogue value as $2.00 of some countries. If I should obtain any of these it is simply a matter of readjusting the stamps or remounting a new page. My pages have a complete look in many cases. I have not got a lot of blank spaces for high priced stamps looking at me with a sarcastic smile, as though saying, "Well, you will never fill me up."

I have grouped my collection in albums about as follows:—Germany, France, Spain, Portugal and colonies respectively. Great Britain, with Canada, New Foundland, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Is. and British Columbia are in one book. British Colonies in another. Australia and its British neighbors are in another. European countries in another. Brazil and Argentine in another with Mexico by itself. South American countries next and growing so fast that I will have to sub-divide. And so on. United States I keep in the same make of binders except that I bought the binder with a stiff blue cloth cover in place of the cardboard. The cloth covers are to be had with a slight additional cost.

My latest idea is to obtain copies of the leaflets published by the Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co. descriptive of the various countries and their postal issues and place these leaflets in my albums relative to that country.

At first I kept my albums in card board boxes similar to letter files. Each album had its separate folder of tough paper, these folders such as are used for letter file correspondence. Each folder marked with the name of the country contained in the album, the name of the country being marked also on the binder.

Later I designed a cabinet for my albums, catalogues, duplicates, etc., of which I submit a drawing. The cabinet is of mahogany and is thirty inches high by about sixteen inches wide and eighteen inches deep. There is a hinged drop lid at the left side supported in turn by two hinged brackets underneath. Under the top of the cabinet is a slide board similar to desks while be-

KING EDWARD HEADS.

In view of the many new issue services that supply A.L. stamps as issued, it is surprising how many collectors are short the British Colonial stamps just obsolete. Our ad of three weeks since of books of King Edward Heads brought many replies and our books have come back much depleted.

We have, however, some very good books yet not as complete as at first, but if you are slow you must not expect the best. Let us put your name on our current and coming service, then you will not need to buy any stamps after they are obsolete, but if your name is not on our mailing list

Fill Up Your Revenues Now

If there are any vacant spaces in your Revenue collection you should make application for one of my several Green Books, containing imperforate, part-perforate and full perforated copies of U. S. Revenues, marked at living prices.

My approval books are also strong in special delivery, dues, etc. These lines have been neglected for the straight adhesives, and when collectors turn to them they will be hard to get.

A couple of books contain used and unused Departments, newspaper stamps, etc.

How about covers—are you interested? I have some good ones in medium values, together with a lot of River Packet cancellations, etc.

Anything sent on approval against good references or A. P. S. number.

1914 Price List

My Price List of the Stamps of the United States and its Colonies is ready for distribution. It contains features not found in ordinary lists, such as a complete list of Coil Stamps, Philippine "O. B." stamps, India paper, and card board proofs, as well as a list of the number of Department stamps issued. It is the most complete list published, and no serious collector can afford to be without it. It is free; a postal card will bring it, prepaid with a precancelled stamp.

H. F. COLMAN,

Second National Bank Bldg., WASHINGTON, D. C.

low are two small drawers, one subdivided, in which I keep duplicates, scales, tongs, etc., and new stamps, hinges, etc., in the other.

Below the two small drawers is one drawer for odds and ends. Below are arranged the album drawers, each drawer being made of light weight galvanized iron, faced with a thin wood strip. The upper edge of the side of the drawer is turned out at a right angle and fits into a saw cut groove in the side wood member to form a sliding place, as indicated in the drawing. There is no intervening strip of wood between the drawers as is generally the case, thus saving height as permitting more drawers.

The four corners of the case are 1 1/2 inches square, while the wood sides are set back flush with the inside of the corner pieces thus providing, especially at the right hand side, space for three narrow shelves with a light guard strip, so that I have a place to put my catalogues and the current journals. On the left side this recess forms the space for the two hinged brackets to fit into when the drop lid is lowered.

And there you are with the modern idea. I like it very much indeed.

One word before closing and that is if you ever have a cabinet made avoid cedar. Avoid cedar in all cases, as the closeness of the air within the box in combination with the cedar odor will cause the gum of the stamp to work through the paper to the face of the stamp causing it to look like a transparent picture.

I am an architect and would like to hear from any stamp friend who might be interested in a cabinet of similar lines to mine and would be glad to offer any suggestions that might be of service.

DECEMBER 12TH & 13TH AUCTION SALE

This collection, the property of Mr. Charles H. Stroud of Philadelphia, was started some fifty years ago and contains many gems seldom offered at auction. Rich in early United States, many unused and in exceptionally fine condition. The early Europeans and general foreign stamps are also fine and there are a number of recent issues together with some splendid wholesale lots of U. S. and foreign stamps. The catalogues have been mailed. If you have not received yours, write for one to-day.

Our sale of January 9th and 10th, from the Trustees of a Philadelphia estate, is in course of preparation. Watch this space for further details.

NEW VALUES IN THE CURRENT SET.

Some weeks ago we announced that the P. O. Dept. was considering the issue of additional values to accommodate the needs of the parcel post business. The following clipping from the Washington Star would indicate that these values are soon to appear:—

The Postmaster General has authorized a new issue of stamps of the 7c, 9c, 12c, 20c and 30c denominations to meet the needs of the parcel post business. With these new stamps and the smaller ones now in circulation nearly every amount required for postage from 1 cent to 60 cents can be made up with not more than two stamps. Some of the new stamps will be sent in fulfillment of the requisition of the postmaster at Philadelphia. Under orders of the Postmaster General, every postage charge may be paid with ordinary stamps. Formerly special stamps were required in certain cases.

A SUCCESSFUL LADIES' NIGHT.

The Suburban Stamp and Curio Club held Ladies' Night, November 22, in Warren Hall, 67 Warren St., Roxbury, their regular meeting place on the first and third Thursday of each month. There were twenty-nine members and friends present and all enjoyed a pleasant evening.

Five new members were admitted, making a total of thirty-three, and the club only a year old. There was an auction sale of forty miscellaneous lots such as stamps, butterflies, old books and a wide variety of other articles. Charles H. Fowle (Undoooley) read "Why I Collect Stamps." Albert H. Hall gave an illustrated talk on "Ladies on Stamps," using as a subject about twenty stamps mounted on a large card which was later, thru the generosity of Mr. Hall, auctioned off for the benefit of the treasury.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served. Dr. Thompson showed collections ranging from stamps, coins and insects to flowers made from fish scales and articles run over by the street cars; William Reiff, a beautiful collection of mounted butterflies; Mrs. Geo. L. Libby, a collection of "blocks;" W. F. VanMalder, Persia and British North America; President Henry Schumacher, Jr., postage and revenue stamps of U. S. Souvenirs of the meeting were distributed.

The club welcomes visitors at its meetings and all collectors are invited to join. The dues are but twenty-five cents per year and ten cents at each meeting. Another enjoyable time is expected at the Christmas meeting on December 18. On this occasion the Philatelic-Curio Christmas Tree will be the main feature. Donations for the tree are acceptable, proceeds will help recuperate the treasury.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We are indebted to Henry Schumacher, president of the Suburban Stamp and Curio Club, for specimen of the souvenir presented the members and their guests on ladies' night held Nov. 20, 1913. It consists of a 1914 calendar mounted upon a card prettily decorated.

—We are indebted to Hugo Kuenstler for a batch of fourteen clippings. A number of them pertain to the New York Exhibition.

—The International Stamp Co., DeGraft, O., would like to secure the street address of the Imperial Stamp Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

—The advertisement of M. Ohlman this week is of special interest in view of the fact that the offer of free subscriptions to the WEEKLY figure in it. We hope this enterprise upon the part of Mr. Ohlman will be appreciated.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Frank C. Cartledge, Chas. J. Ludwig, Jr., Mrs. L. A. Pickett, Edward Weiss, Percy W. Fuller, Chas. S. Hibbard (2) and Hugo Kuenstler (14).

A NEW COLOR CHART.

We take pleasure in commending the new color chart just issued by H. L. Wiley of Portland, Ore. It illustrates 120 different colors and what makes it all the more valuable is the fact that each color is shaded from light to dark. So many of our subscribers have been asking for something of this kind that we feel sure it will have a goodly patronage

Special Bargains

We have 3 splendid British Colonial collections for sale, any one of which would make an excellent Christmas gift. The stamps are fine, and the prices low, with a good range of varieties, for which we offer:

No. 1 at $15.00, Cat. $30.00 or more.

No. 2 at $25.00, Cat. $50.00 or more.

No. 3 at $40.00, Cat. $80.00 or more.

All poor copies, such as heavily cancelled and damaged stamps, have been eliminated only fine specimens are included. They consist of used and mint, 19th and 20th Century. These collections have only the better class of stamps, and are really worth more than prices quoted.

We shall be pleased to send same C. O. D. with privilege of examination to any responsible person, and if not as represented or better, return at our expense. We also have one with a high grade of stamps for $85.00, Cat. more than $150.00. All of which are positively bargains.

EDITORIAL.

A Report—From Mr. T. J. Mitchell of Philadelphia, who, by-the-way, was famous as "Wanderer" in the stamp press of twenty-five years ago, word has come: "I have heard through the Postmaster's office here that dies have been made for a seven, nine, twelve and thirty cent stamp, respectively; and that the stamps themselves are expected in a few weeks. I have not seen any stamp press notices up to this time, yet Philadelphia has ordered the stamps in its current requisition." This is interesting news and particulars are awaited.

* * *

Good Wishes—From the November number of Scott Stamp & Coin Company Circular, we learn that after a connection with the Scott Stamp and Coin Company for nineteen years, Mr. Joseph S. Rich has disposed of his large holding of stock in one parcel, in the company. For some time, Mr. Rich's health has been declining and this condition has made it advisable for him to retire. Mr. Rich has been a bulwark of strength in the philatelic marts of trade; he came on the commercial scene when all prospects were not the rosiest but he soon controlled the situation through wise administration. We can readily believe that his associates are loth to see Mr. Rich go; and there are others. We trust that Mr. Rich will continue to find pleasure in his really fine collection of United States telegraph stamps,—to say nothing of his wonderful collection of Poland (business of chuckling).

* * *

Fantastic—Of all the accounts of the New York Exhibition in the newspaper press, we are willing to wager that one that was published in an Italian paper is the most amazing. The tale of this foreign paper is a most egregious one and one marvels at the elasticity of the imagination of the writer, as in this connection we forbear to think that any philatelist was so graceless as to impose on the credulity of a correspondent. We give thanks to Mr. J. Saulnier, New

All Right—Frederic J. Haskin's series of articles on our postal affairs, with especial attention to the parcel post and the postal savings bank is about the best that has ever been syndicated in the newspaper press.

* * *

So They Say—We have been informed that the thief who purloined the inverted centers of the 1869 issue, United States, at the New York Exhibition on the closing day has yielded to his better nature, let us say, and revealed his identity. After the deed was done, the culprit, a non-resident of New York it is to be said, realized the enormity of his crime and his nerve failing him, he made known his identity and promised to return the stolen stamps, which, he said, had been sent to Europe. This, in brief, is the story as related by a correspondent who was unable to learn the name of the thief, nor will we presume to predict what effect the confession will have on the punishment that may be meted out to the offender. We surmise that in the flush of joy at the recovery of the stamps, there will be every disposition towards leniency to the fallen philatelist. It is hoped that our informant has got his story straight.

* * *

Ready Response—The stamp collecting "shut-ins" will fare well this season as already we have received pledges from more readers than we have names of "shut-ins." We wish personal service in recruiting the names for our list of the sufferers and ask that readers who know of deserving "shut-ins" send the addresses of the afflicted collectors, without delay. We believe that there are many whose physical disability gives all the keener edge to their philatelic appetite, which must remain unsatisfied to a great extent through circumstances which we do not need to detail but which will readily be understood. We want to lighten the burdens of these patient philatelists by stamp remembrances at Christmas and make this year's distribution even more successful than that of last season. We know that many of our readers are very busy but a little time spent to make those whose time drags along wearily, if not painfully, is sure to yield a peace of mind in return that is its own compensation. As it is, when we see how the unselfishness of some of our readers shines through their letters, we are constrained to take stock of our own deficiencies in this regard with the result that we are inspired to make as many "shut-ins" as possible know that someone thinks of them at Christmas.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, BOSTON, MASS.

Another Handbook—Our fourth handbook has been issued under the name, "How to Deal in Stamps." Twenty-four pages of double column width give the details of stamp dealing in what one recognizes to be the tone of authority. There are three parts to this instructive little book, "How to Become a Stamp Dealer," "Hints to Dealers," "How and Where to Buy," by Washington Grant, Willard O. Wylie and Thorn Smith, respectively. The most modern ideas are advanced in the neat paper-covered book; and never before, we believe, has the subject of stamp dealing been so practically and sensibly discussed. Any one with ambitions to deal in stamps will find the work the best of mentors. We are in a position to know what a demand there is for a guide of the kind, as no questions are asked of us more frequently than those that pertain to the commercial side of philately. The "price is within the reach of all, ten cents, one dime, the tenth of a dollar."

* * *

No Chance For Provisionals—An interesting series of instructions has been issued to the postmasters of the country, prompted by the "Christmas mailings." We shall make a summary of several of the paragraphs. Temporary supplies of stamps made necessary pending the filling of a requisition on Washington or a sudden heavy demand that threatens to exhaust the stock on hand may "be purchased of a neighboring postmaster under the provisions" of the postal laws and regulations. If it is not feasible to buy the stamps in this manner, notice should be taken by postmasters who should act accordingly in case of emergency that postoffices in Boston, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, Denver and San Francisco have been furnished "with stamps, wrapped and sealed for shipment in packages containing the following quantities, valued at $100 per package: 2,000 1c, 2,000 2c, 400 5c, 200 10c; and also, 1c and 2c stamps in packages of 10,000 each to postmasters needing such quantities as well as 5c, and 10c stamps in quantities "not less than full sheets of 100."

* * *

Postmaster's Privilege—In a circular issued by the Postmaster General in 1841, we find: "Postmasters may enclose money in a letter to the publisher of a periodical, to pay the subscription of a third person, and frank the letter, if written by himself." This is a new angle to us of the duties of the old-time postmaster and it is shown that a sympathetic government in the earlier days appreciated the trials and tribulations of the struggling editor and through its postoffice department extended him all encouragement.

BRAND NEW FOR THIS SEASON

We have prepared a few sets of FILLED APPROVAL BOOKS which are of the greatest value to all first-class dealers. The books are highly attractive and contain about 160 stamps each, with blank space to insert your name and address.
There are from 6 to 8 books in each lot ranging in value up to $7.00 or $8.00 for a single book and often more. They comprise a large variety.

Each Lot Catalogues over $26.00. PRICE $4.00
No book contains duplicates. Not over 5 of the same stamp in one set of books. All stamps priced according to catalogue. You can give 50 per cent, 60 per cent, or even 75 per cent discount and still double your money. [eowl]
FULTON STAMP CO., 102 West 42nd St., NEW YORK

SPECIALIZED UNITED STATES.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

CHAPTER LI.
Issue of 1898.

Early in January, 1898, the color of the 1 cent stamp was ordered changed to conform with the agreement of the Universal Postal Union. This change marked the abolishment of the blue which had been used for the stamp of lowest value almost continuously since 1851, and produced a stamp printed in green—the color adopted by the postal departments of the various nations that were parties to the agreement. In March of the same year the 5 cent stamp was changed in color from brown to blue. Later in the same year the colors of the 4 cent, 6 cent, 10 cent and 15 cent stamps were also changed. The dates of issue of the stamps in new colors follow:

1 cent, January 17, 1898.
4 cent, October 7, 1898.
5 cent, March 8, 1898.
6 cent, December 31, 1898.
10 cent, November 11, 1898.
15 cent, November 30, 1898.

The number of plates used to print the commoner stamps has now become so large that it is impractical in a series such as this to give them more than passing mention.

No change was made in the designs of the stamps, and little variety is noted.

1 cent—printed from 141 plates, of 400 designs each; lowest number 439; highest number 1065. Shades (by Mr. Luff) pale yellow green, yellow green, dark yellow green, dark gray green, green, dark green.

4 cent—printed from 10 plates, of 200 designs, lowest number 46; highest number 793. Shades—rose brown, claret brown, dark claret brown, lilac brown, red brown.

5 cents—printed from 16 plates of 200 designs. Lowest number 389; highest number 981. Shades—blue, deep blue, dark blue.

6 cents—printed from 5 plates of 200 designs. Lowest number 451; highest number 925. Shades, magenta, lake, brownish lake, brown carmine.

10 cents—printed from 14 plates of 400 designs. Lowest number 302; highest number 999. Shades—yellow brown, dark yellow brown, orange brown, gray brown.

15 cents—printed from a single plate (number 264) with 200 designs. Shades—olive green, deep olive green.

The writer is of the opinion that the list of shades given above is not as complete as it should be, but as I started out to quote Mr. Luff in the matter of shades, it is best not to add to it in this chapter. In following installments I will adhere to my own classification of shades, as I have determined them to be, together with those furnished by correspondents and the philatelic press.

In the matter of correct classification of shades, it is my opinion that no authority excels Mr. Luff.

A change should be made in the list of plate numbers given in the previous chapter, the 1895 issue. Omit 50 cent, plate No. 286; $1, plate No. 287; $2, plate No. 289; $3, plate No. 288. I am told that while these plates were made they were never actually put into use.

(To be continued.)

BETWIXT YOU AND ME.

Scott's Catalog Free—Send in your renewal of subscription for six years, $3, and we will mail you a cloth bound catalog free of charge. 1914 edition is just out. Or if you prefer remit 85c (paper) or $1.00 (cloth) and we will send the catalog.

Power's Book on U. S.—This is a splendid book on United States stamps written by Mr. Power of the Stanley Gibbons Co. It retails for 75c but by a special arrangement you may have it for 50c.

Advertising Copy—Must be received on Saturdays. Monday is too late.

The Goodwin Book—This book will be issued just as soon as the series of articles is completed. We are doing our best to secure Mr. Goodwin's cooperation for an early closing of forms.

Our Mailing List—It takes two weeks to make changes on our mailing list. If therefore, you miss copies of the WEEKLY don't blame us.

A Philatelic Library—Every stamp collector should possess a philatelic library and the Melville books make a good beginning. We can supply them all, 20c each.

Our Premium Offers—We give premiums only for names never before on our mailing list. If you have ever been a subscriber don't try to pull a premium unless you send in a new name.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

AUCTION CATALOG DESCRIPTIONS.

By ONE WHO HAS SUFFERED.

I am in accord with your campaign against dishonest discounts. I have entirely given up the discount system relying wholly on net prices owing to the fact that no wholesale dealer in the world pays any attention to Cat. quotations.

Another thing I advise you to do and that is attack auction dealers who make dishonest descriptions.

I have just had a lot, among others, that arouses my ire. The catalog in its preface says "There are no damaged stamps in any lot" and the description of the lot in question says "90 v. good copies." Now first that description does not say very good lot or anything of that sort but according to description each stamp was a very good copy. On arrival I found 22 damaged, 31 very poor (off centre or very heavily cancelled) copies and 37 fair to good copies, not over half a dozen answering to the description of very good. The lot was clearly a lot of culls and any person accustomed to handling stamps could tell that at a glance yet the description was "90 v. good copies." I used to buy around $1000 a year at auction but I have given up buying at auction almost entirely owing to the fact that generally speaking the descriptions of lots cannot be relied upon. Better see what you can do in this line.

Coming Wolsieffer Sales

The following properties will be offered in the near future: The European collection of Mr. Fred R. Cornwall of St. Louis, Mo.

the United States collection of Mr. C. A. Howes of Boston, Mass.

and the United States collection of the late

Captain Richard B. Paddock, U. S. A.

Some of the lots to be offered will be "Specialized Countries" all in one lot sold as a single item. New Bidders desiring my sale catalog should send in an application at once to be placed on my mailing list.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Hamburg.

THE THIRD ISSUE.

Between September, 1864, and April, 1865, all the values included in the two series already described appeared perforated 13½, the perforation being done by single line or guillotine machines.

In February, 1865, the color of the 7sch was changed from yellow to mauve, probably to prevent confusion with the 9sch. Wherever fresh printings were made the stamps were manufactured by the same processes as before, i. e., lithography for the 1¼sch and 2½sch values, and typography for the other denominations. The same plates and stones were used and the typographed stamps were printed by Meissner and the lithographed ones by Adler as before.

All values were printed on the paper watermarked with undulating lines, and, as in the previous issues, specimens from the outer rows of the sheets are occasionally found without watermark. The ½sch, 1sch and 2sch hardly vary in shade at all, but most of the other values exist in quite an array of tints.

The 3sch in the ultramarine shade and the 7sch in mauve are both known imperforate but it seems highly improbable that either was ever issued for use in this state. The ½sch, 3sch, and 7sch values are known imperforate vertically and the 9sch may be found imperforate horizontally.

Reference List.

- 1864-5. Wmk. Undulating lines. Perf. 13½.
12. ½sch black, Scott's No. 13.
 - (a) Imperf. vertically.
 13. 1sch brown, Scott's No. 14.
 14. 1¼sch mauve, Scott's No. 15, 15a or 15b.
 15. 2sch red, Scott's No. 16.
 16. 2½sch green, Scott's No. 17 or 17a.
 17. 3sch blue, Scott's No. 18 or 19.
 - (a) Imperf.
 - (b) Imperf. vertically.
 18. 4sch green, Scott's No. 20.
 19. 7sch orange, Scott's No. 21.
 - (a) Imperf. vertically.
 20. 7sch mauve, Scott's No. 22.
 - (a) Imperf.
 21. 9sch yellow, Scott's No. 23.
 - (a) Imperf. horizontally.

THE FOURTH ISSUE.

Although the letter rate to Lubeck was reduced to 1¼sch on October 1st, 1865, and the printed matter rate to the Netherlands was fixed at the same figure on July 1st, 1865, it was not until April, 1866, that the postal authorities troubled to issue a stamp of this value.

In this month a series of envelopes with embossed stamps of the values of ½, 1¼, 1½, 2, 3, 4 and 7sch was issued, these being manufactured in Berlin by the Prussian State Printing Office. The die for the 1¼sch envelope stamp was made use of in the construction of a plate for printing the adhesive stamp of corresponding value. The plate consisted of one hundred impressions arranged in ten horizontal rows of ten, and the stamps were embossed in color on plain white wove paper. These stamps were rouletted 10 instead of being perforated.

The central portion of the design is very similar to that of the stamps of the preceding issues, and shows the numerals and arms on a ground of solid color within an octagonal frame. Around this the usual inscriptions are placed in the same order as before, and these are separated at the corners by six-rayed stars or asterisks, each having an uncolored circle in the centre. The whole is enclosed in a double-lined octagonal frame.

In the following June the lithographed 1¼sch stamp was superseded by an embossed label of similar value. This was also manufactured by the Prussian State Printing Office and, as in the case of the 1½sch, the plate was constructed from the die for the 1¼sch envelope stamp. The plate was of similar size containing one hundred impressions in ten rows of ten. The design is very similar to that of the 1½sch, the inscriptions being on an octagonal border separated by stars; but the stamp was converted into a complete rectangle by adding a number of diagonal parallel lines to each of the four corners.

This stamp was likewise embossed in color on white wove unwatermarked paper and rouletted 10.

Mr. Brunel points out that the genuine stamps exhibit the following peculiarities:—

(b).—In the 1¼ schilling, under the "1," the second line (forming the background of stonework of the towers) is broken.

(c).—In the 1½ schilling the first and second "i" of the indication of value (at left) are joined to the bottom of the following "n" (more visible in the case of the first than of the second), likewise the letters of the last word "halb."

(d).—The "K" of "POSTMARKE" has the base smaller than the upper part.

These values show practically no variation of shade.

Reference List.

1866. Embossed. No wmk. Rouletted 10.
22. 1¼sch mauve, Scott's No. 25 or 25a.
 23. 1½sch rose, Scott's No. 26.

THE FIFTH ISSUE.

In June, 1867, one more change took place in the stamps of Hamburg before the special issues were finally suppressed in favor of the general issue for the North German Confederation. A further supply of 2½sch stamps was required, and as these could not be satisfactorily produced from Mr. Adler's lithographic stone, typography was resorted to and the old type of 1859 was rehabilitated.

These stamps were manufactured by Th. G. Meissner, of Hamburg and it is probable the die was engraved by J. F. R. Ziesenis, who was responsible for the other dies of the same type. The "secret mark" on this value corresponds with that found on the 2sch of the 1859 series—that is, there is a small colored dot under the first "I" of "Schilling."

The stamps were printed on the paper watermarked with undulating lines, and they were perforated by the 13½ machine. There are a number of distinct shades, and the variety is known imperforate and also imperforate horizontally.

Compared with the other typographed stamps this value was produced in a very inferior manner, this being due, probably, to the fact that it had to be manufactured in somewhat of a hurry.

THE UNOFFICIAL REPRINTS.

In 1868, shortly after the stamps were replaced by the issue for the North German Confederation, the remainders were offered for sale and found a purchaser in the late Mr. J. Goldner, a well-known stamp dealer of Hamburg. How many stamps were included in this lot is a matter regarding which no information has been published that we know of. It would appear that these remainders were all specially printed for sale if we can place any reliance on a statement that when the stamps were demonetised "only one sheet of the 1¼ and 2½ schilling remained over, some imperforate sheets of the second issue of the 1¼ schilling, and some defective sheets." If this were the case then the fact that the remainders had no gum is easily accounted for.

Having very few of the lithographed 1¼ and 2½sch Mr. Goldner approached the lithographer, Mr. C. Adler, and finding the original drawings were available commissioned him to make new stones of these values. Though the design was the same as the originals the stones were laid down in a different fashion. For the 1¼sch a block of sixteen transfers was made (in four rows of four) and this was retransferred to the stone six times making sheets of 96 stamps. These types all show little peculiarities differing from the issued stamps, these being detailed in full in Mr. Brunel's article in the "Postage Stamp," already alluded to. The "plate" for the 2½sch also consisted of 96 stamps but in this instance the transfers were applied in blocks of four.

These reprints appear to have been made in 1872. At first unwatermarked paper was used and then a quantity of the original watermarked paper being discovered this was used. These "reprints" are known imperforate, perf. 11½, and perf. 13½. Those on unwatermarked paper or perf. 11½ can easily be distinguished for there were no originals of this sort; and those on watermarked paper, perf. 13½, may be told by the roughness of the perforations compared with the originals. Though the official perforating machines were used the pins had become worn causing the "rough" effect.

About the same period reprints, or rather imitations, of the 1¼ and 1½sch stamps of 1866 were made. These were printed on white wove unwatermarked paper and are found rouletted 8½ as well as the 10 of the originals. The "reprint" of the 1¼sch is from a retouched die and it differs from the originals in having the small circles in the center of the four rosettes, which separate the inscriptions, filled in with color. There is also no line in the upper part of the "g" of "Schilling." The 1½sch was reprinted from the envelope die, and has a longer line in the upper part of the "g" of "Schilling," while the corner stars also have solid centers. The paper is thicker and the color of the impression does not show through as in the case of the originals. Both "reprints" exist with forged postmarks.

CONCLUDING NOTES.

The few reprints, as we have already pointed out, were made privately some years after the stamps had become obsolete, and these should present no difficulties to the collector. Forgeries of most of the values are very common, but as most of these are very roughly executed they should hardly deceive the collector exercising ordinary care.

As the majority of Hamburg stamps are rarer used than unused, genuine stamps with counterfeit postmarks are by no means uncommon. A very usual form of cancellation consists of a circle containing the name of the town and the date, and readers should take note of the fact that such marks with a star or fiolet before and after the name "HAMBURG" are undoubtedly bad. Equally common is a postmark composed of four parallel lines, either thick or thin, 20 mm. long and about 5mm. apart. The forgeries of this usually have the lines too short, more than four, irregularly spaced, or thickened at the ends. There is also a cancellation composed of four wavy lines, but the use of this seems to have been confined to the first issue only, and it is rarely met with.

1914 Price List

My Price List of the Stamps of the United States and its Colonies is ready for distribution. It contains features not found in ordinary lists, such as a complete list of Coil Stamps, Philippine "O. B." stamps, India paper, and card board proofs, as well as a list of the number of Department stamps issued. It is the most complete list published, and no serious collector can afford to be without it. It is free; a postal card will bring it, prepaid with a precancelled stamp.

Frederick R. Cornwall, Mr. Eugene Klein, Mr. John A. Klemann, Mr. John N. Luff, Mr. Bertram W. H. Poole and Mr. Walter S. Scott. (Applause.) It was impossible for me, members of the Association, to have proper diplomas engraved, but as I said before if my Board of Directors—and I have not the slightest doubt that they will do as I say—will support what I say, you will receive these diplomas, and members of the Association, or rather, members of the College of Philately, I, as a member of this Committee, have conferred the same degree upon the two absent judges, Mr. E. D. Bacon, of England, and Mr. Albert Coyette, of France. (Applause.)

This College of Philately is not going to limit its degrees to merely the judges. I cannot at the present moment tell you, because I went to sleep after a while—I was pretty tired—which of our great collectors we shall honour with our degrees, but, members of this College, those of you who receive this degree will be worthy of it, and at the present moment I can only say that I shall recommend to the faculty of the College, namely, our Executive Committee,—and I know I can get them to do pretty well what I want (laughter)—the men who have sent their collections, who have spent time—I was going to say money, but what is the money? it is the time and the energy and the love we appreciate—and among the collectors that I shall recommend to this faculty—excuse me for mentioning them—Mr. Henry J. Duveen (applause), Mr. George H. Worthington (applause), Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack (applause), Honourable Ernest R. Ackerman (applause), Mr. Edward M. Taylor (applause), and Mr. Clarence E. Chapman (applause).

This is not the end of it, but as I told you before—my wife disturbed me and I went to sleep—we shall soon have a meeting of the faculty, the Executive Committee, which shall refer others to the Trustees, the Board of Directors; and gentlemen, or rather members of this Association, let me tell you one thing, the success of this exhibition was due in a great measure to the fact that our little Association, starting with thirty directors, who in our charter were named as the incorporators, has now grown to a body of over eight hundred members. (Applause.) And we shall continue to make efforts to increase that membership until we include in it everybody who really has the interests of our hobby—and I call it "hobby" purposely; don't let us pose as though we were scientists, let us be satisfied with what we have done as followers of a hobby—we are proud of it (applause)—and I hope to see that Association and College of Philately grow until it embraces every serious collector of stamps, not only in the United States, because our membership is universal. We have received applications from all over the world, and we hope it will continue.

And, students of our College, let me call you that, we who were at the head of affairs, encouraged as we are by the success of our maiden effort,—and we have no apologies to make; we are willing to stand on our own feet, children though we are—we shall hold another exhibition in this city. It was our intention to hold it in five years, but we find the encouragement and demand so great that perhaps we will ask you to a triennial session of this College. (Great applause.)

My U. S. Approval Books

Afford an opportunity for collectors to fill those "holes" which stare them in the face every time they open their albums. The books are alike suited to the beginner, advanced collector or specialist, and the prices are right in line with the true value.

These books, now mounted up complete, number 300 in all, with a net value of more than $4,000. Most of the Hard-to-Get things are included, both in used and in mint condition.

These approval books contain almost everything, with only a few numbers missing, in adhesives, dues, newspaper stamps, departments and revenues.

In the Specialized Books there are shades, cancellations, line varieties, double transfers, pairs, strips, blocks, plate numbers, "sample" stamps, "Specimen" stamps, reissues, proofs, essays, book leaves, Government Coils, private perforations, and a few precancelled. A lot of original covers, with rare cancellations, round out a pretty complete stock.

I want to send some of these books to earnest collectors who furnish A. P. S. number or references.

A STUDY OF ADVERTISING MEDIUMS.

We have been so busy during the past weeks that very little of a personal nature, so far as the WEEKLY is concerned has appeared in our publication. We realize that we have rather neglected our advertising chat, but anyone looking through the WEEKLY might feel that our advertising needs no boosting. We take this opportunity of quoting the following from a letter just at hand from C. A. Pitkin, who has tried various stamp papers and has come to this conclusion:—

"Naturally, I make a careful study of advertising mediums, and have decided the question as to whether to take a small space in others, or additional with you, in your favor. I can hardly see my way clear to take extra space during December, however, but expect to use a full column in the first issue of the New Year.

What would be the best figure you could give me for a two inch space regularly Jan. to May, inclusive?"

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—L. B. Lincoln, M. L. & T. Bdg., Chicago, Ill., would like to secure a book "How to Photograph Stamps." Who can help him out?

—The S. L. Sholley Stamp Co., Minneapolis, Minn., would like to know the present whereabouts of C. S. Kistner, formerly R. 5, Box 7b, Elkhart, Ind.

—John H. Buckley.—Apply to your town or city clerk to obtain the information you desire. The laws governing the matter of licenses vary in different states.

—"When I last renewed my subscription for two years, I said to myself—when that expires I will be 62 years old and won't want to bother with stamps any more. But please credit me with two years more, I am as young as ever."—HORACE JONES.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from James Whiteside (4).

—Postmaster General Burleson has recommended to the Interstate Commerce Commission that the maximum weight on parcel post packages be increased to fifty pounds for the first and second zones.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Rochester (N. Y.) Philatelic Association was held Wednesday evening, November 26th in the Club Rooms. The event held unusual interest on account of its being the Society's first Auction night. The results spell a speedy success, over $24 being realized. The next meeting will be held the third Wednesday of December instead of the fourth on account of the latter date falling on Christmas eve. This will be the annual meeting for the election of officers and the presence of all members is wished.

BETWIXT YOU AND ME.

Scott's Catalog Free—Send in your renewal of subscription for six years, $3, and we will mail you a cloth bound catalog free of charge. 1914 edition is just out. Or if you prefer remit 85c (paper) or $1.00 (cloth) and we will send the catalog.

EDITORIAL.

Buy Some—The American Red Cross seal for 1913 has been issued and its design is a particularly pleasing one. In the center of the label which is of oblong shape is a typical Christmas scene in green showing Santa, reindeers, snow and all; and the picture is framed by a deep border in red. Coincidentally with the appearance of the seals which the government permits to be sold from booths erected temporarily in the large postoffices comes the dispensation from Washington: "In order to facilitate the handling and delivery of mail during the Christmas holidays, the requirement that domestic mail matter bearing on the address side adhesive seals or stickers, other than lawful postage stamps shall be treated as unmailable, is hereby suspended until January 1, 1914.

An Acknowledgment—From Mr. J. H. Peterson, New York City, we have received copies of several old postal tables. There is a list of postmasters in the chief towns and cities as corrected by the department November 1, 1859; and a schedule giving the amounts of postage collected in each of the different states or territories for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1858. In the organization of the postoffice department for 1859, we find the name of H. St. George Offutt as Chief Clerk of the Auditor. This gentleman, Col. H. St. George Offutt, cast his fortunes with the Confederacy upon the separation of the South from the North and was made First Assistant Postmaster General and Chief of the Contract Bureau of the Post Office Department of the Confederate States. While it is not to be said that Colonel Offutt was a stamp collector, yet as an officer in the postal service of the south, he evinced a marked and intelligent interest in the stamps of the Confederacy; and it is through his recollections and exhibits that not a few obscurities about the stamps have been removed. For instance, certain of the perforated stamps, in addition to the ten-cent, were legitimized by a sample book belonging to Col. Offutt that remained in his possession for many years after the war and contained examples, singly and in block, of the perforated stamps. Further, he said that a few trial sheets were perforated of each value but the machine which was worked by hand was operated so laboriously that "its active use was never undertaken."

Columns Upon Columns—As the International Exhibition management did not patronize a press clipping bureau, it forgot to cultivate a source of great interest and satisfaction. In the absence of statistics as to the extent of the publicity received in the press by the Exhibition, it may be said that a host of papers and magazines covering almost all the fields of human endeavor published comments on or news of the Exhibition. These notices were good, bad and indifferent; and a few were ridiculous. It must be admitted that even the prodigies of the pen find themselves on an uncharted sea when philately is in the wind. Last week we patted Frederick J. Haskin on the back because of his series of articles on postal affairs but that was before the eleventh installment, "Postage Stamps," had appeared in print, in which Mr. Haskin speaks of the Exhibition; but his remarks do not call for loud and continued applause because of their brilliancy. Of all the outside opinions expressed in print that we have read, one, in particular, impresses us. Editorially, Modern Homes and Gardens, a publication whose quality we need not extol here, under the heading, "Stamp Collecting as an Educational Pastime," says in part: "The study of stamps is dignified by the term 'Philately.' The Brooklyn Academy of Arts and Sciences has a Philatelic Section and in England the Royal Philatelic Society has its 'Fellows' as well as the other Royal Societies, the King of England being a philatelic enthusiast and authority. Not only the designs upon the stamps themselves are interesting and worth study, but the incidents connected with issues cannot help but prove broadening and instructive. With the mania for collecting stamps of an issue, different from one another by reason of a trifling measurement of a letter here or the misplacement of a line there, we have no sympathy, but the sane collecting of stamps whose purpose serves to introduce us to the main movements in recent and contemporaneous history, deserves encouragement and as a home educational pastime is one well worth following."

* * *

Fair Comment—The foregoing comment as a passing editorial is about as fair and at the same time keen as any that we have ever read. The view on the minor variety is the natural and proper one for an on-looker to take as only close and continued intimacy with philately will allow one to appreciate the lure of the little things of philately. Mention is made of the recognition of philately as a science by the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, an occasion that caused much rejoicing throughout the philatelic world in 1898. We remember the circumstance well and to commemorate the honor paid philately, the WEEKLY issued a large special number, dedicated to the Brooklyn Institute. Of this special issue, over 100,000 copies were printed and circulated; and for the advertising in the number, eight times our regular advertising rates were received. The names to which the number was sent were gathered principally from the files of years of the largest stamp concern of the times; and while there were "dead" names on the list, it may be said that the mortality comparatively was small. This edition really of over 100,000 copies afforded statisticians a basis for their computations of the philatelic population of the country.

* * *

They Hand It To Us—From Mr. W. H. McDonald, Chicago, we have received a cover bearing the circular postmark, in dark red: "Phi-31-De" or Philadelphia, Dec. 31, (1804). The cover was sent from Philadelphia, December 31st, 1804, to Lancaster, Pa., and the postage amounted to twenty cents. We have seen postmarks of the large cities, such as Richmond, Va., in the 1700's, on covers but this Philadelphia cover of 1804 has the familiar "Paid" stamp in the upper right hand corner as well as the postmark in the other upper corner. The date is an early one for the Paid impression in this form; and in fact, we can recall no earlier one. Here we take the opportunity to inform those correspondents who have written recently about the standing of Paid 5, etc., impressions that the markings on unstamped covers used either before or after the advent of stamps are of no philatelic value in themselves, although we consider them adventitious aids to philately. However, they are considered as curiosities by those who qualify as antiquarians.

* * *

Shut-in Service—The "shut-ins" are well taken care of this year as enough readers have promised their aid to insure the receipt of several stamp lots by each of the "shut-ins." Several of the "shut-ins" who have been remembered in the past year by our generous readers have written to offer duplicates and odd lots to other "shut-ins." More "shut-ins" could be supplied if their names are sent to us without any delay. It is to be said that we do not use any regulation list of "shut-ins" for names of beneficiaries but we depend upon our readers to acquaint us with the names of deserving persons whose afflictions are lightened by work or play with stamps.

THE VISIT OF D. FIELD.

Among the visitors at the New York Exhibition was D. Field, the well-known London dealer. It was our privilege even as it was the pleasure of many others to meet Mr. Field and his opinion of the hospitality extended by American collectors conveys with it hearty thanks for the attentions shown him.

We quote from Mr. Field's recent letter:—

DEAR MR. WYLIE:
I have pleasure in enclosing herewith the amount due to you for advertising. I had a very good time indeed in New York. Everybody, both collectors and dealers, seemed to do their very best to show me hospitality, and many little attentions which were very much appreciated. I had the pleasure of meeting many well-known collectors, whom I had formerly only known by correspondence. I shall never forget the particular kindness of Mr. C. L. Pack, in fact I may say that my visit was a success looked at from every point of view.

THE PHILADELPHIA CLUB.

(We desire to compliment the Philadelphia Stamp Club upon the publicity that it is able to secure through the Philadelphia press. Amongst several clippings sent us by James Whiteside is one from the North American that we deem of sufficient interest to reprint in its entirety. It would be a good thing for philately if stamp clubs were scattered more plentifully throughout the country.—Ed.)

Visit a suite of rooms at 34 South Sixteenth street on the third Tuesday of each month during the winter and you will find young men, old men, lawyers, doctors and bankers bent over books and sheets of paper with faces wrinkled in stern seriousness.

There is the meeting place of one of the city's unique clubs. Its members are 105 men of all ages and professions. The club's business is stamps.

For stamps, according to the members of this club, is a business, and collecting stamps is an occupation. Within the possession of the 105 members of this club—they call it the Philadelphia Stamp Club—are some 500,000 stamps. So the members can well afford to make a business of collecting, examining and exchanging their stock in trade at their monthly club meetings.

Probably no two members of the Philadelphia Stamp Club specialize on stamps of the same country. Although the collections of many of the members are general, there is always one country for which they desire to make a complete collection. For instance, one member prefers the stamps of the Netherlands, another desires the stamps of Finland, another specializes on stamps of Bosnia or Bavaria.

The size of a collection does not determine its value, and the club members point out that 150 choice stamps of the United States might be worth $1500 if the stamps are in good condition, but if the stamps are canceled the same collection might be worth but a few dollars.

Sales and exchanges of stamps from the collections of the members are held at every meeting.

At the recent International Philatelic Exhibition in New York, Edwin A. Fleisher, of the Philadelphia club, was awarded medals for his collection of stamps from Soudan and India, Henry Gibson won a medal for his collection of United States stamps. Percy M. Mann was also awarded a medal.

The officers of the Philadelphia Stamp Club are: F. Hahman, president; E. L. Green, vice president; Karl L. Hassel, secretary; J. L. Manfred, treasurer; F. Leonhardt, librarian; W. S. F. Pierce, sales manager; A. F. Henkels, exchange manager.

THE DEATH OF DUNCAN KAY.

It will come as a severe shock to many stamp collectors and dealers to learn that Duncan Kay of Cincinnati died suddenly October 24 at Traverse City, Mich. We have been made acquainted with the particulars through his brother John Kay of Detroit, who writes concerning him:—

"My brother was a stamp collector from boyhood and it was only last spring that he disposed of his large collection. Like many others he afterwards regretted it and had concluded to start again, but it was ordered otherwise. He took cold at Sault Ste. Marie Oct. 21 and three days later was called away. My brother David and I hastened to his bedside but were too late, our brother having passed on several hours before our arrival."

From clippings received we learn that Mr. Kay was a bachelor and is survived by five brothers and one sister. The funeral took place Oct. 27 at Galt, Mich.

C. E. CROCKETT, WORCESTER, MASS.

This party is not on our mail list. He writes the Ararat Stamp Co. for an approval selection and when the same is sent by registered mail the letter is returned marked "Unclaimed." We publish this information for what it is worth.

The above stamps distributed in W. H. Peckitt's well-known 10% New Issue Service of Foreign and Colonial stamps recently.

Particulars of this prompt and efficient service will be sent post free on application.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldredge lists the following new precancels:

Covington, Ky.—Two lines (COVINGTON—KENTUCKY) horizontal inscription in sans-serif capitals 2 1/2 mm. high, between lines 11 mm. apart and 1 mm. thick. 1c 1912.

Covington, Ky.—Identical with above, except that the letters are 2 mm. high instead of 2 1/2 mm., 1c 1912.

Chicago, Ill.—(No. 1157) 1c 1912-13, Panama-Pacific.

St. Louis, Mo.—(No. 1162) 10c 1912.

Elkhart, Ind.—(No. 1164) 1c 1912.

Quincy, Ill.—Two lines (QUINCY—ILLINOIS) horizontal inscription between lines 10 mm. apart, sans-serif block letters 2 mm. high, lines 1 mm. thick. 1c 1912.

Boston, Mass.—(No. 1164). 5c 1910, inverted, 1c 1912, inverted.

Kansas City, Mo.—Two lines (KANSAS CITY—MISSOURI) horizontal inscription in sans-serif capitals, between lines 14 1/2 mm. apart and 3/4 mm. wide. 4c 1910. 5c 1912-13, (No. 1169).

Boston, Mass.—(No. 1164.) 1c 1912, 2c 1912, inverted.

Springfield, Ohio.—Two lines (Springfield—Ohio) horizontal inscription in fine type, capitals with serifs, between lines 13 mm. apart and 1 mm. thick. 1c 1912.

Richmond, Va.—Same design as Cincinnati, Ohio (No. 1162) all capitals, but letters slightly smaller. 6c 1910, reported by Jno. M. Stone.

I. C. Greene has shown us the 1c postage due stamp, with old watermark sideways. As previously stated, the Government uses the watermark to prevent counterfeiting, and the printers are indifferent whether the sheets are placed on the press upside down or not. The stamp books have the watermark sideways. There is nothing new in any of these vagaries.

ARGENTINE.—According to the Stamp Lover, the 1c, 2c, 5c and 12c of the current series have been surcharged with initial letters for the various departments, as announced some time since.

AUSTRALIA.—Arthur Russell submits a specimen of the 1d kangaroo perforated large "O S." This has been in use for some months, as Mr. Russell has received several from a Western Australia schoolmaster, who no doubt received them in connection with his Government position.

Ewen's Weekly is informed that the Victorian 3d stamps are all used up, and none but Kangaroos are now on sale.

The Australian Stamp Journal says: "Mr. H. S. Mort, of this city, has shown us a curious block of four 1d Kangaroo stamps. The lower pair has been perforated twice, the reason being that at the first operation the horizontal row of perforation cut into the design of the upper pair, but the re-perforations had been done in such a curious manner that a novice might imagine that the two lower stamps had been perforated vertically on a machine with very fine needles; in fact, some would say they were serrated.

"We have, however, seen specimens of this double perforation on several occasions previously. It is an axiom of the Government Stamp Printer that the perforations must not encroach on the design. The stamps before us are punctured O. S. and we are in a position to state that more so-called varieties, errors, freaks, and peculiarities will be found in the punctured officials than in the ordinary stamps for public use. The explanation of this is that if anything has been found not up to the standard it is utilised for official service."

HONDURAS.—A. W. Dunning has shown us the 50c value in the new lithographed set, the design being the same as the 5c and 6c values previously chronicled.

Adhesive.

50c carmine.

JAPAN.—In a letter, which was unfortunately mislaid, we find that Lewis A. McArthur anticipated our chronicle of the 5s, 10s and 20s values, and should have had credit for reporting them as well as the 2s and 4s, not yet chronicled. The 4s in the same design as the values chronicled in No. 1197, while the 2s is in the design of the 1 1/2s and 3s chronicled some time since. The 3s and 4s stamps are of almost exactly the same shade, by gas light they cannot be distinguished, except by the design and the figure of value.

Adhesives.

2s light green.
4s carmine.

NICARAGUA.—The Rev. Louis Voss and T. F. Chitraro have also shown us used specimens of the 1/4c Cordoba on 15c on 35c Mountains, as chronicled in No. 1196.

The Rev. Mr. Voss, who by the way specializes in Nicaragua and Honduras also shows specimens of the new Cordoba stamps, bisected diagonally and vertically. The letter is not clear, but apparently there are seven varieties cut diagonally and three varieties cut vertically.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—A. W. Dunning has shown us a "Specimen" copy of the $25 King George stamp.

Adhesive.

$25 blue and lilac on blue.

TURKEY.—A new series of stamps is in preparation, and will be issued next March. This issue will mark even a greater departure from ancient custom than the current set, as the stamps will include the following illustrations:

- 2pa Obelisk of the Hippodrome.
- 4pa Broken Column of Constantine.
- 5pa Leander's Tower.
- 6pa The Seven Towers.
- 8pa Valide Mosque.
- 10pa The Fanarak.
- 20pa The Castle of Europe on the Bosphorus.
- 1pi Mosque of Sultan Ahmed.
- 1 1/2pi Monument to the Martyrs of Liberty.
- 1 1/4pi The Bathing Fountains of Suleiman.
- 2pi Cruiser Hamidie.
- 2 1/2pi The Candile on the Bosphorus.
- 5pi War Office.
- 10pi The Sweet Waters of Europe.
- 25pi The Suleiman Mosque.
- 50pi The Bosphorus.
- 100pi Sultan Ahmed Fountain.
- 200pi Design not yet selected.

GOOD STAMPS TO BUY.

TONGA.

It is refreshing to turn to this country, for although some of the stamps of the first type (portrait of King Geo. I.) are still priced very low, and have proved a very poor "spec" for an investor, the whole issues are full of possibilities, and as a country to collect it cannot be surpassed for fascinating variety. Some of the stamps are under a cloud of suspicion that they were "manufactured to oblige," or that they were never sold over the post office counter in the regular way, but, taken altogether, we think the numerous varieties were caused by inexperience and a disregard for exactitude. must be asserted, however, that Tonga availed itself to the full of its opportunities.

All the stamps are in good demand in Australia. There are several very keen collectors, and stocks are not large. The pictorial stamps issued in 1897 are still obtainable (the 1/2d is temporarily sold out), consequently they cannot be recommended as an investment, but a good collection of Tongans will always command a ready sale. The great variety in this country is the 7 1/2d black and green centre inverted. Three copies have changed hands locally within the past 12 months at from £22 10s to £25 apiece. The gentleman who discovered this error informed us a few months ago that only one sheet of 60 stamps was found. £6 seems a lot for the error 1889 on the 1d Royal Wedding stamp, instead of 1899. It can be bought for much less.

Copies of the 2 1/2d no fraction bar to "1/2" used are occasionally offered in Sydney at 10sh. Some say this variety is still current. We are not prepared to vouch for the statement, but this stamp crops up now and again.

We would advise our readers to exercise caution in purchasing the G. F. B. stamps, for several remainder sets, with the overprint in carmine very faded and the stamps having a stained appearance—probably due to the gum—came on the market some 6 or 8 years ago.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

GOOD STAMPS TO BUY.

It has occurred to us that the publication of the numbers of the first issues of British Solomon Islands, Gilbert and Ellice Islands and New Hebrides, together with the prices quoted for unused in Gibbons' catalogue, 1912-13 edition, might provide interesting material for the purpose of comparison, and help our readers to form their own opinions as to the real market values relatively. They are as follows:

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS.

1/2d	45,364	0	4
1d	25,598	0	6
2d	20,641	1	0
2 1/2d	12,072	1	0
5d	8,310	2	6
6d	7,853	3	6
1s	7,291	5	6

GILBERT AND ELLICE (Provisionals).

1/2d	12,240	not priced.
1d	12,000	"
2d	12,360	"
2 1/2d	9,120	7 6
5d	6,240	10 0
6d	6,000	10 0
1s	6,120	12 6

NEW HEBRIDES (Fiji Overprint).

1/2d	37,920 multi wmk.	1 3
1d	5,280 single wmk.	8 6
1d	66,000 multi wmk.	0 6
2d	39,360 single wmk.	1 0
2 1/2d	30,000 single wmk.	0 8
5d	19,200 single wmk.	2 0
6d	19,200 single wmk.	4 6
1s	14,640 multi wmk.	6 0
1s	1,440 single wmk.	50 0

It will be seen from the above tables that the British Solomon Islands' stamps suffer considerably in comparison, and yet it was the "straightest" issue which ever came on the market. The question therefore, naturally arises, does Gibbons' catalogue price reflect the real market value, or does it merely indicate that they have been fortunate in laying in a good stock, which enables them to sell at a profit? When that stock gets dispersed (which it must undoubtedly do in time), then that firm's catalogue will show a material advance.

NEW ZEALAND ISLANDS.

AITUTAKI, NIUE, PENRHYN.

As the stamps of these three islands are similar, we have decided to consider them as one group. We have never been able to understand why they were issued nor have we ever seen any satisfactory reason for their existence. In our opinion they were simply conceived to supply philatelic demands. They have been since the beginning, and are still, purchased at face value at Wellington and Auckland, and we venture to say that 95 per cent. of those in circulation were never in any of the Islands. The overprint (in all cases on New Zealand stamps) is mysterious and effective. Such being the case, the stamps are good sellers from a dealer's point of view. But from a purely philatelic standpoint they ought to be classed amongst rubbish. The fact that they have been issued by the New Zealand Government leads many collectors to think they are necessary in a collection, but, if considered from a financial aspect, they are bad property, for the reasons given above. Unless we are very much mistaken they will not pay Savings Bank interest for holding, and they are not "good stamps to buy". In expressing this opinion, we are referring to the regular issues. There is always a gamble with "varieties" which many people enjoy, but in support of our contention we would ask our readers to note the dates of issue and the present catalogue prices of most of the ordinary kinds. Genuinely used specimens are in quite a different category. Buy them when you can.

PAPUA.

The issues of this country may be divided into four groups, as follows: No. 1. British New Guinea stamps printed in London (a, thick paper, b, thin paper). No. 2. The same overprinted, "Papua" (a, thick type—Port Moresby, b, thin type—Brisbane). No. 3. Lithographed in Melbourne (a, small "Papua," b, large "Papua"). No. 4. Electrotyped in Melbourne.

Papuan stamps are fashionable at present, and consequently in demand. Although all are the same design, their variety is charming, and a fairly representative collection can be acquired at a small outlay. True, several of the varieties are already quoted at fancy prices, but it is still possible to pick up some of them cheaply, for in every case they are not apparent to the inexperienced eye.

Although Messrs. Gibbons have carefully listed the earlier issues, they have for some inexplicable reason studiously ignored the varieties of the lithographed stamps of the small "Papua" series, but should any of our readers endeavour to purchase from that firm blocks containing the known varieties, we venture to say they will be disappointed, and although Messrs. Gibbons decline to give these stamps catalogue rank, it should not be supposed that they do not value them on their merits, seeing that three or four of the varieties are only to be found in the proportion of one in thirty.

The catalogue prices of the British New Guinea series (No. 1) are fairly representative, but we doubt if they will advance much in the near future. This remark hardly applies to the 2sh 6d, which is fully as scarce as its price (70sh) indicates. It is very much in demand, and being necessary to complete the set, it is likely to continue so. Consequently we would consider it an exceptionally "good stamp to buy." Nearly all the overprinted series (No. 2) are scarce in Australia, if not elsewhere, and in our opinion Messrs. Gibbons' quotations for them are low, those for the thick letters being particularly so. Many collections which we have seen lack several of them, the 4d being exceptionally uncommon. We would therefore advise our readers to buy all they can get at the best prices obtainable.

On the other hand, the lithographed stamps (No. 3) are fairly plentiful. Quantities were purchased by speculators while they were obtainable at face value, or thereabouts, and whereas they may prove a good investment, we do not anticipate a big rise for a long time. Exception must, however, be made in regard to the varieties. Many collectors have neglected them simply because Gibbons do not catalogue them, but the demand is sure to come. In our opinion their value is six times the price of the ordinary kind.

A great deal cannot be said regarding the electrotyped stamps (No. 4), as they are now current, but we should not be surprised if subsequent printings appeared in different shades of the same colour as those now on the market. Then, again, the present stamps are on paper with the South Australian type of Cr. A. When that paper is exhausted, subsequent printings will most likely be made on the new Commonwealth paper, for it is hardly probable that the authorities will have special paper provided.

Viewing the matter from another point, the Federal Government may decide any day to abolish Papuan stamps altogether and substitute the ordinary kinds used throughout the Commonwealth; but this is not very likely. Still, one never knows what may happen, and we would advise our readers to be on the alert.

SAMOA.

It is considered by some that the stamps of this country, issued up to the time it was taken over by Germany, should only be classed as "locals." We have no intention of discussing that point now, but we may say that for many years the postal system was run by an individual, who ran it as a private concession. He alone controlled the printing, issue and sale of stamps. They were supplied to his order by the New Zealand Government on paper watermarked N. Z. and Star, but there the connection of that body with them ended. The postmaster above referred to derived a considerable revenue from the sale of sets to collectors, either unused or postmarked-to-order. The design is attractive, and they look well in an album, but their real market value is problematical.

We know a good deal more about these stamps than we care to publish, for we do not like to commit a breach of confidence, but we may say that it will be a long time before the palm tree series will appreciate in value materially. This remark does not apply to original copies of the "Samoa Express." They are priced fairly high as it is, but genuinely used specimens are very scarce (they were only available for use from Samoa to Australia and New Zealand). Genuinely surcharged copies of the 5d on 4d (both types) are also scarce. The five pence flag type is much scarcer than the other denominations of the same series.

In 1900, or thereabouts, the country was taken over by Germany, when a provisional series—Samoa overprinted on German stamps—was issued. These are not so plentiful as is supposed, the 25 and 50pf being absent from many collections. The "ship" type has had a good run; it is still in use, and it need hardly be considered as an investment.

Approval Selections

AT NET PRICES.

I have a large variety of stamps to send on approval against satisfactory references and can furnish interesting lots to collectors with general collections of from 1000 to 15,000 var.

My stock is mostly obtained from old collections rather than wholesale lots and I have many of the scarce and "hard to get" stamps. My selections are all marked at net prices according to stamp and condition and prices are reasonable, averaging less than half catalogue on the usual run of stamps.

Net prices based on the actual worth of stamps are usually fairer as well as cheaper in the end than any flat discount.

General selections only, mostly 19th Century. Please state size of collection and priced stamps desired and don't forget reference.

SPECIAL.

I want a number of customers who can use stamps from 5 to 50c each, to whom I can offer some specially interesting selections.

LOOK OVER MY PAGE "AD"

on last page of issue of Nov. 29th. I can still supply a majority of the stamps offered, including most of the foreign listed, but a supplementary list will be appreciated.

NOTE NEW ADDRESS

118 Nassau Street, NEW YORK, N. Y.

A TRIP IN THE SOUTHERN HEMISPHERE.

By HUBERT LYMAN CLARK.

When I left Boston, July 14, I promised myself that I would write a letter telling of my experiences as a stamp-lover in the southern hemisphere for to whom else could I so well turn for sympathetic interest in my beloved hobby? I have the honor of being one of four American zoologists sent out by the Carnegie Institution of Washington to make certain investigations into the marine life of Torres Straits, that remarkable area of sea-water, reefs and islands, which separates New Guinea from Australia. We sailed from San Francisco on the 23rd of July and stopped at Tahiti, Cook Islands and New Zealand before finally reaching Sydney. Thence we journeyed northward to Thursday Island, the metropolis of Torres Straits, stopping at Brisbane and Cairns, in Queensland, on the way. We expected to have our laboratory on Thursday Island but conditions there were unsatisfactory so we were obliged to go to the Murray Islands, a hundred and twenty miles to the northeast. This move not only cut us off for six weeks from all communication with the outside world but put an end to the hopes I had entertained of setting foot in Papua. No one else in the party had any interest in stamps, so I've had my hobby completely bottled for a couple of months, especially since there is no post-office in the Straits except at Thursday Island, and at a few widely separated points on the New Guinea coast.

Fancy my delight on getting back to Thursday Island, to find in the accumulated mail, ten numbers of MEKEEL'S forwarded to me by my boy. They are being read almost word by word!

At Tahiti, as soon as I could get ashore, I went to the post-office but found it closed, for the mail which was being distributed, brought by our boat, was the monthly mail from France, and was a big one, surprisingly so to me. I was told that I could get stamps at 2.30, but at 2.30, they said 3.30 and at 3.30 they said 5 o'clock. At five o'clock, so many people were calling for their mail (there is no delivery service even in Papeete itself), that the clerk did not want to sell me stamps, but I finally succeeded in getting attention. And then my troubles began! French is not my strong point and the clerk knew no English. Moreover two series of stamps were on sale, the old "Peace and Commerce" type and the new set, recently received from Paris. I started on the old style but my best French failed to make the clerk believe I really wanted a dozen of each kind! Finally he was convinced but alas, of several values, he could not furnish anything like a dozen. The next morning after we had each had a night's rest, I returned to the attack in search of the new series. The poor clerk was most patient and considerate but I had new troubles for him. When I asked for twelve of each value up to the one franc and two of each of the higher values he tossed out twelve neat little packets in paraffine paper, which I found contained two 1c, two 2c, and one of each of the other values. Instantly I saw a great light and said to myself, "So that's why 1 and 2 centime French Colonials in o. g. condition are so much more common on exchange sheets than the other values!" No doubt I might have learned this interesting fact from any dealer in Boston, but I never had. Well, I pushed ten of the packets back to him and shook my head. They wouldn't do at all. I must have the rest "en bloc." I wanted some pairs and at least one "bloc de quatre." He had already decided I was a collector but now he felt reason to believe me crazy and I soon gave him overwhelming proof that I am! For I am very decidedly of the opinion that a stamp is not a postage stamp until it has done postal service, so unused stamps (particularly unused French Colonials, purchasable in Paris!) have very little interest for me (save that they are useful for exchange with that vast number of collectors who don't agree with me!). Consequently I soon had the bulk of my purchases adorning a stack of letters most of which I handed over to my wearied friend for registration! And then greatly to his relief I bade him adieu. Altogether my little venture in Tahitian stamps cost me four times as much time and twice as much money as I had planned!

At Rarotonga, the chief of the Cook Islands, we only stopped for a few hours. By making a bee-line for the post-office, I got there ahead of the mail but I was just in the nick of time for the doors were closed with a rush behind me. However, I was on the inside and had the whole office to myself. An intelligent native clerk gave me his undivided attention and showed me every courtesy. English being the official tongue of course I had no trouble in making my wants known. But the fly in the ointment was the poor centering of the stamps. I was permitted to look at sheet after sheet and I can truthfully say it has never been my lot to look on such an array of wretchedly perforated stamps as the stock in the post-office at Avarua, Rarotonga, Cook Islands, on August 7, 1913. It was impossible to get even one good copy of the shilling stamp and the lower values were, as a rule, not much better. But for courtesy and willingness-to-oblige commend me to the Avarua office. Moreover in its location and setting, it is the prettiest and most picturesque post-office building I have seen and the interior is delightfully clean, commodious and convenient. I regret to add, however, that courtesy at this office is carried too far, the outrageous practice of "cancelling-by-request" being permitted. In all the examples I saw, however, the date was wanting in the cancellation.

At Wellington, the post-office is a new and attractive building, admirably arranged for the convenience of patrons and the rapid transaction of business. I have never seen anywhere an office that seemed to me so well adapted to its purpose. It was an easy matter to get the stamps I wanted and to see to the registration and mailing of letters. The system of registration was delightfully simple, the receipt consisting simply of a duplicate of the numbered label affixed to the letter. The whole transaction occupied hardly five seconds. A year ago I began doing business with the Stanley Stamp Co. of Wellington, so as soon as I had the chance, I hunted up the office. The proprietor, Mr. C. H. Osmond, well-known among the stamp-lovers of New Zealand and Australia, gave me a most cordial welcome and I spent some time looking over his stock. I was particularly interested in a beautiful copy of the 20sh official, rose, issue of 1907, a stamp I had never seen before. Perhaps I may add that much as I would like to have it, I didn't even ask the price!

At Sydney, I found no end to the delights the city affords. In every way it is one of the most attractive cities I've ever been in, and the opportunities for the lover of stamps are innumerable. The post-office is externally a magnificent building, one of the most pleasing. I think, of the public buildings of the city. Internally, it is not nearly so attractive nor is it as convenient as the one in Wellington, and the system of registration in vogue (and which prevails in all Australian offices) is an unmitigated nuisance. It is apparently designed to discourage the registration of letters and to transfer as much labor from the clerk to the sender as possible. It necessitates the filling out of two blanks for each addressee giving on each a copy of the address. The clerk then affixes a number to the letter, cancels the stamps, and records the number on each of the two blanks, one of which is then returned as a receipt. To send out a dozen registered letters will thus kill the usefulness of an hour very thoroughly.

My Price List of the Stamps of the United States and its Colonies is ready for distribution. It contains features not found in ordinary lists, such as a complete list of Coll Stamps, Philippine "O. B." stamps, India paper, and card board proofs, as well as a list of the number of Department stamps issued. It is the most complete list published, and no serious collector can afford to be without it. It is free; a postal card will bring it, prepaid with a precancelled stamp.

The quality of Sydney's stamp shops was a surprise to me. Both J. H. Smythe and Fred Hagen, Ltd., have ground floor establishments on the principal streets, in the very heart of the shopping district. The equipment of these establishments and the extent of stock carried certainly must delight the heart of any stamp lover, and their location on the street level indicates that the business done is excellent. It is as though the New England Stamp Co. were to occupy Huyler's store on Tremont Street! Both Smythe and Hagen publish monthly journals, which carry a high grade of reading matter but each is of course only a house-organ. To an outsider taking a hasty and superficial view of the situation, it seems that the chief need of stamp collectors in Australia is a weekly journal, similar to our own indispensable MEKEEL'S, and I believe it would be good business policy for both Smythe and Hagen to abandon their monthlies and combine in backing up an independent weekly. Having had pleasant business relations with each of these dealers before I ever dreamed of going to Australia, I was not surprised to receive a cordial welcome and to be shown every courtesy. My only regret was the narrow limitations of my pocket-book! Both dealers made it clear to me that the demand for the stamps of Papua, Solomon Islands and New Hebrides is so great in Australia, not to mention the rest of the world, that prices are already astonishingly high and bound to go higher. Good postally used copies of these stamps, that is of the earlier issues, are for many values virtually unobtainable, and my boy's want list is still largely unfilled either because the stamps were not to be had or the price asked was prohibitive to a poor zoologist!

At the Sydney post-office, I found on inquiry, that several of the last issues of New South Wales stamps could still be procured but apparently there was not a large stock on hand of any one of them. At Brisbane, at Cairns and at Thursday Island, I found Queensland stamps of several values could still be purchased at the post-office, but I failed to find any 1/2d or 1d stamps or any values above the 9d. Judging from what I have seen at these offices I should think the 4d gray-black was likely to last the longest of any of the old issues. Of course, at all offices, the kangaroo set is on sale and I was interested to discover that the high values are used on cable messages and expensive telegrams. The cancellation is not always distinguishable from a regular postal cancellation and I fancy many "postally used" copies will ultimately come on the market from these telegrams. Of course such stamps are nothing but revenue stamps, since they do not in any way aid in the carriage of the message but are simply receipts for the money paid. Perhaps Mr. Nelson is right in his contention that those of us who really want postally used copies will have to collect original covers only!

In Sydney I was so fortunate as to meet a lady who is something of a collector and much interested in stamps, whose husband receives a heavy business mail from New York at frequent intervals. She not only showed me used one, two and five dollar United States stamps actually by the dozen but she insisted on my picking out a copy of each value, of both the 1895 and 1902 issues, to take home to my boy! Isn't it delightful to make that kind of a friend in a strange city?

I have found it virtually impossible to secure unpicked, used stamps in any quantity at any price. Even in Cairns, which I thought far enough from Sydney to be ignorant of stamp values, I found that used, current Papuan 1d stamps were considered worth two cents each! At Thursday Island, I found a lot of used stamps in a stationer's shop mostly recent Queensland 3d and 6d values, but with some higher values and a few Papua, and this I secured for a very reasonable price. Thursday Island receives considerable Papuan mail, but though I have one cover with eight 1d stamps, I saw none of the values above the 2d, in use.

Now, we are southward bound, en route for home. Dealers in Sydney said in August that before I returned the Commonwealth would be using the new 1d stamp with King George's head on it, but it has not yet been issued and I am skeptical as to its appearance soon. Politics seem to enter into the question of a new issue far more than at home and the present government holds control here by such a slender margin, I shall be surprised if they actually supersede the "Kangaroo" stamps before another election. And, may I add in passing, that I am one of those who very much like the present stamp. I admit the paper is poor and the stamps are hard to separate without tearing, but the design of the stamp is simple and distinctive, and entirely free from undue ornateness, if that word is permissible.

I expect to sail from Sydney on November 17th and hope to get a "look-in" at the post-office in Suva, Fiji, on my way to Honolulu. I have little hope of getting anything at Suva, except the current Georgian set but if time permits, I may stumble on something more exciting. In Hawaii of course, I have no hopes of anything in the stamp-line—that field has been too well gleaned for me to expect any leavings. I hope to reach Cambridge and take up the usual routine of life again, December thirty-first.

CHAPTER LII.

Series of 1898—Trans-Mississippi.

The Trans-Mississippi Exposition, held in Omaha, Neb., during the larger part of the year 1898, was the occasion for a new issue of stamps to advertise the event. This was the second series of adhesive commemoratives circulated by the government. The proposal, when it became known to Philatelists, was not received with unmixed approval, and many protests were entered against the issue. These protests were of no avail, however, and promptly on June 17, 1898, the nine denominations were simultaneously issued. At first it was intended that the stamps should be printed in two colors, but this plan was abandoned as impractical. The facts about the various stamps, in brief, follow:

Design 22x34 mm., same frame surrounding the scenes, in all cases.

1 Cent—"Marquette on the Mississippi." Printed from 14 plates; lowest plate number 590; highest, No. 712. Number of stamps issued, 70,993,400. Shades—green, yellow green, dark yellow green.

2 Cents—"Farming in the West." Printed from 121 plates, lowest number of which was 597; highest number 752. Number of stamps issued, 159,720,800. Shades—claret brown, light claret brown, dark claret brown, light brown and brown red.

4 Cents—"Indian Hunting Buffalo." Printed from three plates, lowest number being 599; highest No. 636. Number of stamps issued, 4,924,500. Shades, yellow orange, orange, deep orange.

5 Cents—"Fremont on Rocky Mountains." Printed from three plates, lowest plate number being 602, highest No. 618. Number of stamps issued, 7,694,180. Shades—light blue, blue, dull blue, dark blue, indigo.

8 Cents—"Troops Guarding Train." Printed from two plates, numbers 609, and 618. Number of stamps issued, 2,927,200. Shades—bright brownish purple, brownish purple, deep brownish purple. Variety—imperfector horizontally. One sheet of 50 stamps was sold at the Philadelphia postoffice, imperfector horizontally.

10 Cents—"Hardships of Emigration." Printed from three plates, lowest plate number being 609, highest number 618. Stamps issued, 4,629,760. Shades—slate grayish purple, dark grayish purple.

50 Cents—"Western Mining Prospector." Printed from a single plate, number 603. Total number of stamps issued 530,400. Shades—sage green, deep sage green, olive.

$1—"Western Cattle in Storm." Printed from a single plate, number 606. It was first planned to print this stamp in a shade of light brown. This was changed to the one used—deep black. Total number of stamps issued, 56,900.

$2—"Mississippi River Bridge." Printed from a single plate, number 613. The color first selected was sapphire blue. This was changed to the color adopted, deep orange brown. Total number of stamps issued, 56,200.

The writer would advise collectors to fix in their minds the number of stamps issued—56,900 in the case of the $1, and 56,200 of the $2 stamps. When it is remembered that some collectors have these in pairs, strips, and blocks of four and more the catalog price seems to be low, and there is every reason for the advances made in the catalogs. As an investment these stamps seem to be good property.

CHAPTER LIII.

Pan-American Exposition Stamps, 1901.

The Pan-American Exposition, in Buffalo, N. Y., during the greater part of the year 1901, was deemed sufficient occasion for the production of a third series of commemorative stamps, to properly advertise the event. Six denominations were prepared. This was the first successful attempt to print commemoratives in two colors, but not the first postage stamps to be so issued—the issue of 1869 being the exception. The stamps were fairly attractive, and it was said at the time they were current had much to do with stimulating collecting.

A brief description of the stamps follows:

1 cent—Fast Lake Navigation. Issued May 1, 1901. Printed and issued to the various postoffices, 91,401,500.

Shades—Frame, light green, bright green, green, dull green, dark green. In all of these shades there is a bluish tint. Center, black, deep black, grayish black. Variety—Center inverted, of which 700 are known to have been printed.

2 Cents—Fast Express. Issued May 1, 1901. Number issued, 209,759,700.

Shades—Frame, light scarlet, scarlet, light carmine, carmine, deep carmine, reddish lake. Center, black, grayish black.

Variety—Center inverted, of which 54 copies are known, and only a single copy is said to have been known to have been used.

4 Cents—Automobile. Issued May 1, 1901. Number issued, 5,737,100.

Shades—Frame, light orange brown, orange brown, deep orange brown, reddish brown. Center, black.

Variety—Center inverted. These were hand-stamped with the word "Specimen." None of the 206 known existing copies were sold through postoffices.

5 Cents—Bridge at Niagara Falls. Issued May 1, 1901. Number issued, 7,201,300.

Shades—Frame, light ultramarine, ultramarine, deep ultramarine. Center, black. There are no varieties chronicled.

8 Cents—Canal Locks at Sault Sainte Marie. Issued May 1, 1901. Number issued, 4,921,700.

Shades—Frame, light brown, brown, dark brown. All of these have a distinct purplish cast. Then there is a rare shade of claret brown. Center, black. No varieties.

10 Cents—Fast Ocean Navigation. Issued May 1, 1901. Number issued, 5,043,700.

Shades—Frame, light yellow brown, yellow brown, deep yellow brown. Center black. No varieties.

Owing to the unequal shrinkage in the paper after the first color was printed the centers are sometimes found greatly out of place. This has caused some younger collectors to collect these freaks of mechanical workmanship, and while it adds somewhat to the collector's own pleasure, there is no philatelic value to such differences.

EDITORIAL.

Stamp Dealing—The little book, "How to Deal in Stamps," just published by our firm has attracted so much attention that we shall follow its subject with a few general remarks. That there has been a continuous demand for information about the stamp business by prospective dealers we know well; and much of our time has been spent in answering questions that were asked by persons interested. Now, happily, all that we need do is to recommend our ten cent book, "How to Deal in Stamps," to aspirants for commercial reward.

We Want Them—Why do we encourage new dealers? Dismissing any selfish advantages that might accrue to our advertising columns and which would be shared more or less by all other stamp papers, we do so because there is room for clean, ardent and enterprising dealers or because they can make room for themselves. Dealers of the right kind spread a feeling of satisfaction among their customers and the consequence is that the tone of philately is strengthened. The more dealers of good grade there are, the more competition there is and the treatment of buyers or collectors becomes the better as a result. There are laggards and incompetents among the dealers today and in a comparative sense, there always will be, but the number will be kept at a minimum by the introduction of new dealers with modern business ideals and advanced moral ethics into the business world. The buyer is the foundation of the stamp business and he must be well treated. The last vestige of fear-thought in patronizing dealers, the heritage of the old years when dealing methods were loose, must be eliminated so that the sources of trade may be expanded to the utmost.

His Work Cut Out—The new dealer can study the book for the practical side of the business but he must supply a business morality of his own that will not be impeached by his transactions. A fair business name is a sterling asset. With knowledge and conscience, the race is started on very even terms and if the newcomer is equipped with activity and enterprise, he will find that recognition comes with certainty, even though in devious ways. Yet such is the pace in all businesses today that the weaker will lag in the dash for preference and the stout heart is needed in the stamp business, which is conducted on lines that compare favorably with those of other clean-cut vocations.

The First Volunteers—On April 15th, 1861, President Lincoln's proclamation calling for 75,000 volunteers was issued. By the following day, troops were assembling in the different states and soon, the soldiers were in the capital. On July 30th, 1861, soldiers' letters by official authorization were forwarded from the camps to the homes of the writers where the postage was collected. Subsequently, the "soldiers' letter" postage exemption was in force, when the letters were initiated by the proper officer. The query is: How were the soldiers' letters forwarded in the interval between April and July, 1861? The letters were sent under the franks of members of congress representing the districts from which the soldiers came, when the soldiers had no postage stamps to prepay the letters; and these franked envelopes were distributed in small quantities to some of the soldiers at Washington. Usually, "Free" was impressed on these franked envelopes at the Washington office.

Alaskan Gold—At different times in the past reference has been made to the use of quantities of high value United States stamps on "packages" from Alaska. As showing that special regulations apply to the transmission of gold from Alaska to this country and between points in Alaska, the following new order of the postal department is quoted: "On and after January 1, 1914, gold coin, gold bullion and gold dust offered for mailing between any two points in Alaska and between any point in the United States and its possessions shall be inclosed in sealed packages not exceeding 11 pounds in weight and sent by registered mail. The rate of postage thereon shall be two cents an ounce or fraction thereof regardless of distance in addition to the regular registry fee."

Wheels Within Wheels—Our paragraph two weeks ago to the effect that the identity of the thief who stole the inverts at the Exhibition, based on the statements of two of our readers, does not seem to ring true in the absence of official confirmation of the circumstances as related in print. Still, speaking of official foundation, it happens that the story that was told us was one that was given substantially, by a prominent officer of the Exhibition whose statement was considered ex cathedra, in the hearing of our informant and others. We suppose that it is beside the purpose to attempt to fathom the depth of the reason for it all.

We Knew Him Well—Arthur P. Hosmer died at St. Louis on December 6th and was buried from the hall of Grove Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Downers Grove, Illinois, on December 10th, 1913. For the past ten years, Mr. Hosmer has been subject to lapses of ill health that accounted for frequent and sudden changes of vocation that could not always be closely followed by his friends. In the fairer times, Mr. Hosmer held a position of importance in the insurance business in Chicago. Twenty years ago and more, Mr. Hosmer was very well known in philately. He was a prime mover in the organization of the old Western Philatelic Union, a sectional society that practically was national in its scope, and which, it may be added, was the only serious rival that the American Philatelic Society ever had. While not a voluminous philatelic writer, Mr. Hosmer had a way of making his words tell or rather hit and his anonymous notes in particular excited no little rancor in the breasts of those whose armor was not invulnerable. "Puritan" was the nom-de-plume of Mr. Hosmer that attained the most celebrity. Mr. Hosmer was one of the earlier specialists and his collection of the stamps of Venezuela at one time perhaps was the best that had been assembled up to its day. Early philatelic literature appealed to Mr. Hosmer and he had some priceless old works but his stamps and his library were scattered to the winds in the harsh days that came. In the history of local philatelic affairs in Chicago, the name of Mr. Hosmer often appears; and ultimately, Mr. Hosmer was employed by Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer. Later, Mr. Hosmer went to St. Louis to take a position with the C. E. Hussman Stamp Company and we understand that Mr. Hussman did everything that he could to make Mr. Hosmer's death a peaceful one. Mr. Hosmer who had no near relatives living was a native of Boston but since about 1886, his home was in Chicago; his age was about forty-five years.

Postal Progress—On and after March 16th, 1914, books will be mailable by parcel post. The agitation against the exclusion of books from parcel post privileges has had its effect; and it is safe to say that the innovation will be favorably received. The rate of postage on "books weighing eight ounces or less shall be one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof and on those weighing in excess of eight ounces the regular zone rate shall apply." Beginning with the new year, the limit of weight of parcel post mail will be increased from twenty to fifty pounds within the first and second zones and from eleven to twenty pounds in the third to eighth zones, inclusive.

The Goodwin Book—This book will be issued just as soon as the series of articles is completed. We are doing our best to secure Mr. Goodwin's coöperation for an early closing of forms.

Our Mailing List—It takes two weeks to make changes on our mailing list. If therefore, you miss copies of the WEEKLY don't blame us.

A Philatelic Library—Every stamp collector should possess a philatelic library and the Melville books make a good beginning. We can supply them all, 20c each.

Our Premium Offers—We give premiums only for names never before on our mailing list. If you have ever been a subscriber don't try to pull a premium unless you send in a new name.

FULTON STAMP CO.NOTES FROM HOLLAND.

On Saturday, November 29th, 1913, will be issued the Jubilee set of postage stamps, in commemoration of the centenary of Netherland's restored independence. This special series has been approved by royal decree of November 28th, 1912. By order of the Postmaster-General of July 31st, it was decided that these stamps should bear the portraits of Holland's four latest Sovereigns: the Kings Willem I, Willem II, Willem III, and Queen Wilhelmina; that the stamps should be in the values of 2 1/2c, 3c, 5c, 10c, 12 1/2c, 20c, 25c, 50c, 1g, 2 1/2g, 5g and 10 gulden, that these stamps would have full franking power, could be used indiscriminately on all postal matters, would be available without any restriction of time, etc., and would be sent to all the post offices of the country.

The independence of Holland was proclaimed on November 17th, 1813, but the Prince (King Willem I) returned in Holland from London on November 30th. As this date is a Sunday, the issue will be on the 29th.

There is no disputing of tastes, tastes differ always. But if we will not dispute the artistic value of the designs, we have known King Willem III and know our Queen Wilhelmina, and we have the right to speak in the name of all those who are more acquainted with the Royal House, that the likeness of both is very bad. It seems that the artist, Mr. Bazel, at Bussum (near Amsterdam), who is the designer, has received reproductions of the one or ten gulden-coins of Holland with one of the three first portraits. Perhaps the best way for artists to make artistic heads, but not to make "portraits," is to furnish the likeness of the persons they have to design. The portrait of the Queen does not resemble, as the lines from the nose to the chin, including the mouth, are not quite correct, making Her Majesty much too old.

The stamps have been engraved by Professor Aarts at Amsterdam. The plates have been made in the printing office of Messrs. Joh. Enschede at Haarlem. The labels are surface-printed like the current stamps of 1 to 10 gulden.

The paper of the 2 1/2 cent, 3 cent, 5 cent, 12 1/2 cent, 5 gulden, and 10 gulden is toned in the same colour of the respective stamp-values; for the other values it is white. I believe that many will censure the coloured paper, as the shades of the printed designs are too much in the same hue. The following values are issued on the day this number will be printed. The quantities printed of each value will not be augmented by any new printing. As the number printed of some values is much too little, that of the 5 gulden and 10g much too large. Some values will be exhausted in three or four days, if not on the day of issue. The demands for some values have surpassed the quantity printed. The different post offices will receive a sufficient quantity of each value to sell to the public, and only the remaining quantities will be divided between the public in proportion to their demands:

2 1/2c Willem I, green on greenish, 3 million.

3c, Willem II, ochre on yellowish, 1 1/2 million.

5c, Willem III, red on rose, 3 million.

10c, Wilhelmina, grey on white, 1 1/2 million.

12 1/2c, Willem I, violet blue on blue, 1 1/2 million.

20c, Willem II, brown on white, 500,000.

25c, Willem III, blue on white, 500,000.

50c, Wilhelmina, yellow green on white, 200,000.

1g, Willem I, claret on white, 200,000.

2 1/2g, Willem II, violet on white, 100,000.

5g, Willem III, chrome yellow on yellowish, 100,000.

10 g, Wilhelmina, orange on yellowish, 100,000.

The current postage stamp of 1 1/2 cent light blue and the post card of 1 1/2 cent, single and double, will be printed in a much darker shade, and the 50 cent will be changed to lilac (centre) and grey (frame). (Official Circular, No. 267, November 13th, 1913). They will appear as soon as the present stock of these values is exhausted.—Stamp Collecting.

THE NEW AUSTRALIANS.

During the term of office of the Fisher Government in Australia a new design was adopted for the Australian postage stamps. It was that of a Kangaroo shown on a white map of Australia. The white was to indicate that Australia is endeavouring to keep her population white. Over 95 per cent. of the people of Australia were either born in the United Kingdom or are the sons or daughters of those who were born here.

However, a change of Government has been effected in the Commonwealth, and it has also been decided that the form of postage stamp in use shall be changed. It is now stated that the new stamps will soon be issued.

The halfpenny stamp is to be exactly similar to the Western Australian design, with the black swan in the centre.

The penny stamp is to be printed in two shades of red, while the halfpenny is to be green.

The twopenny-halfpenny issue will be almost similar to the penny stamp, but will be printed in blue.

For the sixpenny issue a kangaroo will form the main feature, with the tails of lyre birds at each side. There will be a boomerang below the kangaroo, and underneath that again a platypus. This is copied from the second prize design which was submitted in the recent competition.

The Kookabura will be in the centre of the new shilling stamp.—Postage Stamp.

OUR REVIEW.

The annual Year Book of the Southern Philatelic Association is a very pretentious book and a distinct credit to C. V. Webb, the secretary, who compiled it. There is a wholesome lot of advertising, together with the usual matter found in a Year Book of this kind. The list of members is a very creditable one. Price 50c, from Mr. Webb at Perry, Ohio.

Coming Wolsieffer Sales

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

ANTIGUA.—From W. H. Peckitt comes the 5sh value of the King George set, the design and colors of the King Edward stamp being retained.

AUSTRIA.—According to the Post und Telegraphen Verordnungsblatt, dating from Dec. 1, the 3, 5, 10, 20, 25, 30, and 35h stamps will be sold in roll form at face values. The 3, 5 and 10h stamps are in rolls of 1000 stamps and the other values in rolls of 500 stamps.

AUSTRALIA.—The Melbourne Argus prints the following regarding the new stamps:

In reply to an inquiry, Postmaster-General Wynne stated that the work of printing the new penny stamps which are to take the place of the kangaroo issue has been commenced, and he expected to have a million penny stamps ready for circulation in the course of a few days.

Mr. Wynne stated further that he had arranged to have designs drawn for stamps of other values. The halfpenny stamp is to be exactly similar to the Western Australian design, with the black swan in the centre. The penny stamp is to be printed in two shades of red, while the halfpenny stamp is to be green.

The twopenny halfpenny issue will be almost similar to the penny stamp, but will be printed in blue. For the six-penny issue a kangaroo will form the main feature, with the tails of lyrebirds at each side. There will be a boomerang below the kangaroo, and underneath that again a platypus. This is copied from the second prize design which was submitted in the recent competition. The kookaburra will be in the centre of the new shilling stamp, which has been taken from a drawing by Mr. Blamire Young. The kookaburra is the giant kingfisher, known throughout Australia as the "laughing jackass."

BELGIUM.—From a specimen sent us by W. H. Peckitt we find that the 2c value is now being issued without the engraver's name.

CEYLON.—Champion's Bulletin reports "specimen" copies of the 1r on the new yellow-faced paper.

CHINA.—From specimens of the new stamps sent us by W. H. Peckitt, we find that the color as given in No. 1195 of the 6c was not correct.

Adhesive.

6c slate gray.

DENMARK.—W. T. Wilson shows us further values in the King Christian set.

Adhesives.

15 ore purple,
20 ore dark blue.

FRANCE.—According to Stamp Collecting, it is announced that in view of the success that has attended the experiments in the carriage of the mails by aeroplane in France it has been decided to inaugurate a regular service in certain districts. A special issue of postage stamps for franking letters sent by aerial mail is in contemplation, the proposed design showing a view of the Eiffel Tower.

FRENCH REUNION.—The Illustriertes Briefmarken Journal says that in the near future it is probable that the postage for an inland letter-card will be reduced from 15 to 10 centimes. A considerable number of these have already been issued, either as 10c letter-cards or 10c surcharged on the old 15c. Two letter-cards have been surcharged 10c in red.

Provisional Letter-Cards.

10c on 15c blue on grey,
10c on 15c grey on light blue.

HUNGARY.—E. L. Southwick sends us a post card franked with one of New Hungarian Charity stamps. The current design is used, with the addition of a double lined frame below the stamp, with two lines of Czech and "2 Filler," this being the additional charge made on all values for charitable purposes. Stamp Collecting says these charity stamps were placed on sale November 20. The full set, including the 12f, 50f and 60f in the new colors are to be had with the "2 Filler" addition.

A Hungarian correspondent writes to Stamp Collecting as follows:

Another sensational change has taken place with regard to the postage stamps of Hungary. Since 1881, when the first postage stamps printed upon watermarked paper were issued, several changes have taken place, the last type of the watermark being: Crown of St. Stephen. Lately, stamps with a new type of watermark have been issued, the latter consisting of ornamental double barred crosses all over the sheet. The cross is taken from the coat of arms of Hungary, where it stands above three hills, these hills signifying the three highest mountains of the country: Tátra, Fátka, Mátra.

Examining the ornamental lines in the new watermark, one can easily distinguish that they are to signify these three hills. The watermark is to be found with the crosses upright or sideways, and is much clearer and more visible than the old crown-watermark had been.

Still another alteration is contemplated with regard to the 12, 50 and 60 Filler stamps. They are to be printed on coloured paper, the 12 filler upon yellow, the 50 filler upon blue and the 60 filler stamp upon red paper. The reason of this change is that it is very difficult to distinguish them from the 25, 10, and 5 filler stamps respectively. The 50 filler has for this reason actually been withdrawn ever since May. No Hungarian stamps have been printed on coloured paper, although many of them can be found with a yellowish tint caused by deterioration of the paper.

INDIA.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 1r and 2r values, in the same design as the 5r value of the King George set, chronicled some time since.

Adhesives.

1r green and red brown,
2r brown and carmine.

Nabha.—W. T. Wilson sends us the 4a and 1r King George stamps surcharged "Service" and "Nabha—State" for official use in this convention state.

Patiala.—From the same source we have received the 3p, ½a and 1a King George stamps surcharged "Patiala—State" and "Service" for use in this state.

MEXICO.—Frank C. Davis shows us a novelty from this country. It is a registration seal, assuming that this is the meaning of "Certification." The design shows the National arms in a rayed circle within a rayed double oval, with "Correos—Mexico" at the top and "Certification" at the bottom. The stamp is embossed and die cut on the outside rays, the extreme size being 2½x1¼ inches.

RUSSIA.—E. L. Southwick sends us two interesting cards from Irkutsk, Siberia, and is sold by the Post office at beria. They are of different issues, but peculiar in that they are sold at face value in quantities to business houses, who print advertising matter on them, and then return them to the Postoffice. They are then sold to the public at one kopeck each, and used as 3k cards. As seen, the cards have a 1c United States due stamp affixed the foreign postage on cards being four kopecks.

SOUTHERN NIGERIA.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 2sh 6d value in the King George series.

2sh 6d carmine and black on blue.

SWITZERLAND.—W. T. Wilson has shown us a new Charity stamp from this country. The stamp which is of the usual size shows Helvetia facing to the left, with the Alps in the background, the figure of value "5" in the upper left corner, and "Helvetia" in a curved ribbon tablet at the bottom. Outside the design at the top is printed "Pro Juventute," and below the design in two lines, Pr. 10 Cent—1 XII 13-28 II 14." The stamp was issued December 1, and is sold by the Postoffice at double face. It will be in use only until February 28, 1914. The stamps are printed in sheets of 50, five rows of 10.

ZANZIBAR.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us several values in the new set and we find that the 15c is in deep ultramarine instead of blue, as previously chronicled on the authority of a foreign contemporary.

STATE SOCIETY FOR WISCONSIN.

By GEO. A. CHANDLER.

The Wisconsin Philatelic Society, the youngest of the Middle-Western State organizations, is a lusty youngster. Born October second of 1913, with five members, it has grown in two months to four times as many members. In these two months the officers have shown themselves a capable and energetic lot. All expenses have been paid and the Treasury is still full; the Library has been firmly established; and the Sales and Exchange Departments are now both in working order with plenty of good stamps. Two very successful exhibitions have already been held, the stamps having been on exhibit for two weeks in the cases of the Wisconsin Historical Museum at Madison. The United States specialized and the Foreign lots both attracted considerable attention from the hundreds of visitors and the press was favorable in its comments. The Secretary, Mr. George Crownhart, 224 North Murray Street, Madison, Wisconsin, has a list of names which includes most of the collectors in Wisconsin and he is writing letters to each one as fast as he can. However, he has not the names of all Wisconsin collectors and Wisconsin readers of the WEEKLY do their part by sending in the names to the Secretary.

NEW 3d GREAT BRITAIN.

In a recent number we announced that two values of the current series of Great Britain were to be changed. We now learn that the 3d denomination has appeared in a new colour, or to be more accurate in a new and distinctly different shade. The earliest used copy we have seen is dated November 15th. The new colour is deep violet instead of pale mauve, and the change has probably been made to avoid confusion with the 6d stamp. The new stamps are printed at Somerset House and bear the Control C. 13.

Up to the present we have received no intimation as to the other value which is to be altered, but rumour has it that the 10d stamp may possibly be the other change. However, this is merely supposition.—Stamp Collecting.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Hanover.

Hanover, or Hannover, as our Teutonic friends spell it, was formerly a kingdom of Northern Germany, but since 1866 it has formed a province of Prussia. It stretches eastwards from the Netherlands to the Elbe, and from the North Sea southwards to Hesse-Nassau, and includes the former duchy of East Friesland, the Lüneburg Heath (55 miles long), part of the Harz Mountains, and outliers of the Weser Mountains. Its total area is 14,833 square miles and it has a population well in excess of two and a half millions. Except in the South, where the Harz Mountains attain a height of 3037 feet, the surface belongs to the great North German plain, with immense stretches of moor and heath. Large areas of the moorlands have been drained and reclaimed within recent years. Hanover is watered by the Elbe, Weser, Ems and their tributaries, and the soil near the rivers is very fertile. One sixth of the total area is covered with forest.

The people of the north-eastern and central provinces are mostly Saxons; those on the coast are of Frisian origin; those on the west of the Ems, Dutch; and those in the southern provinces, Thuringians and Franconians. Platt-Deutsch, or Low German, is commonly spoken in the rural districts, but High German is the language of the educated classes, and is spoken with more purity than in any other part of the Empire.

Cattle are bred and grazed on the marshes next the North Sea. Ironware and steel goods, textiles, sugar, machinery, gutta-percha and india-rubber, chemicals, scientific instruments, beer and spirits, are the more important products of Hanover's manufacturing industry, while Geesemünde is one of the most important fishing ports in Germany. Coal, iron, zinc, lead, copper and salt are mined in the Harz Mountains.

The second elector of Hanover became George I of England in 1714, and from that date until 1837 the Hanoverian electors sat on the English throne. When Queen Victoria ascended the throne Hanover passed to her uncle the Duke of Cumberland. On his death (November 18th, 1851) his son, the blind George V. succeeded to the kingdom, and he, siding with Austria in 1866, took up arms against Prussia, was defeated, driven from his throne, and Hanover was annexed to Prussia.

The capital of the province bears the same name, Hanover, and is situated on a sub-tributary of the Weser, 78 miles south-east of Bremen, and 158 miles west of Berlin. It consists of the old town, with narrow streets and mediæval houses, and the handsome modern town which lies on the north, east, and south-east of the older portion. During the last quarter of the nineteenth century the town grew at an enormous rate, and at the present time its population exceeds a quarter of a million. The old town possesses several fourteenth, fifteenth, and seventeenth century buildings, such as the former royal palace, the town hall (1439), the chancellery of justice, and the house of Leibnitz, now converted into an industrial art museum. Intermingled with these are a number of quite new structures (1876 to 1911), such as the magnificent railway station; the royal library (containing 200,000 volumes and 4,000 MSS); the royal playhouse, one of the largest theatres in Germany; the museum, with natural history and art collections; the Kestner Museum, with antiquities and 120,000 engravings; the post office; and the Reichsbank. Hanover has a famous polytechnic, housed in the Welf (Guelph) Castle, and attended by over 1,500 students. Close by is the Heddenhausen Castle (1698) the favorite residence of Kings George I, II, and V. whose beautiful grounds are open to the public.

The Duke of Celle chose Hanover for his residence in 1636, and it has remained the capital city from that date.

Hanover is the headquarters of the 10th German Army Corps, and is an important centre of the North German railway system.

ITS PHILATELIC HISTORY.

The philatelic history of Hanover dates from 1850—the year before the death of King Ernest (Duke of Cumberland)—when a single stamp bearing the face value of one gutengroschen was issued. In 1851 Hanover joined the German-Austrian Postal Union, and a series of stamps was issued on July 21st of that year for defraying the rates of postage within the Union. In 1856 colored papers were dispensed with and the stamps were overprinted with a colored network instead. In 1859 the stamps with values expressed in fractions of a thaler were superseded by a new series bearing the portrait of King George V. and with values denoted in groschen. Until 1864 all the stamps were imperforate, but in that year five values were issued with a roulette (perces en arc) gauging 16, and in 1866, on the annexation of Hanover by Prussia, the whole of the stamps, with the exception of a few sheets, were burned.

The currency was the thaler, divided at first into twenty-four gutengroschen of twelve pfennig each, and after 1858, into thirty groschen of ten pfennig each.

(To be continued.)

FICTION OUTDONE.

TO THE EDITOR:—

Enclosed you will find a clipping from a foreign (Italian) paper dealing with the late Exhibition.

As the article points out many things I have not seen anywhere printed. I deem it worth while to send it to you. If you haven't any translator, I will briefly give you the more salient points:

Beginning with saying the Exhibition has been a very important happening for the stamp collectors it goes on: "Some came from every part of the world, even with risking their life, (sic) in the very sense of the word. A Mr. John Lozier, for instance, a very sick man, to whom the doctors ordered absolute quiet, as soon as he got information of the Exhibition, took the first fast train for New York; an old lady from Lanerch (where is that?) in Pennsylvania, who for the last sixteen years did not leave the house, did likewise, without considering the horrors (sic) of the long voyage and the fear and dread of a big city."

Then it goes on: "Some stamps have a very interesting history, sometimes even tragic. Here are two stamps of two cents, rose, from Demerara, property of Mr. H. J. Duveen of London, who refused an offer of $12,000 for them."

Several years ago, Duveen, after a thorough investigation, got to know of the existence of these two stamps, and organized a special expedition to Demerara (Brit. Guiana, writer) with the specific order to acquire the two stamps at any price. The expedition sailed, but half way over, the chief of the expedition caught the yellow fever and succumbed. The precious stamps fell in other hands, but Mr. Duveen kept track of them with the passion of a lover until at last he got them. Surely we may understand why he would not part with them for a patrimony. Two other stamps of the Exhibition have caused Mrs. Elizabeth Dawson and her heirs many tears. Mrs. Dawson, a New York woman, received in 1851 a letter from her brother in the Hawaiian Islands. The letter was franked with two stamps of the Islands and one of the U. S. and probably the dame tossed the cover away, but today the stamps that were on that letter are valued at $10,000.

PROOF THAT ST. NICHOLAS PAYS

Another evidence to show that the St. Nicholas Stamp Directory is making new friends every day, is shown in the following letter from a stamp advertiser, who writes us under date of November 28 as follows:

"I am closing out my stock of stamps at auction. Other interests demand all of my time. So I will not renew my ad. An ad in your paper brings results. The best I ever had from any paper."

It certainly does pay to get acquainted with the right kind of people, and the growing popularity of St. Nicholas for stamp advertisers is very apparent. The December number contained a larger Stamp Department than ever in the history of St. Nicholas, and the January issue makes practically the same showing.

Copy sent before January 5th will be in time for the February issue.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, BOSTON, MASS.

Interesting is the story of two stamps of the Island of Mauritius, exposed by Mr. Duveen, the owner of the Demerara treasures. In 1847 the governor of the Island of Mauritius, organized a grand ball, and as the day before the first invoice of stamps from England was received, the governor thought to surprise friends in England, thereby demonstrating that the island was in a fair way to civilization even in postal matters. Unfortunately, or fortunately, according to the point of view, the night of the ball, a furious hurricane swept the Island, destroying the Post Office and the new stamps of course, leaving of these only the two that the Governor put on the letters of his friends. These were on the way to London before the storm broke over the Island and today have a value of $18,000.

For the rest the collection of the president of the Exposition, George Worthington, is valued at $300,000, and that of Mr. Loder at $100,000."

Now you may add whatever you think but how in thunder if the facts are as described, none has printed them? I never heard of the two stamps of the Governor of Mauritius, neither of Mrs. Dawson, or of the expedition to Demerara by Mr. Duveen, or of the dying man, or the Lady from Lanerch, why then are these only imaginations of the writer of the article? I hope you agree with me, that the article is if nothing else, very interesting. I think, even to the Exposition Managers.

Yours truly,

J. SAULNIER.

ARTHUR G. COLE, INGALLS, IND.

The above party wrote W. S. Aldrich, St. Joseph, Mo., for an approval selection, giving as a reference "Joseph Price." A letter to this party came back as undeliverable and in reply to a letter addressed to the postmaster at Ingalls Mr. Aldrich received the following word:—"Will say in regard to Cole that I have not heard anything from him. We have a lot of mail here for him and do not know what to do with it." Evidently certain dealers would better get busy and look up their approval selections.

THE POSTS AND POSTAGE STAMPS OF MONACO.

By the REV. G. E. BARBER, M. A.

A Paper read before the Society of Stamp Collectors, and awarded the Bronze Medal of the "Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly."

Philately is the professor of Geography; she is also the handmaid of History; and nowhere more so than in the neglected but fascinating stamps of Monaco.

This little State dates back to the 10th Century, and its rulers, the Grimaldi, first became sovereign princes in the 16th Century. Monaco was then placed under the protection of France; under Spain in 1605; again under France in 1641. In 1793, by the French Revolution, she was annexed to France. The Treaty of Paris in 1814 restored Monaco to its prince, Honoré IV., under the Protectorate of France, exchanged for that of Sardinia by the Treaty of Vienna in 1815.

The postal service performed its regular functions during that period, and I possess old letters with the Monaco postmark.

In 1841 Honoré V. became prince; he was succeeded in 1848 by Florestan I., in whose reign postage stamps were first used in the Principality. These were the then current stamps of Sardinia, bearing the Monaco postmark; they are interesting and rare. Their use at Monaco, beginning in 1851, continued into the reign of Charles III. (who succeeded in 1856), until July 1860, when owing to the Italian wars Nice was ceded by Sardinia to France, and Monaco became once again a French protectorate. Full Customs and postal arrangements between Monaco and France were confirmed by a special Convention in 1865; but the French stamps were actually used in the Principality from July 1st, 1860.

In 1848, the year of the accession of Florestan I., the father of Charles III., a revolution broke out in the Principality, which has an interest both historic and philatelic.

Mentone and Roccabruna, for five centuries part of Monaco, revolted from their prince. The King of Sardinia very readily occupied the two towns with his troops, and proclaimed their annexation to his kingdom. Prince Florestan appealed to his Signatory Powers of the treaties of 1814 and 1815, who upheld his appeal, refusing to recognise the annexation by the Protecting State.

Mentone and Roccabruna forthwith proclaimed themselves "Free Towns," a sort of little republic under the protection of the Sardinian King, and yet technically within the Principality of Monaco. I possess fiscal paper with the impressed stamp of the two "Free Towns." This state of things continued till the cession to France in July, 1860. France had always recognised the rights of Monaco over Mentone and Roccabruna, and bought them from Prince Charles III., for four million francs in February, 1861, Monaco then assuming its present minute dimensions. I possess an interesting stamp with all this history on its face, a 10 centimes, French Empire, bistre, postmarked at Mentone on August 31st, 1860, with the Sardinian postmark, the post-office not being yet provided with a French obliterating stamp, and Mentone, although already under French protection, not being yet incorporated formally into French territory.

These few notes will show that Monaco has other interests besides Monte Carlo and its Casino.

Few spots in the world are more beautiful than the little Principality; the contrast between modern Monte Carlo, with its great white Casino, its palm-trees and its exquisite gardens, and medieval Monaco on its rocky peninsula with its little narrow streets, its Cathedral, its Oceanographic Museum, and its ancient castled, princely Palace (in which by the way, died the Duke of York, brother of George III.), and behind all the Maritime Alps towering up precipitously, blue sky above, blue sea below, makes a sight not easily forgotten.

Since July 1st, 1860, the French postal authorities have administered the post-offices of Monaco for the prince. Up to 1883, the French stamps, both of the Empire and Republic, were in use. Up to 1876 they are distinguished by the obliteration of a lozenge of dots, with the numbers 4222 in small figures in the centre, or 2387 in larger figures. From 1876, various date stamps, with the name of the post-offices, are the distinguishing obliterations. These French stamps, used at Monaco, although not so scarce as the previous Sardinian stamps used there, are much sought after.

The earliest French stamps used at Monaco, like the one used at Mentone mentioned above, bear still the Sardinian postmark before the arrival of the French obliterating stamps; these are scarce. One French postmark has peculiar historic interest; the authorities introduced into this the name of the surrounding French department, the "Alpes-Maritimes." The Principality energetically protested, and "Monaco Alpes - Maritimes" became "Monaco Principauté."

The collector must beware of Sardinian and French stamps with forged Monaco postmarks, and of French stamps with the postmarks "by complaisance" applied after they were no longer current at Monaco.

At length, from July 1st, 1885, the Principality began to issue her own stamps. Those first issued were the 1, 15, and 25 centimes; the rest of the series appeared in September, 1885. French stamps were permitted concurrently with the new stamps for a few months longer, and have a special interest with Monaco postmarks of that period. The Entires of Monaco were not issued till 1886, and the use of French Entires was therefore somewhat longer. The new stamps were designed by Monsieur Daniel Dupuis, and engraved by the famous Monsieur Mouchon; they were printed at the French Government printing-office, and plated exactly as the stamps of France. The design is admirable in its simplicity, bearing the head of Prince Charles III., who thus, had he not then for some years unhappily been quite blind, would have seen the stamps of three countries used in his Principality during his reign, those of Sardinia, France, and his own. Monsieur Dupuis had produced a more elaborate essay of this design in 1884. The subsequent simplification improved the effect, and few stamps excel the first

1881, 20c Imperforate

Is YOUR specimen what it is represented to be or the common perforated stamp of 1882 with the perforations removed? It is surprising how many of these faked imperfs. are sold in ignorance even by dealers of established reputation. If you have any doubts concerning your copy send it to me. My charge for an expert opinion is only 10c per stamp, plus return postage.

"SECONDS"

During my recent special sale of United States stamps, hundreds of defective stamps were found and cast aside. Some are only slightly torn; others have straight edges or are off center. These have been made into special packets, as follows.—

No. 1, 45 var., cat. $2.50 up, 25 cents

No. 2, 35 var., cat. $5.00 up, 50 cents

POSTPAID—Packet No. 1 contains stamps listing under 10 cents and No. 2 those over 10 cents. A wide range of varieties is included so more than one packet can be ordered and only a few duplicates may be found. However, the range of variety cannot be guaranteed.

issue of Monaco in general appearance.

The 10 values of this series are 1 centime, olive; 2 centimes, violet; 5 centimes, blue; 10 centimes, brown on yellow; 15 centimes, rose; 25 centimes, green; 40 centimes, blue on rose; 75 centimes, black on rose; 1 franc, black on yellow; 5 francs, carmine on green. Of the last two there was probably only one printing, and that not a large one. The 1 franc is rapidly becoming scarce, while the 5 francs is, of course, a well-known rarity, and was included by the late Mr. Crocker in his sets of "Fifty Rare Stamps," at the Exhibition in October. Already catalogued at four guineas, a prominent dealer assured me recently that it would certainly become a "£20 stamp." The stamps of Monaco have never been printed for speculation, and consequently have been issued to the post-offices in numbers suitable to their postal requirements. These requirements are, for the size of the Principality, fairly considerable, owing to the immense amount of visitors. Nevertheless, with only two principal post-offices, the number of stamps issued is not enormous.

This accounts for the fascinating number of very distinct shades, adding immensely to their interest. Of the rest of the 1885 issue there are from four to eight quite distinct printings and shades—in the two lowest values one might say distinct colours. There are also differences of paper and gum. The latest printings, when in blocks with margins, are distinguished by the marginal colour-bars first used in the French stamps in 1890. One rare error of plate exists in the last printing of the 2 centimes stamp, in which one stamp on the sheet shows an extraordinary triangular mark on the prince's neck; the cliché was corrected during the issue. Es-says of this emission exist in black on orange without value, and also, of the whole series, on card in the original colours, a few also on ordinary paper and on pelure.

Forgeries exist of the whole series; of the four higher values very dangerous ones. I possess forgeries of the 40 and 75 centimes used postally.

Prince Charles III. died in 1889, after a reign of 33 years, which had seen so many changes in his Principality—historic, geographical, and, last but not least, philatelic.

The first stamps of the reigning prince Albert I., appeared in March 1891, and most of the series during that year. Though officially announced as identical in colours with the previous issue, the 75 centimes became violet brown, and a new value, 50 centimes, violet on orange was added. They were designed as well

1914 Price List

My Price List of the Stamps of the United States and its Colonies is ready for distribution. It contains features not found in ordinary lists, such as a complete list of Coil Stamps, Philippine "O. B." stamps, India paper, and card board proofs, as well as a list of the number of Department stamps issued. It is the most complete list published, and no serious collector can afford to be without it. It is free; a postal card will bring it, prepaid with a precancelled stamp.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The purchase of the Peckitt stock by Stanley Gibbons must indeed be a notable transaction. We have no further particulars to record than are given in the half-page advertisement to be found elsewhere in the WEEKLY. The Peckitt business was one of large magnitude.

—Will the dealers who have been writing us for the names of wholesalers write Bright & Son, 164 Strand, London, England, for a specimen of their wholesale list? One is just at hand and we will review it by giving it this complimentary notice.

—We are indebted to J. J. Pendergast and John Willis for back numbers of the WEEKLY sent us.

—And this is No. 1200!

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. M. Weller, John A. Vanderpoel, Ralph H. Graham (7), W. I. Mitchell, M. D., Frank M. Mason.

—Will the Oregon subscriber who sold us the state revenue sets send us his address?

—All you need to do to secure a new subscriber is to show a sample copy of the WEEKLY to some friend. A fine list of premiums is advertised in this number, but remember that premiums go only with names absolutely new to our list. Moreover, don't try and secure a premium by sending in a subscription for some other member of your family and later on discontinue your own subscription. Play fair.

—The Beverly, Mass. Philatelic Society has completed its organization by electing Thomas Lund second vice-president. The next meeting will be at the Y. M. C. A., Jan. 1, 1914, when A. W. Batchelder will display the Pickman rarities exhibited at New York.

—The annual meeting of the Rochester Philatelic Association was held Dec. 17th. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, L. S. Richardson; Vice-President, W. H. Amberg; Secretary, H. J. Haddleton; Treasurer, F. E. Merritt; Librarian, P. C. Wild; Sales and Exchange Manager, L. L. Albright. There was some discussion about exhibiting stamps at Rochester's next Industrial Exposition to be held in September. The first annual banquet will likely be held some time in January at the Hotel Rochester. There will be an auction at the next monthly meeting, the fourth Wednesday in January.

—Subscribers who have purchased Philippines surcharged on U. S. during the past few weeks will do well to look up their genuineness. It is reported that these stamps have been offered freely in N. Y. City and elsewhere. We have seen the 4c with a surcharge that would not deceive any real student of these stamps.

—The Philadelphia Stamp Co. issued during the Christmas season a folder of distinct missionary value. It called attention to the pleasure in stamp collecting and a Grecian stamp was affixed, emphasizing the connection that the study of stamps has with everyday life. It was a good publicity promoter.

A RECORD LIST OF NEW SUBS.

During the past two weeks we have been favored with many new subscriptions and some of the letters have proven a marked testimonial of friendship to the WEEKLY and interest in its welfare.

It has been a no uncommon thing for us to receive two and even three new subscriptions from the same party, but to a subscriber at Peekskill, N. CHAPTER LIV.

Issue of 1902-03.

During the year 1902 a new issue of postage stamps was undertaken by the Postoffice department. The designs adopted were much more ornate than the preceding one—in fact, the 2 cent stamp was of such fanciful design that it was unsatisfactory, and after a few months' use, was superseded with what is known as the "2 cent flag type." The issue consisted of fourteen denominations, from 1 cent to $5. Only two of the denominations were issued in 1902; they were the 13 cents, November 18, and the 8 cents, December 6.

It will be seen by the record of the number of stamps issued that a great number of plates were manufactured, so for this reason the list of plate numbers is omitted.

The data, compressed into its smallest possible space, follows:

1 Cent—portrait of Franklin—issued Feb. 3, 1903. Shades—(perforated) light yellowish green, yellowish green, deep yellowish green, dark yellowish green, light grayish green, grayish green, dark grayish green, green, deep green, dark green.

Number issued—11,174,161,974.
Variety—printed on dry paper.
Imperforate—shades—light grayish green, grayish green, dark grayish green.
Number issued—5,015,500.

Varieties—Government coil, perforated 12 horizontally; governmental coil, perforated 12 vertically; unofficial perforations for machine use.

2 Cents—portrait of Washington—issued January 17, 1903.

Shades—light rose red, rose red, deep rose red, carmine, deep carmine, bright red, red, brownish red.

Number issued—(about) 1,920,385,300.

Variety—imperforate (?)

3 Cents—portrait of Jackson—issued Feb. 11, 1903.

Shades—light violet, bright violet, violet, purplish violet, deep purplish violet.

Number issued—226,212,074.

4 Cents—Portrait of Grant—issued Feb. 10, 1903.

Shades—light yellowish brown, yellowish brown, deep yellowish brown, orange brown, red brown, deep red brown, brown.

Number issued—346,666,374.

Variety—imperforate (for private machine perforations). Number issued in this form, 10,000.

5 Cents—Portrait of Lincoln—issued January 20, 1903.

Shades—blue, deep blue, dark blue, indigo, deep indigo.

Number issued, 550,326,574.

Variety—imperforate; 10,000 were printed, of which 3,000 were retained by collectors and dealers in unused state, in pairs and blocks. Government coils, perforated 12 vertically. Government coils, perforate 12, horizontally. Private perforations for machine use.

6 Cents—portrait of Garfield—issued February 20, 1903.

Shades—light brown red, bright brown red, brown red, dull brown red, deep brown red, pale claret, claret, deep claret.

Number issued—117,567,474.

8 Cents—portrait of Martha Washington—issued December 6, 1902.

Shades—light lavender, lavender, light grayish purple, grayish purple, violet purple, slate, dark slate, slate black.

Number issued—176,841,474.

10 Cents—portrait of Webster—issued February 5, 1903.

Shades—light red brown, red brown, deep red brown, light orange brown, orange brown, dark orange brown.

Number issued—260,010,574.

13 Cents—portrait of Harrison—issued November 18, 1902.

Shades—reddish purple, light brownish purple, brownish purple, light slate brown, slate brown, black brown, jet black.

Number issued—31,026,930.

15 Cents—portrait of Clay—issued May 27, 1903.

Shades—pale olive green, grayish olive green, olive green, dark olive green.

Number issued—41,205,574.

50 Cents—portrait of Jefferson—issued May 23, 1903.

Shades—orange, deep orange.

Number issued, 2,651,774.

$1—portrait of Farragut—issued June 5, 1903.

Shades—grayish black, black, deep black.

Number issued—427,874.

$2—portrait of Madison—issued June 5, 1903.

Shades—blue, deep blue.

Number issued—28,578.

$5—portrait of Marshall—issued June 5, 1903.

Shades—blue green, deep blue green.

Number issued—36,443.

NOTE.—The 1 cent and 2 cent stamps of this issue were made up into books of various numbers of sheets each containing six stamps. Except by a very few collectors these book leaves have been sadly neglected. It is the opinion of the writer that collectors who are specializing are neglecting an opportunity in not securing these while they are to be had. Even the book panes in a specialized collection make up a subject of deep study in themselves, and as they are rich in shades, with the various line varieties, plate numbers, and various signatures of postmasters general on the covers, a collection of considerable value may be acquired.

P.M. WOLSIEFFER

1301 FT. DEARBORN BLDG. CHICAGO

2 Cents, Issue of 1903.

Portrait of Washington—design, so-called shield type. Inscribed, series of 1902.

Issued November 12, 1903.

Number issued, perforated, (about) 22,831,050,383. Imperforate—10,685,999, which includes all sheets, blocks, pairs, and those which were supplied with private perforations for machine use, the Government coils, etc.

Varieties—imperforate horizontally. To be identified from government coils only in blocks.

Government coils, perforated 12, vertically.

Government coils, perforated 12, horizontally.

Privately perforated for use in mailing and vending machines.

There is a variance of opinion as to the classification of shades in these stamps. The following shades are given by Mr. Bartels: Perforated—Pale vermilion, vermilion, scarlet vermilion, scarlet, red, bright red, deep red, carmine red, dull carmine, carmine, bright carmine, bright carmine lake, carmine lake, deep carmine lake, pale lake red, bright lake red, lake red, deep lake red, bright rose red. Imperforate—red, carmine, carmine lake, deep carmine lake, deep lake red.

Mr. C. A. Nast gives the following as his classifications of shades—perforated—light carmine, dark carmine, rose carmine, scarlet red, scarlet vermilion, bright lake red, light lake, deep lake red, bright carmine lake, deep lake. Imperforate—carmine, carmine red, rose carmine, scarlet red, scarlet vermilion, light lake red, carmine lake, deep lake red, deep lake.

In neither of these classifications do I find the distinct "aniline" rose which is one of the handsomest stamps of the lot, in the perforates. The bright carmine lake also is found in the imperforates.

EDITORIAL.

Everybody Happy—Our "shut-in" service was a great success; and there were more than enough stamps donated to supply all the demands. May all those who contributed to the happy results enjoy a rare serenity of mind during the holiday week. The responses to our appeal came from all classes of readers, including the ladies. Several of the "shut-ins" themselves who had shared the bounty of our readers offered their excess stamps to their fellow sufferers. To all those who aided the movement by donating stamps or submitting names of deserving "shut-ins" interested in stamps, we are truly grateful and the thought of their kindly example will long be cherished.

The Thing To Do—A list of the donors to the "shut-in" stamp fund would prove to be an interesting one if given here but we suppose that it is best not to publish it. However, two of the letters may be spoken of without any breach of confidence, we hope. One from Mr. Geo. A. Chandler, Madison, Wisconsin, president of the Wisconsin Philatelic Society, said: "The members of the Wisconsin Philatelic Society decided that it would be a good plan for the society to assist in providing worthy 'shut-ins' with stamps in accordance with the Christmas spirit and your suggestions in the WEEKLY. If you will be so kind as to send us a list of five or six names, we will try to supply each unfortunate with a reasonable quantity of good stamps, precancels, postmarks, supplies, etc., as the case may warrant. As charity begins at home, we would rather have the names of Wisconsin collectors as far as possible. If none is available our offer holds good for any other 'shut-ins." Mr. E. L. Fraim, Wilmington, Delaware, secretary of the Delaware Stamp Club wrote: "It is the intention of the members of the Delaware Stamp Club to distribute packages of stamps to shut-in collectors about Christmas time. I, therefore, ask you if you will kindly send me some worthy names." Local and state societies could indulge in no worthier work than that of bringing stamp cheer to "shut-ins" at Christmas time.

One Way—Recently, a subscriber said that he would like to secure a book, "How to Photograph Stamps," and now one of our readers has been courteous enough to light up the way, as follows: "If the inquirer will rig up some kind of jigger to hold a long-focus camera in the vertical position, lens down, lay the stamps on a level surface of velvet, or on a level sheet of glass held a few inches above a flat-colored background, and experiment with non-halation orthochromatic plates and a ray filter, he will not need to buy a book on how to photograph stamps. He will shortly be in a position to write one. There are, however, plenty of chapters and books on orthochromatic photography if he still insists." Yes, there is "How to Photograph Stamps," by F. J. Melville, for instance, price twenty cents.

* * *

Scamp Stamps—Mr. E. J. Gifford of St. Paul, Minnesota, interposes a warning against counterfeits of the ten-cent blue, 1861 and the ten-cent rose, 1862, Confederate general issue. He says: "I have had two copies of the ten-cent rose sent me on approval within the last two weeks by dealers widely separated, yet both copies have the same appearance and are both postmarked exactly alike as to design and position on the envelope and stamp. I received also the ten-cent blue, 1861, offered as a new shade, nearly purple, but a plain fake. It should be said in this connection that these two dealers were honest and acknowledged that they had not closely examined the stamps. The fact remains that these counterfeits are scattered about and are not all, I am afraid, in the hands of strictly honest dealers." Confederate counterfeits of the general issues have long been with us but it is something of a novelty to find them offered on the cover in good faith by dealers whose excuse must be laid to a tremendous rush of business. We once bought forgeries as described of these two stamps in an auction sale and the auctioneer took them back, it is needless to say. One die produces the red ten, the blue ten and the purple ten (mentioned by Mr. Gifford) as a mixture of red and blue makes purple.

* * *

Survival of the Fittest—From the secretary of the Southern Philatelic Association we have received the 1914 year book of the association; and we do not hesitate to commend the secretary, Mr. C. V. Webb, for having issued in good season so substantial a volume. There are over seventy-five pages in the book which contains the constitution and list of members, together with the yearly reports of officers and an account of the annual convention of 1913 that was held in Wichita last September. The Southern Philatelic Association is the oldest of the national organizations outside of the American Philatelic Society and it seems to be the most energetic and progressive of the minor national organizations. It justifies its existence in a way that few of the others do. The present strength of the Southern Philatelic Association is 497 members, the secretary says. There are only two or three members who have a number earlier than our own in the S. P. A.

* * *

Something or Other—The standing of the one-cent Guy, Newfoundland, imperforate, which, we believe, has been mentioned heretofore is in doubt. Mr. L. B. Lincoln who is closely identified with Newfoundland stamps had four single copies of the seemingly imperforate, two used on covers and two unused. One of the used stamps paid the postage on an envelope that came from the bureau of mines of Newfoundland and the second stamp was on a circular from a large bank. The two unused one-cent imperforate are from the last row to the right with the margin of the usual size of about twenty millimeters at right through which there are no perforations; and consequently, the stamps constitute at least a variety to the extent of having no perforations at right. Official confirmation of the existence of the imperforate stamp is lacking or at least is so vague as to be of dubious importance.

* * *

Up They Go—Yes, say the standard cataloguers, "the criticism is already heard that a number of U. S. stamps are still priced too low." What are the poor publishers to do? Let the advanced class in deductive philosophy answer. Raise the prices. Correct. The publishers in their sapience say that some of the prices will be changed and the corrections "noted from month to month." The aforesaid criticisms are founded on fact and we hope that the prices will be elevated on those stamps of which we have nice lots.

* * *

As Usual—Readers, rejoice! We shall take but three words to wish you a Happy New Year. Further, we shall avoid all remarks, recapitulatory and anticipatory, which stern custom imposes at this time of year so as to prove the sincerity of our wish.

AN UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL.

CANCELED BY COMPLAISANCE.

By WM E. MARSH.

The action of the WEEKLY, the American Boy and St. Nicholas in making a light on the dishonest discount proposition is to be commended most heartily by all collectors. We who have outgrown the boy stage all remember the frequency with which we were "stung" in the days when we put our money into stamps instead of catalogues.

With this stopped, the magazines can well take up the cudgels for the middle class collectors. The experts can take care of themselves and now you have fixed the boys, but I want to raise a nice large howl for us in the middle. I refer to the "curse" of the forged cancellation.

Personally I collect nothing but used stamps. To my way of thinking, a stamp is merely a piece of scrap paper until it has actually carried a piece of mail. If a sheet of stamps is sold to a dealer and he sells a copy to me, that stamp was never sold for postal use. It may have been the postal official's expectation that it would be used on mail, but it was not the buyers and it takes two to make a bargain. The "unused only" people can present equally good arguments for their side of the question. But where is the man who wants a "used" stamp that is not "used?"

The act of the postal clerk in placing a cancellation on a stamp is to be interpreted thus and thus only: "This stamp has been used to prepay postage; it cannot be so used again." If the cancelling stamp is used otherwise, or if a fake stamp is used, the result can be nothing but a lie and therefore a forgery. If the cancelling stamp is a fake, the result is nothing more than a counterfeit. If the genuine cancelling stamp is used, but used fraudulently, at best the result can be considered nothing but a "reprint" cancellation.

I have dealt with about fifty American and four or five foreign dealers the past year. I have bought largely of Latin American. In every order, I have specified I would positively not accept any cancelled to order trash and have made myself almost rude in my emphasis. After this, at least twenty dealers have sent me all sorts of forged cancellations, by implication at least guaranteeing them. I have invariably returned them and have had several very unpleasant controversies over them. A dealer in New York, one who prides himself on his square dealing sent me a nice lot of Java all cancelled alike in the corner, and full gum on the back. He insists yet they are O. K. and that they were used on snuff and the oily wrapper saved the gum. Said all Javas were that way. However, he made good the stamps with some which looked all right.

Last week I ordered a number of items from a company, mainly Hayti, Persia and Paraguay. As these three countries are well cursed with cancelled to order trash I made it very plain to the dealer that the trash didn't go with me and when he advertised "used" stamps, I would expect used or nothing. Out of 11 items, four were nicely corner cancelled with full gum on back.

Now to get at the point. A fake cancellation with full gum need fool no one and neither should any one kick if he buys a complete set of Bolivia 1894 all cancelled on the same corner. But this is the crude stuff and causes only annoyance. But there are carloads of Latin American and certain European and Asian stamps bearing fictitious cancellations that no one but an expert can tell. How are we middle class collectors to distinguish them? I have Nicaragua nearly complete, all used and so far as I can tell, properly used. But I have no doubt an expert would shoot my cancellations full of holes in a minute.

So, when you have the dishonest discount practice stopped I would suggest a war on dealers who represent as "used" anything that has not carried a parcel through the mail. I understand there is considerable agitation in Germany just now on this point and it can well be taken up here.

OUR RECRUITING SPECIAL.

We shall issue January 31, a recruiting number of the WEEKLY and we intend to give it a wide circulation. Coming as it will at the very height of the stamp season, it will be a business-bringer of marked value.

Already advertisers are thinking about the use of this issue and the J. F. Ne-green firm of N. Y. City has already contracted for the entire outside cover page. The International Stamp Co. has engaged a half page.

How much space do you need?

THE COLLECTORS CLUB MOVES.

Editor Scott in Metropolitan.

The Collectors Club has moved—that famous organization that has stood the battle and breeze for nearly twenty years—has returned to its old stamping ground uptown, or what used to be called uptown. It is now quartered in a modern skyscraper, its roof overlooking the city for miles in every direction and its basement forming an express station of the subway. It is known as the Forty-second Street Building, a name that gives the locality and is distinctive enough to prevent its being mistaken for any other building in the city. A fine kitchen will supply its members and their friends with all the delicacies of the season, both liquid and solid. Here auctions will be held, lectures given, stamps displayed, and when in the fullness of time another International Stamp Exhibition is held its rooms will accommodate the workers and its members finance the undertaking with the same whole-souled vigor which characterized their late performance. The Club house is in New York but its members are to be found in every center where stamp collecting flourishes. A gold medal has been provided for the most meritorious exhibition of the season and the members may confidently expect to see some beautiful collections during the winter season. Visitors are always welcome and the Club is anxious to add to its membership every reputable collector throughout the world. The

THE GREATEST PURCHASE OF POSTAGE STAMPS THAT HAS EVER BEEN MADE

Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., have purchased at a record price the business and stock of stamps of

MR. W. H. PECKITT,
47 Strand, London, W. C.

This stock is exceptionally fine in RARITIES OF THE WORLD, in BRITISH COLONIALS and in NEW ISSUES.

Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., are prepared to send to collectors special selections of any country they wish to see, from the commonest to the rarest stamps, and prices will be found very moderate and MUCH BELOW those, for which similar stamps have recently been sold at auction in France and Germany.

STANLEY GIBBONS, LTD.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding pre-cancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDRIDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Frank B. Eldredge lists the following new precancels:

Lexington, Ky.—Two lines (LEXINGTON-KY.) vertical inscription between lines, with a short line before and after KY, roller stamped, about 8 mm. between lines, varying in thickness, letters about 2½ mm. high. 1912, 1c reading down.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Two lines (BUFFALO-N. Y.) horizontal inscription between lines 12 mm. apart and 1¼ mm. thick, sans-serif capitals. BUFFA. 3½ mm. N. Y. 2 mm. high. 1c 1911-12, Postage Due, Submitted by Louis Janin, Jr. 8c 1912.

Providence, R. I.—Two lines (PROV-R. I.) horizontal inscription between double lines 14 mm. apart, lines ¾ mm. thick and ½ mm. apart. PROV 4 mm. high and R. I. 3½ mm. high, both sans-serif capitals. 1912, 1c, inverted.

Kansas City, Mo.—(1198) 1910, 5c. Boston, Mass.—(No. 1164). 4c, 5c, serif capitals. 1912, 1c, inverted.

Pawtucket, R. I.—Two lines (PAW-TUCKET, R. I.) vertical inscription in capitals between two lines, about 12½ mm. apart, this is evidently a rubber stamp impression and lines will vary in thickness according to how heavy the impression is made. 5c 1912-13, Parcel Post, reading down.

BRAZIL.—Maury's Collectionneur reports that the official stamps of 1908, with portrait of Affonso Penna, are to be replaced by a new series with portrait Marshal Hermes. There will be 16 values from 10 to 10,000 reis.

FRANCE.—Owing to extensive counterfeiting of the current stamps, the French postal authorities are preparing a new series that will be more difficult to imitate, says Maury's Collectionneur.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Stamp Collecting says that the 3d King George has been issued in deep violet, instead of pale mauve.

GUINEA.—Twenty-four surcharged provisionals are reported to have been issued for this Colony. These stamps are exactly the same as chronicled for Cape Verde in No. 1197, except "Guiné" appears in place of "Cabo Verde." Perhaps the end of these provisional issues may be reached some time, but when.

HONDURAS.—Correcting the item under Nicaragua in No. 1198, we note that the Rev. Louis Voss reports having seen the split provisionals, most of which have already been mentioned by us in the following combinations:

Bisected Diagonally.
Half of 50c, No. 125, with 10 on 20c, No. 130.

Half of 6c, No. 122, with No. 130 and two of No. 119.

Half of 2c, No. 120, with two of No. 120 and No. 123.

Half 6c, No. 134, with two of No. 134.

Half of 10c, No. 123, with No. 123.

Half of 10c, No. 135, with No. 135.

Half of 20c, No. 136, with three of No. 131.

Bisected Vertically.

Half of 6c, No. 134, with two of No. 134.

Half of 10c, No. 135.

Half of 20c, No. 136.

HUNGARY.—The Charity label affixed to the current Hungarian stamps as noted in No. 1199, was for the purpose of collecting a fund for the relief of sufferers in the recent floods. The Charity stamps, as well as the regular issue, are printed on the new water-marked paper, the 12f, 50f and 60f being on colored paper.

JAPAN.—The following have been issued in the new series in addition to those previously chronicled though we are unable to give any definite information regarding the designs.

Adhesives.

1s orange.
25s sage green.
1y green and maroon.

Offices in China.—Stamp Collecting notes that the 1s, 2s, 4s, 5s, 10s, 20s, 25s, and 1y have been overprinted with the usual syllabic characters for use in China.

LIBERIA.—The New England Stamp Co. shows us a provisional, just issued, by Liberia. The familiar 3c red and green inland postage stamps of 1897 has been converted into an 8c stamp by overprinting the old figure of value with a large five pointed star and covering the word "Inland" with a curved tablet. The new value is expressed by the figure "8" repeated on each side of the star, the overprinting being in very dark green.

Provisional Adhesive.

"8" on 3c red and green; surcharge dark green.

MACAO.—Mr. Schachne has received quite an array of new entires for this colony. The impressed stamp is now bicolored, the denominations and the country being printed in black.

Post Cards.

1a black on light buff.
2a black and green on dark buff.
4a black and carmine on white.
1x1a black on dark buff.
2x2a black and green on dark buff.
4x4a black and carmine on dark buff.

The Postmaster's Provisional pictured above is a great rarity though but very little is known about it. It is believed that it was issued in 1846 and Luff's History of U. S. Stamps gives it a standing quite satisfactory to the philatelic world though its authenticity has never been fully established. Only one specimen has ever been located.

NETHERLANDS.—We are indebted to the Rev. Louis Voss for a used specimen of the 12 1/2c value of the new commemorative series. We understand that the low values were quickly sold out, and are now in the hands of speculators.

NICARAGUA.—In re the item in No. 1198, it may be said that the only value of the "Cordoba" stamps seen used as a split provisional, was the "Un Centavo" on 50c Liberty. The other varieties mentioned were from Honduras. Dr. Roy F. DeSart also sends us information regarding the above split provisional.

AUCTION RESULTS.

Our plans for the winter will not allow the publishing of auction results, much as we should like to do so. We have received a number of interesting lists of prices, the latest being from the Philadelphia Stamp Co., whose sale was held Dec. 12-13. The firm has computed some statistics showing the percentage of catalog obtained and we note that U. S. postage realized 59% of catalog value; U. S. envelopes, locals, revenues, etc., 53%; and foreign stamps 42%. In view of the fact that the sale contained a number of collections by countries consisting of from ten to fifty stamps each, the securing of nearly half catalog is extremely good.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE STAMPS OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

Hanover.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

The first issue consisted of a single stamp, bearing the facial value of one gutengroschen, which was placed on sale on December 1st, 1850. The design shows a large open numeral "1", inscribed "GUTENGR.", in a shield with an arabesque ground. This is surmounted by the Anglo-Hanoverian arms on a rather minute scale. According to an article in the Philatelic Record, these arms are, with a slight difference, the same as those borne by George III and succeeding British sovereigns of the Hanoverian House,—from 1801 until William IV's death in 1837. These arms are, quarterly: one and four, England; two, Scotland; three, Ireland; with, on an escutcheon of pretence, Brunswick, Luneberg, and Westphalia, and over all,

(in the centre), the golden crown of Charlemagne, the mark of the dignity of arch-treasurer of the Holy Roman Empire, which belonged to the house of Brunswick. The supporters are the lion and unicorn, and beneath is the motto "SUSCIPERE ET FINIRE," meaning "To undertake and to finish." There is a scroll at the bottom, with the ends running up by the sides of the shield, on which is "HANOVER" at the top, "BRUNSWICK" on the left, "EIN, GGR." at the right, and numerals in each of the lower angles. The period after "EIN" was evidently inserted in error, for it is quite unnecessary and is not repeated on any of the other values issued in succeeding years.

The die was engraved by Herr Fickenscher, a Hanoverian engraver, and the plate was made and the stamps printed by hand presses at the type foundry and printing works of Senator Culemann, in Hanover. The form consisted of 120 casts, taken in type-metal from the original die, which were arranged in twelve horizontal rows of ten. As is usual with stamps manufactured by this process, there are plenty of breaks and flaws in the frame and other lines, and defective letters. The lettering of the motto, in particular, is full of defects, and a perfect inscription is the exception rather than otherwise.

The stamp was printed in black on colored paper, manufactured by Osna-bruck, which was watermarked with rectangles of about the same size as the stamps. Like all the other stamps issued prior to 1864, this 1gr was impertorate.

A peculiarity of this and other Hanoverian stamps is the red gum which was used until about 1864. In the "Adhesive Postage Stamps of Europe" the late Mr. W. A. S. Westoby made the following comments regarding this colored gum:—"What was the real reason for employing colored gum does not appear, but tradition says it was useful in the cases of stamps becoming detached from letters, as the red stain showed that the letters had been stamped, and had lost the stamps during transit. This explanation seems rather lame, for even if it were of any use when there was only one stamp, it could be of none where there were several." However, the fact that the gum was colored is of considerable importance to stamp collectors, for it forms the best test in distinguishing originals from reprints.

To a certain extent this stamp was experimental, for it could not be used on foreign correspondence, but prepaid the single letter rate within the kingdom itself, and also to Bremen, Hamburg, Bremerhaven, Ritzbüttel, and Vegesack in each of which towns the Hanoverian authorities maintained a post office.

At this period the thaler was worth about 78c so the facial value of this stamp in United States currency was about 3c.

December, 1850. Wmk. a Rectangle. Imperf.
1. 1gr black on grey blue. Scott's No. 1.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

Presumably the experiment of issuing postage stamps soon proved quite satisfactory; for in 1851 Hanover joined the German-Austrian Postal Union, and on July 21st, three new stamps were issued with values expressed in fractions of a thaler. The stamps were all of similar design, closely resembling that of the 1gr but having the groundwork of the shield in solid color. The 1/30th was inscribed "EIN SGR." (i. e. 1gr) in that portion of the scroll by the right-hand side of the shield, and the 1/15th and 1/10th were inscribed "ZWEI SGR." and "DREI SGR." respectively, while at the bases the numerals "1", "2", or "3" appeared, to correspond with these inscriptions.

It appears that all the states comprised in the German-Austrian Postal Union—at first tacitly and then formally—agreed to use similar colors for stamps of similar values (an arrangement afterwards adopted by the Universal Postal Union for certain values) so red, blue, and orange were the colors selected for the 1/30, 1/15 and 1/10 thaler stamps. The rates within the Union for which these particular values were required were as follows:—

Up to 10 German miles, 1sgr (1/30th).
Over 10 and under 20 German miles 2sgr (1/15th).

Over 20 German miles 3sgr (1/10th).

As blue was the color chosen for the 1/15th the color of the paper for the 1gr was changed to grey-green.

The dies for the three new values were engraved by Herr Fickenscher, while the plates were made and the stamps printed at Senator Culemann's works as was the case with the first stamp issued. Though we can trace no positive information on the point it is extremely probable that the plates were uniform in size and were composed of 120 type metal casts clamped together in twelve horizontal rows of ten. There are numerous minor varieties in all three values caused by slight imperfections in making the casts. These consist of flaws, broken lines, and defective letters and they are so numerous that it would probably be far from an impossibility for an enthusiastic specialist to plate these stamps.

All three values were printed in black on hand-made colored wove paper which was watermarked with a device consisting of two branches of oak, crossed at the stems, and curving upwards in the

ANOTHER SATISFIED CUSTOMER

The St. Nicholas Stamp Directory brings much the same commendation from all who have written us about their December advertising.

A Chicago concern says:—

"We regret that we will not be able to renew our advertising with you for next month for the reason that our December campaign has brought us more business than we can handle, and from past experience we know that it will take us until February to get our stock prepared for another rush of business. We are well satisfied with the results from our advertising in your publication and will favor you with further advertising at a later date."
